"Hitherto this church has stood committed against secrecy, not admitting any persons to membership who have been associated with secret organizations. A growing sentiment is found in the church favoring the removal of the anti-secrecy condition of membership. Probably no changes will be immediately made in the rule of the church on this subject."

This "sentiment" in favor of the lodge is "growing," if at all, only in one way—in its Masonic and vituperative spirit. It is not gaining in numbers, and would scarcely now be heard of but for the determined action of those who have raised their standard for the truth against secretism. That application has brought out the rash.

—A. P. Augustine, Albion, Iowa, writes: "I would like to know if the Anti-masons of Illinois have an oath, if so, what it is. We have none here. There is a Mrs. DeGeer, of Chicago, lecturing here for the Masons. She gave the Anti-masonic oath of Illinois. It is a new thing here.

The Anti-masons of Illinois have no oath. Nor have the Anti-masons in any part of the United States that we ever heard of. Mrs. De Geer has a reputation in Chicago among honest, intelligent people as being capable, uneducated and unprincipled. She desired to discuss Masonry in Chicago, some time ago, with a representative of the National Christian Association. Dea. Philo Carpenter said to some respectable Masons that if any reliable Masonic body would endorse Mrs. DeGeer as a creditable exponent of Freemasonry some one would be furnished to discuss the question with her. They smiled at absurdity of the idea, and said that they hoped she would not be considered authority on Freemasonry. She has influence with some ignorant classes, and receives encouragement from individual Masons, but we have never heard that she was endorsed by any organized body of Freemasons in any place where she is known.

News of the Week

—The body found near Cleveland, O., thought to be that of Prof. Bliss, was found not to be his upon examination.

—The little Republic of Transveal in South Africa has been annexed by Great Britain, much against the will of the people.

—The usual concomitant of all Turkish wars, the plague, has appeared at Bagdad, and, from the 24th to the 31st of March twenty-one fresh cases and thirty-five deaths occurred.

—The Anchor Line steamer Sidonian exploded her boilers last week while on her eastward trip to Glasgow, and eight men were killed.

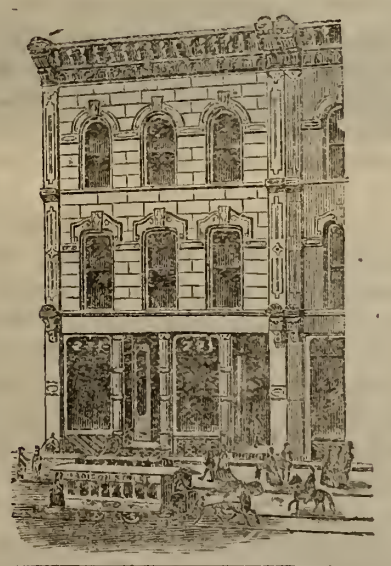
—The answer of Lord Derby to the Russian note announcing the opening of hostilities caused great excitement in England last Saturday, from its expostulatory tone.

—The news from the seat of war is given in the following dispatches: The Porte notified the representatives of the Powers May 3d, that it had declared the blockade of the whole Russian coast of the Black Sea. A delay of three days would be granted vessels wishing to enter, and five days to those intending to leave the Black Sea. A special from Bucharest May 4, says: "A Consul at Galatz telegraphs that a Turkish monitor has been firing on the batteries below Reni since 11 o'clock this morning. The point of attack is probably Isaktci or Isakia, between Reni and Tultcha, where the Russians are constucting a bridge." A Vienna dispatch says the cannonade was between the Russian batteries and a gunboat which was exploring the mouth of the Pruth.

LONDON, May 6.—The bulk of the Turkish forces appear to be massing towards Silistria and Rustchuk, and this is the direction in which the Russians, by their movements, would appear to indicate a desire to pass the river, but the Turks seem still content to remain passively on the defensive and make no endeavors at any counter-stroke or forward movement which might aid them to form an accurate judgment as to the point at which the attack may be made upon their position or by what forces they may be assailed. In Asia the Russian forces are advancing in a semi-circle toward Erzeroum, whilst the Turkish forces are concentrating in a triangle of Erzeroum, Olti and Kars. According to information received here, there are no less than 140,000 men conducting and supporting the movements, so that we may be prepared to hear of the first battle having been fought south of Kars, followed by an advance.

LONDON, May 7.—A Times dispatch from Vienna reports that rumors come from Constantinople that Kars has been taken, and that Erzeroum is in danger. The correspondent says: "Although these rumors require confirmation, yet what we do know already goes far to excite a suspicion that all is not for the Turks as it should be—nay, that there is a good deal that should not be."

—The National debt statement shows a reduction of $4,315.500 for April, the second month of the administration. During the eight years and one month from March 1, 1869, to April 30, 1877, the decrease of the public debt aggregated $455,-104,642.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Cor. Sec'y, S. L. Cook, Albion.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Agent, S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western.
Cor. Sec'y, Louis Bookwalter, Western College.
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer, D. P. Rathbun, Fentonville.
Agent, C. B. Remington, Fentonville

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Centre Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Secretary, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity.
Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Rec. Sec'y, J. W. Raynor, Uniondale
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Henry Cogswell, Salem, Col. Co., O.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Royalton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co. O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. R. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A. D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
I. L. Barlow Fentonville, Mich.

The Home Circle.

To-Day and To-Morrow.

To-day man lives in pleasure, wealth and pride,
To-morrow poor, of life itself denied.
To-day, lays plans for many years to come,
To-morrow, sinks into the silent tomb.
To-day his food is dressed in dainty forms,
To-morrow, is himself a feast for worms.
To-day he's clad in gaudy, rich array,
To-morrow, shrouded for a bed of clay.
To-day he has delusive dreams of heaven,
To-morrow, cries, "Too late to be forgiven!"
To-day he lives in hope as light as air,
To-morrow dies in anguish and despair.
—London Magazine, 1701.

Sour Grapes.

Nothing hinders the onward progress of this blessed Bible doctrine of "holiness to the Lord," like the inconsistent walk of those professing to enjoy it. Christ is wounded, deeply wounded. By whom? What are these wounds in thy hands? Then he shall answer: "Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends." Zach. xiii. 6.

"Let us, therefore," says Paul, "as many as be perfect, be thus minded. * * * Whereunto we have attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing. Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them who walk so as ye have us for an example—for many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ."

We do expect more from those professing entire purity of motive, a holy, sanctified life, than from those making no pretensions to this superlative grace.

We look for consistency in the every-day walk and conversation—a spirit of meek, modest, lamb-like humility—a benevolence, disinterested, exalted, Christ-like—that looks not merely on its own things, but also on the things of others; a cheerful smiling, complacent, yielding to the rights of others, where duty calls. We expect a meek, modest self-renunciation, Gospel-like, in those testifying publicly the assurance of faith, great peace of mind, joy unspeakable.

We may be eloquent in our professions, and after all be "as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal!" How grievously disappointed are we when we see in those making high pretensions to a sanctified heart, the very reverse of what they profess, in their spirit, conversation, and general deportment! Nothing so surely and speedily brings this blessed doctrine into disrepute as the inconsistencies of those professing to enjoy it. "If Christ be in you the body is dead because of sin; but the spirit is life because of righteousness."

Paul died to sin, was crucified with Christ, that the body of sin might be destroyed—that henceforth he should not serve sin.

"For he that is dead is freed from sin. Now if we be dead with Christ we believe that we shall also live with him; knowing that Christ, being raised from the dead, dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died to sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof. Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin; but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God." Rom. vi, 7–13. "Every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself even as he is pure."

"Teach me to walk as thou didst walk,
When a weary pilgrim here."
—D. F. Newton.

Walter Willoughby's Tempter.

Walter Willoughby did not come down to breakfast on the morning after New Year's. The fact that he had been brought home the night before in a state of semi-unconscious intoxication, and that his father had met him and assisted him to his room, made him shrink from meeting the family at the breakfast table. At a late hour he arose, dressed and prepared to go out. Just as he laid his hand on the knob of the front door, Mr. Willoughby opened the door of the study and said, "Walter, will you come in here a moment? I wish to speak with you." Very reluctantly the young man replaced his hat on the rack and, with his overcoat still on, entered his father's library and stood waiting to hear the expected reproof. "Sit down, Walter, I want to talk with you about last night;" and Mr. Willoughby spoke kindly though sadly. "I suppose you know in what condition you were brought home?" Walter nodded, while an angry flush overspread his face. "I do, sir." "And, I suppose, I need not tell you how mortified your mother and I feel, that our son should so far forget himself as to disgrace us in this manner."

Unconsciously Mr. Willoughby's tone had become harder as he proceeded, and the son's face, which had at first reddened, now paled under the rebuke which cut more by the tone than by the words. The father waited for a moment, and then continued: "Your mother and I are very much hurt at your conduct, but as this is the first offense of the kind we are willing to forgive you, provided it si not to be repeated in the future." Walter had not looked up once while his father was speaking, and now he did not answer, but sat with his eyes fixed on the blazing grate.

For some moments the father waited for a reply, but none came, and then he said, sadly, his love and anxiety overcoming his anger at his son's fault: "Are you not willing to promise this, my son?" The young man rose from his seat and stood before his father. "No, I am not willing to make such a promise, because I should not be likely to keep it if I did," he said bitterly. "Mother is ashamed of me and mortified at what I have done? I am glad of it—may be it will do her good, and" —— "Walter," and Mr. Willoughby's voice was stern enough now, "Do you dare to speak disrespectfully of your mother?"

"Well, I—I—before I make any promises I want to speak with mother about it."

He paused, and then added, "I thought at first I would say nothing to her about it, but, perhaps, it is as well to have it over. Will you please ask mother to come in?"

When the mother came a few minutes after, her eyes red with weeping, the son arose respectfully, and gave her the easy chair, while Mr. Willoughby again resumed his seat.

As soon as his mother was seated, Walter said, hastily, as if anxious to get over an unpleasant task, "Father has been lecturing me on last night's doings, and says that you are willing to forgive me because it is the first time, and provided I promise that it shall not occur again. I want to say that last night was not the first by at least a half dozen times." "O, Walter!" and there was a world of agony in the mother's voice. "Of course you are shocked and very much ashamed of me, but—please, father," as Mr. Willoughby was about to speak, "don't interrupt me! I will say it; I have kept this from you until, I am afraid, your son is in a fair way to become a confirmed drunkard, and if I am, you have no one to blame but yourselves! If I die a drunkard, it is you who have made me such!" and the words were fairly hissed into the ears of the father and mother. Mr. Willoughby arose to his feet, and laid a hand on his son's shoulder.

"Walter, sit down; you are yet half crazed with the liquors you drank yesterday, and I will not permit you to thus insult your mother and myself." The young man shook off the father's hand. "No, father, I am not drunk, but in sober earnest. The first wine I ever tasted—wine my mother made, and you asked me to drink it; you filled the glass with you own hand, and told me it was harmless; and, for nearly ten years, you have been feeding my appetite with what you call 'domestic' wine, until now I am not satisfied with that alone, but must have something stronger! You want me to promise to keep sober in the future; I shall make no such promise, unless you and mother will agree to remove the accursed stuff from your table and out of my sight, and God only knows whether I shall be able to overcome my appetite even then," and with a groan the unhappy young man sank into a chair and buried his face in his hands. The father sat like one stunned, while the mother sobbed hysterically. Presently Walter look up and said sadly, "If I could have gone on in my own own way, without your knowing it, I never should have said what I have; but if you cannot help me, perhaps you may save my brothers from a like temptation. And O, my mother," as, overcome by his feelings, he knelt by her and laid his head on her shoulder, "will you not help me? Forgive me for what I have said, for I have said it more for Harry's and Willie's sake than for my own. For God's sake remove the temptation from them before it is too late."

The mother's only reply to this petition was to twine her arms around the neck of her penitent boy, and sob on his shoulder. When each had grown calmer, Walter rose from his knees and reaching out his hand to his father, he said: "Forgive me for the past, and for what I have said this morning, and I am willing to try to overcome my appetite for strong drink, but I can make no promises; I have vowed more than a dozen times that I would never touch it again, and have as often broken these vows, and I have no confidence in my good resolutions for the future."

Mr. Willoughby grasped his son's hand as he arose, and the two men stood facing each other—the one in the bloom of manhood's first years, the other with grey hairs creeping in among the brown. "My boy," and the father's voice trembled with emotion, "if I had known this in the beginning, I would rather have given my own life than thus to have marred yours. But perpaps it is not too late; your mother and I will help you, and God's grace is sufficient for all our needs. May he help us to do our duty," and Mr. Willoughby left the room. Walter turned to his mother who still sat like one in a dream, and said, trying to smile through his tears, "Mother, have you no need of forgiveness or encouragement for your boy?"

For an answer the mother drew her son to her arms and kissed his flushed and feverish brow, and said, "Forgive me, my child, I knew not what I did."

Walter Willoughby did not go down town that day, but hanging his overcoat again on the rack, he spent the day in his own room.

It is needless to to say that there was no more "domestic" wine used in that household. Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby had learned by sad experience that fermented wine, even though under the title of home-made, may create a taste for stronger drinks and lead to ruin.

Young Willoughby had many a hard struggle before he overcame his evil habits, and more than once came near falling, but by the kind words and encouragement of his conscience-stricken parents, who spared no pains to atone for the wrong they had done their boy, he finally became a sober man, and through God's spirit, a Christian man.

Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby not only removed the tempter from their own home, but they also used their influence to induce other parrents to shun the foolish and sinful practice that had come so near wrecking their son's life, and which still caused them regrets, heartaches and anxiety.—Woman's Temperance Union.

Dr. Nott, late President of Union College, was one of the most accomplished scholars and successful educators which the United States has produced. His testimony concerning "Christian wine-drinkers" is worth remembering. It is as true as it timely, and is as follows: "It is the reputable Christian wine-drinkers who are the men who send forth from the high places of society, and sometimes even from the portals of the sanctuary, an unsuspected, unrebuked, but powerful influence, which is secretly and silently doing on every side—among the young, among the aged, even among females—its work of death."

Children's Corner.

Too Certain.

"Father, I am tired of reading the Bible. I have read it so often that I know everything in it."

"Everything, my son? Do you think you could not find one chapter that would contain something you have never yet noticed?"

"Yes, father, I think so. I am sure I know all that is in the historical parts of the Bible."

"Well, let me try you. When were a large number of men fed with a few loaves of bread, and a supply left when they had done eating?"

"Why, father, surely I remember Christ's feeding several thousand persons, at two different times with a few loaves and fishes."

"Very well; those were two instances. Now tell me a third."

"There is no other in the Bible."

"You are perfectly sure of that, are you? Suppose you reflect a little before you answer again."

"Yes, father, I have thought, and I am certain there is no other miracle of the kind mentioned in the Bible."

"Well, my son, open your Bible at the fourth chapter of the Fourth Book of Kings."

"The Fourth Book of Kings! Father there is no such book."

"Hand me the Bible. What does this title say?"

"It is 'The Second Book of the Kings, commonly called the Fourth Book of the Kings.'"

"Well, there is one thing learned by the boy that knew the Bible so well. Fow turn to the fourth chapter, and read from the forty-second verse'"

"Here it is, sir; 'And there came a man from Baalshalisha, and brought the man of God—'"

"Who was that man of God?"

"I must look. It was the prophet Elisha."

"Now proceed."

"And brought the man of God bread of the first fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn in the husks thereof. And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat. And his servitor said: What, should I set this before a hundred men? He said again, Give the people that they may eat; for thus saith the Lord, They shall eat, and shall leave thereof. So he set it before them and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the Lord."

"That will do for this time, my son. I have never wished to make the reading of the Scriptures tedious by requiring you to read them continually without giving you other books to read. But I wanted to convince you how mistaken young people are apt to be in their ideas of their own knowledge. There are thousands of children—yes, and of men and women too—who would read with great interest many passages of the Bible, if they found them in a fresh and beautiful volume, which they believe to contain nothing but what is published for the first time. Remember this and let me advise you to read the four books of Kings, and to make a list of all the passages you will find there, which, like the one you have just read, are as new to you as if you had never heard nor read them."—Sailor's Magazine.

Familiar Birds.

Burroughs, in his charming little book, Wake Robin, says it is an event in one's life to find a humming bird's nest. The event happened to me without any effort on my part. Looking up from a seat in the grove, I saw the ruby throat drop down on its nest, like a shining emerald from the clouds; it did not pause upon the edge of the nest, but dropped immediately upon it. The nest was situated upon an oak twig, and was about the size of a black walnut, and from where I sat it looked more like an excrescence than a nest. It was situated in the fork of two twigs, and was firmly glued at the base to the lower, but not fastened to the upper twig.

I waited for the tiny occupant to leave the nest, and then with the aid of a step-ladder had no difficulty in looking into it. I found it contained two white eggs about as large as medium sized peas. Sometimes the male would drop upon the nest when the female left. I never disturbed them while they were sitting upon it; but often before I could get away, when I thought them out of sight, the male would suddenly appear, and greater demonstrations of anger I never saw manifested by any bird. He would ruffle up his tiny feathers, and seem nearly twice as large, and dash almost into my face, making a squeaking noise—scolding and threatening until he had driven me quite a distance. He soon learned that I was very much afraid of him, so he turned tyrant, and often drove me from my seat in the grove when I had not been near his dwelling. I always submitted to the tiny tyrant, for what business had I to be prying into his domestic affairs? When the young were hatched they were not larger than humblebees, but in a week they had flown. I cut the twig off, and found the nest was composed of the same soft downy substance which I had noticed in the wood pewee's nest, but it is matted so closely together that it is almost as firm as the softer kinds of felt; it is a marvel of skill and beauty, and is completely covered externally with lichens.

But of all the feathered choristers none were so charming, none so confiding and intelligent, as the catbird, three pairs of which nested close to the house, each pair rearing two broods of young. One nest was near a second story window in a climbing rose-bush; at first the birds slightly resented my attempts at familiarity, but I was persevering and very quiet, sitting by the open window with only a light wire screen between us: after they had become accustomed to seeing me thus, I raised the screen and sat where I could have put my hand upon the occupant of the nest, but I never disturbed the mother bird; so by the time the young were hatched, the parents would feed while I sat by the window. But this pair simply tolerated me; they treated me with a sort of sublime indifference, just as they would some large animal of which they were not afraid. When the young were fledged, they came upon the back piazza, where the old ones fed them close to my side.

Puzzle Drawer.

A Typographical Puzzle.

An S A now I mean to write
2 U, sweet K T J,
The girl without a I,
The bell of U T K.

I ider if U got the 1
I wrote 2 U bei
I sailed in the R K D A,
And sent by L N More.

My M T head will scarce contain
I calm I D A bright,
But A T miles from you I must
M—— this chance to write.

And 1st should N E N V U,
B E Z mind it no::
Should N E friendship show, B true—
They should not B forgot.

But friends and foes alike D K,
As U may p'ainly C
In every funeral S A,
Or uncle's L E G.

From virtue never D V S,
Her influence B 9,
Alike induces 10derness
Or 4Ctude divine.

And if you cannot cut a —
Or cause an I
I hope U'll put a.
2 1 ?.

R U for for annexation 2
My cousin heart & ☞?
He offers in a ¶,
A § 2 of land.

He says he loves U 2 X S,
U R virtuous & U R Y's
In X L N C U X L
All others in his I's.

Now fare U well D R K T J,
I trust that U R true;
When this U C then U can say
An S A I O U.

—Ella & Sophe Young.

Binghamton N. Y., Apr. 21, '77.

Mr Editor.—We send you the answer to Maggie Z Richey's enigma it is "California," and also the one to E and S. Young's, it is "Louisiana." With these we send you another which if you think worth publishing we would like to see in your paper.

It is composed of 18 letters.
My 14, 7, 10, 11 and 9 is an auxiliary verb.
My 15 and 9 is a personal pronoun.
My 1 and 17 is a common noun.
My 6, 2, 5, 8 and 12 is a girl's name.
My 1, 13, 6 and 14 is a Catholic ceremony.
My 18, 4, 16, 5 and 13 is the name of an animal.
My 3, 4, 8 and 11 is a transitive verb.
My whole is the name of a prophet's son.

Emma & Mary Freeland.

Trumansburg, Tompkins Co., N. Y.

Mr Editor —I send you the answer to Maggie Z. Richey's puzzle published April 12th, it is "Californi-," and the answer to Susie Baldridge's puzzle in April 19th is "Snowdrop." I am thirteen years old. I will send you an enigma for the Puzzle Drawer.

It is composed of 16 letters.
My 9, 2 and 13 is a kind of drink.
My 6, 3, 9 and 2 is a girl's name.
My 10, 15, 16, 14 and 2 what boys like to do in winter.
My 8, 7, 1 and 14 part of a boat.
My 12, 3 and 9 what we wear on our heads.
My 4 and 5 is a preposition.
My 11, 13 and 14 is a domestic animal.
My whole is the name of a sea.

Lizzie Schryver.

Home and Farm.

Life Lengthened.

1. Cultivate an equable temper; many a man has fallen dead in a fit of passion.

2. Eat regularly, not over thrice a day, and nothing between meals.

3. Go to bed at regular hours. Get up as soon as you wake of yourself, and do not sleep in the daytime, at least not longer than ten minutes before noon.

4. Work always by the day and not by the job.

5. Stop working before you are very much tired—before you are "fagged out."

6. Cultivate a generous and accommodating temper.

7. Never cross a bridge before you come to it: this will save half the trouble of life.

8. Never eat when your are not hungry, nor drink when you are not thirsty.

9. Let your appetite always come uninvited.

10. Cool off in a place greatly warmer than the one in which you have been exercising; this simple rule would prevent incalculable sickness, and save millions of lives every year.

11. Never resist a call of nature for a single moment.

12. Never allow yourself to be chilled "through and through;" it is this which destroys so many every year, in a few days sickness, from pneumonia, called by some lung fever, or inflammation on the lungs.

13. Whoever drinks no liquids at meals will add years of pleasurable existence to his life. Of cold or warm drinks, the former are the most pernicious; drinking at meals induces persons to eat more than they otherwise would, as any one can verify by experiment, and it is excess in eating which devastates the land with sickness, suffering and death.

14. After fifty years of age, if not a day-laborer, and sedentary persons after forty, should eat but twice a day, in the morning and about four in the afternoon; for every organ without adequate rest will "give out" prematurely.

15. Begin early to live under the beuign influence of the Christian religion, for it "has the promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come."—Hall's Journal.

Grandmother's Gingerbread.—Cup and a half of molasses, cup of rich sour cream, teaspoonful of saleratus, teaspoonful of ginger, flour; mix a little thick.

Asparagus.—Select green asparagus. If you have the privilege of cutting it from the bed, break or cut as close to the ground as it is tender. If you must buy from the markets, try several stalks and see that they are not woody and tough. The white ends are usually so, and are not eatable, being very bitter besides. After breaking off the hardest part, the asparagus may be improved by taking a thin sharp knife and stripping off the outside skin, beginning at the cut end and drawing the skin upward as far as it will go. The bitter lies next to the outside. Now cut the stalks into pieces an inch long, put into a saucepan, sprinkle over a little salt, and just cover with boiling water. Cook twenty minutes; add half a teacupful of sweet cream; rub together a teaspoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of flour and stir in; boil up a minute or two; toast a thin slice of bread to light brown, cut into several pieces; lay into the bottom of a dish, and pour the asparagus over. Or leave the asparagus without cutting up, lay it all one way in the saucepan, and otherwise prepare the same.

An egg is generally called fresh when it has been laid only one or two days in the summer, and two to six days in winter. The shell being porous, the water in the interior evaporates, and leaves a cavity of greater or less extent. The yolk of the egg sinks, too, as may be easily seen by holding it towards a candle or the sun; and when shaken a slight shock is felt if the egg is not fresh. To determine the precise age of eggs dissolve about four ounces of common salt in a quart of pure water, and then immerse the egg. If it is one day old, it will descend to the bottom of the vessel; but if three days it will float in the liquid. If more than five days old, it will come to the surface, and project above it in proportion to its increased age.

Concerning Carpets. — The stretching and putting down in place of a carpet is not, says the Ohio Farmer, one of the most pleasant jobs of work, yet if the feat be acccomplished satisfactorily, the pleasure derived from the knowledge that the work has been well done will nearly, if not quite, compensate one for the bruised knuckles, torn finger nails, and bleeding cuticle—the usual adjuncts of carpet-stretching.

When fitting a carpet to a room, it should measure one inch shorter in length and one inch less in breadth, if it be of a firm fabric, and more than an inch difference made in the measurement if the tension of the material be greater. Tack each of the four corners of the carpet firmly in place, stretching them to the desired point, of course, previous to nailing; then work up the edges as desired. The progress may be slow, but it will prove satisfactory in the end. We long ago discarded carpet-stretchers, on account of the wear and tear of the carpet consequent upon their use; preferring the agency of the hands only when putting down a carpet. A carpet that is firmly stretched in place is much easier swept and looks infinitely better than one loosely thrown down, or one with curved lines set off with pleats to accommodate any looseness—result of overstretching at one point and too little at others.

Old newspapers make excellent padding to put between a carpet and the floor it covers. They should be eight or ten thicknesses deep, and more rather than less. We have used them with the best results for the past ten years. The same papers can be used year after year; all they need to make them good as new is an occasional airing and dusting. It is said the ink used in printing will effectually prevent the ravages of moths. I know that but very few of these plagues ever infest the borders of our carpeting, but I am inclined to think the thorough use of the broom under all articles of standing furniture has as much to do in ridding carpets of these depredators as any preventive ever used for their destruction. Moths prefer to work in dark places and these same dark places should be put in quarantine and receive the strictest attention when sweeping time comes around. All moveable articles of furniture should be displaced as often as once a week during the months the miller (mother of the moth) is depositing its eggs. If the eggs are destroyed no moths will hatch; thus the carpet will be preserved. A small brush-broom can be used under the articles too heavy for moving, such as pianos, wardrobes, etc.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

The Rock of Ages.

DISCOURSE BY MR. MOODY IN BOSTON, APRIL 17.

For their rock is not as our Rock, even our enemies themselves being judges.—Deut. 32: 31.

"Their rock is not our Rock." Now who are going to be the judges? "Our enemies themselves." God is called the Rock. David's last words were, "The Lord is my Rock," and David breaks out in the Psalms, "Lead me to the Rock that is higher than I." "The Rock that is higher." That is the Rock that towers above the waves when we are being dashed by them. Many are building, but many are not building upon a sure foundation. I am told that a good many buildings upon the Back Bay are upon uncertian foundations. I think you will find a good many persons that have uncertain foundations religiously. If you have got merely character, and have not a religious foundation, it will surely come down. If you have built upon the sand, when the flood comes, down it will come. Let us see that we are building as God would have us build. In the fifty-seventh chapter of Isaiah we read that "the wicked are like a troubled sea." The righteous are at rest, and now that it the difference between the wicked and the righteous. If we are upon the Rock, we have sure footing for Christianity, and we have God in peace, where the world cannot move us and distrust us. I was greatly interested in finding out where the word rock occurred in the Bible for the first time. The seventeenth chapter of Exodus and the sixth verse is the first place that this word occurs:

"Behold, I will stand before thee there, upon the rock in Horeb, and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel."

As I explained to you some time ago, Christ was that rock and the Trinity was in that rock. Then, if you will turn over to the first of Coriathians, the tenth chapter and fourth verse, you will find the last time that it occurs:

"And did all drink the same spiritual drink; for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ."

The first time that we find the Rock it was Christ, and the last time it was Christ. That is the Rock that is higher than we are. Thank God, he is lifted up. He is upon the throne now, and if I am led to Christ I am so high I cannot be shaken. In the twenty-sixth chapter of Isaiah, almost in the middle of the Bible, it tells us what Christ will do to those who are upon this rock:

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusteth in thee."

The Rock is firm. As the Irishman said, he trembled sometimes,

BUT THE ROCK NEVER DID.

I want to call your attention to that Rock, and that the enemies of the Bible and the Gospel of God, "their rock is not as our Rock, and they themselves shall be the judges." The first class of people that I want you to notice are the atheists. I would not speak of them if I did not find them in the inquiry room so often. I don't know what they come there for—yes, I do, they come there because they have no rest. They are like a cork, bobbing about upon the water. Perhaps some of you will say, "O, there are none that don't believe in God." But I have found them in this great city, this very enlightened city. They say that they are honest, but I can hardly believe it. I think that the atheists will admit that their rock is different from ours. Here is an atheist that has some trouble, but he has no one to go to with it. There isn't anyone that can help him. There are times that you and I have trouble. Times when no human aid can help us, and we have to have something stronger than the arm of flesh. This atheist has a son that he loves dearly. I have seen these men and have known many of them that are kind-hearted. Here is one that is fifty years of age. He has a dear boy that he is very fond of. He has an appetite for strong drink. He comes home two or three nights a week drunk. And he says to his father: "Father, is there no way for me to rid myself of this appetite? Is there no help?" "No, my son, there is no help. You have got to go down to a drunkard's grave." "Is there no God?" "No." "O, is there no deliverance?" "No; you must assert your manhood." "Yes, but I have, and my appetite is stronger than my will." Ah,

HIS ROCK IS NOT OUR ROCK.

We have a remedy for that. We can tell him of one that can deliver him. Look again. This atheist's son comes down to his dying bed. "Come, father, comfort me. I want peace. The doctor says that I must die. Cannot you give me any consolation? Is this the end of my existence?" "Yes, this is the end." Poor consolation, isn't it? The father, if he is honest, has to tell him that that is the last of him, and that soon the worms will be feeding upon him. Ah, poor atheist! I pity you. May God open your eyes to see that there is a God in heaven. I have yet to find the first atheist that tries to find God that does not find him. The trouble with most atheists is, that they think they are wiser than the Almighty. They do not ask for light and for wisdom. Now let us pass from that class, and take up another class, the deists, People say, 'Oh, I never got so low as an atheist, I am a deist." A deist is one that believes in God, but denies Christ and Revelation. I would like to ask him who his God is? It is something like the monument Paul saw "to the unknown God." A deist is one that does not know anything about his own God. What is the difference between him and an atheist if he does not know anything about his own God? He could not tell whether his God is a just God or not, a God of love or not. I do not see any difference between a deist and an atheist. I may say as I speak to a deist, "Your rock is not as ours," for we have Christ, who came to declare the Father, to tell us that he was a God of love, and that "whosoever believeth on him shall not perish, but have everlasting life."

OUR GOD IS A GOD OF LOVE

and mercy—a just God; a God who lifts up those who put their trust in him. Now, I have been sometimes called to attend the funeral of some of these men. If a man is a real atheist or a deist, why does he call upon us to come to the funeral of one of his friends? If I say one word about their believing this doctrine, they would be very much insulted. Then there is another class that are not atheists or deists, but they believe that God is everywhere. They are what you call Pantheists. I do not know that it is any better than being a deist or an atheist. One of them said to me the other day, "I believe in God, but you are God and I am God; there is God in this wood." I am treading upon God now according to them. "God is in the trees and in the flowers and in the beasts and in the birds. God is everywhere." And when you bring them to the point, God is nowhere; that is, any that Pantheism knows anything about. What is the use of their praying; their God does not answer prayer. In time of adversity, in time of trouble they do not call upon God. Thousands of people in this audience tonight can bear me witness that their prayers have been answered. We know that God has been answering prayer the past few months. There are many wives here that do not need any more proof than they have got in their own homes. Many of you fathers can say, "The God I worship answers prayer." They say, "I would give a good deal to have your hope, to have your assurance." They admit every time they say that, that "their rock is not ours."

WHAT DO THEY WANT THIS FOR?

Some of them say that their minds are so constituted that they cannot believe. God does not want them to believe without evidence. He gives proof that he does answer prayer. A great many say that they are Christians—they are not Pantheists, or Atheists, or Deists—but they do not believe in the inspiration of this, the blessed Bible. What head do they come under? They want to come under the head of Christians; they are infidels. I know some of you are shaking your heads, you do not like that. But you are infidels according to Webster's definition. Webster says an "infidel is one who don't believe in the inspiration of the Bible." The time will soon come when these men who are pretending to preach the Gospel will say, "I am an infidel," and the quicker the line is drawn the better. Some of these men say, "I am a Christian. I believe in doing good. I believe in giving to the poor." But they are trying to cut this word of peace: "Though an angel from heaven preach any other doctrine, let him be accused." Now, the man that does not believe in this blessed Bible I consider the greatest curse any community could have. He is worse than the man who gives out poison. If people would only just take their Bibles and find out whether or not these men preach according the Word of God. If you get into any church and they do not preach the Gospel of Christ get out of it as quickly as you can. Let these men take their right name of infidel. Certainly our rock is not theirs. I know that these men say, "I cannot believe the Word of God; there is so much in it that is dark." They are wise above Scripture. For five and six hundred years the prophecies of this Book have been fulfilled. "O, that will do for the dark ages," they say. But these prophecies have been fulfilled, and now in the excavation of Nineveh, the idols have been dug up and placed in the British Museum, and after 2500 years the prophecy has been fulfilled in our own day. These people don't read it.

WHY NOT READ?

Find out for yourself whether it is the Word of God or not. Can you find any writing that can compare with that fourteenth chapter of John? How do these modern sermons begin to compare with it? Put a sermon of Christ and one of these modern sermons together in a daily newspaper, and the minister who wrote the sermon would be ashamed. There is more truth in one of Christ's sermons than in a whole volume of modern ones. They say that they have advanced so that they have outgrown the Bible. Ah! infidelity is cruel! Ah! what are they going to give us in place of the Bible? They might give us Shakspeare. I don't think that Shakspeare would feed the soul much. Why is it that you find that these men are not willing to talk their views before their families. I was talking with an infidel one day, and he allowed me to talk, and then he sent his children out of the room and opened a perfect torrent of infidelity. I said, "Why did you not say that before your children?" "O, I thought it would injure them." "But you allowed me to talk." "I did not think you would injure them." If it is good for them would it not be good for their children? They are not willing that their children should get hold of infidel books. I knew of a great infidel who sent his children to Sabbath school; he wanted them to go every Sunday. He was asked why he did that, and he said his wife's religion was better for the children than his. His rock was not as good as hers. There is many an infidel that in the past few days has just found Christ by coming to him and asking his aid, and praying that he would reveal himself. You remember about Gilbert West and Lord Littleton. One was going to expose the resurrection and the other the conversion of Saul. Those were pretty difficult things to do. Saul did not believe that Jesus Christ had come from heaven to save those that were lost. West, when he started, found the evidence perfectly overwhelming. He bowed before this resurrected Man. So Littleton went to work, and, like Saul, was completely broken down. I once heard of an infidel who was dying, and his friends were with him, and they wanted him to hold out to the last, but he said, "I have made a mistake.

WHAT HAVE I TO HOLD ON TO?"

Did you ever hear a Christian say that? These infidels were standing around this friend, and they said, "Die in the faith that you have taught others." He said, "What faith have I to hold on to?" He had nothing to hold on to. Ah, Christian friends, we have Christ to hold on to, and he holds us too, and that is better yet. You that have got no Christ, no Bible, no God, who are without a rock on which to stand; ah, your rock is not our rock. What has become of the gods of Egypt, of Babylon, of Canaan? Canaan was just filled with gods, what has become of them? There is no god but the God of Moses, the God of the Bible. These other gods have all been swept away. Let us look down at China. If they knew anything about real Christianity, they would be obliged to say their rock is different from ours. So with the Mohammedans, and wherever they do not know the true God. Look at the condition of their women and children. Some of these people say that Mohammedanism is as good as Christianity. I wish they were sent over there for ten years, and see if there is no difference. The religion of Christ is the only religion that gives life, that lifts man up. I heard a young man discussing with another, and he said: "I do not see any advantage in becoming a Christian." Is there any one here to-night that can say that they would rather be without Christ, without God. "I see no beauty in him; I see no reason why I should believe in him." May God open your eyes to see why you should receive him. If Christ comes into your hearts he will see that you have something that gives you peace, joy, comfort. You will be able to say that their rock is not your rock. My friends, to-night let me ask you what your rock is. Have you the Lord Jesus Christ? He will give you peace and rest in the time of trouble and sorrow. Sir Isaac Newton labored with a man to bring him to Christ, but he would not receive him, and when he was dying he called upon the God of Sir Isaac Newton. So you can call upon the God of your fathers, on the God of Abraham and the God of Moses, and see how quick he will answer. Suppose there is any one here that doubts this God, let him make the prayer of the atheist, "If there be a God reveal thyself to me." If you go to him and ask him for light you will soon find him.

Religious Intelligence.

—There are 900,000 Christians among the 190,000,000 inhabitants of British India.

—The Bishop of Chichester, England, has refused to consecrate a new church within his diocese, on account of "Romish adornments" about it.

—The Chicago Tribune will publish a full report daily of the Presbyterian General Assembly, to meet in this city, and the usual Assembly journal will not be printed.

—There were union revival meetings, held in Calcutta lately, and two members of the Church Missionary Society were announced to take part; but they were forbidden by the Archdeacon of Calcutta to do so.

—The venerable Rev. Dr. Ide of West Medway, Mass., whose testimony against the lodge is well known, is now ninety-two years old, and is said to be the oldest Congregational minister in Massachusetts.

—On a late Sunday evening a patch of plastering fell from the ceiling of the 2d Congregational church of Oberlin, a distance of over thirty feet, to the floor with such a force as to crush several seats. The congregation had been dismissed about ten minutes previous to the occurrence. A narrow escape.

—April 26th was observed in Minnesota as a day of fasting and prayer for deliverance from the grasshoppers during the coming season. In St. Paul all business was suspended, and services were held morning and evening in the churches.

—Ground has been broken for a new and magnificent building at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., to be called Livingstone Hall, after the great African explorer. The new building is to be built from funds to be secured by subscription in England by the Jubilee Singers.

—The Theological Seminaries of the United Presbyterian church at Newburgh, New York, Allegheny, Pennsylvania, and Xenia, Ohio, closed last month. About eighty students were attending the three institutions last year.

—The Rev. Wm. Harvey, wife and two children sailed from Philadelphia, on the 5th of April for the United Presbyterian mission in Egypt. Mr. Harvey has been detained in this country about a year longer than he desired because the funds were not on hand to send him out and support him. He returns to his work much encouraged.

—Messrs. Moody and Sankey closed their regular three months' engagement in Boston on Sabbath the 29th ult. They will after a brief rest return for a time, laboring in a less public way, strengthening the faith of converts and making more sure the results of their labor. It is said they will visit Northfield, Mr. Moody's old home, and also Amherst College for a few days. Whittle and Stebbins take up the work in Boston for a season, as they followed here.

—The Journal and Messenger of Cincinnati does not believe that the Roman Catholics are gaining on us in this country, but quite the contrary. It says: "A Mexican paper publishes the following statistics of Protestantism in Mexico: 'There are 125 Protestant congregations, 11 churches and 99 halls of worship, 28 free day schools, 28 night schools, 5 orphanages, 2 theological seminaries, 6 presses employed in the publication of religious literature, 6 religious periodicals, 122 agents employed—$100,000 spent this year in carrying on the work.' In North America Protestantism has overcome Catholicism to a great extent already. Canada, which was once exclusively Catholic, is prevailingly Protestant now. The Louisiana purchase, California, New Mexico and Texas were once exclusively Catholic. The Catholics now are in a small minority in them. From the North Pole to the line of Mexico we know of not a single district where Catholicism is in the majority. The only portions of the continent where this is yet the case are Mexico and the States of Central America."

OBITUARY.

DIED.—Near Ames, Iowa, on the 8th of April, Mary Steele, aged 4 years, 4 months and 16 days.

LINES ON THE DEATH OF "LITTLE MARY STEELE."

A lily bud just bursting,
A rose, a violet,
For timely rain all thirsting
Or by the dew-drops wet:
Now torn, and rent, and dying,
When sweeps the sudden blast!
So Mary, lifeless lying,
Hath sunk to rest at last!

But hath our priceless treasure,
All vainly passed away?
Did she not in her measure
Both teach and preach and pray?
Were love's large tears fast flowing
Like rivers, shed in vain?
Shall not ripe harvests growing
Repay them all again?

O mother! let thy Jesus,
Enfold her in his arms,
Do all that e'er he pleases,
To shield from earthly harms!
Heaven's arches now are ringing,
To richest songs of praise!
Hark! Mary sure is singing
Those sweet, seraphic lays!

O weeping father, mother!
Would ye recall her back?
Nay, let each wayward brother
But follow in her track.
O mother, in thy weeping,
Behold, thy Jesus weeps!
And in his holy keeping
Thy sainted Mary sleeps!

—R. BURGESS.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr. Chase's Improved ($3) Receipt Book! Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [8Aug7652t,]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.
By JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth..... $1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry.

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth, $2.50.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.
Price..... $1 00

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;
Or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

GENERAL ARIMAN BEZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.
BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo..... $2 00.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonials Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price, $1.50. Cloth, $1.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, ONE GERMAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 5 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 8-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others to be added.

A 4-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLON.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have prononnced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

Translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 13 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Elien Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2.00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid..... $4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid..... $ 05
Per doz. " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone, and others, on the nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark, paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquillette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,..... $3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... $4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will shun of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

Philip Boulware and Jesse Windom of Biggs Station, Cal., send a club of nine subscribers for one year and one for six months, and write: "It has cost us about six days labor and our expenses, but we like the paper and the cause it is in, and may God bless it and give it weight with the people. Please pardon us for our bold attempts of canvassing with the Cynosure without your permission. We thought it was needful for the benefit of our country and the salvation of souls, for we look on secrecy as the downfall of Christianity."

We authorize any reliable persons whom their neighbors will trust with their money, to act as agents. May their number be increased and their success be great.

Who sends the next club of ten? Keep the ball rolling.

George Head, Jerseyville, Ill., writes: "If I can I will get a club."

Mrs. D. P. Rathbun, Bath, N. Y., writes: "I do not know as there is another copy of the Cynosure that comes to this office, but I mean by the help of the Lord to make an effort to secure a number of subscribers. Times are very hard, but mighty things are done through faith in Christ, and I can but fail if I try."

Rev. J. M. Snyder, Norton, Ill., writes: "Slowly but surely the leaven of truth is working in these parts. I can see plainly that my labor in the pulpit and from house to house is making impression. Had not the crop so signally failed last year, I could have sent you a handsome number of subscribers before this time."

P. Woodring, Sumner, Ia, writes: "I like the Cynosure better than ever and intend to work for its circulation. I think in the fall I can send a club."

John T. Comstock, Rollin, Mich., writes: "I made an effort to get a few subscribers for the Cynosure the other day under unfavorable circumstances, spending two-thirds of a day with horse and buggy, and send you only one subscriber. I hope to have Ronayne here to lecture inside of eight months, which will open a better opportunity for getting subscribers for you."

Will not others spend two-thirds of a day more or less? No one can tell what results may come from even one new subscription.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 5, 1877.—From S B Allen, Jas Ansley, W W Ames, Philip Boulware, Geo Brokaw, B S Brown, Curtis Cogswell, John T Comstock, Hiel Findley Alvah Fenton, John P Gibson, John A Gordon, Hope Hodges, Michael Harbaugh, H H Hinman, Geo Head, Edward Hildreth, David Kelley, Mrs M E Lewis, F M Merrill, G Marcy, J W Magill, Theron Palmeter, Lewis Prevard, J S Perham, Florence N Robinson, P C Stone, Isaac Strong, J M Snyder, Geo Simmermaker, Mrs J C Tyson, Jesse Windom, C A Webb.

Books sent Week ending May 6, 1877.

By Express.

A C Augustine, T Palmeter, C R Morrison.

By Mail.

A Heinbrenner, J Mehl, L D Ayers, H T Coffman, T Pratt, I Nichols, T W Goodwin, P Boulware, J Windom, J F Ruggles, J H Hudgin, F Johntz, C Cogswell, I P Bokes, P L Brenner, J R Jarstad, J Shauk, E Rowles, Rev. E S McMichael, A Wright, H N Latham, J C Stewart, J H H Woodward, G A Gipple, S Chapman, W W Kender, J M Sawyer, P F York, Mr Hodges, G W Leighton, R Johnson, H Elder, F R Lord, J Hoffhines, D A Torrence, L Pearce, P T Smith, Rev. S Jamison, J D Henderson, H Simons, S H Boss, W O Smith, W Miller.

Tracts Sent.

F W Mann, J Shigley.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago, May 7, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat—	No. 2	1 73	1 77
"	No. 3	1 63	1 65
"	Rejected		1 80
"	Minnesota	1 83	1 88
Corn—No. 2		55½	58½
	Rejected	50	52
Oats—No. 2			44
	Rejected		36
Rye—No. 2		90	91
Bran per ton		13 50	14 50
Flour—Winter		9 00	11 00
	Spring	5 50	9 00
Hay—Timothy		8 00	9 50
	Prairie	5 50	7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		8	8⅝
Lard per cwt			9 85
Mess pork, per bbl			15 50
Butter fancy yellow		23	26
	common to choice roll	13	20
Cheese		8	14
Beans		2 40	2 60
Eggs			10
Seeds—Timothy		1 50	1 75
	Clover		6 50
	Flax	1 55	1 90
Potatoes		95	1 20
Broom corn		2	7
Hides green to dry flint		6	16
Lumber—Clear		30 00	34 00
	Common	9 00	10 50
	Fencing	10 00	10 50
	Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed		30	42
	Unwashed	20	25
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice		5 25	5 50
	Good	5 00	5 25
	Medium	4 50	4 80
	Common	3 25	4 20
	Hogs	4 25	5 75
	Sheep	4 00	6 50

New York Market.

Flour	$6 00	12 00
Wheat—Spring	1 40	1 98
Winter	1 51	2 20
Corn		69
Oats	53	73
Rye	1 05	1 10
Lard		10
Mess pork		16 12
Butter	9	14
Cheese	7	14
Eggs	12	13
Wool	18	53

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted post paid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc.,

Etc.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" "	2 "	13.00
1	" "	3 "	15.00
1	" "	6 "	25.00
1	" "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 3 squares 5 per cent, On 5 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton. Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at $2.00	a year.
5 to 9 "	at 1.75	"
10 or more "	at 1.50	"

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.33.—WHOLE NO. 373. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Congregational and Secret Societies	8
Sabbath Keeping	8
Another Saint Gone Home	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Bible in the School	2
Church-fellowship Destroyed by the Obligations of Secretism	2
The Difference	2
John Bright on British Wars, Irish and English Freemasons and their Foreign Brothers	3
The Adams Baptist Church and its Testimony	3
OUR FOREIGN LETTER	4
REFORM NEWS:
The Iowa State Convention; Lectures and Labors in Indiana; The Chicago Association	5.9
CORRESPONDENCE:
Revivals Thwarted; Can a Mason be a Christian; A Boy Mason; Secret Society Men at a Disconnt; Testimony that Overcomes; Our Mail	6
GOSPEL MEETING:
Practical Results in Boston	12
Carlyle on the Eastern War	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	11
Sabbath School	7
Religious Intelligence	13
News of the Week	13
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, July 10th to 12th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, July 10th, with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE CORPORATE MEETING OF THE N. C. A.

The annual meeting of the National Christian Association will be held, according to By-law IV. of its Constitution, on Wednesday, June 21st, 1877, at the Carpenter building, No. 221 West Madison street, Chicago, (unless changed by Directors) for the election of officers, accepting reports and transacting any other business proper to come before said meeting. L. N. STRATTON, Pres.
H. L. KELLOGG, Sec'y.

The following are the corporate members of the N. C. A., who are all expected to be present:

S. B. Allen,	D. R. Kerr,
J. K. Alwood,	D. Kirkpatrick,
I. R. B. Arnold,	Wm. Leuty,
J. W. Bain,	O. F. Lumry,
J. L. Barlow,	D. W. Lyons,
J. A. Bingham,	J. G. Mattoon,
J. Blanchard,	A. M. Milligan,
C. A. Blanchard,	Moses Pettengill,
Jesse B. Blank,	Woodruff Post,
M. R. Britton,	Isaac Preston,
O E Burch,	Peter Rich,
Nathan Callender,	B. T. Roberts,
Philo Carpenter,	J. E. Roy,
Abel E. Carpenter,	Alexander Small,
H. Cogswell,	Geo. E. Sovereign,
J. A. Conant,	J. P. Stoddard,
E. S. Cook,	L. N. Stratton,
E. A. Cook,	L. Taylor,
John Dorcas,	J. G. Terrill,
John Finney,	Sylvanus Town,
Aaron Floyd,	A. Wait,
A. D. Freeman,	J. B. Walker,
H. H. George,	J M. Wallace,
C. R. Hagerty,	Wm. Wishart,
I. A. Hart,	J. W. Wood,
Edward Hildreth,	Aaron Worth,
G. B. Hubbard,	J. R. Wright,
H. L. Kellogg,	Milton Wright.
E. B. Kephart,

GENTRY COUNTY, MO.

The Gentry County Christian Association, auxiliary to the National Christian Association, opposed to secret societies, will hold its annual meeting on the last Saturday in May, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. Public speaking the evening before, at lamplight. The object of the meeting is to elect officers and select a delegate to the National Convention, which meets at Dayton, Ohio, and any other business that may come before the meeting. ENOCH GRANTHAM, Sec'y.

Topics of the Time.

The fifty-second anniversary of the American Tract Society, presided over by Judge William Strong, of the United States Supreme Court, was held in New York on Saturday. The figures of the annual report are suggestive of what may be done by means of a publishing society carried on strictly for the promotion of Christian reforms when the churches of Christ shall have become aroused to the necessity of such a work and have cast off the falsehood that reformatory movements are to be supported only as they are popular. The report of the New York Society, which is not and never was a reform organization, shows nearly half a million received and expended ($441,000); six million copies of papers circulated; two hundred and nine colporteurs, who addressed nearly seven thousand religious meetings, visited over one hundred and fifty thousand families, and prayed with nearly two-thirds of them. If such a work were inaugurated to-morrow on a basis of Gospel reform it would shake the nation and rattle down the whole ring of wasp nests of the lodge.

The coroner turns from the railroad to the architect. What better protection will he give us from blundering or avaricious murder? A jury sits on the case of three men killed by the fall of the roof of the New York post-office, and decides that Mullett, the Treasury architect, is guilty of their death. Another is now examining into the dreadful slaughter of last Friday at Rockford, Illnois, caused by the falling in of the entire interior of the new Winnebago county court-house, over which the lodge had one of its sham parades a year ago. The building was nearly ready to receive the roof, and the workmen were all at a great elevation. Some were placing the heavy stones for the dome, one hundred and twenty feet from the ground, when the brick piers supporting one side of the dome gave way, and the whole inside iron work, the dome and part of the heavy cornice fell, crushing, mangling, thundering to the earth. The cause is known, and it can be found who is to blame for loading up piers of soft brick with heavy iron columns and bulwarks of solid stone. But, when the guilt is fixed on either architect or contractor, shall that be the end of this slaughter? According to the custom of the country, it will.

The "days of grace" have about expired for the whisky ring, and their cases will no longer be postponed in court. The counsel of a number of the Chicago ring have struggled in vain in Washington for private settlement. They plead the promise of Dist. Atty. Bangs; they portray the trusting innocence of their whisky-making clients. In vain; neither law nor officer now are acquainted with the arrangements for immunity, which Bangs and Dexter plead so earnestly for their Masonic brethren, and which disgusted honest Judge Blodgett with the whole business. The country demands a fair trial, and why should they not have it?

The most decided action of the Turko-Russian war was an artillery duel between the Russian batteries at Ibrail on the Danube and an attacking Turkish fleet. At a distance of two miles a large iron-clad monitor was struck by a shell which pierced the vessel, exploded with terrible effect, and sunk it in an incredibly short time. So sudden was the catastrophe that of the two hundred on board only one is said to have escaped. A Russian boat put out to rescue any survivors, but the Turks with traditional stolidity made no effort of the kind from the other vessels of the fleet.

The telegraph returns to its old, unsteady habit in reporting the movements and successes of either army east of the Black sea. Last week it said the strongly fortified city of Kars was taken with 17,000 prisoners; but the Turks hold it yet, and the connections thereto. Then instead of Kars it was a Turkish army of 15,000 between that point and Erzeroum; but this must be held for confirmation. The position of the Turkish army at this point is probably critical, though it has yet to be proved unsafe. The Russians have passed a wing of their invading force on either side, but it is not probable they will venture to ignore its powerful garrison and march in force to Erzeroum.

It thunders all around the horizon of the secret trade unions. At Troy both parties have gained such victories that the great stove trade carried on there for years is practically killed out forever, and neither manufacturers or men can carry away anything but bitter recollections of loss. The railroads are more successful. The Reading road has secured a full complement of men after a period of vexatious struggles, and is happy in being free from the arbitrary terms of the union, while securing to its engineers all the benefits possibly to be derived from it. The Vermont Central is making a war on the Brotherhood at the same terms; and it is not improbable that all our great thoroughfares of travel and traffic will soon cease to support a secret order whose exactions are threatening and unjust to the public at large, and disastrous to a large class of poor laborers. Upon this last feature of railroad strikes Pres. Gowan, of the Reading road, says with great force:

"A locomotive engineer who formerly got $3 75 per day and has been reduced to $3 per day, can still procure all the comforts of life and maintain his family in decency and respectability; but the poor laboring man, who used to get $2, and is now obliged to content himself with $1 or even less per day, has pinching want ever staring him in the face, and the loss of a few day's work may break down the only barrier he has been able to erect against starvation. And yet at such a time, when for every man's place there are 100 applicants, the Grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers gravely ask workmen to quit work, abandon their situations, and starve, so that their own Association may be enabled to bring the Company to terms and secure an exemption, from a rule which, during the last few years, has been submitted to by all.

Those who work with their hands are but too prone to attribute to their employers a desire to oppress them, and are apt to lend a ready ear to the eloquence of demagogues and organizers who make their living by declaring against the tyranny of capital; but of all forms of oppression the most tyrannical and despotic is that which a trades union exercises over the poor. For many years the company of which I am president has been the advocate and champion of the right of the individual laboring man against the tyranny of trades unions, and now that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers no longer has any influence over its employes, it can point with pardonable pride to the fact that among all of its 22,000 men not one will hereafter be obliged to submit to the degradation of asking his fellowmen for leave to earn his daily bread."

The Bible in the School.

At school, at school! and shall we take
The Book of books away?
Withhold it from the little ones?
Leave them at will to stray
Upon dark mountains helplessly,
Without the guiding light
That God intrusts to us, until
They perish in the night?

Shall husks and chaff be freely given,
And not the Bread of Life?
And shall the Word of Peace become
A center of mad strife?
Shall those who name the name of Christ
His own great gift withhold?
Our Lamp, our Chart, our Sword, our Song,
Our Pearl, our most fine Gold!

Why would ye have "no Bible taught?"
Is it for fear? or shame?
Out, out upon such coward hearts,
False to their Master's name.
If God be God, if truth be truth,
If Christian men be men,
Let them arise and fight the fight,
Though it were one to ten!

With battle cry of valiant faith,
Let Britain's sons arise.
"Our children shall be taught the word
That only maketh wise!"
So, dauntlessly, will we unfurl
Our banner bright and broad,
The cause of his dear Word of Life,
Our cause, the cause of God.

—Frances Ridley Havergal, in Bible Record.

Church-Fellowship Destroyed by the Obligations of Secretism.

BY REV. H. H. HINMAN.

The church of Christ, which he has purchased with his own blood, is not a visible organization. It is composed of those out of every kindred and nation and tongue whose names are written in heaven and who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Men have nothing to do with the reception or the rejection of its members for the Lord only knoweth them that are his.

An organized church is on the other hand one in which believers are visibly united for the promotion of Christ's kingdom in their own hearts and its extension in the earth, and the conditions of membership in the one are not necessarily the same as in the other. True no organized church has a right to receive to its communion any one whom it does not believe to be a member of the body of Christ, nor has it a right to exact conditions of membership inconsistent with the Gospel of Christ, but it has a right to secure church-fellowship and to exclude whatever is inconsistent with it, for without such fellowship the objects of its existence are defeated.

What then are the conditions of church-fellowship?

1. Mutual confidence in the Christian integrity of those thus united. Whatever destroys this mutual confidence destroys church-fellowship and destroys the church. It may indeed be held together by external influences, but the seeds of dissolution have been sown and division or death must follow. Membership in the secret orders by any of the members of the church is destructive of this mutual confidence and hence is inconsistent with church-fellowship.

A large proportion of the members of the churches believe that membership in those secret orders is wrong. Aside from the ceremonies and obligations of these orders, some of which we know to be wrong, they hold that such membership is inconsistent with the example of Christ, who said, "In secret have I said nothing;" that it is contrary to his admonition, "Let your light shine before men;" that it implies conformity to an unknown, and therefore an unlawful obligation and it violates the apostolic command, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." Now, whether this conviction be well founded or not, it is real and constitutes an insurmountable barrier to mutual confidence and fellowship between those who belong to and defend these secret orders and those who hold such membership to be in violation of the Gospel of Christ. A small minority of church members belong to the secret orders and they claim the right of holding this double membership in the lodge and the church by overbearing the deepest convictions of a portion of their brethren in Christ, and at the expense of that mutual fellowship which is the very life of the church. "How can two walk together except they be agreed, for when brethren differ about what belongs to practical allegiance to Christ, they have ceased to be united, are at best one only in name.

It is not assuming too much to say that the conflict between those who belong to the secret orders and those who oppose them is great, growing and irrepressible, and that, sooner, or later, separation is inevitable; and the simple question is, which member shall be cut off; which can be best spared, the secret or the anti-secret element in the churches? Is it the Elijahs or the prophets of Baal that are troubling Israel to-day? and which of them is it that ought to be cast out?

2. A second condition of church-fellowship is that there shall be candor and Christian simplicity in the intercourse between brethren. This is, indeed, an essential to Christian character, for Christ said, "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall in no ways enter into the kingdom of heaven." Now the obligation of secrecy assumed in all secret societies is inconsistent with this Christian simplicity. If I ask my brother in the church whether as a Master Mason he ever swore that he would conceal all the secrets of a brother Mason except murder and treason, and asked God to help him do it; if I say to him that in my opinion this is blasphemy and I wish to know whether he is really guilty of this sin, I am entitled to a full, explicit and candid answer. Or, if I shall ask him if as a Patron of Husbandry he was led blindfold into the grange and there took an extra-judicial oath and joined in a Christless prayer—not asking from mere curiosity, but to know whether he had been guilty of the dishonor to Christ of which he was accused I should be entitled to a kind and candid answer, and if such answer were permanently withheld it would destroy all fellowship between us. Now the obligation of secrecy of both the lodge and the grange forbids this Christian candor, requires him not to tell me the truth, and by implication to tell me what is not true, i. e., tell me a lie. Such obligations and relations are alike destructive of Christian character and of Christian fellowship.

3. A third condition of church-fellowship is that there shall be an acknowledged responsibility to the church for the Christian conduct of its members, and that the church shall exercise a watch-care and guardianship over them.

This responsibility is mutual, and necessarily carries with it the right to examine and inquire into the moral conduct of any one who, in the opinion of his brethren, has been led into anything contrary to the Gospel of Christ. Now if any of the members of any church believe that the obligations and ceremonies of any secret order are contrary to their sense of what is appropriate to Christian character, then it is their right and duty to demand, and of the church to require that any of its members who belong to such secret order, shall fully and explicity state just what those ceremonies and obligations are in order that the church may decide whether they are in accordance with what they believe to be appropriate Christian conduct. This right of investigation grows out of and is a part of the mutual covenant between the church and each of its members. It is essential to obedience to the command of our Lord in Matthew 18: 15-18, and a refusal to submit to such investigation is a distinct repudiation of the covenant, and destroys the fellowship of the church.

But the obligation assumed in every secret society is incompatible with the right to make such investigation. It forbids the individual member to submit to it, and commands him not to tell what the church has clearly a right to know. Hence in its very nature the obligation of secrecy as taken in every secret order destroys church-fellowship and must destroy the church.

But it is asked, Are not some of the members of the secret orders Christians? It is probable that they are; and it is equally probable that some Universalists, some Roman Catholics and some Mormons are Christians, and as such ought to be admitted to church-fellowship whenever they are willing to give up what is inconsistent with church-fellowship. If the Universalist will cease to teach that all men will be saved, and insist that men must accept the Gospel; if the Roman Catholic will renounce his allegiance to the Pope, and the Mormon give up what is peculiar to Mormonism, believing them to be Christians we ought to receive them to our fellowship. Until then fellowship is impossible. So, too, there are doubtless some Freemasons who are Christians, and as such they are entitled to all the privileges of the church whenever they are willing to put away the insurmountable obstacle to church-fellowship by a renunciation of Masonry. It is asking no more of the Mason to renounce his allegiance to the lodge, than of the Roman Catholic to renounce the Pope. It is doing no wrong in either case to ask such candidate to wait till we have kindly and patiently pointed out to him his errors and he has renounced them. Until then it is better for the church and better for him that he shall be outside of rather than within the body as an element of discord and strife.

If then the church has a right to protect itself by securing church-fellowship it is its right and duty to prohibit membership in any of the secret orders.

The Difference.

Editor Cynosure: I desire to call attention to a paper adopted by one of the secret lodges in reference to the death of a member, and ask Christian men how it sounds over the grave of a member of Christ's family?

"Under the laws of our Creator death has taken from our midst," etc. This means evidently that death comes in due and regular process of law, and therefore is a normal and natural event that "awaits us all," according to an established order. This ignores the doctrine of the Bible that death is "the wages of sin." "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin." Death therefore comes as a penalty for the violation of law, and not according to law. That this is the meaning of the paper is evident from what follows: "In the death of our brother we recognize the decree of nature's God which awaits us all." That is, under the decree of the God of nature, who has established a regular and unchangeable order in nature, the brother has undergone the change, that, according to the same order in nature "awaits us all." It will be seen that this ignores entirely the Christian doctrine concerning not only the place death holds as an innovator in God's government, but also the positive and gracious arrangement he has made in behalf of the death of his own reconciled children, who do not die but fall asleep in Jesus.

Jesus says, "He that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." "The sting of death is sin and the strength of sin is the law, but thanks be to God who giveth us the victory [the victory over death] through our Lord Jesus Christ." To die is to suffer the "sting of death" thrust into the soul by the mighty arm of law. But Jesus, by dying "under the law" has "redeemed us from the curse of the law," and thus removed the "sting." So that the process of dying to the believer—to him who has been "born again," and is therefore no longer "under the law"—is simply the body falling gently to sleep whilst the immortal spirit passes over into the regions of everlasting life, and to "be with Christ which is far better." The "God of nature" is the God of the lodge. The "God of all grace," the "God of salvation," is the Christian's God. All who worship God in the lodge worship "nature's God." Those worship him "in spirit and in truth" worship "God in Christ reconciling the world to himself, not imputing unto men their trespasses." The one pays homage to and trusts in Him who "brought life and immortality to light." The other recognizes only the "God of nature," who is simply the "unknown God." The query with the writer is how Christian men can unite in such worship. R. A. McAyeal.

John Bright on British Wars.

A hundred years ago—just a hundred years this very year—this country was engaged in a war with the colonies now forming the United States of America. What has happened? When that war was over everybody condemned it, and now probably there is not a single man in this country of any political party, however benighted or ignorant, however positive or unteachable, who would not condemn the folly and wickedness of the war with the American colonies. (Cheers.) Well, but that war was supposed to have cost this country close upon 100,000,000 of money ($500,000,000), and it left the inhabitants of the colonies, grown now to be a great nation—even greater in numbers than this, so far as the population of Great Britain and Ireland may be counted—with feelings of anger and bitterness which are now passing away from amongst us.

But after the American war was over only a few years, we engaged in another, and still greater and more prolonged struggle, with the republic of France. The reason we went into war with France was because she was a republic, and held opinions supposed to be dangerous to the monarchy and aristocracy of this country. The cost to this country, I dare say, all told, was a thousand million sterling, ($5,000,000,000) and yet now everybody, or almost every one, condemns that war. I believe that, by greater moderation and greater wisdom on the part of the government and the people and the press of this country, it might have been avoided. It left us with five hundred millions ($2,500,000,000) of debt accumulated, in addition to previous debts, and accumulated during the continuance of that one single but prolonged struggle.

We condemned, as I said, the American war a few years after it was over—your forefathers did; our fathers condemned the French war not long after it was over; and since then we have had another war of very great magnitude, but not of very long continuance, and which generally goes by the name of the Crimean war. But now, as far as I can judge, everybody—perhaps I ought not to say everybody, because probably her Majesty's ministers would not agree with me—(hear, hear!)—but nearly everybody—condemns that war, and I think that every single man who knows anything about it would admit that we gained absolutely nothing but discredit and loss—loss of life and increased debt—from the struggle. You see what a change has come. As it was with the American war, that was condemned; as it was after the French war, that was condemned; so it is now after the Russian war—it is all but universally condemend. We have come, I believe—the nation has come—by a vast majority, to the conclusion that the object was unworthy of our efforts, and that the result was absolute and entire failure. (Cheers.)

Irish and English Freemasons and their Foreign Brothers.

[Review in Cork (Ireland) Examiner of a work of above title by Michael di Gargano.]

It is pretty well known that Freemasonry on the Continent has objects which would make most of the members of the body in England and Ireland shudder. England is the parent of Freemasonry, at least as it is at present constituted; so it was of the International. Transferred to the Continent the International became the mode of propagating the seeds of doctines opposed to everything humanity reveres; in this respect Freemasonry is not different. It has been shown that its authoritative expositions declare it to be hostile to Christianity and all that is at present regarded as order. It is hardly conceivable that the bulk of the persons who in these countries belong to the society are fully aware of its scope, and the deadly perils to society it comprises within it; but as the connection of the British with the societies all over the world has been so attested that they cannot be ignorant of it, they incur the responsibility of its evil principles in a way that ought to make them tremble. We by no means say that there is not in British Freemasonry enough to condemn it per se. Its principles are precisely the same as those of the Continent, and at a glance it can be seen that they are immoral, if we only mention that one which binds a man by secret oath to superiors he does not know, and a code of laws he has never seen; but we distinguish it from its brethren in other parts of the world because as yet its doctrines have not been pushed into the formidable practice which makes the secret societies of the Continent so terrible a scourge to religion and good polity. Our author here is not sparing in his exposure of the closeness of the connection between the Continental and British Freemasons, and utters a powerful denunciation of the actual present evils and still greater possible ills that may result. His book is to comprise three sixpenny parts, of which the first is before us. It is adorned with colored illustrations, designed to show vividly the nature of the ceremonies on initiation into the society, with its passwords and all those particulars which are popularly supposed to constitute its secret. The book opens with an introduction describing the interconnection of the society, its aims, constitution, and the dangers it is capable of producing. Here we find the following passage. The writer has been referring to Dr. Kenealy's mob, and its "terrible earnestness:"

"Be that interest what it may, the terrible earnestness of the English masses may not always be so easily lulled into peace. A Gordon or Chartist riot, a corn law or Hyde Park upheaving may not always be so easily put down as formerly. The successful history of yesterday does not always repeat itself in the victory of to-morrow. The victor of Austerlitz may become the prisoner of St. Helena, or the Emperor of Magenta the conquered man of Sedan. If we may believe history, nations have their tide and ebb in fortune, and as they rise so do they fall. Babylon, and Persia, and Greece, and Rome, have risen to glory and sunk again. Thrones, and races, and nations that were once great, are now but shadowy names on the record of the past. And each may retain its turn till the cup is filled up; till amidst the rejoicings of their proud confidence their sentence is written on the wall. Let us pause and beware. The guardians of a powder magazine should not play with nitro-glycerine, though cased in tin. In England are inflammable millions of democracy who acknowledge no moral law, and can only be governed by the strength of brute force. Let adverse circumstances arise, let hunger; and thirst, and want come upon them, whilst a self-confident and unfeeling aristocracy superabounds, and tell me if a Government, weakened and overwhelmed by a foreign struggle, shall be able to guard the social chasm bridged over by the bodies of the famished dead and dying. There was a time when the Turkish crescent swept in triumph over every sea, and frowned on every coast; but now, according to Lord Beaconsfield, the secret societies sit round to wake the Turkish corpse, and in their sovereign power, call the nations of Europe to join in the dead march of their victim. We may be lulled in the false calm that only precedes the storm—

"Till in some treach'rous hour of calm,
They burst like Zelian's giant palm,
Whose buds fly open with a sound
That shakes the pigmy forests round,"

Let the Government of to-day fail to succeed, and the secret society becomes the triumphing commune of to-morrow. Secret societies are governed by selfish interests and by unrestrained passion. When opportunity arose, the Freemason Communists were as hostile to the Government of their own country as the Prussian invaders. Freemasonry ruined the army of the King of Naples; and from the bulwarks of besieged Paris, French Freemasons exchanged their craft signs with their mystic brethren in the Prussian ranks. Freemasonry, with its diabolical training and its fatal oaths, will yet prove the scourge of Europe."

His description of the ceremonies of initiation suggest the question—with what feelings do the candidates approach it? If they are in earnest it is difficult to conceive anything more abominable; if, as we may fairly presume with the average of Englishmen, they look on it as a sort of mystic tomfoolery they have to go through, surely there is something fearfully wrong and blasphemous in the use of such imprecations. We extract as an example the decription of initiation into the second degree:

"The presiding officers in the lodge on this occasion must be five at least, viz., Worshipful Master, Senior Warden, Junior Warden, Senior Deacon and Junior Deacon, besides the outer door guard (or Tyler), with a drawn sword.

The Deacons go round the lodge and receive from all the members present the whispered password "Shibboleth." This secures that there are no strangers present.

The Junior Deacon announces that a worthy brother who has been regularly initiated as an Entered Apprentice Mason now wishes for further light in Masonry, by being passed to the degree of Fellow-Craft. The Senior Deacon asks, "Is he truly and duly prepared?"

Junior Deacon answers "He is."

"Has he made suitable proficiency in the preceding degree?"

"Yes."

Then the Worshipful Master says: "Since he comes endued with all necessary qualifications, let him enter this worshipful lodge in the name of the Lord, and take heed on what he enters." The door is opened, and the candidate enters, attired as in the former degree, save that the right arm, right breast, and right leg, instead of the left, are now naked. The Senior Deacon says: "Brother! when you first entered this lodge you were received on the point of the compass, pressing your naked left breast, which was then explained to you. As a Fellow-Craft Mason we receive you on the angle of the square, pressing your naked right breast, which is to teach you to act upon the square with all mankind, but more especially with a brother Mason." The candidate is now led regulaly twice round the lodge. By the direction of the Worshipful Master he is led from the western side of the lodge to the east, after which he is placed before the Masonic altar, kneeling on his naked right knee, the left forming a square; the left arm as far as the elbow is in a horizontal position, and the rest of the arm in a vertical position, so as to form a square; his arm likewise supported by a mason's square held under his elbow. He is now kneeling in due form to take the oath of the second degree of Fellow-Craft Mason, which is as follows:

"I, ——, of my own free will and accord, in the presence of Almighty God, and this worshipful lodge of Fellow-Craft Masons erected to God and dedicated to the holy St. John, do hereby and hereon most solemnly swear, in addition to my former obligation, that I will not give the secrets of this degree to any of an inferior degree, nor to any being in the known world except it be to a true and lawful brother Fellow-Craft Mason.

"I furthermore swear that I will not wrong this lodge, nor a brother of this degree to the value of one penny, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it.

"I furthermore swear that I will support the constitution of the Grand Lodge of this country, under which this lodge is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules, and regulations of this or any other lodge of which I may hereafter become a member.

"I furthermore swear that I will obey all regular signs and summons, handed, sent, or thrown to me by a Fellow-Craft Mason, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such.

"I furthermore swear that I will aid and assist all poor and indigent Fellow-Craft Masons, their widows and orphans, wheresoever dispersed around the globe, they applying to me as such, and I finding them worthy, so far as I can do it without injuring myself or family. To all of which I solemnly swear without mental reservation, binding myself under no less penalty than to have my left breast torn open, my heart and vitals taken from me thence, thrown over my left shoulder, and carried to the valley of Jehosaphat, there to become a prey to the wild beasts of the field and the vultures of the air, should I willfully violate or transgress any part of this my solemn oath or obligation of a Fellow-Craft Mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in the due performance of the same."

He detaches his hands and kisses the Bible twice. The Senior Deacon now drops the bandage or hoodwink over one eye of the candidate, whereupon the Worshipful Master asks him: "Brother, in your present situation what do you most desire?" The candidate answers, "More light in Masonry." "Brethren, stretch forth your hands and assist in bringing this new made brother to more light." (I wish the brethren would favor us with a new gas company.) The Worshipful Master makes a short pause, after which he says: "And God said Let there be light, and there was light."

At these words the Senior Deacon strips the bandage from the candidate's eyes, and at the same moment the grand shock is given, as before described. The Worshipful Master gives him the password and grips of the degree, and also a lambskin apron adorned with two sky-blue rosettes at the bottom. The Senior Deacon ties on the apron, turns up one corner at the lower end, and solemly and learnedly tells candidate that, at the building of Solomon's Temple, the masons were distinguished by the manner in which they wore their aprons, and that the Fellow-Craft Masons wore theirs with the corners turned up, like his. (Had they any aprons?) The Master then says to the candidate: "Brother, you have been admitted into the middle chamber of King Solomon's Temple for the sake of the letter G. It denotes Deity before whom all should bow. It also denotes geometry, the fifth science on which this degree is founded." After the lecture the lodge is closed as in the preceding degree.

The Adams Baptist Church and its Testimony.

Dear Readers of the Cynosure: I have been requested by brethren of the Baptist church of Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y., (sometimes called the State Road church to distinguish it from other churches of the same order in that township) to lay before you the following:

About the year 1828 or 1829, that church having previously practiced receiving members excluded from another church for no other reason than that said members could not fellowship Masonry, and therefore ceased their walk, called a council of the whole Black River Association to confer with them as to this said practice of receiving such members so excluded. This council convened in response to such call, and after a thorough sifting or examination of the whole matter by men eminently qualified to do so, taking up the occasion of their exclusion, viz., their non-fellowship with Masonry, and (for several of those had themselves been Masons, and therefore knew what it was,) in full council decided that they were unjustly excluded, and that the Adams church had done right in receiving them. Of course this decision was received by the church and entered upon its record. But this action of the Adams church, taken before and in the fear and love of God; and, too, by the advice and approval of that great body, the Black River Baptist Association, most of whom have gone home at the bidding of our Father in heaven, has been virtually spit upon and trampled under foot. Masonry has succeeded in causing the record of the said Adams church to be, in the language of one of its present members, R. J. Hill, from whose recent letter to me I quote, "Defaced, blotted out or smutted so that it cannot be read." He writes further: "A motion (by a Mason) to erase or rescind the resolution was carried by a vote of 35 to 32. I think a Mason under labor and five or six minors voting in favor of the motion." Now, though the letter of the resolution may be defaced on the church record, the substance of it cannot be effaced from my mind. Believing it to be the same as the resolution passed by the council above spoken of, the substance of which I well remember, I think I can give the substance of that on the church book. It is as follows, nearly verbatim: "Masonry is a wicked institution, and ought to be renounced and denounced by every professed follower of Christ." This is strong language, just such as a living conscience dictated. The above I write from memory, and though it may fail to give the exact language, it is true in substance.

Well, last fall about the time of the abuse of the record spoken of, which is an insult to the memory of those dear old saints who have gone home to glory, fifty-one of the then present members of the Adams church signed the following protest: "We, the undersigned members of the State Road Baptist church of Adams, firmly believing that Freemasonry is contrary to the spirit of the Gospel of Christ, do hereby express our disapprobation of the same and we cannot walk with a church that fellowships what we regard as iniquity." Here follow some of the names of the signers. I would give them all, as all wish to give testimony against the horrible iniquity of Freemasonry, but I fear it would crowd your columns too much. I will give a few of those whom I used to know as old members, with one or two others: Dea. Wm. Harris, Lyman Heath, R. J. Hill, A. Carley, N. Woodard, J. C. Woodard, N. Knight, Dea. Glazier, C. B. and Benj. Hunt and E. G. Blount.

I am glad these old saints still live to give testimony against so heinous a sin as Freemasonry. May the Lord spare them yet many years to cry aloud and spare not in testifying against wrong. Amen.

A. D. Freeman.

Say not, they can still do their duty in their calling, if they do belong to the lodge. Shall the minister of the law regard his civil oath more binding or less binding than his Masonic oath? Or can the preacher be trusted who swears one thing and preaches the opposite? These are questions which some day will have to be answered. There are those in the churches, who will want to know, whether a minister can discipline a Master Mason, if he is a member of his congregation, according to Matthew 18, and at the same time conceal the secrets intrusted to him. And there are those in the State who will want to know, whether a judge of the court, or a juryman, or a justice of the peace, or a constable, if he is a Master Mason, can faithfully discharge the duties of his office and at the same time also discharge faithfully to a Master Mason his obligations according to the Masonic oath.—Lutheran Standard.

Our Foreign Letter.

Brighton, the Fashionable British Watering-place—Observations on the People to be Met There—The Dreaded Channel Passage—The "Pleasant Land of France"—Views by Rail—Rouen and its Cathedral.

The city of Brighton, some twenty miles to the south of London and on one of the popular routes between that city and Paris, is prettily located on the Channel coast. Formerly it was long considered the queen of British seaside resorts. Even now many of its inhabitants are quite unwilling to acknowledge it to be second in attraction to Scarborough as a coast watering place. Multitudes constantly flock hither, and during the months of September and October its population is frequently swelled by visitors from 80,000 to 100,000. The city is best seen from the sea. Many of its hotels and buildings, particularly those fronting the Channel, are lofty and of imposing appearance. The Royal Pavilion, intended for concerts and popular amusements generally, is a fine structure, somewhat oriental in its style of architecture. The piers extending far out into the water is a noticeable feature of the place, while the "Brighton Aquarium" is justly celebrated for its many interesting specimens of ocean life. Perhaps chief among the attractions of the place, is its magnificent promenade which, extending several miles along the shore and being rather elevated, commands a very extensive view of the Channel and its shipping. Here the lover of ocean air, and the seeker after health, as well as the wearied and over-worked may usually enjoy the balmiest of sea breezes. So delightfully adapted is it for pleasure-walking that it could hardly have failed becoming a place of loved resort, even if fashion had not graciously condescended to make it popular. As it is, however, during certain portions of the day, it is doubly thronged with all classes of pedestrians; as is the drive parallel to it with carriages and the finer turnouts of the nobility and the wealthy.

The opportunities for noticing the various classes of people who gather here, and observing their customs and conversation are by no means meagre. Noticeably wanting are the careworn faces of nervous, dyspeptic, worn-out business and professional men so frequently seen at like ocean resorts in the United States. Present, on the other hand, is the young or middle-aged gentleman of birth and leisure and likely of inherited wealth, whose countenance hints at a fondness for wine and strong drink, cultivated and enhanced by a familiarity with them not at all unfrequent. His physique, a stranger to labor, owes its rounded development to several causes,—to the climate, to liquor, the chase and occasional athletic exercise. You listen, and his conversation is most eloquent and enthusiastic when descanting upon the respective table merits of particular fowl and game. Famous, according to his own testimony, for hunting, clever in the management of horses, and extensive his knowledge of hounds, he certainly is a subject curiously interesting briefly to contemplate. Prominent, of course, is the cockney swell, with his inevitable cane, irresistible eye-glasses and "killing attire,"—quite the equal of the American dandy in silly pretension, affected mannerism and vacant minds. Others also are here, farther along in years, who wear a disconsolate look, and a vacant, unsatisfied air. Apparently they are men destitute of healthy stimulus to active exertion. Aimless and purposeless, they seem to be simply wilting and withering, from the life-long want of some ennobling occupation. But the stranger will note still others here, who are among the most magnificent looking of men. Large in body and brain and of kindly countenance, they appear to be capable only of great things and accustomed to effort.

At New Haven, six miles from Brighton, boat is taken for Dieppe, France, six to ten hours distant. Going aboard late at night I am unable to report any attractive views, nor did the storm which lasted until morning tend at all to augment the pleasantness of the passage. Perhaps a more common route is that by Dover and Calais, where the rough but narrow straits require not more than two hours of travel. But little matter is it whether the traveler go by New Haven or Dover; in either case he is quite certain to repent his not having taken the other route.

About nine in the morning the pleasant cry of "Sunny France," caused many others of the passengers to venture on deck. The day had brightened; the white chalk cliffs of Dieppe and the city in the valley shone in the bright sunlight. It was almost instinct to look for that land also, which is not "sunny." To the east it was clear, to the west clear; but behind us in the distance an immense island mass of confused vapor and blackness hung low over the waters, and in and beneath it, although invisible to us, lay England; and there, too, lost, and together feeling their way through her fogs, were night and tempest, our unwelcome companions of the brief but tumultuous voyage.

Immediately on landing, everything—city, buildings and people were all alike strange and novel to us. French was at a premium and English below par. A slight detention by railroad officials and we boarded the cars and were on our way to the Mediterranean, stopping briefly at various cities along the route. The road, at first, ran through a delightful portion of lower Normandy. At every mile a quaintly dressed peasant woman, with neat white cap, stood by the track holding a red flag in her hand.

We passed numerous peasant cottages, many of whose thatched roofs were well overgrown with moss. In all the villages were ever prominent, high roofs, on low walls, in other words, buildings with exceedingly low eaves and well elevated ridge-poles. At the station and on the train every body was talkative, and again we were conscious of being in France. We realized, too, that we were on the continent, and the ground somehow seemed firmer to us. We took not a little satisfaction in the thought that if we would, we could travel in one direction even for days without again reaching the sea. The train ran on through a charming country. We had exchanged garden-like England, with its eternal verdure, for the hills and valleys of Normandy; and while the scenery of the latter may lack in some degree the intense beauty of the former it certainly has an air of extreme pleasantness about it and can rightly claim the virtue of variety.

I stopped off at Rouen, to see the world-famous church of St. Oven, and found it indeed a structure of exquisite loveliness. I venture to say that, the Milan cathedral excepted, few if any of the cathedrals of Europe will impart to the visitor so pleasing and lasting an impression as does this marvelously beautiful specimen of Gothic art. Rouen is in no way a mean city. Numbering upwards of one hundred and two thousand inhabitants, attractively situated on the Seine and backed by green hills, it contains numerous cotton factories and is rich in many and good specimens of Medieval architecture. In the Place de la Pucelle, in the center of the city, a statue of Joan of Arc, placed over a fountain marks the spot where she was burned at the stake in 1431 Soon after leaving Rouen the scenery becomes less picturesque and inviting, and continued (at this time of the year at least) tame and uninteresting until we began to skirt the coast of the great sea.

B. T. PETTENGILL.

Subscribe for the Cynosure.

Reform News.

The Iowa State Convention.

The Anti-secret Christian Association of the State of Iowa convened for their fourth regular meeting in the U. P. Church, Oskaloosa, Iowa, April 24, 1877, at 7 1-2 P. M. One half hour was spent in devotional exercises. Rev. J. W. Bain of Chicago, was then introduced, who delivered an excellent address against the lodge on the subject of the "Religion of Masonry."

The Association continued its sessions over the two following days. There were seventy delegates present. Ten religious bodies were represented in the Association. Of the seventy members of the Association present, twenty-eight were ministers. The afternoon of the second day, Pres. E. B. Kephart of Western College, addressed the Association in an able manner, subject: "The effect of Masonry on its Disciples." Pres. Woody of Penn College, being called upon, from personal experience endorsed the remarks of Pres. Kephart.

Wednesday evening the Association convened in the Simpson M. E. church, where, according to the programme, Rev. J. W. Bain delivered a temperance lecture. The lecture was replete with sparkling thought and seemed to come from a man fired with zeal for the truth.

The afternoon of the third day, Rev. E. I. Grinnell of Nashua, Iowa, addressed the Association in the Friends Church. The Association voted that the address be published in the Christian Cynosure. The last evening Rev. H. H. Hinman of Wheaton, Illinois, gave the Association an able and stirring address, showing the hypocritical pretensions of Masonry.

The meetings of the Association were characterized by a good degree of spirituality.

Arrangements were made to raise a permanent fund to be used in advancing the interests of the anti-secret cause. Reports from various local associations showed that the cause of truth is advancing in our State. The lodge power is being broken by the power of reforming truth.

The following is the report of the committee on resolutions, which was adopted by the Association:

WHEREAS, Our Lord Jesus Christ has said that "men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil, and that he that doeth evil hateth the light neither cometh to the light lest his deeds should be reproved;" therefore,

Resolved, 1. That all organized secret associations are wholly unwarranted by the Word of God, are the source of inevitable jealousies and strife, and are always presumptively evil.

2. That the family, the church and state, are the Divinely appointed institutions for the promotion of human well-being, and whatever in anywise interferes with, or is proposed as a substitute for them, is a reflection on the wisdom of God, and is destructive to the best interests of humanity.

3. That the Church of Christ ought to clearly indicate its abiding confidence in Gospel methods, and ought to give no countenance to merely human plans for the promotion of Divine work, nor to be unequally yoked together with unbelievers in such work.

4. That the obligations and ceremonies of Freemasonry are abhorrent to the moral sense of Christians, its pretended benevolence a sham, its religion anti-Christian, and its sworn partiality a standing menace to civil government; and for these and other reasons, we call on all professed Christians who have been lured into the secret orders to renounce the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the Word of God deceitfully, but by the manifestation of the truth commending themselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

5. That as Christian citizens we are bound by our allegiance to Christ to vote as we pray, and hence we cannot support for any civil office those who have sworn allegiance to another government.

6. That we hereby express our hearty sympathy as a Christian Convention with the temperance reform movement of our State and Nation; and that we believe the giant evil and curse of intemperance can only be overthrown by the power of the gospel of the Son of God, which is emphatically the gospel of temperance, and therefore we express our entire disapprobation of temperance clubs, or lodges, not open and free to all, and not clearly based on the principles of the Scriptures of Divine truth.

The Association elected the following officers: President, Rev. M. S. Drury; Vice President, Rev. R. A. McAyeal; Recording Secretary, Rev. E. I. Grinnell; Corresponding Secretary, Rev. M. R. Drury; Treasurer, John Dorcas; Executive Com., Moses Varney and Rev. W. S. May.

The following persons were elected delegates to the next anniversary of the National Christian Association: George Brokaw, Rev. E. I. Grinnell, Rev. James Hankins, John Dorcas and Rev. M. S. Drury.

The next regular meeting of the Association was voted to be held in Washington, Washington Co., Iowa. Time, the second Tuesday in December, 1877, at 7 P. M., continuing over the two following days.

E. I. GRINNELL, Rec. Sec'y.

Lectures and Labors in Indiana.

LEESVILLE, Lawrence Co., Ind., May 4, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE: The more I study Freemasonry with all its abominations, monstrous lies, blasphemous titles and oaths, the more I am disgusted with it. Freemasonry is a power in the land. This being so, as people are seeking for information on all other subjects, they certainly should inform themselves upon the character and claims of Freemasonry and kindred organizations. The people greatly need light on this subject and every means should be put forth to disseminate that which is so much needed. Whenever the people become thoroughly informed in reference to the workings of Masonry, the power of the lodge will be at an end. O for more holy men, imbued with the spirit of Christ, to "cry aloud and spare not" against the powers of darkness!

Within the past few weeks I have given five lectures on Masonry. On the evenings of April 4th and 5th I spoke at Freetown, Jackson county. These were very interesting meetings—the first meetings of the kind ever held in the county. We had good audiences, and the people seemed very much interested with the exception of one or two Masons who made themselves very obnoxious by making light remarks while I was speaking. One of these is one of the leading men of the M. E. church in Freetown. I don't think he will ever be guilty of the like again, for the people were thoroughly disgusted with him that night. He had the frankness, however, to tell me the next morning that he did think he had more sense than he really had. O, how I do pity the poor Masons! It seems that every thing they throw in our way "goes back" on them.

On the evening of the 13th of April I lectured at a school house six miles southeast of Bedford, the county-seat of Lawrence county. This meeting was very successful. I spoke three hours and I never saw better order on any occasion. But two Masons were present, one the Worshipful Master of Cedar Lodge, No. 161, Leesville, the other Senior Deacon of the same lodge. We have quite a number of Anti-masons in this vicinity.

I spoke at Heltonville on the evenings of the 1st and 2d of May. The trustees of the Baptist church were very kind in letting us have the use of their large and commodious house for which they have our sincere thanks. They have a Masonic lodge at this place, but the Masons made it a point to make themselves scarce at these meetings. On the second evening the audience was quite large, but near the close of my remarks we were very much disturbed by persons making a noise outside and by a few inside, I trust the lectures will accomplish some good at least.

Notwithstanding the opposition to this Anti-masonic movement is strong I feel that the Lord is on our side. I can stand it to be called a liar for the sake of the truth. I feel that the truth must prevail.

I think that Anti-masonic lecturers should make it a point to dwell particularly upon the oaths of Masonry, by showing why they are not binding, and why men should break them. Most persons think it very sinful after taking such oaths to violate them. I think the people need light especially on this point.

Providence permitting I will speak at Pleasantville next Friday evening. This promises to be an interesting meeting. May the good Lord give success. Yours for the conflict.

J. T. HOBSON.

Correspondence

Revivals Thwarted.

Silver Lake, Kosciusko County, Ind.

Dear K.: Will you allow me to ask a few questions? But before the questions are asked, it will be necessary to give you a brief history of the past few years. Some seven years ago Rev. E. Hoover was on this work and he preached Christ and him crucified. At the same time a Mason was after me to join the lodge. But they being such a benevolent society, would not receive the name without the usual fees, which for a time saved me. The first good chance I had I consulted our preacher, E. Hoover. He, after some talk, gave me three tracts and two fortnightly Cynosures, and the next round gave me Elder Bernard's "Light on Masonry," which was carefully read to the 270th page. Here, "you must shake off the yoke of infant prejudice," etc., I could not do, as my parents taught me that if we are saved at all, it will be through the blood and atoning merits of Christ our Saviour, and this I still believed; neither could I believe that the Christian religion "is adored by the idiot and vulgar," but do believe it is the most wise choice any one can make to embrace Christ and be his servant. The next preacher sustained these truths, while the next five preachers, and the three presiding elders virtually teach that some other way is equally good.

To illustrate: Two years ago this winter a protracted meeting was held at our place (Fairview church), and there were some Freemasons, Odd-fellows and grangers as candidates for membership. But the constitution of the church (U. B.) says, "There shall be no connection whatever with secret societies," and the anti-secrecy clause added that the preacher could not receive them. But a Freemason preacher came and defied the armies of the God of Israel, and said, "I care not for man-made rule; I care not for any man's preconceived opinion; I care not for your restrictive clause." And then as a confession of his guilt, for throwing away the legislative, the judiciary and the executive power of the church, numbering at that time about one hundred and thirty-five thousand members, said, "Put me out if you dare!" And he received the above members, and by his actions reared an altar for the worship of Baal, and superior to the altar erected to the worship of the living and true God. How can God work in a place like this?

One year ago this winter there was a protracted meeting, which continued twenty-one days. During all the meeting the preacher faithfully warned the people against all sin, except idolatry, viz., secret societies, which was not once named. This winter on the 26 h of February, a protracted meeting commenced and lasted till March 30th, thirty-three days. The ministers preached and exhorted and the church labored and prayed, but Jesus made no mistake when he said "Without me ye can do nothing." Please remember the altar erected two years ago to Baal was not removed; and nowhere in Bible history do we find God blessing the people while they were worshiping at the altar of Baal. Ezekiel 33d chapter and 6th verse, says, "But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet and the people be not warned; if the sword come and take any person from among them he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand." And does not Isaiah speak of the same watchman in the 58th chapter 1st verse when he says, "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet"? And in the 56th chapter 10th and 11th verses he says, "His watchmen are blind: they are all ignorant, they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark; sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber. Yea, they are greedy dogs which can never have enough, and they are shepherds that cannot understand: they all look to their own way, every one for his gain from his quarter?" Does Ezekiel see these same shepherds in the 34th chapter 6th and 7th verses when he says, "My sheep wandered through all the mountains and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them?" Does John see these same watchmen that Isaiah sees, when he says in Rev. 22: 15, "For without are dogs"? Will these leaders of the flock truly find themselves outside? Yours for light.

Benj. Ulsh.

Can a Mason be a Christian?

In answer to the caption we reply, yes, provided Freemasonry is not antagonistic to the doctrines of Jesus Christ. Not taking time to argue this question now, let me mention the answer given to me by a Royal Arch Mason, who has "come out from among them" a few days since, and who is a member of the same conference with myself. After he had said that "many Masons deny the exposures of Morgan, Bernard, Finney and others, but they are liars and do not tell the truth;" I asked him, "Do you think a Mason can be a Christian?" He replied emphatically, "He cannot." He also said that in the lodge "the most corrupting and foul-mouthed stories imaginable were related, preachers participating in the abomination." He said, "Bro. Post, I am more and more persuaded that you are right in your position against Freemasonry." Just at the close of last conference, when the craft set their heel upon me again for the tenth time only to expose more demonstrably its corruptness, he said, 'Stand your ground, my brother. I am with you and shall fight it out on this line." May God give him courage. He has a terrible foe to contend against. "Fear not them that kill the body;" fear God. What difference is there between determination to ruin a man's reputation and character and steel-stabbing in the heart? Let our enemies answer. Woodruff Post.

Rochester, N. Y.

A Boy Mason.—(Fact.)

A little boy named Willie, aged five years, a son of one of my neighbors, recently attended a Masonic funeral for the first time, and was much interested at the display he witnessed. A few evenings afterwards his mother's attention was attracted by the sound of a regular tread up and down the room. Upon looking round discovered Willie with clothing loosened in front enough to display his little shirt in form of an apron, and marching. The mother exclaimed in astonishment, "Why Willie! What are you doing?" "Why, ma, I'm a Mason, and I'm showing sister how they did at the funeral." Calling him to her she told him that the Masons did not do that way, they had white aprons. But he asserted stoutly, "No they didn't, ma, you wasn't there; they went just this way."

W.

Secret Society Men at a Discount.

The following appears in the Cincinnati Enquirer of April 1:

Molders Wanted—Thirty good non-union stove-plate molders; steady work. Lithgow Manufacturing Company, Louisville, Ky.

This is a step in the right direction. The curse of secretism is breaking its own back in business circles. Let the people arouse in their might and drive this secretism from the pulpit, bench and politics, and then a reassuring sense of security in all the affairs of life, spiritual and temporal, will seize upon the American people, and order come out of darkness, chaos and confusion.

J. H. H. W.

Testimony that Overcomes.

[The following was received in the Fall but was mislaid and not found until a few days since. The writer and our readers will please accept this apology for its non-appearance.]

Howard, Knox Co., Ohio.

H. L. Kellogg—Dear Bro. I joined the Masons in November, 1860, took the three lodge degrees in Friendship Lodge, No. 16, Clarksville, Texas; and took the four Chapter degrees in Clinton Chapter at Mt. Vernon, O., during the year 1871. I have written ten articles or chapters of my experience in the craft, which were published in the Christian Pilgrim, beginning in the December number of 1874, and ending in September of 1875, under the heading "Twelve Years' Experience in the Masonic Craft; by a Royal Arch Mason." I have visited many lodges, have been nearly all over the United States, in Canada, Mexico and Central America. I have found the practical workings of the craft to be anti-Christian, hypocritical, blasphemous, universally, "totally and thoroughly bad,"—one of the respectable abominations that now curse the world. It was once my idol, but when the light of God's eternal truth shone on my soul I saw the terrible delusion and dropped it as I would a viper about to fasten upon my vitals. All glory to God! Amen and amen!

Respectfully and Fraternally,

B. F. Shipley,

P. S.—I seceded about four years ago.

Our Mail.

Emory Sprague, Hill House, Ohio, writes:

"Real religion in a word is love, love in all the acts of life, love in all its fruits or phases, such as joy, peace, goodness, gentleness, meekness, kindness, friendship, simplicity, candor and every other excellence that can be known or mentioned, all of which the Holy Spirit writes in every truly converted heart, and happy are we if we be led thereby, but beware of empty forms which hinder the work of the Spirit."

Warren Parker, Cornton, Vt., writes:

"Freemasonry seeks to bind a young man by horrid oaths to stand by and conform to all its regulations, whether he likes them or not. Anti masonry seeks to have him remain a free man, to be governed by nothing but the laws of his country and his God. Now is not Antimasonry right? Is not Freemasonry wickedly wrong?"

Asenath Baker, Keeler, Mich., writes:

"I remember well when Morgan was murdered. The excitement was very great. I was twenty-five the February before. * * These great revivals which are passing all around are of much benefit to our country, and if I live to see an impression made on secretism, I can say with Simeon of old, 'Now let thy servant depart in peace.'"

Rev. B. Williams, Warren, Ill., sends us a brief sketch of a conversation which he had on the cars, as follows:

"On my way to Rock Island county, last December, I scattered tracts, papers and books on the cars, which soon aroused the nest of secrecy, and it appeared more like a maddened nest of hornets than anything else.

'Masonry can't be known outside of the lodge.'

'No, but Morgan revealed it and they killed him for it.'

'Oh that is got up to make money. There was no such man.'

'Yes, I lived there at the time they took him off, and I know some of the Masons that helped do it, and saw the bereaved wife and two little orphans.'

'If they killed him they served him right and you may be put out of the way before you are aware.'

'I am not afraid of you. I am seventy-three years old, and you can't steal the march on me much.'

Several young men who had a favorable opinion before this, told me as I left the cars, they had had enough of Masonry."

He adds:

"I have been from home three months this winter and to the praise and glory of God's grace, I have enjoyed much of the spirit of prayer, praise and labor for the salvation of souls. It has been a precious season. To many in these parts it is the beginning of better days. I am surprised to find so much decided opposition to secretism, although quietly at work. In many places the craft is unpopular. I know perhaps a dozen who have left the lodge this winter, never to return. Several told me that it was no place for a Christian. Here in Warren the lodge are doing all they can to silence all opposition. The white gloved gentry inside and outside the church worked hard and long to get a certain Masonic chaplain for pastor of the M. E. church, and succeeded to the sorrow and grief of many of its members. They have thus run both institutions under one head, and they have had a lively time. Thus: Convocation of Olive Chapter, No. 167 in Masonic Hall, Warren, Monday evening. Service at M E. church, prayer meeting, Thursday evening. Regular communication Jo Davis Lodge, No. 274, Masonic Hall, Warren, Saturday evening, and so on."

Thomas Gilmer, Rix Mills, O., writes:

"The cause of true reform progresses but slowly. Some have to bear the burden and heat of the day for a long time, digging and breaking off the clods, and casting in the precious seed ere their hearts are gladdened by witnessing a rich harvest of golden sheaves gathered into the garner of the Lord. But let us not be discouraged, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

"The Freemasons, (what a misnomer), have a lodge in our township, but I rejoice to say that they do not appear to make much headway. I have not heard of a single initiation into their order for two or three years. An illustration of the way that discussing the principles and aims of Freemasonry helps to extend its influence and increase its membership. By what right do they lay claim to the prefix "free?" To their system of darkness, of wickedness and intolerable bondage? A system which requires its devotees ere they can be entrusted with any of its precious secrets, to divest themselves utterly of every principle of manhood, and submit to a degrading exhibition of themselves, that the members of the lodge may be satisfied that they are what they claim to be, men; and thenceforward to wear a padlock on their mouths during the whole journey of life, like some great brute of a dog, muzzled to prevent it from biting and injuring any one. Verily, instead of being free the Master Mason is the most abject slave of the most intolerable system of bondage the sun ever shone upon. For as the poet well says:

"He is a freeman whom the truth makes free,
And all are slaves besides.'"

Paulina Olivia Osgood, Lostant, Ill., writes:

I am convinced that secret societies are a very great evil in our world, and I want all of God's ministers to join in crying aloud against this sin which has crept into our churches, and if it were possible would deceive even the elect. I was born in October, 1800. I will relate an incident which is fresh in my memory. Living in New York city at the time of Morgan's abduction, and a member of the Oliver street Baptist church, I was at a meeting where the subject was brought up and the question was put before the church, (as it was expected some would apply for admission to the church,) 'Would it be right to fellowship an adhering Mason?' Our pastor and deacon had left the lodge and they knew much about the craft. They talked some time about it, after which they took an expression of the church, which amounted to this: We will have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness but rather reprove them."

James Auten, Galion, O, writes:

"It seems to me that this generation is the most heedless and silly of all generations I ever have seen or heard of in all my time. It seems to me that the men of this generation are disposed to believe nine lies in preference to one truth. Is it possible that God has given up this nation to believe a lie that they may be damned? Wo be to the watchmen that cry peace, peace, when there is no peace. 'My watchmen have become dumb dogs, and dare not bark and my people delight to have it so.'"

J. B. Slight, Berrien Springs, Michigan, writes:

"Forty years ago I embraced Christ as my Saviour and his religion as my all-sufficient portion, by which I learned to hate the works of darkness in the form of organized secrecy, and for thirty years have been praying and preaching against it. My prayer is that the good work may go on. I would be glad to encourage every brother to hold on by faith and never become despondent. The Lord reigns, let us rejoice and be glad."

R. L. Fisher, Westfield, Ind., writes:

"Westfield and Hamilton county, at this time are perfectly quiet as regards our reform movement. Not quite as much stir as I would like to see; a little more I think would indicate a healthier condition. I hope we can invite Brother Ronayne soon to visit our county, and through his labors hope to have a great shaking of the 'dry bones,' and upheaval of the corruption that not only pollutes but drowns thousands."

John Finney, Mansfield, O, writes:

"A few of us voted for Walker and Kirkpatrick, and remarked that the anti-slavery cause was begun by a very few men at first and they increased as we expect the American party to increase. The good temperance men and anti-slavery men should all join the American party. Let me urge all those who take the Cynosure to pay a friendly visit to scores of their neighbors with tracts and Cynosures in their pockets, and leave them with reading people, praying that Almighty God would add his blessing."

Philip Kribs, Lamartine, Pa., writes:

"I have been an Anti-mason since the death of Captain Wm. Morgan, in 1826, and for a long time after had nothing to contend against, but during the last eight or ten years secret orders have sprung up as mushrooms in one night as it were, but since Edmond Ronayne was here it seems as though the light of the sun withered them. May God bless, guide and protect Brother Ronayne wherever he goes, as I firmly believe him to be sent as a reformer from God."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXI.—MAY 27, 1877.—THE DEATH OF ELISHA.

SCRIPTURE.—2 K. 13: 14-21. Commit 14, 20, 21. Primary verse, 21.

14. Now Elisha was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he died. And Joash, the king of Israel, came down unto him, and wept over his face, and said, O my father, my father! the chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof.

15. And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16. And he said to the king of Israel, Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Elisha put his hands upon the king's hands.

17. And he said, Open the window eastward. And he opened it. Then Elisha said, Shoot. And he shot. And he said, The arrow of the Lord's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou shalt smite the Syrians in Aphek, till thou have consumed them.

18. And he said, Take the arrows. And he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, Smite upon the ground. And he smote thrice, and stayed.

19. And the man of God was wroth with him, and said, Thou shouldest have smitten five or six times; then hadst thou smitten Syria till thou hadst consumed it: whereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice.

20. And Elisha died, and they buried him. And the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year.

21. And it came to pass, as they were burying a man, that, behold, they spied a band of men; and they cast the man into the sepulcher of Elisha: and when the man was let down, and touched the bones of Elisha, he revived, and stood up on his feet.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"He being dead yet speaketh."—Heb. 11: 4.

TOPIC.—"O grave, where is thy victory."—1 Cor. 15: 55

HOME READINGS.

M. Gen. 50: 14-26 ...The Death of Joseph.
T. Dent. 34: 1-12....The Death of Moses.
W. Josh. 24: 14-31....The Death of Joshua.
Th. Judg. 16: 23-30....The Death of Samson.
F. Acts 7: 51-60....The Death of Stephen.
S. Luke 23: 33-56....The Death of Christ.
S. 1 Cor. 15: 35-58... The Death of the Saints.

—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

THE MIRACLE AT THE GRAVE.—The Moabites were the descendants of the son of Lot's eldest daughter. Gen. 19: 37. And they lived far to the southeast of Israel, on the eastern borders of the Dead Sea. The "bands" are guerilla bands like those of lesson 3, ch. v. 2. Their invasion was so sudden as to interrupt a burial service. The bearers were passing the tomb of Elisha when their coming was noticed. And hence into it they hastily bore the corpse. And when the man was let down—better "approached and touched," etc. The tombs of the Jews were more like our vaults than our graves. Their corpses were shrouded, but not coffined. When, then, in laying it away in the vault the corpse was brought into contact with the bones of Elisha the miracle occurred. This was at "the coming in of the year"—that is at Nisan, the first month of the sacred year, our April. This was the favorite time for invasions. 2 Sam. xi. 1. Then forage was abundant. Such was the miracle—the only one of the kind recorded in the Scriptures canonical or apocryphal—but what was its significance? The answers are diverse; and so they will continue to be, for the Scriptures give no explanation. With diffidence I submit the following: For half a century Elisha has been the defender of Israel. Now he is gone. As yet no one has risen to succeed him. Jonah is next in order, but his appearance is a little later. See preceding lesson. And yet the nation is very weak. Deliverance from Syria has been promised; but here is an invasion by Moab. At this juncture occurs this miracle. Even the bones of Elisha are made a channel for the communication of divine power. His personal presence, then, is not essential to the reception of divine deliverance. And now his counsels remain as well as his bones. And if through these there is wrought for an individual a blessing as great as any effected by himself during his life, then surely through those there may be secured for the nation a blessing correspondingly great. Let Israel, then, yield to Elisha's counsels, and thus bring herself into union with his God, and then, like the corpse brought into contact with his dust, she will be delivered from her weakness, and enabled to go forth in the power of a vigorous life. But let the explanation be what it may, the miracle was evidently never repeated. No power adhered in his bones, for, under Julian, they were taken from their tomb and burned.—Evangelical Repository.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicongrapher, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.
By JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry.

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth, $2.50.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustraited and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;
or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by Rob. Morris. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 18 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF
EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15
of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.
By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

438 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 50 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75.
Single Copy.....25 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BRODRMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ——." Paper Covers 50 centseach.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... ... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $4.0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1877.

Congregationalists and Secret Societies.

Denominations, like every thing else, retain a tinge from the complexion of their origin; and Congregationalism was, originally, a protest against priestly power, titles and vestments. Its history and genius are both in simple antagonism to secret, centralized organizations of all kinds, monarchy included. Strangled and ejected from England where its ears were cropped off and the stumps dug out, in its disciple and advocate, Pym in 1628; and its very corpses dug up, hung and beheaded in Cromwell, Ireton, and Bradshaw (1660) by court bishops, who dared not touch a hair of their heads when living, which they cut off when dead; while four hundred nonresistant Congregational Quakers lay in the prisons of London and one thousand in the county jails, by the same procuring,—driven from England by such means it lit among the mountains and morasses of republican Switzerland and Holland till it came to America and planted a republic of its own.

While a religion is weak and unpopular the devil, who failed to suppress its beginnings, often lets it alone till it begins to be a power, when he gives it his profound attention. It was so with the Congregationalists who had a breathing spell of one hundred and thirteen years in New England forests before the Masonic dragon followed to its wilderness retreat. Presbyterians, United Brethren and other centralized bodies can afford each other some valuable protection from his maw. Episcopacy and its child, Episcopal Methodism, have simply yielded at the monster's discretion; while Quakers, Congregationalists and Baptists are by turns the prey and the terror of the lodge. They have been its prey. They are soon to become its terror. These independent or congregationalizing bodies are easily swallowed up, one by one, but they are forts much harder kept than taken. The Congregationalists proper are showing symptoms of this. Loathed by the early New England clergy, denounced and ridiculed by the great lawyer Dexter, and declared to be of the "kingdom of Satan" by Samuel Hopkins, this foul, anti-Christian dragon wound its secret slimy way into the New England churches until a Masonic chaplain was made sole permanent officer of the National Congregational Council formed at Oberlin six years ago, and this year the council is to meet October 17th next in a church at Detroit, whose pastor, without the poor excuse of curiosity, joined the lodge while pastor of Hon. Seth M. Gates, in Warsaw, New York. Of course he had nothing to do but ask Mr. Gates what Masonry was, and he could have learned without the profanation of his person and blasphemy of his God by initiation. This same Freemason, Dr. Zachary Eddy, is selected by chaplain Quint and the other managers to preach the annual sermon.

DR. LEONARD BACON,

who has gone in loving companionship with Quint in getting up this National Council, has just now come out in the Advance, May 10th, with a striking article against the lodge. This is a sign of the times. Whether (his piety increasing with years) Dr. Bacon has concluded to bear some cross, and incur some Masonic odium by denouncing the lodge; whether the bold testimony of Moody against it, as "a cage of unclean birds" was before his eyes; whether our own stern denunciations of his pet "National Congregational Council," engineered by a Knight Templar and Masons' chaplain; whether any or all of these, for few things escape him, have brought out Dr. Bacon, or whether having nearly lost his leadership by his book on the wrong side of the slavery question, he means to be wiser this time, it is all one and the same, a matter of great joy that he has written the article, which we shall publish with comments next week. Meantime the

ELGIN CONGREGATIONAL ASSOCIATION has just closed its sessions at Dundee, Ill., where the Registrar, after consultation and by request, gave notice of the following TESTIMONY to be put in the Association's manual the second Tuesday of October next, just previous to the Detroit Council:

TESTIMONY.

"In the judgment of this Association the duty of Christians and Christian organizations is entire 'SEPARATION' from the secret orders in this country."

Surely the world moves and we move with it.

Sabbath Keeping.

The Sabbath Recorder replies to our good-natured article somewhat tartly, thus:

"Let the Cynosure and all others wash themselves clean of Sabbath violation before they reprove others of sin in this matter. Whatever the purpose of the Cynosure, it certainly never kept the Sabbath in its life."

If by "Cynosure" in the above sharp extract, the Recorder means the Senior Editor thereof, he shall be put down by an "o'er true tale" never before published, which is as follows:

In his youthful zeal, this senior editor left Harrisburg, Pa., to cross the Alleghany Mountains for the first time, to share in a debate against slavery in Washington, Washington county, to which he had been invited by Dr. Lemoyne of that city. Railroads were not. The stage upset; and three days and nights were consumed, and Sunday morning found us thirty miles short of Pittsburgh, and fifty-five away from Washington. The debate was to open Monday, next day; and the stages were running so full that stopping over Sunday might detain us a week before we could get a seat in another stage. Nevertheless we got down at a little country inn, and, as we verily thought, kept Sabbath.

Years past on and we shipped self, wife and two babes for St. Louis on our way to Knox College, Ill., in good time to reach St. Louis by Saturday night. But lo! that time found us one hundred and fifty miles below St. Louis, at the little slave-holding village of Cape Girardeau, where we left our good boat to go on to St. Louis; to which point we had paid our fare, and went ashore, and, as we supposed, kept Sabbath, with all our abolition honors in a small, cold, slave-holding tavern. The Mississippi froze over. Not another boat came up till spring, and it cost us one-fifth part of our earthly estate to keep that one Sabbath by refraining from traveling on that day.

"Blushing thick upon us,"

Now the question we submit to our brother of the Recorder, is: Did God accept that Sabbath keeping at our hands, since we acted fully up to our knowledge and belief? If so, though "the Cynosure never kept Sabbath in its life," its editors have kept many, and God has met and blessed us in them, though we rested as Paul did from his journey, "on the first day of the week when the disciples came together to break bread," which "first day" Christ "blessed and sanctified" by meeting with his disciples three successive "first days" after his resurrection from the dead; so that first day became "the Lord's day" ever since! Yea, doubtless, and he would meet with and bless us, if we did the best we could to keep a seventh part of the time for religious rest, though we lived in that zone where days are months between sun and sun.

Another Saint Gone Home.

MRS. ELIZABETH WHITE CONANT, has just died at her home in Framingham, Massachusetts - a reader of the Cynosure, a consistent friend of the reform represented by it, a very superior woman, a child of God and an heir of glory.

Every system of human society controlled and shaped by the Gospel of Christ turns out a class of characters peculiar to itself. And Mrs. Conant was the child of a large New England family, seven sons and three daughters, reared by Mr. Aaron White, of Boyleston, Massachusetts, of the old Puritan line and stamp, which the Word and truth of God had the chief share in moulding and making up. Such people were Covenanters in Scotland, Huguenots in France, and Pilgrims in New England. Mrs. Conant's grandmother became the wife of an old-style Puritan minister, of that sort who filled the jails and stood in stocks and pillories in England, while that nation was getting up from its knees before the superstitions of the papacy, when its Parliament enacted catechisms and its laws were confessions of faith. Mary Avery was a niece of Samuel Adams, and the religion of the American Revolution was bound up in the soul of that one slender girl; and her posterity go back to her memory as a Jew does to that of Abraham. It requires Macauley to describe such people. They were the religious substratum of what lighter and bantering writers call "The Universal Yankee Nation." Even when they ceased to be personally religious their minds, shaped by the truths of the Bible, seem to retain the finger-marks of God and they are superior to other men because they have more of the ideas of God. They hated king-craft and priest-craft because there was no truth in them. Their boys were not idlers and their girls did not dance. They were neither fanatics nor Cavaliers. Their religion had neither raptures nor gew-gaws. And when the Word and Spirit of God entered such minds they became the impersonations of inspired common sense. And, in spite of all mixtures and drawbacks, it is this Bible in the minds of men which to day makes the little island of Great Britain a greater force and factor in the game of nations now going on about Constantinople, than either of the wide and mighty continents there represented.

Mrs. Conant was one of these moral and religious integers who make up the sum of all that is good and great on earth. Intellectual, amiable, loving, large-hearted and large-headed, she was an abolitionist, an Anti-mason, in favor of every just and sound reform; yet she was so little characterized by any or all of these that you only thought of her as a sweet, pure, excellent woman. Her children will rise up and call her blessed.

—The Secretary and Agent started last Friday for Dayton by way of Loraine county and West Geneva, Ohio. He expects to set the wheels of the National gathering in motion directly after conferring with Pres. George and Prof. Wright. Friends desiring lecturers before or after the Convention please write immediately to him at Dayton in care of Prof. Wright of the Religious Telescope.

—State Lecturer Hinman completed a course of lectures last week in the Presbyterian churches of Birmingham, Iowa, to large audiences deeply interested. A vigorous local association will result from these meetings. He has also visited Albia, the county seat of Monroe county, and is this week in Keokuk and vicinity.

—Rev. J. H. Vandever of the Iowa Freeman, has removed from Mason City to Monticello, Jones county, Iowa, where he may be addressed for a few months. The Freeman is still issued from Mason City, Bro. Vandever only removing the editorial work for the present to his new residence.

—A well-attended holiness convention was lately held in the Baptist church of Wheaton, Illinois, conducted by Revs. Smith and Carnahan of the Western Holiness Association. The meetings were of deep and practical interest, strengthening and encouraging many in the different churches who walk by faith in this "highway." Rev. Mr. Coleman, of Bartlett, and Rev. A. Riley, of St. Charles, rendered great assistance in these meetings. Brethren Smith and Riley are reformed Masons. On the last evening the latter was answering questions propounded by the congregation and met this: "Can a man be at the same time a Christian and a Freemason?" Admitting that the question might include others that it would be difficult to answer, he replied that from conviction and experience he believed that no one could be a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ and an intelligent Freemason.

—We are pleased to notice that Bro. Lemley, of the Golden Censer, has again spoken out with great clearness and force on the subject of secret societies, in reply to a correspondent. We hope soon to publish from his editorial. He proposes a thorough discussion of the principles of these orders, and submits the proposition to the vote of his readers. So far as reported they favor the plan about eight to one. It is a sadly significant feature of his responses that many who vote "nay" disclaim membership in any lodge but are controlled apparently in their reasons by a man-fearing and worldly spirit.

—The Grand Army of the Republic in in its annual preparation for decorating the soldiers' graves hereabout, has fallen upon an unpleasant quarrel over the question of serving the few Confederate graves with equal honors with those of Union dead. The matter has brought out more plainly than ever the emptiness and mockery of the ceremony, and justly provoked the following from the Times:

"The petty-souled creatures who are quarrelling about preparations for Decoration day should creep out of public sight. Their gabble is disgusting. The memory of the heroic dead is not helped in their hands. When the annual decoration of soldiers' graves passes into the hands of the bigoted little politicians who now seek to make personal capital from it the custom should cease. It has been degenerating for years. It has become an annual desecration. An end should be put to it."

—The Wesleyan Methodist Seminary at Wasioja seems likely to become the Oberlin of Minnesota. Established and maintained on thorough reform principles, with little of this world's goods or favors, it is standing stoutly for the truth amid calumniations and hostility. The discipline of the school is maintained and the number of its patrons does not diminish in spite of the efforts of the lodges to starve it out. This is the road to future enlargement and influence; may the brethren there have grace to follow it to the end.

—There were two Chicago and Northwestern conductors who used to insult the boys who first scattered tracts in their cars against the lodge. Mr. Newcomb, the last of the two, was buried last week at Geneva Lake, Wisconsin, "with Masonic honors;" that is to say, with mummeries, bowings, and heathen follies about his coffin, like those practiced by popish priests around their altars, or the poor Chairmen in their pagods.

When will this trumpery cease? And when will our railroads cease to be sponged upon, and Congregational churches cease to be drained to furnish the men and makeup of such funerals?

If the ends sought had either reason, sense, or religion, somebody would be gainers, by these mock-solemn, misnamed funerals. But to exhaust machine-shops, editorial sanctums, clerk's desks, and whatever else the lodge has tainted, to throw together a hundred or more strangers about a corpse, wearing aprons and white gloves, is to profane the nature of funerals; make young Americans wonder like heathens, instead of worshiping like Christians; and thus defeat the intentions of death itself as a means of sobering and benefiting men.

The Chicago Christian Association.

The eighth monthly meeting of this association was held in the Reading-room, Carpenter building, Tuesday evening, May 8th, Rev. J. W. Bain the President, presiding.

The meeting was opened with prayer and reading of the Scriptures (Prov. vi. 12–35) by the chairman.

The journal of previous meeting was read and approved. In response to a call for a report, the Treasurer made a statement of his account with the Society. It showed the treasury to be in a depleted condition and sadly in need of replenishing. The question as to the best modes of increasing the association's funds was brought before the meeting and discussed. A Sciopticon exhibition in Carpenter Hall was decided on, and Thursday evening, May 17, the time fixed for said exhibition.

In the course of the meeting Mr. T. Hodge and the Rev. J. W. Bain offered some suggestions in regard to the specific work of the association and how it might be more efficiently furthered. The former urged the necessity of every member of the society conversing with personal acquaintances and others on the subject of Masonry, and in this way endeavor to bring them to a knowledge of its true character. The latter spoke of the importance of testifying against a certain characteristic—the religious feature of the order. He considered this phase of Masonry especially objectionable, and urged the society to combat it continually.

Some other business being disposed of, the meeting adjourned.

Rev. J. W. Bain, Pres.
A. G. Laird, Secy.

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The Publishing House Fund.

April 1, 1877.

	Notes unpaid.	Cash.	Total.
California...	$	$ 20.00	$ 20.00
Connecticut.	.....	110.00	110.00
Illinois.....	3,021 00	1,514.86	4,535 86
Indiana.....	2 200.00	297.50	2,497.50
Iowa.....	745.00	290.80	1,035 80
Kansas.....	5.00	14.00	19.00
Maine.....	....	35.00	35 00
Mass.....	....	85 00	85 00
Michigan....	200 00	339 50	539 50
Minnesota...	....	100.00	100.00
Missouri.....	10.00	6.00	16 00
New York...	165.00	369.00	534 00
N. Hamp....	....	8.00	8 00
Ohio.....	2,510.50	487.15	2,997.65
Oregon.....	....	1.00	1 00
Penn.....	133 00	43 00	176.00
Vermont....	....	2.00	2 00
Wisconsin...	1,415.00	273.65	1,688 65
Canada.....	....	1.00	1.00
Total....	$10,404.50	$3,997.46	$14,409 96

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

Secretaries.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

Treasurer and Recording Sec'y.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Avc., Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Assistant Cor. Sec'y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.

For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.

Others who will lecture when desired:—

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co. O
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

The Home Circle.

THE MAYFLOWER.

Sad Mayflower! watched by winter stars,
And nursed by winter gales,
With petals of the sleeted spars,
And leaves of frozen sails!

What had she in those dreary hours,
Within her ice-rimmed bay,
In common with the wild-wood flowers,
The first sweet smiles of May?

Yet "God be praised!" the Pilgrim said,
Who saw the blossoms peer
Above the brown leaves, dry and dead,
"Behold our Mayflower here!

"God wills it here our rest shall be,
Our years of wandering o'er,
For us the Mayflower of the sea,
Shall spread her sails no more."

O sacred flowers of faith and hope,
As sweetly now as then,
Ye bloom on many a birchen slope,
In many a pine-dark glen.

So live the fathers in their sons,
Their sturdy faith be ours,
And o'er us the love that overruns
Its rocky strength with flowers.

—WHITTIER.

GEORGE WHITFIELD.

This man, who now saunters up to join the assembly, is of a very different type from the gentleman of the court. His brow is knit; at intervals he murmurs some words to himself as if he wished not to forget it; something very like a proof-sheet is peeping out of his pocket. People stare at him, half with curiosity, half with wonder, as though they were surprised to see him here. David Hume has, in truth, not much time to spare from his history, but he cannot deny himself such an intellectual treat as listening to Whitfield. In and out among the well-dressed many there moves a crowd of people who wear neither silk nor velvet. There is the artisan, with his wife and children, who have come out here chiefly for the sake of the fresh, sweet country air; there are the city clerk and his sweetheart doing a little flirting to while away the time; there is the poor needle woman whose pale face has such a wistful look, that we fancy her heart must be beginning dimly to guess that if she could grasp the meaning of the great preacher's words, it might possibly bring into her life even more warmth and coloring than there is in the dresses she stitches for the grand ladies. Suddenly the murmur of voices which has been running through the vast assembly is hushed. The duchesses and countesses incline their heads a quarter of an inch forward; the fans of the actresses cease to flutter; the mass of the people make a little rush all in the same direction. Every eye is fixed on a man who is ascending slowly a green bank near at hand. At first sight there is nothing very remarkable in his appearance. His figure is tall and spare, his dress is homely; when he turns towards the audience we see that he squints, and he has no especial beauty of feature. But the moment he begins to speak his face is forgotten in his voice. How does it thrill with holy passion as he tells of his dear Lord; how does it ring with stern indignation against sin, and yet how does it melt with tenderness over the sinner! It is so clear that it is heard at the further end of the wide assembly; and yet so sweet; music is the only word that can give any idea of its tones. His face, too, and his figure have changed since we last looked at him. Meaning has come into every movement of his hand; each feature answers to the theme that is upon his lips, as does the lake to the lights and shadows in the sky above; his form seems to have grown majestic, and to be like that of the desert preacher, or of him who cried against Nineveh. When he speaks of heaven, we almost believe that he has been there; when he tells us of the Saviour's love and sufferings, it seems to us that he must have walked with Peter and John at his side; when he tells a story by way of illustration, as he often does, the description is so vivid that we listen breathlessly, as though we really saw the scene he paints with our bodily eyes. For two hours the tide of eloquence flows on unceasingly, and still the listening crowds remain enthralled. Different signs of emotion appear among them. The daughters of the people stand with clasped hands, looking up at the preacher as though he were an angel bringing them the good tidings which are the especial birthright of the toil-worn and weary; the actresses sob and faint; the great ladies actually sit upright to listen. The sterner sex, too, are affected in their own way! The hard faces of the mechanics work with unwonted feeling; the brow of Hume grows smooth; even Chesterfield, who hitherto has stood like a statue of one of his own ancestors, so far forgets himself when the preacher, in a lively parable, is describing a blind beggar on the edge of a precipice, as to start forward and murmur, "O save him, save him." No wonder they are thus moved, for the preacher himself sets the example. Sometimes his voice trembles so much in his intense earnestness, that he can hardly go on; sometimes he even weeps. At length the sermon ends in a grand wave of heaven-inspiring prayer; then the crowd disperses, some to spend the night at the gaming table, some to criticise, some to keep the good seed silently in their hearts.—Sunday Magaizne.

HOLINESS AS AN INTENSIFIER.

A holy person is one saved through and through from all sins, its love and controlling influence, being full of life and vigor. Such a soul cannot tolerate indifference. It cannot countenance sloth or recklessness. Purity busies the hands, quickens the pace, and loosens the tongue; has all its grave clothes off and is at work. A sanctified Christian is an earnest worker; not with fingers and thumbs only, but with all the energies at command. He works with his might in season and out of season. It is impossible to become holy in idleness and unconsecration, and equally impossible to retain holiness and be a sluggard. It is to be feared that many who make a profession of this high state of grace lose what is gained by not applying themselves to work. How soon they become rusty and their experience uncertain and the heavenly communion disturbed. Sanctification will make us "meet for the Master's use, and prepared unto every good work." "Strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil." If we use strong meat and do not work, we will become dyspeptic, weak, morose, crusty and ill-humored. When every faculty of soul and body is redeemed. quickened and consecrated it is ready for use in God's service. The harvest is great, the laborers are few. "Not slothful in business. fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." Let every soul enjoying full salvation be intensely in earnest. A holy person is vigorous in his opposition to wrong and sin in all its forms and intent upon helping the cause of Christ onward. We dare not, cannot stand neutral on the question of right and wrong.—Highway of Holiness.

NO ARMOR FOR THE BACK.

Let me advise you to wear no armor for your back when you have determined to follow the track of truth. Receive upon your breastplate of righteousness the sword-cuts of your adversaries; the stern metal shall turn the edges of your foeman's weapon. Let the right be your lord paramount, and for the rest be free and your own master still. Follow truth for her own sake; follow her in evil report; let not many waters quench your love to her. Yield to no established rules if they involve a lie. Do not evil that good should come of it. "Consequences!" this is the devil's argument. Leave consequences to God, but do right. If friends fail thee, do the right. If foemen surround thee, do the right. Be genuine, real, sincere, true, upright, godlike. The world's maxim is Trim your sails and yield to circumstances. But if you would do any good in your generation, you must be made of sterner stuff, and help make your times rather than be made by them. You must not yield to customs, but, like the anvil, endure all blows, until the hammers break themselves. When misrepresented, use no crooked means to clear yourself. Clouds do not last long. If in the course of duty you are tried by the distrust of friends, gird up your loins and say in your heart, I was not driven to virtue by the encouragement of friends, nor will I be repelled from it by their coldness. Finally, be just and fear not; "corruption wins not more than honesty;" truth lives and reigns when falsehood dies and rots.—Spurgeon.

Christian parents should read and seriously ponder the following testimony from one who has suffered. He gives the "beginning of drunkenness" in himself as follows: "Tell me," said a gentleman to a poor drunkard, when urging him to give up the cups, "where it was you took your first steps in this intemperate course." "At my father's table," replied the unhappy man. "Before I left home to become a clerk, I had learned to love the drink that has ruined me. The first drop I ever tasted was handed me by my now broken-hearted mother."

WYCLIFFE'S BIBLE.

In 1380 Wycliffe completed and published what is believed to be the first full English version of the Bible. A modern reader would often stumble over the words which then were in vogue. "Sich" in those days was not limited to rural districts. "Axe" for ask was not a laughable Hibernicism. "Wrastle" was approved. The sisters were called "susteren," and the brethren "bretheren"—a pronunciation sometimes heard even in our day. A talkative man was called "tungy," and "snybbe," which is very much like our word "snub," was used instead of "reprove." From these few specimens it will be seen that some of our modern ignorance and modern slang had a respectable,and even devout, parentage. The following list of words which have become obsolete will be found to be instructive as well as amusing:

Al-bide, to dwell constantly.
Al-brent, wholly burnt.
Al-delicen, to perfectly delight.
Al-ont-dried, extremely dried.
Al-for-slept, fast asleep.
Al-to-powne, to break to pieces.
Al-ple-side, perfectly pleased.
Al-to-trede, to tread down utterly.
Al-to-wrastled, struggled greatly.
For-brent, entirely burnt.
For-cooveride entirely covered.
Thurg-trete, to consider thoroughly.
Thurg-shed, entirely wet, wet through.
To-clippe, to embrace closely.
To-braste, to burst in pieces.
To-drunke,greatly inebriated, literally too drunk.
To-minnyschen, to break in small pieces.
To moved, greatly moved.
To-rotide, become utterly rotten.
To-sprengd, wholly sprinkled
Out-schynynge, resplendent.
Ont-sturbe, utterly disturbed.
Ont-waggeth, greatly agitates.
Out-shameden, thoroughly ashamed.

Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

WHAT AN EX-BARKEEPER KNOWS ABOUT RUM.

At a temperance meeting in Revanna recently, Oliver Cotter, a converted rum-seller, in the course of a speech, said:

"I know all about the whisky business. I sold rum for seven years, and mixed drinks behind five bars; more than that, I've drunk bar'ls of it. I took the pledge any number of times, but finally I gave my heart to Jesus Christ [chorus of amens] and I gave up whisky and theaters and balls and tobacco, for the Lord loves a clean mouth as well as he does a clean heart."

Mr. Cotter described the deceptive process by which high-priced liquors are made, and offered a hundred dollars for a gallon of pure brandy or port wine, which he claimed did not exist. He closed his remarks with the following incident:

"I knew a German who kept a saloon and drank beer. He thought it was doing him good. He was getting fat. And I remember how he would hold up the glass and look at it and say: 'Dot's fine peer.' Well, that fine beer killed him one fine day, and they had a post-mortem examination made to ascertain the exact cause of his death, and the doctors said he died of kidney disease caused by drinking beer. But that is not all. They found about a pound of fatty substance about his heart, and they tried it out to see what it was composed of, and found it was beer juice."

Children's Corner

Acrostic.

Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Ps. li: 10.

O God, be not far from me; O my God, make haste for my help. Ps. lxxi: 12.

Make haste, O God, to deliver me: make haste to help me, O Lord. Ps. lxx: 1.

Man did eat angels' food: he sent them meat to the full. Ps. lxxviii: 25.

A froward heart shall depart from me, I will not know a wicked person. Ps, ci: 4.

Now, therefore, hearken unto me, O ye children; for blessed are they that keep my ways. Prov, viii: 32.

Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice? Prov. viii: 1.

My son, keep my words and lay up my commandments with thee. Prov. vii: 1.

Even a heritage unto Israel his servant, for his mercy endureth forever. Ps. cxxxvi. 22.

Nevertheless he regarded their afflictions when he heard their cry. Ps. cvi: 44.

Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee. Ps. cxix: 11.

Sing unto the Lord; bless his name; show forth his salvation from day to day. Ps. xcvi: 2.

William C. Harrison.

Ames, Story county, Iowa.

A Beautiful Incident.

There is a remarkable history, one which signally illustrates the special providence of God, attached to a beautiful German hymn. About 1650 George Neumarck, a writer of hymns and a musician of Hamburg, fell sick. He had picked up a scanty living by playing on the violoncello in the public streets, a custom not then unusual with poor students. The sickness prevented Neumarck from going his usual rounds. He was soon reduced to such poverty as compelled him to part with his instrument, his only means of support.

He pawned the violoncello to a Jew, who lent him on it a sum much below its value. The loan was to run two weeks, and if the instrument should not be redeemed within that time, it would be forfeited. As Neumarck handed it to the Jew, he looked at it lovingly, and, with tears in his eyes, said:

"You don't know how hard it is to part with it. For ten years it has been my companion. If I had nothing else, I had it, and it spoke to me and sung back to me. Of all sad hearts that have left your door, there has been none so sad as mine. Let me play one more tune upon it."

Gently taking hold of the instrument, he played so exquisitely that even the Jew listened, in spite of himself. A few more strains, and he sung to his own melody, the hymn written by himself:

Life is weary, Saviour, take me.

Suddenly he changed the key, and his face lighted up with a smile, as he sung:

Yet who knows the cross is precious.

Laying down the instrument, he said, "As God will, I am still," rushed from the pawnbroker's shop, and stumbled against a stranger who had been listening at the door.

"Could you tell me," asked the stranger, "where I could obtain a copy of that song? I would willingly give a florin for it."

"My good friend," replied Neumarck, "I will give it to you without the florin."

The stranger was the valet of the Swedish Ambassador, and to him the singer told his sad story. He told his master, who, becoming interested in Neumarck, appointed him his private secretary. With his first money he redeemed his instrument, and calling in his landlady and friends, sung his own sweet hymn, of which this is a part:

To let God rule who's but contented,
And humbly in him hopeth still,
Shall marvelously be prevented
From every sorrow, every ill.
Who leaneth on God's mighty hand,
He hath not built his house on sand.

For what is all our heavy yearning,
And wherefore make we such ado?
What prospers it that every morning
We o'er our sorrows wail anew?
Wherennto works our clamor vain
But to increase our grief and pain?

Then must we for a time content us,
And for a little while be still;
Await what through God's grace is sent us,
What worketh his omniscient will.
God, who our helper deigns to be,
Well knoweth our necessity

—Youth's Companion.

The Little Drawer.

"Where did you get your orderly habits?" I asked of a lady who never had to waste a moment in hunting for things out of their place.

"When I was four years old," she answered, "mother gave me a little drawer to put my clothes in. 'Make it your business, my dear child,' she said, 'to keep that drawer neat and tidy. Let me never find it in disorder.'

"Once she sent for me to come home from a party of little girls in order to put away a pair of stockings carelessly left on the floor; and I used sometimes to think mother was hard on me.

"But now I see that I owe my good habits to the care I was made to take of that little drawer when I was four years old."—S. S. Visitor.

"Swear Words."

The Scotch say that "those that will swear will lie;" and some who do not wish to be considered profane, yet use "swear words" which might well be omitted.

A little five-year old boy overheard a workman who was repairing the sitting-room drop an exclamation over some slight mishap. "That's the first 'swear word' I ever heard in my father's house," was the grave rebuke of the little boy. It so touched the rough man that he went to the mother of the boy and confessed his fault. While engaged on the job he never again lapsed into vulgar profanity,

The boy, now a tall lad, wields the same influence over his mates. They understand that his part in the game is ended as soon as bad words are introduced. The knowledge that his father's tongue was never polluted by profanity, together with his mother's precepts, and a child's natural desire to be like his father, have given this salutary bias to his early life. Boys, keep free from "swear words" of all kinds. They do no good whatever, but always defile and dishonor those who use them; and the habit once established is a bad one to get rid of.—Sel.

There are many who know their own wisdom, but there are few who know their own folly.

Kitty.

Every little boy and girl knows too much of the mewing and purring of the cat, and of its dislike to wet feet, and its delight in warmth and comfort, and of its patience and watchfulness when in search of the little mouse to make it necessary to give any description of kitty.

The cat was highly prized as a domestic animal in ancient Egypt. At a remote period they were there held in high reverence. Temples were built in their honor, and sacrifices and devotions were offered to them. If one should die in one of their houses all the members of the family would shave off their eyebrows.

The cat was held in high esteem in Britain in former times. A Welsh law enacted during the reign of Howell the Good, who died nearly one thousand years ago, fixed the value of cats at different ages of life, beginning with the kitten before it could see. If any one stole or killed the cat which guarded the granary of the prince he must pay a ewe, a fleece and a lamb, or as much wheat as, when poured on a heap, would entirely cover the cat when suspended by the tail, its head touching the floor.

In the middle ages the cat was supposed to be possessed of witches. The people thought Satan to be the shape of a black cat. Many persons still prophesy rainy weather when they see kitty washing her face. The superstitious idea that a cat is under the control of witches, and that it has nine lives, has led to the practice of many cruelties upon this inoffensive and useful animal.

The pupil of the eye of the cat is capable of great contraction and dilation, which enables it to see well where there is but little light. Its fur is soft, but entirely free from oil, and by friction may easily be rendered highly electric. You can readily produce electric sparks from its ear. You cannot lose a cat, for its memory and love of place enables it to find its home even from a great distance. Ex.

Letters and Puzzles.

Ames, Story Co., Iowa.

Dear Editor: I thought I would write you a few lines for your good paper. I think Masonry is a curse to the country. I hate it. Think how they cheat. Bro. Arter says the Masons have lied him out of between three and four hundred dollars Now is that any way to do business? I want to do all I can towards putting down Masonry.

Yours truly,

Wm. C. Harrison.

New Sharon, May 7, 1877

As pa takes your paper and I am somewhat interested in the "Puzzle Drawer," I thought I would send an answer to Florence E. Quick's puzzle, May 3d, and also send one myself. The answer is "Rutherford B. Hayes." I send the following which is the first one to any paper:

I am composed of 13 letters.
My 1, 2 and 3 is a nickname.
My 5, 4 and 8 is not well.
My 7, 6, 8 and 12 is one's nearest kin.
My 7, 5, 3 and 9 is a masculine name.
My 4, 5, 9 and 13 is the king of beasts.
My 3, 4, 12, 7, and 6 is an animal.
My 7, 6, 4 and 8 is an instrument for pounding.
My whole is the name of a person whose life was taken by the Freemasons

Yours respectfully,

A. J. Copa

T. W. Cavin, Morning Sun, Iowa, also sends the correct answer to the same enigma.

Home and Farm.

Asparagus and Celery.—A medical correspondent of an English journal says that the advantages of asparagus are not sufficiently appreciated. Those who suffer with rheumatism are cured in a few days by feeding on this delicious esculent; and more chronic cases are much relieved, especially if the patient avoids all acids, whether in food or beverage. The Jerusalem artichoke has a similar effect in relieving rheumatism. It may be well to remark that most plants which grow naturally near the seacoast contain more or less iodine, and in all rheumatic complaints, iodine has long been a favorite remedy. One who has been in the drug business told the writer some years ago that many of the popular patent nostrums which some disinterested people—"for the good of their fellow creatures"—sold at two dollars a bottle, consisted simply of a few cents' worth of iodine in solution. Iodine is dangerous however, in overdose, affecting especially the eyes.—Scientific American.

Raising Currants.—We have often alluded to the healthfulness of the currant, and urged its more extensive and careful cultivation. Almost every farmhouse, to be sure, has a few old bushes, but they as a general rule are neglected and far less productive than they ought to be, and the fruit is smaller than it would be under good cultivation. During the sultry days of August, when the appetite fails for the ordinary articles of food, the currant, with its peculiar acid, toned down by a little sugar, becomes very agreeable to the palate. It is valuable because it can be used in so many ways, and it lasts so long on the bushes. No fruit will give better returns for the labor bestowed on its cultivation. A plantation once properly made is good for ten or fifteen years; and we have known bushes to bear well for more than twenty years. New plants can be raised so easily from cuttings that it would be better to reset the ground, or rather select a new field on which to plant them as often as once in ten years. The old Red Dutch has always been a favorite sort, but of late years La Versaillaise, Cherry, Fertile of Angers and some others have taken the lead among the red varieties, while the Dana's Transparent and White Grape are regarded as the most valuable among the white sorts. The Cherry is one of the large sorts, too acid for most palates, but if perfectly ripe it will go well with plenty of sugar. It is very easily picked.—Mass. Ploughman.

How to Break Colts.—A practical stock man gives his experience in breaking colts, as follows:

"A good and cheap breaking rig is made with two hickory poles, three feet longer than sulky shafts and a little thicker; bolt them to the axle (you need but two wheels); let the poles project three feet to the rear of the axle; have two holes bored in the ends thus projecting, about eight inches apart; fit to these poles two bows, similar to ox-bows, and long enough to come within ten inches of the ground when the shafts are in proper position for driving; these need only be used when you have a colt that is disposed to rear up. Whenever the colt attempts to rear up, these bows strike the ground and effectually prevent him from doing so. Always use a kicking rope or strap; put it on after the colt is in harness; it is two ropes fastened to the check bit; they run over the head same as Kimbal Jackson; check the run through the terret of the saddle and along the back to a point just back of the hips, where two rings, eight inches apart, receive the ropes. which are passed down to the shafts near the cross-bar, where they are made fast; when so arranged every effort to kick throws up his head, so that it is impossible for him to kick, and if he lies down or falls he cannot break the shafts, they being hickory poles. The colt must go ahead or backward, and it is almost impossible to upset, the shafts being a little back of the axle, so as to have no weight on the colt's back.

Wood vs. Iron.—A correspondent of the Western Rural says: "I discovered many years ago that wood could be made to last longer than iron in the ground, the process so simple and inexpensive that it was not worth while making any stir about it. I would as soon have poplar, basswood or quaking ash as any other kind of posts. I have taken out basswood posts after they have set seven years, that were as sound when taken up as when they were first put in the ground. Time and weather seem to have no effect on them. The posts can be prepared for less than two cents apiece. For the benefit of others I will give you the recipe. Take boiled linseed oil and stir it in pulverized charcoal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this over the timber, and there is not a man that will live to see it rot.

Old gardeners say that beans planted among squashes, melons and cucumbers will keep off squash bugs.

Health and Houses.

It does not express the whole truth to say that some houses are unhealthy; it is nearer the fact in reference to many dwellings that they are deadly. Sometimes certain rooms in a house are so impregnated with poisonous emanations, that their occupants become ill in a few days. I know of a capacious mansion formerly (now a boarding house) on Walnut street, Philadelphia, which has in it a certain room known to make people sick within a few days after they move into it. Within a year, a man in perfect health was placed in a room in London, and in a few days died of putrid fever. The next, and the next, and the next occupant, were noticed to become ill. It became so notorious that the authorities took it in hand to examine the premises, and it was found that the man who papered the room, in order to fill up a cavity in the wall, put in a bucket full of paste and pieces of the glazed papering, which in time began to ferment and rot, throwing into the room a steady supply of the noxious fumes of decomposed lead and other hurtful ingredients employed in the sizing of wall paper. It is known that the sizing on a visiting card is enough to poison a child if put in its mouth; being a little sweetish to the taste, it is rather palatable.

Another English house became so notoriously unhealthy that the common people reported it to be haunted; it soon gained such a reputation that nobody would live in it free of rent. Investigation discovered that it was the result of pasting new paper on old.

Lesson—In repapering a room or house, first pull off the old paper and scrape and wash the walls.—Hall's Journal of Health.

We have received an excellent sermon in pamphlet form written by Rev. Edwin Barnetson, of Mexico, N. Y. Subject, "Observance of the Sabbath." The text is, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy."

After bringing out many useful general truths about the beneficial effects of the Sabbath, he briefly calls attention to the evil effects of opposition to the Sabbath, calling on the Christian church to rally and sustain the sanctity of the holy day by precept and example.

He speaks of the universality of the Sabbath. That it was designed for all mankind for all time.

He speaks of the importance of the civil observance of the Sabbath. In the practical applications he makes in regard to the observance of the Sabbath he particularizes and enlarges upon the evils of theaters open on Sabbath, of running street-cars and ferry boats upon the Sabbath, of beer gardens, running cheese factories on Sabbath, of Sabbath visiting and Sabbath pleasure excursions.

The pamphlet is well worth reading and can be secured by forwarding ten cents to Rev. Edwin Barnetson, Mexico, N. Y.

Lloyd, the famous map man, who made all the maps for General Grant and the Union army, certificates of which he published, has just invented a way of getting a relief plate from steel so as to print Lloyd's Map of American Continent—showing from ocean to ocean—on one entire sheet of bank-note paper, 40x50 inches large, on a lightning press, and colored, sized and varnished for the wall so as to stand washing, and mailing anywhere in the world for 30 cents, or unvarnished for 25 cents. This map shows the whole United States and Territories in a group, from surveys to 1876, with a million places on it, such as towns, cities, villages, mountains, lakes, rivers, streams, gold mines, railway stations, etc. This map should be in every house. The whole on one entire sheet of bank-note paper, two inches larger than the New York Herald, to fold and carry in the pocket. Send 30 cents to the Lloyd Map Company, Cincinnati, O., and you will get a copy by return mail.—N. Y. Illustrated Christian Weekly.

Pettengill's Newspaper Directory.—A very useful and interesting volume of 376 pages has just been issued by the old and well-known advertising agency firm of S. M. Pettengill & Co., New York, entitled Pettengill's Newspaper Directory and Advertisers' Hand Book for 1877. The leading facts are given respecting 8,574 separate publications, designating the political or other distinctive character, the frequency of issue, the names of publishers, etc., and showing how many of each edition (daily, weekly, monthly, etc.,) are published in each State and Territory in the United States and Province in British America. The book is elegantly printed from new type, and, besides its mine of information, it contains portraits of leading New York journalists, and illustrations of the extensive offices where the publishers transact their business in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. It is sold at the low price of $1.00 per copy.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

Practical Results in Boston.

[Correspondence Chicago Tribune.]

In this connection I may, with propriety, mention additional illustrations of the influence of the revival upon practical morals, a matter about which non-evangelical churches or pastors were anxious about the time Moody arrived. At the moment I recall three facts: One the restitution of $12,000 in one sum. In another case, one of the ladies, who had been acting the good Samaritan at the North End, where all vileness concentrates, was robbed of a valuable watch. Discovering her loss, she said it would be remedied by the Lord, on whose errand she had gone. According to her faith a note came in a short time stating that at a certain spot in the old Granary Burying Ground the watch might be found. The information was reliable and the watch was found. Again, a letter postmarked Boston was received at the Milford National Bank, N. H., last week, containing $5,000 of non-registered bonds stolen at the robbery of the bank in December, 1874. No names or explanations accompanied the bonds, but, being non-registered they could have been held with impunity, as they had been for more than two years, and the coincidence of time, place, and similar restitution gives credibility and probability to the belief current that a conscience newly baptized in Christian conversion gave up the property and mailed the letter.

In another way and yet not altogether another, we have seen the relations of an enkindled Christianity to money. It is one thing, and one luminously suggestive, when ill-gotten gains are restored to the proper owners; it is a transaction somewhat analagous where restitution is made to Christ of the proceeds of that prosperity which his religion has bestowed. Of course, the analogy holds only with respect to the truth that Christians should regard themselves as stewards only of all possessions which faculties and favoring Providence have placed at their disposal. Two days ago a single collection was taken to complete the sum needed to cover the whole expenses of the tabernacle to date, and the requisite $20,000 were raised. The whole expense has been about $41,500. For a long time business has been "stale, flat, and unprofitable" in New England; but for the sake of Jesus of Nazareth, cradled in poverty, with nowhere to lay his head when toiling for others, ignominiously hurled to death, and then laid in a borrowed sepulcher, all needed funds have been forthcoming. At once Moody, for the Master, asks that $13,000 more be raised to continue the Tabernacle for another year. He will get it, and for the next twelve months spiritual harvests will continue, and our churches be raised to higher standards of efficiency and a larger outlook.

Here, by way of suggestive contrast, I quote from my morning paper of to-day: "Owing to financial difficulties, the Paine Memorial-Hall property will be sold by public auction on the 4th of May next. The building is a costly and well-built structure, but has never paid expenses."

GENERAL SWIFT,

of whom I wrote you two weeks ago, is actively in the field. He was on the staff of Gen. Butler in New Orleans, and for twenty years has been prominent in military, political and convivial circles. In a recent testimony, he paid a tribute to his mother's prayers, of which the pathos and eloquence must touch the farthest stranger's heart.

"I never left my mother in my life but what she said to me, 'I want to live long enough to see you come to your Lord and to your Saviour.' It was the conclusion of every separation, it was the burden of every letter she wrote to me in her life. I remember on one occasion, and there are those here that can recall the fact, that I was invited by my fellow-citizens to deliver in Tremont Temple an address upon the campaign in Mississippi at the surrender of Port Hudson. The Mayor of the city presided. The hall was crowded and we were all at a white heat of patriotism, and I was endeavoring to picture the advance and occupation of our victorious army on those blood-stained uplands. The scene was vividly before me, and when I came to where our men ran up the dear old flag on the flag-staff, where for more than two months had been flaunting in our eyes the standard of rebellion, the whole audience went wild, the music struck up, and they rose up on their feet, surging and swaying with cheers. As I stood there alone amid this wild outburst of enthusiasm, I looked into the left gallery, and saw one pale, unemotional face; it was the face of my mother. She is a little woman, and it seems as if I could lift her in the palm of my hand, but she had great love and faith, and, when I met her, she said, 'I have given you freely, my son, to the country, but, Oh! if I could see you stand there and talk for your Saviour, I would ask nothing more on this earth.' And when I took my stand I went home directly to that mother. I don't know that I can get on with this part of the story, but you will all understand the difficulty. The stars in the skies scarcely outnumber the prayers she had given to her Father on my behalf, and I was going home, the last one in her band of children, resolved to tell her that her Saviour was my Saviour, and her God was my God. We were all there, an unbroken and a redeemed family. She gathered me in her arms as tenderly as when I was a helpless child. There is a passage in Scripture, 'Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.' I know what that means. I know what it is to feel as a little child if my hairs are gray with the footfalls of time."

It is hoped by many that General Swift will join the army of lay workers. In closing he said: "Ah, there are men I would give my life, it seems to me, to win; there are men to whom I am allied with the ties of blood, men that are gifted with large endowments of patience, with the magnetism of personal influence so grand that their fellow-men would follow their word and example as Israel followed the music of the harp and the songs of David. Would that God would give me the power to reach their hearts! I believe that this great work is only begun in this city; the great tidal wave is yet to sweep over this place of our affections. I wish to do something, I will do something, that this city on these three hills, the city that cradled Liberty and led the van of progress, should lead and shine as the city of the redeemed."

The brightest seal of success in the work of Mr. Moody is the raising up of new men who will carry the work forward. The many-sided, comprehensive reach of the work becomes more and more noticeable. Gen. Grant's subordinates, sagaciously chosen, were never more wisely adapted to their various trusts than are Moody's co-workers. Young Mr. Hastings leads the boys' meetings, and great numbers of lads have gone from thence converted, and evanglists to their fathers or mothers, bringing them to the same Saviour.

MISS WILLARD'S MEETINGS

have been crowded from the first, and converts, new and old, have caught the inspiration of her intelligent zeal. On Friday last a thrilling testimony was given at the temperance meeting by a young man, who had been rescued by the energy and patience of a young lady, living near the Tabernacle. She is the daughter of a well-known author, living in a home of culture and refinement, but she took the young man drunk to her home, watched over him both as guard and nurse until his faculties were partially restored, and then she led him to the Great Physician. He was heard, work was found, the abandoned wife and child met the redeemed husband and father in the house of that young lady; they were reconciled, and a new Christian home established. This is a sample of hundreds, gathered by the tender voice, hands and sympathies of Christian women. Mrs. Stoddard spread a breakfast on Friday for two hundred gathered by herself alone.

The next division of labor, perhaps the most impressive of all, is that

AMONG BUSINESS MEN.

Last week a merchant took a customer from Bangor, Me., to the noon meeting so crowded that he was compelled to stand upon the stairs leading to the next story. He asked prayers for his customer, announcing his residence and the fact of his presence. Immediately the latter, instead of being offended, rose and said that he was the one for whom their prayers were requested, and united his own wish with that of his friend. The next night the Maine merchant was in the overflow meeting of the Berkeley street church, testifying for the Lord who had saved him. Another prominent merchant, the head of a large firm immediately opposite the place of noon-day meeting for dry-goods merchants, and a leading attendant at the largest Universalist church of our city, was led to attend some of the meetings. He also heard Mr. Moody at the Tabernacle. Using his mind as in business problems, he said: "I know many of these men, and from my twenty years' acquaintance I am persuaded that they would not give the subject of religion so much attention and relate such personal experiences of its power, unless there is something in it." While reasoning thus, and while trying in honest, manly and logical consistency to find Christ, the Saviour of whom he had heard so much, he was met, casually, by a Christian merchant long his friend and business neighbor. It is easy now for religion to become the theme of conversation. Soon the inquiring soul was led to Christ, in the light of the open Bible and the experience of the Christian friend and adviser.

They bowed in prayer. He whose lips were unused to supplication repeated a brief petition for forgiveness, a confession of sin, and sincere surrender to Jesus, in words dictated by his friend. It was but the work of a moment, though an eternity of bliss may follow. He rose from his knees, placed his hand upon his heart, and with glad face said: "Mr. M., my load is all gone. I am willing to tell all Boston." The next day, with broken voice, he did tell a thousand of his fellow-merchants in the crowded prayer-room just over against his own store.

Yesterday the leader used a Bible which had been a prominent fixture of his own counting-room for twenty-five years. One young merchant testified to the silent influence of that book, and to kind instruction from its open pages, when years ago he was clerk in that store.

One prominent retail merchant, not a Christian, has given his check for $800 in aid of the general work of the Tabernacle. Another, not then a Christian, sent his check for $100, begging the committee to urge Mr. Moody to remain over another month, and saying that there are many unconverted ones yet to be reached. He has since come out into the light and strength of salvation by Jesus Christ. Henceforth his superior business talents, his large fortune, and his earnest activity are to be held and used in the service of his Divine Master.

Religious Intelligence.

—President Wallace of Monmouth College preaches for the United Presbyterian congregation of Keokuk during the absence of the pastor Rev. D. E. Shaw, who purposes visiting Scotland.

—Among the fifteen recently received to the Church of the Covenant, Brooklyn, is a lady of 93 years, received on confession of faith. Another, aged 112, was received at 29th Street church, New York city.

—The Rev. Edward Ebenezer Bayliss has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church at Virden, Ill., for the purpose of devoting his time to evangelical work. Drs. Everts, Anderson, of Chicago, and others believe he possesses qualifications in an eminent degree for such service.

—According to the dictionary of Protestant Missions in India, lately published, there has been a gain of about 4,000 communicants in a year, and 10,000 native Christians.

—There are 960 living missionaries and ordained native pastors in India proper, excluding Burmah and Ceylon, and 116 lady missionaries connected with the various societies.

—Rev. Joseph Cook recently said in one of his lectures, in Tremont Temple, Boston: "Infidelity in Germany is no stronger than it is in Boston. Out of thirty universities of that most learned land of the globe, only one is called rationalistic to-day." "In 200 languages of the world the Scriptures were read yesterday; in 200 languages of the world hymns were lifted to the Triune Name yesterday; in 200 languages of the world the gospel was preached to the poor yesterday."

—The labors of American missionaries have contributed a very large share of what to-day constitutes the literature of the Bulgarian people. Besides the Scriptures they have published a grammar and vocabulary of the language, a Bulgarian translation of Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, a Commentary on the Gospel of Matthew, translations of Tract Primer and of some of our best English tracts; also original tracts, ten volumes of a monthly illustrated paper, and for more than a year past a weekly newspaper, which has a wider circulation than any other paper in Turkey. In the year 1840 the New Testament was published in Bulgarian, at the expense of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Up to that date scarcely a dozen books and pamphlets had been printed, most of them small, and all in the Western or Macedonian dialect which has already ceased to be used as a book language.

—Captain Bundy, the sailor missionary of this city, is preparing to start on another season trip around the lake ports. He is having built a new, staunch boat of 48 feet in length, 14½ feet beam and 7 feet cabin, which will carry him and the good news of grace more safely than the small craft of last year. He estimates the expense of fitting the new vessel and carrying on the work through the season at $2,500 of which he has raised $1,600, chiefly in Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Buffalo; he hopes that the friends of the sailor in this city and Milwaukee will provide the rest. The object is surely worthy of every encouragement.

—The annual meeting of the American Bible Society was held in New York on Thursday. The annual report shows the receipts for the year to have been $543,579, including $227,928 for publications, $188,013 from legacies, and $91,274 from donations. The expenditures nearly equaled receipts. During the year 621,726 Bibles were issued at home and 259,330 abroad, making a total of 881,056.

—Prof. Henry Cowles, D. D., has just concluded a series of articles in the Interior on "Premillennial Adventism," maintaining in a learned manner views differing from those to which Mr. Moody gave notoriety. Dr. Robert Patterson of California, author of "Facts and Fables of Infidelity," has defended Mr. Moody ably and Dr. R. W. Patterson of this city, replies to his argument. It is not of the least significance that the subject is so generally discussed in Christian bodies.

News of the Week.

—At a Cabinet consultation the extra session of Congress which has been expected in June was postponed to the 15th of October.

—Judge Daly, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, New York, made insane by financial losses, disappeared May 1st and his body was found on Sunday morning suspended and dead in a deserted house in the little town of Woodside, Long Island.

—The bill to allow county boards of education to contract direct with publishing houses for common-school text-books for their respective districts, to be furnished to pupils at cost, has been defeated in the Ohio Legislature.

—A fire which lasted all day and destroyed about $400,000 worth of property broke out at ten o'clock Sunday morning in Brooklyn, in Campbell & Thayer's Oil Works, Water street, between Washington and Main. The building burned out was six stories and occupied half a block.

—The formal reply of the State Department at Washington to the notification by Turkey of the war with Russia announces that the United States will maintain a strictly neutral position toward both belligerents. A similar note will be sent to the Russian Government.

—A Bucharest correspondent reports that the Russian commanders are evidently taking every precaution to bring their armies to the Danube without fatiguing the men or animals. The condition of the troops shows that their efforts are successful. The majority of the cavalrymen passing through Bucharest walk, leading their horses.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 13.—The Porte is very uneasy about supplies still to come from New York, and is very angry with America for allowing the Russian squadron to remain in American waters. The bad feeling is increasing. A Turkish journal has already advocated a massacre of Christians.

—The English representative has demanded explanations. Many Turks resent the idea of even a friendly occupation of Constantinople by the English, and say if England wants to help Turkey she should do so on the Danube or in Asia. There is great uneasiness among European residents. Many have left and others are leaving.

CARLYLE ON THE EASTERN WAR.

Thomas Carlyle, the Scotch philosopher, lately wrote the following to the London Times on the Eastern question and the management of Disraeli:

SIR: A rumor everywhere prevails that our miraculous Premier, in spite of his Queen's proclamation of neutrality, intends, under cover of "care for British interests," to send the English fleet to the Baltic, or do some other feat which shall compel Russia to declare war against England. Latterly the rumor has shifted from the Baltic, and become still more sinister on the eastern side of the scene, where a feat is contemplated that will force not Russia only, but all Europe, to declare war against us. This latter I have come to know as an indisputable fact in our present state of affairs, and the outlook is surely a grave one. As to British interest, there is none visible or conceivable to me except the taking strict charge of our route to India by Suez and Egypt, and for the rest resolutely steering clear of any copartnery with the Turk. In regard to this or any other British interest whatever, it should be felt by England to be as real ignominy to be connected with the Turk at all. Nay, if we still had, as in fact we ought to have, a wish to save him from perdition and annihilation in God's world, the one future for him that has any hope in it, is even now that of being conquered by the Russians and gradually schooled and drilled into a peaceable attempt at learning to be himself governed. The newspaper outcry against Russia is no more respectable to me than the howling of Bedlam, proceeding, as it does, from the deepest ignorance, egotism and national jealousy. These things I write not on hearsay, but on acute knowledge, and to all friends of their country will recommend immediate attention to them while there is yet time, lest in a few weeks the maddest and most criminal thing that a British Government could do should be done, and all Europe kindled into the flames of war. I am, etc.,

T. CARLYLE.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, ONE GERMAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J, R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $1 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S." 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry.

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by REES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nottingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTICE MARSHALL and others is added.

A 4-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Corunton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100: $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands' of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAPBOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago. Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Dne Gnards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accnrate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thonsands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hnndred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREELIN.

Illnstrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to jnstice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abdncted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of tho three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of trnthfnlness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lncia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abdnction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescne;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,
CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY. A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS
to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.
BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbnn, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Ccarges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Cadidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorongh, candid and remarkably concise Scriptnral argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefnlly, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian ont of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.
BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge,

Single Copy, Post Paid .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SCERETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.
By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP
AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the dnty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and dnty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the dnty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

JUSTUS MILLER, PIKEVILLE, IND., SENDS A CLUB OF TEN,

with $15.00. He writes: "One of them is a Mason of three degrees. The work here is going on nicely. I have got able to ride around, and since I got my books that I sent to you for, the work is spreading well."

Rev. H. H. Hinman also completes a club of ten this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrus, Lenox, Ohio, set their mark for a club of five and came within one of it.

Several write that they are at work.

The Dodge County Association has a good agent whose special work is to circulate the Cynosure and other Anti-masonic literature. He sends one new subscription this week.

Who will send in the next club of ten? Will those whose time expires in June secure some new subscriptions to forward with their renewals?

Books sent Week ending May 12, 1877.

By Express.

James Barnett, Hollis Santill.

By Mail.

Taylor Sheaur, Charles David, L Royal, L J Gutar, P Z Roudiz, Jas. Wilkison, E H Batchelor, Rev. H J Walker, A D Brown, J Fred Ribler, G W Pugh, O M Irwin, J W Baldridge, W G Steel, J Duncan, J P Yocum, Fred J Soldar, A Jackson, J Parmeter, G W Goodhart, Rev G C Coffee, Chas H Gobble, R Hasken, J Richards, J Thompson, Chas McMillan, S S Singer, C G Calilson, Jesse Kerr, J Gamble, Jr, I Mortimer, H Williams, I D Page, L A Kiefer, J H Snider, M Short, C H Freeman, A Honeywell, J Mancke, H Knapt, E A Kimball, A A Richardson, Dr. N Norris, H McCashlan, J H Nasson, Wm H Hasdin, Wm Colmer, J H Martin, Geo W Varney, E L Rose.

Tracts Sent.

J B Smith, Jas Wilkison, Jas Barnett, H Knopp.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 12, 1877.—From Wm Atkinson, Jas Auten, John Andrus, W Bruce, E Bradshaw, Alex N Beatty, Jas Barnet, J A Bingham, J S Burrell, Edwin Barnetson, A Cleveland, Wm. Cheetham, J Chadwick, Jas Duston, S P Daniels, S Dodge, R Faurst, A Frank, E Gould, A A Garrison, Wm C Herrington, E Herrington, H H Hinman, G C Hinsdale, D Joannin, Roland Jackson, Jas P Rogers, Jas Kilgore, H L Kellogg, Jas Kilbourn, M Long, W K Morley, John W Moore, Chas McMillan, Justus Miller, Alex Mackie, J M Miller, Mrs M B Nichols, Edmund Niles, G G Nickey, Mrs Betsy Pye, Alex Russel, Thos A Sproull, Wm Steel, W W Stringer, Y Wickwire, Jennie Wallace, A D Yocum.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, May 14, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 70	1 71
" No. 3		1 54
" Rejected		1 26
" Minnesota	1 80	1 95
Corn—No. 2	53½	55
Rejected	50	50
Oats—No. 2		44½
Rejected		35½
Rye—No. 2		87
Bran per ton	13 50	14 50
Flour—Winter	9 00	11 00
Spring	5 50	9 00
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 50
Prairie	5 50	7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	8	8¾
Lard per cwt		9 85
Mess pork, per bbl		15 50
Butter fancy yellow	23	26
common to choice roll	13	20
Cheese	8	14
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs		10
Seeds—Timothy	1 50	1 75
Clover		6 50
Flax	1 55	1 90
Potatoes	95	1 20
Broomcorn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 00	10 50
Fencing	10 00	10 50
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	42
Unwashed	20	25
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 50	6 10
Good	5 10	5 40
Medium	4 75	5 00
Common	3 25	4 20
Hogs	5 15	5 60
Sheep	4 00	6 50

New York Market.

Flour	$6 00	12 00
Wheat—Spring		1 96
Winter	1 51	2 20
Corn	70½	73
Oats	52	71
Rye	75	1 00
Lard		10
Mess pork		16 12
Butter	9	14
Cheese	7	14
Eggs	12	13
Wool	13	53

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c. " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona, and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No. 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1 square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1 " "	2 "	13.00
1 " "	3 "	15.00
1 " "	6 "	25.00
1 " "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

AGENTS double their money selling Dr. Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book. Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765zt,]

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Litho graphing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and

GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS

BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.34.—WHOLE NO. 374. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Shall Congregationalism Fellowship Adhering Freemasons	8
The United Brethren in Christ	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Two Governments	2
The Late Senator Sumner	2
Membership in Oath-bound Societies	2
Prophets of Evil	8
An Improvement in War	8
Schuyler Colfax and his Pet Society	4
OUR FOREIGN LETTER	4
REFORM NEWS:
The United Brethren General Conference; The Michigan Agency; From Lagrange Co., Ind.; All Things Ready in California	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
From a Colorado Union Meeting: A Court Incident in the Provinces; Did Solomon Know Anything About Masonry; Be Consistent; Our Mail	6
GOSPEL MEETING:
Joseph Cook on the Boston Meetings	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	13
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, July 10th to 12th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, July 10th, with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE CORPORATE MEETING OF THE N. C. A.

The annual meeting of the National Christian Association will be held, according to By-law IV. of its Constitution, on Wednesday, June 21st, 1877, at the Carpenter building, No. 221 West Madison street, Chicago, (unless changed by Directors) for the election of officers, accepting reports and transacting any other business proper to come before said meeting.

L. N. STRATTON, Pres.
H. L. KELLOGG, Sec'y.

The following are the corporate members of the N C. A., who are all expected to be present:

S. B. Allen,	D. R. Kerr,
J. K. Alwood,	D. Kirkpatrick,
I. R. B. Arnold,	Wm Leuty,
J. W. Bain,	O F. Lumry,
J. L. Barlow,	D. W. Lyons,
J. A. Bingham,	J. G. Mattoon,
J. Blanchard,	A. M. Milligan,
C. A. Blanchard,	Moses Pettengill,
Jesse B. Blank,	Woodruff Post,
M. R. Britton,	Isaac Preston,
O E Burch,	Peter Rich,
Nathan Callender,	B. T. Roberts,
Philo Carpenter,	J. E. Roy,
Abel E Carpenter,	Alexander Small,
H. Cogswell,	Geo. E. Sovereign,
J. A. Conant,	J. P. Stoddard,
E. S. Cook,	L. N. Stratton,
E. A. Cook,	L. Taylor.
John Dorcas,	J. G. Terrill,
John Finney,	Sylvanus Town,
Aaron Floyd,	A. Wait,
A. D. Freeman,	J. B. Walker,
H. H. George,	J M. Wallace,
C. R. Hagerty,	Wm. Wishart,
I. A. Hart,	J W. Wood,
Edward Hildreth,	Aaron Worth,
G. B. Hubbard,	J. R. Wright,
H. L. Kellogg,	Milton Wright.
E. B. Kephart,

Topics of the Time

The good effect of the Massachusetts law that prevented serious results in the strike on the Boston and Maine railroad has led the Illinois Legislature to consider and pass a statute of like nature for our State. The bill provides for the fining and imprisonment of any engineer who "in furtherance of any combination or agreement," abandons his engine short of its proper destination; also any person who shall maliciously, by any act or by intimidation, obstruct the lawful business of the railroads or "other corporation, firm or individual" of the State; or, for two or more persons who shall "willfully and maliciously combine or conspire together to obstruct or impede by any act of intimidation" the regular business of railroads, corporations, firms or individuals. The bill, it will be seen, reaches not only the Brotherhood of Engineers, but all the secret trade unions that produce a periodical disturbance in some branch of business or other. The general adoption of such a law and its enforcement would seriously interfere with the principal function of these unions and would go a long way toward their dissolution. The passage of this regulation was perhaps hastened by the attempted poisoning of some three score coal-miners in the vicinity of Streator who had lately taken the place of a body of strikers, which is attributed to the agency of the latter, and will probably result fatally in several cases.

A serious disagreement in the French government between President Macmahon and Jules Simon, the leader of his Republican cabinet resulted last week in the resignation of the latter followed by that of all the other cabinet officers. The "Left" or Republican party in the Chamber of Deputies, which is the majority party, resolved in a special meeting that confidence would be given only to a cabinet which should adhere to Republican principles, and the President, after threatening to call into his counsel members from the "Right" finally prorogued the Chambers for a month. The excitement, was extreme in both the Senate and House, the latter adjourning with cries of "Vive la Republique." Although in the estimation of many France has made a retrograde movement it is hoped by the Republican leaders that with moderation and a wise use of the crisis their powers will be greatly increased in the next election which takes place in five months. Only a wise determination on the part of these leaders can prevent the rising of the populace, for the sans culottes are not perished from France. The new cabinet is adding to the flame by wholesale removals of officials throughout the country who are in sympathy with the Republican majority in the Assembly. Germany watches these changes in Paris with keen interest not unmixed with distrust and alarm. The sudden accession to power of the Clerical and Ultramontane parties is believed in Berlin to be the result of Catholic intrigue, and should this prove to be the case the effect upon the relations between the two countries may be very grave.

The past week has been daily filled with rumors from the war of a serious character. On Wednesday heavy artillery firing on both sides the Danube at Rustchuk indicated an attempt to force the passage of the stream by the Russians. This was continued on the next day, while there was a considerable movement of troops down the river. No passage had been made on Monday, and the army awaited the arrival of the Czar with his prime minister at Bucharest when the grand movement would be made. Russian arms were attended with a considerable victory last week east of the Black Sea in the capture of the strongly fortified town of Ardahan between Kars and Batoun, while the Turks were victorious in a small engagement at Sukem Kaleh, a Russian port on the northeast coast of the Black Sea. The announcement that the Roumanian government is in a state of war with Turkey adds to the gravity of the conflict, which seems soon to reach its height, since it is reported that the Shiek-ul-Islam, the religious head of the Mohammedan nations, has proclaimed a holy war against Russia which will call the faithful of every nation to take up arms in defense of their religion. An imperial order also summons non-Mussulmans into the ranks. Turkey thus seems urged by an evil fate into those measures which will alienate every civilized nation, and by her own hand hastens her downfall.

"Ben" Butler has one relation he gives up to executive decapitation. George H. Butler, dismissed in disgrace from the consulate of Cairo, by Gen. Grant, was last month appointed to some postoffice agency in the Black Hills. On his way thither his conduct on the train was beastial and revolting, ending in drunken profanity. A Methodist bishop, whose name is not made public, was an unwilling witness of his conduct, and reported it, and in one week Butler was removed. His uncle, the general, endorses the action of the department.

Of the great wave of temperance meetings that during the past few months have swept over Michigan, Ohio and other sections, we have published little heretofore. Mr. Murphy's work in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and several Ohio cities has many characteristics of a genuine temperance revival; not perhaps so deep and thorough as that which accompanies Mr. Moody's work, but so far as it reformed men from drink, genuine. The work in Michigan and some parts of New York under Dr. Reynolds has in some respects the appearance of excitement rather than reform. The Michigan work has a wonderful display of figures—over 53,000 members of the reform clubs that sport the red-ribbon badge. The effect on saloon traffic has been marked, the want of custom forcing these dens to close. Not less noticeable is the decrease of crime reported by officers of the law from all parts of the State. So apparent has this been that a joint resolution of thanks passed unanimously both branches of the Legislature to Dr. Reynolds for his agency in this respect. These are the favorable features, and are truly a cause for great rejoicing if now there is no relapse and "seven spirits worse than the first" return not to the once cleansed man. The revival is evidently not, like Moody's, based on change of heart as well as reform in life in the individual, and here is its weakness, in introducing human props and methods to sustain the resolutions of reform. The Michigan Wesleyan Association, recognizing this, resolved lately "That the organizations of 'Red Ribbon Societies' are detrimental to the temperance cause, so far as they offer substitutes connected with the world, to satisfy the cravings of depraved appetites, in the place of the cleansing blood of Christ."

The wise are those who distinguish clearly between the law court and the equity court.

The Two Governments.

BY A. THOMSON.

I.

LEGAL.

One meets in fair and open day,
The bulwark of the free,
And holds its heaven-appointed sway,
For you, my friends, and me.
It stays the felon's lifted arm,
The bigot's torch it stays,
And guards each humble home and farm,
From evil's desperate ways.

It holds no mean or party grudge,
It knows no clique or set,
It guards the interests of the drudge,
From each oppressive hate;
It clears the way to wealth and fame,
For all, both high and low,
And never knows a favorite's name,
A freeman should not know.

It robs no prisoner of his rights,
But guards them long and well,
And then humanity invites
To view its prison cell;
It hangs the traitor with a sigh,
The murderer with a tear,
And has no joy that they should die,
Or any suffer here.

It needs no long and windy praise,
From human tongue and pen;
Its own majestic presence says,
It is the friend of men.
Around it loyal millions stand,
To guard its holy cause,
Each manly arm that lifts a brand,
Would wield it for the laws.

II.

MASONIC.

This meets at midnight and alone,
To pass its dark decree,
To plunge with hempen rope and stone,
Its victim in the sea;
To whet the bold assassin's blade,
And load the murderer's gun,
And every blessed right invade,
Men hold beneath the sun.

It meets defiant to the state,
Defiant to the Lord,
To shield from their deserved fate,
Corruption's heartless hoard;
It turns its bloody raven beak,
Against the people's cause,
And pleads the interests of a clique,
Against a nation's laws.

It worships every God on earth,
And therefore worships none,
And prates about a second birth
In natures dead as stone.
It taxes every devotee,
For pleasure and display,
But turns with ruthless hand the key
'Gainst those who cannot pay.

It hounds the freeman whom it hates,
With malice's deadly zeal,
And opens slander's hellish gates,
That he its power may feel;
It pours vituperation's wave
Where'er his foot may rest,
Nor ceases till the cloddy grave
Lies heavy on his breast.

Still loudly do its saints proclaim,
Its wisdom and its lore,
And trumpet high its ancient fame,
On every ancient shore;
But good men hear and stand aghast,
And souls enslaved repent,
That e'er the desperate die they cast
With midnight government.

The Late Senator Sumner.

Since the days of Washington, the country has not produced a man of greater devotion to the Republic, and of greater ability to serve it, than Charles Sumner. He gave his life, his reputation, his everything to the Republic. His steady, unremitted labor during the civil war may be regarded as the chief element of power in the administration of the government. His measures in Congress had almost the weight of law with the members; and in all matters concerning the interests of the American nation, whether at home or abroad, he was regarded as the very oracle.

His private character was of unimpeachable purity, as his public life was void of all covetousness, that vice which is so prevalent and so destructive of worth and usefulness among our political men. That he may have made mistakes is very probable indeed; but even his errors were not so bad in their consequences to the government and the country, as were some of the highest efforts of statesmanship of those who were serving with him, and whose lax, temporizing expedients were firmly held up to a proper American course of policy only by his constant, steady action. He may be regarded as the pilot of the ship of state, who took her through the perils of the civil war when otherwise, without the aid of his ability, she might have failed. No son of Massachusetts ever did the State more honor, or rendered it more important service.

Why was it then that, after the storm was over and the ship seemed safe, the Legislature of Massachusetts deliberately proceeded to pass a resolution of censure upon this faithful and distinguished servant of her honor and her glory? Why was an act so full of injustice, of cruelty and of moral confusion ever consummated by the Legislature of a State that had hitherto stood, where her victim had maintained her, the first of the Union?

Reader, this monstrous act of wrong and outrage, which cannot fail to redound to the injury of the interests of republican government, was the work of secret societies. Massachusetts is as much given over to the control of secret societies as is the State of Louisiana, where recently a body of men sitting in Odd-fellows' Hall has been given the ascendancy over the regular Legislature of the State. The Grand Army of the Republic, so called, one of the latest and one of the worst forms in the development of Freemasonry, was doubtless the chief active means in Massachusetts of inflicting this wrong upon the dying patriot, Charles Sumner; a worse wrong than that which had been forced upon him by the slave-power of South Carolina.

Nor let it be thought for one moment that there was any merit in the apparent effort of the Legislature of Massachusetts to repeal the censure which it had bestowed upon the most deserving man of all the country. An outrage of that kind cannot be repealed. Good and great men cannot thus be made the sport of the tricksters of the lodge, be jerked down, harried, and brought under its power, without irreparable injury to society. It is the character of secret societies to destroy every distinguished man who does not receive his distinction from them. No distinguished excellence can exist where Freemasonry prevails, without being assailed by the minions of the lodge and degraded to a level of Masonic morals and Masonic ideas; and that would unfit a man entirely for the service of the Republic. If Charles Sumner had been a Mason, or the willing tool of Masons, he would never have been visited with outrage either from the slave-power or the "Grand Army of the Republic;" and he would never have performed any distinguished service for republican government.

Repeal a deliberate, studied outrage! Does the tyrant ever repeal his acts? The only repeal of her wrong that Massachusetts can ever effect is to renounce the cause of her wrong, which is Freemasonry. But will she do that? Will the lodge ever give up its secret power of disgracing those who oppose its authority? Will not the lodge still hold the power of approval or of censure in its hands, elevating whom it will, and degrading whom it will. This is precisely the worst and most Jesuitical feature of Freemasonry; it usurps the functions of government; administers oaths; prescribes penalties; imposes assessments; distributes the honors of office to whom it will, and — crushes down the noblest American of all — Charles Sumner. Repeal a deliberate outrage! As well might that other machine, the guillotine, repeal its outrages, as that the Masonic lodge should repeal the wrong that it has done. The Masonic lodge is a machine, in the hands of base men, serving the purpose of cutting off the heads of honest, independent men, in order that tricksters may rise; and of all the standing insults that its very existence imposes upon us, there is none greater than its pretended goodness in repealing the censure against its victim—Sumner.

There is no character so pernicious, and at the same time so truly despicable, as he who, either as a member of the Masonic lodge or its tool, aids it with his secret influence to bring evil upon society, and then stands forth, as the indignant champion of virtue, to rebuke that evil as if it had sprung from the unconscious errors of society, instead of from the villainous teachings of the lodge. This double-faced man, of whose like there are many in the politicians of the United States, at the present day, passes among us as the man of merit, and is often found in the possession of the highest offices in the gift of the people or the government! AMERICAN.

[The Advance, May 10th.]

Membership in Oath-bound Societies.

BR LEONARD BACON, D. D.

I.—PREFATORY NOTE.

Doubtless it is the lot of ministers who are regarded as having had experience in church affairs, to be often called upon for advice on questions arising in churches near at hand or far away. Such is in fact my lot, and I find it every year more laborious. If I could bring myself to demand such a fee for my opinion on a disputed question as lawyers get for their opinions, I should probably have more time for my own affairs, and should certainly be less likely to die insolvent.

One of the latest calls on me, for my opinion and advice, came from a church of which I know nothing save by the date of the letter which is subscribed by the name of pastor, deacons and trustees, all strangers to me. Not doubting that the letter was written in good faith, I could not excuse myself from giving a reply. But knowing that the same question, substantially, is up or is sure to come up in many churches, especially of "the Interior," I retained a copy of my reply; and I now take the liberty of sending it with the letter of inquiry to the Advance for publication—if the editors shall judge that what I have written is likely to do good anywhere.

As there is no need of anybody's knowing from what church the inquiry came, I suppress the date of the letter and the names subscribed. Any church agitated by the same question is at liberty to suppose that itself is the church immediately concerned. L. B.

II.—LETTER OF INQUIRY.

————— —1877.

REV. LEONARD BACON, D. D.:

Dear Brother. — The following resolution is before the church and will be acted upon in ten days, viz: Resolved, that no adhering members of the Masonic fraternity, or any other oath-bound secret society, will be admitted to membership in this church.

We ask your opinion and advice as to the wisdom of making this question a test of Christian character. Respectfully, ————.

III.—REPLY.

Brethren:—I have no time for a full and argumentative answer to your question. My "opinion and advice," considered simply as mine, will have no weight with you, and ought to have none. What you want is light, and not judicial decision. Acknowledging your right as Christian brethren to call on me for help, I must ask you to acknowledge that it is my right to judge for myself how much time I can spend in trying to help you.

Having been diligently brought up in the way of contempt for all the trumpery of "Free and Accepted Masons," and for all similar trumpery under other names, I am not yet old enough to depart from it. Yet I can testify that I have known Freemasons whose Christian character could not be reasonably disputed. You ask for advice as to the "wisdom" of making the renunciation of certain secret societies "a test of Christian character." I answer, "The wisdom that is from above" (James iii: 17) will make no arbitrary test of Christian character—no test but that which is a test, namely, Christian living; and it will recognize as Christian living a life of "pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father." What sort of life that is the Scripture tells us expressly (James i: 27).

The men who made the Cambridge platform two hundred and thirty years ago, were by no means lax in their notions of church discipline, and their opinion, as an opinion, is worth more than mine. What they tell us about tests is this: "The things which are requisite to be found in all church members are, repentance from sin and faith in Jesus Christ; and therefore these are the things whereof men are to be examined at their admission into the church, and which then they must profess and hold forth in such sort as may satisfy rational charity that the things are there indeed." Moreover they tell us: "The weakest measure of faith is to be accepted in those that desire to be admitted into the church, because weak Christians, if sincere, have the substance of that faith, repentance and holiness, which is required in church members; and such have most need of the ordinances for their confirmation and growth in gracc. . . . Such charity and tenderness is to be used, as the weakest Christian, if sincere, may not be excluded nor discouraged. Severity of examination is to be avoided." In the light of such wisdom as was given to the authors of that platform, no test can be considered wise which excludes from the church "even the weakest Christian," or which discourages him when he looks toward the church for recognition. The only question about any proposed test would be whether it is intended to exclude or discourage—or rather whether it would have the effect of excluding or discouraging — any Christian, "even the weakest."

I observe that the resolution on which your church must vote speaks of "the Masonic Fraternity" and other secret societies as "oath-bound." On that word the question seems to turn; and the resolution, as I understand it, assumes that an unlawful oath is the tie which binds the members of the society to each other and to the institution. According to the resolution, if it shall be adopted, the members of these societies are to be excluded from the church, not simply because the societies are secret, nor because church members who belong to them are attempting to establish an impossible "concord of Christ with Belial," nor because they have "fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness," but distinctly and only because of the oath which they have taken. The proposal to exclude them for that reason is right if the oaths referred to are such as contradict and nullify a profession of repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. Are the oaths unlawful? And if so, are they so clearly unlawful that no man who has taken them can be recognized as living a Christian life, unless he acknowledges their sinfulness and repents of having taken them? Thus we come to the question, what is an unlawful oath?

1. There are those who hold, with the Quakers, that every oath is unlawful. But I assume that with their scruples we have nothing to do in the present discussion.

2. An oath may be unlawful simply because it is profane. The frivolousness of the occasion on which it is taken may make it a manifest breach of that commandment, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." The habit of profane swearing is so inconsistent with Christian character that no man continuing in that habit, can give credible evidence of repentance and faith. Any single act of profane swearing, if not repented of, is a sin which even a charitable judgment must regard as inconsistent with a profession of godliness.

3. When a man binds himself by oath to do that which he ought not to do, his oath is not only profane, but in a higher degree unlawful. The murderer who kills because he binds himself by oath beforehand to do that deed, is not less guilty, but more guilty. The "more than forty" conspirators who had bound themselves with an oath that they would neither eat nor drink till they had slain Paul, had taken an unlawful oath, and if any member of that secret society had afterward applied for admission to the church of Jerusalem he ought not to have been received without evidence that he had repented of that particular sin. Herod's oath, when he swore away (as he thought) his liberty and individual responsibility, and bound himself to do whatever wicked thing another person might require him to do, was an unlawful oath, and if he had afterward sought admission to the communion of the saints, he ought not to have been received without evidence that he had repented of the oath as well as of the murder.

But here comes up a question of fact which must be a specific question in regard to each of the societies referred to: What is the oath which this man, now seeking admission to the fellowship of saints, has taken? The fact that it is an extra-judicial oath is not enough to condemn it. The covenant which a church member takes upon himself at his public admission into the church is really an oath, extra-judicial, but not profane. The earnest appeals of Paul in some of his epistles when he calls God to be his witness, are oaths extra-judicial, but not therefore impious. I can imagine a society, not open to the public, yet existing for some good purpose, and initiating its members religiously, with a formal recognition of God and of responsibility to him for the performance of the duties then and there assumed. Such an appeal to God would be essentially an oath; but I cannot see that it will be of course an unlawful oath. Before I can pronounce such an oath unlawful I ought to know what was the occasion on which it was taken—what was the supposed need of it, what was the form of it, what were the engagements and promises it confirmed by its sanction. The so-called oath which one society imposes on its members may be simply a religious engagement, reverent in phrase and manner, promising nothing but what is innocent and right. That imposed by another society may be extravagant and shocking in language, irreverent and indecent in the manner of administering it, and the the sanction of a promise like that of Herod, or like that of the conspirators against Paul. I have reason to believe that the secret societies differ from each other in that respect.

Therefore I say that the church, before it excludes an applicant because of his adherence to an "oath-bound" society, ought to know definitely what the oath is which he has taken and is not ready to abnjure. But how is the church to find out about the oath? To such a question I may answer, Why is not the simple and straight-forward way the best way in every instance? Ask the man himself, who is the member of some "oath-bound" society, what the oath is which binds him, and what the promises are which he made under the oath. If it can be shown that he does not tell the truth, reject him for his falsehood; otherwise believe him, and on his testimony judge whether the oath, which he has taken and regards as binding, is contradictory of the profession which he proposes to make. If the oath, for its frivolousness, or for any other reason, was a taking of God's name in vain—if it has ensnared and blinded his conscience, impairing the sense of his responsibility to God for what he may do at the bidding and under the rules of his society—all that will come out in the course of a kind and careful examination of the candidate.

I am not an admirer of church legislation. I do not see the wisdom of making any new tests of Christian character, or of demanding from those who desire to become members of the church anything more or anything less than such evidence of repentance toward God and faith toward Christ our Redeemer, as "rational character can accept.

This letter, I fear, will not hinder your church from falling to pieces in a wrangle about "oath-bound societies." May God save you from the result. Your request put me upon an endeavor to give you a very short answer. But it has led me into the expenditure of much more time than I could really afford to spare. I fear that the time has been spent in vain, though I have done what I could for you, at a loss to myself. Your servant for Christ's sake, LEONARD BACON.

P.S. Let me commend to particular attention those lessons of charity and mutual toleration in diversities of judgment which the Apostle Paul gives in Rom. xiv. and 1 Cor. viii.
New Haven. L. B.

PROPHETS OF EVIL.

There is no special virtue in maintaining a constant croaking, which only has its ground in misanthropy or dyspepsia; but there are prophets of evil whose burden is from the Lord, and who from the deepest convictions and most righteous principles, are led to speak plainly, and solemnly and sternly, while others around are saying soothing words. And though it is exceedingly fashionable to decry such persons as croakers and misanthropes, who, separating themselves from the sympathy and fellowship of humanity, only speak the evil which their hearts desire should come to pass, yet it will be found that in many cases such insinuations are unjust, and unwarranted by the facts in the case. Whenever we find ourselves disposed to reject the prophecies of evil, and the forbodings of devout men, it should be our first business to inquire whether sin and iniquity, either open or secret, is at the foundation of those things against which evil is denounced. If this be the case, then we may be sure that the prophecy of evil is no idle babbling. When sin triumphs, wrath impends; and when iniquity prevails, the prophet of evil is the prophet of truth.

The world has been full of men crying "Peace, peace," when there is no peace. There were prophets of peace, no doubt, in the days before the deluge. There were prophets of peace in Jerusalem. Ahab had eight hundred and fifty prophets who all united to speak good of him—bloody villain though he was. When Jerusalem was doomed to overthrow, there were not wanting men who predicted prosperity and peace. And when the last day, the judgment, breaks upon the world, it will find men wrapped in slumber and saying, "peace and safety," in the very face of "sudden destruction."

On the contrary, in "this present evil world" the prophets of God whom he has owned and honored, and whose predictions he has verified, have been to a great extent prophets of evil. Was not Noah a prophet of evil when he bore the solemn message that the world was doomed to destruction? Was not Jonah a prophet of evil when he cried, "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be destroyed?" Was not Jeremiah a prophet of evil, when he warned the people of Israel's captivity and Jerusalem's overthrow? Was not Joel a prophet of evil, when he called men to mourn and weep, and heralded the coming day of darkness, judgment and distress? Was not Daniel a prophet of evil when he foretold the overthrow of great nations, kindreds, peoples, and tongues? Was not Christ himself a prophet of evil, when he predicted the destruction of Jerusalem, and the judgments that were to come upon the world? And are not God's servants necessarily prophets of evil while they walk in the midst of the riot and iniquity of an evil world, and warn men of the danger of judgment to come? There are men who heal the wounds of Israel slightly, and speak to please the fancy and to charm the ear; but the true servant of the Lord must "Cry aloud and spare not;" must lift up his voice like a trumpet, and show to the house of Israel their transgressions and their sins.

And they must not be deterred from this by fear that men will call them prophets of evil. Sin ever ends in evil. The only way to avert it is to leave the wrong and cling to the right. A voice of divine compassion bids men turn, and pleads pleads with them saying, "Why will you die?" But those who pass on, pass on to their doom. Let the faithful servants of God warn the unwary, and let no fear of men's rebuke hinder them, or cause them to shun to declare all the counsel of God.—The Wayside.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN WAR.

A neutral territory has been proposed by a German gentleman, who has expressed his quaint ideas upon this subject in a pamphlet of much interest. He brings out in a new light the utter absurdity of the present war system for settling international difficulties, and makes a curious plea for peace principles. He suggests improvements in the arrangements for and the conducting of war as follows: The European powers shall set aside a neutral territory, to be devoted entirely to bloodshed; all other territory is to be held inviolate; all fighting is to be confined to comparatively small bands of highly trained combatants; the neutral territory is to be fitted up with admirable contrivances to cure, and large hospitals with surgeons and nurses, and depots of artificial limbs are to be always here in readiness for the wounded; the neutral territory to be devoted to martial purposes, is also to contain large cemeteries for those slain in battle, or perishing of wounds or disease; any two nations desiring to fight shall hire this territory, for the use of which there shall be a regular scale of prices; they may also hire all kinds of weapons for destroying hnman life; and last, but not least, all charges are to be paid strictly in advance, thus forming an immense revenue, to be devoted to the maintenance of wounded and disabled soldiers, and of the widows and orphans of those slain in battle. Bravo! we unanimously vote this German theorist an honorable member of the American Peace Society. His theory is admirable. We only with becoming meekness make one suggestion, it is that some Yankee genius now invent men-machines, working by internal springs, to do all the fighting upon said neutral territory. Then we will shut up our office, and declare the peace cause triumphant. — Advocate of Peace.

Our Foreign Letter.

On to Paris—The Vine-clad Hills Beyond—The Quaint old City of Dijon—Lyons and Marseilles—The Walls and Palace of Avignon—The Uninviting District near the Sea.

In journeying towards the capital we repeatedly crossed the Seine, passing long ranges of bluffs on either hand, and then large meadows and extensive fields under cultivation. The western farmer who imagines these last named to be peculiarities of his country would be surprised to see the broad acres within one enclosure, to be seen in central England and throughout the French republic. The fact that Europe is densely populated does not necessarily imply a minute division of her territory. Her population is centered in cities and villages. Isolated farm houses, so common in America, are seldom, if ever, seen in Europe. The cultivated fields, as a rule, have no buildings upon them whatever, nor are fences common.

Departing early one morning from Paris (which I pass for the present, until a second and more prolonged visit can be made,) we passed Fontainbleau forty miles southeast of the metropolis—the famous retreat of the first Napoleon—just as the sun was rising beautifully over its famous forests; almost the only extensive woods I chanced to see in journeying through France. As we proceeded vineyards appeared almost without number, covering the hill tops and extending down into the valleys. At La Roche we met a long freight train laden with nothing but wine casks. Traveling Parisward they probably were not empty.

Dijon, where we arrived at 3 P. M., contains 40,000 inhabitants, and was formerly the capital of the Duchy of Burgundy. Situated in the heart of the nation, 200 miles southeast of Paris, in every particular French, and of antiquated appearance, although containing no special objects worthy of extended notice, there is yet a quaintness about the whole city and its inhabitants which are immensely interesting to the traveler who visits it for the first time. The same remark is true also of Macon, a lesser city eighty miles south of Dijon, on the Saone.

Time and space will not permit us to speak at length of the magnificent cities of Lyons and Marseilles. Each has a population of upwards of 300,000, Lyons being a little larger of the two. The location of each is splendid, the one being at the junction of the Saone with the Rhone, the other upon the Mediterranean. Each city has a lofty eminence overlooking it, upon which towers a pilgrimage church dedicated to the Virgin, and each containing a "miraculous" and highly revered image of her; the walls of both being covered within with innumerable votive tablets and offerings. Of rival magnificence, too, are the views which the two churches command. Standing by Notre Dame on the height of Fourvieres at Lyons, one beholds the whole city, the two rivers, (the sluggish Saone and the majestic Rhone) their numerous bridges, an extended plain and distant mountains; while from the terrace of the Notre Dame de la Garde at Marseilles the traveler sees beneath and before him a beautiful and varied panorama of city, mountainous surroundings and sea, a vision, it may be, a little less extended than the other, but by no means less picturesque or inspiring. In the former city, situated as Lyons is on a narrow tongue of land between two rivers, a stranger will seldom, if ever, miss his way; in the latter place it is almost impossible for him not to do so. Lyons throughout is an imposing city. Marseilles is in two divisions, the one part being as miserably unprepossessing as the other is attractive. Lyons is a manufacturing city famous for silk. Marseilles enjoys a brisk maritime traffic with the east, Italy and Algiers.

The not over fertile valley of the Rhone between these two cities is unworthy of particular mention. Seventy-five miles north of Marseilles is Avignon, a city of 36,000 inhabitants, in general aspect novel and totally unlike any of the other cities we had passed. Circling the entire city is a high wall in a most excellent state of preservation, whose massive blocks of stone unblackened by time, have oddly enough been bleached by the warm sunshine of centuries to a marvellous whiteness. Above the walls and low and antiquated buildings of the city rise he still loftier walls and towers of the palace, built and occupied by the various popes during the 14th century, when they were pleased to honor Avignon by taking up their abode there. Even in its decay this gloomy pile of buildings is more grandly imposing by far than is the more famed Vatican at Rome, now the palace prison of Pius IX.

South of Avignon is a varied country. There are fertile oases, but it is mainly sterile and very stony. It becomes rough and hilly. The air, too, becomes milder and olive orchards appear. The houses in the villages are low, of brick and stone, covered with ugly grey tiles and plastered without. You think them the homliest that ever saw the sun, and so dreary and comfortless do they appear that you fancy yourself past the pale of civilization. The fields, however, stony as they are, are well cultivated, and that speaks something for to-day. Occasional castles like that of King Rene of Anjou at Tarascon, or the Counts Toulouse at Beaucaire, point significantly at medieval power and splendor. The extensive Roman ruins of triumphal arches, baths and amphitheatres to be found at Orange and Nimes and Artes and throughout this whole region, also remind us of that period in history when southern Gaul was a prized and populous portion of the Roman Empire and a place of popular residence for many of the nobles even of the Imperial city.

In my next, Italy.

Yours, B. T. Pettengill.

Schuyler Colfax and his Pet Society.

BY J. W. WOOD.

Baraboo, Wis.

Editor Cynosure: It was announced a few weeks ago in our local paper, that on a given day the Hon. Schuyler Colfax would deliver in our town his lecture on Abraham Lincoln.

Public sympathy was challenged by making the proceeds payable to a Sunday school.

Tickets were placed on the market at fifty cents each, reserved seats seventy-five cents. After the tickets were well sold it was again announced that after the lecture on Lincoln some twenty minutes would be spent in presenting the subject of Odd-fellowship.

There are those in the community who may honor Mr. Colfax as having been a "ruler of the people," and who might be willing to pay liberally for hearing him talk on a topic which challenges so much sympathy as that of Abraham Lincoln, but feel no honor for him as a champion of secrecy, and who believe that no man ought to be honored as a statesman who places himself where he can be approached by clansmen with secret signs, which he has pledged himself to obey.

It looked like an attempt to foist obnoxious sentiments upon an audience secured by the advertisement of something else and as such was protested against. Of course it did no good. The occasion has provoked some discussion, and has prompted me to look into the matter of Odd-fellowship more closely than ever before. The one constant assurance that we receive is, that it is a benevolent order, charitable in its objects, and that its signs and passwords are only adopted to guard it from imposition.

Now I wish to discuss the question in such a way as to challenge the attention of the Odd-fellows themselves, and though I have on my table a full revelation of all the pledges, ceremonies and signs of the order, I will make no allusion to them, but appeal to, and quote from the published proceedings of the R. W. Grand Lodge of Wisconsin, held in Milwaukee last December and published for the order by David Atwood, of Madison. I think I can find enough to show the true character of the institution and settle forever its claims to benevolence.

It seems from reading the report that the one great offense which transcends all others in the matter of Odd-fellowship is the "N. P. D." (non-payment of dues). In a list of questions settled by the Grand Master we read:

"Q. Is a brother who is in arrears for dues five days thereby deprived of his weekly benefits? A. No. Dues accrue weekly, and a member cannot be in arrears for a fraction of a week."

So we see that a week's neglect is sufficient to cause a forfeiture of a member's claims on this "benevolence."

8th Question. "Can a lodge donate its weekly dues to a brother who is a minister, or because he is acting as chaplain?" "A. No."

Sharp on the ministers. We see the obligation to pay dues cannot be remitted. On page 194 of the appendix in the Digest of General Laws, we read: "A brother in arrears for dues at the time he is taken sick cannot, on payment of such arrears be entitled to benefits during such sickness;" that is, a week's neglect to pay dues works a forfeiture of all right to benefits, no matter how many years they have been paid. These dues are not a definite amount which foresight can provide for; for on the same page we read: "Assessments for legitimate purposes work a forfeiture of membership in case of non-payment, the same as failure to pay dues." On 195th page: "A lodge is not bound to pay benefits to a member whose disability is occasioned by immoral conduct." Decisions under this rule would be curious and possibly instructive. It affords a wide field for the discretionary exercise of benevolence.

On 196th page: "To entitle the family to funeral benefits the deceased brother must have been entitled to benefits under the by-laws of the lodge;" that is, not even sickness can excuse a brother from paying his weekly dues.

Page 202: "Dropped, is the term used in cases where failure to pay dues exceeds twelve months."

Page 205: "The funds of a lodge cannot legally be used to relieve the family of a member who has been dropped for N. P. D."

Page 207: "A lodge has a right to classify initiation fees, so that such fees may be varied from the lawful minimum upwards, according to the ages of applicants."

That is, this benevolent order can fix a scale of charges, increasing as the risk increases, much like insurance companies.

Page 213: "A brother over fifty years of age who has previously been a member of the order five years, is eligible to become a non-beneficial member." That is, he may have paid weekly dues and assessments for from five to fifty years, but if he has once been dropped, from poverty or other cause, he may be restored to "quasi" membership, but can never again be a recipient of this heaven-born benevolence, if fifty years of age.

Page 217: "A Daughter of Rebekah forfeits her membership by marrying to any other than an Odd-fellow." A woman may have paid her weekly dues for any length of time hoping for the benevolent returns so freely promised, but if she marries out of the order she forfeits her whole investment. This is simply abominable, but prompted doubtless by a benevolent desire to secure wives for their bashful members. This Rebekah degree is a monument of Mr. Colfax's life work. It was established in 1857. Its leading object was to establish another system of dues so as to swell the resources of the lodges and also to involve as many of the wives of Odd-fellows as possible so as to reconcile them to that desire of their husbands to seek a "true sympathy outside of the family relation."

I see on the 88th page of the report that the women are in rebellion against Mr. Colfax's platitudes, by which they are made Daughters, for we read:

"Here is a memorial and petition sent up by Lincoln Rebekah Degree Lodge, No. 32, Paterson.

"1. That the lecture of the Noble Grand to candidates is very tedious from its length.

"2. That it is unnecessarily verbose and abounds in unmeaning phrases; that as a labored attempt at fine writing it cannot be called a great success. Many repetitions of the same phrase, like "Nor yet alone," and other repetitions provoke unpleasant criticisms and inquiries as to its meaning and propriety.

"3. We would therefore petition, etc."

So it seems the good sense of some of the women has flashed through all of this twaddle of Mr. Colfax, and they desire its amendment. Why not abolish it entirely?

On the 55th page the question is introduced: "Is a lodge bound to pay a brother his weekly benefits who has become unable to do work through the infirmities of old age?"

In the absence of satisfactory rules in regard to this matter, it is proposed on the 57th page to instruct the delegates to the Grand Lodge of the U. S., to submit and advocate a resolution in that body like the following:

"Resolved, That members of the fraternity shall in no case be legally entitled to daily support and living from the funds of the order by reason of disabilities proceeding solely from advanced age, until they shall have been and remained in membership for a period of ten consecutive years."

Of all the inducements which a man might feel to lead him into this society, that of making provision for the infirmities of age might be one of the strongest; but after an existence of fifty years its rule is not yet determined, but the resolution advocated of a probation of ten years, expresses the sense of Wisconsin Odd-fellowship. A very prudent benevolence.

On the 5th page Odd-fellowship is summed up in tables and the following are some of the results: The average receipts of the order per member is $9.21. Of this amount $3.32, or about 36 per cent. is paid out in relief. From these figures it is seen that for every dollar of benefit secured through the order the recipient pays $2.77—a high rate of premium certainly. This is the general average. To confine our figures to Wisconsin, as given on the 3d page, we find the total membership in the State is 13,039; total revenue $83,993.32. This gives as the average cost of membership $6.44. The amount of relief paid is $26,160.97 or an average to each member of $2.00. So that every dollar of relief secured by a Wisconsin Odd-fellow costs him $3.22. I cannot see that there is any appeal from these figures. One thousand dollars secured in this way would cost $3,220.

With life insurance companies this amount can be secured by ten annual payments ranging from forty to sixty dollars or an endowment or annuity can be secured at proportionate rates. With them there is not the least allusion made to benevolence. It is a dry business transaction and the terms are such as to leave a safe margin on the side of the insurance companies. With them women do not forfeit their policies by marrying outside of the company.

Want of space forbids that I should quote further in this direction. I wish to ask the Odd-fellows of Baraboo why I am not right in saying that applying the term "benevolent" or "charitable" to such an institution, that continually cries "Give, give," and guards by such rigid laws the mere pittance of 31 per cent. which is doled out under the head of "relief," is an astounding perversion of the English language.

[Concluded next week.]

There is now published in San Francisco a Chinese newspaper called The Oriental. It is wholly inspired by and published in the interests of heathenism. The religion is the religion of Confucius. Its morality and politics are Confucian. Even its natural science is taken from the Yih-king, the oldest book in Chinese literature. It maintains the same contemptuous tone toward the people of the land in which they themselves are strangers which is maintained by the Chinese in China toward foreigners. Americans and other western nations are "foreigners," "barbarians," or "border tribes;" while the Chinese are the "inhabitants of the central kingdom," "inhabitants of the flowery land, "men of the Iang [or renowned] dynasty." In brief, the paper is a powerful instrument to bind the Chinese emigrant to his native land and to his ancient heathen religion, and is full of that bigotry of self-conceit which belongs both to the people and their superstitious faith.—Miss. Visitor.

That man who would be freed from the power of this appetite must go further than the secret lodge, he must go to an open Christ for deliverance from that one vice. The whole heart that is desperately wicked, and of which drunkenness is but one symptom, must be surrendered. There is no good hope of a man till he is born again; till, by complete committal to the Saviour, he will find himself saved from the power of strong drink. Who can doubt, then, in the face of the thousands who in New York, in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago, testify to the power of Christ to deliver them from the power of this demon? —Censer.

Reform News.

The United Brethren General Conference.

TRUTH AND REFORM VICTORIOUS ! !
(Note from the Secretaries.)

U. B. Gen'l Conf. Room,
Westfield, Ill., May 16, '77.

There is quite a full delegation here, 111 members being present. There will be no backward step taken on secret societies. In the celebrated appeal case from Summit Street church, Dayton, O., the relative strength of the two elements was pretty clearly shown, although several members were absent when the vote was taken. Two members of the church named were expelled for refusing to withdraw from secret societies, after due labor according to Discipline. Pro-secrecy men appealed to the quarterly conference, and the action of the class was reversed. The other side then took the matter to annual conference, where the quarterly conference was sustained. An appeal from that body was taken to the General Conference, which reversed the action of the annual conference by a vote of SEVENTY-EIGHT to TWENTY-TWO. Thank the Lord! Through all the efforts of the last four years, the pro-secrecy element is weaker in this body now, than it was four years ago.

N. R. Luce,
P. Hurless, } Secy's.

The Michigan Agency.

Bro. Kellogg: Please allow me to say through the columns of the Cynosure that my headquarters, until further notice is given, will be at Hickory Corners, Barry Co., Mich., where I wish my letters directed to me in care of Rev. E. W. Bruce.

Those wishing my services as lecturer can write either to me or directly to E. W. Bruce, who will be kept acquainted with my whereabouts and will correspond with me immediately.

Those wishing to send subscriptions or money on old subscription, can send it to me here as directed above.

Yours in Gospel bonds,
D. P. Rathbun,
Agent and Lecturer.

From La Grange County, Ind.

Ossian, Ind, May 12, 1877.

Dear Cynosure: I must write you again and am glad to let the friends in Indiana know that our cause is progressing not only steadily but rapidly. In this county (Wells) we have had the last week and will have for a week to come, the labors of Dr. S. L. Cook (State Agent). His lectures are well received. He is an able lecturer and makes a very decided impression, and even in this thronged season he has full houses in perfect silence listening for two hours to his arguments and eloquence, Why do we not pay him better? I see in last Cynosure that John Wilson was lecturing every night in Lagrange Co. Bro. Wilson never made a public speech any where. It was Dr. Cook; he gave fifteen lectures in that county. I hope you will give him credit for what he does. He goes again to Lagrange to hold a convention on the 30th and 31st of this month, commencing on evening of the 30th. Rev. D. P. Rathbun is expected there. Let the friends have a good meeting there, and I hope all the friends in Indiana will remember the National Convention at Dayton. The friends in this State ought certainly to send Dr. Cook means to enable him to attend the meeting at Dayton, Ohio. It may be sent to him at Albion, Ind., or to Peter Rich, Treasurer, Westfield, Ind.

Yours in truth,
Absalom Housel.

All Things Ready in California.

Woodland, Yolo Co., Cal.,
May 9, 1877.

Editors Christian Cynosure: Our lecturer, Henry Cogswell, has arrived, and we have engaged his services for six months at this time. As he wants to engage at once in the work, we have made arrangements for him to commence on the 20th of this month, at Woodland.

We wish now that the friends of the cause, wherever they can make the arrangements in their different localities for his lectures and desire his labors to write to the secretary, so that the programme can be made out, so as to save time and expense of travel, and suit the different localities as to time.

And now, brethren, we need to stand by each other and our worthy lecturer; so that the talents, means, time and influence of all the friends may flow in one channel. As the Lord gives grace and opportunity to work, labor and advance this glorious cause to the honor and glory of his excellent name. May the Lord bless our feeble efforts and may our dependence be ever upon him alone.

Phil. Beck, Secretary.

—An interesting letter from Bro. Stoddard, who has just visited Hillsdale, Mich., and Oberlin, Northwood, Ontario and West Geneva, Ohio, was received too late to appear in this number. He is more and more confirmed in the belief that Ohio is one of the most favorable fields for our work in the Union. Others say the same of Iowa and Illinois, and Bro. Ronayne has certainly had most flattering testimonies in Canada of the growing popularity of his work. Truly the harvest calls for more laborers.

Correspondence.

From a Colorado Union Meeting.

Boulder, Col.

Editor Christian Cynosure: I have not seen your paper since I left Wisconsin two years ago. I spent the following summer in Connecticut, and found that very many of my old friends and acquaintances had been drawn into the lodge, and one who was master of a lodge, told me that he never made himself known as a Mason, when among strangers. He considered the system of no value. I circulated a number of your tracts hoping they might prevent others from being drawn into the lodge.

I and part of my family are here at the foot-hills of the Rocky Mountains in Boulder, a fine town of 3000 inhabitants, full of secret orders standing directly in the way of the salvation of men. I stated at a union meeting that I had been made sad that day by seeing a number of men with spears and tomahawks, looking more like Indians about to take the war-path than men on the way to bury the dead. I wished to be buried by no such heathenish rites, which were often pronounced over bad men, sending them to "the Grand Lodge above." A Methodist minister present, a Freemason, took issue by praying most earnestly for my bigoted and ignorant soul, and afterward said that he belonged to three secret orders, and if such subjects were to be mentioned he should withdraw from the meeting. The Congregational minister said that secret societies did stand in the way of the cause of Christ, and some had said to him that their religion and order was as good as the church, and he should preach against them if all his congregation left him. The Reformed Episcopal minister joined with him, and the Baptist minister is opposed to secret societies. There is a nucleus here for a strong work. We need papers, tracts and and the prayers of all good men for the speedy destruction of these sinkholes of the pit.

A. C. Chittenden.

A Court Incident in the Provinces.

To show the legitimate results of Masonry, as interfering with justice and intercepting a lawful process, at the same time establishing the boasted claim that "Masonry is the same all over the world," the same unmitigated evil; we offer the following from an Anti-masonic publication, issued in 1835, in our hands:

A few years ago a circumstance occurred in one of the criminal courts in the Province of New Brunswick, which at that time excited considerable interest. The circumstances are these: A man had been charged and indicted for murder. He was put on trial, and the evidence being so strong and clear against the culprit the jury soon found him guilty.

The court ordered the prisoner to stand up and receive his sentence. The prisoner arose, and raising both his hands three several times, and letting them fall again by his sides exclaimed, "Oh! Lord, my God! Oh! Lord, my God! Oh! my God!" at the same time looking the court sternly in the face. The court seemed to be struck by an electric shock, and immediately exclaimed, "Why, this man is crazy! Take him away, officers, immediately; we cannot try a crazy man." He was taken away, and how he was eventually disposed of the public was never informed. This circumstance was known to hundreds of that place, who were unable to account for the singular occurrence. As the saying is, however, "time, patience and perseverance will accomplish all things." It happened that some of "Allyn's Rituals" found their way into the neighborhood, which cast a little light on this mysterious transaction. It happened that "the grand hailing sign of distress of a Master Mason," was given by the prisoner at the bar, and on inquiry it was found that the prisoner was a Master Mason, who had taken the following oath: "I furthermore swear, should I ever see the grand hailing sign of distress of this degree given, or hear the words accompanying it, and the person giving it appearing to be in distress, I will fly to his relief and rescue him if in my power, if there is not more probability of losing my life than hope of saving his." The judge had evidently taken this oath, which accounts for his action, the facts being known, but what involved the matter in so much mystery then, was that the oath was not revealed, as it was after by Morgan and others. The judge could not sentence a brother Mason, although he was most clearly a murderer—he must have the sweets of liberty and the opportunity of committing other murders.

In this manner "Masonry makes all men equal," i. e., all Masons, and gives them a great advantage over other criminals. As I view the matter now, only a desire and determination to be a villain of the worst type, and have ample protection from the law would induce me to join a Masonic lodge, and be 'passed' and 'raised' to the seventh Masonic heaven, or the "Royal Arch degree," to have the benefit of the following obligation or oath:

* * Furthermore, I do promise and swear, that I will aid and assist a companion Royal Arch Mason when engaged in any difficulty, and to espouse his cause, so far as to extricate him from the same, if in my power, whether he be right or wrong. Furthermore, do I promise and swear, that a companion Royal Arch Mason's secrets, given me in charge as such, and I knowing them to be such, shall remain as secure and inviolable in my breast as his own, murder and treason not excepted."

What John Wesley truly said of slavery, may be aptly said of the slavery of Free(?)masonry, "It is the sum of all villainies." Masons of every character, virtuous or vicious, in the language of Rob. Morris' poetry, may say, "We meet upon the level;" and if they are "tried upon the square" it is a Masonic square that will condemn the innocent and clear the guilty. I have no ambition to stand in the manhood of Masonry, under its canopy, upon the "checkered floor," with its manacles upon me. And if a knowledge of its secrets are desired, a few dimes will obtain them from the Cynosure office, without the embarrassment and unpleasantness of a gag in the mouth. Freemen of America, maintain your freedom. O that the young might see and avoid the snare so artfully laid for their feet. It is one of Satan's wiles—one of his most fatal decoys. Let us all beware.

C. P. Dow.

Did Solomon Know Anything about Masonry?

Racine, Wis.

Till lately I had supposed not. But a careful comparison of some of his expressions shows that he either knew it or something very much like it. For instance, in Prov. 6:12 etc.: "A wicked man winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet; he teacheth with his fingers. * * * He deviseth mischief continually." Again, "I was almost in all evil." Prov. 5:14. How could that be unless he had been in "the lodge?" Again, what he says of his experience of "vanity" and the "vanity of vanities," fits well to the theory that he was a lodge-man in those dark days when he went after "Moloch, the abomination of the children of Ammon." 1 Kings 11:7.

Jas. Kilbourn.

Be Consistent.

Allegheny, Pa., May 12, 1877.

Dear Cynosure: I am a United Presbyterian, and if for no higher principle, for consistency's sake, I am obliged to be an Anti-mason. I know there worship under the U. P. "vine and fig tree" numbers of secretists, none even daring "to make the afraid." In our communion all males proposing to join by "examination" are consistently questioned; and if found to belong to any secret order not admitted unless they renounce said order. Daughters of Rebecca and Good Templars, etc., are spared that "annoyance." If members of secret orders are in they can stay in, i. e., they are harbored if they succeed in running the blockade. If secretism is a bar to Christian communion, it is a sufficient cause for expulsion. If members of the church are "inconsistent with the genius and spirit of Christianity" why not call them to an account. "Associations formed on the principle of secrecy are liable to objections of a very serious character." This is putting it mildly indeed. The day has come when it will not do to succor secretism with such denunciations. Under such treatment it has become a power, and we, pastor and people, are afraid of it. May God give more courage to pastors and sessions whose duty it is more immediately to deal with this evil.

Joseph McKee.

Our Mail.

G. Swentzell, Cottage Hill, Pa., writes:

"I am highly pleased with the Cynosure and I do think that every honest and intelligent man who reads it will express the same sentiment. I feel that there is a bright and promising future for this reform. The eyes of many who sat in ignorance in reference to secrecy and its manifold evils are being opened and light is breaking in. May the Cynosure be the means under the guidance and blessing of God of sweeping the blasphemous worship of Freemasonry from church and state and raise the cry of no compromise. Let the worship of Baal go down, for it is written, 'Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.' Success to the reform."

R. I. King, Benton Harbor, Mich., writes:

"I give my Cynosures to some of my neighbors. I have given them to preachers and editors. I am trying to scatter light in this part of Michigan. There is a U. B. church here. They have secret society members with them I cannot join them on this account. Myself and family have formerly been Wesleyans, but there is no class here now. We are going to try to raise up one. A member of the M. E. church told me a few days since that the opposition to secrecy was what had killed the Wesleyans."

We have not heard that the "Wesleyans" were killed. They seem to be doing aggressive work for Christ from our standpoint.

John T. Comstock, Rollin, Michigan, writes:

"Take courage. May the Lord bless your cause, which he is already doing, and the future is to me more hopeful."

C. A. Webb, Greenbush, Wis., writes:

"I like the Cynosure and its principles, and hope it will enlighten the people till they will learn that it is not Christian-like to take Masonic oaths under penalty of having their throats cut from ear to ear."

Lewis Prevard, Bedford, Iowa, writes:

"We are trying to raise an anti-secret society in Bedford. The lodge has full possession here. By the help of God we shall fight on this line."

Wilberry Miller, Kingston, Caldwell Co., Mo., writes:

"I am seventy-four years old and still have no use for spectacles. I have been fighting against Masonry seven or eight years and cannot give up. Masons say Freemasonry does good in the army, that the lives of spies are saved by showing the signs. They say Masons do not go to law with each other; but that we have to, and always are beaten, and so on. I never was conquered by them yet, neither do I fear them. We have people who will receive nothing but what has a 'Thus saith the Lord for it.' Nicolaitanism reigns supremely here."

Rev. W W. Ames, Menomonee, Dunn Co., Wis., writes:

"I read in the Boston Traveler a report of Mr. Moody's address on "Walking with God," and no allusion whatever was made to secretism. So either he failed to 'out with it' and to tread on ministerial and other toes, or else the paper failed to report that part of the address. Which was it?"

We are glad to say God gave Mr. Moody grace to speak in the discourse referred to against secret societies. It is copied from the Boston Globe (the paper that reported Mr. Moody most fully) in the Cynosure of April 5th.

The remarks are not so full as our Chicago reports of the same sermon; but in Chicago the daily papers did not publish his remarks against secret societies in so strong and clear a shape as Mr. Moody gave them, and the Globe report may have been defective.

Home and Farm.

CAUTION.—The other day, as Mrs. E. N. Morse, of North Montpelier, and a daughter aged fifteen years, were looking over gladiolus bulbs, they were tempted to see what they tasted like. Removing the outer skin, they inserted their teeth into one, but not biting it. Almost immediately after, they were taken with pains in their stomachs and cramps through their whole bodies. Remedies were at once given that counteracted the poison, though they were very sick all night.

THE DANGER OF SEDATIVES.—The Popular Science Monthly gives this warning on the important matter of using sedatives for little ones: One of the great dangers attending the use of the various sedatives employed in the nursery is that they tend to produce the opium habit. These quack medicines owe their soothing and quieting effects to the action of opium, and the infant is by them given a morbid appetite for narcotic stimulants. The offering for sale of such nostrums should be prohibited as tending to the physical and moral deterioration of the race. In India mothers give to their infants sugar pills containing opium, and the result is a languid, sensual race of hopeless debauchees. In the United States the poisonous dose is administered under another name, but the consequences will probably be the same.

HOW TO PURIFY THE BLOOD.

It is pretty generally understood that health depends much upon the purity of the blood. And it is supposed that certain drugs and medicines possess a sort of magic power to purify the blood. It is supposed to be the peculiar office of these medicines to purify the blood; but somehow little is thought of the effect of the food which is eaten, as having a tendency to the purity or the impurity of the blood. Food is taken for another purpose, to sustain life; hence it is not intended or expected, to have any effect upon the blood.

But is not the blood formed from what we eat? And would it not be better to eat such food as will make good blood than to eat such thing things as must make impure blood, and then depend upon drugs and nostrums vile to purify it? We say, then,

1. Eat such food only as you are sure will form pure blood. If you do not want scrofulous blood, stop eating scrofula. Leave off taking into the system the impurities contained in animal oils, earthly salts, and indigestible condiments; and let your food be of the purest grains, fruits and vegetables; and let your drink be the purest, softest water you can get. Thus you will cease to add impurity to impurity.

2. Take in large quantities of pure atmospheric air, such as abounds out of doors; not of the kind that has been shut up in the house, heated by stoves, and breathed over and over again. Pure air is the best purifier of the blood. It is brought in close contact with the blood in the lungs, and quickens it and speeds it on its proper course.

3. Keep the skin by bathing and proper clothing, in the best condition to throw off by natural perspiration the impurities that are already in the system. Nature, unobstructed, has a way of her own to cast out impurities. She will do the work well if not hindered.

Let these rules be followed and the blood will be purified, if it is not too late to purify it.—Health Reformer.

A GOOD KALSOMINE.

Take four pounds of paris white put in a pail, cover it with cold water, and let it stand over night; put into a tin kettle a handful of glue and cover with cold water; in the morning set the glue on the stove, and add enough warm water to make a quart, and stir until dissolved; add the glue to the paris white, stir well and pour in enough warm water to make a pail three quarters full; then add blueing, a little at a time; stir until it is very slightly blueish. Use a good brush; go over one place in the wall until thoroughly wet; if your brush dries quickly, add more warm water, as the mixture is too thick; the brush must be kept wet. The mixture costs but very little.

Mr. Starr, an experienced orchardist at the Alton Horticultural Society, says he believes in very little pruning. "When I prune I cut clear back to the body of the tree but get along with as little pruning as possible. I would not allow a man to go into my orchard and prune in the ordinary way if he would do it for nothing. I say prune but sparingly; and I have every year less and less faith in this indiscriminate cutting away in the head of an apple tree."

Corn cobs make the best and cheapest summer fuel to be obtained. They are richer in potash than any wood, and the ashes ought to be saved for soap-making.

WHITEWASH FOR A SMOKED CEILING.—For the first coat mix to every two quarts of whitewash one cup of sifted ashes. This will prevent the smoke from striking through. After this another coat may be put on in the ordinary manner.

CLOVER AS A SHADE TO THE SOIL.

Of all grasses permissible in an orchard clover is the least objectionable and most beneficial, particularly as a shade. An enthusiastic agricultural writer argues that there is no other plant of so much value to farmers as this: "It furnishes the most perfect protection to the soil during the fierce dry heats of the summer. Being a constantly deciduous plant, its leaves are perpetually falling, and soon form a delicate covering for shade, and easily penetrated at all points by the air, which is the great carrier to the worn-out soil of those atmospheric elements that are to enrich it. In this way the clover plant not only contributes directly to the fertilizing of the soil by giving its own substance to it, but it furnishes a protective covering to the entire ground, which encourages and stimulates those chemical processes by which the hungry and exhausted soil is recuperated from the vast supplies of nutriment that are held in the atmosphere. It becomes to the farmer the most valuable fertilizer in the world, as it imparts fertility to the entire soil," It should be added, by way of caution, that every two or three years it should be plowed under and left for a year to rot in the soil; otherwise the ground may get too sod-bound, which is almost invariably injurious to fruit trees.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc. Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2 00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

Or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

By JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound. Price.....$1 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO. See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers. Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents
" " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion. Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown. Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2.00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,

DAYTON, O.

and by

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts
Per Doz. 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.

Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.

GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ernst." Paper Covers 50 centseach

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... ... 10 cts.
Per Doz 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $3 0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,

10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail; By Express, per 100 $5 00,

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1877.

Shall Congregationalists Fellowship Adhering Freemasons?

We give, as promised, Dr. Leonard Bacon's letter in answer to this question. The question was put to him by a letter signed by the pastor, deacons and trustees of a Congregational church, all strangers to Dr. Bacon.

In May, 1846, thirty-one years ago, the Illinois State Congregational Association, sitting at Farmington, voted unanimously, "That an organization requiring an oath, or pledge of secrecy, of its members is, by that fact, different from and opposed to a church of Christ and a republican state." Since that time it has repeated and intensified its testimony against the secret orders. The subject has been fully and fairly considered and acted on by the State Association at Rockford, Geneseo, Jacksonville, Farmington, Ottawa, and perhaps one or two other places in the State, and always with the same result, except that in a few cases there have been negative votes.

During this period, during which a whole generation has passed away, the Congregational churches have been condemning the secret orders in words and supporting them in practice, and suffering steadily by their silent, aggressive, divisive influence. Pastor after pastor has been driven by the lodge from his work without knowing what cause displaced him. Meantime the Episcopal Methodists, and to a less extent, General Assembly Presbyterians, working beside the Congregational churches, have formed a Samaritan confederacy with the lodge-worships and taught, as the Samaritans did, a mongrel religion, "fearing God and serving idols," while the Episcopal churches are little better than Masonic lodges with doors open. Their Bishop in Illinois, an adventurous secret-order Presbyterian and Episcopalian of three or four years, was put over the old clergymen of that denomination by the scarcely veiled influence of the lodge.

Amid such religious forces the Congregational churches and ministry have steadily suffered. In Michigan, by the influence of Dr. J. B. Walker, the small Grand Traverse Association, meeting in the northern-woods part of the State, adopted resolutions adverse to the lodge. Instantly Rev. Mr. Hatch was formally required by the Freemasons of his congregation to disavow those resolutions or leave his pastorate. He did both. And several hundred lodgemen in the State issued a printed manifesto over their names, requiring all Masons in Michigan to forsake the ministry of Congregational pastors until the Grand Traverse resolutions were rescinded.

Now, as rational men, there is but one of two courses left for Congregationalists, viz., to go back on their record and make peace with the lodge, or exclude unrepentant, adhering Masons from their communion. In the discussion forty years ago, there was no division of Congregational sentiment as to condemnation of the lodge, and but little as to communing with it. Drs. Woods, Emerson, Skinner and Moses Stuart issued a strong pamphlet against the order, and almost all the venerable churches in and around Boston, some by resolution, and generally in fact, excluded Freemasons. All others would surely have done so had not the lodge feigned dead.

In these circumstances it is to be regretted that Dr. Bacon was not more explicit in his advice to the church whose officers applied to him. The question they put is no less than the question of life and death to the Congregational churches in this country; and hundreds of churches would have thanked him had he frankly stated that members of a secret fraternity of organized deists cannot properly be tolerated in Christian churches. Dr. Bacon knows just as well what Masonic oaths are as he does what oaths are sworn in New Haven Court-house, and he knows, too, that in vileness, frivolity and blasphemy they are all and worse than he hints they may be.

Possibly, as he is far-reaching and far-seeing, he intended his letter only as a feeler to bring out the sentiments of the constituent local associations which send delegates to the National Council to meet in Detroit, October 17, next. The discussion and settling of such practical questions which distress and distract the churches is really the only legitimate and proper work of a National Congregational Council; as the "question about circumcision" distressed and distracted the churches of Asia Minor, and was settled by general council at Jerusalem. Dr. Bacon is too sagacious not to see this; and that the Detroit Council must meet this issue squarely or sink into contempt with the churches as an attempted figure-head of wood. He has, therefore, put the communion question sharply before the constituent churches that the Detroit Council may not meet in ignorance of their will and judgment.

Most of the fall associational meetings will take place prior to the Detroit meeting. Congregational pastors who would be dismissed if they uttered the word Masonry in their pulpits can yet, in the local associations, overture this question to the Detroit Council, and Dr. Bacon shows in his letter in this number, not only his "contempt for the trumpery" of the lodge, but that he has the courage and ability to meet the practical question at Detroit and give the churches the needed advice.

The United Brethren in Christ.

The brief notes that have reached us from Westfield, Ill., where this body opened its quadrennial conference on the 11th inst., are full of a great hope—a strong confidence that in the future as in the past this great body of sincere believers will maintain its testimony against the sins of secretism. The note from those good brethren Luce and Hurless, secretaries of the General Conference, on another page shows the feeling on this question and confirms our estimate lately given, that the number of those who wish to make the United Brethren church a dumb ass to bear the burdens of the lodge is diminishing, albeit their activity and vigor of lung increases as their efforts tend more and more to personality and revenge. We are thankful to be able to give our readers the following interesting note from an honored member of the Conference:

Our General Conference has been in session five days past. The preaching and devotional spirit, up to this time, have been unusually good. We have never had a more decided Conference on the subject of secrecy. The law is likely to be made more effective rather than weakened.

The session is unusually large—not far from one hundred and ten delegates representing about thirty-eight conferences—two conferences being unrepresented in consequence of distance. The delegates are of fine physical proportions and countenance, and a strong body of men intellectually and spiritually.

All our general institutions are prosperous. Among these are the Publishing House at Dayton, Ohio; Union Biblical Seminary at the same place; our Missionary Society and Church Erection Society; and Sabbath-school Association; all with head-quarters at Dayton.

There is an element in this Conference very bitter against prohibitory law on secrecy, but it does not exceed nor equal one-fourth of the body. The most agitated questions of the church have not yet come up for regular discussion; but they will in a few days. The election of bishops and other general officers, which occurs every General Conference, has not yet taken place.

—The Secretary and General Agent has been speaking in Ohio during the past week. On Tuesday evening he lectured in the College chapel at Oberlin, and on Friday evening he had an appointment in West Geneva. Friends who have suggestions about the National Convention—topics to be discussed, reduction of railroad fare, etc.—or who wish lectures from some able man who will be on the way to Dayton soon, will write to Bro. Stoddard care Prof. Milton Wright, Dayton, Ohio.

—Bro. Hinman, of the Illinois work, has returned from Iowa and is this week attending the meeting of the Illinois Congregational Association, before which he desires to present the reform and report the efforts made in this State for its enlargment.

—It will be seen from the letter of Secretary Beck elsewhere, that Bro. Cogswell has safely arrived with his wife in California and arrangements are being made for a vigorous canvass of the State, in such points as may be accessible. The friends there will do well to make a strong and determined rally—strong in the confidence of victory, which is of the Lord, and which shall not abate its interest at seeming reverses. And in the midst of you struggles to inaugurate the lecture work do not forget that no leagues of plain or mountain barriers of rock shall prevent the sympathy and fellowship of thousands in these eastern States from earnest prayer in your behalf.

—Prof. J. W. Wood opens a review of Odd-fellowship, which through the contributions of himself and others, will be continued through two or three numbers. We learn that an advertisement appeared in the local papers of Baraboo offering a ticket to Mr. Colfax' lecture "for sale cheap" after the announcement that secretism was to be lugged in on the shoulders of Lincoln's reputation. The offer was accompanied by reasons that went home like solid shot. The committee was also requested to allow a defender of the truth and American principles a brief space to reply to Mr. Colfax. The request was refused, but the lecturer was so disturbed by it that instead of launching out in his usual grandiloquent style, he could do no more than make some very much needed apologies for the order.

—In connection with the letter of Dr. Bacon from the Advance we are happy to call attention to the able article on church and lodge fellowship of last week from the pen of State Lecturer Hinman. The two should be read in connection as the former supplies an argument which is the main deficiency in Dr. Bacon's letter.

—Past Master Ronayne is now for a time in New York, having filled appointments for twenty-one evenings in twenty-eight days—a wonderful task when we remember that the expositions take nearly or quite double the time of an ordinary lecture, but we cannot doubt it was thoroughly well done, and that the lodges of Ontario will never recover from the effect of these expositions. In a late business letter Mr. Ronayne says, that it seemed at every meeting that his prayer for a special blessing upon speaker and hearers was answered most graciously, so that he was sustained in the extraordinary physical exertion, and the work took that character of thoroughness as promises large and lasting results. He expects to remain in New York for a short time, possibly three weeks, before he turns westward.

—The telegraph has industriously reported State meetings of several secret orders lately. Among them the Grand Lodge of Odd-fellows of Indiana appears with the following: number of lodges 515, increase 6; members, 26,404, decrease 988. No wonder the order needed the consolations of ex-Vice-President Colfax and of Senator Oliver P. Morton, who made brief addresses on the occasion.

—The Lansing, Michigan, Republican has done a good work lately by calling attention to the finger marks of Jesuitism in the last edition of Appleton's Encyclopedia. This matter was ventilated on the first appearance of the revised edition by several religious papers in New York and is of enough importance not to be forgotten, since the work is the leading American publication of the kind. At the time it will be recollected that we called attention to the fact, very significant in the connection, that the publishers had received a valuable gift from the Pope, which had the appearance of a bribe, and at least showed, in connection with their publication, that there was a very good understanding between them and Rome. The Jesuit manipulations are quite sufficient to brand the book as unreliable in its historical allusions to Roman Catholicism.

"One hundred dollars and a case of brandy" will do for a trade-mark for the New York Custom-house, if Secy. Sherman's investigating committee give us facts. That is what one line of ocean steamers pay the inspectors every time a cargo is unloaded. The complaints that have centered upon the management of this great government establishment are in a fair way to have their value established; and we are willing to believe that a fair and thorough examination will be made, and dishonesty punished, a hope that no one has ventured to rest much upon in past years. The day of smuggled silks is nearly over; buy while they are cheap.

There is some truth in what George MacDonald says: "There is a great mistake in teaching children that they have souls. If you do, they think their souls to be something which is not themselves. For what a man has, cannot be himself. Hence, when they are told that their souls go to heaven, they think of themselves as lying in the grave. They ought to be taught that they have bodies and that their bodies die, but they themselves live on." It is they themselves, not merely something which they have, that must be saved and sanctified.

All our evils are to be traced up to two things—high views of ourselves and low views of Jesus.

Salve not thy wounds with poison, as if a petty goodness of to-day hath blotted out the sin of yesterday.—Tupper.

News of the Week.

—Pres. Hayes paid a visit to New York last week and was most enthusiastically received. A public reception in the City Hall on Wednesday was crowded and 5,000 persons shook hands with the Executive in an hour and a quarter.

—Capital punishment was established in Maine in 1875, and during the year following there was but one murder in the State, and in that case the murderer committed suicide. It was abolished in 1876, and in one year there were ten capital crimes demanding legal punishment.

– Terrible forest fires were raging last week in the White and Green mountains, in northern New York and in the province of New Brunswick. Dispatches from Clinton county, N. Y., stated on Wednesday that at Stackpole Forge, Cannon's Corners and Centre Valley, where the fires raged fiercest, the people are fleeing in every direction, frequently barely escaping with their lives. At the latter place twenty-seven dwellings with barns attached to most of them, six sawmills, two stores and one church were swept away; also, a large quantity of lumber, including over half a million finished shingles. The fires are still raging over an immense area of woodland, with no signs of rain to quench them. An appeal has been made to the charitable for food and clothing for the unfortunate. At Champlain, large quantities of provisions and necessary clothing have been contributed by citizens. The entire country is enveloped in dense smoke. It is stated there were many families living in the woodlands where the fires have raged so fearfully, and that undoubtedly many persons have perished while attempting to save their homes.

—A Berlin dispatch says: "The Turks confine their preparation to strengthening the Danubian fortresses. All these are being made more or less formidable, but strengthening their garrisons detracts from the number of their field officers. With all of the reinforcements recently brought up the Turks, it is believed, have no more than 200,000 north of the Balkans to resist 250,000 Russians.

—The following is from the official account of the battle of Ardahan: "The outworks of Ardahan, its fortifications, citadel, sixty guns, immense stock of provisions and ammunition, and the camp formerly occupied by fourteen battalions of Turks, lie at the feet of the Czar. On May 17 the admirable fire of our artillery, between 3 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, made a breach of the walls. At 6 o'clock the Erwan, Tiflis, and Baker regiments and the sappers advanced to the assault. The enemy could not withstand the onslaught, and fled, leaving a great number of dead. At 9 o'clock our troops traversed the whole town and fortifications."

—A Constantinople special telegraphs: "I am afraid we are on the verge of another coup d'etat. The relations between the Porte and the Chamber are so strained that the Chamber will probably be closed. The Deputies have made a violent attack on the Porte, alleging that the financial envoy who was sent to London was corrupt. Of 102 members, all but two voted censuring the appointment."

—The London Times says: "The famine which our Shanghai correspondent's letter describes this morning is a disaster of woful magnitude. It extends over a very wide region of the Empire, it is carrying off the population daily by thousands, and there is no near hope that its ravages will soon be over. Through the north and east of the country, from near the neighborhood of the Imperial city and from the shores of the Yellow Sea beyond the line of the Great Wall which shuts off China from the Western world outside, the terrible visitation extends. The suffering, we are told, is beyond description. In addition to the multitudes who have already perished under it, there is a large number of those who are just managing to keep alive, and from whose exhausted ranks fresh victims are continually added to the roll."

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook. 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen. Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago
For STATE LECTURERS State Agents list
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co. O
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

The Home Circle.

Three Words of Strength.

There are three lessons I would write,
Three words as with a burning pen,
In tracings of eternal light
Upon the hearts of men.

Have hope. Though clouds environ now
And gladness hides her face in scorn,
Put thou the shadow from thy brow—
No night but hath its morn.

Have faith. Where'er thy bark is driven—
The calm's disport, the tempest's mirth—
Know this—God rules the host of heaven,
Th' inhabitants of earth.

Have love. Not love alone for one,
But man, as man, thy brothers call,
And scatter like the circling sun,
Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul—
Hope, Faith and Love—and thou shalt find
Strength when life's surges rudest roll,
Light when thou else wert blind.

—Schiller.

Christians and Amusements.

As Christians we should avoid for ourselves and our children such amusements as are confessed badges of worldliness and such as have been appropriated to gambling and vice. We should not permit ourselves to resort to any amusement on which we cannot ask in prayer the blessing of God. We should avoid as evil to both body and soul those amusements which have degenerated into dissipation, which, instead of refreshing and invigorating, weary and exhaust us. We should flee from pleasures as from a pestilence, which demand the hours required for sleep. Our amusements should be mainly in our own homes. These homes should be lit up and made bright with every innocent and Christian joy, so that our children will prefer them to every other place on earth. And from innocent amusements those should be chosen which do not consume too much time. Our time belongs to the Lord as well as our talents. Our amusements should be such as refresh us and fit us for the duties of life; such as we may be able to drop at any given moment. Those that so excite and absorb that we find it difficult to turn away from them should, as a general rule, even though they be innocent, be avoided. One of the ablest preachers of this country, a few years since, rising from a game of chess, in which he was very expert, said, "I will never play the game again as long as I live, simply because I have not the time." In short all amusements must be kept subordinate and helpful to our great work in life. The moment that they become an end for which we live, they are an evil which we should shun.

But there are professors of religion who are always debating whether this or that worldly amusement be right. If they follow the inspired law laid down by Paul, their doubts would forever keep them from them. But instead of renouncing all doubtful pleasures which sweep out into the dreary waters of godlessness, like wayward children they are constantly treading on the verge of absolute disobedience, seeing how far they can go without bringing themselves under censure and into disgrace. Professing to love Christ supremely, they flit uneasily back and forth between him and the world; praying and sitting at the Lord's table to-day, doing homage to the world and sin to-morrow. Half converted souls, enjoying neither the world nor Christ, I came not to upbraid you, but to extend a helping hand. There is something better and higher for you. Leave forever that painful state of indecision. Come up from the lowland and fog and chill of worldliness on to the sunny heights of full consecration to Christ, where, filled with the joy of the Lord, godless pleasures will forever cease to charm you.—Standard.

Ruins of Egypt.

Memphis, one of the older cities of Egypt, was, at one time, very large and populous, and it abounded in temples and tombs of great magnificence and riches. It is almost entirely covered by the sand. It was located not far from the west bank of the Nile, a dozen miles or so above Cairo. Like many of the ancient temples and tombs of Egypt, on account of its location, near the mountains, the surface of the adjoining mountain has been crumbling and pulverizing for thousands of years, and the sand has been carried by the wind, and is covered from twenty to a hundred feet below the surface. Its remains, though fully described by ancient writers, have been but partially found. I was able to see but little of what Herodotus calls "the largest and most magnificent city of Egypt." A colossal statue of Ramesis the Great, who was on the throne during the captivity, lies on its face. It is forty-eight feet long, and has a breastplate like the Hebrew Urim and Thummim. The water of the Nile nearly fills the pit in which it lies, when the river is high. Eleven pyramids, the peaks of nearly all still visible, are among the ruins of Memphis and its vicinity. Of these and others in Egypt I shall speak again, as they are peculiar structures, and there are conflicting views as to the object and date of their erection. The great attraction in this place is the Serapeum, the Mausoleum where the sacred bulls were entombed. It was described by Strabo as "a very sandy spot, where we saw some sphinxes, buried up to their heads, and others half covered." Mariette, the famous antiquarian, took a hint from this passage in Strabo, and finding a sphinx, and regarding it as probable that it was one of a row leading to the Serapeum, he began to excavate. He went forward six hundred feet, finding one hundred and forty-one sphinxes, and reaching, at a depth of seventy feet, a cross avenue, leading to a temple on one side, and to the Serapeum on the other. In it he found an entrance to the tombs, where dead bulls were burned for a period of about one thousand four hundred years, ending about fifty years B. C. The vaults containing the sarcophagi are excavated in the solid rock, and are each thirteen feet long, seven and a half wide, and eleven high. They are ranged, on each ledge of a gallery, six hundred and thirty feet long, which is also cut into the solid rock. The sarcophagi occupy the centres of the vaults. They are made of red granite, highly polished, and large enough to hold such bulls as are in Egypt; but they would be a tight fit for some Durhams I have seen. I managed, with a few others of our company, to climb into one of them, its lid being partly removed. It may be that the bull, the remains of which formerly occupied this sarcophagus, was the same that was living, and was worshiped, when the Israelites left Egypt, in honor of which they fashioned the Golden Calf on their way to Canaan, concerning which conduct Moses issued a bull when he came down from the mount.

I visited the remains of several other temples and tombs further up the Nile. Abydos, Edfow, Esneh, and Isis, at different points from Cairo, to Philæ, in Nubia, are in the best state of preservation, the walls being almost complete, and some of them still retaining their roofs. They are all comparatively free from the sand-drifts, or have been relieved of them by excavation. By far the most extensive remains in Egypt, and in tolerable preservation, are those at Thebes, at Luxor, and on the western side of the Nile, opposite Luxor,. It has many temples, obelisks, colossals, sphinxes, towers, and tombs, and almost all are of the most magnificent proportions. It has four temples: Karnak, Luxor, the Ramesium, and Medeenet Haboo; and two smaller ones: Dayrel Medeeney and Dayer el Bahree, and still another, of Roman architecture, in the time of Hadrian and Antoninus Pius. There is great similarity in all the temples I have named. They differ chiefly in size and in their inscriptions, having been erected at different times and by different kings, and with inscriptions and sculptures recording usually diferent events, and in honor generally of different persons. In many respects they are not unlike the Temple of Solomon. A brief account of the chief parts of the best preserved that I visited, may suffice, as indicating the general character of all, and the purposes they were intended to serve.

1. There is a rough brick wall, from ten to twenty feet high, inclosing an area of from five to twenty acres, usually square, but sometimes oblong, near the centre of which the temple is built.

2. The space between the wall and the temple was called the Temenos, and was planted with trees.

3. In the middle of the east wall there was a gate, with a tower on each side, about double the height of the wall.

4. From the gate there was a walk, with sphinxes on each side, from twenty to one hundred, or more, with their faces toward each other. The sphinxes are of different sizes, in different places, and varying from the size of an ox to double as large. The Great Sphinx near the Pyramids, at Geezeh, which stands alone, is one hundred and forty feet long, and its face is fourteen by thirty feet. This artificial animal is supposed to sympolize intelligence and power.

5. The rows of sphinxes terminate at the outer wall of the temple, as does also the walk between them, leading to a gate by which the outer court is entered. Sometimes the row of spinxes are thirty feet or more apart, and an obelisk is found on each side of the entrance to the temple. Sometimes the wall of the outer court or vestibulum rises on each side of the entrance, into two pyramidal towers.

6. The outer court, which is without a roof, is usually as wide as the temple, or wider. In it statues are often found, and rows of columns on either side, with cornices reaching to the wall and furnishing a roof.

7. Usually there is also an inner court, of about the same size as the outer, but having double rows of columns, on three sides, and a single row on the side next to the outer court.

8. Proceeding in the direction of the entrance, having passed the two courts, the main Assembly Room is entered. It is usually much larger than either of the courts, and is covered with a roof of stone, as is also the inner court.

9. The Assembly Room has, opposite to the entrance, several small rooms. These are sometimes found on the right and left also. These rooms, sometimes a dozen or more, were for various persons and things belonging to the ceremonies of the temple.

The walls, pillars and ceilings are filled with sculpture and painting, representing national victories, offerings by kings or priests, images of men, women, bulls, rams, and other beasts; several kinds of birds, fishes, reptiles and insects; domestic implements and products, and "other things too tedious to mention." The temples were not places of public worship, but only erected as offerings by kings, in honor of deities, for victories or deliverances, or in hope of them.—Herald and Presbyter.

The following appears on a tombstone in the churchyard in the village of Cheraw, S. C. The tombstone bears neither name nor date:

"My name, my country, what are they to thee?
What, whether high or low my pedigree?
Perhaps I far surpassed all other men;
Perhaps I fell below them all—what then?
Suffice it, stranger, that thou see'st a tomb,
Thou know'st its use—it hides—no matter whom.

Children's Corner

God Sees Me.

God sees me every day,
When I work and when I play,
When I read and when I talk,
When I run and when I walk,
When I eat and when I drink,
When I only sit and think,
When I laugh and when I cry,
God is ever watching nigh.

When I'm quiet, when I'm rude,
When I'm naughty, when I'm good,
When I'm happy, when I'm sad,
When I'm sorry, when I'm glad,
When I pinck the scented rose,
Which in my next garden grows,
When I crush the tiny fly,
God is watching from the sky.

When the sun gives heat and light,
When the stars are twinkling bright,
When the moon shines on my bed,
God still watches o'er my head,
Night or day, at church or fair,
God is ever, ever near,
Kindly guiding lest I stray,
Pointing to the happy way.

How to Talk.

I want you all to try most earnestly to be good talkers.

That means a great deal. A woman who can charm by her conversation is always sought for. Of course some women have a gift of expression, but all can learn to talk agreeably if they will give their mind to the acquisition of the art.

To tell an anecdote successfully is one of the fine arts, and a very difficult thing to achieve. How many of you can do it without "Breaking off the point of it,

Or leaving out the pun?"

Try it, Get together some evening half a dozen girls and boys, and each one tell an anecdote as concisely and picturesquely as possible. Your experience will prove that you need practice.

Then select some one subject—anecdotes of children or traveling, legal wit, or repartees, or bulls. Study one or two good jokes as you would a lesson. Get the lights and shades, the right tone, the facial expression that adds so much to a story, and when you meet again, notice the improvement. An amusing anecdote will often put a whole family in good humor or rouse a dinner-table from dullness.

But to talk too much, even if you do it admirably, is, if anything, worse than silence. True conversation is an exchange of ideas, not a lecture or an essay.

Don't talk about yourself. No one wants to hear of your success or defeat, your joys or trials, except a few tried friends who are really interested in whatever concerns you.

Protruding egotism makes even a great and learned man ridiculous, and in a woman it is apt to degenerate into minute details which are nauseating and a waste of time. Talk of things, events, books, others' interests, and if people must be discussed, do it sparingly, and above all, charitably.

If you have a tendency to sarcasm, try hard to restrain it. It makes you feared and suspected. A keen sense of the ludicrous is a great blessing, giving flavor and sparkle to every day life; but don't make targets of your friends. Personalities are unladylike and unchristian.

WHAT TO AVOID.

If I cannot inspire you all with a genius for conversation, I can, at least, point out some mistakes which are made every day, some habits which should be avoided, and some phrases which you must not, use if you desire to be agreeable.

I know a lady and her husband who would be delightful companions, but they have each a pet phrase, and it spoils all they say. The lady adds "To be sure" to everything you say, while the gentleman carries you along with a dreadful "You see? You see?" as a running refrain to his otherwise interesting conversation. They are charming people; they give such a warm welcome, such a good dinner; but their friends are wearied by those set, monotonous catchwords.

Once conquered by such a habit, and it gains as strong a hold as rum or opium. It requires an iron will and constant watchfulness to be rid of even three words.

Don't say "You know" to help out a scanty stock of ideas, especially when your hearers don't know a thing about it. Some people use "As I say" in an oracular way, when they have never expressed the thought before; others prefer the present tense while describing a past event, as, "He says," or "Says she," when speaking about a conversation of perhaps a month ago. The mistake is reversed with the word expect—"I expect she did," or, "I expect it is an interesting book." for, I suppose or think so.

"Will" is wrongly used for "shall" even by persons of culture, and it is difficult to define the limits of these words, though a trained ear can tell at once which is the proper word to use—"shall" for what is in the future, "will" for determination and certainty. "Don't" does double duty for itself and "does not." "He don't think of going"—"He do not think," is very bad, yet we hear the contraction daily.

Avoid the customary but inane "padding," such as, "Is that so?" as an unmeaning response to what your friend has squarely stated is so. A single sentence often reveals culture or the lack of it. I paid a visit to a pretty, well-dressed lady the other day. And she said, "I used to be real slender, but some way I've fleshed up terribly within the last few years."

If you fail to hear a question, never attempt to remedy the matter by a vacant "How?" or "Which?" It would be equally reasonable to use "Moreover?" or "Notwithstanding?" "I beg your pardon?" or "Excuse me, what did you say?" or, "Pardon me, I didn't hear," are suitable phrases.

It is very rude to interrupt any one, or anticipate the ideas of a slow talker, or to correct one who is laboring to get off a joke, be it ever so poorly done. Don't fight for a point. It is much wiser and more graceful for a lady to yield, if not convinced, than to hold pugnaciously to her own notions of things, as a hungry dog hangs on to a bone.

Finally, try to draw out what is good. and bright and loveable in those about you; a sure way to gain happiness and friends. And remember Dick Steele's witty advice, to always find out whether they would prefer to hear you, or that you should hear them.—Youth's Companion.

The Ostrich.

Dr. Livingstone estimates the fleetness of the ostrich as equaling that of ordinary railroad trains. "When it is terrified," says the great traveler, "one's eye can no more follow the legs than it can the spokes of a carriage-wheel in rapid motion." He calculates its speed at twenty-six miles an hour. Dr. Livingstone also says: "The ostrich makes a noise as loud as that of the lion. I have been careful to inquire the opinions of Europeans who have heard both, if they could detect any difference between the roar of a lion and that of an ostrich. The invariable answer was that they could not when the animal was at any distance. To this day I can distinguish between them with certainty only by knowing that the ostrich roars by day and the lion by night."

Frequently the native Africans conceal themselves in the skins of these bird, and by that means are able to approach near enough to surprise them. They are much hunted for their feathers, which are very beautiful and valuable.

Letters and Puzzles.

AMES, Iowa.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: I am a girl sixteen years of age. I am staying with my uncle. He takes your paper and likes it very well. I read the Cynosure some. There are a few families around here that take your paper and like it very well. My uncle is an Anti-mason; my parents are Anti-masons, there is not a stronger Anti-mason around here than my stepfather. I think there would be a great deal more pleasure in this world and the world to come if there had never been such an institution invented as the Freemasons. I hope I may live to see the day when it will exist no longer.

B J. HARRISON.

MONMOUTH, Ill., May 12, '77.

MR EDITOR: I send the answer to Libbie Schryver's puzzle in May 10th, it is "Sea of Kamtschatka." With it is another for the puzzle drawer:

It is composed of 15 letters.
My 14, 18 and 1 is a precious stone.
My 11, 15 and 14 is a part of the human body.
My 3 and 5 is a denial.
My 1, 10, 6, 7 and 8 is a feature of the face.
My 9, 2, 12, 6, 4 and 3 is a body of troops,
The whole is an institution of learning.

JOSEPHINE FRENCH.

TONICA, Ill., May 12, '77.

MR. EDITOR: Pa takes your paper and we all like it very much. I think if there were more papers like it, "The world would be the better for it."

The answer to Florence E. Quick's enigma is "Rutherford B. Hayes." I will send you one if you think it worth printing.

I am composed of 14 letters.
My 12, 9 and 7 is an animal.
My 8, 11, 1 and 3 is a male escort.
My 9 and 10 is an animal.
My 6 and 14 is a preposition.
My 7, 13 and 4 is a sticky substance.
My 2, 13 and 5 is part of a wheel.
My 1 and 10 is a sharp instrument.
My whole is an appropriate name for the Masonic fraternity.

Yours respectfully,
NELLIE M. GURNEA.

A PUNCTUATION PUZZLE.—The following article forcibly illustrates the necessity of punctuation. It can be read in two ways, making it a very bad or good man, the result depending upon the manner in which it is punctuated:

"He is an old and experienced man in vice and wickedness he is never found in opposing the works of iniquity he takes delight in the downfall of his neighbors he never rejoices in the prosperity of any of his fellow creatures he is always ready to assist in destroying the peace of society he takes no pleasure in serving the Lord he is uncommonly diligent in sowing discord among his friends and acquaintances he takes no pride in laboring to promote the cause of Christianity he has not been negligent in endeavoring to stigmatize all public teachers he makes no efforts to subdue his evil passions he strives hard to build up Satan's kingdom he lends no aid to the support of the Gospel among the heathen he contributes largely to the evil adversary he pays great heed to the devil he will never go to heaven he must go where he will receive the just recompense of reward."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXII.—June 3, 1877.—THE LAMENTATION OF AMOS.

SCRIPTURE.—Amos 5: 1-15. Commit 4-8. Primary Verse 15.

1. Hear ye this word which I take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel.
2 The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.
3. For thus saith the Lord God; the city that went out by a thousand shall leave a hundred, and that which went forth by a hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Israel.
4 For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live:
5 But seek not Bethel, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to Beersheba: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity and Bethel shall come to nought.
6. Seek the Lord and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench in Bethel.
7. Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,
8. Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The Lord is his name:
9. That strengtheneth the spoiled against the strong, so that the spoiled shall come against the fortress.
10. They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhor him that speaketh uprightly.
11. Forasmuch, therefore, as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.
12. For I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take a bribe, and they turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.
13. Therefore, the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.
14. Seek good and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken.
15. Hate the evil and love the good and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"If thou seek him he will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off forever."—1 Chron. 28: 9.

HOME READINGS.

Lam. 1: 1-22....The Gold become Dim.
Lam. 5: 1-21... Zion's Complaint and Prayer.
Ps. 51: 1-19... David's Confession and Prayer.
Is. 58: 1-12....Oppress not the Poor.
John 8.33-59....Sin Hates its Rebuker.
Luke 13: 1-9. The Long-suffering of God.

The mission of the prophet Amos was significant of God's methods of instruction. He was a herdman or shepherd of Tekoa, a town some twelve miles south of Jerusalem. Thus God chooses "the weak things of the world to confound the mighty," and a humble shepherd by his direction is made to reprove the arrogance and idolatry of Israel. Amos prophesied in the time of Uzziah the leper. Am. 1: 1 and Zech. 14. 5.

In the lesson the prophet "takes up" as "a mournful burden," the lamentation or elegy over the prostrate kingdom for the destruction coming upon it, the judgments of God.

The "virgin of Israel" refers to the nation as yet unconquered by strangers. Is. 23: 12; Jer. 18: 13; 31: 4, 21; Lam. 2: 13. Calvin applies the word "virgin" rather to the glory pertaining to a city or state, its luxuries, power and wealth.

"She shall no more rise," not in the order of things now existing in this dispensation.

"Went out by a thousand,"—only a tenth shall remain of the thousands equipped and sent for war, because of the sword, pestilence and famine. Deut. 28: 62

"Seek ye me"—if they perish it is their own fault. "Not Bethel," follow not after Jeroboam which made Israel to sin by his calf-worship at Bethel and Dan. Gilgal should be destroyed because of idolatries. Hos. 4:15; 9:15; 12:11. Beer-sheba in the south of Judah now a stronghold of idolatry. ch. 8:14.

"Like fire," "our God is a consuming fire." "The house of Joseph,"—put for the kingdom of Israel, in which the tribe of Ephraim son of Joseph was the chief. The idols of Bethel were unable to remove the divine judgments.

"Judgment to wormwood"—"As justice is sweet, so injustice is bitterness to the injured." The latter part of the verse may be translated "cast righteousness to the ground." Is. 28:2.

"The seven stars"—Job. 9:9; 38:31. Amos speaks of those stars well known to shepherds, Orion the precursor of tempests, and the Pleiades which usher in the spring.

"Shadow of death"—Hebrew idiom for the densest darkness.

"Calleth for the waters"—either for judgment as in the deluge or in mercy as the rains. Gen. 7:11; 1 Kings 18:44.

"Strengtheneth the spoiled."—Israel might boast of her power after the successes of Jeroboam II. (2 Kings 14:25) but the Lord can make the feeblest nation, even "the spoiled," prevail against them.

"They hate him that rebuketh."—Sin unrepented of can never endure reproof, as the persecutions of the prophets and apostles and even of Christ witness. Pastors and other Christians who faithfully admonish and rebuke sin are well aware of this from practical experience. How keenly was this hatred felt in times of slavery, and now everywhere where the gospel of separation from the lodge is preached. The gate was the place of judgment where the judges and elders heard complaints and condemned iniquity.

"Burdens of wheat."—Burdensome taxes, says Henderson, levied in kind from the wheat of the poor.

Use the second person all through verse 12. "Turn aside poor"—Refuse him a hearing in the court of justice.

"Prudent shall keep silence."—Not of tongue merely, but shall refrain from taking part in public affairs as much as possible, for it is a time of lawlessness. Jamieson says, "Instead of impatiently agitating against irremediable evils the godly wise will not cast pearls before swine who would trample these and rend the offerers, but will patiently wait for God's time of deliverance in silent submission." Times and places, however, must modify this judgment. In Spain, under the Inquisition, many evils might have seemed without remedy, but to-day and in Christian lands no follower of the Lord Jesus Christ can be excused from testifying on all proper occasions against all sin, against every iniquity, however it may be entrenched in popular favor.

"Seek good"—how simple, how harmonious with every upright purpose are the terms of life! "As ye have spoken"—as you boast, that God is with you and that you are his people. Micah 3:11.

"It may be."—Not that men are to come to God with an uncertainty whether or no he will be gracious: the expression merely implies the difficulty in the way because of the want of true repentance on man's part, so as to stimulate the zealous earnestness of believers in seeking God. "Remnant"—Hazael had at this time overrun all the country east of the Jordan.

In studying this lesson the most valuable assistance will be found in the Home Readings and the following

EXPLANATORY PASSAGES:

V. 1.—Ez. 32:2; 27:2; 19:1; Jer. 7:29.
V. 2—Is. 37:22; 23:12; Jer. 14:17; 18:13; 31:4, 21; 2 Ki. 15:29; Hos. 14:1; 2 Ki. 6 23; 24:7; Ez 29:5; 32:4.
V. 3.—Deut. 28:62.
V. 4.—2 Chron. 15:2; Is. 55:3, 6; Jer. 29:12 13; Ps. 69:32.
V. 5—Amos 4:4; 8:14; Gen. 21:31, 33; Hos. 4:15; 10.5, 8.
V. 6.—Ez. 33:11; Deut. 4:24; Is. 10:17; Jer. 4:4; Lam. 2:3; Gen. 48:8-20; Jos. 18:5; Ez. 18:5.
V. 7.—ch. 6:12; Hos. 10.8.
V. 8.—Job 9:9; 12:22; Ch. 4:13; Ps. 104:20; ch. 9:6; Gen. 7:11-20; Job 38:34.
V. 9.—Ps. 40:17; 8:2, 2 Cor. 12:9; Heb. 11:24.
V. 10—ch. 7:10-17; Is. 29:21; Ps. 69:4; 1 Ki. 22:8; Ps. 9:8; 12:1; Jer. 36:23; Acts 7:51-60.
V. 11.—ch. 4:1; Deut. 28:30, 38, 39; Lam. 5:2; Zeph 1:13; Job 3:18; Micah 6:15; 2 Chr. 29:9; Neh. 5:3; Is. 39:6; Joel 1:4, 6, 7; 3:6; Is. 5:10; Hag. 1:6.
V. 12—Deut. 31:21; ch. 2:6, 7; 1 Sam. 12:3; Ps. 6:35; Acts 24:26.
V. 13—ch 6:10; Ec. 9:12; Micah 2:3; Eph. 5:15, 16; Ps. 39:9.
V. 14.—Is. 1:16, 17; Micah 3:11.
V. 15.—Ps. 97:10; Ro. 12:9; Joel 2:14; Hos. 14:4.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

JOSEPH COOK ON THE BOSTON MEETINGS.

From a Monday Lecture in Tremont Temple, Apr. 2.

In the city of Edinburgh the American evangelists who are now in Boston never had a hall that would seat over 1,500. They reached the Scottish metropolis November 22d, 1873, and left it January 21st, 1874. They have now been here as long as they were in Edinburgh. It will always be incontrovertible that a structure which holds from 6,000 to 7,000 people has been opened in Boston for religious audiences, and that week after week, for two months, on every fair day and often twice or thrice a day, when an undiluted Christianity has been proclaimed there, this Boston building has been filled to copious overflowing. What other cause would have filled it as often and as long? This is the large question which Edinburgh and London, Chicago and San Francisco will ask. As a help to an interior view of Massachusetts and its capital, it is not improper for me to state, what the evangelists themselves could not, perhaps, with propriety say publicly, that their opinion is that in Boston the average result of their work has been better than it was in Edinburgh. Both the evangelists have expressed with detailed reasons and emphasis, that opinion to me, and neither of them has asked me to state the opinion publicly.

Harvard and Yale both strenuously opposed George Whitefield, and now both regret their opposition. Did you notice that the revered president of Boston University was reported as having silenced a group of critics at the obsolescent Chestnut street Club, the other day, by an invulnerable indorsement of the general character of the religious work now being performed in this city? This endorsement came from a scholar of whom it can be said, as I think it cannot be of any other New England president of a college, that before he finished his yet recent German studies he had written in German an elaborate work on religious science, abreast of the latest thought. Boston University, led by this incomparable scholar of the freshest and severest German training, is as cordial toward the American evangelists as the great University of Edinburgh was. When Phillips Brooks appears in the Tabernacle, the culture of Boston and the students of Harvard are there. Of course Harvard University differs from Edinburgh University in its religious attitude; and for that fact there are reasons, prolonged, historic, adequate, but, thank God, of waning force! When James VI. was sixteen years of age, in 1582, Edinburgh University was founded; and it was fed from the Scottish Universities of St. Andrews and Glasgow, which began their stalwart career before America was discovered. University life in Scotland had venerableness when Harvard was yet in the gristle. It has had a longer time than Harvard in which to judge creeds by the law of the survival of the fittest. It is wiser, therefore: but Harvard one day will be wiser under that law.

Are there any points of superiority in this religious awakening to that which occurred in Boston in the days of Whitefield? It must be admitted that there are some points of inferiority; but are there any of superiority? We are a larger and more heterogeneous community now than we were then. We are fuller of commercial activity; our heads are in newspapers and ledgers, and not, as the heads and hearts of the early New England fathers were, in the Holy Scriptures. Nevertheless, it was a temporarily demoralized community which Whitefield and Edwards addressed. A practical union of church and state had so secularized religious society that it had sunk further away from scriptural and scientific ideals than the present religious society of New England has done. We all hold now that the ministry ought to be made up of converted men, and that no one should become a member of the church unless he can give creditable evidence of having entered upon a religious life. But in Whitefield's day it was necessary for him to insist upon what is now a common-place truth—that conversion should precede entrance upon the ministry and church membership. In Edwards' day many circles of the New England population had forgotten the necessity of the new birth, or did not believe that it is an ascertainable change; and so there was a hush in the revival when Whitefield was here—a sense of sin, which ought to exist now, but which probably does not for a great variety of reasons, not all of them to be classed as proofs of the shallowness of the present effort. Would that we had such loyalty to the scientific method as to have an adequate sense of our dissonance with the nature of things! It were good for us and for America if we had in Boston to-day just that far-penetrating gaze which filled the eyes of New England one hundred years ago, as Whitefield and Edwards turned our fathers' countenances toward the Unseen Holy!

In one particular, however, this revival certainly surpasses that under Whitefield in this city in 1740—namely, in the extent to which types have been consecrated to the work of sending religious truths abroad through the newspaper press. All the leading and all the respectable newspapers of Boston have favored the revival. It is well, my friends, that you should give encouragement to the hardest-worked class in your community—the reporters. Not only day and night, but day inside of day, and night inside of night, making two hours out of every one, these men are obliged to follow with lightning speed the demands of the press for copy—of what? Of the dullest of all things on earth to report, sermons. English, German and French travelers say very suggestively that the characteristic of American newspaper management, as distinguished from European, is that we are willing to print sermons copiously on Monday mornings. No doubt it pays to publish such discourses; but I am not one of those who think that the critics are right who judge acutely that Mr. Sankey's chief motive in life is to sell a great number of his song-books and organs. Neither am I of the opinion that all the space the daily newspaper press gives to religious truth is the result of a whisper from the counting-room. Let us be just to the corporations that manage our newspapers, and not accuse them of being altogether mercenary. No doubt counting-rooms are sometimes hung around the necks of editors as millstones around the necks of babes in the waves; and it takes a giant like Horace Greeley to be at once a reformer and an editor. It is easier for the platform than for the press to speak for to-morrow against the dissent of to-day. But the best part of our press not only mirrors but leads public sentiment, and speaks for to-morrow against the rivalry of the poorer part of both platform and press, which speak only for to-day. Encourage all speakers for to-morrow.

In the next place, it deserves to be mentioned that religious visitation, from house to house, and especially among the perishing and degraded, is now going forward in a hopefully thorough manner in Boston. Gentlemen, I hold in my hands a statement communicated to me officially, and I am able to assure you that 2,000 persons are now devoting a large part of their time in this city to religious visitation among the poor. The list of streets and lanes given to these workers was made out by Sampson and Davenport, the publishers of the city directory. In no other population has there been a more effective arrangement for visitation than here. God be thanked that every lane is to be seen, and that superfluity and squalor are to look into each other's eyes! Of 110 evangelical churches in this city ninety have already signified their intention to co-operate in this work. Each pastor of these ninety churches has appointed gentlemen to oversee the work undertaken by his particular church. For instance, on Beacon Hill yonder, in the Mount Vernon church, where our American evangelist heard the truth effectively for the first time from the lips of the now sainted Kirk, men like Nazro and Merriam are appointed on this business. Is there any one with head or heart shallow enough to sneer at such proceedings? You will sneer, then, at the best executive talent of Boston. There are 70,000 families within the limits of Boston, and there have been workers appointed to cover 65,000 of these families. In Boston I include Charlestown, East Boston, South Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury and Brighton. We are to look on this work as performed by picked men and women. There is no quarter of this city so degraded by unreportable vice that it is not being visited by women, lineal descendants, no doubt, of those whom Tacitus says our German forefathers honored as recipients of special illumination from heaven. The saloons are being visited, and the report now coming in is that the visitors are kindly received, and you will find every now and then a visitor saying: "There are in my district fifteen cases of interest, or persons seriously inquiring how they can get rid of vice and enter upon a manly or womanly life; and I am to follow these cases up." Remember that this work of visitation is intended not merely for those who are outside of the circle of glad loyalty to religious truth, but for those who are nominally inside of that circle and are yet inefficient. Nothing quickens a man like trying to quicken another. If there is one measure in which our American evangelist has shown his general-ship more effectively than anywhere else, it is in setting men to work, and in so setting them to work as to set them on fire.

But, gentlemen, what are we to say of the prayer-meetings among business men, which have not yet attained their height, and yet are already visible at a distance? It is my privilege and joy to be a flying scout in New England. One morning last week I woke up to the sound of the swollen and impetuous Androscoggin, and in the course of the day passed through Portland and Portsmouth and Newburyport and Salem and Boston and Worcester and Springfield, to Hartford; and all along I had evidence, by conversation and by looking at the local papers, that these business-men's meetings are visible on the Androscoggin and on the Connecticut. You have in this Temple a very interesting meeting, which was never matched for weight in Edinburgh. There are crowded prayer-meetings at high noon for men engaged in the dry-goods business, for men in the furniture trade, for men in the market, for men in the fish trade, for newspaper men, for all classes, indeed, of our throbbing, tumultuous, breathless business community. This, if you will notice the fact, is Boston. When I stated on this platform, a few weeks ago, that you would see Boston visited as you had seen other cities visited, you did not receive the affirmation with a smile of incredulity, but the public did. That poor prophecy has been fulfilled, and we have a month more for work. If you please, the times are serious, and light sneers will do no good now, and ought not to be noticed by me except in pity. It was my fortune professionally to walk down to a church near the Tabernacle yesterday morning to give an Easter discourse. As I passed up the street, I met a deluge, not of rain, such as has diminished the audiences in the Tabernacle occasionally—the month of March is a great enemy to large assemblies—but a crowd of people emerging from I did not at first think where, until I remembered that the Tabernacle service had just closed. They covered acres and came on in thousands, like the crowds of a gala day. I noticed their faces; for the best test of what has been done in a religious address, in any assembly, is to study the conntenances of the audience as it disperses. If you see a softened, an ennobled, "solar look," to use one of the phrases of Bronson Alcott [turning to Mr. Alcott, who sat at the speaker's right], one may be sure that religious truth has done good. I saw the solar look yesterday on the street in hundreds and thousands of faces. I saw it sometimes in the gaze of shop-girls, perhaps.

Yes; but high culture in Boston does not care much for shop-girls. Well, it is time it should. There is a low-bred loaferish liberalism uttering itself occasionally in sneers because the poor have the Gospel preached to them. That sneer has been heard ever since the days of Celsus and the games in the old Coliseum, and it has a peculiarly reptilian ring. There are many kinds of liberalism. Christian liberalism I honor; literary and æsthetic liberalism is to be spoken of with respect, in most cases; but below what I have called a limp and lavender and unscientific liberalism there is a low-bred and loaferish liberalism. This in Boston has impudence, but no scholarship; rattles, but no fangs. In the great multitude the solar look is the best prophecy that can be had for the American future. It is a radiance that is like the rising of the sun to any man who is anxious about what is to come in America.

After noticing that look, and thanking God for it, I walked on, and happened to pass a lonely Boston corner, where the Paine Hall and the Parker Memorial Hall stand near each other—"par nobile fratrum." On a bulletin on the Paine Hall, the street in front of which looked deserted, I read: "Children's Progressive Lyceum Entertainment this evening." "The Origin and Amusements of the Orthodox Hell." "Twenty-ninth Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism, April 1st." Passing by the Parker Memorial Hall, where, no doubt, words of good sense have been uttered occasionally, I found in the window this statement: "To-night a lecture on the Arctic regions, with a stereoptican with seventy views."

What is our impecunious skepticism doing here? Has it ever printed a book that has gone into a second edition? Theodore Parker's works never went into a second edition. I do not know of a single infidel book over a hundred years old that has not been put on the upper, neglected shelf by scholars. Boston must compare her achievements with those of cities outside of America, and take her chances under the buffetings of time. Where is there in Boston anything in the shape of skepticism that will bear the microscope? For one, I solemnly aver that I do not know where, and I have nothing else to do but search. Theodore Parker is the best skeptic you ever had; but to me he is honeycombed through and through with disloyalty to the very nature of things—his supreme authority. It was asserted not long ago, in an obscure skeptical newspaper here, that Parker's works ought to be forced into a second edition by his friends. It was admitted there was no demand for a second edition; but it was thought that if now there was an effort made strategetically, one might be put upon the market. You have no better books than these, and there has been no marked demand in Boston for these, and the attentive portion of the world knows the facts. Why am I proclaiming this? Because outside of Boston it is often carelessly supposed that the facts are the reverse, and that this city is represented only by a few people, who, deficient in religious activity, and forgetting the law of the survival of the fittest, are distinguished far more by audacity than by scholarship, and are members of a long line in history of which Gallio stood at the head.

Let me mention as a fourth prominent trait in this revival, the great effort made for temperance. We have done more in that particular than was done in Boston in Whitefield's day; for in his time men were not awake on that theme. It is a good sign to see the church and secular effort join hands. It is a good sign when our American evangelist himself can say, as he said yesterday: "I have been a professing Christian twenty-two years, and I have been in Boston and other cities for most of that time, and I never saw such a day as this is. I stand in wonder and amazement at what is being done. It seems as if God were taking this work out of our hands. Prayer-meetings are springing up in all parts of the city. If you were asked two months ago if these things were possible, you would have said: 'Yes, if God will open the windows of heaven and do them.'"

Let us admit that we could all wish for greater blessings. Macaulay said concerning literary excellence that we were to measure success not by absolute but by relative standards. Matching his own history against the seventh book of Thucydides, he was always humble; but matching his history against current productions, Macaulay felt encouraged. Matching this day in Boston against some things in Whitefield's day; matching it against the dateless noon of Pentecost; matching it against our opportunities, we are humble; we have no reason for elation; ours is a day of small things. But compare what has been done here by God's Word and religious effort, with all that has been done since Boston was founded by the opponents of God's Word, and we are encouraged.

Our opportunity in the second New England is greater than that of our fathers was in the first New England. Let us act as the memory of our fathers dictates. New England, the Mississipi Valley, the Pacific coast, Scotland, England, always know whether or not Boston does her duty. A power not of man is in this hushed air. Who will lock hands with him whom we dare not name and go forward to triumph in the cause that cares equally for the rich and the poor and for to day and to-morrow?

Religious Intelligence.

—The General Assembly of the Re-united Presbyterian church met in Farwell Hall at 11 A. M. last Thursday and will continue its sessions for several days yet. The Moderator of last year, Rev. Dr. VanDyke of Brooklyn, preached the opening sermon, and in the afternoon Rev. Dr. James Eells of San Francisco was elected his successor; communion service was held in the evening. Some of the special subjects before the body are the Sabbath-school interests of the church, Home and Foreign Mission work, reception of delegates from corresponding bodies. The Assembly will take charge of the daily noon prayer-meeting at Farwell Hall. Nearly four hundred and fifty commissioners are present.

—The forty-seventh General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church opened in Lincoln, Ill., on the 17th inst. About three hundred members were present. Rev. Dr. A. B. Miller was elected Moderator.

—On the same day the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church of the South convened in the First Presbyterian church of New Orleans, with a representation from every State in the South. The Convention was opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Smith, of Virginia, who also preached the sermon.

—The Pan-Presbyterian Council in Edinburgh will last from July 2d until July 9th. The topics suggested for discussion are most of them spiritual and practical in their character, which is considered a significant indication of the increased power of the Presbyterian church and a decreased interest in mere ecclesiastical questions.

—It has been calculated that for every pound sterling England expends in missions she receives ten in trade; the same rate will hold good in the United States. It pays the country to be liberal in contributing to the causes of missions as well as the support of the church generally.

—The Young Men's Christian Associations of Minnesota united lately in a recommendation to Governor Pillsbury that he appoint "a day of prayer to Almighty God for the removal of the scourge (the grasshopper plague) which has afflicted and now threatens our State." The Governor has complied.

—The Annual Meeting of the Wesleyan Methodist Publishing Association, the Missionary Association and the Book Committee, will be held Friday, June 1st, at Syracuse.

—Rev. N. Wardner, Wesleyan evangelist, barely escaped a serious accident if not a terrible death lately. While attempting to board a moving train his foot slipped and he was hurled to the ground, but with great presence of mind kept from beneath the wheels.

—Rev. J. C. Nevin appointed 18 years ago missionary of the United Presbyterian church to China, has published a lengthy and able letter addressed to the General Assembly of that church urging them not to abandon the mission he established. The body meets at Sparta. Ill., May 23d.

—The recent death of Prof. Taylor Lew is of Union College is widely deplored. He was one of the first scholars in this country in the Greek and Latin classics and also in the Arabic, Syriac and Hebrew tongues, and his contributions to Christian literature on scientific and political questions are second to none. He was a firm advocate of the religious reform of our Constitution and greatly aided the movement for effecting that object.

—The United Presbyterian doubts some of the reports of the Chicago revival in the following:

"The number of ostensible converts secured by the Chicago revival was six thousand. Of these we are told only about three thousand have united with the churches, which is almost, to our mind, conclusive evidence that the other three thousand were not converted at all. A man converted from the world and sin by the grace of God will not desire to stand aloof from the house and ordinances of worship."

A most marked improvement in lesson helps is exhibited in The National Sunday School Teacher for June. Nothing like it has ever been attempted before. Instead of crowding all the information of whatever character into the "exposition" of the lessons, the different kinds are methodically arranged and treated at length under the different deparments of "Historical" "Bibliographical," "Biographical," "Geographical," "Natural History" and "Science." This leaves the exposition of the lessons free to deal with their spiritual truths. There is no plan that will ensure such thoroughness in the treatment of the lesson as this. It is a marvel how much help is given to the Sunday-school teacher in this magazine for June. It is a costly theological library done up in paper covers, and costs only fifteen cents—or a little over a postage stamp for each Sunday in the month. No teacher, at that price, can afford to be without it. Chicago: Adams, Blackmer & Lyon Pub. Co.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, ONE GERMAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entlied "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted." and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron,'' and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTICE MARSHALL and others is added.

A 4-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should hold in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100. $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $3.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands' of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago. Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Gripe, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the anthor for writing it. Thonsands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred hy express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown hy engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illnstrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, hy attempting to hring Kelth to justice, hrought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he holdly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This hook contains indisputahle, legal evidence that Freemasons, abdncted and Mnrdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this hook, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man hy Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of trnthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refnsing to snpport a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented hy Mrs. Lncia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid..... $4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighhor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this hook are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ahility, on the subject of Secret Societies.

Tho dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever heen given to the pnhlic.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circnlate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per Doz. $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,..... $10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid..... $ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY. WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE. THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $1 75
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, hy Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related hy Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented hy his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitntion N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorongh, candid and remarkably concise Scriptnral argnment on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hnndred, Express Charges Extra,..... $3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The anthor states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian ont of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... $4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY Rev. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Exprcss Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By Rev. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown hy their confessed character as found in their own pnblications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

Mr. Edmond Ronayne sends a club of eight new names, four for a year and four for three months each from Canada. We trust that these will in turn become workers and help swell the list of subscribers. The Cynosure should have a much larger circulation in Canada.

Is your time out in May? If so, and you have not renewed your subscription, please write now stating whether or not you wish to have the Cynosure continued.

Does your subscription expire in June? How many new subscriptions can you secure and forward with your renewals?

Rev. F. R. Lord, Washington, Ill., writes: "I am working for a club. Hope to send it soon." This is good news. Who will send the next club of ten or more? If all who can will keep at the work of securing subscribers the mail list will certainly grow and the paper will continue to improve. Many have done or are doing their part. How is it with you?

Books sent Week ending May 21, 1877.

By Express.

Wm Redson, Wm T Palfrey, J Dalglish.

By Mail.

J W Atkins, Benj Crumpocke, C T Fink, F M Waldron, Jas McGuier, D P Green, Wm C Labbitt, F E Cobb, F Grashoff, H Tschudie, J F Ruggles, C N Coe, E Counsellor, B B Hughes, T A Godfrey, J S Saunders, J P Nanee, H J Reirnround, N C Moore, J Thompson, J Hopson, T J Troggatt, J F Smith, J B Farris, W B Ingalls, A L Mank, D D Good, J G Duncan, H Johns, D Blake, I J Smith, R Miller, F R Hill, H L Sailsbury, J D Strigle, L Whistler, M C Hurless, M C Iekes, G Whitlock, B A Sayer, W O Smith, S Bailey, C P Dow, M B Mills, W Muse, W H Hende, Mrs M A Gambles, P C Zolmann, J J Hayden, G Oswold, J Shigley.

Tracts Sent.

J S Sanders, H P Marks, E B Welster, N J Mosher, Mrs J Bishop.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING MAY 19, 1877.—From Jas F Brooke, J Beatie, N B Blanton, Benj Crumpacker, Guernsey Camp, S H Edwards, Abby Foster, Thos A Fait, Mrs M A Gamble, L Higginson, I Hyatt, Rufus Johnson, C W Lawrence, N C Moore, C J Matterson, E Miller I Martin, W Parkhill, B T Park, L Reeve, J Ring, E Ronayne, W W Stewart, A J Sheridan, A Showalter, G H Stiles, J P Stoddard, L Strong, Michael Turner, F M Waldron, F Yocum.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr. Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book! Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t.]

MARKET REPORTS.

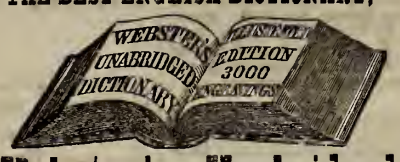
Chicago, May 21, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 59¾	1 64
" No. 3		1 48
" Rejected		1 15
" Minnesota		1 73
Corn—No. 2	49¼	50¼
Rejected	44½	45
Oats—No. 2	44½	45
Rejected		41½
Rye—No. 2		80
Bran per ton		11 50
Flour—Winter	8 75	11 00
Spring	5 25	8 75
Hay—Timothy	8 00	10 00
Prairie	5 50	7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	8	8¾
Lard per cwt		9 25
Mess pork, per bbl		14 10
Butter common to choice roll	9	23
Cheese	8	13½
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs		10¼
Seeds—Timothy	1 50	1 65
Clover		6 25
Flax	1 55	1 90
Potatoes	95	1 20
Broomcorn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6¼	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 00	10 50
Fencing	10 00	10 50
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	42
Unwashed	20	25
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	5 50	6 00
Good	5 10	5 40
Medium	4 75	5 00
Common	3 25	4 20
Hogs	4 90	5 30
Sheep	4 00	6 25

New York Market.

Flour	$4 80	11 17
Wheat—Spring	1 60	1 90
Winter	1 51	2 20
Corn	66	68½
Oats	52	71
Rye	87	95
Lard		9¼
Mess pork		16 12
Butter	9	14
Cheese	10	12
Eggs	11½	12
Wool	13	53

An indispensible requisite
—FOR EVERY—
Teacher, Advanced Student, Intelligent Family,
THE BEST ENGLISH DICTIONARY,



Webster's Unabridged,
10000 Words and Meanings not in other Dictionaries
3000 Engravings; 1840 Pages Quarto.
FOUR PAGES COLORED PLATES.

☞ Now contains twenty-five per cent. more matter than any other one volume English Dictionary published in this country or Great Britain.

THE HIGHEST AUTHORITY

In great Britain as well as in the United States.

☞ Warmly recommended by Bancroft, Prescott, Motley, Geo. P. Marsh, Halleck, Whittier, Willis, Saxe, Elihu Burritt, Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate, H. Coleridge, Smart, Horace Mann, Presidents Woolsey, Wayland, Hopkins, Nott, Walker, Anderson, [more than fifty College Presidents in all,] and the best American and European Scholars.

"The best practical English Dictionary extant." London Quarterly Review, Oct. 1873

"Indispensable to every student of the English language."—M. R. Waite, Chief Justice United States

ALSO

Webster's National Pictorial Dictionary.
600 Engravings; 1040 Pages Octavo. Price $5.

The sale of Webster is 20 times as great as the sale of any other Dictionaries.

Published by G. & C. MERRIAM, Springfield, Mass.

Webster's Abridgments,

Webster's Primary School Dictionary, 204 Engravings.
" Common School " 274 "
" High School " 297 "
" Academic " 344 "
" Counting House " with numerous illustrations and many valuable tables not to be found elsewhere.

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO., N. Y. Publishers.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square,	1 insertion,			$3.00
1 square	(1 inch deep)	one month		7.00
1 "	"	2	"	13.00
1 "	"	3	"	15.00
1 "	"	6	"	25.00
1 "	"	12	"	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Agents Wanted!
TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF
EZRA A. COOK & CO.
Liberal Terms Offered.
Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear
Handsome Profits,
While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform.
Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

CALIFORNIA
THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line
Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line
Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.
Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line
Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line
Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line
Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS
are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES
FOR
Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,
BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each. $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
STEAM PRINTERS
LITHOGRAPHERS,
STATIONERS
—AND—
Book Binders.
NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13
Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT
Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND
Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH
Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges. Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the BEST STYLE,
at the
LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and
GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.
SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,
CHICAGO.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing"—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.35.—WHOLE NO. 375. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Editorial Correspondence	8
The General Conference at Westfield	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Ancient Statue	1
Schuyler Colfax and his Pet Society (concluded)	2
Be ye Separate	2
Secretism in the South	3
Temperance Lodges	3
The Corner-stone of American Institutions	3
REFORM NEWS:
The Canada Expositions; From the General Agent: From Jasper County, Iowa	4.5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Mysterious Matters Explained; Masonsonry in Saranac, Mich.; Our Mail	5.6
GOSPEL MEETING:
Lot, the Worldly Christian	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	12
Religious Intelligence	12
News of the Week	12
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE CORPORATE MEETING OF THE N. C. A.

The annual meeting of the National Christian Association will be held, according to By-law IV. of its Constitution, on Wednesday, June 21st, 1877, at the Carpenter building, No. 221 West Madison street, Chicago, (unless changed by Directors) for the election of officers, accepting reports and transacting any other business proper to come before said meeting. L. N. STRATTON, Pres.
H. L. KELLOGG, Sec'y.

The following are the corporate members of the N C. A., who are all expected to be present:

S. B. Allen,	D. R. Kerr,
J. K. Alwood,	D. Kirkpatrick,
I. R. B. Arnold,	Wm. Leuty,
J. W. Bain,	O. F. Lumry,
J. L. Barlow,	D. W. Lyons,
J. A. Bingham,	J. G. Mattoon,
J. Blanchard,	A. M. Milligan,
C. A. Blanchard,	Moses Pettengill,
Jesse B. Blank,	Woodruff Post,
M. R. Britton,	Isaac Preston,
O E Burch,	Peter Rich,
Nathan Callender,	B. T. Roberts,
Philo Carpenter,	J. E. Roy,
Abel E Carpenter,	Alexander Small,
H. Cogswell,	Geo. E. Sovereign,
J. A. Conant,	J. P. Stoddard,
E. S. Cook,	L. N. Stratton,
E. A. Cook,	L. Taylor,
John Dorcas,	J. G. Terrill,
John Finney,	Sylvanus Town,
Aaron Floyd,	A. Wait,
A. D. Freeman,	J. B. Walker,
H. H. George,	J. M. Wallace,
C. R. Hagerty,	Wm. Wishart,
I. A. Hart,	J. W. Wood,
Edward Hildreth,	Aaron Worth,
G. B. Hubbard,	J. R. Wright,
H. L. Kellogg,	Milton Wright.
E. B. Kephart,

Topics of the Time.

Russia is moving slowly, but there is an almost universal impression that her heavy armies will crush like a moving mountain. The army on the Danube evinces no haste, although the total destruction of another Turkish war vessel with all on board, by torpedo boats, shows that it is not inactive. It seems to be able to cross or not at will, but does not. Why is only conjecture outside the circle of the Russian Commandant. Most look for the explanation to the advancement of the Eastern army, which is slowly investing Kars. Turkish faith in that stronghold is not unshaken, for they are fortifying another city in the line of retreat. The attempt to rouse a Circassian insurrection does not avail much yet, while the Montenegrins are in their persistent and harrassing warfare making some impression in the west. Internal dissension of no inconsiderable importance has broken out in Constantinople. Checked for the time it may be roused in a critical moment and hasten disaster. England is not anchoring herself in neutrality, but many good judges estimate the war feeling as growing into a sort of fatalistic impression, and that the nation is slowly drifting into war. The noble protests of Carlyle, Gladstone and others may avert so dreadful a calamity. The revolutionary proceedings of President McMahon has aroused Germany and the significant visit of Bismarck to Berlin is followed by heavy movements of troops toward the Alsatian frontier. Thus are the nations yet shaken by ruthless war.

A letter from Senator O. P. Morton on the situation at the South has had almost an oricular effect. It is in reply to an open letter in the New York Times from a large number of Southern Republicans, and to other letters received from the South. He takes up in detail the case of the Louisiana senatorship, and tells why he believes Kellogg is legally elected. The Republican governments of Louisiana and South Carolina he thinks have simply yielded to force, and acquits President Hayes of any blame for the result. If any fault is to be found for the non-recognition of the Republican governors of those States it must lay with Gen. Grant. "While, in my judgment," he concludes, "it was clearly the right of the President under the constitution to recognize the Packard government and support it by military power, the undertaking would have been futile and the failure disastrous. With a divided opinion in his own party and both houses of Congress against him, he would have failed in the end." He mistrasts the promises of the Southern governors made to President Hayes, and looks for peace under their rule only when opposition has been stamped out. He holds that the Republican party was never more needed for the nation than to-day, and all talk of disbanding it is folly. While he hopes for the best for the country, he yet fears for the worst. The letter is received with severe criticism from those Republicans who are of the implacable cast, but with favor by President Hayes and those who are disposed to aid him in his policy of reconciliation.

Francis Murphy, the temperance reformer, appends a blue ribbon to his converts from strong drink, corresponding to the red ribbon badge of Dr. Reynolds, now so popular in Michigan. These reformers are doing a great work and profess, with undoubted sincerity, their dependence on the Divine arm for the success of their efforts. Yet we fail to learn that they apply the same rule to those they endeavor to save. Mr. Murphy is, however, doing a great work in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In the following he gives us a glimpse of the philosophy of his work:

"I make no tirade against liquor stores: there are some good men in the business, but they cannot be driven out by abuse. The only true method of total abstinence is to prevail upon men to stop drinking, and then the other men will stop selling. There can be no reduction in the sale of intoxicating drink so long as men continue to use it. Therefore, my idea is to persuade men to abstain, for you have no stronger sentiments in the community than that in the real life of the people. You may legislate and legislate about closing of saloons, but you do not reach the hearts of the people. You must prevail upon a man to stop drinking and turn his attention to his home, and instead of spending his money in the saloon let him carry it to his wife and children.

"This movement is different from all other temperance reforms, and the greatest argument in its favor is that it stands on its own merits, and is successful to a wonderful degree. Most of the men are keeping the pledge. Some are falling by the wayside, but we are picking them up again. If Francis Murphy falls, pick him up. Kindness, love and charity is our way of working, and we should never forget it. No matter if some do differ from us, let them all be treated with charity and respect."

THE ANCIENT STATUE.

History tells the story of the statue of a god that, in its day, was one of the most popular gods that was ever worshipped. He had an immense temple, a grand altar, wide and spacious enclosures, lofty walls, an imposing priesthood, etc., everything about him swelling up to the highest pitch of grandeur, like Freemasonry.

The chief worship of this god had its center in Alexandria, in Egypt; and one of the chief blessings that it bestowed upon its worshippers was the preservation of the greatness of the Egyptian name among the nations of the world, especially upon the borders of the Black Sea. The god came from Sinope, on the Black Sea, an ancient province and colony of Egypt; and by being worshipped as a huge wooden image in Alexandria, of course that ancient province, so gratifying to Egyptian pride, would be preserved to Egyptian power! For this is the cunning way in which the pagan mind reckons. And this is also the precise way in which the worshippers of the lodge reason. They expect to preserve the ancient grandeur of the republic by worshiping squares and compasses, and such things.

But at length the power of the god began to be suspected. Egypt kept growing less and less instead of greater in the minds of men; and some outsiders hinted pretty strongly that the god was no better than a sham. It was a shocking idea, at first, to the pious feelings of the worshippers, and particularly to those of the high priests, grand scribes, great grand worshipfuls, etc. The suspicions of the crowd, however, increased day by day, year by year, until at last an angry, outraged multitude of disbelievers gathered around the image with a determination to destroy it. Yet still, so imposing did it appear with its "silent tongue" and its "ancient and honorable" swell, that no one at first was found brave enough to strike the first blow. At last, however, one man bolder than the rest, a soldier, struck it with his sword. Thus encouraged, the hollow thing was at last broken into, and out therefrom came—what does the reader suppose? fire? fury? death and destruction? No; nothing of the kind; there came rushing out from it all the spiritual life that it ever had, in the shape of a crowd of rats?

Amidst cheers, and jeers, and laughter, the blows were then redoubled upon the image, until itself and its worship were entirely destroyed. No, I am mistaken. The worship was not destroyed. It merely changed its name and image, went into some other god, and finally found its way into modern Freemasonry.

And now I feel assured that that worship will never be ousted here in the United States until the lodge is broken up, and its rats (our office-holders) are set to scampering from a religious (!) shrine that can no longer give them protection. Not until office-holding rats begin to run away from the lodge can we ever expect to get rid of image-worship here in America. So long as Masons hold possession of our pulpits, the leather apron and the perfect ashlar must be worshipped.

Who then will strike the first blow? Who will dare to cast the first vote against the Masonic favorite for office? AMERICAN.

SCHUYLER COLFAX AND HIS PET SOCIETY.

BY J. W. WOOD.

[Concluded].

The tenor or the report wherever it alludes to "our noble order" is florid and bombastic. It must be a tough literary stomach which can enjoy so much high seasoning. The "nobility" of the thing has to be continually thrust before the reader. Its modesty is only equalled by its benevolence. Questions concerning regalia, ceremonies and processions are quite prominent.

I quote from the 40th page: "With its past history before us who shall predict its future for good, if we but cherish those sublime principles which underlie its superstructure and shape our life actions by its teachings." And on the same page as an illustration of the high teachings which must shape these life actions we read: "Has any brother the right to hang up our old aprons in a public place of business?" Answer. "No."

On the 27th page: "The relationship sustained by man to humanity shows that every one has been endowed with social characteristics that demand sympathy, unalloyed friendship and aid. Through a natural law men seek to gratify this demand by forming themselves into communities, as towns, villages and cities. To many this assembling appears to be in obedience to the laws governing the accumulation of wealth and values. Still a pure analysis of our social elements will develop the fact that, underlying all other motives there is in the innermost recesses of the human heart a desire for a true sympathy, independent of the family relation."

So men leave their wives and children at home and join the lodge to get that "unalloyed friendship and aid" which is secured by the prompt payment of weekly dues. The neglect of a week's payment cuts them off from all material aid, as "the funds of a lodge cannot legally be used to relieve the family of a member who has been dropped for N. P. D."

A few more words to Christian Odd-fellows and I am done.

On another page we read: "May the Great Grand Master grant you many years to thus cheer and aid us. May he bless you and yours in basket and in store, and when at last you shall be called to a seat in the Grand Encampment of the skies—and you shall leave this token as an heirloom to your family—may he invest you with another jewel, 'A white stone with a new name written therein.'"

If this language means anything, it is, that God is the Grand Master of Odd-fellowship, and as such, is approached by a certain few with signs, grips and passwords which he is solemnly pledged to obey; and that heaven is a Grand Encampment of Odd-fellows and entered only by these same signs.

The terms on which this "Grand Encampment of the skies" must be reached are such as exclude nine-tenths of the people of Baraboo and subject the other tenth to the possibility of being black-balled through personal dislike. It must be entirely destitute of women, except the few who may have entered the lean-to or back-kitchen lately built on to this Grand Encampment by Schuyler Colfax for the Daughters of Rebekah. I can but believe that any language which ascribes to God such an unworthy character, making him "a respecter of persons," when his Word declares that he is not; and making heaven a place which can only be entered by the prompt payment of dues, and keeping pledges of secrecy; systematically deceiving the world, while God says "Thou shalt not bear false witness," this must in the light of Christianity be unadulterated blasphemy.

The white stone with the new name written therein, is what God promised to the Christian of Pergamos who should overcome in the fiery persecutions to which they were subject, "by holding fast his name, and not denying his faith," at the time that Antipas was his faithful martyr; but here it is invoked upon a man who is prohibited from taking the name of Christ into his lodge, because it is introducing sectarianism. Are the Christians of Baraboo, who sing in their revival meetings

"I'm glad salvation's free,"

so blind that they cannot see the bearings of these things? (Read 2 Thess, 2: 10–12.)

It is doubtless true that the Bible is used in the lodge and that selected portions are read in sepulchral tones, but it is torn from the sanctions which God has given it, and enforced only by clap-trap, and the Christ who gives it all its value is left out under the plea that sectarianism must not be introduced. Thus the Christian consents that there is a place which he may enter so holy that it would be defiled by his Christianity, and yet he goes there in the company of godless men who require a Grand Lodge decree to the effect that "spiritous, vinous and malt liquors shall be excluded from the lodge-room, etc." (See page 217.)

Having judged this institution entirely from its own mouth, will Christians condemn me for protesting against it as a gigantic fraud, which throttles the pulpit and press, which substitutes clanship for brotherly love, the niggardly return of 31 per cent. of money actually paid in, for benevolence, and the keeping of a few artificial and worthless secrets in defiance of God's law, for truth.

"BE YE SEPARATE."

BY REV. J. B. CRALL.

We occasionally come in contact with those who adhere to the opinion that we have no Scriptural authority to expel members of secret societies from the Christian church. They take the parable of the wheat and tares, recorded in the 13th chapter of Matthew, as a basis upon which to build this erroneous belief. If there were only one class of spurious pretenders to Christianity in the world, and included in the class referred to in this parable, then we might indeed pause and consider before we take active measures to expel professors of religion from the church. But there are at least two classes of hypocrites, and the Scriptures give us instructions how to deal with both.

We are nowhere authorized to tolerate men or women in the Christian church, regardless of their moral or religious character. The tares spoken of in the parable were perhaps something similar to what we call chess. Commentators say they were so nearly like wheat that it was almost impossible to make the distinction, while in an immature state. This parable represents a class of professors which are so nearly like true Christians that it is almost, if not altogether, impossible to make the discrimination, and with such we should deal very cautiously as there is danger of pulling up true Christians instead of the untrue, or root up the real with the unreal. This class are doing the church no material harm by their conduct. They are strictly moral, and do not cause dissension, and follow the Saviour seemingly as Judas did (in an outward, visible way); and if the eleven disciples could not detect the fraud which lurked in the traitor's heart until at almost the close of the Saviour's mission on earth, we may not be able to discover the hypocrisy in the hearts of this class. We should not understand this parable to apply to intelligent men and women that are connected with secret societies, for they more properly belong to the class represented as wolves in sheep's clothing. This class when with the sheep try to imitate them, but when with wolves, act just like wolves. The Saviour says they may be known by their fruits. Their actions and unnecessary connection with the world betrays them. They are unequally yoked together with unbelievers. This inequality exists in endeavoring to move and act in two elements which are antagonistic one to the other.

In the 6th chapter of 2nd Corinthians the inspired writer says: "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord." Intercourse with the world beyond the common courtesies and necessary business transactions in life, is emphatically condemned in the Word of God. The churches have been making a great mistake in retaining open violators of God's law, that were not willing to separate themselves from the world. Churches that were once instrumental in the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom, are to-day, by tolerating corrupting influences, seemingly forsaken of God. And have we not reasons to "earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints," lest we be held accountable for nursing the evils which may ultimately be our downfall.

In the 5th chapter of 1st Corinthians, Paul writes to the brethren, "not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolator, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner." He says: "Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person." We think it is evident that secretists are guilty of at least some of the charges here enumerated; for secretism has extortion and idolatry written on its very face.

In the 2d Epistle of John we read, "If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed; for he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds." The house mentioned in this passage has reference, no doubt, to the church; and if not, the inference is that if we should not receive such into our houses we should not into the church.

And what is this doctrine? In the verse preceding the one above quoted, it is said to be the doctrine of Christ, and the doctrine of Christ includes every essential truth taught in the sacred Scriptures. Consequently we should reject all that bring not the doctrine of Christ. And we think no one can bring the doctrine of Christ unless he embraces and obeys it to the best of his ability. For John says in the 2d chapter of his 1st Epistle, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar." Now can any one bring this doctrine and comply with its demands when he is "unequally yoked together with unbelievers?" Can any one bring this doctrine and comply with its demands when he bows before an altar where Christ is excluded, and where heathenish rites and ceremonies are introduced? We think not; for this is all in plain opposition to the doctrine of Christ. This hydra-headed monster, secretism, must be ejected from the church, or it will soon rule, and bend everything to its own selfish interests; and the few who stand up for the old landmarks must either tamely submit, or go out empty-handed and start up anew for themselves.

Secretism is perhaps not a direct enemy to the church of Christ, but it is one of those mean, sneaking foes, which has stolen the livery of heaven to accomplish its satanic purposes, and on account of its religious pretentions is vastly more dangerous than an open enemy. Satan no doubt would have failed to deceive our first parents had he approached them in an undisguised way. But by perverting the truth, and presenting himself as a benefactor, he accomplished his purpose. Satan has lost none of his shrewdness. He is saying to the churches (not through the serpent, but through secretism), "ye shall not surely die" if you eat of this fruit which I offer you. And many of the churches have opened their doors and invited him in, believing that he will do them no harm. But the doctrine of Christ says to such, "My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves."

It would be very inconsistent in us to profess hostility to a loathsome and deadly serpent, and at the same time fold it in our bosom and supply nourishment for its life. This we are virtually doing while we tolerate gross evils in the church, such as intemperance, Sabbath-breaking, secretism, etc. If all the Christian churches in the world were to raise their united voices against the lodge, and expunge secretists from their pales, these dark orders would soon fall, and become as unpopular as debauchery is in Christianized nations to day. But the churches foster this and other evils, and by so doing make themselves accessory to evil influences.

Berrien Center, Mich.

Secretism in the South.

BY G. M. ELLIOTT.

Those who have been subjected for a time to any degrading influence, as American slavery, for example, are easily led by novel and exciting ceremonies. The nonsensical and heathenish ceremonies that attend secret orders have a wonderful influence upon the minds of the ignorant people of the South. Because of this, secretism is growing very rapidly in many parts. Its novelties excite the people.

And again, it carries with it a show of religion. Error is never so hard to fight as when there is a thread of truth running through it. Freemasonry, with all its kindred associations, pretends to be a great religious institution. The colored people as a race are naturally inclined to be religious, and when the advocates of secret orders go among them, presenting the high, holy and ancient claims of Masonry, its great power as an auxiliary to the church, hundreds of those whose minds are crude and unstable are ensnared.

But how many are sadly disappointed! Not a great while ago a Freemason acknowledged to me that if he had known what the order was before joining he never would have become a member. Another, who has been a member of the order for a number of years, said to me: "If a young man does not become a member of the church before joining the lodge, the probabilities are that he never will become a member; whereas, if he joins the church first he is not likely to become a Mason at all." Of course we have seen many exceptions to this, but there is truth in the statement. And it illustrates the fact that many take Freemasonry as a substitute for religion—the lodge a substitute for the church. Many go so far as to say the lodge is as good a church as they desire; there is religion enough in it for them. Thus this false and wicked system is deluding thousands, causing them to rest in false hopes, to trust in arms that can never save. Like the serpent that charms the bird till it is within its coil, pierces it with its poisonous fangs, so these associations are yearly deluding and destroying hundreds of the fairest and most promising of our young men.

They tell them these orders are stepping-stones to the church, and many of the more bigoted say it is superior to the church. "Why," says one, "our members are more united and more faithful than the members of the church. You have the poor and the distressed in your churches, and they are entirely neglected. It is not so with us." We ask why it is that the members of secret orders are so faithful to each other, more so than Christians (if we admit the statement)? What bonds have they which are capable of binding more closely than those which unite the people of God? If the question be worthy of an answer, it is very easy and simple. Lodges are frequently ruled, as we say, with a rod of iron, and their dupes are bound to respond to all demands, particularly financial, or else they are liable to expulsion and shame.

As a class the colored people of the South are not wealthy, and the fees and taxes that are required, which they pretend benefit some, we say robs others. Furthermore, we have failed to see any examples of the boasted charities of these orders. One who is a member pays in enough in the course of time to take care of himself in the days of adversity. Why then give it to the lodge, robbing his family, depriving his children of education, and probably never receive any benefit therefrom?

No doubt these secret orders do exert a great influence over the minds of their members, but it is largely to be attributed to the rigor of their rule. The priests and bishops of Rome are kept in pomp; they fare sumptuously every day. Yet nine-tenths of the beggars of Italy and America are Roman Catholics. Yet the Catholics pretend to be the most benevolent and charitable of all people. Now we have the same opinion of the charities of secret orders as we have of those of the Roman Catholic church.

Would that more could be done to prevent the spread of this fraudulent system in the South! Just now the minds of the masses are in a condition to receive almost anything. And something that is showy, or ceremonial, bearing on its face the superscription, "charity," carries hundreds at a sweep. What they need is enlightenment on the subject. Many are ruled by pure curiosity. The best method of enlightening the people on this subject is through the Cynosure. Would that it could be in every family in the South! It would be a good thing if the Northern friends would do for the Cynosure as they have for the New York Witness, get up a fund in order to send it to various parts of the South. Such indeed would be a great and good work done for these long-oppressed and down-trodden people. Time, money and education would be thereby secured to them. The South presents a fine field for the "National Christian Association." And our earnest prayer to the Lord of the harvest is, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.

Temperance Lodges.

In the face of far-reaching experience, we here record our protest against secret organizations for the promotion of temperance. Drunkenness is a stupendous evil. God only knows how many souls have been ruined by the demon rum. We are in receipt of several temperance journals, new-fledged, and they literally groan under the titles with which they are loaded down. We note a few: Grand Worthy Associate; Past Grand Worthy Associate; Past Grand Worthy Patriarch; Past Most Worthy Patriarch; Most Worthy Patriarch of North America. etc. Here is a letter signed as follows: Yours in L. P. and F., — ——, D. G. W. P. of G. D. S. T.!! The ridiculousness, to say nothing about the absurdity of such pharisaical titles will appear in this: There is a poor fallen drunkard in the gutter; yonder comes a "Most Worthy Patriarch of North America," with about as many badges of honor as he has titles, and says to the poor victim: I am the M. W. P. of N. A., come to your rescue! Come with me. We have something so good that we do not want the rest of those miserable drunkards to find out what it is, so we keep it secret, but then we don't mind telling you, if you will only come up to our lodge! Connected with these empty titles —sea foam in substance—are the names of prominent clergymen—representatives of Jesus Christ, and members of the church. Now if it is right for ministers to assume these titles to be heralded over the land, then it was right for our Saviour and his apostles to wear them. If so, as a mark of respect, when John the Baptist sent his disciples to our Lord he would have closed his message as follows: Yours in L. P. and F., to Jesus Christ, M. W. P. of G. D. S. T. of P. Barnabas would have written to St. Paul: P. M. W. P. N.; or John to St. Peter, P. M. W. P. But by this time we see the blood mantling to your cheek, and you are about to fling the Censer from your presence for its impiety. But we ask in the name of reason and common sense, has a worm of the dust a right to assume titles which he would stamp as impiety to see applied to the Saviour and his apostles? How long, oh! how long will it be before men will lay aside these heathen appellations, step out upon the stage of action without ostentation and be men among men!

We do not despise human agencies, but we do deprecate the machinery used. There is too much of the human about it. Men undertake to save men by throwing around them human protections. And when these are removed, the poor victims fall to greater depths of degradation than before—"the last stage of that man is worse than the first" is the divine declaration. In the work of saving men from the drunkard's grave, the means employed should be open and free.

Again, this disease strikes so deep into our natures, that the soul must be healed as well as the body. And this work none but God through Christ the Saviour can do. We read of 25,000 men down in Pittsburgh and vicinity being reclaimed. How many Past Most Worthy Patriarchs think you God used? Well, we will tell you. He used none at all. God can't use men loaded down with titles. That was the trouble with the Pharisee in Christ's day. And so it will ever be. In this instance God raised up a reformed drunkard, put religion into his soul, and sent him out with heart all aglow with the gospel message, to proclaim to the drunkards that the religion of Jesus Christ is the only thing that will ever save them. And so the drunkards—by the thousands —came tramping right past the lodges, and worthies, and patriarchs, to hear the story of the cross falling from earnest lips, and to be saved by the blood of the Lamb. God help us to be earnest—to go to our fallen brothers with an open hand, a warm heart, and with a gospel that can save them.—Golden Censer.

The Corner-Stone of American Institutions.

The human cargo of the Mayflower is the real germ of American history. There is scarcely a single noble or useful development in American life to-day that is not the result of the heroic act of these brave pilgrims. And this act was inspired by religion; the founding of a democracy has been the practical result of their deeds, but their purpose was only to seek out a spot where they might obey the Divine commands without let or hindrance from kings, bishops, or statesmen. Religious faith is thus the corner-stone of the American Republic. Well is it for us in these days of materialism and worship of mere earthly, physical good, to think on this! If New England should ever forget this rock from which she was digged, her noble influence for good over America and the world will be gone; it will be a sad day for mankind if she ever prove recreant to the inspired and inspiring faith of her great founders. The teachings of history indeed furnish the most satisfactory evidence that can be desired of the great truth that man has indeed a spiritual nature, that this world and the things thereof constitute but narrow bounds indeed to a being who can hold communion with the Eternal Mind. The researches of Sir Henry Maine have proved conclusively that the family and religion are the primary elements of state life, thus upsetting the conclusions of Rousseau and of speculative utilitarians, and furnishing an invincible testimony to the spiritual nature of man. The history of New England is the noblest history of the origin of any state, inasmuch as it shows us in times not very distant from our own, the founders of a commonwealth who were, before all things, religious men, and whose work still stands fresh and strong, a living demonstration of the falsity of atheism, more satisfying than a thousand learned treatises to the minds and hearts of men.—British Quarterly.

Reform News.

The Canada Expositions—Letter from Past Master Ronayne.

Ellington, N. Y., May 18, 1877.

Friend Kellogg: As my labors in the Queen's dominions are over, at least for the present, perhaps it would not be amiss if I look over the ground a little and take a sort of retrospective glance at the work accomplished and the general results so far as I have been able to ascertain them since my last communication from Preston.

In the first place I have been enabled to present the subject of Freemasonry before at least ten thousand people during my stay of four weeks in the Province. This vast army of hearers, men and women, will publish what they heard and saw to at least thirty thousand more, so that forty thousand Canadians to-day are aware of two startling facts regarding Freemasonry, namely, that men not only dare to speak against the system, but that they even dare go so far as to expose it in all its hideousness and sin, and present it in such a manner to the world as to cause it to become the scorn and abhorrence of all honest men.

Then again I have been the means of converting many, very many, from their previous intention of becoming members of the so-called craft at some time in the near future. And perhaps what is still pleasanter to reflect upon, I have been the means of awakening many a Mason to a sense of his duty both to himself, to his country, to his neighbor and to his God; and I have faith to believe that God's Word, quoted and explained at all these meetings "shall not return unto him void, but that it shall accomplish that whereunto he hath sent it." My last letter was sent from Preston and was written immediately after the first night's meeting. Well, all the meetings in Preston were like those that preceded them. Large audiences, unbounded demonstrations of enthusiasm and a manifest joyousness at the thought that Freemasonry was being made public property and hence that the entire system of organized sin would shortly become so demoralized that no man pretending to respectability would even so much as acknowledge himself to be a member of it. In all my work in Canada I have been greatly assisted by the Masons themselves. They have heaped upon me all sorts of abuse, using the foulest language and manifesting a spirit of the most demoniac hatred toward me; and all this went to convince outsiders that my revelations must be true else the Masons would never get so angry about it. In Galt my bedroom door was broken in about two o'clock in the morning by one William Robinson, a leading man in the town, an ex-member of Parliament, an ex-mayor, a woolen manufacturer, etc.; but at that particular hour he was nothing more or less than a very mad and a very drunk Freemason. The part of that villainous transaction which appeared to astonish me the most was that the gentleman who sent for me to go to Canada did not stay in the same hotel that I did, but went off to another part of the town and even did not pay my expenses there, nor would he even on that particular occasion help to carry my heavy valise. I worked no Masonic degrees in Galt, because on my arrival there I found that little or no advertisement had been given. I also saw that to a great extent I was alone, and furthermore I had already seen enough to convince me that to a great extent my progress through these Canadian towns was being used as a mere money speculation. I was determined to break loose from the bondage in which I seemed to be held, and the club I sent home for the Cynosure on the 12th attests the correctness of my judgment in the matter. From Galt I went alone to Paris where Joseph Steele had been making previous arrangements and where I met with a very warm reception both from himself and his whole family as well as from his son-in-law, William De Pew, who is particularly deserving of special mention. From here I went to Plattsville the second time and from Plattsville to a place called Hawksville, about twelve miles northwest of Berlin. In all these places the meetings were the same. Whole loads of men and women would come in from eight, ten and even twelve miles away, and would sit patiently and attentively for hours, listening to the fearful tale of Masonic infamy as it would be unfolded from time to time, and watching every new development of Masonic folly as we progressed along in the working of any particular degree. And now as I draw near my last appointment in Ontario how shall I begin to describe to you the terrible scenes and incidents of Tilsonburg. I arrived here on Friday P. M., the 11th inst., from Hawksville, and drove immediately to the house of Mr. Aug. Soper, who had been very actively engaged in securing a hall, distributing bills and in making such other arrangements as would ensure successful meetings, as far as human agency could effect it. Next day (Saturday) I secured very comfortable quarters in the American Hotel, kept by Mr. Philip Fall, who, together with his amiable wife and daughter showed me the utmost kindness and of whom I would desire to speak in terms of the highest praise. I was feeling very unwell indeed, but a good rest and perfect quietness for two days enabled me to appear on Monday night in the Sons' Hall, where I worked the first degree and introduced the subject of Freemasonry as an organized system of sworn secrecy diametrically opposed to the religion of Jesus Christ and better adapted than any other institution I am aware of to delude men into sin and blasphemy and so lead them down into eternal ruin.

Tuesday morning came and with it came the most intense excitement. Some of the oldest inhabitants of Tilsonburg told me in the course of the day they never knew the town to be so excited before from any cause whatever. The Masons were in a most terrible state of fury and madness, and what seemed to render matters much worse, they saw they had no redress except a resort to brute force and to break up the meetings by an organized rowdy mob. Between six and seven o'clock, P. M., they sent the high constable (a Mason) to my room in the hotel, where the following conversation, as near as I can remember, took place.

H. C.—Are you the gentleman who is lecturing in the Hall?

I am, sir; I give my second lecture this evening.

H. C.—Have you a license for your exhibition?

No, sir; I have not. I did not think a license was necessary. Pray, sir, what is the license for?

H. C.—Well, your performance is simply an idle show. It is in fact a theatrical performance, and the town authorities, according to one of our municipal by-laws wish me to find out whether you took out a license in accordance with that by-law.

No, sir; I did not. I have no license; neither is it necessary to have one. My expositions of Freemasonry here cannot be called an idle show neither are they theatrical performances. I am truthfully representing a literal fact. I am, as you are very well aware, truthfully and accurately showing how men are made Freemasons, but of course if the town authorities (all of whom I am told are Masons) insist upon the license question then we'll have to take the matter into court and there decide whether this is an idle show or whether it is literally the naked truth as regards Freemasonry.

H. C.—But how shall the court be able to arrive at such a decision?

Very easily. The Masons here, yourself included, shall be summoned to appear as witnesses. You will then have to swear that in being made a Freemason you did not have all your clothing except your shirt taken off; that you did not have a pair of drawers put on; that your left leg and knee were not bare; also your left breast and arm; that you did not have a hoodwink fastened over your eyes and a blue rope called a cable tow around your neck; also that you had no slipper on your right foot. You must further swear that you did not enter the lodge room in the manner shown last night and was not caused to go through the very same ceremonies, kneeling at the altar in the same manner and taking an obligation binding yourself under a penalty of death to have your throat cut across, etc. If the Masons of Tilsonburg can swear to all this, then indeed my exposition last night was a mere idle show and I suppose according to your municipal by-law I ought to have a license. But let us have the matter tested at once. Nothing would please me better than to have the subject of Freemasonry brought into court, and of course if the Tilsonburg Masons will assist me in my exposures I shall hold myself responsible to thank them in a suitable and becoming manner.

A great deal more was said on this subject by both parties, but finally the license dodge was dropped as being a Masonic scheme of too transparent a character to be prosecuted with any degree of success. The meeting was convened to witness the Fellow-craft degree and my preliminary lecture on the sinful and illegal nature of the obligations and the Christ-rejecting character of Freemasonry was concluded when suddenly a terrific cry of "FIRE! FIRE!" arose above the long-continued applause of the audience, and for a single moment only there was considerable excitement among the listeners in the Hall, and ill-suppressed merriment among the noble fraternity and their aiders and abettors scattered around through the immediate neighborhood.

This scheme also did not succeed. The second degree of Masonry was worked, and again the Masons were found to be my active but unwilling allies in exposing the folly, falsehood, fraud and sin of the most villainous system that was ever invented by the "most sublime prince of the royal" regions.

Wednesday was comparatively quiet in all the Masonic circles, but I suspected it was only the calm before some fearful and tremendous storm. Preparations were made for opening, and working the "sublime degree of Master Mason," but before the candidate was brought in and when nobody was expecting such a thing—crash, crash, flew the broken glass of the windows and thick and fast flew the eggs (the usual Masonic argument), besmearing and spoiling the ladies' dresses and bonnets, and creating for a time considerable excitement.

The degree, however, went on, but such a night as that was I shall never forget. I occupied in all five hours, and at one o'clock when Hiram was raised and "the five points of fellowship" explained, I breathed a little more freely, and thanked God that all was over. But how was I to get at the other side of that meeting? There was the door and passage way blocked up by as fierce a mob of half-drunken Masonic roughs and their friends as ever I met in my whole life. When I had the traditionary goat however safely stowed away in my Masonic valise, I started for the door in company with my friends, and got safe to the hotel without any further violence being offered, except that as we were passing through the hall the cursing, swearing, blaspheming and foul language used was something fearful to witness. It was about 1½ o'clock in the morning when we reached the hotel, and as there were some fears entertained that the house would be attacked we prepared to sit up the rest of the night and defend ourselves as best we could. There were no further demonstrations of violence, however, and as the morning advanced it was generally supposed that better judgment prevailed and that the Masons were heartily ashamed of their last night's work. But in this, as in some other calculations respecting Freemasons and their conduct, we were singularly and very disagreeably mistaken, for early in the afternoon returning from the American Express office in company with a Mr. Harding, we were fiercely attacked in the open daylight and on the Queen's highway, and your very humble servant was literally covered with eggs from the top of my hat to the very lowest part of the heel of my boot, and then the excitement became once more intense. At 5 o'clock Mr. Tillson drove me to the G. W. depot, being also accompanied by Mr. Harding. I took the express which arrived in a few moments after for Buffalo, where I remained Thursday night and yesterday at 12 o'clock I arrived here, about as much used up and as sick as any sensible man would reasonably want to be.

The good accomplished in Canada is incalculable. The very best men in the different localities through which I passed have been either confirmed in or converted to active opposition to Freemasonry. A club for the Cynosure has been secured, two hundred books on Masonry and Odd-fellowship have been scattered around and seed has been sown which in God's good time will yield a rich and abundant harvest. And now that my terrible work in Canada is finished for the present, I would desire to record publicly my belief that God gave his blessing in a special manner on all our meetings and and that he has been especially gracious to me in guiding and protecting me in all times of danger and difficulty until the present hour. The news from home also by every mail has been very cheering and very encouraging and it often assisted me very much when I remembered that every Monday evening the little band of God's children assembled for an hour of private worship at our cottage prayer meeting in my own home there in Chicago always remembered me before the throne of mercy. I rejoice that I am called upon to suffer reproach for the name of Jesus Christ and I feel as if I could not love him half enough for the great love he has manifested toward me and my ever loving companion.

O to be nothing, nothing;
Painful the humbling may be,
Yet low in the dust I'd lay me,
That the world might my Saviour see.
Rather be nothing, nothing;
To him let their voices be raised,
He is the fountain of blessing,
He only is most to be praised.

Yours as ever,

EDMOND RONAYNE.

FROM THE GENERAL AGENT—HILLSDALE, MICH.

BEREA, O., May 15, 1877.

DEAR BRO. K.—My journeyings from Chicago have been attended with some labor, and I trust, by God's blessing, with a good degree of success. At Ligonier, Ind., I found abundant evidence that those who enlisted early and earnestly in our cause had abated none of their interest. The leaven of reform, like the silent forces in nature, is working a great change among that people, which is already visible. Reaching Kendalville at 11 P. M. and leaving at 4 A. M., I thought the time unsuitable for calling on Bro. Farout, and so had to forego what would have been to me a real pleasure. Two hours at Lagrange Center enabled me to arrange important business matters pending at that place, and to feel the pulse of the feverish patient for whom I prescribed in a lecture in the court house some five years ago. The symptoms are hopeful, so I think the treatment was appropriate, or else the lodge has been soothed and placated by the gentle ministrations of that female nurse whom Auditor Pratt proposed to introduce as the champion and exponent of the craft in a public debate. I did see this redoubtable barrister, who perhaps on this occasion, as on a former, was skulking behind an "apron," or some other article of female attire, with which he would fain screen himself from the unpleasant and disgraceful business of resuscitating the putrid body of Hiram Abiff. In conversation with some of the citizens of the place, I found that that snarling, snappish manner which was formerly rampant, had been greatly modified, much to the credit of the place.

At Sturgis, Mich., I was delayed two and a half hours for an eastbound train to Hillsdale, which place of note and influence as an educational center I reached at 2 P. M. Prof. Rideout's heart is in his hand (as the O. F.'s say) when extended to a reformer, who is sure to find a cordial welcome beneath his hospitable roof. Bro. R. is deserving of much credit for his loyalty to the truth, but not so so much as some others, as you would say at once should you make the acquaintance of his helpmeet, who is about the best sample I have met with in all my travels of that familiar aphorism, multum in parvo. Here, too, I met Bro. C. L. Blanchard, whose record for scholarship in the college, and whose genial and amiable qualities in society give additional weight to his testimony against the secret orders, which he attacks fearlessly, although the college president and several of his associates in the faculty are not without a personal knowledge of the "three ruffians," and the "horrid deed of Jubulum" in breaking the "grand master's" skull. I cannot speak of all whom I met here, but while passing others from necessity, and not out of disrespect, I will say of Bro. Baldwin that he is vigorous and active as an ordinary man at sixty; and although he has added a score at least to this number of years, I am told that the old gentleman sometimes remarks pleasantly that he has not a gray hair in his head. Bro. Artman, too, is another of the veterans. His health is much improved since I last met him, and I trust that, although advanced in age, he may be spared to do much good. He is peculiar, as indeed are all reformers in some sense, in this world of shows and shams. On Sabbath I met Bro. Smith, pastor of the Free Baptist church, who invited me to take part in the morning services, and announced my lecture at 3 p. m. The many excellences of this brother makes one regret exceedingly to know that he is an adhering Odd-fellow, and to ask how it is possible for a man of such intelligence to appear on a public rostrum as the advocate of a system of pagan rites that rejects Jesus Christ, caricatures prayer, and ridicules the solemn scene of death by presenting before the candidate at his initiation a coffin containing a skeleton, amid the burlesque of false faces and strange sounds. Shall not God judge men for such travesty of prayer and such heathen pantomime? May God deliver this brother from his unholy alliance is the prayer of many who love him, and in which I most heartily unite.

My lecture was not largely attended for a place like Hillsdale, owing in part, at least, to the fact that it was little known. One notable clergyman came from the other side, whose valor was greater, it would seem, than his discretion. When giving notice of my lecture at his morning services, he remarked, "You would think it very foolish if I should announce that I would lecture on what the people are doing in the moon, because I know nothing about it; and this man never having been a Mason, knows no more about what they do than I do about what is going on in the moon." Yet he showed his own stupidity by coming to hear a man talk about

[Continued on page 12.]

Correspondence.

MYSTERIOUS MATTERS EXPLAINED.

KISHWAUKEE, Ill., May 9.

DEAR EDITOR: Please to look at the revelation of some mysteries. A mystery is some- thing not yet revealed. Masonry stands revealed, yet there remain some strange things about it. Here is an attempt to explain those singularities.

"Good Masons" will lie. If any thing under the sun is demonstrated it is that Masonry was shown to the world by the pen of Wm. Morgan. But why do "good" men lie? that is the question. First, they verily believe the craft is of God and must at all hazards be sustained. This cannot be done without constant lying, and whereas lying is one of the virtues of heathenism from which Masonry has originated, therefore "good Masons" think it right and expedient to falsify, to misrepresent, to lie.

Again, all "good Masons" have begun by solemnly swearing to conceal and never reveal. With them Masonic oaths are very sacred. When confronted with facts what can they do? In olden times the craft was not so exposed, but now it seems there is no other way open to them. Then it must be considered their fear of God is taught by the precept of men; also that necessity knows no law; then too, they owe their all to Masonry. Therefore they put things right about face and affirm, when according to truth they should deny, and deny when they should affirm. And you know, Mr. Editor, they have not much respect for Jesus Christ, for they say they were before him. They don't believe that whatsoever is more than yea and nay "cometh of evil."

Next is mystery. How shall we account for the toleration of pious men toward those who use the shams of Freemasonry. Some of these men are reasonable in every thing else. This is apparently a great mystery. I verily thought when I began to explain the doings of the lodge that all that was necessary to break down this work of darkness was to let in the light, then all honest men would turn their backs on the vile abomination. So they seemed to do. Then they recovered a little from their surprise and took time to look around. They took knowledge that many of our great men, ministers too, were "good Masons." What then? Why they began to fortify themselves where they were. But how can we account for it? First, then, Christians and others do not expect much truth from Freemasons. When a standard of action is placed high and people have lived up to it they are holden to it and are expected to so continue while they live. But for Masons there is no such high standard, this everybody knows. They will plead for all the pleasures of the world. They will drink and dance and play croquet; indeed our Christian morality is apparently in danger of being overturned by them. Now what wonder if they should not be strictly holden to the truth. I said to a leading man in religious society that Mr. H., the minister, had seriously told me that he was not a Mason. He had told another brother in the presence of his family and his own wife that he was not a Mason. His wife contradicted him. Yet he afterward confessed to me that he had taken on himself the Masonic obligations and could not now help himself. All this probably without recollecting his previous statement. Did the brother to whom I spoke think any the less of him as a minister of Christ. Not at all. He was a good preacher, drew large congregations, and had a fine salary. Mr. Editor, you may have heard of the case where an Irish lady was told that her priest took improper liberties with his nuns. She answered she didn't care if he did, he was so good a man it couldn't hurt him.

Take another illustration: I asked a brother which side he took, with the Masons or against them. He replied, "I would not give a cent for the difference. I would just as soon have for a civil office or for the ministry a Mason or not a Mason. Not a copper's odds with me." I told him of a case where a Mason had taken a false oath in regard to the value of a flock of sheep he had bought and refused to pay as he had promised because the wool was not what as recommended. He was confronted by the man who bought the wool and paid the highest price. It was a clear case of perjury, yet no bill could be found against him; his brother Masons helped him out of the difficulty. "O," said he, "I always knew they would take each other's part." Here you see the Masons were not expected to be honest. That, too, simply because they are Masons. We do not look for strict integrity and honesty in horse jockeys and gamblers, why should we in Freemasons.

Third, why are the people of the world duped with the false claims and impositions of Freemasonry. It is sometimes said, the world is sharp-sighted to see the faults of others, especially where professions of religion or money is concerned. Really it does not seem true here. An observer from one of the planets might think that this world was made up of simpletons! See how easily they bow their necks to a secret and designing craft, and suffer a bondage something less than Egyptian. I do not believe the world loves to be gulled. Why, then, do we hear in some places the cry, "Hail Masonry Divine?" Hug their chains and refuse the faithful testimony of the Cynosure. Do tell us why. First, then, It requires honesty of purpose and nerve to oppose our near and dear friends. These strong cords which bind society make it necessary to have a fidelity for truth that many do not possess. (See Luke 14: 20.) A brother would frequently ask me to show him the evil tendencies of Masonry. The war came and his two sons joined the craft. After that there was no door open to talk up Masonry. Why? Masonry had not changed, but the circumstances of that family were other than they had been, and new crosses to take up had arisen. Said a Canadian friend to me, "You had better say no more against Freemasonry—for there are more Masons of your name and mine than there are of any other name." Here was an important reason in his mind to let the lodge go free.

Another thing that has blinded the minds of those that believe not, is the smiles and flattery of Freemasonry. Sometimes a good "jack Mason" is helped to office by Freemasons that they may ward off objections against themselves for monopolizing every good place. The man they helped feels greatly obliged and will do all he can to show his gratitude. Said a man to me, "The Masons helped me over a bad place, and I shall not burn up the bridge that carried me safe over." See Prov. 5:3. "The lips of a strange woman drop as a honey-comb and her mouth is smoother than oil." Pardon me, sir, if I compare this old handmaid to the strange woman that flatters with her tongue, and thus forces mankind to favor her wickedness.

The third and last cause why the multitude fall down and worship the image of the beast is the false show and great credit with many that Masonry has obtained. This was what helped Goliah of Gath for forty days. Weak minds never inquire what is right, or the Lord's will; but, which is the strongest side? Where do the multitude go? There will I take my place.

While relating some of the horrid oaths of Freemasonry as a reason why we should not be Masons, the man to whom I was talking said, "We may as well kick against the wind as to strive against Masonry. We had better all join them and share the benefits."

At the last conference held by the M. E. church, in Rockford, and while a motion was before them to inquire into the tendency of secret societies, L. H., a prominent member, arose and said: "We have no rules to hinder our preachers from joining any moral society they please, and we might as well try to stop a Chicago fire as to try to stop the progress of Freemasonry." Yet the cry for the greatness of Diana has long ceased. There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed.

GEORGE SOVEREIGN.

Masonry in Saranac, Michigan.

The people in this vicinity ought by this time to know a good deal about Freemasonry.

D. P. Rathbun has been here twice—just twice too many times for Masonic comfort. One man offered at the close of a lecture to help Bro. R. with his boot. The good people want him to come again and stay longer.

A few weeks ago I had a little conversation with one of the leading men of Saranac in which he handled the craft pretty roughly. This he did, not to condemn Masonry, but to apologize for the unfaithfulness of his rusty and recreant brothers. I undertook to convice him that the adhering Masons in Saranac were as really perjured as they accused me of being, for none of them kept the lodge obligations. I urged him to name one man in town or any where in the country who was in his opinion a good Mason. Now hear his answer. "I don't know of one," said he. "But are not you a true Mason?" I asked. "No;" said he, "I and all the Masons I know of taken together are a parcel of perjured scamps, for not one of us is faithful to his lodge oaths." He said he feared that not one of all the Masons in the county would ever get into the Grand Lodge above. I recited a good deal of the lodge work to him and he admitted that I gave it correctly. But is it possible that intelligent men can persuade themselves that their future happiness depends on fidelity to such a monstrous sham?

A few days ago while I was exposing the disgusting and horrifying trickery of the lodge to a company of men in the post-office one of the chief men of the town told me that outside men did not want the religion of the Bible that we were urging them to accept. They had a religion that satisfied them. I asked him if he meant the religion of the lodge. He said he did.

Yesterday the Lord opened the way for me to talk nearly an hour in the post-office. A Good Templar strongly affirmed that Good Templarism was a great help to the church. His proof was that all who joined were required to profess a belief in God. Before he finished he said that no one could ever go to heaven if he should break the Good Templar vows. He intended to join the Masons as soon as possible. I was helping the Masons, for as soon as many men saw what Masonry was they would at once join. When I said something about the Bible, he contemptously declared and profanely swore that though he used to believe in the Bible he did not now.

Several men got pretty well stirred and lost their jewel. One warmly informed the company that secretism, and Masonry especially, had done more for the world than anything else. Another excitedly assured us that Masonry was above the church, the Bible, and everything else outside of Masonry. Bro. C. Smith, son of Rev. M. I. Smith, of the Michigan Conference M. E. church, has charge of the business in the post-office building. He was made a Royal Arch Mason in Ionia in 1877. He has openly renounced and fully divulged. He learned enough about Masonry to know that he could not keep Masonic secrets and be a Christian. During the discussion in the post-office some of the managing Masons sat on the counter or stood out by the door and whispered together.

I had a long talk with a Mason at his place of business this week. He said he saw Rev. M. I. Smith made a Mason. He did not believe in the Bible and he knew many Masons who did not. A good many men lied when they said in the lodge that they put their trust in God. He said he had found Masonry to be a sham.

Four men have cast off the galling Masonic yoke since I came here. Others have abandoned the devil worship of the grange.

This will show you a little of what the Lord is doing among us, as well as the painful state of the multitudes in the broad way to hell. I love God with all my heart and I have not for one moment thought of putting off the armor till my last battle is fought.

A. H. SPRINGSTEIN.

Our Mail.

Justus Miller, Pikeville, Ind., writes:

"The work is spreading nicely. The Masons are now mourners, and by the grace of God some of them will be conquered and will learn that Christ is the way to life eternal. They will learn that they must stop killing Hiram Abiff the widow's son, and die themselves unto him, that they may be made alive unto God. They will see the necessity of turning unto the Lord and forsaking the idolatrous worship they are engaged in."

A lady residing in Tarrytown, N. Y., orders the Cynosure sent for one year to Vassar College Reading Room, and writes:

"Light certainly is all that should be needed to open the eyes of true Christians. But alas! how reluctant poor human nature is to face opposition and trouble for the sake of right. I thought that among all those students some might be influenced for good by having the Cynosure placed in their way."

F. K. Hill, Wilbur, Oregon, writes:

"I may send you a few facts concerning the action of the craft among us out here in Oregon. I have something that would be hard to believe, and yet I have the facts in full and no mistake. Would there be any hopes of getting our friend Edmond Ronayne out into Oregon and California? It would wake up some of our good neighbors."

J. C. Chadwick, Smithport, Pa., writes:

"Heaven bless your work of faith and labor of love. One shall chase a thousand."

E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners, Mich., writes:

"I am scattering the seed that I get from the Cynosure around me as much as possible and expect in due time to see it bring forth fruit. I give my papers away as soon as I read them, and by this means I hope to be able to send in some more subscriptions soon. Brother Rathbun is with us now, and will probably lecture in and around Barry county for about three weeks. Prospects are opening up favorably and we are looking for a good work to be accomplished the present season."

J. A. Bingham, Mallet Creek, Ohio, writes:

"The circulation of the Cynosure ought to be greatly increased. Without this our reform must go tardily. The watchman upon the walls saw the sword coming but did not warn the people. Fearful the result."

James Barnett, West Geneva, Ohio, writes:

"In distributing tracts I find three-fourths of the people telling me that they are out of money. If one desires a tract worth ten cents, and he has nothing but five cents I give him the tract. Those having no money receive tracts thanking me. My Cynosures are distributed also. In this way the seed is sown in hopes of fruit hereafter. Some tell me that these papers opposed to secret societies are got up by men who were black-balled or turned out for bad conduct, I generally have half an hour's talk with such. I tell them that I lived in Geneseo county, N. Y., and attended church at Warsaw, the village where Bernard lived, who published the secrets of Masonry, having received authority from 103 Masons to do so. That hundreds of Masons have lately abandoned the lodge, and tell the same story; men that are in good repute and good standing in society. I tell them they need to be better informed, and when informed they would not talk so."

Wm. Steele, Portland, Oregon, writes:

"I am truly glad to see that the reform is gaining ground. Many thought that it was in vain to attempt to do anything against secrecy on this coast, as it seemed to have everything under its rule, but I am beginning to think it will be put down here even before it is in the Eastern States."

J. Tweedy, Lincolnville, Ind., writes:

"I like your paper and the principles of it. I was once a Mason myself and know something of its dark doings, although only a third degree Mason. I wish you success in bringing Masonry to light."

C L. Cowles, Parisville Center, N. Y., writes:

"The old 'handmaid' is very busy in these parts and I wish to reveal as far as in my power all the devilish workings of this vampire of modern times."

J. P. Rogers, Lecompton, Kan., writes:

"I have to say of the Cynosure that I am heartily in sympathy with the principles which it advocates and the fearless manner in which it treats evil wherever found. It is my prayer that these principles may get such a hold upon the popular mind, that not a single worshiper at the altar of Baal shall hold an office in church or state, when we shall have a free Gospel again. Yours for the truth as revealed in the revelations by the Word and Spirit."

R Faurot, Kendalville, Ind., writes:

"I am, as I long have been, the uncompromising enemy of secret societies, intensified by what I have learned of the working of secret societies in the South, and which certainly, taking in the Jesuits, are destined to ruin our nation unless its eyes can be opened."

Mrs. John Andrus, Lenox, writes:

"We are still doing what we can to expose the craft and enlighten the people with regard to secret societies. We (husband and I) had some conversation with a three degree Mason. He was a Christian man, and I asked him how he expected to be saved. He replied, because Christ died for him. I told him that Christ was ignored in the lodge. He did not know it, but would investigate and if so could not go with them any longer. The next time we met, something over a year, he said he belonged to no secret society on earth. My heart was made glad thereby and I felt strong to persevese in the cause. I think the cause is gaining ground. I know the Cynosure is a power for good."

Myron Short, Union Hill, Ill., writes:

"I want to do all I can to expose that high school of the devil, Freemasonry I don't call it free Masonry any more; I call it slave Masonry."

C. Conkling, Pleasant Home, O., writes:

"The time is not far away I think when the battle with Masonry will wax warmer than ever."

I. Sleeper, Perry, N. Y., writes:

"What is needed to meet objections of adhering Masons is the sworn testimony of seceding Masons, who have renounced Masonry since the days of Morgan, that Masonry is the same now as revealed by Morgan, Bernard, Stearns and others. This plea on the part of Masons we have to meet, and we have no definite testimony that Masonry is the same, or if there is any alterations it should be made known. Can this sworn testimony be obtained? I earnestly desire that you would obtain the testimony of these seceding Masons, and send me some. We want them here very much."

Edmond Ronayne has already given his legal attestation to the correctness of his Hand Book and Morgan's Expose, which is published in tract form. We would be very glad to have the affidavits of others. In this connection we will publish the following which was suggested by a friend in Pennsylvania who wishes friends of the cause who can do so to paste it at the head of blank paper and get all the honest Masons they can to sign it, and then forward to the Cynosure office. In this way might be secured from different parts of the country a large list of names which could be printed in tract form. Would not this to some extent fill the place of the affidavits of seceding Masons, and be a good tract for general circulation?

TO ALL HONEST PEOPLE.

We, the undersigned, having taken degrees in the Masonic order while under the impression that it was a moral fraternity, hereby certify that it is a grossly immoral organization, designed to aid bad men in doing secretly many acts which public opinion would not tolerate.

We declare that Freemasonry is a secret despotism, having death penalties; that it is anti-Christian; that it is anti-social, as it organizes selfish secret clans; and that it is a demoralizing power operating slyly in all departments of life, upon all classes of society, and that by different writers at different times by Capt Wm. Morgan, Elder Bernard, Edmond Ronayne and others.

IT HAS BEEN REVEALED

Name.	No. of Deg.	P. O. Address.

A gentleman from Ontario, orders quite a variety of books, and writes:

"I have a brother in the lodge who has taken the first degree of a Mason. I am opposed to Masonry and he promised me that if I got these books he would read them, and if there was no object in Freemasonry he would withdraw from it."

Home and Farm.

Soap-Making.

A lady says in the Western Farm Journal: The task of soap-making may be very much lightened by dispensing with the boiling of soap, and I think the soap much whiter and nicer made cold. To make it, take three-fourths of a pound of clear grease to one gallon of lye. Heat the grease and lye separate. Pour the grease into the barrel, then the lye, stirring well. Set the barrel in the sun. Stir several times through the day. Cover at night. The lye should be strong enough to bear a common-sized egg to the surface—not out or above it.

The heating of the lye and grease may be omitted, but it takes longer to make and is not so easily stirred.

To those who live in coal-burning regions, and who cannot get wood ashes, I will say that I have used white potash in the same way, with good success. One year I had more grease than I could make with what ashes I had, and having a small quantity of strong lye when my barrel was filled, left unused, I boiled the balance of my grease in it just enough to eat it; then made it up with concentrated lye, according to directions on packages. The result was excellent soft soap, which I afterward made into a prime article of white hard soap by stirring salt into the warm soap until the lye and soap separated, then cutting in blocks and drying. I had before used the concentrated lye alone, but with a poor curdling soap as the result.

Hard soap I consider much the best for washing clothes with, and always make a part of my soft soap into hard, as above. For floor-cleaning, dish-washing, and many other uses, the soft soap is quite as good, or better.

Treatment of Bruises.

From times unknown bruises have been treated by cold water. Mothers in our early life used to apply it to any bruise or contusion, especially to bruises upon the forehead. Notwithstanding this illustrious example, we prefer the application of very warm water. Let us see how the two operate: Cold applied to the surface has a tendency to check the flow of blood. Heat, under the same circumstances, augments it. Thus applying cold water to a bruise or contusion stops, more or less, the blood in its course through the injured part. The spot is "black and blue." Applying hot water compels the moving fluid to hasten its course and be far away from the scenes of turmoil. So the blood hastens on its way and leaves very few marks of its presence. Ordinarily, bruises and contusions rupture some capillary blood tubes, and allow the blood to ooze out. The thing to be done is to compel the blood to flow on its wonted way. The application of very warm water is the best treatment for contusion and bruises.

Remedy for Snake Bite.—Edward Wilson, residing on Pawpaw Creek, in this county, was bitten on the wrist by a copperhead snake last week. His wrist became very much swollen and extremely painful. A poultice of berthroot—or, as some call it, skull-cap, and others skunk-root—was applied. The first application did not seem to do much good, but the second proved efficacious immediately, and in less than twenty minutes after its application the pain had entirely ceased, and the wound, which bled freely, rapidly healed up. Another gentleman in the same neighborhood was also bitten by a copperhead in the foot. The same remedy was applied, and it had the same happy effect. This remedy is so simple and the article so easily obtained that it is worth recollecting.—Fairmont Index.

If you have a good dog that kills or runs sheep, and don't want to shoot him, build a pen sixteen feet square and run a pole across the top, and then pick the largest and oldest buck of the flock, put him in the pen, get your dog with a collar around his neck, and rope to draw up over the middle of the pole, so that the dog will have his fore feet swinging off the ground a few inches. Get out of the pen and let the buck give him several good butts, and then turn him loose. This is a sure cure. I tried it on my father's dogs when I was a boy, and never knew them to even cross a field where the sheep were grazing. Try it.

Cure for Founder.—The Rural World proposes to cure founder in a horse in this way: Take the horse into a brook of water deep enough to nearly reach his body, and fasten his head so high that he cannot drink. If the weather is warm keep him there several hours. Then remove him and rub his legs to promote circulation. If still lame, repeat the process two or three times, and a cure will be effected. In the winter twenty minutes will be long enough to keep the horse in the water, when he should be taken out and rubbed as in the other case—repeating the operation if necessary. This said to cure all cases of founder when not of long standing.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO See page 15 of the Christian Cynosure.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. Bain.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers. Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

438 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument. Price $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75,
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 1 by Express, ... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties 30 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.

Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.

German Edition, Entitled "Christian and Past." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts

Single Copy, Post Paid, 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express 4.50

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. Woodward.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.

10 cents each 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $4 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1877.

The Dayton Convention.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Consultation with many friends in Dayton and other points in Ohio by their Secretary, has decided the Directors of the National Association that the time announced (July 10,) would be very unfavorable. At a meeting on Monday, therefore, they decided to CHANGE THE TIME TO OCTOBER 23D TO 25TH. The reasons for the change seemed great and pressing and will be noted hereafter. Friends of the reform will take notice and arrange to meet each other with warm hearts and strong hands in October.

Editorial Correspondence.

ILLINOIS CONGREGATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

STERLING, Ill., May 22, 1877.

The thirty-fourth annual meeting of this body assembles here to-night. I met with it in Farmington when a common school-house afforded ample room for it. Now the body of a respectable sized church is well filled with ministers, delegates, visitors and friends.

What strikes me is the large attendance of Freemasons. In some cases several are here from individual churches, though one delegate only is allowed to a church. A Knight Templar is here who met in convention with the Sir Knights who met in New Orleans before the fearful massacres of the Republicans in Mississippi, and gave their public endorsement of the patriotism of the White Leagues and Rifle Clubs of the South. Along with him comes an editor who, in conversation with me, repelled the charge that Freemasonry is Christless, for the reason that, in the fifth libation, the Knight Templar professes his belief in the immortality of the soul, and the atonement of Christ.

My reply was, "You know that Christ is excluded from the seven lower degrees, is it likely He will be with you in those above? If you will not let Him enter the lower stories of your Masonic temple, is it likely He will be with you in the Twelfth, or Templar's degree? and that too when insulted by the horrible invocation of a double damnation on your soul—the sins of the one who owned the skull from which you drink added to your own sins?"

The opening sermon was an original one from Prof. Tanner, of Jacksonville. I meet here warm friends on all sides; one, Rev. W. T. Savage, whom I have not met for forty years, since he taught Hebrew in Lane Seminary when I was a student there.

I see more and more proofs that this State Association is receiving the profound attention of the lodgemen. They dread it. Slavery could not subdue or subjugate the fires of Puritanism—the simple and sublime truths of God in the breasts of the descendants of the Pilgrims. This Jefferson Davis saw, and proposed the reconstruction of the country, "with New England left out." It answered by Sumner in the Senate.

THE PLOT OPENS.

Wednesday, May 3.

To-day two Methodists and a Baptist brother have arrived here from Wheaton. I am told they are charged with a proposition to endow Wheaton College as an academy, provided the Illinois Congregational Association will take charge of it, and that I can be removed from the Presidency. The two Wheaton Methodists are principal owners of the Masonic lodge there, and the Baptist brother lately received a vote of thanks from an Oddfellow's lodge. Reforms, like misery, make strange bed-fellows. The lodge sees clearly that Wheaton College must be crippled or be crippled itself. It sees the Carpenter Building in Chicago occupied by a free prayer meeting, and the thirty thousand dollar fund almost completed; and when that great end is achieved, and this shall become a great and mighty institution, the two forces united, like the two streams of flame from the compound blow-pipe, will melt down the flinty ramparts of darkness and lies now cursing this our mighty Republic. With the lodge it is a struggle for life or death. We know which it will be.

Meantime, I shall not be disappointed if these Methodists and Baptist, who come here to build a Congregational Academy, are empowered to offer a handsome endowment as a sort of bounty for my official head. I shall know to-morrow, and will tell the readers of the Cynosure. But these men will be disappointed. Neither the College nor the cause to which the Wesleyans consecrated it depends on any one man. Neither can they be stifled by Masonic money or strategy. "Why do the heathen rage and the people imagine vain things?" Since the time of David such efforts have met with ignominious failure. Though "the kings of the earth set themselves, and the people gather together against the Lord," and to shield their dark and Christless substitutes for the religion of God, truth must and will triumph; for Christ is the truth, and he has "all power in heaven and in earth." Only let us see that we meekly abide in him.

Friday, May 25.

The three lodge emissaries from Wheaton have met with the committee on the Classical Academy. They exhibited a paper, signed by citizens of Du Page county, against me, and in favor of putting Wheaton College under the care of this State association. This paper is addressed to the College Board, to be presented at our annual meeting, June 26.

The paper amounts to little more than an excuse to come here and meet all the Freemasons who are members of Congregational churches and all others who hate our reform, and are willing to act in the capacity of Mason's jacks. The lodge, like its grand master, the devil, always acts on the assassin's maxim, "Strike, but conceal the hand." The committee tell me they shall take no notice of the Wheaton emissaries, nor of their paper, nor make any report concerning them or it.

As yet the College, the reform, and its representatives are treated with the utmost kindness and respect. Rev. H. H. Hinman and Prof. C. A. Blanchard were unanimously invited to be "members of the association by courtesy," though Prof. Blanchard is only a licentiate, not ordained. He made a speech in behalf of the College which elicited general applause through the house; and the old-time respect and love has been accorded to myself throughout the house.

Still our churches are badly demoralized by the secret orders, and our good ministers and churches are literally as "sheep among the wolves" of the lodge. And as the little party of honest men who clave to Christ could only be betrayed and sold from within by a member of that party, so I know not what God will permit internal treachery to do against the friends of God and haters of darkness, or against Wheaton College, which has graduated L. N. Stratton, J. P. Stoddard, C. A. Blanchard, and other men of that stamp.

The son of one of the Wheaton professors lately said in a store at Wheaton, he would "bet a horse against a half dollar that Blanchard would not be President of Wheaton College after June, next month."

Much worse things than that could happen to our cause. Even when Christ was crucified the cause did not die. Nor will this reform die, which is merely that of Christianity against the human and Satanic substitutes for His atonement, by which alone men can be saved.

Meantime, as I have not obtruded Wheaton College offensively on men struggling everywhere in this great beginning battle of Armageddon, I earnestly request every friend of this great and mighty reform to pray for the Board of Trustees of Wheaton College, June 26, at their annual meeting, and for our Commencement the day following. Attend this Commencement if possible. The cars leaving Chicago at 9 o'clock A. M. will bring you in time to hear our graduating class, and let you return at 3 or 5:30 o'clock P. M. Don't forget to pray for us.

J. BLANCHARD.

The General Conference at Westfield.

The General Conference of the United Brethren in Christ at Westfield, Ill., adjourned on Wednesday of last week. From the important and influential position held by this church towards our reform, this meeting has been of unusual importance to our readers. In addition to the communications of last week we give an abstract of the more important measures discussed and adopted, drawn from the correspondence of the Inter-ocean of this city.

The most absorbing question before the delegates seems to have been in regard to the enforcement of the law of the church against secret societies. According to the discipline it became the duty of each minister to erase the name of a member violating this law, with or without a vote or the individual church or class. Some of the ministers, however, especially in some of the eastern conferences, have refused to execute the law, and some action, either modifying the rule to suit the pleasure of lodge members, or which should lead to the enforcement of the existing law seemed necessary.

The action of the Conference on the Summit St. church case was the first test of its temper on this question. This was followed by an amendment presented by one of the committees on revision of the discipline, declaring it the duty of the bishop "to see to it that the laws of the church were faithfully executed." This was at once recognized as a "clincher," but before any considerable opposition was aroused, Rev. J. K. Alwood of Ohio, well known as one of the foremost supporters of the church in its reform principles, presented an amendment making it the duty of the bishop at each annual conference to make particular inquiry as to the enforcement of the discipline against the lodge, and to erase from the roll the names of persistent violators. This was lost, but the report of the committee was carried with but twelve nays. The next day was set for an examination of the annual conferences respecting their adherence to the discipline. The morning came and at the earliest moment Rev. Z. Warner, of Virginia, the leader of the lodge sympathizers, presented a paper defining the conduct of the examination, which would carry it to the extreme and thus defeat its object, namely, to locate the disease, find the seat of secretist defection. He was defeated and the examination proceeded according to a resolution by ex-Bishop Shuck, limiting the inquiry to conference action, which revealed the loyalty of the annual conferences and furnished a basis for the action of the Conference.

The discussion of pro rata representation was also influenced largely by the lodge question and the proposition failed, doubtless for the reason that as presented it favored the anti-law party. The discussion was opened in the evening of the 21st and continued into the next day, and was argued with the greatest ability by both sides. A substitute by Prof. Milton Wright of the Telescope, would have passed by a majority of one had not Prof. Shuck wisely determined to change his vote for the reason that measures of so great importance to the church should not be made by so close a vote.

The final grapple with the secretist influence came on Saturday, the 23d inst., on taking up the report of committee No. 5, on revision of Discipline. Rev. J. W. Hott, chairman of the committee, called on Rev. N. Castle, the secretary, to read the report, which is thus briefly stated:

After a lengthy preamble, in which the grounds of hostility to secret societies are clearly stated, the report provides that all members of the church who shall hereafter become connected with any secret societies shall, by such an act sever their connection with the church, and their names shall be recorded as having withdrawn from the fellowship of the church. In the case of persons now members of the church and connected with secret societies, it provides that those connected with the oath-bound orders shall be granted six months in which to sever such connection, and upon their failure thus to do, their membership in the church shall cease; and those belonging to minor orders may be borne with for a period not to exceed one year, when, if they have not severed their connection with such orders, their membership in the church shall cease.

A minority report was presented by Rev. D. R. Miller of the Sandusky Conference, and colleague of Revs. A. Rose and M. Bulger. Mr. Miller spoke with great feeling against the majority report as heartless and cruel toward erring members of the church. The discussion was continued with marked ability until evening, the opponents of the measure basing their arguments upon the method of dealing with secretists, without committing themselves in favor of the lodge. The report was adopted by a vote of 71 yeas to 31 nays, and thus the day closed with another decided victory for the right.

The debate was carried on with little personality or acerbity of feeling manifest, and but a few hints of dismemberment of the church were made by one or two of the most violent of the anti-law party. This has been the cause of great dread to the loyal party, and many earnest advocates of the rule were in favor of modified measures, laboring and hoping for such legislation as should produce harmony. Pres. Allen of Westfield, influenced by such a desire, introduced a proposition to allow the old law to stand, making provisions for its future certain execution, and permitting members of secret societies now in the church to remain. All who know Pres. Allen and his thorough loyalty to the church, will see that he presented this not that he loved the truth less, but his heart went out after erring brethren the more. The discipline as amended takes effect on the 1st of September next, and is on the whole eminently just to those who have fallen into the snare of the lodge. No Christian thus entangled will delay for a moment the honest examination of a question upon which the church has for generations taken so decided a stand. If he has sinned ignorantly the time is abundant for a thorough examination; if with open eyes and persistently, it is surely long enough for the sheltering of a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Other action taken by the Conference is of great interest to us. The report providing for lay delegation in such annual conferences as shall adopt it, and for such delegation in the General Conference whenever it shall be adopted by the church on presentation of the Bishops, was adopted by a great majority. The next General Conference was appointed to meet in Lisbon, Iowa, on the second Thursday in May, 1881. Dr. Davis, of Dayton, was appointed to prepare for publication a biography of the late revered Bishop, David Edwards.

The election of bishops, editors, trustees, etc., was an important work of the Conference, and from the following names our readers can see that it was truly well done. Bishops Dickson, Glossbrenner and Weaver were re-elected. Prof. Milton Wright, whose praise is in all the churches, was chosen to the bishopric left vacant by the death of Bishop Edwards; and a new diocese was set off on the Pacific coast, over which Rev. N. Castle, of Indiana, was chosen to preside. Rev. J. W. Hott, an eminent writer of the church, and an able advocate of personal holiness and of reforms, succeeds to the editorial chair of the Telescope, while Prof. W. O. Tobey, a brother beloved, is retained as his associate. Rev. W. J. Shuey is retained as manager of the Publishing House, at Dayton. The Sunday School Association is thus officered: Rev. Wm. Dillon, president; Robt. Cowden, secretary; Rev. S. Vonneida, treasurer.

The report on moral reforms adopted by the Conference was earnest in condemnation of the use of liquor or tobacco, of lax and unscriptural divorce laws, games of chance, etc. We hope to present it in full hereafter.

—The interesting account of the expositions in Canada will be read with genuine interest this week. The good accomplished by them cannot be estimated. While this has been done at severe cost to Mr. Ronayne, we rejoice to know that he is sustained by a superior trust, and in the midst of weariness illness and abuse, "bates not one jot of heart or hope." Continue to aid him brethren, with your prayers.

—The anniversary of the National Reform Association usually held in the last of May has been postponed until fall, on account of sickness and death in the family of Rev. David Mc Allister the general secretary of the association. His large circle of friends will learn with sorrow of the death of a child and severe sickness of Bro. McAllister's wife.

—The report from the meetings of Grand Lodge, Chapter, Council and Commandery in Maine this month have an interesting item. No charters for new organizations were granted by any of these bodies, except for one lodge and one council. Maine has hardly been reached by our reform; but if, even now, Freemasonry has reached so low an ebb, when the nature of the lodge becomes known and odious to the masses, the foremost State in the temperance reform will not be behindhand in removing this evil also.

—Past Master Ronayne returned from his long and laborious lecture tour in Canada and western New York on Monday. He is much needing the rest he will have at home for a short time before visiting points in this State. Iowa and Wisconsin correspondents will please notice.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, Incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wi
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

The Home Circle.

In the Old Church Tower.

In the old church-tower
Hangs the bell;
And above it on the vane,
In the sunshine and the rain,
Cut in gold, St. Peter stands,
With the keys in his two hands,
And all is well!

In the old church-tower
Hangs the bell;
You can hear its great heart beat,
Ah! so loud, and wild, and sweet,
As the parson says a prayer
Over happy lovers there;
While all is well!

In the old church-tower
Hangs the bell,
Deep and solemn. Hark! again;
Ah! what passion and what pain!
With her hands upon her breast,
Some poor soul has gone to rest,
Where all is well!

In the old church-tower
Hangs the bell!
A quaint friend that seems to know
All our joys and all our woe;
It is glad when we are wed—
It is sad when we are dead—
And all is well!

—Selected.

The Heroism of Faith.

Unbelief makes cowards. It says "impossible," "it can't be done," and shuts the door of possibility in the face of all progress. But faith makes heroes. It never counts the chances of failure or calculates the power of the adversary, or listens to the world's croakers, but over them all sees the banner of victory waving in glorious triumph. No cloud so thick, so dark, so threatening but that faith penetrates it and floods the hill-tops beyond with the beams of hope.

Were it not for the believing and hopeful ones of earth the doubters, the croakers, the despondent, the dyspeptic, the gloomy and the selfish —the frogs, and moles, and owls, and bats of the human race—would hold a convention, with Rip Van Winkle for President, and vote God, progress, sunshine and daylight out of our world.

What would become of us if we had not a few heroes?—men of faith, men of hope, men of progress, to sing for sighing humanity, to rally the retreating forces, and to point us to the sun rising in the east? men who can see the day breaking through the night of ignorance and sin, and with forecasting beams of light, making gardens of flowers, landscapes of beauty and fields of harvest all visible—civilization unfolding her treasures and Christianity gathering her trophies? Were it not for a few of these heroes of faith our churches would stagnate, or dry-rot, or freeze beyond a thaw. They keep hope on the wing and courage on the march, and thus save our world from despondency, the church from backsliding, sinners from indifference, and souls from despair.

Were it not for the encouraging, stimulating and sustaining power of faith, the disappointments, shadows, and gloom of earth would so paralyze our hopes and blight our prospects, that despair would spread his raven wings over our heads and shut out all light and veil the sun in darkness and the moon in blood.

Faith eclipses the dark form of despair, lets in the light of heaven, makes heroes of cowards, converts sighs into songs, puts crowns on the heads of the poor and scepters in the hands of the humble, paints the bow of hope on the darkest cloud, and the stars of promise in the stormiest night, penetrates the dust of toil, the smoke of battle and the gloom of death, and beholds the victor's palm and crown of life for the coronation scene of glory.

The man of faith becomes a center of influence and power; many kindle their expiring torches at his light, sleeping soldiers wake and rise to arms at his coming, the gloomy and despondent find their shadows fleeing like night at the approach of day, the fearful become brave, the dumb sing and the dying catch a new inspiration by his presence. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even your faith." —Christian Voices.

The Danger of Wine.

I had a widow's son committed to my care. He was heir to a great estate. He went through the different stages of college, and finally left, with a good moral character and bright prospects. But during the course of his education he had heard the sentiment advanced, which I then supposed correct, that the use of wines was not only admissible, but a real auxiliary to the temperance cause. After he had left college for a few years he continued respectful to me. At length he became reserved. One night he rushed unceremoniously into my room, and his appearance told the dreadful secret. He said he came to talk with me. He had been told during his senior year that it was safe to drink wine, and by that idea he had been ruined. I asked him if his mother knew this. He said no; he had carefully concealed it from her. I asked him if he was such a slave that he could not abandon the habit. "Talk not to me of slavery," he said; "I am ruined, and before I go to bed I shall quarrel with the bar-keeper of the Tontine for brandy or gin to sate my burning thirst." In one month this young man was in his grave. It went to my heart. Wine is the cause of ruin to a great proportion of the young men of our country.—Prof. Goodrich.

Religion in Russia.

The Russian St. Petersburg Gazette, in an article on the Russian Church, observes that the number of dissenters in Russia has very much increased of late, especially among the masses of the population, and that even in the higher classes of society the mystical doctrines of fashionable preachers and the manifestations of "spiritualists" have undermined the influence of the orthodox clergy. This is certainly not due to any excessive tolerance by the government of sectarianism, for "the state could not do more to support orthodoxy than it does, unless it adopted a system of intolerance like that practiced in the middle ages." The writer next enumerates the laws which are now in force for the protection of the state church in Russia. If a member of the orthodox church changes his religion, both he and the person who instigated him to do so are punished. When the adopted religion is a non-Christian one, the instigator is punished with hard labor; when it is the Roman Catholic or a Protestant faith, he is banished; and when it is that of a Russian sect, he is interned. As for the person who leaves the orthodox church, he is in every case placed at the disposal of the ecclesiastical authorities for suitable correction, and his property is sequestrated. Members of the orthodox church are forbidden to marry non-Christians, and the children of mixed marriages (except only in the Baltic provinces) are bound under severe penalties to be brought up in the orthodox religion. The right of propagating religious doctrines is possessed exclusively by the state church; the members of other religions are not even allowed to convert pagans to Christianity. The establishment of new religious communities, too, is strictly forbidden. And yet, though the state thus protects the orthodox church, the latter is daily losing ground in the empire. It is not the fault of the state that, notwithstanding such severe protective laws, the Tchouvashes, Tcheremisses and other alien races are being converted in masses to Mohammedanism; that whole villages which were regarded as orthodox are now found to be Mohammedan; that the Mohammedan propaganda is rapidly spreading northward, while the orthodox propaganda finds but few supporters."—Ex.

Respect your Children.

A writer, one greatly beloved by the children, sat in the parlor. Mary had been pleasantly entertaining her.

"What a good, lady-like little girl Mary is," thought the visitor. Suddenly Mary was called away. Soon the sound of passionate voices disturbed the silence of the morning, and Mary rushed back into the parlor as if for protection. What was the child's desire? Protection from her mother!

"Don't add falsehood to theft," sternly said her mother, following Mary.

"I never touched your old money," retorted Mary, her fair face inflamed by rage and shame.

"You must have taken it—don't dare deny it again."

"I never did, I never did, I will not stand such treatment right before Miss ——," shrieked the distracted child, darting from the room, leaving the shocked and astonished writer with heart-ache and indignation.

She now heard, through the wide open doors, another voice, that of Mary's brother.

"Here is your money, just where you told me to leave it," said he. "Mary never touched it."

"Why, so it is," said the mother, calming down at once.

"Next time you better be sure of what you accuse folks of," sagely advised the boy. "If I hadn't come in just then you'd have been beating Mary." And it is to be feared that the lad was right.

Now what should a mother who has been betrayed into inflicting such an outrage on an innocent child, do?

Her duty is plain. She should frankly own her fault, and ask forgiveness of her child. This mother did not do it. But returning with Mary to the parlor, she sought to soothe her injured feelings by relating to the writer the cunning tricks and sayings of Mary's babyhood. The girl sat silent, listening, half sullen, half pleased, and by-and-by the misery seemed to be forgotten. But it never will be forgotten; nor its influence undone. Such injustice never ceases to injure, unless properly atoned for. Poor children! how they are misused. Tenderly indulged at one time; trained to no habits of obedience and respect; and then subjected to false accusations and undeserved mortification—is it any wonder that so many of them turn out badly?

O parents, and all of ye to whom the little children's destiny is committed, be not "bitter against them;" be not unjust to them; be to them steadfast, patient and respectful friends. The friend in any relation, is its chief element of value. Neither parent, nor brother, nor husband, nor wife is a blessing, who is not also sincerely and unselfishly a friend.

Who are our parents, or brothers, our true relatives? In the best sense, the eternal sense, only our friends. Thus said our Saviour.—The Christian.

Meeting at the Top.—Two Scotchmen occupied the same cottage, each being bound to keep his own side of the house well thatched. They were sadly divided religously, one being a Burgher and the other an Antiburgher. After repeated battles of words they were not on speaking terms. One day these men were at work on the roof each thatching his own side, and they met on the top and were forced to look in each other's faces. One of the men took off his cap, and, scratching his head, said to the other, "Johnnie, you and me, I think, hae been very foolish to dispute as we hae done concerning Christ's will aboot our kirks, until we hae clenn forgot his will aboot ourselves; and so we hae fought so bitterly for what we ca' the truth, that it has ended in spite. Whatever is wrong, it's perfectly certain that it never can be richt to be uncivil, unneighborly, unkind, in fac, tae hate one anither. Na, na, that's the deevil's work, and no God's! Noo, it strikes me that maybe it's wi' the Kirk as wi' this house; ye're working on ae side and me on the t' ither, but if we only do our work weel, we will meet at the top at last. Gie's your han', auld neighbor!" So they shook hands, and were the best of friends ever after.—Evangelist.

Children's Corner

An Acrostic.

Whoso loveth instruction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth reproof is brutish. Prov. 12: 1.

A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger. Prov. 15: 1.

Those that be planted in the house of the Lord, shall flourish in the courts of our God. Psalms 92: 13.

Cease from anger and forsake wrath: fret not thyself in any wise to do evil. Psalms 37:8.

He that deviseth to do evil, shall be called a mischievous person. Prov. 24: 8.

A man's heart deviseth his way: but the Lord directeth his steps. Prov. 16: 9.

No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel or putteth it under a bed: but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter may see the light. Luke 8: 16.

Deal with thy servant according unto thy mercy and teach me thy statutes. Psalms 119:124.

Prove all things: hold fast that which is good. 2 Thess. 5: 21.

Reprove not a scorner lest he hate thee: rebuke a wise man and he will love thee. Prov. 9: 8.

A true witness delivereth soule: but a deceitful witness speaketh lies. Prov. 14: 25.

Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you. John 15: 14.

BETTY J. HARRISON.

AMES, Iowa.

A Sermon for Little Children.

BY REV. NEWMAN HALL.

"Thou shalt be called, Sought out." Is. lxii. 12.

Little Jane lived with her parents in a pleasant little house, which was built in the midst of a great wood or forest. You could go several miles before you came outside the trees. Many of these trees were very old and large, and the big branches made dark shadows. Others of the trees were small and close together, and the thickets stopped the way and blocked up the view. It was very easy to get lost in the wood, for there were no wide roads in it. You might be near to the house and not see it, and you might try to find it, but get farther from it. And in the forest there were boggy places where a child might soon sink in and be smothered by mud; and there were deep holes into which a child might fall; and there were savage beasts and serpents by which a child might be killed; and there were poisonous plants and berries, which a child might eat and so die. Round the house was a very nice garden full of fruits and flowers. A strong paling kept it safe from wild beasts. Little Jane was often told never to go outside, for fear she might be lost and some harm come to her.

But little Jane often looked through the paling and thought she would like just to see a little of the forest, and to gather some of its flowers, and eat some of its berries. And so, one day, when she thought her father and mother were not looking, she ran out of the gate and got behind a great tree. She felt she was doing wrong, but yet she wanted very much to see the forest, and said to herself, "I shall come back very soon and no one will know." So she went a little way along a winding path and gathered some flowers; and then she saw some nice-looking berries a little farther off, and she went on and on till she felt tired and thought she would go back. She turned round and went a little way, but there were so many windings in the wood that she forgot the path. Soon she felt so tired that she sat down to rest and fell asleep. When she awoke, she started up in fright, and began to cry and to run. But she got farther and farther from home; and now it got dark, and night came on, and she heard the wild beasts growl.

What were her father and mother doing? They soon missed her; they called for her all over the garden, but the voice they so loved made no answer; they searched the house up stairs and down stairs, but there was no little Jane; then they saw the mark of her small feet just outside of the garden gate, and they knew she must be in the forest. So they called the maid, and they called the gardener, and they all went out into the forest to find little Jane. They called her as loud as they could, but there was no answer. When evening came on they returned to the house and got some lanterns and torches, and went out again into the wood, for they knew that little Jane would never find her way back, unless they went to seek her. Presently her mother said, "I think this is the mark of little Jane's foot!" and so they followed the tracks, and came to where little Jane had fallen down over the stump of a tree. Her face was quite pale with fright and fatigue and hunger; her dress was torn, and her hands and feet were bleeding with cuts from sharp stones and prickly thorns, and she was very ill from eating poisonous berries. She would never have got home; she must have died if she had not been "sought out." This name might have been given to Jane—"Sought out."

The children of God who lived at Jerusalem were very wicked. They wandered from God, and their enemies carried them away to a foreign country. But God did not forget them. He brought them back to Jerusalem. "Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy salvation cometh; and thou shalt be called, Sought out, A city not forsaken."

Dear children, we have all wandered from our true home; we have gone away from God our Heavenly Father. Sin is like a forest, full of dangers and with many winding ways. We think, when we enter it, that we will soon find our way back; but we wander on and are soon quite lost. Sin always brings sorrow with it. If we were left to ourselves we could not find the way back. But God loves us too much to let us be lost without trying to find us. He sent his dear Son Jesus into the sinful forest of this world to search out his wandering children. Jesus finds us, and asks us to come home. You do not know the way, but Jesus does, and he will lead you. You are ready to perish, but Jesus brings you medicine to cure you and food to refresh you. You can do nothing by yourselves, but Jesus will take you up in his arms and carry you safely home.

Pray to him, and say, "Dear Jesus, help me to come back; I have wandered from God; I have lost my way; I cannot find it; I am in danger of perishing. Satan, like a roaring lion, wants to devour me; I am so afraid; I am so unhappy; I so want to be safe at home in the love of God. Jesus, who didst come to seek the lost, seek and save me."

You may be quite sure Jesus will hear such a prayer; and whatever other name you may have, this also shall be your name—"Sought out." "Thou shalt be called, Sought out." —Golden Hours.

In a Minute.

"It is twenty minutes of nine," Julia; time for you to go to school," said her mother, as she passed quickly through the room.

"Yes, mother; in a minute," replied Julia," and went on with her reading—it was such an interesting story.

"'Cool time," called the little echo on the doorstep; but there was no reply.

Pretty soon Julia looked up; five minutes of nine; oh, how could she get there in time! She ran down the street, and in her haste stumbled and fell, laming her foot and soiling her dress. Flushed and breathless she entered the room just a little too late; the roll had been called, and the black mark placed against her name. Poor Julia, her sobs and tears were unavailing.

That afternoon the teacher closed school a little earlier then usual on account of a shower coming up in the west; Julia and Carrie Mellin stopped to finish a game.

"You will get caught in the rain; you had better make haste," said one and another.

"Yes, I'm coming in a minute," said Julia, as she went on playing. But before she was half way home the shower came, and she reached there dripping and drenched with rain. The result was a severe cold, that settled in her ankle, and she was absent from school for over a week, and lost the medal, for having the most bad-marks in spelling.

"I am the most unfortunate girl in the world," she sighed; "Polly, dolly, come here and tell me what is the reason."

And the unconscious little echo on the doorstep called back: "In a minute."

Shut the Gate.

[From Young Folks' Monthly.]

Boys, shut the gate after you! You are going through to be gone just a little while; you look around, and not seeing anything likely to enter, you think you will save a little time by leaving it until you return. So you drive along, and get about half through with your job, when up come the colts, attracted by the sight of your team. Seeing the gate open, they dash through, and away they go for a scamper through the garden or fields, as the case may be. You shout at them, and call the dog. He comes rushing upon the scene, and takes after them with evident delight. If you are a very prudent boy you first hitch your team to the fence, and then run after the dog and colts.

By this time the hungry old sow, that can smell an open gate a quarter of a mile away, no matter which way the wind blows, has come up and in she goes, with her whole progeny. Now you get mad and call the dog away from the colts and set him after the pigs. The hired man hears the uproar and comes to the rescue. He follows the colts, and as they come tearing along past the horses, they pull at their halters and down tumble two or three rods of fence. You are extremely lucky if they do not run away and upset the wagon. By this time your mother comes into the melee. She has sense enough to drive the dog to the house; and by her intelligent help the field is finally cleared, and order restored.

Probably you cannot earn enough in a week to pay for the damage that is done, and it might all have been prevented by just one minute spent in shutting the gate after you. I will venture the opinion that if there had been an accurate account kept since creation, of the amount saved or lost by not shutting the gate promptly after it was used, the loss would exceed the gain by enough to put a new gate on every farm in the United States. I have known boys, and even men, to have just about the experience which I have described, over and over again, and yet they never seem to learn the great economy and security there is in promptly shutting the gate after them.

Letters and Puzzles.

CLAY CENTER, Kan., May 14, 1877.

MR. EDITOR: I read your beautiful paper. Every week I find some nice stories and as I read over the puzzles and enigmas I thought I would send some. If you think them good enough to put in your paper, I would be happy to see them there. I am nine years old and this is my first attempt to send you enigmas.

Yours,

CHARLIE.

AN ACROSTIC.

B stands for boots I sometimes wear;
O stands for oysters of which I can eat my share;
S stands for stories which I love to read;
T stands for toys which I do not need;
O stands for oranges which I love so well;
N stands for nice things the merchants have to sell;
My whole is a city that is not very near
And I don't expect to see it for many a year.

CHARLIE.

NEW SHARON, Iowa, May 15, 1877.

DEAR EDITOR: I send you an enigma which if you think is worth publishing you may do so. The answer to Libbie Schryver's puzzle of May 10th is "Sea of Kamtschatka."

Yours respectfully,

A. J. COPA.

I am composed of 12 letters.
My 11, 12 and 3 is a noun.
My 7 and 8 is a pronoun.
My 4, 5 and 8 is an adjective.
My 12 and 7 is a verb.
My 1, 2 and 4 is an adverb.
My 2 and 1 is a preposition.
My 1, 2 and 9 is a conjunction.
My 6, 7, 8 and 1 is an interjection.
My whole is the name of a continent.

A little friend, name unknown, of Bedford, Iowa, answers the typographical puzzle of May 10th correctly.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXIII.—June 10, 1877.—THE PROMISE OF REVIVAL.

SCRIPTURE—Hosea 14: 1-9. Commit 1-7. Primary verse 9.

1. O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

2. Take with you words, and turn to the Lord: say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously: so will we render the calves of our lips.

3. Asshur shall not save us; we will not ride upon horses: neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy.

4. I will heal their backsliding, I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5. I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall grow as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Lebanon.

6. His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon.

7 They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the corn, and grow as the vine: the scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

8. Ephraim shall say, What have I to do any more with idols? I have heard him, and observed him: I am like a green fir tree. From me is thy fruit found.

9. Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me is thine help."—Hosea 13: 9.

TOPIC. — Confession is made unto Salvation.

HOME READINGS.

M. Hosea, 1 and 2....Israel Personified.
Tu. Hosea, 3 and 4....Israel Arraigned.
W. Hosea, 5: 1-15....The Priests Denounced.
Th. Hosea, 6 and 7 .. Woe Unto the People.
Fr. Hosea, 8 and 9 ...Their Root is Dried Up.
Sat. Hosea, 10 and 11..Israel an Empty Vine.
Su. Hosea, 12 and 13 As the Morning Cloud.
—National S. S. Teacher.

Hosea was evidently a citizen of Israel, and was devotedly loyal to her interests. His name signifies "deliverance, salvation," and it fitly indicated the mission to which he was appointed. The time of his appearance was a little later than that of Amos, though for a time they may have been cotemporary. His ministry probably continued from 784 to 725 B. C. And this appeal was issued probably much nearer the latter than the former date. Israel was going rapidly into decline. Jeroboam II., the Augustus of Israel, was dead. The glory of his kingdom was fast fading—its power rapidly degenerating into weakness. Kings came and went, and went and came; but none swayed an unquestioned sceptre. See 2 Kings ch. xv. The end draws near; and yet this final effort is made to avert it. It is a call to repentance rather than a promise of revival.—Ev. Repository.

READ FOR EXPLANATION.

V. 1.—ch. 12: 6; 2 chr. 30: 6-9; ch. 13: 9; Lam. 5: 16.

V. 2.—Job 34: 31, 32; 7: 21; 2 Sam. 24: 10; Ps. 51: 2-10; 69: 30, 31; Mic. 7: 19; Zec. 3: 4; Tit. 2: 14; 1 John 1: 7; Heb. 10: 4; 13: 15.

V. 3.—ch. 5: 13; 8: 9; Ps. 146: 3; 20: 7, 8; 10: 14; Deu. 17: 16; Is. 1: 29; 2: 20; Ez. 37: 23; Mic. 5: 14.

V. 4.—Ex. 15: 26; Is. 57: 18; Jer. 3: 22; Deu. 7: 7, 8; Eph. 1: 6; 2: 4-9; 2 Tim. 1: 9.

V. 5.—Deu. 32: 2; Pr. 19: 12; Is. 18: 4; Ps 72: 16; 92: 12.

V. 6.—Ps. 52: 8; Gen. 27: 27.

V. 7.—Zec. 8. 12.

V. 8.—Job 33: 27; Jer. 31: 18, 20; Luke 15: 20; ch. 13: 9; Jno. 15: 1-8; Phil. 2: 13; Jas. 1: 17.

V. 9.—Ps. 107: 43; Jer. 9: 12; Gen. 18: 25; Deu. 32: 4; Job 17: 9; Ps. 84: 5, 7; Pr. 10: 29; Luke 7: 23; Jno. 9: 39; Rom. 9: 32, 33; 1 Pet. 2: 7, 8.

[Concluded from page 5.]

something of which he claimed that he was entirely ignorant, a specimen of Masonic stupidity quite becoming this Baptist "Cephas," who was challenged to stand up and deny that he had played the fool tragedy of Hiram Abiff, but who had not a word to say. After my lecture two young men came forward and volunteerd statements that what I said of the third degree was correct, to their own personal knowledge, and expressed regrets that they did not have an opportunity publicly to confirm what I had said.

I wish the meeting had been more largely attended, and that the lecture had been more thorough and complete; but with all the drawbacks I trust that some good was accomplished, and the way prepared for future meetings, in which this system of iniquity shall be discussed and shown up in its true light.

From Hillsdale I passed to Oberlin, Ohio, where I spent two days in reform work, of which I will write soon. J. P. STODDARD.

FROM JASPER COUNTY, IOWA.

LYNNVILLE, Ia., May 20, 1877.

DEAR BRO. K.—After our large and interesting State meeting we got Bro. J. P. Richards to promise to be here on the next week. When we got to Lynnville the craft was fearful we would make our word good, in engaging some one to lecture here soon. I had trouble in getting a house among so many secretists, but succeeded. Bro. R. came and delivered a lecture four and a half miles southwest of Lynnville, and raised quite a breeze among the brother mah-hah-bones — but more especially among the "jackmasons." He dwelt more especially on the oaths, obligations and cruelties of the order. In his lectures at the Heart school-house, two miles west, and at Lynnville, he spoke of the oaths and religion of Masonry, and, as might be expected, the Masonic editor of the Interior News had a piece about the speaker and his work that would not gain much credit among any kind of unprejudiced men or women.

But, thank God, all these things are causing people to think, and when they think they will generally talk; and when we find Masons and others in conversation on the subject, the fearful ones are a little more bold to give their opinions on the evils of secretism. But we are glad to know that many of its own members are becoming dissatisfied with the lodge workings, and can now hardly trust their own secrets in the lodge room. I have been told lately by Masons in my own county, that I was in a good work, and they bid me go on. I was told a few days ago by a Mason, and I knowing him to be such, that he would not be afraid to steal a horse if he could get the case into Masonic hands, for he would be cleared. Now, dear brethren, we have great cause to praise God and press on in our good work. My prayer is that God will bless the editors of the Cynosure, and the editor of the Golden Censer, who has lately come out on the Masonic question. May more laborers everywhere spring up and go to work in the great harvest-field.

Hoping ever to fight for God and the right, I am as ever,

T. K. BUFKIN.

News of the Week.

— The 102 anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence was celebrated in Charlotte, N. C., May 21. Salvoes of artillery were fired at sunrise, and all the bells of the city were rung; at the same time the United States flags were hoisted. The military were reviewed at 9 a. m. by Gov. Vance and Adjt. Gen. Jones. The Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence was read by the Hon. George E. Wilson, a descendent of an original signer, and Gov. Vance made the address of the day.

—The President, with the concurrence of the Cabinet, has decided to recall all the foreign ministers. The theory is, that these higher diplomatic officers sustain relations to the President similar to those of cabinet ministers; that the civil-service rules do not apply to them, and that they, in the very nature of the case, ought to change with the administration.

—The Herald correspondent at Bucharest telegraphs that Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, has determined to proceed to Pivejesti, on the Danube, on a visit to the czar, who has made that place his headquarters for the present.

—The Illinois legislature has passed a bill, long urged by the Chicago Humane Society, for the purpose of appointing State officers to look after the protection of stock at the yards in this city and at East St. Louis. After many defeats, and after having been once lost, the bill was finally put through. It empowers the Governor to appoint two persons each receiving $1,200 a year, whose duty it is to see that dumb animals are not abused; and also, where food has been bought for cattle by their owners, that it is given to them, and that they are not deprived of it through the negligence or dishonesty of employes.

—On Thursday last the Sultan, after the violent demonstration made by the Softas, and fearing an outbreak, fled to his Asiatic castle across the Bosphorus. Feeling somewhat reassured by the reports of his ministers, he returned to the city protected by a strong military escort. The people in the streets shouted their dissatisfaction, many calling for Midhat Pasha. Quite a number of arrests were made. Subsequently domiciliary visits were ordered. An order was issued simultaneously with the proclamation of martial law which forbids the carrying of arms, authorizes the banishment of suspected persons without previous trial, and forbids the assembling of crowds in the streets.

Since the Czar has returned to St. Petersburg he has shown such excitement and uneasiness as to cause great fears for his health. He constantly expresses dissatisfaction at the meagreness of the news. This has induced his physician to recommend his return to the army, at any rate until some decisive victories are obtained. It is not yet decided whether he will undertake the supreme command. The physicians oppose this idea.

Religious Intelligence.

—Rev. Emory Jones writes to the Wesleyan that Rev. J. E. Carroll, who was Secretary of the National Convention at Oberlin in 1872 is dangerously ill with neuralgia of the heart. Many earnest prayers will be offered for the recovery of this beloved brother.

—A missionary convention was held at Toulon, Illinois, May 28th and 29th, at which W. C. Dewey, of the last class of the Chicago Theological Seminary, was ordained as missionary to Eastern Turkey. In addition to the consecration services, there were addresses by several prominent missionaries and clergymen, including Mrs. C. H. Wheeler, of Harpoot, Eastern Turkey; Professor F. W. Fisk, of the Chicago Theological Seminary; Rev. N. G. Clark, D. D., Foreign Secretary of the American Board.

—The Vaudois or Waldensian church is making quite rapid progress in many parts of Italy. One of their papers, the Evangelical Christendom, says that the number of meetings and their frequenters are increasing, new societies are being organized, and charitable and educational institutions are flourishing.

—A novel and hopeful feature of the late Congregational Association at Sterling was the holding of outdoor religious services every night during its sessions, the night meetings being followed by inquiry meetings. Among the most earnest of the "corner preachers," as those were denominated who addressed these outside meetings, was Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, of Chicago.

—It is stated that Mr. Moody will visit Baltimore in September and hold a series of revival meetings at the close of the exhibition of the American Pomological Society.

—The General Committee on Home Missions of the United Presbyterian church met in Coulterville, Ill., on the 16th. Rev. H. H. Thompson was chosen moderator. Aid has been granted to 187 stations under the care of 48 presbyteries. The contributions during the year have been, from presbyteries, $22,207.51; from Sabbath-schools, $304.20; from legacies, $3,295.42; from Ladies' Missionary Societies, $228.05; from miscellaneous sources, $3,714.88—in all, $29,750.06. Claims amounting to $32,786.30 have been paid during the year. Although there were applications amounting to about $47,000 the Committee decided to restrict appropriations to $35,000.

—Rev. Joseph Cook has been engaged to deliver another series of lectures in the Tremont Temple, Boston, beginning next October. A committee of gentlemen has been appointed to provide the necessary funds. The lectures for the present season will close this month.

—The annual meeting of the American Sunday-school Union was held in St. Louis, May 10th, and was addressed by Dr. John Hall of New York. The summary of missionary work done through the year showed 1,127 schools organized, 42,184 scholars collected, 8,726 Bibles and Testaments distributed, and 12, 064 families visited.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

LOT, THE WORLDLY-MINDED CHRISTIAN.

[Sermon by Mr. Moody from the Boston Globe.]

The first that we see of Lot is in eleventh of Genesis and the thirty-first verse:

"And Terah took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, his son Abram's wife; and they went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there."

God had called Abram out of his own kingdom, and he had come to Haran, and that was about half way to the land to which God had called him. And there he lingered for five years, until his father died. After the death of his father he came into the promised land. Abram did what a great many do. He lingered. There are a great many that want to become Christians but do not want to come out entirely. They want to be about half-and-half. That is the reason that they do not get light, liberty and peace. I was talking with one of these men today. He said: "A good many that began when I did have got light and liberty and peace; I don't see why I should not." It is because he has got to Haran and stopped there, half way. If he wants peace and liberty and light he has got to come clean out. He has got to come out entirely. He has got to come into the promised land, and he has got to leave all behind him, when he gets upon resurrected ground. The great trouble with this man, Lot, was, that he was always following Abram. He was one of these men that lacked moral courage and character. He could not

COME OUT AND STAND ALONE.

I find often in the inquiry room that men come with their wives, and they come because their wives come.

I have not much hope of such men that come in that way. A man is not to wait for his wife, or a wife for her husband. When they die they will not die together. We do not go up by families, but one by one, and so we should come to church. Then, if one falls off, he does not pull the other down with him. We should not be pinning our faith upon some one else. Abram got very rich. He had plenty of cattle, and gold, and silver, and and when he came up out of Egypt, we are told that he had "great wealth," and very often wealth brings trouble, and pretty soon his servants and Lot's got to quarrelling.

"And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren."

"Is not the whole land before thee? Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left."

"And Lot lifted up his eyes and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere, before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto Zoar."

"Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east; and they separated themselves the one from the other."

"Abraham dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom."

"But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly."

Lot did not call upon God. He was covetous in his choice. Whenever a man has made a choice, without calling upon God, he has made a mistake. If he had followed God, God never would have led him unto Sodom. How many times are we led into darkness because we will not let God lead us. I suppose he said, "I know that Sodom and Gomorrah are bad places, and that it will be bad for my children. but I am not going into them to live; I am going to live outside of Sodom." When you see a man

PITCH HIS TENT TOWARD SODOM,

you will soon hear that he has gone into Sodom. There he has got in! Undoubtedly he said: "My business has taken me in there. I want a good many things that I can't get anywhere else. I have to do my marketing there. I know it is bad for me, but I must attend to my business. I find that there are more advantages here, and I think that I will just move in," and in he goes. I have no doubt but that they would have told you that Lot was a long-headed man, and that he has got on wonderfully. But now there is trouble in Sodom and Gomorrah. Now the news comes to Lot's uncle Abram that there has been a battle fought and that Sodom has got the worst of it, and a great number have been taken, and among the number Lot and his whole family. And now his uncle musters all his forces, and he goes out in pursuit and retakes and brings back the souls that had been taken, and among them Lot and his family. And you would have thought that Lot had had enough of Sodom, but he goes back. Let us bear this in mind, that if we are going into Sodom, and are going to take Sodom's name, we must also bear Sodom's judgment with it. Lot was no doubt an officer. He held a high position. Let us just bring this down to the present time. If Lot lived now he would have been called the Hon. Mr. Lot of Sodom, and no doubt Mrs. Lot would have been looked up to, and no doubt Mr. Lot would have been sent to Congress. He was a very influential man. He has been in Bethlehem, and he has met the God of Grace. But he was an earthly Christian. Many a man comes up from the country, and before he comes you can see him speaking in the prayer meeting. He comes up to the city during the war, and he makes a great deal of money, and it turns his head. You then find him

OUT RIDING UPON THE SABBATH DAY.

I know a good many earnest Christian workers; they are teaching in the Sunday school, but soon they get to be very successful, and they do not have time to teach in the Sunday school then. But you will find them driving their fast teams. That was what Lot was. Well, there is Lot, he brought in something to Sodom of course, but he had more than tripled his fortune. He was getting on amazingly. His children are not quite so pure as they were when he was with Abram, but they are wiser. They have got a good deal of culture. They are at the theater three or four times a week. They liked to attend it better than they did the church. "The church is a good thing, but if you want to get enjoyment you had better go to the opera or to the theater; that is the place where you can enjoy yourself." He was a successful man in the eyes of the world. But if you want to see a successful man you must not look at him at one period of his life only. You want to see not only the beginning but the end. Now we see that this man has been in Sodom twenty years. And yet he did not have a single solitary conversion to record. He had not led a single man to God —to the God who had sent his angels to him. He might have said that he went into Sodom to convert people, to better understand the people, that he might do more good. Did he make Sodom any better by going into it? I want you to bear in mind that all these scenes are typical. There is as much said about judgment as there is about atonement. "God is going to judge the world in righteousness." Then one day, it may have been a day very much like this, it may have been about this very time of the year, Lot is sitting in his gate performing the duties of his office and the two angels appear as men. Lot knows them at once, for he has often seen them come to see his uncle. And he asks them into his house, and they said they would rather stay in the streets all night. They didn't want to go in, for the children of Lot had all gone astray. But at last they went in, and some time in the night it might have been midnight, the inhabitants found out that two men had gone into Lot's house, and so they gathered around the house and cried out that Lot should send out the two men to them. He tried to quiet them. See what influence this man has got. They would not listen to him, and they said, "Is this fellow going to tell us what to do? He came in to sojourn and he will needs be a judge." And they would have brained him if these angels had not put out their hands and pulled him in and shut the door. And they smote the men with blindness. Then these two men told Lot what they had been sent to do and they said:

"Hast thou here any besides? son-in-law and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring them out of this place."

Here comes a sad judgment upon Lot; his daughters had

MARRIED MEN WHO WERE AS VILE AS HELL

itself. You can now see that old man with his head bowed, passing down the streets of Sodom. It is past midnight. He comes to a house and you can hear him knock. "Who are you?" is cried out. "I am Lot, your father-in-law." "What are you here for at this time of night?" "Two angels have come down to warn me that God is going to deal in judgment with Sodom; and I want you to take my daughters, and we will leave the city together." You can hear them laugh and scoff at him. "Why you must have gone clear mad, father-in-law; where is the sign of the coming storm? We had a deluge, it is true, but God said he would never drown the world again." "He is going to rain fire and brimstone upon Sodom and Gomorrah." But they thought that he was mad. There was a man who had lived so like a Sodomite that they did not have any confidence in him. It is sad to see a professed Christian

WHOSE CHILDREN HAVE NO CONFIDENCE IN HIM.

He had lost his testimony. When God called Noah into the ark his relatives all came in. I see the old man; he weeps; and what a picture it is in Boston to-day! How many fathers and mothers have sons that do not have any confidence or faith in them because this father and mother live so like the world that their sons do not have any faith in them and do not believe them. You will find hundreds of these in Boston. They are living in luxury and ease and their children are going down to death and ruin and don't believe in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Lot had lost twenty years of his time. He had lost his testimony and now he was going to lose all his property. It was all going to be swept away. And he is going to lose his sons; they have married these Sodomites. God was going to judge that city and Lot had to go and tell those angels that his family would not follow. May God teach us so to live that our children will have confidence in us. He was ambitious to get rich, but he had to leave all now, and what a feeling must have crossed his heart when he knew that his children could live with him but would remain behind and die. It seems to me that if I had been there I would have lingered as Lot did. I would have wanted to make one more effort to get my children out. That father and mother were leaving there with their hearts bleeding, and their children were going to perish. You call him a successful man, do you? The angels had to take his daughters by the hand to get them out. Lot's wife could not help it, she had to look back. Her children were there and they were going to perish. What a picture of many in Boston that is to-day! They have got one foot out and they refuse to take the next step. Lot's wife had got out of Sodom but she had not reached Zoar. How many will perish just as Lot's wife did? She was told not to look back, but she did, and there death met her and she became a warning.

FOR THE WOMEN OF ALL COMING TIME.

How sadly Christ says "Remember Lot's wife." And now we find that Lot is out of Sodom and the very moment that he is free, the very moment that these men are mocking, that very moment the fire consumes them. Then when Lot is upon the mountain he falls into sin. There is the fruit of backsliding. The scene is too dark, too horrible. Here was a wasted life. Here was a man who might have turned many from darkness to light. His name might have come down to this day and been a glorious example. What an influence he might have had if he had only followed Abram and lived by his God. My friends, we need to hope this morning. Are there not many that are just taking their children by the hand and leading them into contamination? They will bring you to the grave in sorrow. You have taken your children into Sodom and you will find that you cannot lead them out again with you, and that they will perish there and leave you in sorrow. O, may God help each one of us to see our duty as parents, and if I am talking to a father or mother that has not a family altar around which to gather his children, O may he go home now and erect it to-day. Call your family around it, lift up your hearts in prayer, and this day begin to live a different life and there will be light where there is darkness now, peace where there is discontent, and joy where there is gloom and misery. My friends, won't you do it now before it is too late? Will you wait until judgment

[Continued on page 16.]

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,

18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevoleuce of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York,

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry.

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER.

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Depnty Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE. CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1.000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Anthor a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV, A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100. $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAPBOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago. Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred. Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...30 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 40
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid ..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

[Concluded from page 13.]

shall fall upon you children? until they die without God, without hope, without excuse? O that you may awake to a full sense of the realization of this truth; that is the prayer of my heart to-day.

Publishers' Department.

The spring work of 1877 closes quietly with to-day. Good seed has been sown in hope. The harvest will surely come.

There is some call for "Freemasonry at a Glance." We have on hand 1500 copies of the Cynosure printed last winter containing it, copies, of which will be sent on application free to canvassers and at the rate of 3 cents each postpaid for distribution.

Byron T. Park, Erin, N. Y., writes: "I cannot possibly raise a club now, but have some subscriptions promised before long."

Thos. A. Fait, Cherryvale, Kan., writes: "I shall try again this fall, harder than ever to obtain a few subscribers at least."

Joseph Sherk, Sherkston, Ont. writes: "I am going to try to get subscribers for the paper."

Other encouraging words have been received from friends for all which we are thankful. Let us keep watching, praying and working.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 26, 1877.—From Jonas Adams, Simeon Badgly, Mrs Martha Bullard, Wm P Breaden, Freeman Bunker, C Bassett, Rev C Bender, E S Cook, Abraham Carey, C C Canfield, S L Cook, J H Clark, C P Dow, Mrs L Durkee, M J Duryea, Rufus Day, Fessenden I Day, Rev F Fisher, J M Fry, Norris Gay, H. H. Hinman, Jas Hendry, Jas A Lapiter, B Longhead, E McCoy, Jas M Y Miller, A G McKeown, Adam Martin, Robert Mansfield, Stephen Macy, A Needles, Geo Nolin, John T Parker, Mrs S J Robinson, G G Ritchie, C F Riston, Jas Sherk, H L Shauck, J W Stetson, W C Stegner, Lois B Smith, Lavina Stearns, Alex Sutor, Mrs M J Wheaton.

Books sent Week ending May 26, 1877.

By Mail.

J D Cleaver, A Honeywell, J W Berry, J S McClelland, Eld H F Reynolds, Rev G H Mallott, W B Michael, Wm H Wurm, Wm G Taylor, G Nolin, Rev Jas Love, A G McKeown, R A Hiller, A J Cory, R P Jennings, W Muse, S Bohrer, J K Dunbar, C W Kohr, C H Gobble, R D Collins, P W Tinkham, J Barrett, Wm Henrichs, J G Gegroshiemer, J Glassen, W Bennett, A Frank, J T Gardner, D C Jordan, A M Chapman, Rev J S Turnbull, D H Price, E Britegan, M Wood, W Helm, H B Pierce, J S Freeman, E W Hliott, W H Kent.

By Express.

Rev J T Hobson, C Anderson.

Tracts Sent.

H Haywood, C Benner, J B Lank, E P. Marvin, J Hendry.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, May 28, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat— No. 2	1 41½	1 45
" No. 3		1 35
" Rejected		45
" Minnesota	1 47	1 63½
Corn—No. 2		45½
Rejected		40½
Oats—No. 2		37¾
Rejected		28½
Rye—No. 2		70
Bran per ton		11 50
Flour—Winter	7 25	10 25
Spring	4 75	8 25
Hay—Timothy	8 00	10 00
Prairie	5 50	7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	8	8¾
Lard per cwt		9 25
Mess pork, per bbl		14 10
Buttercommon to choice roll	14	22
Cheese	8	13½
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs		10½
Seeds—Timothy	1 50	1 65
Clover		6 25
Flax	1 55	1 90
Potatoes	95	1 20
Broomcorn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6¼	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	84 00
Common	9 00	10 50
Fencing	10 00	10 50
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	42
Unwashed	20	25
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 50	6 00
Good	5 10	5 40
Medium	4 75	5 00
Common	3 25	4 20
Hogs	4 90	5 30
Sheep	2 75	5 00

New York Market.

Flour	$4 00	11 00
Wheat—Spring	1 65	1 80
Winter	1 75	1 95
Corn	55	56
Oats	43	71
Rye	87	95
Lard		9¾
Mess pork		14 70
Butter	9	14
Cheese	10	12
Eggs	13½	15
Wool	18	53

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue; Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,			$2.00
1	square (1 inch deep)	one month		7.00
1	"	"	3 "	10.00
1	"	"	3 "	15.00
1	"	"	6 "	25.00
1	"	"	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. MARVIN HUGHITT, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr' Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book, Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [8Aug76528t.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc. Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a staudard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Anthor, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 7, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.36.—WHOLE NO. 376. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
The Annual Convention	8
The Masonic Attack on Wheaton	8
Shall Our Colleges Succumb to the Lodge	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The United Brethren in Christ	1
Odd-fellowship a Godless Institution	2
The Right Oath and the Wrong	3
Sectional Politics	3
Popish Intolerance	3
Anti-masonry among the Baptists of Eastern New York Forty-five Years Ago	10
OUR FOREIGN LETTER:	4
REFORM NEWS:
Iowa Work; Rev. J. P. Richards in Iowa; Ossian, Ind.; Sullivan Co., Ind.; New Organization in Tuscarawas Co., O.	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
From Eld. N. Callender; Be Crucified; Our Mail	6
Home Circle	12
Children's Corner	13
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	7
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE DUPAGE COUNTY CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Will hold its annual meeting at Wheaton, to commence on Sabbath evening June 17th at half past seven o'clock, at which time addresses may be expected from Dr. J. B. Walker, Rev. A. T. Riley and Rev. G. A. Coleman. The business meeting will be held on Monday and on Monday afternoon and evening able addresses may be expected. Let there be a full attendance of all who believe in pure religion and republican equality.

A. D. FREEMAN, Pres.
E. D. BAILEY, Sec'y.

Topics of the Time.

Through the efforts of the Prosecuting Attorney a grand jury, comprising some of the best business men of Chicago was empanelled last week and began immediately to investigate the board of county commissioners, the nearest approach to a Tweed "ring" that the city has probably ever known. The bribery and fraud perpetrated by this board has been patent and infamous ever since, and even long before the new court house was put under process of erection. The expending of millions on this building was fine business for this precious set; while the city has beheld with wonder the success of their bold and adroit scheming. The selection of such a jury meant a resolute attempt to defeat and punish their rascality. The investigations of last week have terrified the ring and aroused the public to demand that it shall be broken up and its guilty members punished. The jury which awhile since acquitted Sullivan, the murderer of Hanford, will also receive attention. It is charged that it was largely composed of men got ready beforehand to give their verdict. If this shall prove true, the Jesuit priests (Sullivan is a devout Catholic) will appear to be as dextrous in our courts as the Freemasons they profess to hate.

The General Assembly of the reunited Presbyterian church, which closed its twelve days meeting last week in Farwell Hall, was more aroused over an incidental discussion of Sabbath violation than by any other topic. A Presbyterian in Sewickley, Pa., is part owner of the Pittsburgh Leader, which prints a Sunday edition. His session had been enjoined by presbytery and synod to discipline him for the offense, but refused and sent their minister to plead the case in the General Assembly, which he did with some spirit. The debate soon spread over the question of street cars, Sunday trains, etc., and although the action of the Assembly sustained the lower judicatories and maintained the Presbyterian order respecting the Sabbath, so many modifying views were expressed that it seemed to be the understanding that a Presbyterian might be allowed to own stock in a paper, or any other corporation which carries on a Sabbath-breaking business, provided only that he did not control that business. This question is left in an unsettled state and will be pretty sure to be resumed in some form hereafter.

Last Sunday was celebrated as the fiftieth anniversary of Pius IX. as Pope throughout the Roman Catholic world. No very marked attention was given to the occasion in this country, except in a few cities where the worshipers of this religion worked up their emotional natures with tramping through the streets and the brawling of brass bands. Of course the demonstrations in Rome were of the most imposing nature, albeit the center of all this glorification calls for the wasting of a vast amount of sympathy from his followers all over the world for his miserable state as a prisoner in the Vatican. The Pope is now so feeble that he can scarcely be expected to live to see the consummation of all this jubilee, or of the Jesuit revolution in France, which it is too evident was part of the plot for his restoration to temporal power. The dull soldier-president of that Republic, though too unwise to see what will be the result of his rash act if pushed to an extremity, is yet, it is hoped, sufficiently aware of the strength of his late German antagonist to venture too far in support of Jesuit intrigue against the progress of civil liberty.

European dispatches have taken up a burden of peace again. But it seems to be rather a peace of diplomacy than the genuine article. Bismarck and the Austrian government have a quiet understanding with Russia, and the former is said to advise some concessions to the troubled spirit of English Toryism. There are rumors, too, that after a great and decisive battle on the Danube that negotiations will be resumed for the independency of the Provinces. The Russians in Asia, having allayed the insurrection in their rear are gripping Kars as in a vice, while they have terribly punished a detachment of Circassians whom the Turks had tempted to join their failing fortunes. In Constantinople there is little peace or hope. The insurrectionary party is strong in spite of guards and banishment; and there is also the development of one feature of modern progress that bodes no good to the cause of the Sultan. The Chicago Tribune correspondent telegraphed Sunday night that "corruption and bribery which are rife everywhere destroy all chances of Turkish success. There are no horses, no money, and no order in the management of affairs. All the carriage horses in the country have been seized by the Government for war purposes. There is not a particle of patriotism among the officials to give ground for the slightest hope. Contracts for army stores and equipments are awarded by means of bribery of the officials having the matter in charge. The advertisements in newspapers of contracts open to general competition are mere shows, and are connived at by the Minister of War. The Constitution of the country is disregarded in every possible manner. The Parliamentary Deputies are returning to their homes in disgust, and the laws which have been passed will never be put in force."

THE UNITED BRETHREN IN CHRIST.

RIGHTEOUSNESS PREVAILS IN THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

We have just closed our seventeenth quadrennial session of the General Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ. It was held in the college chapel of Westfield College, Clark county, Illinois. This is a fine town, inland from Ashmore station about six miles from the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis R. R. The citizens, as a class, are noble, generous, intelligent and kind. The school is a noble institution of learning, under the management of President Rev. S. B. Allen, assisted by an able corps of efficient teachers. The school is enjoying an excellent degree of prosperity, and we should judge from a brief acquaintance with the faculty that they are morally and mentally of the right type. The agents and trustees are men alive to the noble work committed to their care, and are doing a noble work for God and the church. We saw a "landmark" in an attic, a child born of "Apple Tree Tavern," city of London, June 24th, 1717, and knows only the old rum-shop as its father, and clings to him with tenacity still as all of its kindred do. It is a sickly thing in Westfield; it has no food, as rum-shops and vagrants are scarce articles there, and the young men as a class are too noble to sell their manhood and worth to the demoralized pest-house builders of Christless lodgeism.

The General Conference had 118 delegates, we believe, including bishops present. It had been supposed by many of the friends of secrecy that had been courting the favor of the church through some of the delegates, that an unlimited concession would be made by the conference. For this the modificationists labored faithfully, and doubtless their constituency prayed earnestly, but their "god" was helpless. Baal did utterly fail to come to their relief. The conference marched steadily and firmly forward with its work, adopting more matured measures and new enterprises, while this enemy of Christian faith and character would undertake to worm or insinuate itself into many of the important interests of the church. From point to point the outlook was bright in all our labor, but all would seem to turn on section xxii. of the Discipline under "Revision Committee No. 5." The day and report came at last. Some warm speeches were made pro and con, some of those against the paper assuming an unwarranted severity, while this great body of noble men of God unmoved by appeals to let the hideous monster in to seduce and swallow up the piety of the church, waited not to make speeches, but put their names on record where rising men and coming generations should be able to mark a precedent that would be worth more than any legacy they could bequeath to those that should come after them. The vote stood 71 for and 31 against the committee's report. The rule, as will be seen, is much stronger and better than the previous one; accords also with article 2, section 7, of the Constitution.

The constitution of this church is a precious heritage from the fathers to us, and long will their names live in precious memory for the noble document that lifts us above the fearful complicity and morally corrupt modifications that bantering men put on the religion and Christ of the Bible, and no representation of men could humiliate the character of Christianity worse perhaps than to tear away from such a noble instrument the sentiment it breathes. Though denominational distinctions may differ from our own, yet every minister of Christ and every church on earth and every Christian should vie with us in this peculiarity, and the language of men everywhere should be to drive from church and state one of the foulest if not the foulest blot on earth. We join in devout thanksgiving to Almighty God for this triumph of right over wrong. And although some may be driven to desperation among us, it will make the distinction between God's government and that of Satan more plain to many, and save the church and cause of Christ from reproach and shame, and another General Conference from the exposures to which the past have been called upon to suffer. There can be but one result from the law of the church as it now stands in its operations and that is to reclaim and purify the membership and entirely close up approaches whereby men in complicity with the hydra-headed monster of lodgeism will be entirely shut out. A membership in the church cannot be gained nor a position held whereby her principles and purity can be outraged as before.

No church in the country has more effectually checked this moral blight of theism for over a hundred years, or more effectually put the Bible heel on the very head of this serpent, and a firmer tread will now be experienced by the coiling enemy than ever before. With repeated gratitude and offerings of praise we lift our hearts and eyes and voice of jubilee to the triumphant Trinity for this glorious victory. And while we "stand by our purpose firm and true" with none other than the purest motives and kindest hearts, "With malice toward none and charity for all," we shall look and expect other Christian bodies to emulate our virtues, and join us in the triumphant march of ultimate victory over this enemy of the church of Jesus Christ and of the liberties of a free and civil government. N. R. Luce.

Odd-fellowship a Godless Institution.

Whoever reads the above title must not consider the writer of this a fanatic until he has informed himself of the principles of Odd-fellowship. The members of the order claim that it is a strictly moral and religious association. Indeed, some of them say that if any person lives according to its teachings he will be saved in eternity.

The only way to judge of the merits of the order is to compare its teachings with the Bible. The instructions of Odd-fellowship are, apparently, very moral; and some of them examined casually are religious. Such is the charge on the ninety-eighth page of the Odd-fellows' "Pocket Companion," which is as follows:

"The Word of God, the book of books, is the source of all true wisdom, divine and human. It is a 'lamp to our feet, a light to our path,' and contains unerring directions and counsel for every phase, circumstance and condition of life. Study it, my brother."

A lesson like the above does not seem to have any harm in it at all. Where does the danger lie? Consider the persons who may belong to the societies, and you will obtain the answer. Any person who believes in a Supreme Being, the Creator and Preserver of the universe, with the exception of Chinese, Polynesians, Indians and half-breeds, is eligible to membership. On the 338th page of the Pocket Companion is the clause, "No peculiarities of religious belief or practice are requisite to admission into the order, and none disqualify."

So the "Word of God" is a misleading term. With the Christian the "Word of God" means the Old and New Testament; with the Mormon it means the Book of Mormons; with the Turk it means the Koran; and so with every religious sect, it means the book they consider the "Word of God." Is it not blasphemy and opposition to Christianity to teach that the Book of Mormon "is the source of all true wisdom, divine and human?" Yet Odd-fellowship says to its adherents that such a book is true. The teachings of Odd-fellowship are composed so much of Scripture, and presented in such a manner as to deceive almost any person who is not very familiar with the Bible. In Grosh's Odd-fellow's Manual is the following:

"A Lodge or Encampment sometimes presents, in its assemblage of persons of various nations and creeds, a beautiful illustration of the excellency of toleration and of the possibility of a 'unity of spirit in the bond of peace' amid a diversity of faith. It thus truly prefigures that glorious era when the Golden Rule shall have been received and obeyed by all the tribes and nations of men. The high barriers which in the world separated men from each other are here removed. They have left their prejudices at the door, and mingle in one circle of brotherhood, harmony and love. The descendants of Abraham, the diverse followers of Jesus, the Pariahs of the stricter sects, here gather around the same altar as one family, manifesting no difference of creed or worship, and discord and contention are forgotten in works of humanity and peace."—p. 275.

"Followers of different teachers, ye are worshippers of one God, who is Father of all, and therefore ye are brethren."—Ibid, p. 283.

What do these two quotations mean? They mean that when a Christian enters the lodge he is to leave Christ behind. He is to believe in one God who is the Father of all," and not intrude his religious beliefs into the services or business of the society. Again he is taught that as all of them are worshippers of "one God who is Father of all," therefore they are brethren. That is, children of God and children of the devil are brethren. How repugnant the idea! If those two classes of men are brethren then God and the devil are brothers.

A Christian violates a law of God when he calls such men brethren or associates with them as such. It is not necessary for any Christian to join such associations. He can enjoy himself with spiritual things instead of the works of the devil.

The Pocket Companion speaking of the lessons of Odd-fellowship says, on the 27th page: "They lead him to obedience of the commands of his Divine Maker, in which he cannot fail to be blessed in life, death and eternity." Such words as those are enough to cause any person to desire to connect himself with such an order. Is it true that the lessons of Odd-fellowship teach a man to obey God?

On the 167th page of Grosh's Manual are these words: "Sacredly guard from exposure by any means the signs and words by which you may be known as a member of this degree." What do we understand by the words "by any means?" They mean, undoubtedly, that an Odd-fellow must lie if necessary in order to conceal the signs and words of his order. What says the Bible in this respect? It says no liar shall inherit the kingdom of heaven. Strange that a man transgressing God's law will get to heaven without being forgiven. Yet Odd-fellowship teaches it.

The address and prayer at an Odd-fellows' funeral are without the name of Christ. And it is unlawful to use any other according to Grosh's Manual, page 353. The prayers for the opening and closing of the lodges are also without the name of Christ in them. They were adopted by the Grand Lodge of the United States because they would not give offense to any member. Any subordinate lodge may have a form of prayer for itself; but "the same spirit as observed in the foregoing shall be strictly followed by the officiating clergyman or chaplain." Grosh's Manual, page 180. Therefore, a Christian cannot pray in the name of Christ, because it is against the rules of the lodge. Many lodges do pray in the name of Christ, but they violate their obligations by so doing. How can a Christian belong to such an order as this, knowing that he has to reject Christ whenever he enters the door of the lodge.

"He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day. For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak. And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak." John xii. 48–51.

From this passage of Scripture, we learn that whosoever rejects Christ rejects God also. Odd-fellowship rejects Christ and teaches its members so; therefore it is against God himself; and it is a godless institution. Can a Christian belong to an order whose principles reject Christianity? I answer, no. A man may be a professing Christian, but how dwelleth the love of God in him when he professes anti-Christian doctrines? Verily, he is worse than an apostate; he is a hypocrite.

Having proved that Odd-fellowship is a godless institution, we want to know how Odd-fellows will be saved. They say that whoever obeys the teachings of Odd-fellowship will be saved. But we have found that some of their teachings are in opposition to the Bible. Let us examine another. Turning to the 41st page of the Pocket Companion, and after reading a fine description of charity, we find these words, "He who practices charity and teaches it to others shall be crowned with honor and come down to the grave in peace, with the full assurance of a blessed future." That is. Odd-fellowship teaches that a man will be justified by works. The Bible teaches that a man will be saved by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. What does the Bible say in regard to such teachings? In the eighth verse of the first chapter of Galations are these words: "But though we or an angel from heaven preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you let him be accursed." Which gospel was justification by faith in Jesus Christ. Odd-fellowship is not only against God himself, but God pronounces it accursed for teaching such a false religion. A professing Christian, belonging to the Odd-fellows, may, during his lifetime, bring thousands to Christ while he is teaching the false gospel of justification by works as an Odd-fellow. But he cannot have the approval of God as an Odd-fellow.

Can a man, understanding Odd-fellowship, belong to it and be a Christian at the same time? Some will stay in the order and let the church take care of itself. I myself have heard men say that Odd-fellowship is better than a church. Can the cause of Christ prosper when such things are drawing the vitality out it. No, it never can. Let us be up and doing to drive this incubus out of Christendom, with God helping us for Christ's sake.

CHAS. T. KENNEY.

Martinsburg, W. Va.

THE RIGHT OATH AND THE WRONG.

The Old Testament Scripture no doubt fully authorizes man to swear in the cause of truth by the God of truth. The New Testament says "swear not." Now, whatever may be the view held as to the absolute rescindment of the Old Testament law in regard to the oath authorized, there cannot be a shadow of doubt that such oaths as had been pronounced sinful continued to be prohibited, and that utterly and forever.

This being a self-evident statement, your readers will see that the oath called a sin in Leviticus 5: 4-14, continues to be a sin as certainly as any condemned in the Ten Commandments or in Christ's Sermon on the Mount.

Now, first, what was this sinful oath? and has it the same character as the Masonic oath of the present day? The 4th verse gives its character in these words: "If a soul swear, pronouncing with his lips to do evil, or to do good, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these." The 5th verse says, "If guilty he shall confess that he has sinned." and then follows the directions for the offerings which are now ended, centered in the great offering of one Redeemer once for all.

This sinful oath then was not the false oath, but one to do anything hid at the time it was taken, no matter whether the thing to be done was afterwards found to be good or evil. The sin was completed when the swearer knew of it.

Let us now see the Mason's first oath, and many others follow of a like character as he gets deeper into the "secrets." The candidate is seduced into it by the assurance that it does not conflict with any duty to God, to country, to neighbor, to family or to self. In other words, this oath, although HID, is not a sin. "Ye shall not surely die," was the assurance given mother Eve by her smooth-tongued deceiver.

The candidate then swears that he will "ever conceal and never reveal any of the secret arts, etc., which have been heretofore, may at this time, or shall at any future period be communicated to me as such (Mason) to any person or persons, except to a brother Mason," and the penalty in the oath is to have his throat cut, tongue torn out, etc.

Surely this kind of oath is as certainly the kind of oath condemned in the Scriptures as it is possible for language in different words to make the sense identical.

Therefore we can appeal to every Christian who has been ensnared by the lodge to "come out" of it. The withes which bound Samson were easily burst by him when he put forth his strength. Let the Christian obey his Lord and Masonic bonds cease to have any power. He is bound to confess and forsake this sin as he does every other.

The object of the oath in our civil courts is to ascertain and make known "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." The object of the oath Masonic is to "conceal and never reveal" even to a man's own wife, nor to his brother in Christ, the things which were hid at the time he took the oath and violated in this very act the plain law of God. What fatal blindness and delusion to take such oaths! Yet members of so-called Christian churches are daily sinning or living in this sin. Let them cast off their Masonic hod as Bunyan's pilgrim did his burden at the cross of their Master, and a full pardon and a full enjoyment will be found in the full allegiance to his GOD IN CHRIST who alone is now the true object of worship. All else is false worship.

We thus find this Scripture passage in Leviticus to be "profitable for reproof and instruction" on this interesting point.

Let me give a proof of the power of these oaths over a good man whom I met recently at a religious meeting in which he took part. He told me that he had not attended the lodge for twelve years; that Christians did not need it, and I found that he felt the weight of his oath still so heavy that he declared those more than forty who had sworn to kill Paul ought to have done it if they could, for it was as great a sin to break their oath as to commit murder!

Surely when one gets his conscience so befogged, it becomes the imperative duty of his Christian brethren to help such a one out of the brotherhood so dangerous to his moral perceptions, and to warn young men and others against the insidious tempter. Let them not surrender their Christian master and manhood. If some shall continue to eat, drink and be merry with the "merry Masons," hoping to go to the grand lodge above, let them remember "that for all these things God will bring them unto judgment," and there is no way to the Father but by the Lord Jesus Christ, who is the rightful sovereign of the heart and conscience with all the power in heaven and earth, but who is ignored in the Masonic lodge and treated as a mere sectarian. Come out of her, my people. Yours, HOMO.

SECTIONAL POLITICS.

Under this title Harper's Weekly has the following:

With the abolition of slavery, the essential reason of sectional politics disappeared. Undoubtedly ignorance, passion, rancor, still survived. But it was the part of true patriotism from that moment to provide that while the injustice and hardship that must necessarily, under the circumstances, attend any settlement, should be as light as possible, the preat principles of human society and of good government should be constantly remembered. "Let us take care," said Governor Andrew in 1865, "that in restoring the Union we do not forget the natural leadership of every community." The folly of Andrew Johnson confused and complicated the whole subject of reconstruction. Time passed, and when President Hayes was inaugurated, there were but two Southern States in which the Republican party had any semblance of power. The rest of "the South" had become "solid" under the administration of General Grant and the policy which President Hayes is said to have abandoned, and in those two States the President decided that it was not his duty to settle a local political contest. This decision is now declared to have ruined the Republican party in those States, and to have made a "solid South" in the interest of the Democrats. Yet the action in both those States has the cordial approval of General Grant, who was never charged with abandoning anybody, and one of the very last acts of Grant's administration was an order embodying the principle of his successor's action.

No more untimely and wretched work can be done than to excite Republican hostility against "the South" as a section. Our politics become simply revolutionary and intolerable when one party regards the other not as an opposition under the government, but as a deadly enemy of the government itself. To insist by carefully citing only crimes and disorders in the Southern States, that the white population can never be trusted to deal fairly with the negroes, is merely to fan and prolong the hostility of which the negro is the victim. If there be no hope for the Southern negro except from the military force of the United States, then the Republican party deserved destruction last autumn for having lifted the military hand from every Southern State but three. The poet Whittier is another of the early abolitionists—the friends of the colored race upon principle, and not upon party and political calculation—who says, "I believe the President is right. He could not do otherwise than withdraw the troops, and I think time will prove that the negro will be all the better for it." The President has thus far had both the courage and the good fortune to take the general course which the wisest and most humane opinion of the country demanded. It is easy to see now, if it was not easy during the campaign, that there is a deep and general impatience of the mere partisan game of politics, and a rapidly growing feeling that the Southern question has been often agitated for personal and political, not for humane and patriotic, ends. The political situation of last year could not have continued, and the present steady, sagacious, patriotic rather than partisan, administration is the most fortunate that the country could have had.

POPISH INTOLERANCE.

"Budget" says, in the last Christian, "A Roman Catholic Bible Society has been organized in Belgium. It is to collect and burn all the Bibles possible." I had seen the same thing referred to in another paper before. The existence of such a society proves two things: 1. That the Papacy hates the Bible when translated into the vulgar tongues. 2. That they (the Papists,) are tyrannical and unscrupulous in the exercise of that hatred. If they could, they would destroy all translations of the Word of God made by Protestant scholars, and limit the reading of the Holy Scriptures to the priesthood of "Holy Mother Church."

Burn the Bible! Yes, in Belgium! But would they do the same thing in this country? Let facts answer. Sometime since a Catholic church was built in a railroad village in Illinois. It was dedicated on the Lord's day. Excursion trains brought large crowds of enthusiastic Papists from different places. Their enthusiasm grew warm and their zeal waxed hot. They burned the Bibles that were deposited in the cars and depots for the use of the traveling public. They paraded the streets in procession, headed by a noisy brass band. They openly and defiantly insulted the Christian and Methodist churches, by loud noise and brazen music by the band, in the immediate front of each church, during the hour of worship, and that on the Lord's day.

This shows three things to be true of Papists in free America: 1. That the followers of the Pope disregard the rights of property. The Bibles that in their religious (?) zeal they burned, were the property of others. 2. They disregard and override the law. Their tumultuous noise and wanton disturbance of other churches during the hour of worship, was in violation of the law of the State. 3. That toward Protestants, they are insulting and overbearing. It shows clearly that, in their estimation, Protestants have no rights that they are bound to respect.

The same spirit that burns Bibles in Belgium and in railroad buildings and cars in Illinois, excludes the Divine Book from the schools wherever it has power to do so. Whenever the Papacy has the power it will not stop at burning Bibles and shutting God's Book out of the schools, but it will exclude the Protestant teacher also, and supply his place with the Jesuit. The sly, cunning Jesuit, who may possess the wisdom of the serpent, but is surely destitute of the harmlessness of the dove, would gladly take charge of our schools. If he should ever be allowed to do it, the days of American liberty and the rights of conscience will be numbered.

The Papacy, to the extent of its opportunity, destroys the freedom and the purity of the elective franchise. In another Illinois town, on election day, a Catholic citizen was on his way to the polls, ticket in hand, to cast his vote, as he, an American citizen had a right to do. He was stopped by the priest, who demanded his ticket. It was surrendered to him. He then put another ticket into the man's hands and marched him to the polls, and made him vote the ticket given him, which was an entirely different one from the one he would have voted if left to himself.

So there is nothing in American insitutions too sacred or too precious for the foul touch of Popish hands to pollute and destroy.—Christian.

Our Foreign Letter.

Railway Travel in Europe—Points of Superiority over American Roads—What Happens in the Compartment Cars by Way of Risk or Annoyance—Traveling Companions Unselect and the Tobacco Nuisance into the Bargain—France upon the Mediterranean—Nice—Monaco, its Prince and its Gamblers—A Landscape of City and Sea.

There are some agreeable features about continental railway travel. The railroads are all of unequalled smoothness. As the train glides rapidly over them there is no restless swaying and swerving of coaches to and fro like a vessel on the sea, nor confusing, wearying din from their perpetually revolving wheels. Whether the cars traverse fertile valleys, or circle hills, or thread countless tunnels, piercing mountains of solid rock, constantly pursuing the even tenor of their way, they move on with scarcely a perceptible jostle or jar.

Many know how delightful it is to have some one continually passing through the train and at every opening of the door letting in upon them invigorating gusts of wind and smoke and a momentary rattle and roar seven-fold intensified! Here there is no communication between compartments; none between cars; and so the European traveler is spared this annoyance. For the same reason there are no train boys to molest him with their urgent solicitations for him to purchase of them. Owing perhaps to the fuel used for the locomotive the traveler if he opens the window by his side is little troubled with either dust or cinders. Though he traverse all Europe never once will he be startled by sharp, successive whistles of the engine, warning live obstacles to clear the track. Did any one ever hear of cattle being overrun by trains in Europe? For a man with carriage and team accidentally to suffer suffer such an injury is an impossibility. The conductors are attentive, watchful and obliging. They insult and snub no one. In many respects they are immeasurably superior to the average conductor on an American train. It is a satisfaction to feel that the train officials know their business, that they run no risks, and generally speaking make no mistakes. Every mile and structure of the road is kept in perpetual repair and shocking disasters are of rare occurrence.

But I do not like the compartment system. At first I thought I did, having by chance a compartment to myself. I reclined upon the long cushioned seats, and then walked for recreation. It was a luxury. I went two steps and a half in one direction and back again, and then repeated this journeying to and fro as often as I liked. There was no one to be bothered by it. About dusk I had a companion. Very generally these Europeans are a quiet, inoffensive appearing people, but this one was fierce enough looking to have passed for a first-class brigand or robber. I had but little money about my person, but he might not be aware of that fact. Within two weeks only the London papers had been filled with accounts of two murders perpetrated in car apartments, and in both cases, I believe, the criminals escaped with ease. So perhaps a little nervousness on my part was pardonable. I felt that, were it necessary, I could submit to a robbery with a good degree of grace; but the thought of being politely shoved out of the window upon the railroad track when I had fully intended to put up at a hotel was not so entertaining. No, I do not like the compartment system. All day long six or eight of us were crowded into one of these cushioned pews, and six or eight pair of limbs felt somewhat cramped! stowed away in the narrow space between the two seats and over and among sundry carpet bags and valises. Occasionally from the numerous small packages and bundles in the rack above our heads, a messenger would unceremoniously come tumbling down to see if all were well with us. All day long three or four cigars puffed constantly, filling the little room with vile smoke. It was not a smoking compartment either, but the only lady among us had earnestly declared that it was not unpleasant to her in the least. She was French, but American ladies reply in just the same way, when gentlemen who know better than to do so, inquire if smoking is at all disagreeable to them. It was a wet, windy day, and whenever I opened the window the rain dampened and the wind chilled me. In France and Italy there is no way of heating the cars. If it chance to be unusually cold, long, hollow, flattened cylinders filled with hot water are furnished the passengers, which keep the feet warm for a time. Cold and smoke had a soporific influence upon some of us. Suddenly an amusing expression of terror passed over the countenance of the lady opposite me. Beside her sat rather the worst looking man of the party. His breath was freighted with the mingled perfumes of wine and tobacco. Perhaps he had combed his hair as recently as the day before. Sleep had overpowered him and gravitating towards the lady, his weary head was unconsciously, yet steadily, seeking her person. I managed to accidentally hit him, and he awoke, the lady at the same time giving a look and sigh of relief. I cannot believe that that lady admires the compartment system.

Very lovely seemed the southern coast of France as we journeyed eastward from Marseilles and more and more delightful did it become as we neared Italy. Seen in the colder seasons of the year, this coast region appears highly favored. Upon the north a long range of snow-white mountains perpetually bar out winter. From the south come soft breezes over the Mediterranean. Hills roughen and render picturesque the scenery, and valleys of luxuriant verdure ever greet eagerly the glad sunlight. The charm of the climate and beauty of its location, combine to make Nice the lovely city that it is. I found there many English and Americans who, during certain seasons of the year, form no small portion of its population. Some come hither to regain health, some to escape the more rigorous weather of northern latitudes. Numbers come because it is fashionable to do so, and still others because it is convenient to Monaco.

I did not stop at the latter place, but I saw it picturesquely situated upon a bold cliff overlooking the sea. The prince of the tiny principality of the same name resides there. I was told that he conducts every thing on a diminutively grand scale, that he has his court and a magnificently uniformed army, consisting of exactly fifty soldiers. All may not be aware that Monaco is the European paradise of gamblers. In other countries there are more or less restrictions upon this class of men, but at this place they have unlimited privileges. Every little while the papers contain fresh accounts of some one shooting himself because he had lost his all there. All lose at Monaco. It would seem not to be allowable there to do otherwise. I have heard much of the place and have seen numbers who have visited it, and the story is always of losses and never of gains. Wealthy and fashionable ladies—some of them, I was sorry to learn, Americans—frequently go thither from Nice; gamble recklessly at times and lose heavily. They however do not commit suicide.

A moment's view from Castle Hill overlooking Nice on the east, and then we go on. It is eight in the morning. The air is cool, fragrant, and wondrous clear. Before us extends the blue Mediterranean, its waters shimmering beautifully in the rays of the morning sun, which is half veiled by a fleecy cloud. Cosily nestles the city in the lap of the hills, and very prettily it lies in a long line of princely buildings and hotels along the curved sea-coast. Olives, aloes, cypresses and palms impart somewhat of a tropical luxuriance to the everywhere abundant vegetation. Dotting with white the green of steep and valley are numberless villas, and peering out from forests on the more distant hills are ancient monastaries. Beyond these still are the mountains, their snow-crested summits glistening as with suddenly unveiled splendor the sun greets them.

B. T. Pettengill.

It is very hard for some men to pray as Jesus taught us—"Forgive our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us." It was said of Archbishop Cranmer, "If you would be sure to have Cranmer do you a good turn, you must do him an ill one; for, though he loved to do good to all, yet especially he would watch for opportunities to do good to such as had wronged him." There is room in this world for at least a dozen more such men as Cranmer: and they would not be crowded, either.

Religious Intelligence.

—Rev. J. W. Hott, the successor of Bishop M. Wright as editor of the Religious Telescope, takes his place on that paper on the 13th inst.

—Bishop Wright has been assigned to the district west of the Mississippi river. Bishop Dickson goes to Ohio. He will reside in Westerville during the next four years.

—Mr. Henry Silverheels, an Indian of the Seneca tribe, in western New York, was licensed recently by the Presbytery of Buffalo to preach the gospel. He is nearly sixty years of age, and has long been regarded as an earnest and devoted Christian man. His ministry will be among his own people.

—Major Whittle has been holding revival meetings at Lynn, Mass., for several weeks, with many and especial marks of Divine favor. Among the numerous conversions are some of wonderful power and grace. The largest hall in the city is engaged for a month for these meetings. Major Whittle goes to the Boston Tabernacle for a month after the Lynn meetings close.

—Since the closing of the Boston Tabernacle meetings have been held with great frequency in the churches and with good success. The number received by the Congregational pastors into membership at the May communion was 500. Mr. Moody has visited Boston again and is holding frequent services. One of the most touching meetings he probably ever held was in the State Prison a week ago last Lord's day. Many of the convicts expressed a wish to begin the Christian life.

—The Dublin Yearly Meeting of Friends has sent James N. Richardson to labor among the ecclesiastical meetings of the Friends of this country and Canada.

—The venerable Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church met May 22d in Allegheny City, numbering 79 ministers and 58 elders. Rev. J. R. Thompson was elected moderator, Rev. Jos. Beattie, missionary to Syria, retiring. A proposition to establish a mission among the Chinese in California was referred. The reports of Domestic and Foreign Missions showed that these agencies are well sustained; all claims have been paid and a balance is in the treasury. By the death of Mrs. Metheny, Letakiyeh, Syria, the mission sustained a heavy loss. The laborers there were encouraged by her presence, and the chapel was built at her expense. Owing to the hostility manifested by the Turks to the missionaries in Latakiyeh the Secretary of the Navy was requested to send a vessel to visit that place, and note particularly the feeling and attitude of the Turks toward American citizens residing there. The visit was made and produced an impression upon the native such that they no longer molest the missionaries. There is regular preaching, with good attendance. The day school and Sabbath schools are well attended also.

The Synod is asked to appropriate $12,400 for carrying on the work of the Foreign Mission.

—The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church met at Sparta, Illinois, May 23d. The retiring moderator, Rev. James Brown of Keokuk Presbytery, preached the opening sermon. Rev. Dr. Ewing of Pittsburgh was chosen moderator. The statistical reports show that the church embraces 8 synods, 57 presbyteries, 64 ministers, 783 congregations, 45 mission stations, 74,834 members, 71 Sabbath schools, with 6,895 officers and teachers and 58,839 scholars. The aggregate contributions for the year were $846,991. The report of the Foreign mission work shows it to be clear of debt. The establishment of a new Sabbath-school weekly was voted. An earnest debate occurred over the question of instrumental music in the worship of the churches. The decision of the assembly was in favor of sustaining the present rule of the church forbidding instruments by a vote of 110 to 51. The Syrian mission is given over to the Irish Presbyterian General Assembly, in order to concentrate on the missions in Egypt and India. Cambridge, O., is the place named for the next meeting on the fourth Wednesday in May, 1878.

—Rev. David Strang, U. P. missionary to Egypt, gave an interesting report of the work in that country. The mission has 804 church members, 30 Sabbath schools with 1,142 scholars, 22 organized churches and mission stations. He gave many incidents of Gospel work in the mission of the deepest interest. As to the native preachers, he said that they had a few native pastors who were ordained over congregations. They are highly educated and very successful. Some of them are fine English scholars. He hoped that soon all the churches would be under native ministers.

—The new Bishop of the United Brethren church who enters upon the district of the Pacific coast, Rev. Nicholas Castle is forty years of age. "He is," says the Telescope, "firm in his attachment to the principles of the church, and is fearless in their defense and support. The cause of Christ and of the church will not suffer in his hands. As the youngest of the five bishops he has been stationed on the Pacific district where he will find a large field of usefulness in building up the church and the general cause of the Master."

Reform News.

Iowa Work.

Bowensburgh, Ill., May 31, '77.

Dear Bro. Kellogg: Having completed my lecturing tour in Iowa, I thought I would give you a brief synopsis of my work.

On April 24th, I left my Illinois home for the Iowa State Convention, whose session commenced on that day in the city of Oskaloosa, which convention, in point of numbers, almost made me ashamed of our Illinois conventions, and I congratulate our Iowa brethren on their success.

From Oskaloosa, Bro. Hinman sent me to fill his appointment at Wittenberg, which I did to the best of my ability, to a fair audience. I was here weather-bound for several days, but was very comfortably cared for by Bro. George Hanger and his good wife, to whom I am greatly indebted.

The next point of attack was in Chester township, Jasper county, in the Friends' meeting-house to a fine audience and appreciative; principally friend Quakers. And as Bro. Bufkin and his good wife made their house my home while there, I gave them a vote of thanks.

After delivering a lecture in Hart's school-house, in the same township, my next point was Lynnville, same county. Rainy weather and bad roads, prevented me from meeting our friends at Lynnville at the appointed time and the editor of the Lynnville newspaper charitably intimated that my failure to come to time, was owing, perhaps, to my having received the "Morgan Degree" on my way. Of course my friendly editor is a Mason.

But on the third night from my first appointment at Lynnville, I met the friends in the Quaker church and spoke an hour and a half to a full house, and a good impression was made. Friend Macy being my host.

Having received an urgent call from Dr. Richey, of Albion, Marshall Co., Iowa to go there, I made that place my next point of attack. Stoddard, Ronayne and Hinman had all been there, and I would have supposed the serpent dead, but the tail is, or was, still alive. That woman, DeGeer, had been there the week before, and had galvanized the snake a little by taking incipient steps to organize a female lodge of Masons. Now you know, Bro. K., that Mackey says no woman can legally be made a Mason. So what would you call that lodge of female monstrosities after having been made Masons?

In the course of my lecture I remarked that no decent woman could be drawn into a Masonic lodge, which excited some of my Masonic friends to the point of losing their jewels, and I was informed that a number of the injured fraternity lingered at the door after the lecture to make me take those few words back, but when I reached the door not an enemy was in sight! Certainly it would have been discourteous in the Masons to have undertaken to make me do that thing, besides it might have exhibited "a pretty kettle of fish," and might have ended in a "Dutch row."

The lecture at Albion was a success. The Presbyterian church was well filled, the Albion brass band discoursed excellent music, and Anti-masons are having things pretty much their own way there Our Professor used to say that a Latin supine "was a verb flat on its back." Just so with Masonry at Albion.

All classes of people in Albion are deeply interested in the agitation of Masonry, and the elite of the city, honored us with their presence. The meeting was called to order by that veteran Anti-mason, Mr. A. C. Moffatt, who lived in Morgan times, and who is a cruel Anti—so the fraternity think.

The week was pretty fully occupied in lecturing in adjoining districts; two lectures in Taylor township, one at Prairieville, Friends' church; one at Green Mountain school house. I found the friends of the cause very hospitable, among whom I take pleasure in naming Dr. Richey and wife, Mr. A. C. Moffatt and wife, Bro. McCleery and wife.

From Albion, I next appeared at Salina, Jefferson county; was booked there for three lectures by that old veteran Fordice, ably assisted by Bro. Collins. These two men are a host of themselves, in the cause. Having filled my appointments at Salina, where the Free Methodist church was well filled during three successive nights, and that at a very busy time among farmers, Rev. Bro. Gould, with his own conveyance, took me to Winfield, Henry county, where I delivered three lectures to full houses. Having spent a month with the friends in Iowa, Saturday, May 26th, found me home again, ready for the work in Illinois.

But I wish to say to the friends of the cause that we cannot respond to calls at our own charges. I cannot go thirty or forty miles, deliver three lectures to a full house for one dollar and twenty-five cents! Albion contributed generously, ten dollars; Salina also did well. Other places did something; some nothing. Is it generous to expect us to labor for nothing? This reform requires oil to run the machinery, and money is a very important factor. Let us then all take hold and do with all our might until our efforts are crowned with success.

J. P. Richards.

Rev. J. P. Richards in Iowa.

Salina, Ia., May 26, 1877.

Dear Cynosure: I will give your readers a brief account of Bro. Richards' lectures in this place. There is no organization of secrecy here. A few years ago there was a grange here but it is dead. There has been considerable talk of organizing an Odd-fellows' lodge. The will is good but money is scarce. We have good material here for something of the kind; they have tried the Christian religion and failed, many of them, and now I think some other kind would be best adapted to their wants.

Bro. Richards commenced his lectures on the evening of the 18.h. The people only had a few hours' notice of the meeting, but at an early hour the Free Methodist church was about two-thirds filled with attentive and intelligent hearers who listened for nearly two hours to a very interesting account of the origin and growth and decline of Masonry. Some intelligent persons present expressed a very unfavorable opinion of the institution. On the second evening, Saturday, the 19th, the church was tolerably full and the interest in the lectures seemed to greatly increase. The speaker made some happy hits and some strong points which I think were well appreciated and received, and calculated to do much good. On the Sabbath he occupied the Free Methodist pulpit and delivered a good discourse.

On Tuesday evening, the 21st, our worthy speaker gave us the best discourse of all. Indeed, the best of the wine was kept back till the last of the feast.

I have no hesitancy in saying that the lectures delivered by brother Richards were a grand success and the friends of Christianity are greatly encouraged.

Friends of this reform, push the battle to the very gates of the enemy. We here, in Jefferson county, have been holding discussions on this subject and expect to do our duty.

W. Collins.

Ossian, Indiana.

Dr. S. L. Cook, the State Lecturer, has given several lectures in this vicinity opposing secret societies, and we are sure that his labors have not been in vain, but that he has worked up an intelligent sentiment against the "unfruitful works of darkness." The doctor manifests considerable skill in getting to the hearts of the people without giving needless offense. He is certainly the right man in the right place. May his untiring energy and zeal be blessed of God. Let all who are friends to the cause support him by giving liberally of their means.

C. B. Beaty.

Sullivan County, Indiana.

Leesville, Ind., May 23, 1877.

On the evening of May 11th I lectured on Masonry at Pleasantville. A number of persons expressed themselves much pleased with the lecture. One gentleman said he very distinctly remembered the Morgan excitement. Another very old gentleman said he had heard quite a number of Anti-masonic lectures forty or fifty years ago.

We are making arrangements to have Rev. Henry Johns, a seceding Mason of Perrysville, Ind., come to this part of the country to lecture and work the first three degrees of Masonry. Ronayne gave the lodge a blow last March which was severely felt. We want to keep up the Anti-masonic interest until it shall be a disgrace to be a Mason, and when ministers can not afford to be Masons. Oh for the down-fall of every false religion and the supremacy of the holy religion of the Son of God!

J. T. Hobson.

New Organization in Tuscarawas County, O.

Winfield, O., May 21, 1877.

We started the anti-secrecy ball rolling in this place on the evening of the 19th inst. We (Rev. J. F. Dilley of the U. B. church, and I) announced a meeting and tried to procure a lecturer, but our brother engaged for the occasion failed to come. But our meeting was a success, nevertheless. Nine members were procured, a temporary organization effected, a committee appointed to draft constitution, and arrangements made to hold another meeting prior to the national convention at Dayton, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization and electing delegates to said convention.

Our people here are, generally, indifferent toward the movement and reticent on the secrecy question, but we are determined, by the grace of God, to push the cause forward and bring the issue fairly and squarely before them. We feel that God is in the movement, and if we work in faith we will succeed.

Respectfully, Chas. W. Koler.

Monmouth College Catalogue for for 1876-7 has been received, and shows a total number of students in all departments of 349, twenty-nine of whom graduate this year. A new wing has been added to the college building, containing chapel and rooms for recitation, apparatus, laboratory, etc. Among the regulations of the institution is one forbidding any student from connection with secret college fraternities. Among the Directors are the well-known names of Rev. J. W. Bain, W. P. McNary, W. H. French, Marion Morrison, J. G. Carson, and R. A. McAyeal.

Case's Bible Atlas has just been published by A. H. Andrews & Co., of this city, with the design of furnishing a useful assistant for the International series of Sabbath-school lessons. Its maps were engraved and printed by Johnston, of Edinburgh; are plainly lettered, of convenient size, and 16 in number. The descriptive notes and index to the maps are a very useful and valuable addition. Mr. B. F. Jacobs, the well-known Sabbath-school worker, and editor of the International Lesson Monthly, says:

"I have examined Case's Bible Atlas with pleasure and profit. The successive maps present a geographical history of the Scripture world, and are finely drawn and colored. The explanitory notes are good, clear are brief, and the index is a valuable and time-saving addition to the book. I wish all Sunday-school teachers had the Atlas, and most cheerfully commend it."

The book is sold by subscription. Price $1.00.

The Sanitarian for June: Vital Statistics; Wm. Farr, M. D., F. R. S.; Water Supply of Cities; The Plea of Insanity; Sanitary Knowledge for School Children; Editor's Table. A. N. Bell, Publisher, Box 1956, New York.

Lowliness of mind is not a flower that grows in the field of nature.

Correspondence.

From Elder Nathan Callender.

Dear Brother K. and Readers of the Cynosure: You may be at a loss to know how to interpret my long silence and seeming inactivity as consistent with fidelity to the Heaven-inspired cause represented by you and the grand paper called the Christian Cynosure. I have not "fallen from grace" nor taken a step backward on the living issues of the times. Till my eyes look from the back of my head and my toes point in the same direction I cannot go backward and to face about while going right, is to me morally impossible. Our anti-secret reform virtually embraces and defends all the fundamental principles of the Christian religion. Secret societies are in their very nature and design an assault on the Bible, and on the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Paine and Voltaire never evinced more opposition to the doctrine of salvation by grace than is implied in Masonry and its brood.

The fearful pressure of these days in money matters here in this most oppressed region of Pennsylvania, paralyzes us beyond expression. It is to us, as to present enterprise, an absolute death. We hope for a change for the better and cannot fear one for the worse, though, perhaps, we have not yet reached bottom. I long to be in motion on the battle-line for God and right.

I cannot tell you how much I desire to attend onr annual meetings, but my want of firm health and money will forbid my attendance. In full sympathy and supplication I shall be present.

Since my last communication to you God has again greatly blessed my charge in Scott Valley, adding to that church a goodly number of such as are saved, converting to the truth as it is in Jesus and to reform principles some of the most unlikely cases in the whole region. Nothing too hard for God. How he can pluck a brand from the burning! The drunkard and the sensual are made over to him in a day. I had moved 30 miles away from this field, having determined to cease my labers there in April, but now, by the unanimous decision of that people, shall serve them another year. I am now on my eleventh year of spiritual toil and conflict with "wicked spirits in high places." Till further notice my address will remain as now, Starrucca, Wayne Co., Pa.

The falling off of the patrons of the Cynosure at Green Grove, is partly owing to the hard times. I tried to get all to renew, and got from nearly every one the same reason, want of funds. The Cynosure will feel this want of funds with me only when I cannot find the subscription price for one year. No paper in the land is engaged in so necessary a branch of education as that of the Cynosure. My heart is made sad in view of the fact that many who consume from $10 to $50 a year in tobacco cannot find the funds for a live paper which stands forth in bold relief in advocating reform on all the "living questions of the age." Tobacco must be left out of the church or the millenium day indefinitely postponed. Come quickly, Lord Jesus and root out from the church every plant which our Heavenly Father hath not planted.

Nathan Callender.

Be Crucified.

Whigville, O.

In order to be instruments in God's hands and to be co-workers with him in pulling down the strongholds of secrecy we must become dead to the opinions of men, to the cry of politicians who will cry oppression, war, worthless money and a thousand and one other things, if you do not vote for his party, and quite likely these lovers of their country are members of some secret clan, who lose their zeal for their country as soon as the election is over. Now it will be crucifying to take a stand against the popular parties and vote for men and principles that are unpopular, yes, we say it will be crucifying to the flesh to be ridiculed for voting the American party-ticket, especially when the people around you cry in your ears that you will by so doing be the means of bringing ruin and destruction to this government, etc., etc. Well, my Anti-masonic brethren, let me exhort you to be crucified and the sooner the better for the cause which you profess to love. Hear the words of the prophet: "How long halt ye between two opinions: if the Lord be God serve him, if Baal then serve him." The time has come that we should take a decided stand in politics and leave results with the God of nations. To-day is God's time, notwithstanding politicians, time-serving Christians and faint-hearted men cry, Not now, wait another year—until the next presidential campaign. Then the same cry will be heard and so on for all time, for the simple reason that the devil changes not as regards his hatred of the right and love for the wrong. Let us show by our works that we mean what we say about the Beast. We are aware that we are some distance in time from another election, but think that we should not wait until on the eve of an election before this question of voting is discussed.

Yours for the right.

Jas. W. Hamilton.

Our Mail.

Jonathan W. Moss, Cameron, W. Va., writes:

"I never let an opportunity slip without putting in a word for the cause. I speak of it, I read the Cynosure to persons whom I meet, I enclose tracts to correspondents. The day I last wrote to you, I sent out eight letters to friends, every one containing a Honeywell tract. Then why not more subscribers? Because, first, almost nobody in this neighborhood is in the habit of reading anything. Second, secretists predominate. Nevertheless I have good reason to believe that the car of progress is getting on, though its progress is not attended with jolt and rattle and tingle of bells."

N. J. Mosher, Centr alia, Kan., writes:

"I want to do what I can to drive Masonry from our country. It has no opposition here."

A. J. Sheridan, Grant City, Mo., writes:

"I am getting some to declare that they are opposed to Freemasonry. I think that we will come out all right as God is on our side."

A gentleman writes from Canada:

"Expect to hear Ronayne to-night at Tilsonburg. Masons are quite excited here."

Nathaniel C Moore, Worcester, Mass., writes:

"Anti-masonry is gaining on the north and on the south of us, and I hope we shall show our colors in Massachusetts before the next national election. I was about to close my letter when I saw something in one of your papers about State prisons, that reminded me of another thing. Long ago the Hon. Nathaniel Paine of Worcester said he feared State prisons would be a curse to this country. He said men dreaded the whipping-post and the gallows but did not seem to dread the State prison but very little. In this State we are having his fears realized with interest added. A late report of our State prison gives eight hundred or more convicts, the largest number it ever contained. This should be a lesson for us; and when we know that several good men have been murdered in our State prison by rascals, and that in a neighboring State during a given period six murders were committed, and four of them in the State prison, we say the prisons are not what they should be. No intelligent human being should be sent to prison for a third term. If twice don't cure them it is not the right medicine. He that is prepared to take life rather than to be punished for breaking good laws should be put where he won't kill any one."

Mrs. M. A. Gamble, Ypsilanti, Mich., who has recently returned from New York city, writes:

"There is no place where the masses need to be stirred up and enlightened more than in this great city of New York. I have done something in the cause by introducing the Cynosure into several families that never had known that anything was being done in this reform, or that there was such an organization as the National Christian Association. I gave and sent tracts to a number of such; introduced the Cynosure also into two Presbyterian churches. The ministers had never seen any of them. I had Rev. J. W. Bain's book and used that also. There are many noble exceptions to what I have said about the masses. There are the Reformed Presbyterians and the United Presbyterians. These churches testify in their terms of communion against these works of darkness."

E. McCoy, Union City, Mich., writes:

"Masonry is destroying the only plan of redemption that can save the lost race of fallen man from endless woe. A religion without a Saviour is just what Satan wants, and he may be justly styled the author of Masonry."

Thos. A. Fait, Cherryvale, Kan., writes:

"God's cause is bound to triumph gloriously."

Michael Turuer, Rose Creek, Neb. writes:

"I was convinced twenty years ago that speculative or blue lodge devil-worship was sapping the free institutions of this government, and like the old serpent with its sly enchantments it has been drawing its deadly coils around both church and state, and has robbed thousands of noble-minded men, of both conscience, pleasure and money; and not only of these, but of the freedom of speech and of the salvation of their immortal souls. I never heard of the reform till a year ago last winter, when I became acquainted with Mr. W. S. Spooner."

Mrs. Elenor Cook, Albion, Ind., writes:

"Freemasonry is indeed one of the greatest of evils, because its roots are set and it is spreading throughout the world. It is more fearful in its nature and more horrible in its effects than the blackest tornado that has ever yet risen upon our horizon. It is truly a serpent in the grass. It gives no signal."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXIV.—June 17, 1877.—THE CAPTIVITY OF ISRAEL.

SCRIPTURE—2 Kings 17: 6-18. Commit 13-18. Primary verse 18.

6. In the ninth year of Hoshea the king of Assyria took Samaria, and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

7. For so it was, that the children of Israel had sinned against the Lord their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and had feared other gods,

8 And walked in the statutes of the heathen, whom the Lord cast out from before the children of Israel, and of the kings of Israel, which they had made.

9. And the children of Israel did secretly those things that were not right against the Lord their God, and they built them high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchman to the fenced city.

10. And they set them up images and groves in every high hill, and under every green tree.

11. And there they burnt incense in all the high places, as did the heathen whom the Lord carried away before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the Lord to anger:

12. For they served idols, whereof the Lord had said unto them, Ye shall not do this thing.

13. Yet the Lord testified against Israel, and against Judah, by all the prophets and by all the seers, saying, Turn ye from your evil ways and keep my commandments and my statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets.

14. Notwithstanding, they would not hear, but hardened their necks like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the Lord their God.

15. And they rejected his statutes and his covenant that he made with their fathers and his testimonies which he testified against them; and they followed vanity, and became vain and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the Lord had charged them that they should not do like them.

16. And they left all the commandments of the Lord their God and made them molten images, even two calves, and made a grove, and worshiped all the host of heaven, and served Baal.

17. And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and used divination and enchantments, and sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the Lord, to provoke him to anger.

18. Therefore the Lord was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of his sight; there was none left but the tribe of Judah only.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Because they obeyed not the voice of the Lord."—2 K. 18:12.

TOPIC.—Into Sin—into Bondage.

HOME READINGS.

M. Deut. 4: 1-28....Captivity to follow Idolatry.
T. Deut. 28: 36-68....Servitude to follow Idolatry.
W. Josh. 23: 1-16....Destruction to follow Idolatry.
Th. Judg. 10: 1-18....Warning Punishment for Idolatry.
F. 1 Sam. 12: 1-25....Unprofitableness of Idolatry.
S. Amos 5: 1-27....Warned of Captivity.
S. Hosea 13: 1-16....Warned of Desolation.

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES.

V. 6.—ch. 18: 10, 11; Hos. 13: 16; Lev. 26: 32, 33; Deut. 28: 36, 64; 29: 27, 28; 1 Chron. 5: 26; Lev. 26: 33; Amos 5: 27.

V. 7.—1 Ki. 12: 26-31; Mic. 6: 16; 1 Ki. 16: 30-33; Neh. 9: 26; Ex. 13: 3; Deut. 7: 8.

V. 8.—Lev. 18: 3, 30; Deut. 18: 9; ch. 16: 3.

V. 9.—ch. 18: 8; Deut. 27: 15; Ex. 8: 12; Ps. 44: 21.

V. 10.—1 Ki. 14: 23; Is. 57: 5; Ex. 34: 13; Deut. 16: 21; Mic. 5: 14; Deut. 12: 2; ch. 16: 4; Lev. 26: 1; Is. 57: 5.

V. 11.—1 Ki. 13: 1; 2 chr. 28: 25; Jer. 44: 17.

V. 12.—Ex. 20: 3, 4; Deut. 5: 7, 8; 4: 19.

V. 13.—Neh. 9: 30; Deut. 8: 19; 1 Sam. 9: 9; Deut. 4: 26; Josh. 23: 16; 1 Sam. 12: 15; Am. 5: 16; Hos. 13: 16; Is. 1: 16; 55: 7; Jer. 18: 11; 25: 5; 35: 15.

V. 14.—Deut. 31: 27; Pr 29: 1; Is. 48.4; Rom. 2: 5.

V. 15.—Ex. 24: 8; Deut. 29: 12, 25; 32: 21; Jer. 31: 32; 1 Ki. 16: 13; 1 Cor. 8: 4; Ps. 115: 8; Rom. 1: 21; Deut. 12: 30, 31.

V. 16.—Ex. 32: 8; 1 Ki. 12: 28; 14: 15, 23; 15: 13; 16: 31, 33; 22: 53; ch. 11: 18.

V. 17.—Lev. 18: 21; Ps. 106: 37; ch. 16: 3; Ez. 23: 37; Deut. 18: 10; 1 Ki. 21: 20.

V. 18.—Deut. 29: 28; 32: 26; Hos. 9: 3; 1 Ki. 11: 13, 32.

During the long reign of Uzziah in Judah, which lasted fifty-two years, no fewer than six kings sat upon the throne of Israel. It was in this reign of Menahem that the Assyrians under Pul first threatened the land of Israel, but they turned aside for the present on the payment of tribute money. It was in the reign of Pekah that the Assyrians under their new king, Tiglath-pileser, appeared once more with hostile purposes against Israel.—Kitto.

Home and Farm.

An Ancient Dinner.

Queen Elizabeth's breakfast used to consist chiefly of strong ale and salt beef, and the same dainties were served for her supper after she had retired to bed.

In 1669, we are told by a chronicler of the times, a series of enterments were given by the nobility, each striving to outdo the others. All declared in favor of Lord Goring, whose brilliant fancy suggested a device which struck with amazement and admiration all who beheld it. It will be hard for us to take in the whole magnificence of the scene; but let us strive to imagine a long table, on which were placed four huge, brawny, roasted pigs, all piping hot, and bitted and harnessed with ropes of sausage to an enormous pudding bag, which served for a chariot.

What would our modern guests think of being invited to partake of such a tandem team at our dinner table? But these were the good old times, and we can hardly expect ever to see the like. See what we have lost by living in this degenerate nineteenth century!

Growing Cabbage.

The best kind of early cabbage is the Jersey Wakefield for the market; the old-fashioned Early York is excellent for home use; the Early Winningstadt comes a month later than the former. Stable manure is the best fertilizer; as a substittute, night-soil is useful, as are also fish guano or Peruvian guano. Soot and whale-oil soap-suds are preventitives against the cabbage worm. For winter cabbage, the seed should be sown in a seed-bed in May, and the plants transplanted in July, after a crop of early potatoes. The best standard varieties are the Drumhead and the Drumhead Savoy.

Chloride of lime water will remove mildew from cotton, cloth, or linen. A large teaspoonful of the fresh chloride is stirred into a quart of water and strained. The cloth is dipped in the solution, and laid in the sunlight for a few minutes; if this is not effective the dipping should be repeated. This will not injure the cloth, if sufficiently weak, and the cloth is well rinsed in clear water so soon as the spots are discharged.

Carbolic acid should be on hand in every household, and, if bought by the gallon or quart, it is cheap; if bought in vials it is dear. An objection hitherto has been its unpleasant odor, but this was on account of its strength. Solutions will kill the eggs of all kinds of vermin, will destroy ants in the hill and annihilate the germs of diseases and plagues in stables and outhouses, but a general cleaning out is required in connection. All drains, sinks, and pipes conveying water should have a sprinkling.

Canned Fruit.—It is time now to lay in a supply of jars so as to be ready for strawberries and fruits in their succession that June and July give to us. We have tried every variety of can, and have settled down on the glass can with rubber band, glass top and screw ring as the simplest and safest. It is easily closed and opened as easily. Those who buy by the gross at the factory will save very considerably in price. Two or three families might club together, if a gross is too much for one. We have found the two-quart cans better for our family than the one-quart, as they afford, at half the trouble of sealing and unsealing, a generous portion to all the members, whereas the one-quart cans give only an aggravating taste, and make the children cry, like Oliver Twist, for more. We are not likely any of us to put up too much canned fruit. If we should, the poor are always with us and will be glad to help us empty our jars so that they may be filled afresh.

Canning Strawberries.—We repeat for the benefit of new subscribers and all interested, the directions given last year for putting up this favorite berry. 1. To one pound of berries add one quarter pound of sugar, which should be sprinkled on the fruit and remain over night; then place them in a porcelain kettle, let them come to a boil, and can them at once; keep them in a dark, cool place, as the light will discolor them but will not injure their flavor. 2. Make a sirup of white sugar and water, bring to a boil, skimming if necessary; throw into the boiling sirup enough berries to fill one can, as soon as they boil up skim out the berries into the can and seal up; continue this till all the fruit is disposed of. The sirup that remains makes a beautiful jelly. 3. After removing the hulls, weigh the fruit and then the sugar, taking pound for pound. Put the sugar with a little water on the stove, let it boil 20 minutes, put in the fruit and let it just boil, taking care that each berry gets scalded. Have the cans ready and seal immediately. Keep the fruit in the cellar in the dark. 4. To one quart of berries take a tea cup of white sugar with enough water to form a sirup; when the sugar is perfectly dissolved put in the berries and cook 15 minutes. Can immediately in tin and solder tightly. Keep in the cellar. In general the berries should be canned as soon as possible after they are taken from the vines.

For Hydrophobia.—The following has been tried often and under the supervision of physicians, with universal success: To one and a half ounce of good, sound elecampane root, bruised in a mortar, add one pint of new milk, boil to half pint, strain off, and when cold, take a dose in the morning, fasting. No food should be taken for from three to five hours afterwards. Repeat the dose on the third morning, allowing one morning to intervene, and again on the fifth morning. The above quantity is for an adult; for children given in proportionate doses, say to one of 12 years, half the quantity.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)
For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the Christian Cynosure.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.
Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. disconnt and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.
By Rev. J. W. Bain.
We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.
338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.
Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.
In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.
This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry
BY ELDER D. BERNARD,
TO WHICH IS APPENDED A
Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.
The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00
The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.
FOR SALE BY
United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.
BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.
CHEAP EDITION,
Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,
BY MAIL, POST-PAID:
Per doz.....$3.75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.
Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.
This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.
Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express, ... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,
Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP
JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;
Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.
BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.
This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
German Edition, Entitled "Christian and Enst." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism
Within the Court House.
By J. H. H. WOODWARD,
This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz 75 cts. Per 100 by Express $5.00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.
As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.
By J. H. H. Woodward.
By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemons ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 7, 1877.

The Annual Convention.

The national meeting at Dayton will be held in October instead of July, was announced last week. Why the change? Some will not care to ask, being well satisfisd with the wisdom of it. To the rest we must say that it was done on the almost unanimous advice of those most interested in the meeting in Ohio—Pres. George, Bishop Wright and their associates in the United and Reformed Presbyterian and United Brethren churches. A number of these could not attend in July. Beside the hot weather unfavorable to large gatherings, the farms will be calling most urgently for every one who can reap or mow. Reform conventions have always failed in Ohio at this time says Pres. George. The time of preparation was short at best, and the multiplication of engagements at the time of College commencements, and in resuming interrupted labors after the season of General Conferences, Assemblies and Synods, gave still less time for this much needed work. The preliminary meetings usually held before the Anniversary seemed to lag. The General Secretary found a general complaint of the unusual effort needed to get up meetings among hard-worked people, and all said wait till after the harvest season.

The time now fixed upon, Oct. 23d to 25, will be much more favorable because the large religious gatherings will not interfere, the farmers will be through with the hard work of the season, colleges and seminaries will have resumed work and be able to spare one or two from their faculties, the protracted meetings of the winter will not have begun, and Ohio and other States can be districted and large delegations assured. One serious drawback exists—the fall conferences of the Wesleyan, Free Methodist and United Brethren. Many of these, however, will be closed and the interference will at least be but local. Some friends will be disappointed, but it seemed to the Directors that a far greater number would be accommodated. It was also thought best not to change the time of the annual business meeting, June 20th, in the Carpenter building in this city, but if the business required, to hold another meeting of the corporate body after the Dayton Convention.

The General Agent and Secretary, now in Ohio, has prepared the following which will appear this week also in the Religious Telescope:

The tenth annual meeting of the National Christian Association (opposed to secret societies) is to be held at Dayton, Ohio, commencing the 23d day of October, 1877, opening at 7:30 P. M., with an address by Rev. H. H. George, D.D.

If you are friendly to the work of this association you are invited to be present and to enroll your name as a member and to participate in the discussion. The object of this meeting is to investigate the nature and character of secret societies generally, and Freemasonry in particular; to make common stock of our experiences and observations; to devise ways and means for the effective prosecution of our work; and to spread before the public well-authenticated and indubitable proofs of the pernicious effects of secretism upon the manners, the integrity, the patriotism, the morality and the religion of the people. Men of acknowledged ability and unimpeachable veracity will present carefully prepared addresses, and ample opportunity will be given tor general conference and the presentation of facts; aud some, perhaps all the degrees of "Blue Lodge" Masonry will be publicly worked.

It is earnestly desired that pastors receiving this notice should call the attention of their congregation to it, and, where practicable, arrange to have their churches represented,and that each State or local anti-secret organization should send one or more delegates; but let none stay away who can come, either men or women, for want of a formal appointment.

If you are conscientiously opposed to the shams, intrigues and infidelity of the lodge, come and join in an effort to rid our courts and Christ's church of this evil.

Indifference is no longer possible with the reading, thinking man. You must take one side or the other of the question. You may delay to act, but you can no more evade this question than you could the question of slavery in 1860, or than you can the final judgment.

This city of Dayton is, perhaps, a fair specimen, and I find advertised in its "Sunday" journal fifty-four secret lodges and only forty-two churches, including four Romanists, one Universalist, four mission-chapels and a synagogue of the Jews.

These and similar facts give emphasis to the assertions sometimes made by indiscreet "brethren" that the time has come when Freemasonry must be either feared or respected in this country. Freemasonry is either right or it is wrong. If it is right it ought to be advocated in the pulpit and press of our country. If it is wrong it ought to be spoken against and exposed by the guardians of public morals and the political rights of the people.

Wm. M. Cunningham, sovereign grand inspector of the 33d degree of Scottish Rite, says on page 202, Manual of the Order, "Yes, the Christian religion originated from ancient Freemasonry as it was in its primitive simplicity and purity," and adds, "We can also demonstrate that, until the forms of worship were established by the ecclesiastical hierarchy, everything in the Christian religion took its origin from the usuages and rituals of the initiated who were the predecessors of the Freemasons."

Rev. Nathaniel Colver, D. D., after having a personal knowledge of seven degrees in "York Rite" Masonry, says, "I regard it as Satan's master-piece—a terrible snare to men. It sits at this moment as a nightmare on all the moral energies of our government, and paralyzes the arm of justice." Who is right; Cunningham or Colver?

President C. G. Finney, after taking three degrees in "Blue Lodge Masonry," says, "God demands, and the world has a right to expect that that the church will take due action and bear a truthful testimony in respect to this institution. She can not now innocently hold her peace. Fidelity to God and the souls of men require that the church, which is the light of the world, should speak out, and should take such action as will openly reveal her views of the compatibility or incompatibility of Freemasonry with the Christian religion."

Dr. Fisch, of Paris, says, "The church in America must stand as one man against Masonry or be destroyed."

Churches in this country with an aggregate membership of 700,000 refuse to admit members of secret societies to their church-fellowship, and many of our conscientious citizens will not vote for any man who is an adhering member of any of these secret lodges. Does Christ approve or condemn? Let us meet, investigate, discuss, decide, and then act. Repectfully yours,

J. P. Stoddard.

The Masonic Attack on Wheaton.

Another petition has been circulated, and received some 150 signanatures, with a view to dispose of President Blanchard. The petitioners set forth that the college is in debt $23,000, exclusive of one year's interest, and having only an attendance of one hundred students, is a failure, and further, as President Blanchard has intimated his desire to resign if the debts were paid, the Congregational Association in session at Sterling, Ill., are asked to take the matter under its control, and accept the resignation of the incumbent President. It is alleged that the college is not run in the interests of the Congregational churches, but as an Anti-masonic institution.

The above item, furnished the Chicago Inter-ocean by some person in Wheaton, is true with the exception of the statement concerning my resignation, and that the college with "one hundred students" and $23,000 debts incurred by building, a resplendent history and powerful and numerous friends, "is a failure." That it has been "run as an Anti-masonic institution" is true; and the churches and country will be in danger till they and every institution in the country is "run" in the some way. How can a church live with conflicting brotherhoods in its bosom; or a country with a multitude of conflicting oaths in its courts?

Let those who read the present uproar against the college remember the above statement, and that two of the committee appointed to represent this uproar at Sterling, are chief builders and owners of the Masonic lodge here, and the third lately received a complimentary vote for befriending a lodge of Odd-fellows.

It is necessary to remember this because the lodge, which is the "head of the serpent" and seat of his wiles in every town, always hides itself behind its deceived or willing tools and dupes, even as Satan seeks to make the impression that there is no such creature as himself who influences human affairs.

Shall Our Colleges Succumb to the Lodge?

It is with deep and sincere regret that we notice in the last Christian Republic the resignation of his professorship in Tusculum College, Tennessee, by Rev. Paul S. Feemster. The reasons set forth can but be damaging to that institution among all candid men who are acquainted with Professor Feemster. They are, in brief, that alternately with President Doak, Prof. Feemster preached on Sabbath evenings in the College chapel. A while since he spoke from 2 Cor. 6: 14: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," applying it to the marriage relation. He gave notice at this time that he would in a month speak from the same text in regard to the secret orders. This announcement was the only ground of offense. The President was apprehensive of serious results to his College, as some of the students were sent there and supported by Masonic friends, and privately advised against the sermon; but Prof. Feemster having put his hand to the plow could not deny his Master and look back. A majority of the Faculty finally voted to forbid a Christian discourse upon the lodge in their chapel. At its next meeting Prof. Feemster resigned his position in the College, which he has filled for seven years.

Thus the lodge closes another avenue which is ostensibly for the enlightenment of American youth and informing their minds with the great principles of action, and sets before them the example of the Inquisition or the White League. We doubt whether such action can long stand; it certainly would not be unrebuked in an enlightened community. American colleges should be centers of true reform like Wittemberg under Luther, or Geneva under Calvin. It was this principle which gave Oberlin its power, and no institution for higher education can afford to stand upon any other ground. But the lodge, like Jesuitism, would suppress free thought and criticism. The movement on Wheaton has no other end. The haters of them that "rebuke iniquity in the gate" are not dead with the old prophets. Nor yet shall we find that heaven is dumb nor that God heeds not when his truth is trodden down; for he will yet visit and help his people.

—The long but interesting historical article on the Baptist testimony of forty-five years ago in eastern New York, will be read by thousands of that denomination with a reviving of the old earnest spirit that gave to that church such names as Colver, Bernard, Stearns and Marks. May yet many such men of God stand forth from the ranks of the Baptist church to "overcome by the word of their testimony."

—After a much needed rest for a few days, Past Master Ronayne will visit points in this State and Wisconsin before October. There is every prospect of an unequalled demand for expositions during the fall and winter all over the country.

—The Masonic committee on Wheaton College have taken the pains to report a very flattering reception for themselves at the Illinois State Congregational Association. The fact is they did not dare obtrude their odious business upon the body. It might have been better, for the sake of some well-meaning men whom they have deceived, if they had; for, as one of the leading pastors of this city said when he learned their mission, they would have got such a skinning as they would not soon have forgotten. That is, the lion's skin would have been pulled off the other animal, and the succession of circumstances can be imagined.

—After the adjournment of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church at Sparta, we had the pleasure of welcoming Henry Harrison, Esq., of New York, well and widely known as a most earnest and consistent advocate of Gospel reform. He visited the city in company with his pastor, Rev. Mr. Kidd, and Mrs. Wallace of Philadelphia.

—Bro. Hinman of the Illinois State work is visiting points in DuPage county preparatory to the county convention noticed elsewhere.

—From the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church in Allegheny city, likewise just adjourned, we also had the pleasure of meeting Rev. M. A. Gault, of Mediapolis, Iowa, who reports great activity and Christian zeal for the cause in central Iowa.

—The request of the Golden Censer to its readers for their opinions respecting a thorough discussion of the secret orders has been noticed. In the last number, of 106 new letters received only five were opposed. The vote after five weeks stood 457 for to 57 against. Bro. Lemley is disappointed at the smallness of the figures and has decided not to undertake the work. We are sorry he has so concluded, for it has the appearance of caring more for the opinion of a multitude than that the truth of God should be spoken for the salvation of a few, yea, even of a single soul. We know, however, that personally he is opposed to the Christ-rejecting orders and that the Censer will never be used in their favor.

—The Masonic enemies of Wheaton College, whose exploits at Sterling were given last week, were usually very guarded in their reasons for the petition when getting signers, but the real animus of the whole affair came out in a few cases where they plainly said that the institution had been Anti-masonic long enough, and they were going to have a change.

—Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston, said the other day with more truth than our lax times are used to hear, "America is but half a republic until it Christianizes politics, the colleges, trade, fraud, and even dead orthodoxy."

—From a late item in a Canada paper it seems that all is not peace and fidelity among the falsely sworn Freemasons of the Provinces. The Grand Master, J. K. Kerr, deemed it necessary to call a special meeting of Masters and Past Masters to consider the attempt of one W. W. Fitzgerald and others to create a breach in the order.

News of the Week.

—During the month of May the indebtedness of the United States was cut down $6,981,274. There are now outstanding $95,000,000 of the four-and-a-half per cent bonds.

—The jury in the Rockford court-house calamity censure the architect Gay for his bad plans, and the county board of Supervisors for want of caution in examining the plans and for appointing an incompetent supervisor of the work.

—President Hayes will visit Boston on the 17th day of June for the purpose of attending the graduating exercises of Harvard law school. He has a son in the graduating class. Mr. Hayes intends after that to go to Vermont, and will take a short trip through the North.

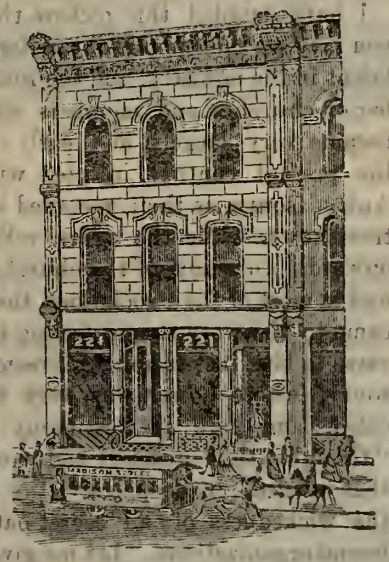
—John Lathrop Motley, the historian, died last week in London and was buried on Monday in Kensal Green. Dean Stanley preached the funeral sermon at Westminster on Sunday.

—Last Friday Chief-Justice Waite, of the United States Supreme Court, opened the trial at Charleston of the parties indicted under the Enforcement acts for the murder of several negroes in September last at Ellenton, Aiken Co., S. C., and in his charge to the jury expounded at considerable length the law which should govern their verdict in the case. The defendants are not on trial for murder, that being a crime over which the State courts have exclusive jurisdiction; they are charged with the violation of the acts passed by Congress providing for the enforcement of the constitutional amendments designed to protect the colored people against violence or intimidation on account of race, color, or political associations.

—Fourtou, the new French Minister of the Interior, proposes, according to a cable dispatch, to issue a decree prohibiting gatherings for political purposes consisting of more than twenty persons. Gambetta, the Republican leader, said last week that, in the possible contingency of President MacMahon's resignation, M. Thiers was a statesman well fitted to become a perfectly constitutional President. The editors of the Raical have been sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay $1,000 fine for insulting President MacMahon and defending the Commune. The publication of the Raical is suspended for six months. At Perpignan the editors of two Republican newspapers have been sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment and $400 fine and two years' imprisonment and $400 fine, respectively, for similar offenses. Prosecution has been instituted against the Algerian newspaper Courier of Orang.

—A correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph sends the following: "ERZEROUM, June 2.—I have to record the most terrible event of the present war. Two nights ago 4,000 Circassian cavalry, commanded by Mousha Pasha, were ordered to proceed toward Kars, entirely unsupported by infantry or artillery. They rested for the night at Bekli-Ahmed. The Russians secretly organized a powerful force and during the night surrounded and surprised the village in which the Circassians had halted. Only about five per cent. of the entire force of 4,000 Circassians escaped the carnage which followed. Mousha Pasha himself is among the missing. The Circassians fought desperately and no quarter was given."

—A Constantinople dispatch states that the arrival of the Russian forces at Soghoulu and Kisil-Kilissa brings two strong Russian columns within six hours' march of Erzeroum. A later dispatch says: Intelligence has been received that Mukhtar Pasha is falling back on Ziam. His army is considered to be in a grave position. Kars is completely invested. Telegraphic communication ceased two days ago. Detachments of Kara-Kilissa and Toprak-Kaleh are falling back upon Delibaba, before the advance of the Russian left wing.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon;
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity.
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wi
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio,
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

Anti-Masonry in Eastern New York among the Baptists Forty-Five Years Ago.

BY REV. STEPHEN WRIGHT.

Dear Cynosure:—In an article published in your columns of April 20, 1876, I gave some account of Anti-masonry in Eastern New York forty-five years ago and more, promising your readers something about its working among the regular Baptists in the same region at that period. But I must confess my negligence in delaying so long to fulfill my promise as I then purposed. I went through the hard process of moving and settling soon after, and many labors and cares intervened when I gave up the work until I should have full leisure to examine my sources of information and give accuracy to my statements. And now, after reading the Cynosure for another full year with deepening interest, I am constrained to do the neglected duty and make the purposed contribution to the cause of reform, if you will admit my article into your paper.

The Baptists have been a large element in the population of the counties of Washington and Warren, Rensselaer and Saratoga, Albany and Columbia in Eastern New York, as also in Bennington county, Vermont, and Berkshire, Massachusetts, for more than one hundred years now past. Some of their churches date back to the years 1762, as at Stillwater; 1766 at Bottskill or Greenwich; and 1779 as the White Oreek, N. Y., and the First Shaftsbury (now extinct) in 1768, etc. In 1780 the Shaftsbury Baptist Association was formed in said town, by the union of five small churches, which had increased to twenty-six churches, with nineteen ministers and 1,754 members in the year 1791. And in June, 1800, there were forty-six churches, thirty-three ministers, and 4,127 members in the whole body, reporting the accession of 767 new members the year previous.

At this time the association embraced such men of God as Elders Caleb Blood, of Shaftsbury, for 20 years; John Leland, of Cheshire, Mass., for 30 years or more; Justus Hull, of Berlin, N. Y., for 40 years; Jehiel Fox, of Chester, Warren county, for over 30 years a vigorous pioneer on the borders of civilization; Edward Barber, of Bottskill, 40 years, or a whole lifetime; Amasa Brown, of Hartford, for nearly the same length of time; besides D. Tinkham, of White Creek, 35 years; Obed Warren, of Salem, 20 years; and also Isaac Webb, for years at Troy and Albany, etc. All these were men of strong minds, of deep and acknowledged piety, favored with many and powerful revivals, and large accessions of the sturdy yeomanry to their churches.

And so widespread was this body in 1805, covering the six or eight counties named, that from the 48 churches at that date, with 4,593 members, enough were set off to start the Saratoga Association, with 14 churches and 1,432 members, which had grown in 1820 to 25 churches, 20 ministers, and 3,851 members; while the mother body had the same year at its 40th session, 26 churches, 19 ministers, and 3,777 members. And in both bodies in 1820 there was a grand total of 51 churches, 39 ministers, with a membership of 7,628, besides four or five churches that had gone in 1816 to help in the formation of the Hudson River Association. I might as well add here, that in 1826 the Berkshire Association was formed in Massachusetts, with some 10 or 12 churches, and 600 or 800 members; and in 1827 the Washington was organized, with eight churches and 1,200 members, in Washington county, N. Y., and some of Saratoga county; and last, in 1832, the Stephentown Association was formed by about 16 churches and 1,400 members, in the counties of Rensselaer and Columbia, N. Y. Thus did this old mother of associations parcel out her territory so liberally to her five daughters as to leave herself at the age of 52 only 13 churches, 10 ministers, and 1,546 members. The whole territory, however, had about 100 churches and 12,000 members in 1832.

I have detailed this picture that you may see the amount of territory, talent in the ministry, and the number of churches and members who became very largely, and early in the present century, infected with Anti-masonry, as their recorded action shows, while the years rolled onward. In many of the churches, and in most of the associations, there came to be a very strong feeling adverse to the institution of Freemasonry, whose power was very decided, and bore its testimony in "thoughts that breathed and words that burned" in deep conviction of the wickedness of all secret oath-bound organizations. Let me give a few specimens of their action:

1. As early as 1798, at the annual meeting of the mother association in June, at Stephentown, Rensselaer county, N. Y., 47 churches, representing a total of 3,460 members, with Eld. Caleb Blood for moderator and the eccentric John Leland as clerk, the first action of the whole body is put on record in the following words, copied from now extant minutes:

"Item 14. Several queries from churches occasioned the following advice:

"Dear Brethren—As a number of our churches are greatly distressed by their members joining with the Freemasons, for the peace of the churches we pray such to desist. If there is no moral evil in joining with the Masons, yet it is sinning against the weak brethren, and he that sins against his weak brethren sins against Christ. But as this association claims no jurisdiction over the churches, each church must judge for itself, according to fact and circumstance."

So much for an Anti-masonic testimony 79 years ago among the oldest Baptist association north of the Warren, in the State of Rhode Island.

2. The next instance of action by this body of churches occurred only five years later, in 1803, as recorded on the minutes of their annual meeting at West Stockbridge, Mass., Eld. Justus Hull moderator, and Eld. Lemuel Covell clerk, of a body of 44 churches and 4,300 members, represented by their delegates and pastors, 70 or 80 present usually, men of character and discrimination.

The following query had been propounded to the Association in 1802 by the church in Providence, Saratoga county, and a committee of three ministers and one layman, Elds. Blood, Gray and Warren, and Bro. Hezekiah Mason, was charged to consider it and report the next year. So at the session of 1803 this response came, and was unanimously accepted:

"In answer to the query of the Providence church, viz: Is honor done to the public cause of religion where an association has published advice in their minutes to the churches not to allow their members to associate with Freemason lodges, and have declared against it, and yet give fellowship to brethren of other associations who do the same, and call on them to take a seat in the Association? the committee report: We think it proper to insert in our minutes that there are numbers of our brethren, and some of our churches, who cannot walk in fellowship with those brethren who join with and frequent the Masonic society, when they know it is a grief to their brethren; and that some have joined with that society to the grief of others, which has been, and still is the cause of much difficulty in many of our churches, and has repeatedly occasioned trouble in this Association. This has given rise to the remarks published in the 14th section of our minutes for 1798 on that subject. In order to prevent any further difficulty of that nature we wish now to be fairly and fully understood: That, as to the propriety or impropriety of Freemasonry we do not, as an Association, undertake to determine. Yet we freely say, that inasmuch as our brethren do not pretend they are bound in conscience, by any rule in the word of God, to unite with that fraternity; for them to form a connection with them, or frequent their lodges, when they know it is a grief to their Christian brethren, and makes disturbance in the churches, in our opinion it gives sufficient reason for others to conclude they are not such as follow after the things that make for peace, and things whereby one may edify another (Rom. 14:19); but rather are such as cause divisions and contentions, contrary to the doctrine we have learned (Rom. 16:17); and, of course, if they continue obstinately in such practices, ought to be rejected from fellowship; and, consequently, it is not reasonable for us to invite them to a seat in our Association. We therefore answer the query from the church at Providence in the negative.

"Yet we do not wish at present to have this resolution so construed as to interrupt our correspondence with sister associations, but to have it continued. If there be any brethren in any of our churches or sister associations who live in the practice of frequenting the Masonic lodges, we flatter ourselves that such churches and associations, after hearing our minds of the subject, will not feel disposed to grieve brethren among us by sending such of their members as delegates to this association."

Was not this a wise and needed testimony against a growing evil by the fathers of this large body of disciples? And why should they not have accepted this report unanimously, as they did, and spread it out on their minutes for 1803 (pages 8 and 9), for all to read? Like faithful watchmen upon the walls of Zion they saw the danger coming and gave timely warning, which was not without its salutary influence to restrain, though it did not fully cure the evil. And why should not all Baptist churches and associations at the present time inform themselves in regard to the evils of secretism, now so rife in the land, and act accordingly? Are they such slaves to public opinion that they dare not assert their right to "prove all things," by a candid discussion, "and hold fast that which is good," while they "have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them." [See Eph. 5:11—13.]

3. Again, in 1828, another occasion arose for action, when the divided Waterford church sent two sets of delegates to this body, and they were compelled to meet the question by a decision against the Masonic party. And in 1830, after passing a strong temperance resolution for those days, the following record is found on page 6 of the minutes:

"On motion—Resolved, That this association recommend to brethren belonging to the Masonic fraternity to satisfy the churches with which they are connected, that all allegiance to that institution is forever absolved."

And the next year, 1831, the following action is recorded: "With regard to the request from the church at Waterford, we answer, that as an association we have no power but to advise, but are of the opinion that Speculative Freemasonry is an institution whose obligations and tendency are hostile to Christianity, and we advise the churches to have no fellowship or connection with it, and that all their members should be required to wholly separate themselves from it." (Minutes p. 6.)

Thus for successive years did this body disfellowship the obnoxious order after the murder of Morgan, and bear its testimony in various acts against it.

And once more, in 1844, we find the following testimony, following resolutions against slavery and intemperance:

"WHEREAS, The peace and harmony of the churches seems again to be endangered by the existence and revival of secret associations, very much to be dreaded, and which may be prudently avoided, therefore Resolved, That the institutions of Freemasonry and Odd-fellowship, and all secret combinations, are alike entitled to our unqualified disesteem, and that we recommend to the churches composing this association to take immediate measures expressive of their utter disproval of the same."

Elder Joseph W. Sawyer, once a Knight Templar before Morgan's abduction, was the moderator this year, and Elder C. W. Hodges of Bennington, was clerk. About this time it was supposed that Freemasonry was dead in the land, though some feared its reviving and also feared other secret orders that had begun to spring up from Masonic eggs, which, in fact, as we now see, have yielded whole broods of societies that swarm in the land like the frogs of ancient Egypt.

But I must notice the action of the younger associations on the subject. Of the Hudson River body we can say but little on this score. As a matter of course, having the four cities of Albany, Hudson, Troy and Schenectady within its bounds, the churches were liable to be overrun with Masonic influence if not with members of that order, so they would not give a very clear testimony against the craft.

And the Berkshire body, formed in 1827, has made no record that I am aware of against Freemasonry, though some of its ministers and members, if not entire churches, have been opposed to the order, and would have expressed themselves clearly on proper occasions with the light of the Cynosure shining upon their minds, surely.

But the Stephentown body, dating from 1832, the youngest in the sisterhood of the associations, planted itself at once upon Anti-masonic ground by a resolution in the following words:

"Resolved, That in our opinion Speculative Freemasonry is an institution whose obligations and tendency are hostile to Christianity, and we advise the churches to have no fellowship or connection with it, and that they require their Masonic brethren to absolve themselves from all allegiance and give satisfactory evidence to the churches."

In regard to the Saratoga body, formed in 1805, as already noticed, the whole brotherhood of ministers and members were pretty strongly impregnated with the Anti-masonic spirit, so that their position was well known before the public in its early history as well as in its more mature prosperity. An incident recorded in their minutes for the year 1826, at their anniversary at Salem, New York, where they had 29 churches and 3,550 members, will show that they had kept up a testimony on the subject. The following is recorded:

WHEREAS, The Bottskill church manifested a dissatisfaction with the churches for holding in fellowship members who frequent Masonic lodges and appear with their badges on at their celebrations,

Resolved, That Elder Barber have liberty to read the result of a council held in Bottskill the 2d of November, 1808, on the subject of Masonry. Wherefore,

Resolved, That each church in the Association be requested to write their views on this subject to the Bottskill church previous to the next session of the Association." [Saratoga minutes for June 28, 1826, pp. 6, 7.]

The Bottskill church reported this year, 1826, 547 members, and in 1808 had 231, the strongest church in the whole body for many years, and with its able pastor maintaining unceasing war with Freemasonry, and all other secret societies, as it was attaining this strength and vigor.

And as late as the year 1847 the Saratoga body in full session at North Galway, passed the following:

"WHEREAS, Secret societies, under various names are becoming prevalent through our State and country, and are drawing many members of Christian churches and even ministers of the Gospel into unnatural and improper association with worldly and wicked men; therefore,

Resolved, That the Association regard it a violation of the principles and rules of the Gospel for brethren of the ministry or for members of churches to connect themselves with such societies; and that we affectionately and earnestly exhort all our brethren to abandon such union, if formed, and avoid it if not formed." [See minutes of 1847, p. 10.]

This year the body was composed of 29 churches, 20 ordained ministers and 3,056 members, and gave a strong testimony against evil.

I come now to notice the Association in my own county, of which I also know the most personally. The Washington body, formed in 1827, gave the following utterance in a rule of decorum at its organization, as printed in the first minutes, p. 4: "Whereas long experience has shown that the subject of Freemasonry, when introduced into an Association, has been productive of much evil, without effecting any good, we therefore refer that subject to the wisdom of each church, and forever close the doors of this Association against it." And this was not strange for adhering Masons, as some of the pastors and brethren were at that time, though the sequel showed that when men might appoint God could disappoint their expectations on this subject. For their surroundings became such, and the discussions around them so warm for years that a change soon came over the spirit of these men of God, so that in June, 1829, the following state of things was put on their records. After resolving themselves out of an associational state into a conference for the purpose, one leading minister moved and another seconded a preamble and resolution, in view of the great agitation of the "churches of our order on the subject of Freemasonry," to invite a convention of the churches, to meet in August at Adamsville, "for the purpose of taking into consideration this all-absorbing subject, and recommending some uniform course to be pursued by the churches, which may allay the present excitement," etc. The two ministers moving for this convention were Masons, and felt anxious for the craft which was in danger. But in a year or two one of them, Elder Geo. Witherell, renounced it, which was the occasion of dividing his church at Hartford, of two hundred and fifty members, a minority seceding and claiming to be the regular church in the town. But failing to secure the large house of worship they erected a smaller one, and ran a separate course for a dozen years, when, in 1843, they became united, and so continue to this day.

But in August, 1831, some seven churches from the Washington and Saratoga bodies united in forming the Bottskill Association at Greenwich, whose testimony was given in the second article of their constitution, and more fully explained by a resolution at their first meeting, October 13, 1831, at Hartford, in these words:

"Resolved, That the following is our understanding of the second article of our constitution: No church, which refuses to apply the laws of Christ, or does not apply them, for the entire removal of Speculative Freemasonry from the church, by holding their members who are Masons, to leave it, as a moral evil, and confess their wrong according to the requirement of the Gospel, for having participated in that evil, shall have a seat in this Association."

Elder Nathaniel Colver, then a renouncing Mason, was pastor of the Kingsbury church, which became divided for a few years until the storm blew by, and reported herself again, in 1836, as a united band in the new Association soon to be described.

The Bottskill body in their first circular or address in 1831, written by the clear-headed Witherell, justify their course to their brethren at large for the decided ground they had taken, planting themselves on the promises of God to carry them through the trials in prospect before them. The seven churches represented had received 438 by baptism that year, making a total of 1,336 members. This body held only four annual sessions before the leaven of Gospel testimony and discipline had wrought such a change in the Washington body, among whom they dwelt, that in June, 1833, they passed the following in open session:

"Resolved, That we, as an Association, decidedly disapprove of the institution of Freemasonry and recommend to the churches to treat it as they would any other evil."

And then it is recorded that "brother H. F. Baldwin, of the recognized Baptist church in Hartford, (the seceding one) gave an expose of the views and proceedings that his church had taken against Masonry, which was found to be in accordance with the foregoing resolution, and therefore gave satisfaction.

Resolved, That the same be inserted in the minutes. [See Washington minutes for 1833, p. 6.]

And now the results of a kind and faithful testimony begin to appear. By a mutual affinity of feelings and principles the brethren of both bodies came to long for a real union in one body, which was finally accomplished at Hartford on the 10th and 11th days of June, 1835, when the Washington Union Baptist Association was organized, at which the writer was present, as a delegate from the White Creek church. Nearly every church of the two bodies came into the union, in all 17 churches with about 2,640 members, of whom 243 had been baptized the year previous. And so far had the Anti-masonic leaven, and the grace of God tempered all hearts, that they united on the following basis as the 6th article of the new constitution: "Speculative Freemasonry, in our belief, is a moral evil, and should be treated as such; and churches ought to require an acknowledgment of it from their members who are or have been Masons." Thus God wrought to unite his people, after a long distraction, and now after many years this Association of 24 churches and 3,349 members is about to hold its 43d anniversary in the pleasant village of Glens Falls, Warren county, New York, on Tuesday, P. M. June 5, 1877.

But while many, and possibly most of these churches have held a sentiment adverse to Masonry since the union took place, some have let down their testimony against it, and the body has given no delivery since 1847 as I can find on their minutes. That year a report "on secret societies" written by Judge E. D. Culver (now of New York city) was read and published in the minutes, discussing more especially the character and tendency of Odd-fellowship, which had then come up as a substitute for Masonry, for a time, and which recommended the following to be put on their minutes, which was adopted, viz:

Resolved, 1. That this Association disapprove of the institution of Odd-fellowship, deeming its secret character of dangerous tendency—its ceremonies, claims and obligations, many of them, as incompatible with the character of a Christian; and, taken as a whole, of deleterious influence upon the interests of religion.

2. That we affectionately recommend to the churches composing this body to treat this the same as any other moral evil; endeavoring to rid themselves of all connection with it, and by kind and timely admonition to guard against its entrance within their bodies.

It might have been stated that in 1842 a revised constitution had been adopted that ignored entirely the testimony of that of 1835 against Freemasonry and left the ship to drift as it might on the sea of indifference. This was done partly, we may presume, because they thought Masonry had received its death blow by the free and full discussion and exposure of its inside character and claims, and partly because the surrender of its lodge charters by the thousand through the land, and the secession of so many of its devotees made it unnecessary longer to hold it under restraint, as it could never again disturb the peace of the churches.

But the good brethren overlooked the words of the wise man in Eccl. 1: 9. "The thing that hath been is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done; and there is no new thing under the sun." So it has turned out that when a good result had been wrought under God's leadership, in the deliverance of the churches from Masonic rule, they were taken unawares, by a wily foe, that, with true serpentine cunning was aiming to regain by stealth what he had fairly lost in open conflict with God's truth, wielded by his servants and people. And now this is the situation in all the churches. In all these associations there are many of Anti-masonic principles, but they are not known to each other, and for peace sake (as it is counted) in their churches, do not avow their deep-felt convictions at all. Hence a few Masonic members, holding the balance of power in each church, as in the associations, these conscientious Anti-masons are kept quiet, and the sly managers have it all their own way.

O for an Edmond Ronayne, or some thundering voice from God's Word and providence to arouse the churches of Christ to their duty in all this region and throughout the land!

But I forbear, fearing I shall both exhaust all your space and the patience of your readers, should you print this long historical sketch of times of trouble in Zion which I shared with others in the years gone by. May God direct his people in the matter, and save his churches from confusion, and give them another deliverance.

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 25, 1877.

OBITUARY.

Died at Delavan, Wisconsin, on the 11th inst., Miss Laura A. McKee, aged sixty-three.

The deceased was a native of Vermont. She embraced religion at the age of seventeen, and soon united with the Baptist church, which connection she maintained creditably till 1845, at which date she became a resident of Wisconsin. She believed in practical Christianity, and entered heartily into every work of reform. She was dissatisfied with the conservatism of the churches, and therefore ceased her connection therewith, as being too tardy in reform work. She publicly lectured and privately labored for temperance and anti-slavery and moral reforms, and took a deep interest in the Anti-masonic movement. Hence she was regarded as an ultraist, but she was true her convictions of truth and duty. Her influence for good as a teacher is now seen and appreciated by many living witnesses. But more than all the quiet and pervading influence of her private character can be fully known only by her intimate friends.

For nearly twenty years she had been in feeble health, suffering from a partial paralysis, causing her to be less known in public life, but her interest in the cause of human improvement never abated.

E. L. H.

There is in every ordinance of the Lord that which is peculiar to itself.

They are the wise whom God esteems wise. They are the wise whom God makes wise.

The Home Circle.

"GOD KNOWS."

[An emigrant ship recently foundered in a storm, and of the two hundred and twenty who went down, only one—a little child—drifted ashore. When the waif was laid at rest from her troubled baptism, somebody asked the question, "What name?" and the reply was, "God knows." A gentleman present, tonched by the words, caused a headstone to be erected bearing only this: "GOD KNOWS."]

An emigrant ship with a world aboard
Went down by the head on the Kentish coast,
No tatter of bunting at half mast lowered,
No cannon to toll for the creatnres lost.
Two hundred and twenty with speechless lip
Went staggering down in the foundered ship!

The heavens were doom and the Lord was dumb,
The cloud and the breaker were blent in one,
No angel in sight—not any to come!
God pardon their sins for the Christ his Son!
The tempest died down as the tempest will,
The sea in the rivnlet drowse lay still,
As tame as the moon on a window-sill,
The roses were red on the rugged hill—
The roses that blow in the early light
And die into gray in the mists of night.

Then drifted ashore in a night-gown dressed,
A waif of a girl with her sanded hair,
And hands like a prayer on her cold blue breast,
And a smile on her month that was not despair.
No stitch on the garment ever to tell
Who bore her, who lost her, who loved her well,
Unnamed as a rose—was it Norah or Nell?

The coasters and wreckers around her stood
And gazed on the treasnre-trove upward cast,
As round a dead robin the sturdy wood,
Its plnmage all rent and the whirlwind past.
They laid a white cr.ss on her home-made vest,
The coffin was rnde as a red-breast's nest,
And poor was the shrond, but a perfect rest
Fell down on the child like dew on the west.

A ripple of sod just covered her over,
Nobody to bid her "Good-night, my bird!"
Spring waited to weave a quilt of red clover,
Nobody alive had her pet name heard.
"What name?" asked the preacher: "GOD KNOWS!" they said,
Nor waited nor wept as they made her bed,
But sculptured "GOD KNOWS!" on the slate at her head.

The legend be onrs when the night runs wild,
The road out of sight and the stars gone home,
Lost hope or lost heart, lost Pleiad or child,
Remember the words at the nameless tomb!
Bewildered and blind the soul finds repose,
Whether cypress or laurel blossoms and blows,
Whatever betides, for the good "GOD KNOWS!"
"God knows" all the while, our blindness his sight,
Our darkness his day, our weakness his might!

—B. F. TAYLOR.

POWER FROM ON HIGH.

Dr. Miner, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, in an address delivered in Boston, related the following experience: "When a young man in 1850, I was preaching in Lebanon, Connecticut. Lebanon was an old town, thickly populated in the days of the Revolution. It was the first of July, between haying and harvest, when no one expected a revival. The Spirit of God came, and the work commenced. I preached a sermon to a crowded house; had never asked for a demonstration of feeling, but then asked them to rise for prayer, and a large number of young people arose. Great feeling was manifested. I appointed an inquiry meeting.

"But in one section of that town was a band of infidels and spiritualists—very wicked men. They heard the notice, and sent word they were going to attend, and put questions to the young minister, and break up the revival. I was greatly troubled, and laid the matter before God; then went to two or three men of faith and prayer, and asked them to the meeting. When Wednesday night came the lecture room was filled—a large number present being interested for their souls.

"The infidel band came and appropriated a part of the house. I made known the contents of the letter; then read the account of the Pentacostal miracle, and said the Spirit of God is able to thwart these men. I then prayed, and such power came upon the meeting that the brethren near me fell from their seats to the floor, apparently lifeless. When I was through praying, one of them was able to cry, 'O Lord, take the cup of trempling out of the hands of thy saints, and put it in the hands of thine enemies.' That moment those men cried out as if touched with a hot iron. They writhed in agony.

"The man who offered the prayer went to the leader of the infidel band, a wicked man, a bully, and who seemed like some wild animal, and said, 'Get down on your knees.' He dropped on his knees instantly. Three days and nights he went without eating and sleeping, saying, 'I am going to hell and I ought to go.' He was converted and became a preacher. His father was converted, and became a preacher. Back of all lies the fact that the mother had been praying for them twenty years, when they in their wickedness had prevented her from going to the house of God. A great revival followed. And that experience, that baptism of the Spirit, has been worth more to me in my life and work than all else.

JONAH'S ONE SERMON.

Jonah was but one man, and he preached but one sermon, and it was but a short sermon as touching the number of words, and yet he turned the whole city, great and small, rich and poor, king and all. We be many preachers here in England, and we preach many long sermons, and yet the people will not repent and convert. This was the first fruit, the effect, and the good that his sermon did, that the whole city at his preaching, converted and mended their evil living and did penance in sackcloth. And yet here in this sermon of Jonah is no great curiousness, no great clerkliness, no great affectation of words, nor of painted eloquence; it was none other but, "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be destroyed!" It was no more. This was no great curious sermon, but a nipping sermon, a pinching sermon, a biting sermon; it had a full bite; it was a rough sermon, and a sharp, biting sermon. Do you not here marvel these Ninevites cast not Jonah into prison? that they did not revile him nor rebuke him? They did not revile him nor rebuke him, but God gave them grace to hear him and to convert and amend at his preaching. A strange matter, so noble a city to give place to one man's sermon.——Bishop Latimer, 1530.

WORK AMONG THE INDIANS.

Mr. Stanley Pumphrey, of England, a distinguished member of the Society of Friends, at a recent meeting in Baltimore, said that during the past autumn and winter he had traveled in Kansas and the Indian Territory among the thirty tribes, comprehending one-fourth of the Indian population of the United States.

They include some of the wildest and worst, like the Comanches and Cheyennes, and some of the most civilized, like the Cherokees and Creeks, with every shade of barbarism and semi-civilization between. I have thus had the opportunity of seeing the Indian under a variety of conditions.

Among the civilized tribes citizens' dress was universal, and a large portion of the people might have been passed undistinguished in the streets of large cities. They were successful at gardening, farming and cattle raising. The Cherokees have a good system of government, consisting of a Chief and Upper and Lower House, and an excellent code of laws framed on the model of the United States. Belief in one God and in future rewards and punishments is made essential to right of citizenship. Liberty of conscience otherwise is granted; the sale of strong drink is prohibited, and the observance of the Sabbath is sacred. Of the tribal revenue one-half is devoted to education and to the support of orphans. They have eight common day schools, with attendance varying from thirteen to forty. Two large brick buildings are occupied as high schools. They have lately erected an asylum for their orphans, blind, and helpless poor. The Cherokees have two newspapers, parts of which are printed in the native language, which has eighty-five letters, representiug all the syllabic sounds, so that when a child has mastered the alphabet it can read.

Every full-blooded Cherokee is entitled to a copy of the paper, and to others it is sold at a dollar a year. The Cherokee nation is now professionally Christian, and a large proportion attend public worship. The Bible is widely diffused, some reading it in their own tongue. Many have large farms and good orchards. All live in houses, and in the better ones it is not unusual to find sewing machines and other costly articles of furniture.

With the Creeks the progress has been not less marked. At the time of John D. Lang's visit most of them still wore the blanket; few had embraced Christianity; their old dances were kept up, and there was but one school in the nation. Now there are six schools, in some of which algebra is taught and scientific classes flourish. Their standard of piety is high, and they are truthful and honest. Like the Cherokees, they follow farming, and some of their apple orchards cannot be surpassed. The Choctaws and Chickasaws have now 66 district schools, with an attendance of 1,500 scholars. Several of the members of the Choctaw Legislature are preachers, working like the ministers of the Society of Friends, without pay. One farmer, a half-breed has 2,000 acres of land in Indian corn. The Christianization of these tribes is due chiefly to the labor of Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians.

Speaking generally, the produce raised has increased ten fold. Some of the religious meetings are very interesting. In one of his sermons a Delaware chief said: "Life with us all is getting shorter. When I see our children well-taught I have hope. Let none say it is too late to turn to God; let none say it is too soon." No tribe perhaps, has made more astonishing progress than the Modocs, whose treacherous assassination of General Canby and the terrible war that followed are fresh in remembrance. We recall the long and determined resistance in the lava beds which cost the United States a larger number of their troops than there were Indians in the tribe. Captain Jack and his followers were at last worn out rather than conquered. Since then the Modocs have been raising corn and cattle and working with unceasing enterprise. Bogus Charley has put up a good-sized house for himself and a better one for his ponies. Steamboat Frank, another of the tribe, was repairing his chimney when we called to have an interview. The general sentiment of the tribe was that they wanted to live in peace. All their children are sent to school and learn readily, giving very little trouble. The boys are taught to farm and the girls to do house work. Religious meetings are kept up at six points in this agency under the charge of Indian preachers, one of whom is Thomas S. Dana.—Christian Worker.

Children's Corner

Robert of Lincoln.

Merrily swinging on brier and weed,
Near to the nest of his little dame,
Over the mountain-side or mead,
Robert of Lincoln is telling his name:
"Bob-o'-link bob-o'-link,
Spink, spank, spink!
Snug and safe is that nest of ours,
Hidden among the summer flowers.
Chee, chee, chee!"

Robert of Lincoln is gayly dressed,
Wearing a bright black wedding-coat;
White are his shoulders and white his crest,
Hear him call his merry note:
"Bob-o' link, bob-o'-link,
Spink, spank, spink!
Look, what a nice new coat is mine,
Sure there was never a bird so fine.
Chee, chee, chee!"

Robert of Lincoln's Quaker wife,
Pretty and quiet, with plain brown wings,
Passing at home a patient life,
Broods in the grass while her husband sings:
"Bob-o'-link, bob-o'-link,
Spink, spank, spink!
Brood, kind creature; you need not fear
Thieves and robbers while I am here.
Chee, chee, chee!"

Modest and shy as a nun is she;
One weak chirp is her only note.
Braggart and prince of braggarts is he,
Pouring boasts from his little throat:
Bob-o'-link, bob-o'-link,
Spink, spank, spink!
Never was I afraid of man;
Catch me, cowardly knaves, if you can!
Chee, chee, chee!"

Wm. C. Bryant.

A Stranger in the School.

On a warm day, a large school of boys and girls were conning over their lessons. The teacher tried hard to keep order, to make all take to their studies, to help those who needed aid, and to make all happy. He opened the doors and windows to give them fresh air, but all would not do. Some felt discouraged with their lessons, some felt sleepy, some felt cross, and everything seemed to drag. By-and-by the heavy tread of a foot on the door-steps was heard, and, without knocking, in walked a hard-faced man, somewhat old in years, but with a firm step. The children at first felt afraid of him, but they soon found out that beneath his hard looks there was a bright eye, a pleasant smile, and a kind heart. But instead of sitting down and staring at the school, he sat down by the side of a little girl who was trying in vain to get her spelling-lesson. There were tears of discouragement in her eyes.

"Well, what's the matter with our little one?"

"O sir! I can't get my lesson! It's so long, and the words are so hard, I can never can learn them!"

"Let us see. How many of those words are there in one column?"

"Fifteen, sir."

"And how many columns in your lesson?"

"Three, sir."

"Very well. That makes forty-five words to be learned. How many of these are easy, so that you can spell them at once? Count them."

"Twenty-five, sir."

"Then you have twenty left which you call hard. Now take the first one, look at it sharp, see every letter in it, count the letters, see just how the word looks. Now shut your eyes, and see if you can still see just how the word looks. Spell it over softly to yourself. There, now, you spelt it rightly. Now do so with the next word, and the next, till you have them all."

"O sir! That is very easy. I can get my lesson now."

Then the visitor went to a boy who was puzzling over a sum in arithmetic. He was discouraged and almost cross.

"Let us see. What's the matter here?"

"This sum, sir! I can't do it, and every sum grows harder and harder! It seems as if the man who made the book tried to see how hard sums he could put down."

"I see. Now what's the rule by which this sum is to be done? Repeat it. Very well, only you have not said it quite right. Turn to it and see. There, now, you left out one important link. You now understand the rule. Try the sum now, putting in the part you left out."

"O sir! it's easy now. I see, and I can now do them all."

"Yes, but you must not be thinking about your ball, and kite, and play. You must give all your mind to the thing you are studying, and then it will all be easy."

The stranger next sat down by a boy who was trying to commit the declension of a noun in the Latin grammar. Over and over he had repeated it, but alas, he could not make the memory hold it. He was ready to throw down the book.

"Hold there, my boy! Don't look so discouraged. Take your pen and carefully write down that declension. See how every word is written, and what letter ends every case. There, now, is every one right? Yes! Well, shut your grammar, turn over your paper, and on the other side write it all over again from memory. So ho! How many mistakes have you made?"

"Two, sir!"

"Very well. Put away that bit of paper, get another and try it again, till you can write it without a single mistake. You can say it then, for writing will fix it in the memory."

Thus he went from seat to seat, and helped all. The scholars forgot the heat. All had their lessons, the teacher smiled and praised them, and all were very happy. Just as he was leaving the teacher thanked the stranger, and hoped he would soon call again.

"Oh!" said he, "just send for me at any time, and I will come and give any one a lift."

"Pray, sir, by what name shall we ask for you?"

"Mr. Hardstudy, sir, at your service."—John Todd.

Walking Fish on Dry Land.

If in this country one met a troop of fish walking along a dusty road, he would perhaps be justified in thinking that the age of fairy tales had come again, when frogs wooed kings' daughters, and birds held sage conversations on every tree. In some foreign lands, however, walking fish are common enough. There is a fish found in the sea around Ceylon, of so grotesque an appearance that a picture of it would look more like a wild dream of the artist than a representation of a living object. This singular creature is one of a group in which the carpus form arms that support the pectoral fins, and thus enable the fish to walk along the ground almost like a quadruped. On the rocks of Ceylon, washed by the surf, there are other little walking-fish which run up the wet stones with the utmost ease and rapidity, and climb up the smooth face of the rocks in search of flies. Many of the fresh-water fish of the same island possess the power of leaving their native element, and returning to it again after long pilgrimages on dry land. When the pools they inhabit get low in the summer season, they start off, and led by an as yet unexplained instinct, shape their course through the grass to the nearest considerable body of water. The fish most often seen on these excursions is a species of perch. It grows to about six inches in length, the head is round and covered with scales. The expedition is made generally at night or early in the morning, whilst the grass is wet with dew. In its distress, however, it is sometimes compelled to move by day, and Mr. E. L. Leyard records that on on occasion he met a number of them traveling along a dusty road under a broiling sun.

Boys should remember that the only sure road to success is along the route of industry, honesty and temperance.

A Thread Telegraph.

A cheap telegraph useful for certain purposes, can be made in this way: Take two tinned cylinders about the size of a small dice-box, say three inches long by one and one-fourth inches in diameter; cover one end with parchment or bladder, forming a drum head. Pierce the center with a pin and insert a strong thread, and make a knot to prevent its being withdrawn. With the other end of the thread (which may be of any length, say one hundred yards or more) do likewise with the other cylinder, and the telegraph is complete. By keeping the thread tightly drawn in order that the vibration may be perfect, a person speaking or even whispering in one cylinder can be distinctly heard by another holding the other cylinder to the ear.

Would not such home-made pocket telegraphs be very useful in factories, on farms, in the army and in many other situations too innumerable to mention.—Scientific American.

Puzzle Drawer.

New Sharon, Iowa, May 28, 1877.

Dear Editor: I send an answer to Josephine French's puzzle, May 24th, which is "Monmouth College;" also to Nellie M. Gurnea's, same date, which is "A humbug boxed up." I agree with her in having such a name as this, for it can be nothing else in the world. It is a pity that there are not less "humbugs boxed up" in the world.

I send an enigma, if it is worth publishing I would like to see it in the paper.

It is composed of 20 letters.
My 1, 2, 8, 17, 10, 7 and 18 is what is written or spoken by way of introducing.
My 14, 15 and 16 is a word used extensively in business.
My 3, 4 and 12 is the name of a card.
My 6 and 5 is a personal pronoun.
My 9, 10 and 16 is to bruise.
My 11, 16, 19 and 11 is to hit with the foot.
My 13, 14, 15, 16, 9, 10, 19, 18, 20 and 8 comes from the head of the whale.
My whole is an adage we often hear quoted. Allison J. Cope.

Albion, Iowa, May 26, 1877.

Mr. Editor: Father takes your paper and as I am somewhat interested in the Puzzle Drawer, I will send the answer to A. J. Cope's puzzle which was in the paper of May 17th, which is "William Morgan," and also send one myself, which is the following:

I am composed of 14 letters.
My 8, 9 and 6 is a color.
My 5, 6, 3, 10 and 11 is a female name.
My 6, 13, 7 and 4 is something we all should keep out of.
My 12, 1, 4 and 11 is my first name.
My 4, 9 and 14 is a number.
My 2, 5 and 10 is something to catch fish in.
My whole is a church free from all secrecy. Yours respectfully

Ruth Beach.

ENIGMA.

I am composed of 20 letters.
My 12, 8, 4, 5, 6 and 7 is a man's name.
My 9, 12 and 16 is a domestic fowl.
My 4, 5, 3, 4, 5 and 12 is a girl's name.
My 9, 10 and 11 most people like cooked with eggs.
My 12, 3, 4, 18 and 19 is a kind of tree.
My 14, 19 and 18 is a number.
My 7, 6, 8, 9, 17, 16 and 12 is used in harvesting.
My 14, 12 and 20 is good to drink.
My 7, 2, 8 and 12 is small animals.
My whole is the town, county and State I used to live in. Charlie.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO, 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death. cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freema- shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents —

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know- nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty. and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion. An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100,

TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill,

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan. in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents
Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.
BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention.

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.
BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.
Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid... .....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.
By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

One club of ten has been received this week from Rev. W. P. McNary, Bloomington, Ind., who writes:

"I hope to be able to add some subscribers to this club during the year—now that I have a club to add to at this rate, $1 50."

Four small clubs have been received. We are glad to make so good a report this week.

Joseph Smith, Corinna, Maine, writes:

"It is my intention to secure a few subscribers for the Cynosure."

W. B. McFail, Vassar, Mich., writes:

"If it were not such hard times I could get up a large club here. Many say they will subscribe as soon as they get the money. I expect to see a great victory here soon."

Where is the next club of ten coming from?

Three hundred and fifty-eight subscriptions expire during the month of June. Please renew promptly.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING JUNE 2, 1877.—From S Avery, P Allen, C D Brooks, S H Brown, J Barrett, J Bartholomew, J Barningham, H P Butler, J R Baxter, E D Conant, W Crawford, M Carnes, J Denning, A J Flesher, Mrs Ellen S Fox, M Good, R Green, J S Hickman, H H Hinman, L Hayden, A Hard, J Lautz, W McNary, S E Orvis, S Y Orr, E Ronayne, J Reid, J P Stoddard, J M Stevenson, B F Smith, J M Snyder, J Smith, C Taylor, L Taft, R G Wood, J Wilkins, A Wright, Mrs R R Wilcox, R Wait.

Books sent Week ending June 2, 1877.

By Mail.

W W Kender, Rev J Noodeneir, T Milligan, W W Clark, F M R Spendlow, John Pitz, P Boulware, G W Stover, W H Beour, J S Sproul & Co., L R Holbrook, H Martin, S L Wood, J R McCormick, R Frederick, S Devon, D W Bennett, E S Orvis, Wm Jenkins, W S Morrison, W Hunter, F P Hoydon, G H Warner, T Adams, J S Freeman, N W Young, M Ferrin, C S Yeaton, H G Gardon, R A McAyeal, F Neidert, J Haerhouse, J Smith, W G Travis, W T Sensenly, J Horr, W O Clay, E T Walenda, J H Titer, J C Welsh, Mrs M Carmes, T Lutke, A Hard.

By Express.

Rev J T Hobson, A R Fatzer.

Tracts Sent.

James Low, T B McCormick.

Donations to Tract Fund.

J C Welsh, 50c; Rev. A Hard, $1.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" "	2 "	13.00
1	" "	3 "	15.00
1	" "	6 "	25.00
1	" "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

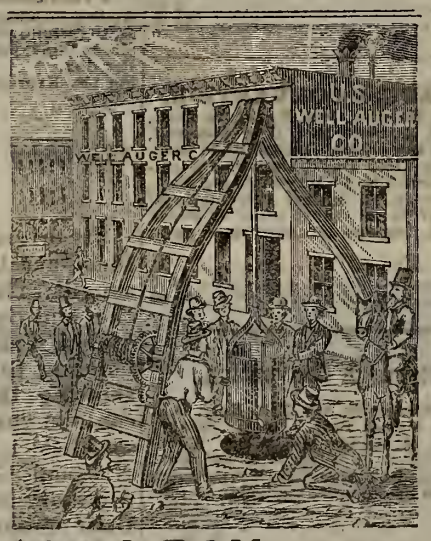
MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, June 4, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 49½	1 54
" No. 3		1 35
" Rejected		45
" Minnesota	1 60	1 70
Corn—No. 2		45¾
Rejected		40¾
Oats—No. 2		37⅝
Rejected		28
Rye—No. 2		70
Bran per ton		11 00
Flour—Winter	7 25	10 25
Spring	4 75	8 25
Hay—Timothy	8 00	9 50
Prairie	5 50	7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7½	8
Lard per cwt		9 22½
Mess pork, per bbl		13 30
Butter common to choice roll	14	24
Cheese	8	14
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs		10½
Seeds—Timothy	1 50	1 65
Clover		6 25
Flax	1 55	1 90
Potatoes	95	1 20
Broom corn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6¼	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 00	10 50
Fencing	10 00	10 50
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	32
Unwashed	18	23
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	5 50	6 00
Good	5 10	5 40
Medium	4 75	5 00
Common	3 25	4 20
Hogs	4 90	5 15
Sheep	3 00	5 00

New York Market.

Flour	$4 00	11 00
Wheat—Spring	1 58	1 77
Winter	1 75	1 95
Corn	54½	62½
Oats	40	68
Rye	78	80
Lard		9¾
Mess pork		14 70
Butter	10	21
Cheese	6	12
Eggs	14½	16
Wool	13	50



$25 A DAY SURE PAY.

This Well Auger will bore 2 wells 50 feet deep in one day, and from 1 to 4 feet in diameter. It bores through any kind of earth, hard pan, slate, coal and is a success among boulders and quicksand, where all other augers fail. Read below what great men say about it:

☞We, the undersigned, know of the reputation and merits of the above Patent Well Auger, and recommend it to the public as one of the most important, useful and practical inventions of the age, and we feel confident, from our knowledge of it, that a man can take it into good territory and make $25 per day clear of expenses. A. J. Faulk, Governor of Dakota Territory. Gov. O. A. Hadley, of Arkansas. Ex Governor Dow, Texas. Rev. D. Oglesby, of Richview, Ill.

The following persons have this Auger in operation. Write to them (enclosing a stamp), and see how they like it: Geo. M. Ward, Salem, N. J. (a good old quaker). S. M. Payne, Wilsonville, Shelby Co., Ala. Rev. E. Berry, Gratiot, Licking Co., O. C. F. Walter, Concord, N. C. C. W. Herrand, Lapeer, Mich. Gen. J. A. Lockhart, Van Buren, Ark. County rights for sale. Every Auger warrented. Send stamp for our large Auger Book, and address.

U. S. AUGER CO., St. Louis, Mo.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE OLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr' Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book, Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t,]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE,

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc. Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth, $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo.; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.37.—WHOLE NO. 377. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
The Annual Meeting	8
Commencement at Wheaton	8
Practical not Stereotyped Prayers	8
A Successor of the Apostles	8
Martin Luther on False Worships	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
The Reign of Christ (poetry)	1
A Practical Sermon for the Times	2
Tradition the Basis of the Masonic System	3
The Revised U. S. Discipline	3
Christ's Brotherhood	3
The Jesuit Conspiracy in France	4
OUR FOREIGN LETTER:	4
REFORM NEWS:
The Work Laid Out in Ohio; From California; Cook and Rathbun in Northeastern Indiana	4-5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Christianity of the Higher Degrees; The Cloven Foot; Freemasonry a Political Institution; Our Mail	6
GOSPEL MEETING:
The Prophet Daniel	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	13
News of the Week	13
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE DUPAGE COUNTY CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Will hold its annual meeting at Wheaton, to commence on Sabbath evening June 17th at half past seven o'clock, at which time addresses may be expected from Dr. J. B. Walker, Rev. A. T. Riley and Rev. G. A. Coleman. The business meeting will be held on Monday and on Monday afternoon and evening able addresses may be expected. Let there be a full attendance of all who believe in pure religion and republican equality.

A. D. FREEMAN, Pres.
E. D. BAILEY, Sec'y.

THE CORPORATE MEETING OF THE N. C. A.

The annual meeting of the Nat'l Christian Association will be held, at 10 A. M. on Wednesday, June 20th 1877, at the Carpenter building, No. 221 W. Madison street, Chicago, for the election of officers, accepting reports and transacting any other business proper to come before said meeting.

L. N. STRATTON, Pres.
H. L. KELLOGG, Sec'y.

List of corporate members of the N C.A.

S. B. Allen,	D. R. Kerr,
J. K. Alwood,	D. Kirkpatrick,
I. R. B. Arnold,	Wm. Leuty,
J. W. Bain,	O. F. Lumry,
J. L. Barlow,	D. W. Lyons,
J. A. Bingham,	J. G. Mattoon,
J. Blanchard,	A. M. Milligan,
C. A. Blanchard,	Moses Pettengill,
Jesse B. Blank,	Woodruff Post,
M. R. Britton,	Isaac Preston,
O E Burch,	Peter Rich,
Nathan Callender,	B. T. Roberts,
Philo Carpenter,	T. E. Roy,
Abel E Carpenter,	Alexander Small,
H. Cogswell,	Geo. E. Sovereign,
J. A. Conant,	J. P. Stoddard,
E. S. Cook,	L. N. Stratton,
E. A. Cook,	L. Taylor,
John Dorcas,	J. G. Terrill,
John Finney,	Sylvanus Town,
Aaron Floyd,	A. Wait,
A. D. Freeman,	J. B. Walker,
H. H. George,	J M. Wallace,
C. R. Hagerty,	Wm. Wishart,
I. A. Hart,	J. W. Wood,
Edward Hildreth,	Aaron Worth,
G. B. Hubbard,	J. R. Wright,
H. L. Kellogg,	Milton Wright.
E. B. Kephart,

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

The clamor for opening the Centennial Exhibition of last year on the Sabbath has hardly yet ceased to echo. American Christians will never cease to rejoice that the managers were faithful to American principles and withstood the attack of Romanists, infidels and foreigners. The same ground had to be fought over again this year on the opening of the Permanent Exhibition in the same buildings, but the anti-Sabbath forces were too weak to hold up their banner long. The managers took the whole subject under consideration lately, and after careful deliberation decided unanimously that under no circumstances would they allow this to be a Sabbath-desecrating exhibition.

Chancellor Howard Crosby wrote last fall, "I am heartily in sympathy with every movement toward preventing war, and I fully believe that a nation need never engage in a bloody conflict with another. There are ways of conference, arbitration, faith and prayer open to all by which to escape the the horrors of brutal strife. Men ridicule the last two ways, but they are strongest of all." The movements in the East seem about to prove a wonderful illustration of this truth. For more than a month Death has marshalled his hosts on either side of the Danube, but the flood swollen to an unusual degree has kept them apart. Now this no longer prevents, the jealousy of a distant nation calls another halt, and we may hear in another week that the peace party in Constantinople has become the stronger and that this strife is already practically at an end. We can almost cease to blame the British cabinet since its wrath has been so providentially turned to the praise of God. The dread of its interference has checked the Czar directly, while the greater opposition he has met from the Turkish forces has been inspired by the same cause; so that it has doubly acted to put off any decisive action of war. Delays may be continued until a peace conference will be the only action needed. The two strong measures which Dr. Crosby mentions may yet be victorious.

Simultaneously with the discussion of the question of eldership in the church at Wheaton last winter it was taken up in the Elder's Association of the Presbyterian churches of Chicago and continued in their weekly meetings for some two months. The argument of these gentlemen was almost wholly to prove that the elders of a church, according to their interpretation of the Scriptures, were pastors in every sense of the word, except that they were not expected to preach regularly a Sabbath discourse. The class-leaders of the Methodist Episcopal churches held a convention here also in the early spring in which the ordained ministry bore an equal part. The duties of a class-leader were pretty clearly defined by this gathering as those of a sub-pastor, sharing every responsibility in the "oversight" of "the flock of God" with the salaried minister. This meeting promises to develop into a large convention at Lake Bluff camp-meeting grounds, which is announced as a "sub-pastors convention." The Methodist journals are discussing the duties of the "class-leader as sub-pastor," and declare their conviction that if the duties of the sub-pastors were carried out in spirit and letter the membership of the church would be easily doubled every three years and the world would be brought to Christ within the century. The Presbyterian elders bore an equally strong testimony to the efficiency of their sub-pastoral system, which after all is so much like the Methodist that, except for the name, one could hardly find the difference. These meetings and discussions mark a return to the Scriptural government of the early Christian churches full of encouragement.

A few years ago when Jay Gould turned over at one time the sum of nine millions of dollars to satisfy a suit brought against him by the Erie railroad, few thought the scheming financier would ever again become a powerful manager in railway affairs. But he certainly has obtained the controling interest in the Union Pacific, Rock Island, Northwestern and Canada Southern roads in their last elections and lacks but little of directing the traffic between the two oceans. Few can realize that such great public interests are safe with a man of Gould's reputation.

THE REIGN OF CHRIST.

The groans of Nature in this nether world,
Which Heaven has heard for ages, have an end.
Foretold by prophets, and by poets sung,
Whose fire was kindled at the prophets' lamp,
The time of rest, the promised Sabbath, comes.
Six thousand years of sorrow have well-nigh
Fulfilled their tardy and disastrous course
Over a sinful world; and what remains
Of this tempestuous state of human things
Is merely as the working of a sea
Before a calm, that rocks itself to rest:
For He, whose car the winds are, and the clouds
The dust that waits upon his sultry march,
When sin hath moved him, and his wrath is hot,
Shall visit Earth in mercy; shall descend
Propitious in his chariot paved with love;
And what his storms have blasted and defaced
For man's revolt, shall with a smile repair.

* * * * * *

O scenes surpassing fable, and yet true
Scenes of accomplished bliss! which who can see
Though but in distant prospect, and not feel
His soul refreshed with foretaste of the joy?
Rivers of water gladden all the earth,
And clothe all climes with beauty: the reproach
Of barrenness is past. The fruitful field
Laughs with abundance; and the land once lean
Or fertile only in its own disgrace,
Exults to see its thistly curse repealed—
The various seasons woven into one,
And that one season an eternal spring:
The garden fears no blight and needs no fence,
For there is none to covet, all are full.
The lion, and the leopard, and the bear,
Graze with the fearless flocks; all bask at noon
Together, or all gambol in the shade
Of the same grove, and drink one common stream.
Antipathies are none. No foe to man
Lurks in the serpent now: the mother sees,
And smiles to see, her infant's playful hand
Stretched forth to dally with the crested worm,
To stroke his azure neck, or to receive
The lambent homage of his arrowy tongue.
All creatures worship man, and all mankind
One Lord, one Father. Error has no place:
That creeping pestilence is driven away:
The breath of Heaven has chased it. In the heart
No passion touches a discordant string,
But all is harmony and love. Disease
Is not: the pure uncontaminate blood
Holds its due course, nor fears the frost of age.
One song employs all nations; and all cry,
"Worthy the Lamb, for he was slain for us."
The dwellers in the vales and on the rocks
Shout to each other, and the mountain-tops
From distant mountains catch the flying joy
Till, nation after nation, taught the strain,
Earth rolls the rapturous Hosanna round.
Behold the measure of the promise filled:
See Salem built, the labor of a God!
Bright as a sun the sacred city shines;
All kingdoms and all princes of the earth
Flock to that light; the glory of all lands
Flows into her; unbounded is her joy
And endless her increase. Thy rams are there
O Nebaioth! and the flocks of Kedar there:
The looms of Ormus, and the mines of Ind,
And Saba's spicy groves, pay tribute there.
Praise is in all her gates: upon her walls
And in her streets, and in her spacious courts,
Is heard Salvation. Eastern Java there
Kneels with the native of the farthest West;
And Ethiopia spreads abroad the hand
And worships. Her report has traveled forth
Into all lands. From every clime they come
To see thy beauty, and to share thy joy
O Sion! an assembly such as earth
Saw never, such as Heaven stoops down to see.

—COWPER.

Honor to him who first, "through the impassible paves a road!" Such indeed is the task of every great man; nay of every good man in one or the other sphere, since goodness is greatness, and the good man, high or humble, is ever a martyr and a "spiritual hero that ventures forward into the gulf for our deliverance."—Carlyle.

A Practical Sermon for the Times.

PSALMS 2: 1-4.

"Why do the heathen rage and the people imagine a vain thing? The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take council together against the Lord and against his annointed, saying, Let us break their bands asunder and cast away their cords from us. He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision."

The juxtaposition of the terms "heathen" and "people" is by no means accidental nor exceptional. The heathen have always stirred up the people to oppose the true God.

In accordance with this fact we see that the heathen in Moses' time stirred up the people to make a calf of gold for them to worship. The only priest of the true religion on earth listened to them and made a calf of gold. Aaron has had successors all down the ages who have listened to the people and made them golden gods. Wheaton is no exception. It has its Aarons who give ear to the people that, urged on by the heathen, say, As for this Moses (Jonathan) that has led us to victory hitherto, he is a slow coach and a rough one at that. Make us gods of gold that we may be like our neighbors.

But this is a Christian country and we have no heathen.

Let us see. Adherence to and practice of heathen rites and ceremonies makes heathen in any country. Does anybody in Wheaton practice heathen rites?

The lodge and the heathen temple both have their sham mysteries. Indeed the highest Masonic authorties boldly claim that their mysteries are the spiritual successors of those of which, according to McKnight and other commentators, ancient and modern, St. Paul says it is "an abomination even to speak of the things done of them in secret."

In addition to their own authorities there is abundant internal evidence that these modern mysteries are the successors of the ancient heathen religions.

The first evidence is intolerance of the truth and persecution of its advocates.

Paul preached the true Gospel in Ephesus and when it was likely to be successful, the heathen whose false worship was endangered stirred up the people to make an uproar. Then as now they tendered a false issue. Idolatry, being itself a lie, makes its votaries false and ready to invent any lie they think will further their ends. They did not say it was their religion that was at stake, but their money interests.

A lie, or, as in this case, a half truth which amounts to the same thing, adhered to, always works destruction. Ephesus cleaving to the falsehood is now only a vast ruin. Money even though it should be realized, (and the devil is the prince of this world) when it is obtained by defection from the true religion, will certainly, sooner or later, bring the destruction which overtook those idolatrous Jews and Ephesians. But you are not going to forsake the true religion. So were not those Jews; for Aaron said of the calf, "These be thy gods that brought thee up out of Egypt." So said even Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who "made Israel to sin," when he had put up calves for the people to worship.

Another evidence that these modern mysteries are the true successors of the ancient ones is their horrible and bloody oaths. The votaries of each are bound by oaths that assume to set aside civil government and claim the right to put to death without the sanction of, and for offences unknown to the State; and that, too, in the face of the specific prohibition of the Saviour who says, "Swear not at all, neither by heaven nor by the earth, nor by thy head," meaning thy own life. Both are alike in that they are anti-republican, despotic governments within the State.

They are alike blasphemous in that they seek to make their god or gods party to violations of fundamental morality; thus attempting to make God responsible for the violation of his own law.

In the Scriptures idolatry is compared to infidelity between the sexes, and it is said of this false woman that "her ways are movable." Such is eminently the case with this modern false woman. In this uproar in the good town of Wheaton she has by herself and by her conscious or unconscious agents stirred up the people, by saying to one that the men she sought to destroy were not true to the temperance cause; to another, that they were in the way of his getting his lager; to another, that they had run the College into the ground by their Anti-masonry and squandered its funds; to still others, that they themselves were friends of the College and only wanted to increase the number of its supporters. Misplaced sympathy for one and unreasoning hatred for another, and when all other means failed mere brow-beating, were the means used to get names.

Her secret mandates have gone forth to all her minions. The disciple of Æsculapius is to frighten away the girls by telling them they are sick and must not study. Others are to say that the institution is no more than an academy and only falsely pretends to be a College; has only a few girls for students; its teachers are incompetent and do not attend to their duties. It is expected that others, honest persons who do not suspect the origin of these and similar calumnies will take them up and circulate them, not knowing what spirit moves them. As Tacitus makes the British chieftain say of the Romans, "They make a wilderness and call it peace;" so these spiritual descendants of pagan Rome seek to make Wheaton College destitute of students and then reproach her with want of children.

There being still other points of similarity between heathen religions, commonly so called, ancient and modern, and the lodge, we will name but one more, which if rightly understood is conclusive and proves beyond a doubt that these men practice rites that make men heathen.

Everything in nature has some mark or sign by which it is distinguished from everything else. So every religion has its mark or sign. The real sign of the true religion is the spirit of Christ in the heart, which like the mark of it, as given by the Revelator, the seal of God in the forehead, is invisible to unspiritual eyes. As the Apostle says, "We know that what the gentiles sacrifice they sacrifice to devils and not to God." So the true sign of a false worship is a lying and devilish spirit. We are also told in Revelations what the outward mark of the same is. The beast having seven heads and ten horns represented Rome and caused an image of itself to be made. Both beast and image had certain marks or signs. The prophecy points to the times in which we live. The thoughtful mind cannot fail to recognize in the secret empire that now grasps at universal sway over the minds and bodies of men the image of the Roman beast. Its spirit that would overawe or crush out by fair or foul means all opposition to its blasphemous pretensions and bloody oaths, are unmistakable signs that it is the beast. Its outward mark or sign is similar to his. The Revelator tells us it is made in (or by) the hands and in (or about) the forehead. No one dare deny that such signs or marks are given by some of the people of Wheaton who are the instigators of the present strife. God's Word tells you what they are marks of, viz., heathenism; and tells you, too, what shall be done with the men that make them. Along with the beast, the false prophet (that is, all heathen religionists) and the devil whom they all worship, they shall be cast into the lake that burns with fire and brimstone.

But I pass to the second division of my subject and seek to find what are some of the vain things the people imagine.

They imagine the papers they have been cheated into signing are honest papers and mean what they say, whereas the real animus of the whole is:

1. "Hatred of him that rebuketh in the gate."

2. A determination to break down all opposition to the secret idolatrous despotism that sits upon the people like a nightmare.

3. They mean, as explained by some of the persons most zealous in circulating them, that the writer of this after more than twenty-two years service, in which most of the time he has done two men's work for half a man's pay, must be turned out. All right, if he is either incompetent or false to the trust confided in him.

4. They mean that Pres. B., after seventeen years service, in which he has done what would be for other men thirty years hard work, and yet teaches with the vigor of youth - who has sunk the largest part of his previous earnings; has brought into the College in round numbers $100,000 that has either been expended in the county or is held as a fund, the interest of which is paid every year into this community; has indirectly brought in a much larger sum by the students he has brought here,—that he must step down and out at the request of men, many whom have never done anything either for the place or the College, but to hold their little dishes right side up to catch what they could of the droppings of other people's benevolence; and the part who have given anything have most of them received back many dollars for one in the increased value of their property. Such an act belongs to the same category with that of the Athenian demagogues who would not suffer that greatest of the heathen philosophers, Socrates, who spent his life in doing good to his fellow-citizens, to live out the little remnant of life beyond three score years and ten, but compelled him to drink hemlock; and the death of that other One, infinitely greater and more unselfish than either, for whose life the unthinking rabble clamored simply because He did them good and sought by His rebukes to free them from their sins.

But it is said he makes places for his own children. Admitting that the statement is true, would the persons that make the charge, if they had brains enough to start a newspaper or run a College, do differently? For good and sufficient reasons the world will never know, only as it judges from the envious and selfish character of the men that made the charge. But it is not true. Almost invariably the President's children have been appointed to fill places at the suggestion of others, and sometimes without his previous knowledge that it was contemplated, because they were judged competent and would do the work cheaper and better than anybody else. The real trouble with these men is that President B. could not bring himself to misapply the money of benevolent men to make places for men who were incompetent to fill them. We are now told that this ado was made and these papers signed and published to show how unpopular the President was at home. When so responsible a man as one of the supervisors of DuPage county was asked why he signed, he said that was just the question he asked when applied to for his name; and was told that "all the friends of the College" were signing, the President and all as he was led to believe from the statement.

They think that money can make a successful college, yet not a great distance from Wheaton is a college that has plenty of money and no principles that the world hates, yet has not succeeded in getting a hundred students. And another near institution, named for a great city, which has received vast donations, yet is threatened to be auctioned off under a mortgage of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

They imagine that at their request the Congregationalists as a body, many of whom are interested in three other colleges in the vicinity, will accept what they have steadily from the first refused; not out of any hostility, but because it is not according to their way of doing things. No college in the land is directly managed by a Congregational ecclesiastical body.

They imagine they are minding their own business, when if their neighbors should treat them as they are treating the Trustees they would think it an outrageous attempt to ruin their business.

"Kings" and "rulers" in the language of this time and country means judges, supervisors, town councils and justices. So we see now as in ancient times kings and rulers counciling together against the Lord.

Every dollar contributed to Wheaton College has been with a fair understanding of what principles the College would teach, and far the largest part of it by men who would not have given one cent for such a college as the men who stir up the present uproar want.

If the Trustees, under the circumstances, were base enough to grant their petition, they would, for apparent, not real, gain, become as false as the practice of idolatrous rites has made the prime movers in this matter.

The preacher has tried to set forth the unvarnished truth, "naught extenuating and setting down naught in malice."

The issue of this strife is not doubtful.

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again,
The eternal years of God are hers,
While Error wounded, writhes in pain
And dies amid her worshippers."

The outcome of the whole matter is shadowed forth in the last verse from the Scriptures: "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision."

LAY PREACHER.

FREEMASONRY AMONG THE CELESTIALS.

"There is a mysterious Freemasonry spread all over China and its dependencies, together with Java, Singapore, Malacca and Penang, called the society of the United Three, known to Europeans as the "Triad Society," originally formed for purposes of mutual benevolence, but now a very dangerous institution. The "three" are heaven, earth and man. The late Dr. Milne made the following researches into this difficult subject. The members of it, calling themselves brethren, are the most depraved of the dregs of the people, the idlers, gamblers, opium-smokers and such like vermin; their objects are, at home, mutual assistance, theft, robbery, overthrow of regular government and aim at political power. Abroad, plunder, mutual concealment of crime, and defense against established authority. Their government is a triumvirate of elder brethren, who have a larger share of the plunder than the rest. They are bound together by oaths and certain initiatory rites, and make themselves known to each other by secret signs."—Forbes' five years in China.

TRADITION THE BASIS OF THE MASONIC SYSTEM.

FROM PIERSON'S TRADITIONS.

The following are the authentic Masonic traditions on which the Entered Apprentice degree of Freemasonry is founded. I have here carefully enumerated these lying legends in order that the numerous readers of the Cynosure may be better enabled to understand on what a flimsy foundation this stupendous system of humbug and iniquity is based as well as to enable them to refute the false claim sometimes put forth by Masonic apologists that Freemasonry is founded on the Word of God. In future numbers I shall give the traditions of the Fellow Craft and Master Mason's degrees.

The preparation in the adjoining room has the following grand traditional pillars for its support:

Tradition of the Ancient Mysteries.

Of the Sign, Token and Word.

Of a Typical and Legendery System.

Of Moses by the Egyptians.

Of Moses by Josephus.

Of Moses by the Arabians.

Of Moses as regards his comliness.

Of Moses from the Jewish Rabbis.

Of Moses regarding his escape from Egypt.

Of Vishnu by the Hindoos.

The ritual and monitorial work is supported by the following magnificent array of traditionary proofs:

Tradition of Solomon's Temple by the Ishmaelites.

Of Solomon's Temple by the Hebrews.

Of Solomon himself by the Mohammedans.

Of the Lambskin and various classes of workmen at the Temple building.

Of Abraham and the twenty-four inch guage.

Concerning high hills and idol worship.

Concerning high hills before the flood.

Concerning low valleys and sacred crypts.

Of the creation and of the pillars Wisdom, Strength and Beauty.

Of Jacob's Ladder by Moses.

Old and obscure of Jacob's Ladder.

Of Jacob's Ladder by the Arabians.

Of the descendants of Seth.

Of the square and its use among the Egyptians.

Of St. John and his Grand Mastership.

Of St. John's initiation about A. D. 35.

Of the Brothers of St. John.

Of St. John and a secret theological society.

Of St. John of Jerusalem and the Crusades.

Of St. John and 27,000 Scotchmen.

Of St. John the Baptist.

Thus you see we have the undoubted authority of thirty-one traditions why a minister of the Gospel should run around at night in a semi-nude condition, blindfolded and cable-towed and worship the sun in a Masonic lodge while he is being initiated as an Entered Apprentice Freemason.

Well may it be said of these Masonic leaders: "In vain do they worship me teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. For laying aside the commandment of God ye hold the tradition of men." Mark 7: 5-9. And again, "Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition. Matt. 15: 6. And how appropriately applicable in our day is the warning of the apostle Paul to the Collossian Christians: "Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world and not after Christ." Col. 2: 8.

E. RONAYNE.

THE REVISED DISCIPLINE.

The section of the Discipline of the United Brethren in Christ as revised and adopted by the late General Conference at Westfield is as follows:

SECTION XXII.

Secret Societies.

We believe that secret societies are evil in their nature and tendency; that they employ solemn oaths and obligations for evil and unworthy ends; that they bind men together in brotherhood with wicked and unholy persons, and bring them into fellowship not consistent with the teachings of our Lord and his apostles; that they tend to produce jealousies and alienation in the church of God; that they employ the forms of religion in unwarranted services and ceremonies, not in the name of Christ nor founded on the merits of his atonement; that they enjoin under oaths and solemn obligations obedience to laws and regulations unknown to the civil government within which they are organized, or to any government divinely ordained; that they pervert the Holy Scriptures to foolish and unholy uses; that their ceremonies encourage many of their adherents in hopes of eternal life without a truly evangelical faith; that they are contrary to that openness of conduct and guilelessness of character enjoined by the Word of God, and that Christians should not be connected with them, for the apostle expressly says: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers; for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? and what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?" "Wherefore come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and will be a father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord almighty."

1. Any member or preacher who shall connect himself with a secret society shall be regarded as having thereby declared that he prefers such society to the fellowship of our church, and shall be considered as having withdrawn from the church.

2. No person shall be permitted to join our church while holding membership in a secret society.

3. If any member or preacher, at the time of the passage of this rule, be connected with a secret society, and does not discontinne such connection within six months thereafter, his failure to do so shall be regarded as a refusal to comply with the condition of membership as found in our Constitution (Article II., Section 7,) and his severance from the church shall be entered on the church records.

4. If any member or preacher connected with a secret society shall deny or conceal such connection, he shall be tried in the manner set forth in Sections 19 and 20 of our Discipline, to determine the facts of the case.

5. In cases of withdrawal from the church, as recognized and set forth in this rule, the preacher in charge shall announce the facts to the class, and see that the records of the church correspond with the facts. If the person be a member of the quarterly or annual conference, the conference to which he belongs shall see that a record of the fact and manner of withdrawal is made upon its journal.

6. It shall be the duty of the pastor to instruct our people upon the evils of secret societies, and to endeavor to prevent them from being ensnared in such evils, and, so far as possible, to reclaim all who may have joined any such order.

7. Provided: That in case a member has been deceived and thereby drawn into any of those societies commonly called minor orders, he may be borne with for a reasonable time, if there be reason to believe that he may be reclaimed; but the time shall not extend beyond twelve months in any case.

The report was signed by Revs. M. Wright, N. Castle, J. W. Hott and M. L. Tibbets.

CHRIST'S BROTHERHOOD.

While we are taught in Scripture that in Christ dwells "all the fullness of the Godhead bodily," we are also taught that he, the "one mediator between God and man," is emphatically "the Man Christ Jesus," and as such, possessing a human spirit, and soul, and body, and partaking in all the mental and physical sorrows, toils, and trials of humanity, is "touched with the feeling of our infirmities," having been "in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." He came not to this world in the fullness of manhood, and strength, and power, but he came as a little child in Bethlehem's manger, a humble babe on Mary's knee. He brought himself so low that he might enter into closest relation and fellowship with us, and for this cause he is not ashamed to call us brethren. In his lowly infancy he became the brother of every feeble, wailing, helpless babe; in his boyhood he became the brother of every little boy beset with all the snares and temptations of this life; in his manhood he became the brother of every toil-worn, burdened man. He knew the hindrances, the temptations, the trials of the poor, for he shared them all. He was a brother in labor and suffering, he was a brother in hunger and thirst, he was a brother in weakness and weariness, a brother in poverty and distress. He had sorrow as we have, and needed consolation as we need it. He knew joy and friendship, and fellowship, and love. He felt the bitterest pangs that ever fell to mortal's lot, and he became obedient to the death that had passed upon a sinful race, and in view of which his flesh shrank back, though his heart was strong in God. In the anguish and sorrow of Gethsemane and of Calvary he kept near to the broken heart of a lost world. When he rose from the dead, and looked again upon the faces of his disciples, separated from him by the mysterious changes of death and resurrection, still he recognised their unity and brotherhood, and said "Tell my brethren I ascend to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God;" and now, from his throne in heaven, he watches us in all our weakness, knows us in all our frailty, and is not discouraged at our failings, nor surprised at our sins, for he knows us more fully than we know ourselves, and can have compassion on us when we are sinking in despair. Earthly brethren cast us off; they may despise us for our poverty or hate us for our sins; but he, the anointed Son of God, who knows us better than any mortal can know, and feels for us as only one of like nature can feel, is not ashamed to call us brethren, is not ashamed to welcome us to his fellowship and love; and in the great day, when we shall gather at his throne and hear his voice, he shall still recognize the dear relationship of his people; and the good which has been done to "one of the least of these his brethren" he shall count as having done to himself.

Let us, who have known and loved the Lord, take courage in the thought of this divine brotherhood; let us stretch out our weak and trembling hand, that it may clasp the hand of him who is strong with the strength of Omnipotence, and gracious with the grace of God. Let us lovingly approach his mercy-seat, telling before him the story of our sorrows and of our needs, casting all our care on him who careth for us, and who hath said he will never leave us nor forsake us.—The Christian.

The Jesuit Conspiracy in France.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune writes thus concerning the late change in the French Cabinet:

Paris, May 18.—I presume there can be no need to state now that the insane act committed the day before yesterday by Marshall McMahon was planned and dictated by the ultramontanes. They have been the plotters, but their combination rests upon what they believe to be the universal floating hatred of all the conservative classes in France against the republic; it is perhaps here that may lie the great mistake, and in this very misapprehension of facts will be found a relative safety. The whole is involved in such complicated intricacies that if I were to describe till to-morrow I might fail to make a foreigner understand what the several divisions and subdivisions of individual interests are in this threatening imbroglio. I will first establish the general outlines of the situation: We are, at the present moment, in France, and have been for many years, in the agonies of two crises; one is special to France, the other is common to the French and to every other European nation since the days of Rousseau and Voltaire. This last is, namely, the struggle between superstition and free thought; the struggle special to France only is that which is going on between the absolutely exhausted upper or so-called governing classes and the entire mass of the country itself. It is because they feel the shadow of the future growing over them, and because they begin to hear the heavy footfall of advancing time, that the condemned of all denominations rise in wild revolt, and from time to time seem to fight together for the same cause; but the shades of their creed are different.

The large portion of what I would call the vulgar Catholicism of France demands a new papal crusade. But, on the other hand, the overwhelming majority of the country is determined upon peace, and will, under no pretext, be dragged into a war with Bismarck, and find itself exposed to a second invasion.

These are now the two conflicting forces: The bishops, the pilgrims, the miraculists, on the one side, and the country on the other, represented, since the speech he made on the 4th of May, by Gambetta. During the days between the 4th and the 16th, the Duc de Broglie scarcely left the marshal's side, and, coming in by back entrances, he was at all hours prompting evil deeds to the weak, narrow-minded, and opaque intellect of the soldier-president. Strange to say, there was one obstacle to success that had not been dreamed of; the marshal was not to be inspired by the glories of a purely clerical campaign; he was not disposed to fight for the temporal power of the Pope against the Pope's strong adversary, Prince Bismarck. No. Presented thus the marshal was inclined to go on tolerating his ministry, and the intriguers of the right center had to mask their batteries so well that the interpellations fixed for the 14th in the Senate had to be given up. But the Jesuits are more cunning than the poor drill-sergeant with whom they have to deal, and their champions have persuaded the chief of the state that the question is now one of purely political, nay, administrative import, and that all merely clerical partisanship has been set aside.

Our Foreign Letter.

Italy at Last—A Glorious Land, with a proviso—Genoa—A City in a Deluge and what may be seen of it—The Statuary of the Campo Santo—Pisa, its Celebrated Tower and its Decay.

We leave Nice and enter Italy, the land whose very weeds, the poet declares, are beautiful. The ride to Genoa is through a country finer than any we have yet seen. If an atmosphere pure and evermore refreshingly delightful as we journey along; if oranges of gold hanging on arching branches of numberless orchards and temptingly near; if brighter lemons and brilliant blossoms; if wooded hills and picturesque villages on sloping heights; if frowning cliffs, occasionally crowned with dilapidated ruins of castle towers; if the near sea, visible now in a vast expanse of blue beauty and anon seemingly lovelier still as it unexpectedly appears from behind hills and through kindly openings in the dark foliage; if any or all these have that which can chain the eye and captivate the sense, then surely he needs no pardon, who, thrilling with joyful exultation at the vision of them, repeatedly signifies by eager utterances the intensity of his delight and admiration. I must remark, however, that such attractiveness of country and climate is peculiar only to certain portions of Italy. Taken as a whole, this land of which there are so many glowing descriptions, will come far from meeting the extravagant expectations which many have formed concerning it.

Magnificent for situation, the chief commercial town of Italy (130,000, pop.), the city of palaces, and the historic home of Columbus—all this is Genoa, yet went we not into ecstacies over it. If approached from the water and viewed under favorable circumstances, doubtless it fully merits its boasted appellation, "The Superb." To say that it rained torrents all the while we were at Genoa hardly conveys the right impression. The water came in neither drops or rivers. It simply fell, quietly, heavily,—"fell all at once," that about expresses it, if only there had been some cessation to the falling. Equipped for the occasion we sallied forth. The marble palaces looked gloomy and unimposing. The statue of Columbus had a momentary interest for us. We walked streets so tortuous that we never knew when or where we would come out; so steep that hardly could we make headway up them over their slippery stones; and some of them so narrow that by going in single file barely did we pass with expanded umbrellas between the lofty buildings which seemed to tower so high above us upon either hand. We saw connecting two elevated portions of the city a paved thoroughfare, built upon mighty arches, beneath which were houses six and seven stories high. We wearied of innumerable churches with no end of marble of the peculiar shop life, and of the formidable city walls against whose base we saw the mad gulf waves breaking grandly.

Some weeks after this, at Rome, I met a gentleman newly from Genoa, who informed me that it had been raining there steadily for six weeks and that it was still raining when he left. Somewhat incredulous had I indeed been in other lands when hearing of the unparalleled and wondrous "Italian skies." That Genoa experience convinced me. Since then I have believed them inexhaustible.

Oddly enough the one bright remembrance which I have of Genoa is its Campo Santo, or burial ground, without the city walls. I saw there recent statuary, to me more pleasing than any it has been my fortune to see in Europe, the world-famous gems of the endless sculpture galleries of the Roman Capitoline Museum and of the Vatican not excepted. Had not I heard numbers of other persons guardedly expressing a similar opinion I certainly would never have ventured such a bold assertion. The monuments and many of the tombs are under arcades which extend entirely around the general burial ground in the center.

To speak of this place as it deserves would require a letter of itself, and I have but little space left in which to say that we visited Pisa, and saw what everybody sees who goes there—a group of buildings without parallel, the Baptistry, Cathedral and Campanile or Leaning Tower, all of marble. The latter is a circular structure 179 feet high and thirteen feet out of the perpendicular, rising in eight different stories, which are surrounded with half columns and six colonades. Of course we ascended and looked over its lower edge and knew that it was falling. Gallileo must have had a cool head to have made from its summit as he did repeated experiments regarding the laws of gravitation.

Venice and Verona each have a Campanile varying perceptibly from the perpendicular and Bologna has two, one shorter than the Pisa tower but more inclined, the other less oblique but far loftier. The world knows, however, but one leaning tower; and rightly, for none of the others are for a moment to be compared with this light and marvellous structure. Near this tower is the Campo Santo of Pisa, with chapel frescoes (some representing fearful subjects) and monuments. One of the early bishops of the city had fifty-three ship-loads of earth taken from Mt. Calvary deposited in it in order that the ashes of its occupants might repose in holy ground. What I saw of the environs and general situation of the place did not impress me favorably. The hills some miles distant were enveloped in mist and the intervening plain, owing to recent rains was under water. For a like reason the Arno was but a mad torrent of mud and water, seemingly determined to sweep away in its course if possible the very city which it serves. The Pisa of to-day exhibits but few tokens of the populous and powerful Pisa of history, the famous rival of Venice and Genoa. The traveler sees but few objects of interest and hastens his departure. Standing in an out of the way corner, alone and close to the walls, even her very marvels of art, antiquity and marble, which I have briefly named, present the strange spectacle of fearing lest they may sully their crumbling magnificence by contact with the city, which once they were only too proud to adorn.

B. T. Pettengill.

Reform News.

The Work Laid out in Ohio.

Dayton, O., May 31, 1877.

Dear K: I think results will justify the change of the time of our Convention from July to October 23d. It meets the approval of all from whom I have heard in the matter, and will add to the interest felt by our brethren here who are already enlisted in the work, but who felt that there were very serious objections to July. Arrangements are being made to entertain a large number of delegates in families, and a large and commodious hall, one of the finest and most central in the city, has been secured on very favorable terms. It is furnished with all modern improvements and conveniences and easy of access by horse cars from all parts of the city.

The State of Ohio has been divided into twenty-three districts of from two to four counties each and men selected to canvass these districts, to hold meetings, secure the appointment of delegates, raise funds, etc. Dr. Wishart, of Ontario, assisted by James Auten, of Galion, accepts Morrow, Crawford, Richland and Marion counties as his district. Rev. W. G. Morehead, of Xenia, assisted by Revs. Richey and Campbell accepts Green, Fayette, Clinton and Highland counties. Rev. Wm. Dillon and Rev. John Kemp take for their field Preble, Montgomery, Butler and Warren; and so on through the State. But few of the persons assigned to these different districts have yet been heard from, but it is safe to assume that such men as J. K. Alwood, R. H. Pollock, R. B. Taylor, J. P. Lytle, D. Yant, James Wilkinson and men of their stamp will be ready to co-operate to the extent of their ability. I shall leave this matter of the State largely to Bro. Dillon and the State organization, who will, with the present arrangement of time, be able to awaken a general interest and secure a united effort of the friends on the whole district. There is no time to lose; just enough to do the work well if entered upon at once.

I hope to effect a similar arrangement in other districts and believe that if our friends will co-operate the plan will succeed. This plan will not interfere with lectures by parties going to and from the Convention, but will rather aid such work. But very few could arrange for lectures in the busy month of July, but the present arrangement will be far more favorable. It will give ample time and come in a favorable season with a good moon. I have just come in from Xenia and have written in haste. I expect to go to Cincinnati to-morrow to arrange with Bro. French for that district. J. P. STODDARD.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

BRO. COGSWELL AT WORK.

WOODLAND, May 24, 1877.

DEAR BRO. KELLOGG: We arrived safely in Sacramento on the 7th of May, but only to find a very dry time and many parts of the State wholly without crops of grain, so there is much suffering among the cattle as the result. In this region they will have more than was at first anticipated. The failure causes persons to talk of hard times, and it looks very discouraging for lecture work this year.

I visited Bro. Beck, the Treasurer, and with him made an arrangement for lectures to commence at Woodland. Woodland has a population ot some three to five thousand; is a very nice city, but full of the different orders of secrecy, especially Freemasonry. Here we have a college with a president and four professors. Attached to this is our church to which the president preaches.

This church is full of Masonry; in it is the lecturer for this district with others numbering some seven or eight of the most wealthy. So the church has a nominal existence, but it is the most spiritually dead of any I have seen. I felt its withering influence very keenly. It being vacation, I preached there Lord's day the 20th, morning and evening. Some Masons came to hear, while others remained away.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings I lectured in Washington Hall, the largest in town, to a most repectable audience of several hundred citizens, with a good sprinkling of Masons, among whom was the lecturer for the lodges. I kept them from 8 to 9:30 P. M. each evening with the best of attention; and I must say that the Masons behaved as gentlemen, making no interruption though I talked freely and very earnestly, combating every theory that Masons use against Anti-masonic movements, etc.

THE RESULTS OF THE LECTURES.

It made a town commotion. Masonry and the lectures have been the theme every where. All kinds of theories have been introduced causing investigation, denials, acknowledgements of right, etc., etc. Among many results were several I will name. One man who was thinking of joining the lodge, ordered three dollars worth of books and said the information and exposure was worth a hundred dollars to him, as it would keep himself, his father and brother from it. Another, a lady with whom I lodged, said her oldest son was going to join, but he came home and said he had enough of it, no Masonry for him, and she rejoiced only as a mother can do when her sons determine for the right. I found the lectures strengthened the hands of some, confirmed the faith of others, so that I felt, although I have passed through much sacrifice, I was doing good, and in this way saving souls.

From Woodland I went up the country to lecture Thursday and Friday evenings and preach on Lord's day. Here I had a rural congregation, but some Masons, one of whom had followed us nine miles to hear what I had to say, but he went home quietly. Every thing passed off satisfactorily, leaving the seed to take root, and on Monday I returned to Woodland. Thus ends my first movement in California. More anon.

AN OPINION ON THE CALIFORNIA WORK.

In another letter, dated May 29th, Bro. Cogswell says:

"In looking at the field here I find that Masonry and secret orders rule the country to an alarming extent. Masonry is everywhere; it has had no check, no exposures. My public work was the first, they say, ever heard of. Outside persons are ignorant of the system, and many suppose that he who undertakes to speak of these things, who has been once obligated, is doing a very bad thing; is not to be believed or trusted; in fact he is looked upon very much in the light of Morgan of old.

This State should have four lecturers in it before it will be very effective, and I should feel justified under the circumstances in asking the Association to form a fund for the salaries of lecturers for this work if the Publishing House fund was made up. This is a great work, and one of danger, more so than in the Eastern States. Men appear more lawless, more reckless, desperate and bitter than in the East. Here too are needed the books of the Association to enlighten the minds of the people. Many good citizens never heard of any Association formed for this work, or works written exposing it. I find that when it can be prosecuted with vigor friends will arise everywhere, as there is a great amount of good feeling lying slumbering, which only needs awakening to become active and helpful in the work. There is little hope of effecting much until after another harvest, as many cannot pay anything at all, their crops being all dried up. As I am preparing to be away again to-day I cannot write more now only to send you an order for books, and others will follow for the Cynosure so soon harvest is completed which is now being gathered.

HENRY COGSWELL."

COOK AND RATHBUN IN NORTH-EASTERN INDIANA.

ALBION, Ind., June 7, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE: I once more wish to greet the friends through you. I am well and have been busy in my work, and what has surprised and gratified me is that through this busy season of plowing and planting I have, at nearly every appointment been greeted with full houses. While I feel this to be complimentary to myself it indicates a healthy state of growing sentiment in favor of our cause.

I have been in Wells and Allen counties; gave six lectures and found many warm friends, such as A. Housel, Halverstack, Clark, Porter, Hendry and the Rev. Herbst. For the first time in my lecture work I was headed off in my last appointment. The Masons had made many boasts of their desire to have lectures at Ossian and proposed to pay twenty-five cents each to a man that would lecture there. I made an appointment, but before the hour of opening a horse lecturer arrived, and without asking took possession of the meeting. Some people are wicked enough to say that it was a put up job by the Masons.

Returning home I rested a few days, then went to Lagrange county where notice had been given of a county meeting. Myself and all the noble friends in Lagrange were more than glad to meet Bro. D. P. Rathbun ready for work. Our first meeting was at the court-house on the evening of May 30th. The house was about full. I spoke twenty minutes; then came for two hours the arguments and eloquence of Rathbun like a resistless torrent. Every eye was fixed, every ear alert lest a fragment of a sentence or word should be lost. The meeting was closed and now came the Masonic programme. The audience was partly out and all were moving toward the door, when a call was heard: "Be seated; a gentleman wishes to say a word;" and quickly the Masons and Odd-fellows seated themselves, for I was told that this programme was discussed and planned ten days before. Up jumps J. C. Hewitt, editor of the Register, and stated that he was personally acquainted with Rathbun and that he was "a street drunkard," and many other equally and more slanderous remarks. He would swear to said statements and that ex-Judge McMasters, Ruggles, Spencer and others of Steuben county, New York, would confirm all he had said; then at a given signal Masons and Odd-fellows rushed to the door shouting, stamping and howling like demons, but the drill had been so perfect that it spoiled the acting; so transparent that good citizens were outraged. By uncommon efforts of brother Rathbun and the gentlemanly sheriff of the county they came back slowly. "Fair play," was called for, and Mr. Rathbun made a brief statement in defense of his character and promised by next day to make it good. He did so; others filed affidavits as to his personal and ministerial character; articles were clipped from several religious papers to the same effect. Mr. Hewitt being called upon by myself and others, refused to print them or make any acknowledgment. This conduct set the community to boiling. The intelligence of Lagrange will not stand by and see a worthless tool assassinate the character of respectable strangers. They came nobly to the rescue and we think that J. C. Hewitt, with all his degeneracy and want ofsense will not soon again be the cat's paw to pull chestnuts out of the fire for Lagrange Masons.

Our meetings closed on the evening of the 31st in the most happy mood. The friends there will not soon forget us, and we will place them in the bright pages of living memory. In the midst of so many it would be tedious to mention all, but we feel that with your help our common cause gained a victory.

Bro. Rathbun and myself arrived at Albion at ten A. M., ready for our breakfast. He assisted at the dedication of the Wesleyan church and on Monday evening lectured at Brimfield; Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at Albion; and it is not saying too much when I say that we never had better lectures in Albion. His lectures and personal deportment left a good impression. I go two nights to Green Center and am still ready for work. Yours truly,

S. L. COOK.

WHEATON COLLEGE LIBRARY
Wheaton, Illinois

Correspondence.

The Christianity of the Higher Degrees.

Watertown, Jefferson Co., N. Y.

Editor Cynosure: In conversation with our minister a few days ago (Rev. Mr. Putnam, pastor of the Boptist church) the subject of Masonry came up. He said it was none of his business if members of our church were Masons so long as they lived up to their church obligations. I told him it was my business, and thought it was his if they tolerated murder and rejected Christ in the lodge. If I understand rightly they do reject Him in the higher degrees and say, "crush the wretch."

Mr. Putnam said that was not so; it was a mistake. He had been told by a judge where he had formerly preached, who was a Mason and a prominent member of the church, and very liberal too, that Christ was not only recognized but honored in the higher degrees of Masonry. I would like to know which of us are mistaken.

Please answer through the Cynosure. Yours for the truth,

Mrs. Jeremiah Weaver.

Note.—In the Knight Templar degree an oath is taken to defend the Christian religion with the sword; but nothing is said of defending or maintaining its principles by a humble, self-denying life, as Christ taught. There are other references to Christ,but only such as ungodly men might make, with neither the temper or spirit of the Gospel. In the higher degrees still the infidel spirit of the lodge is shown most clearly as in the "Knights Adepts of the Eagle or Sun." Here religion is represented as a "monster" to be conquered, "a serpent" to be detested, "an idol" "adored by the idiot and vulgar."

The Cloven Foot.

Inquisitive minds, we are aware, have sometimes doubted whether the moralizing influences of the Masonic faith were sufficient to make men good enough to live—good enough to die. Such doubts as these grow up chiefly in the minds of those whose religious educations have been based upon the sectarian belief that the churches are always the repositories of all religious goodness and that those only are good who are open professors of some church faith.—Masonic Advocate.

The above extract shows the real spirit of Masonry. It is plain that sincere Christians who adhere to the lodge are duped, and we must try to undeceive them. Christian Masons are certainly ignorant of the real aims of the institution, and the little bribes they occasionally get serve to keep their eyes blinded. Bro. Ronayne and the Cynosure are doing a good work. The friends of reform are not idle in New Hampshire.

S. C. Kimball.

Austin Academy, N. H.

Freemasonry a Political Institution.

This charge is as uniformly denied by the adherents of the Masonic organization, as it is persistently put forth by its well enlightened opponents. Masonry, usually adroit and often covering its tracks, so as to conceal its advantages as well as its purposes, is not always over-guarded in its expression of facts. We find a statement in Mackey's "Lexicon of Freemasonry," page 452, worthy of attention. In a foot note, borrowing the language from Moore's Freemason's Magazine, he says:

"At a celebration of the Festival of St. John the Baptist, in 1844, at Portland, Maine, Right Worshipful Brother Teulon, a member of the Grand Lodge of Texas, in reply to a toast complimentary to the Masons of that Republic, observed: 'Texas is emphatically a Masonic country; all our presidents and vice-presidents and four-fifths of our State officers, were and are Masons; our national emblem, the Lone Star, was chosen from among the emblems selected by Freemasonry to illustrate the moral virtues—it is a five-pointed star, and alludes to the five points of fellowship.'"

These points of fellowship, quoting from Ronayne's "Handbook of Freemasonry," page 124, are:

"Foot-to-foot.—That you will be ever ready to go on foot and out of your way, if necessary, to assist a needy, worthy brother.

Knee-to-knee. — That you will ever remember a brother's welfare as well as your own in all your addresses to the Deity.

Breast-to-breast.—That you will keep inviolable within your breast the secrets of a brother Master Mason as your own when communicated to, and received by you as such, murder and treason excepted, and they only at your own option.

Hand-to-back.—That you will be ever ready to stretch forth your hand to assist and save a fallen brother (Jefferson Davis,for instance, as was done by the United States Congress, March 3, 1877, and as was attempted to be done at the Winnebago County Fair several years ago,) and vindicate his character behind his back as well as before his face, when falsely traduced(?)

Cheek-to-cheek—or mouth-to-ear. That you will ever whisper words of good counsel in the ear of an erring brother; in the kindest manner possible remind him of his fault and aid in his reformation—giving him due and timely notice that he may ward off approaching danger, if in your power."

Waiving the reprehensible and unlawful character of these conditions of Masonic servitude, no political party ever promised its adherents greater advantages than this conspiracy promises its craft in the above described points of fellowship. They are the very essence of partyism and selfishness. Remove these landmarks, and the institution would crumble into fragmentary atoms—would become like fine powder ready to be blown away with the first gust of wind. These are the boasted advantages and privileges of the order, and which a writer in the Masonic Token says, "Can never be enjoyed in common with the world"—privileges which "if indiscriminately bestowed," according to Webb, "would subvert the design of the institution."

Reverting to the paragraph we have quoted from Mackey, we ask why the boastful reference to the political and judicial power which Masonry has wielded, and still wields in Texas, if the institution be not one of political intention, looking to political aggrandizement? Why is Texas called a Masonic country? is it not from the political character of the power which governs it? Is not this statement verifying the charge that Freemasonry is a political institution? Webster defines politics to be "the science of government," and does not almost every Masonic writer inform us that Masonry is "the science of sciences—the art of arts?" Such is a common boast. If it is a "science of sciences and an art of arts" then it is a science and an art of governmnent; and if it is this, it is political. If it is political, it is to be watched, and we have proof of this necessity in the following statements taken from Green's Broken Seal, page 38, in reference to Morgan's abduction and damnable "taking off," and the power of the order to protect its guilty craft in the outrage. At a lodge meeting in Batavia, New York, in 1826, the Masons would vauntingly ask, "Who is your Governor? Who are your military officers? Who are your sheriffs? Who are your judges, and your jurors, and your county clerks? Who are your constables and justices of the peace? What can a mouse (meaning the government of the people) do with a lion?" And sure enough it did nothing, for the government of the State of New York for five mortal years in vain tried to bring the Masonic culprits to justice and at last gave up in despair! Do not Mackey and Green virtually verify each other? Does not the Masonic lodge talk revealed by Green plainly show the motive existing for governing Texas and every other State with the Masonic craft? Does not the revelation of Green add the cap to the climax of Mackey's statement? If Masonry is not political how comes it in possession of all the State governments of the South at the present time, and how comes it also that all those governments are harmonious in their purpose to overthrow the late amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and subvert and deny the rights of the colored people living within their several jurisdictions? It is said all the Cabinet officers of the present administration are Freemasons with the possible exception of Secretary Schurz. If this be so, does it not go far to explain the intent cordiale existing between that Cabinet and the Masonic rebel State governments of the South? Put this and that together.

J. H. H. Woodward.

Our Mail.

George Nolin, Monroe, Jasper county, Iowa, writes:

"I can find a good many men who believe that Mormonism has been revealed but who will not believe that Masonry has been revealed. On what grounds they base their belief I cannot say for I think there are ten times as many witnesses (and more credible) against Masonry than there are against Mormonism. I have about as much faith in the Christianity of one as the other. There were three votes cast here last fall for the American party, but they were not reported. I think you had better endorse the greenback theory in your platform,it takes well here."

J. T. Gardner, Uniontown, Bourbon Co., Kas., writes:

"I live two miles from Uniontown. There is a lodge of Masons there. It has about thirty members. It has been little better than a hotbed of drunkenness ever since it started. * * Over two years ago I put seventeen of Finney's books in circulation here and I have not heard of but two joining the lodge since. That was this last winter."

J. H. Bowen, Bethel, Ohio, writes:

"My heart wishes you success."

R. G. Wood, Brattleboro, Vt., writes:

"I think your paper has become a necessity for the times and ought to be read by every Freemason in the land. I think it has been the means of opening the eyes of some of the lodge men in Brattleboro,and I trust that others may find the light they so much need. Poor, benighted men, they need the pity and prayers of all Christian people."

Jason C. Bartholomew, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes:

"While trying to get a hall for Brother Hinman or some other of our leaders in the anti-secret cause I came across an unaffiliating Freemason and showed him J. H. H. Woodward's "Masonic Scoundrelism," for his signature. He replied by saying that he was willing but for one thing—and that was that he was actually afraid, stating that he had a mare, cow and dog poisoned and his barn set on fire, and that he went armed; that he did not consider his property or person safe; had lost confidence in the religious bodies, as they tolerate such society men as Christians; that he could not see much difference between the churches and the world. Now I have been acquainted with said person some twenty-five or thirty years, and know him to be a quiet man."

"S. E. Orvis, Waukesha, Wis., writes:

"I am letting as many read my papers here as I can get to read them and I send a few by mail. I prize every copy and am endeavoring to plan out a good time for this little town to come in God's good time. I get some encouragement, and many kicks and slurs through the agency of Masonic contempt, but I think I am past being hurt by that. The Lord was put to death even, by his enemies."

J. M. Stevenson, Washington, Iowa, writes:

"The next State Convention is to be held at Washington and I hope we will have Ronayne. I was at the Oskaloosa Convention and think it was conducted in an earnest, Christian manner."

Sumner Avery, North Eagle, Mich., writes:

"I am opposed to secret societies, Masonry in particular. I have no sympathy with it. I believe it to be a work of darkness and deception."

Joseph Smith, Corinna, Me., writes:

"I admire the tone and sentiment of the Cynosure. In my judgment it is the instrument which is destined to open the bolted doors of the secret dens of iniquity and blasphemy."

Rev. J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa., writes:

"I have just got moved to my charge down in the iron country near Pittsburgh again. I am elected delegate to the Convention by our conference and expect to be there if possible."

"Rev. A. Hard sends a new subscription and writes:

"Five years I have been working for this subscriber, having sent him the books by Finney, Green and Adams, all the sermons, all the tracts, and nearly everything that you publish. Don't I practice 'final perseverance?'"

W. B. McFail, Vassar, Mich., writes:

"Those tracts and supplements I received from you some time since are working wonders among the people in the line of reformation. I have lost the patronage of a good many since I began to oppose the lodges, but I care not for it. Neither do such things move me from what I believe to be the will of God."

Edmund T. Walenda, Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

"Last year at the Centennial several of your circulars were handed to me at the Book Department, Main Building."

He orders some Anti-masonic documents. Some seed falls upon good ground. It will bring forth fruit.

James Reid, Simsburg, Ct., writes:

"Three years ago I had your paper sent me through the kindness of Bro. Conant. Its sentiments were such as I have held for over forty years, and it has been my prayer for thirty-four years, since I became a Christian, that all secret societies (which I consider sinful, and deadly in their influence to everything that is good for the nation; and that which makes the church so unfruitful) might be destroyed. I know of nothing better in accomplishing this desirable end than the circulation of the Cynosure and tracts on this question and sustaining good men to lecture. God, it seems, has given such men, a goodly number, trusting in God for success."

Amos Ferrin, Ellington, N. Y., writes;

"I was twenty-eight years old when they took Morgan. By this you will see that I am old. I live within forty miles of the territory whence they kidnapped him. I have taken the Cynosure some nine years and expect to take it till death. We had Ronayne here for about six days. He showed the three degrees. The people were very much stirred up by his initiations."

Home and Farm.

HASTENING THE RIPENING OF FRUIT.—Acting upon the principle that renewal of the earth immediately surrounding the roots increases their activity, and accelerates the maturing of all parts of the plant, including the fruit, a New Jersey grower removed the earth about an early pear tree, eight weeks before the normal period of ripening, for a space of thirteen to fifteen feet in diameter, and to such an extent as to leave a depth of earth over the roots only two and a half inches, which would be thoroughly warmed by the sun. He was surprised, not only by the ripening of the fruit in the middle of July, but also by its superior flavor. In another experiment the removal of the earth from the north side of a tree, alone, caused the fruit on that side of the tree to ripen several days earlier than that on the south side. Frequent watering was of course necessary in the above experiments.

LATE SOWING OF TURNIPS.—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker writes: "In our general climate—say the average of the Connecticut shore going westward into Kansas, all the line for one hundred miles above it can and should be successful in growing a late crop of turnips. The best ground for them is an old sod turned over; next, an oat stubble, and last, an old-worked ground that has had no fresh or unrotted manure placed upon it this season. Any and all these grounds should be plowed four to five days before sowing, and then harrowed just before the sowing. Then sow the seed, and my advice is to use a good seed sower, by which the most perfect work is done, and that rapidly. The varieties that I would advise are the old White Dutch, Red Top, Strap Leaf and Long French. The first will be the most marketable, the second the best for your own table, until about midwinter, and then the Long French will carry the line through to April. As soon as the plants show a leaf above ground go over the patch with a sowing of plaster of paris, at the rate of one bushel to the acre, sowing it as well as you can on and along the rows. When you drill in your seed, make the rows sixteen inches apart, and work once through them with a horse and cultivator fitted to the width; then thin the plants in the row to four inches apart.

In speaking of birds, I especially intend to refer to our small-flying birds. Every man, I don't care whether his real estate be large or small, is bound by his own interest to make those friendly birds feel at home by setting out, about his farm and fields, boxes and rough contrivances for bird's nests. Such an open aviary would pay well. Wrens and blue birds take to them as robins do to the eaves of wood-sheds, swallows to the barnyards, and orioles to thickets. Birds are, through their eating millions of insects and worms, on which they mostly live, the best friends of all who plant and sow and who wish to reap, and they levy a very small tax on the different crops. Two small birds, for instance, eat one thousand worms in eight hours, and a swallow devours five hundred and fifty insects per day.—Hugo Preyer.

SCOURING IN SHEEP.—To prevent sheep from scouring when first turned to grass in the spring, give them no salt from the time they are turned out till after shearing; or, what we think is much better, let them have access to salt at all times, summer and winter. Either plan will produce the desired effect.

Newly set grafts should be inspected a couple of weeks after setting, in order to repair any cracking or opening in the wax. Wherever there is a crack or opening it should be carefully waxed over. It will do no harm to look after the grafts the whole of May.

A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker states that severe jarring of currant bushes at noon in a clear day will cause currant worms to drop to the ground, and not one in fifty will regain the bush. He had tried this method three years and saved his fruit.

COAL ASHES.—Bliss, the seedman, recommends the use of coal ashes for potato patches, and says that persons who are in the habit of throwing ashes away as useless are making a great mistake; that they are found by experience to be of great benefit in the culture of potatoes. Many ashes are dumped in the streets and alleys, when they could be used to improve the soil of our gardens. Save your ashes and use them for the purpose of manure. Wood ashes are counted among the first fertilizers, and they command a good price from those who know their value.

HEADACHE.—The adminstration of a brisk purgative, or a small dose of Epsom salts, twice a day, is a most effectual remedy for frontal headache when it is combined with constipation; but if the bowels be regular, the morbid processes on which they seem to depend seem to be checked, and the headache is removed by nitro hydrochyric acid or by alkalies given before meals. If the headache be immediately above the eyebrows the acid is best; but if it be a little higher up, just where the hair begins, the alkalies appear to be more effectual. At the same time that the headache is removed, the feeling of sleepiness and weariness that frequently leads the patients to complain that they rise up more tired than they lie down, generally disappears.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO. See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Elevonth chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks theroon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument. Price $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2.00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3.75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,.....10cts
Per Doz.....75
Per 100 by Express,.....$4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its errible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ——." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against Lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts
Single Copy, Post Paid,.....10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express .$6.0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00,

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$3.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition in cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely Illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1877.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the incorporated National Christian Association falls, by constitution, on next Wednesday, the 20th inst. President Stratton of Syracuse is already on his way, speaking for the Master as he goes; others from Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and other States will, we hope, be present, not only members of the body but other friends whose interest in the reform should not be any less strong and self-sacrificing. The review of the work of the past year, and devising for the foreseen necessities of the next, will be business of sufficient importance to call out the best energies of a full meeting. Let every friend of the cause in Chicago or vicinity be present if possible, and those who may not meet with us, pray for that blessing and that presence of Christ without which we "can do nothing."

COMMENCEMENT AT WHEATON falls this year in the last week of the present month, beginning with the 24th and continuing though the 27th. The programme for the week is an attractive one. On Sabbath morning the Baccalaureate Sermon before the graduates and friends of the College will be preached by Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D., who has been associated in the instruction of the class with President Blanchard. In the evening Rev. Mr. Bainum of Bunker Hill, Ill., will deliver the annual address before the Society of Inquiry. On Monday evening is the anniversary of the literary societies; on Tuesday examinations preparatory to entering the College next fall, followed in the evening by the social and literary reunion of the Alumni. Rev. A. J. Bailey, 1868, is appointed for the address and Miss Harriet Furguson, 1871, for the essay. The exercises of the Graduating Class take place on Wednesday at about 10:30 A. M., followed in the evening by the time-honored reunion of the friends of the Institution.

The circumstances that have preceded the Commencement this year, which have drawn more than usual attention to the College, and have, we hope, enlisted more warmly the prayers of its friends and of our reform work, will make them all more anxious to be present. For this reason we give more than usual space to the announcement and feel authorized in extending if possible a more earnest invitation to all such to be present. Trains from the west arrive in Wheaton from 5:30 to 10 A.M. and from Chicago at 10:15, and leave both ways from 5 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

PRACTICAL, NOT STEREOTYPED PRAYERS. — King David's prayers, wonderful in all things, are especially so in this. "I will cry unto God who performeth all things for me." His life, which was one long struggle for reform against the false worships, was perpetually beset by snares of enemies and uprisings of the people. With the utmost simplicity and directness he was wont to apply to God for protection from them. "Be merciful to me, O God, for man would swallow me up." "They be many that fight against me, O thou Most High." "Every day they wrest my words: all their thoughts are against me for evil." "When I cry unto thee, then shall mine enemies turn back. This I know for God is for me." The conflict between Christ and the usurping god of this world must grow, as the slavery conflict did, till it comes to blows and blood. We need to pray more and pray better.

A "SUCCESSOR OF THE APOSTLES."

Bishop Milton Wright, late of The Religious Telescope, now chosen Bishop of the church of "The United Brethren in Christ," is, in reality, what Romish and Romanizing prelates falsely claim to be, a successor of the Apostles of Christ. Like Paul he is educated; like him he is chosen to travel "confirming the churches" in the faith of Christ, as opposed to "idolatry," the "unfruitful works of darkness;" to turn men from religious "vanities" (Acts 14:15) to the "living God" as Paul did in Lycaonia, and from "the unknown god" of the lodge and its pagan "superstitions" as he did at Athens (Acts 17). If any one will take a concordance and turn to the Scripture words cited above, the moral and actual identity of Bishop Wright's mission and that of his Episcopal brethren will appear, even to the ordinary reader. We specify Prof. Wright, not to exalt him above his brethren, but because we have known him as a brother editor, and special mention is due him as he leaves his post among us where we have learned to revere his fidelity, respect his ability, and love him as a man. We also hail his successor in the Telescope and his excellent assistant, Prof. Tobey. We are assured by Prof. Wright that his successor, Rev. J. W. Hott, "is a true, pious, evangelical man," "a brilliant orator" and "a facile writer." We hail him as a brother in the press, but above all greet him as a brother in Christ.

We regret to close this cheerful and joyous article by an allusion to the name of Z. Warner, which appears conspicuous in the report of the General Conference proceedings at Westfield. If correctly reported he is surely any thing but a United Brother. He defies the Conference and its law or testimony against the secret orders. We would quote his haughty, impudent words, but, like the name of the wicked they should be permitted to "rot." He is a Virginian, a secessionist and traitor to his church by his own definition of his position and purposes, a striking counterpart to the late John M. Mason, of Virginia, who, in the United States Senate declared himself "as good a traitor as any in the field," after Sumpter was bombarded; and yet this Warner, as Mason did, with "cheek" and impudence unutterable, still sat in the body which he defied, and, bustling traitor as he declared himself, debated and voted under the government which he nullified and set at naught. What bishops are for, if not to put such a traitor's case upon issue, and insist on his expulsion from the house we cannot understand. Mercy to such a man is surely cruelty to the denomination.

MARTIN LUTHER ON FALSE WORSHIPS.

It is not often that we may step aside and allow such a pen as Martin Luther's to describe the false and idolatrous nature of modern lodge worship. In reading the other day his remarks on Galations 3: 10, "For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse," the following passages seemed remarkably clear and forcible, and worth the attention of all our readers. Their direct application it will be seen, was to the Romish church, but had Luther lived two centuries later he might himself have applied almost the exact language to the lodge and its idolatrous ceremonies. That reference can be easily made by every reader of the following:

"Therefore while they go about to do the law, they not only do it, but also deny (as I have said) the first commandment, the promises of God, the promised blessing of Abraham; they renounce faith, and they go about to make themselves blessed by their own works: that is to say, to justify themselves, to deliver themselves from sin and death, to overcome the devil, and violently to lay hold upon the kingdom of heaven. And this is plainly to renounce God, and to set themselves in the place of God. For all these are the works of the Divine Majesty alone, and not of any creature, either in heaven or in earth.

Hereupon Paul was able easily to foreshow, out of the first commandment, the abominations that were to come, which Antichrist should bring into the church. For all they which teach that any other worship is necessary to salvation, than that which God requireth of us by the first commandment, which is the fear of God, faith and the love of God, are plain Antichrists, and set themselves in the place of God. That such should come, Christ himself foretold, when he saith, (Matt. 24: 5,) "Many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ." So we also at this day may boldly and easily pronounce, that whosoever seeketh righteousness by works without faith, denieth God, and maketh himself God. For thus he thinketh: If I do this work, I shall be righteous, I shall be a conqueror of sin, death, the devil, the wrath of God and of hell, and shall obtain life everlasting. And what is this else, I pray you, but to challenge that work unto himself which doth belong to God alone, and to show indeed that he himself is God? Therefore it is an easy matter for us to prophesy, and most certainly to judge of all those which are without faith, that they are not only idolaters, but very infidels, which deny God and set themselves in the place of God. Upon the same ground Peter also prophesieth when he saith: "There shall be amongst you false teachers, which privily shall bring in damnable heresies, and shall deny the Lord, etc., and make merchandise of the people." 2 Peter 2: 1–2.

And in the Old Testament all the prophecies against idolatry sprang out of the first commandment. For all the wicked kings and prophets, with all the unfaithful people, did nothing else but that which the pope and all hypocrites always do. They, contemning the first commandment and worship appointed of God, and despising the promise of Abraham's seed, even that seed in whom all nations should be blessed and sanctified, ordained a wicked worship clean contrary to the word of God, and said: With this worship will we serve God and set out his praise, which has brought us out of the land of Egypt. So Jeroboam made two golden calves and said: "Behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt." 1 Kings xii. 28. This he said of the true God which had redeemed Israel, and yet both he and all his people were idolaters: for they worshipped God contrary to the first commandment. They only regarded the work: which being done, they counted themselves righteous before God. And what was this else, but to deny God himself, whom they confessed with their mouth, and said, "that he had brought them out of the land of Egypt?" Paul speaketh of such idolaters when he saith: "they confess that they know God, but in their deeds they deny him." Tit. i. 16.

Wherefore all hypocrites and idolaters go about to do these works which properly pertain to the divine Majesty, and belong to Christ only and alone. Indeed they say not in plain words, I am God, I am Christ; and yet in very deed, they proudly challenge unto themselves the divinity and office of Christ, and therefore it is as much in effect as if they said: I am Christ; I am a saviour, not only of myself, but also of others. This the monks have not only taught, but also have made the whole world to believe: to wit, that they are able, not only to make themselves righteous through their hypocritical holiness, but also others unto whom they communicate the same: whereas notwithstanding it is the proper and only office of Christ to justify the sinner. The pope, in like manner, by publishing and spreading his divinity throughout the whole world, hath denied and utterly buried the office and divinity of Christ.

It is expedient that these things should be well taught and well weighed: for thereby we may learn to judge of the whole Christian doctrine, and the life of man; also to confirm men's consciences; to understand all prophecies and all the the Holy Scriptures, and rightly to judge of all other things. He that knoweth all these things rightly, may certainly judge that the pope is Antichrist, because he teacheth a far other manner of worship than the first table setteth out.

—General Agent and Secretary Stoddard returns to Chicago this week after making very satisfactory arrangements for the National Convention at Dayton. There seems to be certainly a more hopeful outlook for a great and powerful meeting in its effect upon the reform than has yet been held. But it is prayer must do it, brethren.

—Past Master Ronayne has been resting from his arduous labors in Canada and New York for a few days. He does not wish to contract for so lengthened series of meetings during the summer heat, but will visit points in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa where arrangements can be made. Write him at his residence, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.

—Bro. Hinman is visiting various points in DuPage and Kane counties in this State, preparing for the county meeting. The DuPage county association, of which Elder A. D. Freeman of Centennial fame is President, meets in the Wesleyan church on next Lord's day evening (see notice) and will be continued through the next day and evening in the Baptist church. Friends in the county and vicinity will find it profitable to be present.

—Every friend of the reform is interested in the California work and its new State lecturer. Bro. Cogswell's letters will inform them of his reception on the field and his first engagement, which was of course a victory. Besides the special discouragement from loss of crops there is yet a great work to do before the State can be well organized and the work made self-supporting and permanent. To enlarge the committee which has invited him to California into a strong and enthusiastic association will be one of the first points to be gained. It is not unlikely that the new lecturer will have, to a large extent, to enlist those who will form such an association from among the ranks of the indifferent or hostile. God helping and good men sustaining, he will do this work. Let praying people throughout the land leave this not alone to the friends in California, but let there be thousands of Aarons and Hurrs on this side the rocky ridge of the continent, whose prayers shall stay up the work in the far West.

—Among the other marks of progress we must not forget Dr. Cook's letter on another page. The chief opponent at Lagrange shows the necessity of converting the country editors into lovers of truth and decency. In its special field the local paper may be made of vast use in furthering true reform. Witness Bro. Needels American Freeman, which, although it has a wider circulation probably than most local journals, exerts a vast influence in northwestern Missouri against the follies and falsehoods of secretism. Let more attention be given to the local editor to get him into the right way and encourage him in it.

—As the developments of the lodge attack on Wheaton are of deepest interest to our readers, it seems unnecessary to call attention to the able article by Professor O. F. Lumry, who has been longer connected with the Faculty of the College than any other officer. His careful and just analysis of the elements producing the disturbance will enable many who have been deceived into lending their names to the attack to see the whole case in clearer light. A large number of copies of this article have been circulated among the petitioners prefaced with a special note to them.

—The Bible Standard, established by Rev. D. F. Shepardson, and published at Wheaton for some years previous to his removal to Wasioja, Minnesota, has been turned over to the Wesleyan Book Concern at Syracuse and will be in charge of Rev. D. F. Kinney, the agent of the connection. Bro. Sheardson, assisted by his wife, have made the Standard a welcome visitor in many households, and an earnest advocate of holiness, while declaring the "whole Gospel" against every institution that would supplant and destroy the system of Divine grace. While the monthly may be no more faithfully conducted under its new management, it will be of greater benefit to the Wesleyans in becoming a special organ for the work of holiness in the denomination; and if possible render that issue more distinct in its churches. Would there were power and grace enough in every denomination to demand and sustain such papers!

—Rev. L. N. Stratton, of the Wesleyan, has arranged to speak at the following places, beginning June 5th, on his way to Chicago to attend the corporate meeting next Wednesday: Hornby and Houghton Creek, New York; Pittsfield, Pennsylvania, June 12th to 17th; Concord, Pennsylvania, June 18th; Cleveland, Ohio, June 19th; Rockford, Illinois, June 22d to 24th. He will probably speak in Carpenter Hall while in Chicago. He expects to visit his parents in Wyanet, Bureau county, Illinois, before returning to New York.

—It was reported lately in the daily papers of Dayton that there are fifty-four lodges in that city of 30,000 inhabitants, while to counteract the influence of these "synagogues of Satan" there are but forty-one churches of the Lord Jesus Christ. If these forty-one churches were pure, "unspotted from the world," "perfecting holiness in the fear of the Lord," their influence would so overcome the other that it would hardly come into the account. The strength of the lodge in Dayton is proof that it is feeding on the vitality of the churches. This must be one important mission of the anniversary meeting, to help such churches on to a higher, holier ground; to strengthen and give new life to those which testify against secretism; and to so work directly upon the members of these lodges themselves as to free them from their heavy yoke. Let this great work be borne before God continually as the time for the Convention draws near.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND.

June 1, 1877.

	Notes unpaid.	Cash.	Total.
California...	$	$ 20.00	$ 20.00
Connecticnt.	.....	110 00	110.00
Illinois.....	2,961 00	1,644.41	4,605.41
Indiana.....	2 200.00	327.50	2,527.50
Iowa.....	745.00	296 80	1,041 80
Kansas.....	5.00	14.00	19.00
Maine.....	....	35.00	35 00
Mass.....	....	90.00	90 00
Michigan....	200.00	350 50	550 50
Minnesota...	....	100.00	100.00
Missouri.....	20.00	7.00	27.00
New York...	165.00	369.00	534 00
N. Hamp....	....	8.00	8 00
N. Jersey....	....	100.00	100 00
Ohio.....	2,956.00	573.15	3,529.15
Oregon.....	....	2.00	2 00
Penn.....	133.00	43 00	176.00
Vermont....	....	2.00	2 00
Wisconsin...	1,415.00	273.65	1,688 65
Wash. Ter...	....	1.00	1 00
Canada.....	....	2.00	2.00
Total....	$10,800.00	$4,368.01	$15,168.01

N. C. A. RECEIPTS FOR MAY, 1877.

PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND:

Ezra A. Cook, Chicago, (note)....	$50 00
Mrs. S. McConoughey, Geneseo, Ill.	10 00
A Friend in Mich. per Gen. Agt..	10 00
Alex. N. Beatty, Greenfield, O....	25.00
Per H. H. Hinman, Rev. S. C. Marshall, $5.00; and Mr. Wykoff, $1.00, Albia, Iowa.	6.00
A. Jenks, Cheshire, Mass.....	5.00
ILLINOIS FUND.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Ill.....	5 00
INTEREST:
Note No. 207, J. W. Baldridge....	2.00
Note No. 216, Mrs J. W. Tyson..	6.00
RENT:.....	$91.66
Total.....	$220 66

H. L. KELLOGG, Treas.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 13 Wabash Ave.. Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption"

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany, Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired;—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wi
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

The Home Circle.

The Nearest Duty.

I sought to do some mighty act of good,
That I might prove how well my soul had striven.
I waited, and the minutes, hours passed,
Yet bore no increase of my deed to heaven.
Sad, without hope, I watched the falling rain—
One drop alone could not refresh the tree;
But drop on drop, till from its deepest root
The giant oak drank life and liberty.
Refreshed like nature, I arose to try
To do the duty which should nearest lie;
And ere I knew my work was half begun,
The noble deed I sought in vain was done.
—Selected.

Crumbs for the Highway.

"Without faith it is impossible to please God." O what meaning in these words! We may pray with our whole hearts, and be as sincere as it is possible for us to be, and be willing to make every sacrifice God may require at our hand, and also to discharge every duty, yet, if we have not faith in God we cannot please Him. God is worthy of all honor, and we must honor him by believing on him.

"If ye love me keep my commandments." A child who loves his parents will obey them. If we love Jesus, surely then we will obey him by keeping his commandments. If we do not obey him our love is not true. Let us examine ourselves carefully, and see if we love him with our whole heart.

I feel like praising God for the rich provisions he has made for poor fallen humanity. I praise him that salvation is both free and full, and that I have peen permitted to enjoy so much of his presence and have such sweet peace. Oh, I have been drinking deep from the well of salvation, and my joy has been full. I am now being kept by the power of Jesus' blood. "Praise the Lord O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name."

As a good shepherd that watcheth his flock, and as soon as it has consumed one field of pasture, leads it to another, so Jesus our shepherd keeps watch over us, and leads us on, step by step, from one degree of grace to another, until we are fitted for his kingdom.

"The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord." What a precious promise. We are so weak, and helpless, and dependent, and short-sighted, that we know not what is best for us; yet, if we are good, and do what is pleasing to God he will direct our steps.

"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." If our spiritual strength is renewed in proportion to our waiting upon God, oh, let us wait long, and often, and continue to wait, that we may become very strong in the Lord.—Ex.

Light of the world, sun of the soul, brighter far than which cheers the bodily sense; by thee all things are seen, yet art thou thyself unseen.

Bob.

"Bob Noyes, do stop your racket. Nobody can have a minute's peace if you are within hearing."

Bob's face flushed scarlet, and he laid down his hammer, leaving the nail half driven. He turned the toy wagon he had been working on over and over, with a wistful look which told of a pitiful heartache. It was a pretty toy wagon in his eyes, and he made every bit of it himself, and if he could only drive six more nails it would be finished. But there must be no more racket, so he laid it away carefully, and going into one corner of the yard stretched himself under a tree, and kicking the turf with his heels pondered over his many troubles. His mother had said that there was no peace for anybody if he was in hearing; but certainly there was no peace for him anywhere about home.

He had slipped into the parlor after dinner, and was having a good chat with Miss Somers, and she was telling him about three wonderful black and white spotted puppies at her house, when sister Jennie came in and asked him what he was imposing on Miss Somers for. He wasn't imposing, Miss Somers said so. Guess he could talk as well as Jennie, if she was eighteen two months ago. But Jennie made him leave the room without learning how the littlest and prettiest spotted puppy got out of the cistern when he fell in. Maybe he did not get out. Bob kicked harder and wished he knew. After his ejection from the parlor, Bob started for the garret to console himself by rocking in the old-fashioned red cradle grandmother Noyes rocked papa and Uncle John in, but Nell and the boys would not let him in; they were getting up a surprise tableaux and "didn't want any little pitchers around." He sought his father's study to look at an illustrated edition of natural history. But papa objected; "he couldn't have Bob in there making a disturbance." Almost heart-broken he turned to his mother's room. "Go right away, you'll wake the baby," met him at the threshold. He looked into the kitchen and begged to help make pies, but Bridget told him to clear out. He next went to the wood house and sought to assuage his sorrows by working on his wagon, and now he was forbidden that.

He could not understand why he was driven from everything - he had not been a bad boy and lost his temper. It was beyond his six-year-old philosophy. His poor little brain puzzled over what older children called "certain inalienable rights," without finding a solution of his trouble or coming to a conclusion. Had he been strong-minded, he might have called a convention, and declared that in the present order of things little boys have no rights big folks are bound to respect, and drafted petitions for a change; but he was sensitive and submissive, and let people snub him and trample on his toes without remonstrance.

The tea-bell roused him from his cup of bitter, puzzled thoughts.

"Bob, come to supper."

He wouldn't have to wait, that was some consolation.

At the table Mrs. Noyes was telling Miss Somers about a troop of performing monkeys. "One smart monkey with a striped tail played on a violin, and—"

"Mamma, it was ring-tailed," interrupted Bob, eager to have the account exact.

"Bob, how many times have I told you not to interrupt?"

Bob subsided, but he knew it was ring-tailed, for he had counted the rings and watched it half an hour while mamma gossiped with Mrs. Layton.

"All the monkeys turned somersaults when their keeper played Captain Jinks," continued Mrs. Noyes.

"Mamma, it wasn't Captain Jinks; it was, 'O vare is my little tog.'"

"Bob, if you talk any more at the table I'll send you to bed."

Bob, was correct, and he knew it; he could whistle like a mocking-bird, while Mrs. Noyes did not know one tune from another. The two reproofs in the presence of Miss Somers was too much for his sensitive, bashful temperament, and mortified him beyond self-control. His little fingers trembled and dropped a glass of water, spilling its contents upon the cloth.

"Bob, where's your manners? Leave the table instantly," commanded his father.

The children laughed, and Jennie called Bob an "ill-mannered little boor," and the mortified little fellow crept sadly into bed and sobbed until he fell asleep.

The day's experience was a fair sample of Bob's whole boyhood. He must not sing, whistle, shout, talk, ask questions or pound; yet he must keep himself handy to run on errands and pick up chips. He must not talk to company, for little boys are to be seen and not heard. He must not have any company of his own, because he did not know how to behave properly. The idea that Bob had any feelings and rights was not tolerated. The family did not intend to act unjustly; they loved Bob, but they were selfish and did not want to be disturbed, and Bob was noisy, and such an inveterate talker and questioner, if given liberty. He was clothed and fed, and sent to school and to church and Sabbath-school; surely, that was all duty required.

Bob made a discovery after a while. He could pound and saw and bang as much as he pleased in Tom Smith's carpenter shop. Smith's wild, half dissipated apprentice made a discovery too—that bashful Bob Noyes had a wonderful faculty for saying witty things, and for whistling and singing, when he became acquainted—and they coaxed him off more than once to enliven the evenings at the "Excelsior" and "Star" saloons.

They were as blind as moles at home until a reckless, almost criminal deed committed during the tumultuous period between boyhood and manhood showed them that Bob's young life was being steeped in degradation and sin. They wept bitterly, but not in sackcloth and ashes. Wrapped in self-righteousness, they shifted the responsibility from their own shoulders, and as he went from bad to worse, washed their hands of that unavoidable family affliction, a black sheep.—Ex.

Sensitive Children.

Extreme sensitiveness in children may be either a misfortune or an advantage according to the influences which are brought to bear upon them. A hasty temper is the prevailing fault of sensitive children; it is their quick involuntary protest against whatever offends them, and it should be treated with moral medication, and as tenderly as a deformed foot or curvature of the spine. Little by little self-control can be taught, and infiltration of such ideas and motives and sentiments made in the child's mind as will enable him to outgrow and overcome his infirmity. Time cures a great many things; children outgrow infirmities and faults, and if right principles of action and feeling are instilled gently, constantly, wisely, the results will ultimately appear. It is mere cruelty to make the weak points of a child a source of teazing and ridicule, as is too often done in schools and families. If he is born with a deformed foot, with defective sight or hearing, how careful are we to try and make up to him what nature has denied! A defect in one's mental or moral organization should be as tenderly and judiciously treated as a bodily deformity. A quick temper, an irritable or timorous or teasing disposition requires far more tact and judicious management than any physical infirmity. When grown to maturity our sensitive children become the poets, musicians, artists, writers, leaders of their time.—N. Y. Tribune.

Waiting for the Messiah.

A Jew, resident in Jerusalem, and rich in possessions, made a journey into Europe as a Shelichoh, in order to make collections in behalf of his poor brethren at Jerusalem, among their more wealthy brethren of the faith, as Paul did in his time. This very interesting man related, while once sitting next to me, that he had experienced, in the morning of that day, a very strong emotion. One of his friends had come running up to him in a very great hurry, and with manifest joy had exclaimed:

"Have you heard the news? have you heard the news?"

"No," said he who was from the East; "but what is it then?"

"Why, Napoleon has surrendered himself prisoner."

"What is that to me? truly I thought that our blessed Messiah was come!" and thereupon he sighed.

This happened in 1814. I now think on that man when I remember the words of the disciples that were going to Emmaus—"We trusted that it had been he who should have redeemed Israel."—Dr. Capadose.

Emotional zeal is sometimes sorely tried by a practical suggestion. An exchange tells of a man who was shouting loudly in a religious meeting, when the pastor sent a brother with instructions to stop that noise. He went and quieted him in an instant, and upon returning was asked what he did to produce so immediate an effect. He simply replied, "I asked him for a dollar for foreign missions." An anecdote similar to the above is told of Mr. Moody. Some years since, when he was attending the noon-day prayer-meetings in Chicago, a man of wealth arose one day, and telling of a good work that could be accomplished if only three or four hundred dollars could be raised, asked the meeting to pray earnestly that it might be done. Moody started up in his own impulsive way, and said: "Brother K.. I would not trouble the Lord with a little thing like that; I would do it myself." If all our prayers and suggestions were wrought out into a good substantial practice, how quickly the world would be converted!—United Presbyterian.

Children's Corner.

What the Oak Tree Said to the Little Child.

I was once an acorn green,
  Lying in my cradle-bed,
Peeping through the leafy screen
  To catch the shadows overhead.

Idly swaying all day long
  In the green and golden light,
Listening for the bluebird's song,
  Watching for his sudden flight.

Below me lay a tiny pool
  Within the mossy roots' embrace,
With trembling shadows gray and cool
  Upon her dimpled face,

And woodland creatures gathered there
  For shelter from the noontide heat;
The dappled fawn, the timid hare—
  'T was Nature's own retreat.

The bright-eyed squirrel loved to view
  Her image in the glassy lake—
The oriole her plumage knew,
  And paused a second glance to take.

E'en the pale woodbine from her bower
  Leaned o'er the marge her wreaths to twine,
And scattered dew drops in a shower
  From tendril, leaf and vine.

By night the fairies came and danced
  In moon-lit circles on the grass,
While glow-worms shone and fire-flies glanced
  Until the magic hour should pass.

Thus fled my youth until one day
  I fell into the moldering earth,
In "dull obstruction" there I lay
  And sighed farewell to song and mirth.

But soon I felt my pulses move
  Responsive to a higher life—
Within my heart a voice of love
  Whispered of days with glory rife.

And so I grew a mighty tree,
  And for a century have I stood
Upon the very spot you see—
  But where is now my native wood?

With hoary locks alone I stand
  And sigh for all the "loved and lost,"
The monarch of a barren land
  By storm and tempest tossed.

Oh days of youth! my pearly crown
  I'd gladly give once more to be
An acorn in an acorn-cup—
  A little child like thee.

—Rural New Yorker.

A Mouse Killed by Music.

The following strange facts I have often related to friends, who after hearing the story, have asked me to send the facts to some paper.

This being Monday — ministers play-day—I will divert my mind by giving you the following of the writer's experience in killing a mouse by music. There are five or six living who were eye-witnesses of the death scene of that poor mouse.

It was in the spring of 1872, when I was pursuing my studies at Center College, Danville, Ky. At one time during the fall previous an attempt was made by some miscreants to burn the new and splendid college building, which was then advancing towards completion. The dastardly attempt was a failure, through lack of kindling wood, to give it a good start. For the security of the building I was given a small room in it, where soon I took up my abode. Imaginations of the building burning down over my head some night while asleep, gave me a few wakeful nights. Furnished with an old carbine by Mr. —— J——, I loaded it two-thirds full of beans, corn and fine shot. With that behind the door I felt quite safe, and began to sleep soundly. Being alone I became interested in a couple of mice which frequented my room. They lived in a small closet adjoining and when in the evenings I would play on my violin the little creatures would come forth from their hiding-place and sit down in the shadow of the stove, on their haunches, holding up their paws like a squirrel eating. At first I thought they were eating, but soon found to my surprise they were not eating, but only listening. To be certain of this I would occasionally stop playing, and make an attempt to move, when they would scamper away, but return again as soon as I commenced playing. Having chased them in and played them out as often as five or six times in one evening, and they always taking the same position every time, I became thoroughly convinced that it was the music they were after. I began to tell friends of the amusement I was having with the mice. They would all smile an incredulous answer. I played for my little companions some three weeks, and they enjoyed it so much, and so did I. I often noticed two things:

1. That high piercing notes or sounds seemed to give them pain: as evidence of this, they would turn their heads to one side, and shrug their shoulders.

2. That having remained a few minutes under the sound or influence of music upon approaching them, they seemed stupid, slowly running away. During the three weeks' playing for them, one of them attempted more than once to crawl up my pants leg while I was playing. One evening I invited some gentlemen to my room to play with me, and witness the capers of the mice. The gentlemen having arrived, and we were all seated around the room, I turned the light of the lamp low, and said: "Boys, be quiet now through the whole scene, without speaking a word or laughing out, and I'll call my mice out and let you see what they'll do." In a moment all was still. I began to play, softly, the Nattali Waltz. Presently the mice came and took their usual position on the floor, holding up their little paws. This performance was so funny, they all laughed right out. It was now proposed that we all play. We had four instruments—two violins, a flute and a violoncello. We played one piece and it seemed to have a new charm for the mice. It was agreed then to play four pieces through without stopping. This would take about ten minutes or more. The word was given, and we were off. Presently the mice appeared for the last time to perform to their tragedy. When the pieces were all played through, all was silence again. After a few moments of perfect quiet I made a noise with my foot on the floor. The mice were motionless. I rose and advanced toward them, when one of them crawled stupidly and slowly away; the other I carefully placed on my open hand and carried it to the light, and while we were yet looking at it sitting on my hand, it dropped over dead. Its mate I never saw after that evening. —The Interior.

Children's Letters.

PORTLAND, Mich., June 4, 1877.

MR. EDITOR: I read the Cynosure every week and like the paper very much and especially the "Children's Corner." I think that it is doing good and I hope that it will have a large circulation all over our United States and elsewhere. I hope to live to see the day when there will not be an oath-bound secret society in our land, and that we may be as free and as pure as the mountain air. Boys, let us never stain our honor by belonging to an oath-bound society. I guess that I have written a long enough letter, so I will close.

JAMES W. MARCY.

P. S.—The answer to A. J. Cope's enigma in the Cynosure, May 31st, is "North America." I like to work out the puzzles and enigmas, for they are so easy for me. I do not know but I have worked out every one that has been in the paper for a long time. J. W. M.

Two of our little friends in Mediapolis Iowa, were busied the other day in selecting Scripture passages for an acrostic. What came of their work they send for the "Corner" readers to see.

ACROSTICS.

Every purpose is established by council.
My flesh and my heart faileth.
Man did eat angels' food.
Abstain from all appearance of evil.

Love the Lord for he is good.

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord.
Come let us sing a new song.
Know ye the Lord.
Even a child is known by his doings.
O come let us sing unto the Lord!
Watch and pray.
Now is the accepted time.

Soul abhor my judgment.
A soft answer turneth away wrath.
Mine eye mourneth by reason of affliction.
A froward heart shall depart from me.
Nevertheless he saved them for his name's sake.
Turn us again, O God, and cause thy face to shine.
He that worketh deceit shall not dwell within my house.
And he gave them their request.

My days are like a shadow that declineth.
Come let us go hence.
Know ye that the Lord he is God.
Exalt ye the Lord our God.
O give thanks unto the Lord.
Who will lead me into Edom.
Now come let us reason together.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXV.—June 24, 1877.—QUARTERLY REVIEW.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Lord is slow to anger, and great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked."—Nah. 1:3.

TOPIC.—A Nation Destroyed.

HOME READINGS.

M.	2 K. 4: 1- 7	The Oil Increased.
	2 K. 4: 25-37	The Shunammite's Son.
T.	2 K. 5: 1-14	Naaman the Leper.
	2 K 5: 20-27	Gehazi the Leper.
W.	2 K. 6: 8-18	Elisha at Dothan.
	2 K. 7: 12-20	The Famine in Samaria.
Th.	2 K.10: 20-31	Jehu the King.
	Jon. 3: 1-10	Jonah at Nineveh.
F.	2 K.13: 14-21	The Death of Elisha.
	Am. 5: 1-15	Lamentation of Amos:
S.	Hos.14: 1- 9	The Promise of Revival.
	2 K 17: 6-18	The Captivity of Israel.
S.	Nah. 1: 1-13	The Lord Forgiving but Just.

SUGGESTIONS FROM "ILLUSTRATED BIBLE STUDIES."

—"Children receive the love of one generation and pay it to another," so Jean Ingelow says. Let parents and teachers, then, give bountifully. It will not be lost or wasted.

—Should the superintendent always open the school with prayer by himself? Usually, no doubt; but not always. Occasionally let the school hear other voices, and feel the desires of others' hearts.

—He is not the best superintendent who feels that he must do everything himself. He is accomplishing most when he succeeds in putting others in the way of doing their "level best." This is given as the chief secret of Mr. Muller's wonderful success—his ability to make others work.

—Vacation time leaves many a teacher's chair vacant. It will be an expression of a beautiful Christian trait for those who stay at home, even if not regular members of the school, to be ready of their own accord to appreciate the situation, and "chink in" their services as they may be needed.

—And many classes too will be diminished in number. How cosy the class will seem; and how pleasantly confidential the relation of teacher and scholars. Jesus often addressed great multitudes, but then he spent much time in private conversation with individuals. When he effectually called his disciples, it was only one or two at a time, and when they were comparatively alone.

—Dr. Vincent says in his S. S. Journal: If you are Bible-class teacher don't be a lecturer. Don't be a preacher. Don't be an exhorter. Don't be a declarer. Be a teacher. A teacher gets work out of his scholars—gets questions, gets answers, gets hints, gets a good chance to keep his own mouth shut a good part of the time, and the mouths of his scholars open and their brains busy and their hearts excited. Teach! TEACH!

WESTFIELD COLLEGE for the past year shows by its catalogue an attendance of 143 students, of whom 38 are in the classical, scientific and classical preparatory courses. The institution has received valuable additions to its library, cabinet and apparatus during the past year. Pres. Allen, at its head, is among the ablest counselors of the United Brethren church. He is assisted ably by Professors Kiracofe, Shuey and Whipple. The latter has returned during the past year. Friends of the reform in Southern Illinois and Indiana will do well to patronize an institution maintaining such principles as are held sacred at Westfield. Address Pres. S. B. Allen for catalogues, etc.

WHEATON COLLEGE.—The catalogue for 1876-7 is received. One hundred and eighty-one students are named, of whom 37 are in the College classes proper and 51 in the preparatory department. The aims of the institution and the outline of instruction are more fully set forth in the catalogue than usual, and must be of great value to all who wish to understand the college curriculum. Some changes have been made in providing an abridged or Philosophical course which will meet the wishes of some who are unable to go through with a full course of study.

ROWELL'S AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY for 1877, contains a complete list of newspapers and other periodicals in the United States, Territories, and dominion of Canada, arranged alphabetically by towns, giving name, frequency of issue, politics or general character, form, size, subscription price per year, year of establishment, editors and publishers' names, and circulation, together with a description of the towns and cities in which they are published. The Jersey City Journal says of the publishers: "George P. Rowell & Co. deserve the best thanks of the advertising community for their efforts to prevent advertisers from being imposed on by unscrupulous publishers. Every honest publisher will also thank them for the aid they have afforded them in maintaining their competition for business by fair means, against the fraudulent practices of dishonest rivals. Messrs. Rowell & Co., alone of Newspaper Directory publishers, have had the courage to undertake the task of discriminating among the statements of newspapers, and to face the hostility which such a course was sure to excite among those who profited by misrepresentation. Their publication has taken the first place as the standard authority among American Newspaper Directories, and a reference book for every large advertiser and advertising agency in this country.

OBITUARY.

JAMES ANDRUSS died June 5th at the house of his relative, A. A. Woolsey, in Amboy, Ill., after a brief illness. He was a seceding Mason and was warmly interested in our reform work.

Is secrecy a necessary product of good? "Let your light shine," says the Divine Master. What has given power to the corruptions in this government? Is it not the power of secret societies? Good men entangled in them are afraid to expose the baseness of their fellows, and instead of ousting it, only fasten the destroying fangs of vice the more surely. If any secret societies are good, experience shows it a selfish good. Masons may help each other but their practical workings pull down the masses of God's people.

TEXAS COR.

No man therefore can express with words, how execrable and horrible it is to seek righteousness in the law by works without the blessing. For it is the abomination standing in the holy place, which denieth God and setteth up the creature in the place of the Creator.—Martin Luther.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

THE PROPHET DANIEL.

[We hope to find room to reproduce for our readers two or three of Mr. Moody's best discourses before it will be demanded for the reports of the Anniversary Convention. Among them is the following on the prophet prince of the captivity, taken from the Chicago Tribune.]

THE PROPHET DANIEL IN MR. MOODY'S VERSION.

When we come to the life of such a man as Daniel, the first thing we ask is, What was the secret of his success? Well, my friends, I'll tell you what I think was the secret of this man's success. He knew his God. A great many professing Christians never get on intimate terms with their God, and so they never amount to much. But Daniel, from his boyhood, knew and trusted in the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob; and that was what put such courage into him.

There is another very important thing about Daniel; he was able to say no! at the right time. I tell you my friends, it would be a great thing for our young men to be able to say NO! when the devil comes up to them and begins to coax them away from the God of their father and mother.

We don't know just how old he was when we hear of him first; probably about seventeen. The King Nebuchadnezzar had given orders to take some of the best and brightest boys among the Hebrew captives and bring them up among his wise men. They were to be taught the language and learning of the Chaldeans, and to be fed with meat and wine from the King's table. "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the King's meat, nor with the wine which he drank." There was something in the law of his God forbidding him to eat meat or drink wine which had been offered to idols; and Daniel knew that the King's meat and the King's wine had been offered to idols, so he determined not to touch it.

If he had been like a good many of our modern Christians he would have said something like this:

"Well, it can't be helped. I don't like to defile myself in this way; the law of God forbids it; and if I were only home in Jerusalem I never would do it in the world. But I really don't see how we are going to help it. We are slaves. Besides, it is the King's special order; and if he should hear of our disobedience, our heads would come off in no time. Really, we can't be expected to run such a risk as that."

That's it; the devil told him to do in Babylon as the people of Babylon do. But Daniel had the courage to stand up to the law of his God, and say no!

Consequences? Never mind the consequences. There wasn't any such word in his dictionary when it came to obeying the law of his God. He was bound to do it, let the consequences be what they might.

Do you hear what it says here in this eighth verse of the first chapter? "Daniel purposed in his heart." That's the trouble with a great many people; they purpose to do right, but they only purpose in their heads, and that doesn't amount to much. If you are going to be Christians you must purpose to serve God away down in your hearts. "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness."

So when the servant who had charge of them came to bring them their dinner, Daniel and his three young friends told him they couldn't eat that meat and drink that wine, because it was against the law of their God.

Look at that! Daniel doesn't try to dodge the question at all; he gives the true reason right out at once.

I am afraid some of you, if you had been in his place would have tried to hide behind some excuse. You would say you weren't very well; or that meat and wine didn't agree with you. Not so with Daniel. He tells that heathen the true reason why he can't eat the King's meat or drink the King's wine, and I have no doubt the man respected him for it. "But," says he, "it won't do at all. If you don't eat it the king will find it out. He'll see you some time looking lean and thin, and he'll ask you what the matter is, and then I shall lose my head as well as you."

"Just try us for ten days," says Daniel. "Give us pulse to eat and water to drink, and see how we get along on it."

So the servant tried them on the pulse and water, and at the end of ten days they were the fattest and best looking of the whole crowd.

Some people think wine makes them look better, and that they can't get along without it. Look at their red noses and bloated faces! I tell you,

ALL THE STIMULANT A PERSON NEEDS

is the Word and the grace of God.

There was a soldier down in Tennessee when I was there—a great, strong, hearty fellow—who was a teetotaler. One day, when the army was going on a long march, a man offered him a drink of whisky.

"I am a teetotaler," was his reply.

"Never mind that. You're in the army now; besides, you need some stimulant to help you on this long march."

Taking out a pocket Bible, he held it up before the face of his tempter and said,

"That is all the stimulant I want."

Just so with Daniel. He took God's side in this question, and held to God's terms, and God made him strong and healthy; gave him favor with those who saw his honesty, and above all, peace in his own soul.

The next we hear of him is about two years after. I seem to see the officer coming in and laying his hand on Daniel's shoulder, and arresting him in the King's name.

"What is the matter?" says Daniel.

"Why, haven't you heard?" says the officer. "The King had a dream last night, and when he woke up he couldn't remember it; so he called all his wise men together, and asked them to tell him his dream, and then interpret it for him. Nobody could tell it. The King was so angry that he commanded that all the wise men should be put to death. You belong to that school; so you will have to die."

"It seems to me the King is rather hasty," says Daniel—cool and calm as a summer morning. "Just let him give us a little time, and I'll show him his dream and the interpretation also."

He knew his God and trusted in him. All secrets belong to God.

That night Daniel and his three friends had a little prayer-meeting together. I have no doubt they read the story of Joseph; how the dreams of old Pharaoh were revealed to him; and how he came to be a great man in Egypt afterwards. And then they went to sleep. I don't think many of you would have gone to sleep with such danger as that hanging over your heads. But Daniel slept; and in his sleep the king's dream was revealed to him.

The next morning there was a great stir all about the palace. It had got out that a young Hebrew captive was going to tell the King his dream, and save the lives of all the wise men of Babylon; and everybody was anxious to know all about it. I can see the young man brought into the presence of the mighty monarch. He stands there without the slightest fear. His God, in whom he trusted, has made him master of the situation. The King looks at him, and says, "Young man, can you tell me

MY DREAM AND THE INTERPRETATION OF IT?"

"My God can!" answered Daniel; and he begins.

"In your dream, O King, you saw an image——"

"That's it!" says Nebuchadnezzar, his face lighting up all at once; "you've got it. I remember it all now."

"Yes," says Daniel; "my God revealed it to me last night in a dream." You see he doesn't take any credit to himself for it, but gives the glory to his God.

"The head of this great image was gold, his breast and arms were silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, and his feet part of iron and part of clay. And then, O King, you saw a stone cut out without hands, which struck the image upon its feet, and crushed it to pieces till it became like the dust of the summer threshing-floor."

"That's all right," says the King. "Now can you tell me the interpretation of it?"

Now I imagine some of you would have tried to soften down the interpretation a little. It was a pretty hard thing for Daniel to stand up there before that great monarch and tell him his kingdom was to be like the dust of a summer threshing-floor; but he did it. "Thou art this head of gold. And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee; and another third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule all over the earth. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron. Afterwards it shall be delivered, and become part strong and part weak. And in the days of those Kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destoyed; it shall break in pieces and destroy all those kingdoms, and it shall stand forever."

The King was greatly pleased with Daniel, and made a great man of him; and, for his sake, put his three friends into office. You see Daniel didn't forget his friends when he got into a good place himself.

Well, not long after that—maybe it was the dream that put it into his head—Nebuchadnezzar made a great image and set it up in the plains of Dura. It was about ninety feet high and about nine feet wide. Some people say it was made of solid gold, I rather think the King intended that image to represent himself. He was going to have a universal religion, and he was going to be the head of it,—there are some such people now-a-days,—and so he gave orders to have all the nobility and great officers of his kingdom brought together to worship the golden image which he had set.

I don't know where Daniel was at this time. Perhaps he was away in some other part of the kingdom on business; but his friends Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, were there to represent him. Their enemies were there too. A faithful servant of God is sure to have enemies, watching for a chance to get him out of the way.

It was a great day when the image was unveiled. I seem to see it flashing in the sunlight; the vast throng of worshipers standing round it; and the King at the head of a splendid procession of his lords and ladies, coming across the plain with banners flying and music playing; really, it must have been a trying time for those three men, who were so much out of fashion as not to bow down to the great idol when everybody else was doing it. But the law of their God and the law of the King were in conflict. The King said, bow down! God said, no! —and it didn't take them a minute to decide what to do.

Some people would have said, "There's no great harm in bowing with the rest; but then you needn't worship, you know; just bend your knees a little, but don't say any prayers to the idol."

Not a bit of it. These men were not going to compromise their consciences; and their enemies knew it very well. The hour arrived; everything is ready; the King makes a sign with his hand, and the cornets and the sackbuts, and all the other instruments, give a great blast, and the whole multitude fall down on their faces before the great image which Nebuchadnezzar the King had set up. No, not all? There are three pairs of stiff knees in that kingdom – three men who will not bow to the false god. Their enemies have taken care to put them in the front rank, near to themselves, and so find occasion to accuse them to the King.

I seem to see these fellows looking out of the corners of their eyes, when, by the King's command, they ought to have been worshiping the idol; and I hear them saying to themselves, "Aha! we have got you now!" and so they go to tell the King.

"O, King! live forever. Do you know that there are three men in your kingdom who will not obey you?"

"No. Who are they?"

"Three of those Hebrew captives; they don't bow down along with the rest of us, and we thought you would like to know it."

"Bring them to me," says the King, in a great rage; "I will see whether these fellows are going to disobey my orders like this."

It is quite likely he would have ordered their heads to be taken off at once, if he had not remembered that they were particular friends of Daniel.

Now they stand face to face with the great King.

"What is this I hear of you?" says Nebuchadnezzar. "They say you disobey my orders, and do not bow down and worship my golden image. Now, I will try you once more; and then, if you don't bow down, into the furnace you go."

We do not know who the speaker was on that occasion; perhaps it was Shadrach. He stands there with his two friends, looking calmly at the King, and thinking of the fiery furnace without trembling in the least, or feeling the slightest fear. And this is what he says: "We are not careful to answer thee in this matter, O King. The God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O King. But whether he deliver us or not, we will not bow down."

BURNING FIERY FURNACE,

"Who is this God of yours, that is able to deliver you out of my hands?" says the King in a towering rage. "Go and heat that furnace seven times hotter than ever, and take these fellows up and thrust them into it. Be quick about it. I will not have such rebels in my kingdom."

So some of the King's servants hurry away to the furnace to stir up the fire, and others seize Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, and take them away; and when the furnace doors are opened, they come near to cast them into the fire, which is so hot that it burns the servants to death, but does not harm the men who are cast down headlong into it. Then the King goes and looks into the furnace; and what is his astonishment at seeing four men, instead of three, walking in the midst of the fire, as safely as if they were in the King's garden.

"Did I not tell you to cast in three men?—and lo! I see four walking about in the fire; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God."

The Lord himself was with his three faithful servants. The great Palestine Shepherd looked down from heaven and saw those three sheep of his flock about to be cast into the fire; and he made haste and came down himself to see that they suffered no harm. Ah! Jesus is always with his people. Though they pass through water, they shall not be drowned; though they pass through the fire, they shall not be burned. The fire burned off only the devil's bands: it did not singe a hair of their heads.

Does not Christ say that the hairs of our heads are all numbered? There is wonderful care and love in that. Did you ever know a mother who loved her child so well that she would count the hairs on its curly head? But the Lord loves his children so well that he counts their hairs—every one; and not one of them comes to any harm, so long as his child is faithful to him. There was not even the smell of fire upon their garments; and the King's Counselors, and Princes, and Governors, and Captains, and all together, saw these men upon whose bodies the fire had no power. My friends, let us remember that it is always safe to do what God wants us to do. If our way to heaven leads through fire and water, it is all the same; it is all right. That is the proper way for us to go.

And now King Nebuchadnezzar orders these men to come out; and he restored them to their places again. He has found out who was the God that was able to deliver his servants out of the hands of the King; and I am quite sure that, from this time, neither the King nor anybody else in Babylon, ventured to say anything against these men, or against the God whom they worshiped, and who had delivered them out of the fiery furnace.

The King himself makes a decree, "That every people, nation and language, which shall speak anything amiss against the God of Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego, shall be cut in pieces, and their houses shall be made a dunghill, because there is no other God that can deliver after this sort." So the King promoted these men; and, instead of being burned to death in the furnace, they came to be more honorable than ever.

[Continued next week.]

News of the Week.

—A party of train robbers removed the rails from before a passenger train in Pulaski Co., Mo., on the night of June 1st. The engine and baggage cars were thrown down a high embankment, killing the engineer, fireman and a company physician who was riding with them. The passenger cars remaining on the track saved the inmates and defeated the robbers. Several of the gang have been arrested.

—The Union Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, hold a mortgage of $150,000 on the property of Chicago University, which is threatened to be foreclosed unless back interest is paid. It is claimed that the real estate cannot be sold so as to alienate it from the intention of the donor, and the case may go to the courts for a long contest.

—Two disastrous fires occurred last Friday at Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Galveston, Texas. At Bridgeport a large hat manufactory was destroyed, and eleven persons lost their lives by the falling of one of the brick walls of the factory, which crushed in the roof of the office, a one-story building adjoining, and buried under the heap of red-hot bricks a number of persons who had volunteered to assist in removing goods.

—The latest accounts say the Missouri River, below Kansas City, is still rising and doing great damage. The water is higher than any time since the flood of 1849. The town of Harlem opposite Kansas City, is about six feet under water, and likely to be entirely destroyed. All railroads in the vicinity are greatly damaged by wash-outs or submerged tracks. The people living on the bottoms along the Missouri River are moving to the bluffs, taking what property they can with them.

—New York underwriters contend that $100 worth of damage is done by every dollar's worth of firecrackers imported, and propose importuning Congress to put a stop to this particular diversion of young patriots.

—A terrible storm struck Mount Carmel, Illinois, on Monday, by which fourteen persons lost their lives and $500,000 worth of property was destroyed. A large number were wounded, several of whom will, undoubtedly, die. Four of the the killed were burned up. Among the buildings destroyed are the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, two school houses, the court house, several stores and residences.

—The Russian army in Asia is uniting its forces and driving back the Turks to more secure positions. The result is very discouraging to the authorities at Constantinople and a strong peace party exists which will make open demands for negotiations if bad news is received in Asia. Such news would also it is feared arouse another popular outbreak. Arrests of Softas, civilians, and military students take place daily. A coup de main for the restoration of ex-Sultan Murad is much feared. No boats are allowed to traverse the Bosphorus or Golden Horn after dark.

—The Montinegrins have added another to their long list of victories over the Turks. In marching to the relief of the garrison of Nicsics a large Turkish force attempted to force Duga Pass, but the narrow defile was so stoutly defended by the Montinegrins that 4,000 were killed. The mountaineers lost 700 men.

—The crossing of the Danube has not yet been attempted in force though several feints have been made. The Czar, who is at headquarters, is postponing such decisive action until news comes from England assuring him that no interference will be made. Count Schouvaloff arrived in London on Saturday with communications for Disraeli's cabinet.

Religious Intelligence.

—The American missionaries in Japan have for sometime been engaged in the translation of the Bible into Japanese. A committee, whose headquarters are at Tokio, has charge of the Old, and one with headquarters at Yokohama has charge of the New Testament. The New Testament committee committee consists of the Rev. Dr. J. C. Hepburn of the Presbyterian Board, the Rev. Dr. S. H. Brown of the Dutch Reformed church, the Rev. D. C. Green of the American Board, and three Japanese assistants. The Gospels and the Epistles to the Romans and the Hebrews have been published, and the translation of the Acts has just been finished.

—The Twenty-second Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and British Provinces assembled in Library Hall, Louisville, Wednesday, June 6th, at 11 A. M., about three hundred delegates being in attendance. Hon. J. V. Farwell of Chicago, was elected president. Deeply interesting and encouraging reports were made by many delegates, of the work carried on by the International Committee in the South and West, in Canada, among the railroad men, among Germans, and for colored young men.

—Henry Varley, whose visit as an evangelist to this country some time since many will remember, is about to take an evangelistic tour around the world, going from England to Australia, and thence to California.

—Rev. E. W. Bruce of Hickory Corners, Mich., reports in the Wesleyan a continued revival in his church. The protracted effort was closed some time ago but the work goes on.

—According to a statement recently published by the Moderator of the United Presbyterian Synod of Scotland the sums raised through voluntary benefactions in the three principal churches in Scotland during the year 1875, were as follows: Free church, $2,672,250; United Presbyterian church, $2,099,825; Established church, $1,753,105. The Free church, which is carried on purely on the voluntary basis, is now the most active and efficient church in Scotland, and contributes more than any other to the cause of Christian benevolence.

—The 167th anniversary of the death of John Eliot, the apostle to the Indians, was observed in several churches in Newton, Mass., on Sunday, May 20th. His first sermon to the Indians was preached at Nonantum, in Newton, Oct. 24, 1646. In 1674 he had 1,100 praying Indians and twenty-five native preachers.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 35 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION."

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted." and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S." 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Allen Slade, and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others, is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, have brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party.

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion. An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.
TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK,

Secretary of Tract Committee 13 Wabash Ave Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Express age or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

☞ Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED, by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.)..... $10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS, in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2.00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid..... 20
Per doz. " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid..... $4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 20 cents.
Per Doz. $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,..... $10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid..... $ 05
Per doz. " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY. A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 75
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone, and others, on the nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz, " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D. Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquillette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Caddates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz, " 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra..... $3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... $4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20cts.
Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50.
25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50.

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Free Speech and Press.

Most governments take a large portion of their able bodied men and compel them to stand guard over the other part to prevent them from rebelling. And it takes a great portion of the laborer's toil to pay the enormous expense. To avoid all this our forefathers established our government upon the basis of equal rights and placed free speech and a free press guardians over these rights, and declared in the Constitution that they never should be abridged.

Free speech and a free press enable us to examine every subject and principle that affects our interests and we are thereby enabled to choose the good and reject the bad. Secret societies are based upon selfishness (which is purely Satanic) and are "run" in order to take advantage of outsiders. Therefore by their very nature they forbid free speech and a free press, and to use them against these societies is to incur their enmity, and to avoid this speakers and editors wink at their sins and laud them to prevent their disfavor. And thus they abridge free speech and a free press and are at war with the vital principles of our government and if not checked will destroy it. A. H.

Publishers' Department.

Subscriptions Received for the Week Ending June 10, 1877.—From A N Allen, N W Allen, J C Bartholomew, G Brokaw, D J Ellsworth, J W Emmerson, Danforth Brothers, L C Gaskill, W M Gage, C W Hauptmen, J C Hetzel, W. H. Hitchcock, J G Laughlin, W Millet, W K Morley, F M McClurty, J E Minges, J B Nessell, J S Palmer, J S Rice, T C Radabaugh, B Ulsh, J Viall, J S Yankey, J Ziegler.

Books sent Week ending June 10, 1877.

By Mail.

W Hogan, S M Wren, A Oldfield, W M McCallum, R H Morrison, D L Lee, T A Glenn, W C Hopkins, W N Perrin, J J Giles, G Desper, R M Nettle, G Macauley, A H Bartholomew, S Hage, W L Doremus, J H Wheelon, J Kennedy, L Rogers, E Colton, D Glaspie, L Medert, A Seibenthaler, B T Arrick, A J Phillips, W R Cartwright, J Ingalls, S Eby, J G Sick, L W Mathews, J D Roberts, A L Mank, F Watson, J Detman, J S Lingle, C C Frey, S E Orvis, C H Cappelar, A Sleeper.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the Cynosure are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the Cynosure during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago, June 11, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat— No. 2	1 49½	1 52
" No. 3		1 33
" Rejected		1 00
" Minnesota	1 57¼	1 60
Corn—No. 2	45	46¼
Rejected	40½	41
Oats—No. 2		37¼
Rejected	28	30
Rye—No. 2		68
Bran per ton		12 00
Flour—Winter	7 00	9 75
Spring	4 50	8 00
Hay—Timothy	9 50	10 00
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7½	8
Lard per cwt		8 80
Mess pork, per bbl		12 75
Butter common to choice roll	14	20
Cheese	7	14
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs	10½	11
Seeds—Timothy	1 60	1 80
Clover		6 00
Flax	1 60	1 75
Potatoes	95	1 20
Broom corn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6¼	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	36
Unwashed	18	23
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	5 75	6 50
Good	5 25	5 65
Medium	4 75	5 10
Common	3 25	4 50
Hogs	4 50	4 85
Sheep	3 00	5 00

New York Market.

Flour	$3 40	10 25
Wheat—Spring	1 53	1 75
Winter	1 75	1 95
Corn	54½	62½
Oats	46	61
Rye	79	80
Lard		9½
Mess pork		15 00
Butter	10	21
Cheese	6	12
Eggs	14½	15½
Wool	13	52

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Mannal by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 71
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 Copies or More Sent at the 100 rates.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us at the time their subscriptions expire.

Address all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square,	1 insertion,	$2.00
1 square	(1 inch deep) one month	7.00
1 "	" 2 "	13.00
1 "	" 3 "	15.00
1 "	" 6 "	25.00
1 "	" 12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in Northern Illinois, Iowa, Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, and for Madison, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna, Mankato, St. Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Janesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Hancock, and the Lake Superior Country. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily.

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. Stennett, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Marvin Hughitt, Gen. Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

Club Rates Including Postage.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; the money for the club to be sent with the first lot of names; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also the claims of the Sabbath against the Assumptions of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr' Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book, Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t.]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

We fill Orders Promptly, and Guarantee Good Work.

Special Attention Given to Orders by Mail.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing"—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.38.—WHOLE NO. 378. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Praying to the Devil in the House of God	8
Another Chicago Corner-Stone	8
Are Masonic Oaths Binding?	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
"Wear Out" (poetry)	1
The Pilgrim Monument	1
An Open Letter to Pres. Dickey	2
Masonry and its Objections	2
Private and Social Wars	3
The Jesuits' Method	3
Masonic History Reviewed	4
REFORM NEWS:
Dupage County Association; From Chautauqua County, N. Y.	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Is it Misapplied? Bro. Wheeler before his Old Lodge; The Trials of a Hungry Temperance Man in Toledo; Initiated	5-6
WHEATON COLLEGE:	4, 8
GOSPEL MEETING:
The Prophet Daniel	12
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

Though Moody and Sankey are gone the revival meetings are continued in the Boston Tabernacle by Major Whittle and Mr. McGranahan. A preaching service is held on Sabbath evening and inquiry meetings daily; also the daily temperance prayer meeting is continued. Some of the business men's prayer meetings are discontinued, others are yet full. Mr. Moody is spending the summer in Northfield, Connecticut, and Mr. Sankey at Cohasset. Mr. Sawyer has sailed with his wife for Scotland, where he will engage in temperance work. He went in company with Mr. William Torrens, "Scotch Willie," the story of whose reformation from a drunkard's life was one of the most thrilling related in the Chicago Tabernacle.

Governor Robinson, of New York, has drawn upon himself considerable criticism for an appearance of partiality toward the Romish church. All through the session of the State Legislature he has refused, it is said, to sign any bill granting aid to any institution under Protestant influences, on the ground of sectarian legislation, but so soon a $25,000 appropriation is voted to an institution wholly under Catholic control he promptly and without question gives it his sanction. From what is made public in the case Governor Robinson seems to hold that the papal is the only true church, existing above the sphere of the Protestant denominations which are simply sectarian factions. Probably sectarianism was only an excuse for his action which was really a purchase of Catholic votes.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is proving its necessity and usefulness by inaugurating a strong movement for the enforcement of the laws against the opening of saloons on the Sabbath, a work no organization exclusively of the other sex was likely to take up. The Union are receiving the aid of the pulpit in this effort in a way most creditable to the integrity of Chicago pastors. Sabbath reform was the theme in several churches last Lord's day, where the argument was enforced by exhortation of more fervent character than was usual before Mr. Moody's visit. Some of the daily papers decry the effort of the Union as calculated to unite the rum-drinking classes, and inflict again upon the city a government such as it suffered under for years and of which we are happily rid. The argument is endorsed only by such as make politics their trade. The revival of last winter has made the effort of the ladies a hopeful one. They can hardly fail of success.

The New York and Brooklyn dailies are acting the part of faithful monitors to the churches of those cities, in respect to their reckless debts. In the former city the church mortgages recorded since 1869 foot up to the huge sum of $2,367,886, and in Brooklyn the figures are even higher—$2,651,442. The denominations most involved seem to be the Romish, the Methodist, Episcopal, Presbyterian and Baptist. These heavy obligations have been assumed to cover the cost of great organs, luxuriant upholstery, lavish stone ornaments and steeples and basement kitchens. To think of putting such churches as Luke tells about, in Antioch, Jerusalem, Ephesus or Rome, into such costly temples would be to exchange them for the worshipers in the great temples of their day. "Fine church idolatry" is not too severe a term for most of this mortgaged extravagance.

Another city school board has met the Bible question. Allegheny City, Pa., may well be proud of the record her School Controllers made at their last meeting, and the friends of the Bible, of good order and of American principles everywhere may rejoice. The vote to maintain the daily use of the Word of God was thirty-nine to twelve. The Romanizing and infidel influences voting against the ordinance were represented almost wholly by foreigners. American Christians are too indifferent in their efforts for the conversion of foreign Catholics. The present prosperous missions among the French Romanists in Canada, northern Vermont and at Ste. Anne, in Kankakee county near this city, sprang from the Christian conversation of two fur traders with their French assistants in the territory of the Hudson Bay Company. Fourteen years after they met him in Quebec, and not forgetful of the seed they had sown, they gave him a Testament. The Frenchman was converted and lived a Christian among his Catholic relatives and neighbors; and when a devout woman from Switzerland, ond Dr. Kirk of Boston, started a Protestant mission among French Canadians this Testament had prepared the way for them.

The situation in France becomes daily more threatening. Saturday MacMahon ordered the dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies and the question was to be debated in the Senate on Tuesday, with every prospect that the order would be sustained by a considerable majority. The Chamber of Deputies on Saturday was in the utmost tumult. The Republicans threaten the government with severe censure for favoring the Jesuit intrigues and remind the President that there is a law for the punishment of high treason. The sitting of the Chamber on Saturday continued five and a half hours. During that long time there was one prolonged roar of vociferations. At one time when Gambetta said that power was in suspicious hands, the Minister of Public Works sprang with a threatening air towards the tribune, and the members of the Right and Left dashed forward. The ushers had to separate the hostile armies. It really seemed as if there would be a hand-to-hand fight. All instinctively waited for the reports of revolvers.

"WEAR OUT."

"Wear out!" but never let the rust
Of idleness corrode the trust
Your Maker gave; your part to play
In the great drama of "To-day"
Is to deal justly; aid the weak;
Ever for right and freedom speak;
Keep burning clear Truth's beacon light,
That its soft radiance, through the night,
Be to the lost on life's bleak moor
Like Bethlehem's star, that shone of yore,
Guiding the shepherds on their way
To where the child Redeemer lay.

"Wear out!" 'Tis nobler far to bear
On breast and brow the marks of care—
Scars of life's conflict, bravely fought,
Patents of peerage, fairly bought,
Titles to claim in the fair clime
Of those who worship truth sublime;
E'en if your feet have never trod
The narrow path that leads to God,
Avoid, as death, the scorner's seat,
Nor let his sandals press your feet;
With contrite heart and tearful eye
Stand still while the elect pass by.

'Wear out!" Though stern your features grow,
Though raven locks be turned to snow,
On to the front, 1 or laggard be!
With sturdy blows comes victory!
Shame on the weak, the nerveless hand,
That cannot grasp Truth's shining brand;
That shrinks when from fair Freedom's tower
The tocsin sounds the trial hour;
That fails, when Justice calls, to go
With battle-ax and "bended bow,"
And prove upon his native sod
His fealty to man and God!

—Selected.

THE PILGRIM MONUMENT.

A CHAPTER FROM ITS UNWRITTEN HISTORY.

BY SAMUEL D. GREENE.

In February, 1850, while in Plymouth, Mass., selling Samuel G. Goodrich's Pictorial Geography, I read an interesting account of the extraordinary devotedness of the early Pilgrims to the religion of Jesus Christ, their severe trials and persecutions in their native country, and the great sacrifices they actually made in leaving their country and home, and the persecutions they actually endured to find a home by seeking a western world little known and inhabited by savages. Yet so pure was their faith in the Son of God that a home would be provided where they could enjoy that religion which was so deeply implanted in their souls, that they sought this country and landed at Plymouth. Then for a moment I looked over this extensive country, a government founded upon the Word of God, a harmonious, self-sustained republic. There was then hope that the Stars and Stripes would float over a nation purely free. My mind ran back to these great and glorious and God-like men who gave their lives, their all, to establish this land of the free. It did seem that if a country so dear actually reared a monument by its treasures and its heart to Washington, its great defender, it certainly owed a grateful remembrance to those noble Pilgrims; that a lasting monument should be erected,—a canopy built over the Rock upon which they landed to secure it from destruction, and a monument placed upon the hill as a beacon for the mariner to that port, which could be visited by succeeding ages, showing that here was the landing place, the early home and final resting place of the God-like fathers and mothers, founders of this great and glorious Republic.

My mind being known, the Pilgrim Society became interested in my views and actually made overtures, examined the premises, laid out the ground for the canopy over the rock and the monument upon the hill. It sought my terms to travel the country and raise the means to accomplish so noble and glorious a work, and in a meeting of the Pilgrim Society they accepted my terms and voted unanimously, not a dissenting voice, to gather the funds and build such a canopy and monument.

In the spring of 1850 I was in the State of Maine, and was written to by the President of the Society to meet him at No. 33, State street, Boston, to sign the papers and fulfill the contract. I came and met him there in a back office, and when about to complete the work the office door was opened and a man, unknown to me, said to the President, "What are you doing with that d—d Antimason?" The President left the room carrying his papers with him, and thus ended the contract. I have never, however, relinquished my interest in the work, but have under the present successful agent, traveled and collected funds in several States.

A few years afterwards the present design of the monument by Mr. Hammatt Billings, was accepted and he contracted with the Pilgrim Society to raise the funds and build the monument. But little progress was made in collecting funds by the first general agent, and Mr. Billings was on the point of abandoning the work, when, in consultation with the Rev. Willard M. Harding, the present financial agent, he was assured the enterprise could be accomplished. He at once arranged with Mr. Harding, who resigned his pastorate, to take entire control of the collection of funds, and through two financial panics (1857 and 1873) and years of war the canopy over the Rock has been completed and paid for, and the monument so far advanced that a contract is concluded with a gentleman to put up the figure of Faith at a cost $32,500. The figure is thirty-six feet in height and when placed in its position the monument will be reared eighty feet in height. This figure of Faith is to be surrounded by Morality, Law, Freedom and Education. As the figure of Faith is about ready and will, in a few days, be placed in its position, I am anxious and desirous that the other figures should be provided for and the monument be completed and paid for.

Notwithstanding the Freemasons sought to lay the corner-stone, and did so; yet under a kind Providence the granite was changed in color and the corner-stone that was laid by the Masons was taken from its place and thrown under the foundation, never to be seen; and, as will be seen in the Pilgrim Memorial, none of their folly or lies are placed in the vault, save the bombast and lies contained in John T. Hurd's address. All of this folly will be taken out of the Memorial in January, 1878. The great work has been done by those not Freemasons, nor in sympathy with them, and the great work of placing the figure of Faith to complete the height of the monument is done by an Anti-mason and I hope that the figures Law, Morality, Freedom and Education may be provided for by unpolluted hands that are pure from the wickedness and un-Christian principles of the lodge.

It is not generally known that the architect, Mr. Hammatt Billings, gave all his labor, besides furnishing materials for drawing models, without compensation. This fact was appropriately noticed by the Trustees of the Pilgrim Society in their resolutions at the time of his death in 1874.

An Open Letter from Gen. Phelps to Pres. Dickey.

Brattleboro, Vt., June 5, 1877.

Rev. Dr. Dickey, President of the Board of Trustees of Lincoln University, Oxford, Pa.:

My Dear Sir: From a familiar acquaintance with the benevolent work in which you have long been engaged, in elevating the African race, dating from before the late war, and resulting in the excellent institution of which you are the head, I take the liberty of addressing you this open letter on a subject that I consider of great moment to the important interests of which you are the most prominent representative.

The subject to which I would call your attention is Freemasonry in its relation to Christian education. You are doubtless aware that previous to the late war the African was not admitted into the Masonic lodges of the United States. But his exclusion therefrom, though designed in no Christian spirit toward him, tended, nevertheless, to operate in favor of the Christian religion; because Freemasonry is thoroughly paganish in its character, and an initiation into its mystifications serves only too often to unhinge the Christian faith and introduce un-Christian practices. It is therefore desirable, I think, that the African race, instead of making the bad use of their newly acquired liberty of entering the Masonic lodge, should be taught, as a matter of Christian principle to abstain from it. The lodge is a nest of deliberate falsehoods, appealing to a man's lower instead of his higher nature. It teaches the arts of fraud and deception, and is totally incompatible with the church of the apostles, since that was founded on sincerity and truth.

The American Colonization Society, the constant friend of the African race for sixty years, has always held steadily in view the Christianization of the African continent through the instrumentality of the American Negro. The qualities that would fit him for this purpose are precisely such as would also fit him to perform in the best manner possible his duties as a citizen of the United States. But our National Association opposed to Masonry believes that the vicious education given by the Masonic lodge would unfit him for both these purposes.

Our African citizens will be strongly tempted to resort to secret organized collusion in the shape of Freemasonry, in order to protect themselves against the similar Masonic collusions, such as the Golden Circle, KuKlux, etc., which have long been made use of to keep them in subjection; but while protection cannot be secured in this way (for Masonry is better designed for oppression than for protection) the remedy is fraught with evils and dangers both to the Republic and to Christianity. It threatens the religious interests of Africa as well those of the United States.

It is subversive of republican goverment for its subjects to look for protection to an organized power, of foreign origin, unknown to the institutions of the State. We are permitted in the United States to enter freely into open organizations and to bear arms openly; but we are prohibited from entering into secret collusions and to bear concealed weapons. Our African citizens have a right to be organized, armed, and trained as militia; and this, together with the courts of justice, and the freedom of the schools, the pulpit and press, ought to be protection enough. It is doubting and disparaging our government to think otherwise.

The institution over which you preside fits colored men to be good citizens of a Christian country, and moreover has a particular view to preparing them for conveying the Christian religion to the hundred and fifty millions of human beings in Africa. But it would be much to be regretted indeed, if the Africans who return from the United States to their fatherland should bear our vices with them instead of our virtues, or should mingle easily avoided vices with virtues, and especially this worst and most unnecessary vice of all—Freemasonry, which is an inheritance from pagan times and the corrupt societies of the old world. It has stolen from Europe into America like an infectious disease in old garments, and there is no need of its being transferred to Africa. What we desire is, to get rid of the Fetiches already there, instead of adding thereto those of the Masonic lodge. By sending those there, back to their native origin it might be said, we should but give to Africa another state of society like that of Abyssinia.

Hoping, my dear sir, that though you may not possibly favor these views personally, you will nevertheless permit them to be made known to the pupils of Lincoln University through our Anti-masonic organ the Christian Cynosure, I remain with the greatest respect,

Very truly yours,
J. W. Phelps.

Masonry and its Objections.

[On the 3d of May we published the account of the Masonic trial of W. H. Sanderson of Brandon, Vt. The following is the paper presented to the lodge at the trial, giving his objections to the order.—Ed. Cyn.]

BY W. H. SANDERSON.

1. It is a Secret Society.

What is the general influence of secret associations? Has not history shown it to be evil? Not denying that good has been the result of individual action of its members oftentimes, and done in such a manner as to intimate that it was the general result. But the individual is not the association. It is the combined units in secrecy which constitute the real power, and the general result of that power or "secret empire" is not on the side of right. Look at history. Commence with the secret plot of the Jews to seize Christ under the cover of darkness and the betrayal kiss by which he was made known and taken from the Garden of Gethsemane—this Christ whom Masonry rejects!—that "Stone" which the builders "set at naught," but is become the "Head of the corner." Look at the slaughter of the Innocents, at the Inquisition of the middle ages, the secret plots all over the world in all ages, organized for selfish ends to the destruction of lives and nations. We need not go out of our own land for this. Look at the aristocratic tories of the Revolution and their plots, at the secret societies and rings all over our country to-day. What was and is Tammany? What were the Knights of the Golden Circle? the Union League and the White Leagues? What is the KuKlux? What is the good resulting from the I. O. of O. F., grangers, Grand Army and Good Templars, as bodies? What has been the work of the political rings in every village? Look at Washington to-day and witness the result of their machinations; no explanation is necessary.

Where did all these secret societies originate, save in the lodge of Masonry? as they all have forms and ceremonies moulded after those of Masonry, and many Masons belong to them all.

Secrecy is condemned by God's Holy Word. That is, the secrecy of which we speak. Let us listen to our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, while speaking to the High Priest concerning his disciples and his doctrines: "And Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue and the temple whither the Jews always resort, and in secret have I said nothing." (John 18: 20.) Does this indicate that Christ wishes his religion to be a secret, and to be had only by the payment of certain sums of money? No! He spake openly in the temple, that all might hear and see. "But men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil."

Again hear Paul's injunction to the Ephesians:

"And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret. But all things that are reproved are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light." (Eph. v., 11–14.)

What can these verses refer to unless it be to the wicked associations of the heathen of those days using their secret powers for the overthrow of Christ's kingdom, a conclave of the ancient mysteries of which antique Masonry—if there were ever such an institution, must have been cotemporary, if not the same, which accords with the traditions recorded by Mackey, Oliver and other Masonic writers. These are sufficient reasons to my mind for a Christian man to abstain from secret associations of every description. In union there is strength; but let the union of every good effort be open and subject to the scrutiny of the world. If any thing is good it will always be recognized as such.

2. Masonry is a religion and claims to be saving religion.

Its buildings are erected to God.(?) The question here arises, who is the Mason's God? Masonry is universal, therefore the ideal God of Masonry must be reconciled to all the nations of the earth. As God is recognized as the great law-giver what then is the fundamental law of Masonry? Now every individual and every tribe on the face of the earth, Christian or heathen, have their own god or ideal ruler, therefore the business of Masonry is to reconcile or harmonize them all, and establish a code of laws for the government of the universe of man. What is the result? It can be no better expressed than by the words of Conybeare and supported by Mackey, "that the law or religion of nature is so-called either because it is founded on the reason or nature of things, or else because it is discovered to us in the use of those faculties which we enjoy;" and "a perfect collection of all those moral doctrines and precepts which have a foundation in the nature and reason of things, is therefore the only law suited in every respect to be adopted as the Masonic code." (Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence, p. 503.)

And again, as Mackey says:

"And this was wisely done, for it is evident that no law less universal could have been appropriately selected for the government of an institution whose prominent characteristic is its universality. The precepts of Jesus could not have been made obligatory on a Jew, a Christian would have denied the sanctions of the Koran; a Mohammedan must have rejected the the law of Moses; and a disciple of Zoroaster would have turned from all to the teachings of his Zend Avesta." (Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence, p. 502.)

What then is the result of this except to reject the true and only God and as an equivalent establish a principle of self-government wherein man is ruled by a perverted mind. This is all that is required of the Mason, that he believe in a God. It matters not whether it be the true or a false. But to express it in a few words let us again refer to Mackey:

"The religion then of Masonry is pure Theism, on which its different members engraft their own peculiar opinions; but they are not permitted to introduce them into the lodge, or to connect their truth or falsehood with the truth of Masonry." (Lexicon, p. 404.)

Therefore the religion of Masonry is Christless and false. Notwithstanding that the Masons are called the "sons of light," and that by practicing the teachings of Masonry they expect to reach that "Grand Lodge above," yet what can they answer after rejecting Christ, when God's Holy Word declares this:

"Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole. Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." —Acts 4: 10, 12.

Masonry then cannot be a saving religion.

But it is claimed that the Bible is the principal piece of "furniture" of the lodge, the others being the "square and compass." "Furniture!" That truly expresses the idea – merely a convenience in Christian countries and no part of Masonry. But say they, "Do we not use the Bible in our ceremonies?" I answer yes. But there is no Bible without Christ and as Masonry rejects him the Bible can form no part of the fundamental principles of the institution.

Let us listen to Masonic authority on this point:

Chase (Digest of Masonic Law, 1864, page 206) says:

"To require that a candidate profess his belief in the divine authenticity of the Bible, or a state of future rewards and punishments, is a serious innovation in the very body of Masonry."

Again, "It is Anti-masonic to require any religious test other than that the candidate believe in a God, the creator and governor of the universe."

Again, page 208 same work, "Freemasonry calls no man to account for his belief of any religion on the globe."

Also, same work and page, "Masonry has nothing whatever to do with the Bible. It is not founded on the Bible. If it were it would not be Masonry, it would be something else."

Here then we see that Masonry is a false religion.

3. Masonry is a blasphemy and a mockery.

In all the ceremonies of the lodge there is a caricature of the actions of holy men and a mockery of sacred things in the representation of the death and resurrection of our blessed Redeemer, who is rejected by the fraternity; consequently it is a blasphemy on his holy name.

Private and Social Wars.

The great and constant war is a private one. The idea of a perpetual war amongst nations, would fill us with consternation. And yet there is war in constant operation everywhere but in heaven. There are little fighting squads in numerous neighborhoods, families, schools, and even churches, which are the pest of society. Neighbors—some few in most neighborhoods,seem possessed of the devil in this respect, and they seldom meet but at it they go like belligerent cats. No one doubts but that the same fiend is a constant guest in some families, and that fathers and mothers, husbands and wives, brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts, abound, who are stupid enough to get into a passion with each other and indulge in angry feelings and hard words. You can hardly take an ordinary walk but you will see children who have too well learned the lesson taught them by "children of a larger growth," who are making faces, shaking fists and shooting words, and perhaps pulling hair, like old veteran soldiers. And alas! you can hardly go to a church meeting without soon becoming aware that it is the church militant that has assembled, and that the god of war is present.

If we privately indulge in the spirit and practice of war, what wonder that we easily fall into the habit of public war. Your private man of war is your public man of war, as he reaches places of trust. Your fighting boys become your fighting men. It is slow work inducing nations to resort to arbitration where the individuals of a community are cultivating the war spirit. We must lay the ax at the root of the tree here as in all other vices.

The perpetual din of private war is the cause of much wretchedness and sin. How many families have their greatest troubles in the fact that some of the members have no patience or forbearance. The God of Peace as much forbids private war as public, and as much invites his children to cultivate in themselves, each one for himself, the graces of peace, as he does nations.

The Jesuits' Method.

The nature of the tactics of Jesuits was exemplified in the attempt made to introduce popery into Sweden by Jesuits in the garb of Protestant preachers. This is graphically described in a recent work by a member of the English Parliament, Mr. Cartwright, entitled "The Jesuits," from which the following is taken:

"In 1576 there arrived in Stockholm two individuals who professed to be Protestant preachers. In truth they were Jesuits from Louvain, by name Florence Feyt and Laurence Lasse, the latter being a native of Norway. The former has left an account of their proceedings on this mission. According to this statement these missionaries concealed their profession by command of their superiors, and passed themselves off as sound Lutherans. A Protestant seminary had recently been founded in the capital as a nursery for efficient clergymen. The two Jesuits contrived to make such impression by their learning as to acquire the privilege to teach from the chairs of the institute. Their lectures became so highly considered, that it was enjoinod on the Stockholm clergy to attend them. The method they pursued was to take a text of the writings of the Reformers, and then insidiously to impugn their authority without seeming to do so. After a while these tactics appeared to produce their effect in a certain number of conversions. Nevertheless, King John could not be brought to take the final step of declared submission to Rome. There was then despatched to reinforce the apparently inadequate strength of those already in the field, a Jesuit Father of renown for his services to the church—Anthony Possevino—who was speedily followed by others of his body under various disguises. Possevino was an adroit controvertialist who admirably understood how to smooth down difficulties and dissolve into vapor the obstacles of conscience. He found the means for rendering it possible for King John to take the Communion from him,to receive absolution,and make a profession of faith, with which he then sped to Rome. There, however, Possevino failed in obtaining any of the concessions King John asked for, and which the Jesuit had plausibly held out to him a prospect of obtaining. When Possevino again landed in Sweden—this time no longer in the costume of a civilian, but clothed as a Roman ecclesiastic—he encountered a situation seriously modified. The disappointment of a royal mind wounded in its susceptibilities, combined with the awakened strength of Protestant feeling to thwart the further progress of Catholic reaction. Possevino and his fellow-laborers soon saw reason to quit Sweden, and to abandon their efforts as hopeless. It is not, however, the historical result attending their efforts, but the method in which their efforts were applied, which is deserving of attention. It is impossible to declare ingenuous and honest a mode of procedure such as that which these Jesuit fathers adopted with a view of paving a way into the entrenchments of Protestant Sweden. What they did was done solely under calculation to steal a march, under protection of a treacherous mask, with the view of circumventing and ultimately getting the better of a hostile element, by means of a stratagem, that must be acknowledged to have been simply deceitful."—Ex.

Masonic History Reviewed.

History of the Abduction of Wm. Morgan and the Anti-masonic Excitement of 1826-30, with many Details and Incidents never before published. By A. P. Bentley, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, 1874.

This book, written in the interest of Freemasonry, has for its objects to misrepresent and belittle the great Anti-masonic movement of fifty years ago, which grew out of the revelations and the murder of Morgan. The author says: "The order of Freemasonry and its constituent members were most unwarrantably assailed by the devotees of a faction, but time has completely alleviated the asperities of political or fanatical zeal, and no defence is required at this day. Anti-masonry has long ceased to trouble the public mind and those who were its most zealous advocates have acknowledged their error and the injustice they did to the institution." This is a specimen of the misrepresentation and falsehood which characterizes the whole book. Who of the prominent Anti-masons of forty years ago ever acknowledged his error and the injustice he did to the institution? Has Anti-masonry died out?

The most marked feature of the book is its attempt to blacken the character and contradict the testimony of David Bernard and other eminent Christian men.

1. It says of Morgan's book: "It is a burlesque in its typographical appearance and its matter a jumble of inconsistencies and absurdities. He does not directly assert that his exposition of Masonry was wholly false, but he (Masonic like) meanly insinuates it. He doubtless knows that many of our noblest Christian men have affirmed that that exposition was true, and that its correctness was sustained by the sworn testimony of adhering Masons, yet by insinuation he seeks to blacken the character of these men and make it appear that they were liars and slanderers.

Of the Leroy Convention of seceding Masons he says: "Elder David Bernard seems to have been their leader" who "states that there were forty Masons present," but he intimates that there were not more than ten or twelve and they were disreputable characters. The truth is that the real Leroy Convention met on July 4, 1828, where one hundred and three seceding Masons—many of them men of eminent character—solemnly declared that the revelations of Morgan were true. Of Elder Bernard he says, "For years he was a most vindictive and malignant persecutor of Masonry. He was charged with many disreputable acts, and after the excitement ceased was very unpopular in Genesee county." He represents him as repenting of his Anti-masonic zeal, and refusing to aid in any warfare against Masonry. The truth is that the last years of Elder Bernard's life were most earnestly devoted to that warfare. Gov. Ritner he represents as an ignorant old Dutchman and the tool of Thad. Stevens, but of none of her governors has Pennsylvania more reason to be proud than of her able and conscientious Ritner. The Hon. John C. Spencer he represents as a traitor to his clients, as vindictive and guilty of subornation of perjury. (See p. 75.) Pres. J. Q. Adams, Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Francis Granger and Thurlow Weed each come in for a share of abuse. It is mainly against the churches and the ministry that he writes. He charges them with all manner of intolerance, bigotry and falsehood, and that the ministry of the Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches were especially guilty of slanders and persecution.

The book as a whole shows considerable historical research and a fair degree of talent which unfortunately for its author has been devoted to falsehood and slander in the interests of Fremasonry.

Wheaton, Ill., June 7, 1877.

Wheaton College.

Correspondence of the Inter-ocean, June 12.

Notwithstanding Pres. Blanchard insists upon calling the action of the citizens of Wheaton and vicinity toward influencing a change in the administration of the college, whereby it may be relieved from its present financial troubles and general unpopularity, a "Masonic movement," the work is still being carried on by the real friends and principal donors of the college, most of whom have never been in a secret lodge. A large number of gentlemen who have signed the petition lately circulated met at the house of Moses Wells, Esq., a prominent citizen and member of the Congregational church of Wheaton, on Thursday evening last, to determine a future course. Speeches were made by several gentlemen present, and it was unanimously agreed that, although Mr. Blanchard and others of his family are repeatedly making and publishing in the Cynosure, managed by them, statements that are unqualifiedly false and very ungentlemanly, nothing should be said or published by the gentlemen present opposed to the Blanchards of a personal or abusive character, it being thought that any meritorious cause could not be promoted by attacking any individual, whatever his conduct may have been. A suggestion was made that a criticism upon Mr. Blanchard's conduct and a statement of his record in detail be published, but the proposition was not urged, and a great many untruths and unworthy publications will therefore go unanswered and unrebuked.

For the purpose of making some arrangement to fairly present the interests of the community of persons who have given largely to Wheaton college, and have been pained to see the increasing unpopularity, an executive committee, consisting of seven prominent gentlemen, was appointed. Only one of the seven thus chosen is a Mason, and it is intended to entirely ignore the Masonic question in the movement, which is intended to assist in rescuing the college from a course that must, if continued, bring swift destruction. The committee was instructed to use all honorable means that might be suggested to have the questions involved in the petitions which have been so numerously signed fairly presented to the Board of Trustees of the college at their next meeting, to be held on the 26th inst.

It does not seem probable that the Trustees will disregard the wishes of so many influential and prominent citizens. It is said that Mr. Blanchard and his son and son-in-law are circulating among some of the signers of the petition heretofore published a counter petition, setting forth that nothing personal to the President was intended, but thus far very few, if any, have been deceived, and the persons approached refuse to stultify themselves. All the people generally wish is that President Blanchard and his sons and sons-in-law quietly wander to other pastures, so that help for the college can be obtained. No desire to injure any one of them has been shown. Veritas.

From the Inter-ocean, June 14.

It is perhaps unwise to take any notice of the repeated anonymous attacks on the management of Wheaton College, and I will not endeavor to answer the malicious charges. Lest the public should be misled by false statements, however, please give place to the following facts:

1. The principal donors of the college have not signed the famous petition. The Treasurer's books show over twenty names of persons each of whom has given more to aid the college than any of the signers, and a number of these have each given more than all the signers put together. This is not saying anything derogatory to liberal donors who signed the petition, for there may be a few such.

2. The President, his son, and son-in-law are not circulating any counter petition; neither do they know of the existence of such counter petition. Their character and position do not depend on the number of names that may be appended to petitions; moreover, the petition itself is entirely respectful, and a number of the signers have volunteered the information that they do not indorse the interpretation given to it in the papers. That the leaders in the movement intend it against President Blanchard, I do not care to dispute. Yours respectfully, H. A. Fischer, Treas.

Wheaton, June 12, 1877.

—In one of his popular discourses Mr. Moody says most truly: "A faithful servant of God is sure to have enemies, watching for a chance to get him out of the way."

"Giving in."—It is better to yield a little than quarrel a great deal. The habit of standing up, as people call it, for their (little) rights, is one of the most disagreeable and undignified in the world. Life is too short for the perpetual bickering which attends such a disposition; and unless a very momentous affair indeed, where other people's claims and interests are involved, it is a question if it is not wiser, happier and more prudent to yield somewhat of our precious rights than squabble to maintain them. True wisdom is first pure then peaceable and gentle.

The more we fear God the less we shall fear men.

Religious Intelligence.

—The Book Committee and Publishing and Missionary Associations of the Wesleyan church were held June 1st in Syracuse. Revs. S. H. Foster and N. Wardner were chosen as special missionary agents to travel and collect funds through the conferences with a view to extending the missionry fields in the South. The Book Committee appointed Revs. D. S. Kinney and G. M. Hardy a committee to investigate the propriety of offering a reward of one hundred dollars for writing a Sabbath school book showing the evils of secret societies.

—The Moravian of May 31st states that the statistics of the three Provinces of the Moravian church for the year 1876 have been received, and show a total of 30,356 members. This is exclusive of the "Diaspora and the Foreign Missions." The German Province consists of 25 churches and 7,791 members; the British Province contains 40 churches and 5,172 members; the American Province contains 75 churches and 16,080 members. This province, therefore, contains more than half of the members. The churches of the German Province are in Saxony, Prussia, Switzerland, Holland and Russia. There are four churches in Bohemia, which are separately administered, and there is one in Australia; there are also two in Wales, and there is one in Scotland.

—The Emperor Alexander of Russia has written to the Synod of the Orthodox Greek Church, thanking that body on its completion of the translation of the Bible, and then says, "Let the church address its most earnest prayers to God. Let it continue to manifest the sanctifying power of his word for the progress of the Russian people in faith and piety, on which rests the true welfare of empires and nations."

—Forty Roman Catholics at Waterville, Maine, have recently, under the preaching of Father Chiniquy, renounced that church, and professed Protestantism.

—The late United Presbyterian General Assembly, says the Christian Instructor, appointed the following ministers and elders to attend the Presbyterian Council, which is to open in Edinburgh, Scotland, on the 3d of July: Ministers—J. T. Cooper, D.D., of Allegheny, Pa.; J. B. Dales, D.D., of Philadelphia, Pa.; J. C. Boyd, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; John A. Wilson, of St. Louis, Mo.; D. E. Shaw, of Keokuk, Iowa. Ruling Elders—John Thompson, Henry Harrison, Thomas Stinson and James Dawson. Revs. James Harper, D.D. and G. Lansing, D.D., with D. R. Kerr, D.D., alternate, had been previously appointed. Drs. Kerr and Cooper have sailed and others will in a few days. Dr. Lansing is already on the ground, having attended also the United Presbyterian Synod of Scotland and the General Assemblies there.

—Rev. H. N. Barnum of Harpoot, in Asiatic Turkey, writes as follows of the work in the sixty-seven outstations connected with the mission: "The Protestant community numbers about 7,000 souls, being an increase of 700 upon the previous year. The eighty-four schools have had about 3,000 pupils. These schools have been the means of the establishment of many other schools, partly to keep the children from Protestant influences, and in part because our schools have illustrated the value of education. In this way thousands of children and a good many adults are acquiring an education through their indirect influence. Probably 2,000 girls are in school, to say nothing of the thousands of women and girls who have already learned to read, and this in a district where eighteen years ago female education was unknown, and where it was considered a shame for a woman or girl to entertain even the desire to read. Now, however, public sentiment is changed, and females who do not know how to read begin to hang their heads when the subject is mentioned. During the past year 104 persons joined the twenty-two churches of this field on profession of their faith, making a present total membership of 1,304."

At the late meeting of the United Presbyterian Board of Missions in Coulterville, Ill., fifty-one representatives were present, including one from Egypt and one from India. They reported 112 ministers in the Home Mission field. They granted aid during the year to 187 mission stations. Reports received from these stations show a membership of 8,700; average attendance, 15,700; Sabbath-school attendance, 8,300; addition to membership the past year, 1,284. They granted for the coming year $39,776; to the special missions at Omaha, Topeka, Burlington and Indianapolis, each $800; Chicago, $500. In view of the transfer by the United States government of the Warm Springs Indian Agency in Oregon to the United Presbyterian church, the sum of $1,500 was appropriated to that Mission, and the appointment of the missionary and matron recommended.

—Sundays, June 24 and July 1, will be observed throughout the Presbyterian church as days of prayer for the Pan-Presbyterian Conference, to convene July 4 in Edinburgh.

Reform News.

The DuPage County Association.

After a long interval this Association held a convention in Wheaton this week beginning on Sabbath evening and continuing through the next day. We have only room this week for a brief report of an address on Monday evening by Rev. Dr. J. B. Walker.

After prayer by Rev. L. Taylor, of the College church, the exercises were continued by an address by Dr. Walker, who, in his usual clear and forcible style, made it evident to all how the members of the DuPage County Association and the citizens of Wheaton were not singular in their reform principles, but coincide with those of some of the most eminent men our country has produced; as Webster, Adams, Sumner, Seward, Fillmore, Marshall and others who have written against Freemasonry in as forcible language as can be used by any one present. He continued in the most admirable manner to prove from the Scriptures that Christians should not only separate themselves from secret societies but should openly reprove them. Speaking and acting their convictions for the truth is enjoined. Christ plainly put himself on record against secretism. We are forbidden by Christ to swear against our life—"by thy head." Masons were commanded not only to leave the lodge, but also to become open seceders. They must reveal as well as demit. This was shown very clearly from Lev. 5:4. The lodge teaches morality, but at the same time swears its members to gross immorality in the very same evening. Good men are associated with the bad in the lodge. But the bad men rule and the good men, though they generally demit, yet they must obey the summons of the bad. The case of Judge Brinkerhoff of Ohio, though attending the lodge but once or twice for years, yet an important meeting being held by the lodge in Mansfield, a summons was sent to him and he was obliged to answer it. The cases of Keith of Belvidere and Vanderpool of Michigan, were narrated and excellent applications were made of them in the argument for the truth. The use of the names of the saints John was shown to be an abuse. Saint Herod should be called the patron saint of the order. Other doctrines of the Scripture were shown to be blasphemously used in the lodge, as that of the resurrection. The degrading position of a minister who should unite with the lodge was dwelt upon severely. The speaker could not understand how such men could join the Masons when they knew what had been revealed. The Masons opposed the interests of the State, as in the whisky frauds lately brought to light. The lodge seeks to put its members and friends in the highest places in the church. This had come under his observation in connection with the National Congregational Council which had made Grand Chaplain A. H. Quint, its permanent secretary. In the Methodist Book Concern in Cincinnati he had observed that Freemasons had been in charge for many years. He closed with a brief exhortation to all to heed the words of Christ and the testimony of good men and avoid any connection with the secret orders.

The address was regarded as one of the best Dr. Walker ever made upon this subject.

From Chautauqua County N. Y.

Ellington, N. Y.

Editor Christian Cynosure: It is right and proper you should know something, at least, of the result of our Anti-masonic convention held here on the 21st, 22d, and 23d ult.

Judging from appearances it was a grand success. Brother Ronayne, by the help of the Lord, advanced our cause in a wonderful degree, so that our star-spangled banner with its ample folds, floats in the heavenly breezes most gloriously upward, while the flag of our enemy is tending downward. Glory to the name of our God for such a victory as was gained the three days and nights of the convention.

The delegates were not numerous from abroad, but quite a number of very interesting letters were sent in answer to those giving invitations to be present, and one especially from Mrs. Jenks of Cheshire, Massachusetts, who greatly desired to be present, but could not come. Yet her prayers were offered for the success of the meeting. When the church of Christ in its various branches shall unitedly make prayer

[Continued on page 9.]

Correspondence.

Is it Misapplied? Matt. 13: 24–30.

Mr. Editor: In the Cynosure of 31st May, page 2nd, is an article on the Scripture injunction, "Be ye separate," by Rev. J. B. Crall. To my mind his reasoning is sound and his conclusions correct, but it seems to me that his reference to the parable of the tares and wheat is unnecessary and unfortunate, for the reason that this passage is entirely irrelevant to the subject. Once admit that this parable relates to matters in the church and it will embarrass every attempt at church discipline. How could we distinguish between members in the church subject to discipline and those to be let alone till the "harvest, the end of the world?" We should be in painful doubt in every attempt at corrective discipline, and the wily transgressor would at every turn thunder in our ears, "let both grow together until the harvest," and it would demand more than human powers to see clearly and act positively in any given case. I would not dare lift my hand against any transgressor without a special and positive command from God to do so, if the parable of the tares applies to church action. "The tares are the children of the wicked one," not a certain class of them, to be picked out by human discretion and so retained in church. "Let both grow together," all of both, "till the harvest," not discriminate between them and so take a part of them out. Is there an intimation that there is any difficulty in detecting the tares? I do not see that there is. What some writers say of the close resemblance between the wheat and the tares may be true, but no doubt or uncertainty is expresed by the servants of the householder. "From whence then hath it tares?"

Whatever else the parable means it evidently teaches us that God's people, as such, hold not the sword of vengeance; that the sword is "put up," as in the command to Peter, that the righteous are not here to eradicate the wicked from the world, but leave God with his celestial reapers to see to that in the "great day of his wrath." "The field is the world, not the church, and when we regard the deep-rooted impression even of the disciples that the kingdom of heaven was to be a temporal power and that its main mission was to elevate the subjects of said kingdom to regal honors and temporal glory, and so root up the wicked opposers of this kingdom, we mav see the force and beauty of the parable. Here, to my understanding, is the point and bearing of this parable, the commentators to the contrary notwithstanding.

The grand errors of the so-called church in the ages of persecution is confronted by the parable. Connecting church with state and then seizing the sword which Jesus ordered into its sheath, the hordes of persecuting, uprooting "saints" fly to God's great field, which is the world, and so with carnal weapons root up God's wheat and leave the tares to grow. Surely there is scope enough here for this beautiful parable without applying it to the church and restricting it there as some do. When we look at the propensity of even good men to be intolerant and persecuting, we see the need of just such a a parable.

If my good brother Crall, or any other of your contributors, regard my views of the passage in question as erroneous, let them lead my mind to better understand it. This article is by no means intended as an attack upon Bro. C., whom, though I never saw, I love and respect. Nathan Callender.

Bro. Wheeler before his Old Lodge—Not a Religion.

South Edwards, N. Y., June 6, 1877.

I have been waiting some time for leisure to write a few. words for the Cynosure, for: 1st, it is a good way to speak with friends who know us and read this paper; and 2nd, I have something to say.

1. The Lord willing, I am to speak upon the subject of Masonry at Fine, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., June 23d at 2 p. m. Here I expect to meet Masons and their sympathizers, with some Anti-masons—a congregation largely made up of those who have known me for years. I was pastor here when I joined the Masons, serving three years, and, again when I left them, serving three-fourths of a year. Now I am living within the bounds of the same charge, superanuated. Masons have expressed a desire to hear me, and I have said that I would like to speak to them and others. We are agreed and it is so arranged. I think that it would be a good time to distribute books and tracts, and if I had them I should try it.

There has never been an Anti-masonic lecture in these parts and Masons have had it all their own way, until of late some are getting their eyes open. One, a prominent and influential member of the M. E.

church, has openly withdrawn, and others are secretly opposed to the order but do not speak out.

I have said that Masons have expressed a desire to hear me, yet not all. A simple statement from the desk, made by the writer, viz.: "I would like to speak on the subject of Masonry in this place (Fine), and show why I think Masonry wrong," produced deep indignation in some; but it set the thing in motion and finally the Masons became very bold and talked it around. "We will open the lodge for him and will all turn out and hear him." They have not said this to me, neither do they mention Masonry in my presence, i. e., adhering Masons do not; but it is dealt out round about, no doubt for effect, and finally it comes to me. It is however due to say that the trustee of the district, (they have no church, though Fine is quite a village), is a Mason, and yet he readily consented that I should have the school-house.

Well, I will leave this and report results after the lecture, if permitted.

2. The next that I want to say is, I want to give my most hearty endorsement to the position of friend Woodward—I think it is—who some time ago wrote in the Cynosure claiming that Masonry is not a religion. I felt like shaking hands with him at once on that point, and have wanted to give my endorsement to it ever since reading the article. I had accepted the common view as taught by Anti-masons, and yet, the idea has ever seemed an incongruity, and why I did not see at once that it was wrong seems now strange, and that the brethren who write and speak upon this subject do not see that it is incorrect is quite as strange.

The point in this. Masonry is no more a religion than it is a science. It claims both, but each claim is alike false. There is not science enough in Masonry to make an A B C graduate. The most that I ever discovered of science in the lodge was the single letter "G" suspended from the ceiling. I know that we are told that this letter represents the name of God, and that it also stands for Geometry. But I know too that Masonry teaches us nothing about God, and just as little about Geometry. What though there is religious ceremony connected with Masonry? It is mock ceremony. The truth is, as to all claims of goodness, or greatness, or usefulness, or mysteriousness, indeed put in everything of claim, and you have a huge system of fuss and parade, the whole being but an empty show.

Masonry is not a religion of any kind in any sense. I know that it puts on a religious garb and that some of its votaries tell us that it is all the religion they want. "It is a good religion enough for me," say many, but the truth is, such evidently want no religion. It is good enough for them just because as to religion it is good for nothing. Yes, and this is true of it in every point of view. It is good for nothing.

It is also true that its teachers call it a religion and they set it above all other names as such, and it is claimed, too, that Masonry fits men to live and to die, and gives them an entrance into a grand lodge above. But as it is true that there is no grand lodge above, so it is equally true there is no religion in Masonry, neither is there in it any principle of good, or of that which is calculated to make men so.

No, nor is it yet religious. No man is made religious in the least sense in any form of religion by becoming a Mason, but the reverse is true especially as to true religion and sound moral principle. Moral principle is stagnated by Masonry and religion is shaded in its dark mists. I know brethren think that they make a point by allowing that Masonry is a religion, though it is a false religion; but, brethren, we make nothing by allowing false claims, or by building upon false principles.

Brethren, I am with you in the conflict against secret orders, though living in the midst of Masonry far from Anti-masonic centers; but trust that the Lord will use me and give to my efforts and yours success.

EPHRAIM W. WHEELER.

THE TRIALS OF A HUNGRY TEMPERANCE MAN IN TOLEDO.

TOLEDO, O., June 7, 1877.

I learned of a man from Pennsylvania, who at Crestline fell from a moving train yesterday while intoxicated, and was so injured that his arm had to be amputated. Frequent and similar occurrences prove that it is far better for a man traveling to keep sober. The total abstainer always has the advantage of the man with his head "muddled," and yet a consistent abstinence from intoxicating drinks and all complicity with the traffic is attended with inconvenience in a city like this.

I landed here at 12 M. with a good appetite and immediately instituted search for a "square meal" at a reasonable price, and without patronizing a "rum shop." At the "Island House" I encountered exorbitance and whisky. Crossing the canal to the "Tremont" I met with no better success; a little further on to the "Belmont" brought me face to face with the "demon" enthroned and his degraded subjects. Turning from hotels I started up Summit street peering into eating houses, restaurants, etc., determined not to be baffled, at least without a thorough effort. But all to little purpose, the inevitable "grog" was everywhere. Seeing a policeman on the opposite side of the street I went to him hoping to get a clue to the coveted meal without the "lager." Here again I was doomed to disappointment. Such a thing as a restaurant without grog in Toledo was a thing unknown to this city functionary.

It occurred to me on reflection that Major Whittle had been laboring here during the past winter and that probably there was a Young Men's Christian Association in the city that could render me some assistance, so instead of inquiring where I could get "food without whisky" I asked for the Association Rooms. Finding at length a man who directed me to Mr. Price's store for information. I made my way thither and inquiring out the proprietor I said to him, "I am a temperance man and carry my principles with me when I travel. I am a stranger in your city and was directed to you as a man who could probably tell me where I could buy a dinner without patronizing a liquor saloon." Mr. P. expressed some surprise at so novel and unusual an occurrence and called to passers by to stop and see a man who was seeking to obtain a dinner without helping to sustain the liquor business.

At length, after a brief consultation among the brethren, I was directed to proceed to a given point on High street and turn to the right where in the rear of a building the front part of which was occupied for a saloon, I would find a "darkey" who would probably accommodate me. Following the instructions thus kindly given I entered a dingy alley about four feet wide, at the remote end of which I encountered five or six "sable sons" who gave me every desired attention, and I was very soon in the happy condition of a healthy man with a full stomach after protracted abstinence from food and vigorous effort in search of it.

Thus much for being a consistent temperance man in Toledo, and even now I have some misgivings as to whether I really accomplished my purpose. That ominous front room with its supply of "liquids" which a man commonly called "white" was dealing out in liberal portions to numerous customers, and the juxtaposition of the two rooms with "an open door" between, suggested the thought that the bartender and the cook at least had an understanding between them and were probably about equally "ebon" in the region of the heart, although it must be conceded that the African's exterior was far less repulsive than that of his Saxon brother.

Seriously, it does seem to me, that if there are any temperance people in Toledo they ought to make provisions so that temperance men and women visiting their city would not be compelled either to fast or aid in sustaining one of the most fearful evils with which our land and especially our cities are being scourged.

Why not make the establishment of "temperance inns" near depots in our large cities a part of the "Murphy movement"? I am sure all really temperance people would patronize them, and besides it would be a great protection and help to the reformed men. It would be like renewing his pledge every time he bought his dinner at such an establishment. J. P. STODDARD.

INITIATED.

LOSTANT, Ill.

It was done this way: We sauntered into one of our village stores; found an intelligent old gentleman (a non-Mason) descanting in a fluent manner on the sublimity of the spiritual temple as described by Mackey in his Cryptic Masonry, a Royal Arch standing by with the illuminating volume in his hand which he had kindly loaned to his elderly friend. "Cryptic Masonry," says the old gentleman, "what is it? "Don't know," says the Royal Arch, "that's further 'long 'n we've got." "Loan it to us," said I, "and we will try and find out." "Certainly," replied he, "nothin' secret 'bout this."

Masonic like, we waited for the shades of night to conceal us; skulked off into a secluded spot; stealthily brought forth the mysterious volume, and began to seek after light. "Cryptic Masonry," subterranean, concealed, Masonry of the secret vault, lawful (as Mackey informs us) only for the initiated to peer within its sacred precincts—and there we sat devouring the contents of this forbidden volume until (according to Mackey) we were "illuminated," circumambulated, tetragrammatated and transported into the very sanctum sanctorum of Masonry.

And now for our experience. Well, it is grand. True, our transit has been somewhat sudden, and our spiritual temple may be a little shaky, lacking as it does the foundation that should have been laid in the few degrees below; but then can we not insert these foundation stones at some future time? If our Masonic friends will not furnish us the means we will wait until the Anti-masons bring Ronayne around. Then we can finish our spiritual structure. Our faculty of benevolence is wonderfully waked up. Should we meet a minister who is so far disqualified for his duties as never to have been Masonically illuminated, we will do it for nothing; and as this is the only job Masonry does free of charge we feel that we have arrived to the full height of Masonic benevolence. We are ambitious to prove our faith by our works, and would be willing to help do anything to forward the cause, from the chivalrous feat of helping to egg some stray and defenceless lecturer up to the exalted occupation of running a Methodist conference. There is one great drawback on our happiness. No congenial spirit to commune with. Reader, if you know of any bird of our feather, one who has passed the "circle of perfection," send us his address. We look down with contempt on the "mud sills" of the fraternity. But if we can find an affinity in some one who has arrived at our height—some doctor of divinity, some rumseller, some honest man, some rogue, some—well anybody—our happiness would be complete.

A word to our brother Masons before closing. All through the land there are faithful "Jack-masons" supporting our cause. They render efficient service in many ways, especially in the work of "bull-dozing" ministers, merchants, trustees of churches, etc. We fear in their work they are governed by mercenary motives and should the opposition offer them more "loaves and fishes" than we, they may desert and go over to the enemy. Something should be done to hold them. Here is our plan: Masonry offers them no reward only in this world. Let one be promised them in the next. They would then walk by faith as well as by sight. Let a back seat be offered them in the Grand Lodge above, and let it be to them the "Master's wages." They could soon be trained to the new order of things, and taught to say many flattering things of themselves as they now do of us. For instance, "If a man is a perfect Jack he is half a Christian."

MOST EXCELLENT KING.

Home and Farm.

SAVING FRUIT TREES.

Having heard a good many farmers complaining lately, because their fruit and shade trees were dying, I thought that it might be interesting to the readers of the Wesleyan who are thus troubled, to know how to save them. I have saved a good many trees by simply driving nails into them, and have never tried the experiment where there was any life in the tree, without meeting with success. A year ago last July I visited the orchard of brother Silas Powers, in Oceana county, Mich., and he pointed to three large trees that had borne no fruit for two years, and the leaves then turned yellow, were rolling up and falling off. I recommended the use of about a dozen nails to each tree, and let the incident pass from my mind. Last July I visited his orchard again, and he called my attention to the three trees which he operated upon, and which I had forgotten. The trees were more heavily loaded with apples than any others in his orchard. The main limbs had to be propped in order to keep them from breaking down. This is only one of the many cases that have come under my observation, and I think that the plan can be safely recommended. It might be interesting to some to hear from brother Powers, concerning the present condition of his trees. Some may ask, What is the philosophy of all this? I can only give my opinion, which is this: I suppose it works upon the tree system the same as tincture of iron works upon the human system. Agricultural papers advise farmers to throw old plow points and other old iron around the roots of the trees, so that the sap may finally get the influence of the iron and rust. Why not give the sap the immediate benefit by driving the iron into the tree.—E. W. BRUCE in the Wesleyan.

CISTERNS.

J. H., of Sicola, Iowa, in a letter to the Inter-Ocean, says: I wish to inquire whether a cistern can be built with a partition of brick laid in mortar across the center of the cistern so that the water running into one part will filter through the brick and fill the other part of the cistern. I have heard that the above plan has been used and considered the best way for filtering.

Reply.—This plan will work well for a short time, until the brick are filled with sediment, when it becomes worse than none. The better way is to build the wall through the center, leaving out at the bottom each alternate brick, then build a low wall parallel with it across the cistern about a foot high and eight inches from the center wall. Fill the box thus formed with gravel, charcoal and sand, and plaster the center wall with cement. The water will filter through the sand, charcoal and gravel, run through the apertures where the brick are out, and always give clear, pure water. The materials in the filter-box may be taken out once a year and clean materials put in their places.

A cheap way to construct a cistern is to make a box two feet square and two and one-half feet long, and sink it two feet into the ground. Digging is then begun at the bottom of the box, the earth raised through it, and an egg-shaped cavity made. Care must be had not to make the cavity so wide as to allow the earth to cave in on the workmen. If the soil is hard, and there is no pressure of water toward the cistern, it can be made very good by plastering with water-lime cement on the earth. It is so far below the surface that frost will not hurt the cement. A good cover should be put on the top of the box, and a pump put in the cistern.

A truly thorough husbandman destroys only small weeds.

WHAT THE MUD OF PARIS IS WORTH.—In one of my previous lettees I gave an account of the value and destination of the dead leaves of Paris. I have just learned what the mud of Paris is worth. In its crude state it is valued at $120,000 per annum, but when prepared for manure it sells at prices ranging from 60 cent to $1 for a cubic yard, and is worth $600,000 for the annual product. The bidders to whom it is adjudged must pay for sweeping the streets, and for removing all accumulated filth, under the surveillance of the authorities. Several thousand persons are employed in that service. In 1823 the Paris dirt was sold for 75,000 francs ($15,000); in 1831 the purchasers paid over $31,000; in 1845 the value had risen to $100,000.—Paris Cor. Philadelphia Press.

A strawberry grower states that to two barrels of rainwater he put one-quarter of a pound of ammonia and one-quarter of a pound of common nitre, and with this solution he sprinkled his strawberry beds every night when blossoming. The result was double the amount of large strawberries to that just adjoining not so treated.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicongrapher, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price. $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

By JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is exteusively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry;" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely Illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

438 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY
United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75.
Single copy.....35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid, ... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 35 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROORMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Past." Paper Covers 50 centseach.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express ..$6 0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer,

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1877.

Praying to the Devil in the House of God.

In a union prayer meeting recently, in a Congregational church, soon after we entered a brother knelt and began his prayer thus: "We are come to pour out our souls to thee, O thou Grand Architect of the Universe."

As this is the name of the lodge god, I asked and learned that this extraordinary suppliant was a Freemason of some few years standing; that he had before that been an Anti-mason, and like most apostates who have to sear an enlightened conscience, like Judas, by the hope of worldly advantage, he was now a Masonic zealot at the opposite extreme from his former life.

Satan is "the god of this world," so called in the Scriptures, and the god of the lodge can be no other; for the lodge is made up of professed worldings, not of Bible Christians. This weak, deluded brother was therefore, in a Christian prayer meeting, praying to the god of the lodge,—that dark and evil spirit of whom Christ said, "He is a liar" and a "murderer from the beginning," and whose end is the "bottomless pit" and the "lake of fire." O when will our churches be so enlightened by the truth of Christ that such a frightful prayer will send a shudder through the house?

Another Chicago Corner-Stone.

Three years ago the corner-stone of the new Government building in this city was laid with great bustle of Masonic preparation and promise of Masonic glory, without fulfilling the expectation of either. The lodges did not turn out as billed, the papers ridiculed them, and the peerless order was compelled by force of public remonstrance to share the honors of the day with the owner of the building—the United States Government—though not without insulting that owner in the person of its representative, Judge Blodgett. It was an expensive business for the lodge—a show that cost more than it came to: no doubt the lodge learned wisdom from it. This year another vast public building, the court-house, is ready for a corner-stone laying, and the Freemasons began to agitate the question with the County Commissioners. Last Friday the question came up for settlement. The daily press reports the decision thus:

Commissioner Schmidt submitted the following:

Resolved, That the joint committee on public buildings and public service be and they are hereby instructed to invite the Grand Master, together with the craft of the Masonic order of Illinois, to lay the corner-stone of the court-house on July 4th. Also, that the civil and military associations be invited to participate in the ceremony.

Commissioner Bradley opposed the resolution. He did not see why the Masonic fraternity should be preferred before any other.

Commissioner Schmidt said that all elements were represented among the Masons, and that it had been customary to invite them on such occasions. He did not see any reason why objection should be raised against them now.

Commissioner Fitzgerald, by way of compromise, submitted the following substitute:

Resolved, That the President of the County Board, the Mayor of Chicago, the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of the State, together with all civic and military organizations be invited to participate in the laying of the court-house corner-stone.

This begot a growl from Guenther and a tirade from Schmidt.

Commissioner McCaffrey moved to table the whole matter, which was lost.

The same commissioner then moved, as a substitute, that the stone be laid without any ceremony at all, and that all who chose might come and look on. This was carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Bradley, Cleary, Mulloy, McCaffrey, Fitzgerald, Holden, Guenther, Senne—8.

Noes—Carroll, Schmidt, Lenzen, Tabor, Ayars, Hoffman—6.

This settled the matter.

Nor is it likely the lodge will attempt to reverse the decision. The public discussion of Freemasonry which would be sure to follow would only injure its reputation among many who now hold it in honor.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding?

Some months since a pastor of a Baptist church wrote us stating that he had taken one degree in Masonry, and "cannot go farther." But he asks if a man deceived in the wife he marries, is, by her deception, freed from his marriage obligation? and if not, why is a deceived Mason freed from his?

ANSWER.

If a man should marry another man in female attire, supposing him to have been a woman, the marriage is void at law. So of any other fundamental fraud or imposition, practiced on a bridegroom, the law holds the covenant void ab initio.

The imposition practiced on the Masonic initiate is a fundamental fraud. His oath is itself sin; the secrets sold him are not secrets; he swears to conceal crime; all this and much more in the face of the solemn assurance given him by the officiant that nothing in his covenant is against religion or law. The duty to repent of and break such oaths is therefore as clear as the duty of obedience to the Decalogue, and Shakspeare is right by human and Divine law:

"It is a sin to swear unto a sin,
But greater sin to keep a sinful oath."

J. H. H. Woodward of Cincinnati, has issued for wide circulation the following notice:

To the Victims of Masonic Outrage!—All who smart under the wrongs of the Masonic craft are requested to report their cases to the undersigned. Thousands upon thousands have been basely victimized within the courts of the country by this power; thousands of others have been irretrievably ruined by it both commercially and politically; thousands also have been put under the ban of evil report by its vile tongue of slander and made to suffer immensely; and many, indeed, have perished at the hands of Masonic murderers and assassins, and they escaped unpunished. The time for gathering up material facts like these for the purpose of confronting and overthrowing the God-accursed conspiracy has arrived. All cases reported to the undersigned will be promptly acknowledged. If not so acknowledged, report the fact to the Christian Cynosure, a sterling Anti-masonic sheet of 16 pages, published at No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Illinois, on presumption, not that your letters have miscarried, but have been stolen by Masonic post-office thieves, in order to suppress truth. Address communications to J. H. H. Woodward, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Friend Woodward will furnish the above printed on a small slip at cost to every reformer who is willing to scatter them. Postage paid they will be 16cts. per 1,000; 3c. per hundred. Address J. H. H. Woodward, Cincinnati, O.

Wheaton College.—We trust the readers of the Cynosure will pardon our frequent allusions to this College during this third raid upon it. The first Masonic onset on us was a prosecution in the courts by the Master of Wheaton lodge for a mandamus to command the trustees to revoke the anti-secret rule of the College and restore a student suspended under it. The second was an attempt to strike from the manual of the College church the testimony excluding Freemasons. We publish elsewhere in this number, an anonymous article from the Chicago Inter-ocean, showing the animus of the present attack. The committee mentioned are George Maze, Wm. A. Shearson, J. M. Chapman, H. B. Patrick, J. C. Wheaton, M. C. Hazard, E. K. Gary. This committee was appointed by a meeting of fifteen or twenty men and women met at Mr. Moses Wells, a gentleman who joined the College church, professing that he had forsaken the lodge, but has ever since opposed its rule excluding Masons, and withdrew from the ministry of Dr. J. B. Walker, while pastor of the church, because he spoke against Masonry. Mr. Jesse C. Wheaton, a professed Anti-mason, who circulated the petition, is one of the builders, owners and renters of the Masonic Hall in Wheaton. Freemasons in Naperville, Turner and Elgin signed and promoted their petition. The only lawyer on the "Executive Committee" is a Mason, and one of the builders, owners and renters of the Masonic Hall. The College and College church, with two other churches in Wheaton, exclude Masons. This "Citizens' Committee" receives them. Yet they say Masonry has nothing to do with the raid on the College! Dr. Franklin's "Abolition Society" (1769) had an article excluding slaveholders from membership. The churches "ignored" slavery, received slaveholders and became the bulwark of slavery.

The petition named in the paper is a fraud upon the signers. It asks only what any friend of the College could sign, yet the conspirators who got it up, as their paper herein published shows, represent "the people generally" as wishing for quiet, orderly, tax-paying citizens to leave the town of Wheaton. The editor and office editor of the Cynosure are included in this Ku-Klux 'notice to quit.' Read their paper.

—The objections presented to his lodge on renouncing Freemasonry by Bro. W. H. Sanderson of Brandon, Vt., will be continued from the third page of this number to next issue.

—Our readers will be pleased to read of Rev. E. W. Wheeler's intention to visit his old lodge where he was initiated, for a public address against the evil practices of Freemasonry. May he be filled with special grace for this work. In regard to the latter part of Bro. Wheeler's letter, it is just to say that while we respect the honesty of his opinions we are unconvinced by his argument. The same reasoning might be just as well used to argue Moslemism, Buddhism or any other form of idolatry out of existence as a religion, might it not, Bro. W.? The gods of the heathen as well as their heaven, are creatures of their own invention yet their systems are properly termed false religions.

—Bro. Musselman has furnished some items respecting the massacre of Chinamen at Chico, California, by members of the secret order "708." Owners of ranches had been anonymously threatened with the destruction of their buildings and property if they employed Chinese laborers, and a gentleman who was interested in the reward for the capture of the murderers was ordered to leave the State under penalty of his life. This was merely an exhibition of the universal lodge spirit.

—Rev. A. Musselman, of Sacramento, California, favored us with a call last week on his return home from the United Brethren General Conference. He speaks hopefully of the reform interests in his State and hopes that Sacramento will be made the headquarters of the movement. The United Brethren there have now completed their new church and have secured a firm footing in the city.

—The Committee on Statistics reported to the Board of Delegates of American Israelites, lately met in New York, that the Jews in this country have four secret orders with a membership of 50,000 persons. These are societies distinctly Jewish.

as the "B'ni B'rith" and "Kesher," but the Freemasons are largely sustained by the same people. One of the founders of the first Masonic lodge in this city told Rev. Adam Crooks that the Jews had captured that lodge and it was almost entirely abandoned by other nationalities. A converted Jew, who had formerly been connected with the Freemasons, represented to us that nearly all his countrymen here belonged to the lodge.

—The Bay City, Mich., Chronicle lately printed an article from our old friend, Rev. A. Oldfield, in which he argues against the secret lodges with great earnestness and candor. Such communications in our local journals have many advantages for producing great good.

—We are reminded by General Grant's visit to England and the royal reception given him of his fondness for displays of a military nature such as the lodges are wont to indulge in occasionally. At Manchester he unbent his usual austerity and indulged in a brief speech, commending the city for its course during the late war. As Manchester is the headquarters of Odd-fellowship and Gen. Grant was particularly interested in that order through his father and his Vice-president Colfax the circumstances have an in importance in their connection. A book of special interest in connection with this European visit is Gen. Phelps' work on secret societies issued by the publisher of the Cynosure.

—The Advocate, of Atlanta, Georgia, notices a colored Odd-fellow celebration in that city lately, which was the occasion of an address by a Prof. Crogman. "This address," says the Advocate, "was replete with sound sense," from which it is necessarily inferred that he said nothing about Odd-fellowship, or at least his remarks were not complimentary to it.

[Concluded from page 5.]

and supplication to God to be delivered from fellowship with men who are allied to any of the Christless orders, secret or otherwise, and act accordingly, the days of those tribes will come to a perpetual end.

In connection with this subject it is proper to state that discussion was held on a resolution that a man cannot be a Freemason and a Christian at the same time. This question was ably debated through one session, in which nearly all the members took part, and concluded thus: That a man might be a half Christian and the other half a Mason, which is not a very enviable position for any one to occupy.

In regard to the expose of Freemasonry by Bro. Ronayne at Sherman, in this county, it was a brilliant affair. The large hall of friend Sheldon's was offered free of charge, warmed and lighted, and was well filled, especially the third evening, when the lying farce was enacted of the murder of Grand Master Hiram Abiff by Jubula, Jubulo and Jubulum. Many points in working this degree produced great applause which could not well be suppressed. In our opinion the backbone of Freemasonry in Sherman is dislocated if not entirely broken. So mote it be.

J. B. NESSELL, Secretary.

News of the Week.

—The Grand Jury which has been examining into some of the crooked ways of Chicago men has indicted a number of the County Commissioners, court house contractors and the Police Superintendent. The prosecuting attorney is confident of success in purifying the public offices of the county.

—The fast trains which began running between Chicago and New York in less than 26 hours have been discontinued by order of the magnates in the East, and the old rates of fare re-established. The fast trains were put on for racing only, and proved an expensive business.

—The highest legal tribunal in Pennsylvania has decided that church-bells may be rung for five minutes, beginning half an hour before the time of holding service on Sunday, and again for five minutes immediately preceding service time. At all other times the ringing of church-bells, or at least church-bells in fashionable quarters of the city, is adjudged illegal.

—John S. C. Abbot of Mass., died on Sunday last of a lingering disease. He was 72 years old, and, as the author of widely-read books, was known to all America, young and old, as well as to many thousands in Europe, Asia, and Africa, some of his books having been translated into many languages.

—Considerable excitemen has been created in San Francisco and Portland by the receipt of news of a serious uprising of Indians in Washington territory. A dispatch from Lieut. Wilkinson at Wallula reports the murder of whites at Mt. Idaho, and another dispatch tells of the massacre of settlers on Cottonwood Creek. All available troops at Walla Walla have been hurried forward to the scene of difficulties, and General Howard has telegraphed to Portland for reinforcements. The garrison at Walla Walla are the only troops within several days journey of Mt. Idaho which is about 60 miles from Lewiston, on the Columbia river.

—A Berlin dispatch says that the Ministerial North German Gazette contains another article about the relations between the Papacy and the French Monarchical party. It says: "The latter being unable to dispense with clerical assistance for the attainment of domestic purposes, such assistance will not be given unless important counter services are rendered. The Pope, who recently denounced Germany as the corner-stone of a new ungodly division of power in Europe, may soon have a million and a half French soldiers at his disposal."

—The war news grows more threatening. Great activity is reported along the Danube and it is probable a crossing will be attempted this week. The Russian authorities have baffled the correspondents, who during the first of the week could give nothing but conjecture of the movement of troops. The Montinegrins have met the Turks in their mountain fastnesses and slaughtered them by the thousands. Overwhelming numbers have given the latter some advantages, and the beseiged Nicsics has been revictualed. In Asia the Russians have probably gained another victory, although the news is indefinite. It is however probable that Kars will be taken this week. The Bashi-Bazouks, taking advantage of the absence from Constantinople of much of the restraining power, have been committing all sorts of excesses on persons and property. Among those who recently suffered from their excesses of the Bashi-Bazouks are an English army officer and an American naval officer, who were beaten and maltreated by them.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

THE PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND.

June 1, 1877.

	Notes unpaid.	Cash.	Total.
California...	$	$ 20.00	$ 20.00
Connecticut.	.....	110.00	110.00
Illinois.....	2,961 00	1,644.41	4,605.41
Indiana.....	2 200.00	327.50	2,527.50
Iowa.....	745.00	296.80	1,041.80
Kansas.....	5.00	14.00	19.00
Maine.....	....	35.00	35 00
Mass.....	....	90.00	90.00
Michigan....	200.00	350 50	550.50
Minnesota...	....	100.00	100.00
Missouri.....	20.00	7.00	27.00
New York...	165.00	369.00	534.00
N. Hamp ...	....	8.00	8.00
N. Jersey....	....	100.00	100.00
Ohio.....	2,731.00	573.15	3,304.15
Oregon	....	2.00	2 00
Penn.....	133.00	43 00	176.00
Vermont....	.....	2.00	2 00
Wisconsin...	1,415.00	273.65	1,688 65
Wash. Ter...	....	1.00	1 00
Canada.....	....	2.00	2.00
Total...	$10,575.00	$4,368 01	$14,943 01

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev L. N. Stratton, Syracuse, N. Y.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, C. A. Blanchard, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. W. Bain, J. B. Walker.

TREASURER AND RECORDING SEC'Y.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ASSISTANT COR. SEC'Y.—Mrs. M. E. Cook, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
O. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis
C. F. Hawley, Damascovilie, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.

The Home Circle.

Shaping the Future.

We shape ourselves the joy or fear
Of which the coming life is made,
And fill our future atmosphere
With sunshine or with shade.

The tissue of the life to be
We weave with colors all our own,
And in the field of destiny
We reap as we have sown.

Still shall the soul around it call
The shadows which it gathered here,
And painted on the eternal wall,
The past shall reappear.

Think ye the notes of holy song
On Milton's tuneful ear have died?
Think ye that Raphael's angel throng
Has vanished from his side?

Oh, no! we live our life again;
Or warmly touched, or coldly dim,
The pictures of the past remain—
Man's works shall follow him!

—J. G. Whittier.

Satan's Care for Health.

During one of the revivals of religion which occurred in Oberlin College, a young member of the First Church talked with Mr. Finney and lamented her religious depression.

"You are not in very good health, my child," queried Mr. Finney.

"No, sir; I am not so well as I could wish."

"You are wearied at night, are you not?"

"Yes, almost every night."

"You are so tired that many a time you feel that you have no strength to pray?"

"Yes, that is exactly what I do feel and lament."

"And so, to save your strength, in the face of your laments, you go to bed without praying?"

"Yes, I have to confess that it is even so."

"I have no doubt of it, and if you can watch yourself you will notice that this excuse for not praying will grow frequent—the devil is very careful of your health is he not?"

The devil is usually very careful about the health of Christians. People may work themselves to death, dance themselves to death, drink themselves to death, or gorge themselves to death, and he has no fault to find; but if a person should injure his health by any excessive exertion in the Gospel work, then there is trouble enough. If a person becomes insane through politics, intemperance, covetousness, or worldly anxiety, he is hustled away to the asylum, and nothing is said about it. If, on the other hand, any religious excitement should affect his mind unfavorably, it becomes the talk of the town, the song of the drunkard, and the fit subject for constant comments by the irreligious press. Satan has no fears of people killing themselves in ball-rooms and bar-rooms; but prayer meetings abound in danger. He has no anxiety about people wasting their money in riot, in luxury and excess, but if they bestow it largely for the benefit of suffering humanity or the dissemination of the Gospel of Christ, then he starts a hue and cry and pronounces them insane.

No doubt this Oberlin church member was very weary at night, perhaps too weary to pray. Possibly the weariness might have been the direct result of close dressing, which was sapping the very foundation of her existence, and drying up the sources of active energetic life. Thousands of people to-day are so compressing their vital organs that neither breathing, digestion, nor any other vital process can be properly carried on; and then, when they are wearied at noon, overdone by one-quarter of the work they might otherwise be able to do no wonder that at night they drag themselves exhausted to their beds, too tired to read their Bibles, or even to lift a prayer to God.

The devil is careful of people's health; careful that it may be wasted, wrecked, ruined; careful that all this shall be done to no purpose, or in his service, and in forgetfulness of God and defiance of all his laws.

If one must die, it would be a comfort to die in a good cause; but most people who go to their graves prematurely exhausted, are brought there neither by serving God nor by doing good, but rather by their subjection to ungodly fashions and customs, to fleshly lusts that war against the soul, to styles of dress and modes of life which crush and wither all their vital energies, and make them the guilty authors of their own destruction.—The Armory.

Extravagance in Dress.

Is it not true that many of our best Christians are sorely put to it, to keep up with the fashion, or so nearly up as to be respectable?

Is it not true that many men—Christians—are hindered in their charities, and thus impede the cause of religion, because it takes all their time and energies to keep their family in respectable clothing?

Is it not true that fashion is a tyrant, and requires conformity to her laws, or else punishes with a loss of respectability and fellowship?

Is it not true that many of the sons and daughters of our land are debarred from obtaining an education, simply because the standard of dress is so high that they cannot maintain it, and raise the necessary funds for a commencement?

Is it not true that in our towns and cities a dress aristocracy exists which is subversive of true religious fellowship, and damaging in the extreme to personal piety?

Is it not true that as a church we are spending thousands needlessly for dress, while men are starving for the bread of life, and others are suffering while trying to carry it to them?

Is it not true that hundreds are kept from our churches, and thus removed beyond the reach of the Gospel, shut out from its privileges, because, forsooth, they are not able to dress with the fashionable churchgoers?—Pacific Christian Advocate.

Antiquity of Man.

On the subject of the antiquity of man it is a comfort to know that the minds of the learned are undergoing a rapid change. For the past thirty or forty years, archæological evidence of the date of man's appearance upon earth has been accumulating. For a while that evidence seemed all to point one way, namely, in favor of a high antiquity. This was partly due, perhaps, to the natural desire of the discoverer to make his "find" the most important. Deceived by imperfect or colored reports the learned pretty generally committed themselves to the view of a great antiquity. Sir Charles Lyell implied that man's age is 800,000 years. Lubbock avoided figures but expressed his views in such adjectives as "vast," "immense," etc. Mr. Vivian, with a fondness for round numbers, says man was living 1,000,000 years ago. Other antiquarians contented themselves with estimates of from two to three hundred thousand years. Lyell's conjecture was founded upon the supposition that man came shortly after the glacial age.

But later discoveries have been made and more careful scrutiny of previous "finds" instituted, and though archæologists, like other people, are unwilling to alter an opinion to which they, on what they supposed was sufficient evidence, had given their adhesion, yet the last four years have witnessed a great change in view on this subject. Lyell's present view is unknown, but in his later editions he has suddenly dropped from 800,000 to 200,000 years. Others are ominously silent or content themselves with quoting the former opinions of their compeers. And here comes Hæckel who is furiously anxious to prove man's development from Bathybius through twenty or more stages, and who for the last stage—ape to man—requires several hundreds of millions of years, and the utmost he can venture upon is twenty thousand. Seeing how eager he is to seize any straw which will bolster his theory, this moderation in his last work is significant.

A collapse from 1,000,000 years which was insisted upon with confidence in the British Association in 1871 to 20,000 in 1873, ought to put our second-hand scientists upon their guard.

Perhaps in this vain-glorious year we ought to refrain from stating that the exposure of many of the mistakes upon this subject is due to the common sense and industry of Americans. Lyell's estimate of the Mississippi delta at New Orleans was 100,000 years, and both Lyell and Lubbock approved of the estimate of 57,000 years for Dr. Fowler's Red Indian, who was buried sixteen feet deep in the mud, but Mr. Fontaine found a skeleton in the same neighborhood under fifty feet of earth, which had been buried but four years, and the United States engineers after careful calculation find that the whole New Orleans delta to the depth of forty feet is the product of four thousand four hundred and forty years.

To Professor Andrews of Chicago is due great credit for increased knowledge in this matter. His masterly examination of the probable date of the glacial age at Lake Michigan, which date he gives at from five thousand to seven thousand years, has opened the eyes of scholars to the wild character of European guesses upon the age of ice, and his exposure of the oft-repeated blunders about the cone of Tiniere, secures him the gratitude of all seekers after truth. This cone is at the mouth of the river Tiniere, which flows into lake Omera, Switzerland, and is formed by the debris annually brought down by the torrent. By a mathematical error which, when explained, is obvious to everybody, Mr. Moslet made the cone ten thousand or more years old, and gave the date of some stone implements found about half way up the cone, as more than six thousand years. Prof. Andrews demonstrates that the implements are not three thousand years old, and that the cone began to form some forty-five hundred years ago.

The ultimate conclusions of science will of course be true, but it seems to be a law of its progress always to advance through error.—Appeal.

Another Tobacco Case.

At our regular holiness meeting last evening, Dr. M——, a physician of excellent standing, who had been two or three times present with us before, arose and stated that on last Monday evening at the meeting he heard a brother bear witness to the power and willingness of Jesus to cleanse from the slavery of tobacco. He also heard of the duty of entire consecration of himself to God, and of the blessed experiences following.

He went home. There was an incident recalled in his practice: He had once been called to visit a man, who had, in a difficulty with some rough characters, received a severe bruise over one of his temples. The wound was promptly dressed, but the patient dreaded a "black eye," likely to result from the gathering of the bruised blood below the wound.

The physician applied leeches. The first one applied seemed to draw a few drops of blood, and fell off, dying, and was soon dead. Another was applied; it soon fell off and was dead. They should each have taken an ounce or so of blood. The patient used tobacco, chewing and smoking it. The physician was forced to the conclusion that the poison of the tobacco so pervaded the blood as to kill the leeches.

So with his settled convictions of his duty to consecrate himself to God, came also to the doctor the sense of the unfitness of his offering, all poisoned with twenty-five years' use of tobacco. But God's grace was present to aid. He took the tobacco from his pocket, and asking God for strength, he resolved never again to use it. Then, with his dear wife by his side, he kneeled and offered himself in entire consecration to Jesus to be cleansed and kept clean.

He had now passed a week without tasting the poison. He had felt no depression of his nerves, nor any loss of physical or mental strength. He believed Jesus had kept him and could keep him. He was glad to bear this testimony for Jesus.—Banner of Holiness.

Children's Corner

"A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

Little Mary was sitting with her Uncle George one afternoon. Uncle George had told her to keep quiet, as he had some accounts to look over; so Mary busied herself with a picture-book. For an hour all was still; then Mary heard her uncle say, "There: I have quite a nice little sum laid up for a time of need."

"What are you talking about, Uncle George?" asked Mary.

"About my treasures, little girl, that I have laid up."

"Up in heaven?" asked Mary, who had heard father that morning read about laying up treasures in heaven.

"O no, Mary, my treasures are all on earth—some in banks, and some in other places," answered Uncle George.

"But ain't you got any in heaven, too?" asked Mary.

"Well, I don't believe I have," said Uncle George, thoughtfully; "but run away to your mother now, for I am going out."

Uncle George went out, and was gone a long while; but all this time he was thinking that perhaps he was not so well off, if he had no treasure laid up in heaven, to be ready for him after he left this world and his money behind him. He was so impressed with the thought that he wisely determined at once to lay up treasures in heaven. He did so, and many a shilling which he laid by was used to help in laying up better and more endearing treasure. Little Mary never knew, until years after, when she also, with a clearer understanding of what it meant, began to lay up for herself treasures in heaven, that it was her childish question that started Uncle George on a generous, active Christian life. —L. C. G.

Old White Billy.

When I was about twelve years old, my father bought "White Billy," as we called him, for he was certainly the whitest horse I ever saw. He bought him because he was said to be so very kind and gentle, and father had been wanting just such a one, that mother could drive about with a carriage load of children, and not be a bit afraid.

Billy was seven years old when we first had him, and mother had driven him almost every day for three years, loving him more and more for his goodness, before what I am going to tell you took place.

One morning mother was out riding with her own four, and one of the neighbor's little children, and had started towards home, when we came to what was called "High Bridge," because of its being so very high above the river that it crossed. Billy trotted along up to it, a bridge he had gone over many and many a time, and, placing one foot on to it, he suddenly drew back and stood stock still.

Of course we were all very much surprised, and mother began to talk to him in the gentle way in which she always spoke to him, and said: "Well, well, Billy, what's the matter? What do you see that you don't like the looks of? I am sure there is nothing to be afraid of. Come, get up there, old fellow!"

But no, he wouldn't stir an inch, and when she urged him again, instead of starting ahead he tried to turn round. For the first time since we had owned him, mother feared that somewhere in Billy's nature there was an obstinate streak, and although she couldn't bear to do it, she felt he really needed a little punishing. So, taking out the whip, which she scarcely ever touched, she gave him a pretty hard cut with it.

I don't think Billy was ever so astonished in his life, for he just reared up in the air and stood on his hind legs for a second, then quieted down again, and stood perfectly still; but go on he wouldn't; and he acted as though he was saying to himself: "I know best about this, and if you kill me I won't take you over that bridge."

Finding that he was determined, mother at last said to him: "Well, if you won't go over, you won't, I suppose; but sometime when we don't have a load of little folks in. old fellow, you and I will settle this question on this very spot. But now, you certainly seem to have the best of me; so turn about, if you want to, and we will see if you like the lower road any better."

This evidently suited Billy exactly, for as soon as he found that he had carried the day, he trotted along as lively as possible, but now and then he would hang his head as though he was thinking of that cruel cut his mistress had given him, and how, if he could only have spoken to her and told her why he was afraid to take them over the bridge, she would never have treated him so badly.

That night, when father came home, he was very sad, and the first thing he said was: "There has been a fearful accident at High Bridge to-day. About eleven o'clock this forenoon, old Deacon Hopkins and his boy were driving over it with his gray mare and the farm wagon, when, just as they got in the middle of it, the whole bridge gave way and went crashing down! The poor old man was killed outright, and the boy is so badly hurt that they fear he cannot live. And the mare had two of her legs broken, so they had to kill her on the spot to put her out of her misery. I declare," said father, "it has made me down sick, as I have thought that it was just as likely to have been you and the children."

"And so it would have been us," mother cried out, "had it not been for that wise old saint of a Billy. Deacon Hopkins must have driven over right after we left, for it was just eleven o'clock when we were there."

We were so excited that we all began to talk at once; but before father could possibly get it through his head what had happened mother broke off in the middle of her story, and started for the stable. Of course we all rushed after her, but by the time we got there she had Billy out of his stall, and with one arm about his neck she was stroking his face, and caressing him. She told him how sorry she was for having struck him, and asked him to forgive her, and Old Billy rubbed his head against her, and in many ways acted as if he was trying to say to her, "Yes, I understand you, I know you love me, and of course you couldn't know why I should be afraid to go over that bridge; but you see just as I put my fore foot on to it, I felt it jar and tremble, and I loved you too well to trust you to it." Then we children each took turns in hugging him, and told him how much we loved him, and that we would always take care of him.

That night father wrote a paper in which he said that as long as he lived, and he hoped his children would do the same after him, he would celebrate with all the happiness possible, the sixteenth day of July, as the day on which Old Billy saved the lives of his wife and children. On that day everything should be done to show their love for and their gratitude to him. That he should never go out of the family, and that he should die a natural death and be decently buried with his shoes on.

Billy is still living, and is twenty-six years old. We have never yet failed to celebrate "his day" as we call it. Last year when I went up home we kept the day in great style. Father and mother had invited all the children to "Billy's party," and we had it in the carriage house.—Golden Rule.

Puzzles and Letters.

Bedford, Iowa, June 4, 1877.

Mr. Editor: I send the answer to the enigmas of May 31st. The answer to Charlie's acrostic is "Boston," and to A. J. Cope's is "North America." Mr. Editor try and pardon your little unknown friend for she was so thoughtless as to forget to sign her name, which is Sarah E. Davis.

P. S. I will try and do better next time. S. E. D.

A very interesting pastime some of our little friends will find in getting as many words as they can out of a single one, as "Constantinople," by combining the letters in different ways. One of the papers we read says, that two little Canadian girls, Lelia and Florence, have taken the word and succeeded in making 400 words out of it, and their papa thinks they could have found 500 if they had worked long enough. He also thinks the exercise has been a good and profitable one to them. And of two other little girls their mother writes that they are studying their spelling lessons now with pleasure. It used to be drudgery before. Now how many will try this new exercise and send us word of their success by the 4th of July?

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXVI.—July 1, 1877.—PAUL IN CYPRUS.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 13: 1-13. Commit 8-12.

1. Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2. As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them.

3. And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4. So they being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Selencia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5. And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. And they had also John to their minister.

6. And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus:

7. Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8. But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9. Then Saul, (who also is called Paul) filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10. And said, O full of all subtilty and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11. And now behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12. Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13. Now when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: And John departing from them, returned to Jerusalem.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord."—Acts 13: 12.

HOME READINGS.

Jonah 3. ....The First Foreign Mission.
Acts 11: 19-26 .. The Antioch Church.
Acts 6: 1- 7....Ordination in the Early Church
Acts 9. 1-22....Paul's call to the Apostleship.
Num. 16: 1-35....Moses withstood by Korah.
Acts 5: 1-16....Peter Rebukes Ananias

NOTES.

Commentators divide the Acts into three parts, thus: The church among the Jews, chapters I. to VII.; The church in transition from Jews to Gentiles, chapters VIII. to XII.; The church among the Gentiles, chapters XIII. to XXVIII.

Olshausen says, "Though Christianity had already spread beyond the limits of Palestine, still the church continued a stranger to formal missionary effort (casual occurrences, particularly the persecution at Jerusalem (ch. 8: 2) had hitherto brought about the diffusion of the Gospel. It was from Antioch that teachers were first sent forth with the definite purpose of spreading Christianity, and organizing churches with regular institutions. (See ch. 14: 23.)

For the names in v. 1 see Bible Dictionary. Of Menean, foster brother of Herod Antipas the tetrarch, says Jamieson: "If the courtier whose son, at the point of death, was healed by our Lord (John 4: 46) was of Herod's establishment, while Susanna's husband was his steward (Luke 8: 3) his foster-brother becoming a Christian and a prophet is something remarkable."

Fasting seems to have been a spiritual exercise of more frequent occurrence with the early church than now. It is generally spoken of in connection with special occasions. (v. 3 and ch. 14: 23). It is not unlikely that they were expecting some prophetic announcement at this time.

The Holy Ghost spoke through some of the prophets present, commanding to set apart and send out the two brethren for the mission which in some previous communication had been shown them (ch. 22: 21).

Mark the manner of setting apart these missionaries. There were no exercises calculated to produce self-exaltation in their minds, as we have seen in these days; but a consecration to their work in a most solemn manner, so as to impress deeply the great responsibilities and dangers of their mission, and need of Divine strength. The principle laid down here should be followed always in appointment to sacred offices.

Seleucia was the seaport of Antioch on the river Orontes, fifteen miles west, and five from the Mediterranean. Cyprus was near; it was the native place of Barnabas; some of the inhabitants were already Christians.

Salamis was the Greek capital of the island; it was on the eastern side, not many hours' sail from Seleucia. Great numbers of Jews were settled in this mercantile port and they had two synagogues, an unusual number.

Paphos, the Roman capital of the Cyprus, was on the west side of the island

Sorcerers—these impostors were numerous and their practices were encouraged by even cultivated Romans.

The "deputy" or properly "pro-consul," seems to have been an intelligent man, and likly to receive the truth honestly, which Elymas perceived would make an end of his trade. The spirit came mightily upon Paul. This was "power from on high" such as Pres. Finney has written so clearly upon, and which came upon him at times with remarkable effect upon the unconverted. Paul's language is severe because addressed to a man whose practice and livelihood was deception; they were not words of human passion, but inspired by the Holy Ghost which was upon him.

BIBLE COMMENTARY.

"Barnabas."—And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is being interpreted the son of consolation,) a Levite and of the country of Cyprus, having land, sold it and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet. Acts 4: 36, 37.

"Saul."—And the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet whose name was Saul. Acts 7: 58.

"Fasted."—And I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting. Dan'l 9: 3.

Then I proclaimed a fast there, at the river Ahava, that we might afflict ourselves before our God, to seek of him a right way for us. Ezra 8: 21.

The children of Israel were assembled with fasting—and stood and confessed their sins. Neh. 9; 1, 2.

But served God with fastings and prayers night and day. Luke 2: 37.

"Separate."—Thus shalt thou separate the Levites from among the children of Israel: and the Levites shall be mine. Nu. 8: 14.

Separated unto the Gospel of God. Rom. 1: 1.

"Laid their hands on them."—And when they had prayed they laid their hands on them. Acts 6: 6.

The gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands. 2 Tim. 1; 6.

And of laying on of hands. Heb. 6: 2.

"Sorcerer."—And I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers. Mal. 3: 5.

And sorcerers and idolaters and all liars shall have their part in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone. Rev. 21: 8.

For without are dogs and sorcerers. Rev. 22: 15.

"Desired to hear."—Many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear and have not heard them. Matt. 13: 17.

"Seeking to turn the deputy."—So the old prophet of Bethel turned the man of God that cried against the altar. 1 K. 13: 15–19.

And the Lord was angry with Solomon because his heart was turned from the Lord God of Israel. 1 K. 11: 4, 9.

Because ye are turned away from the Lord. Num. 14: 43.

11th verse.—So Peter spoke to Ananias and Sapphira. Acts 5: 3–9.

"Child of devil."—Ye are of your father the devil. Matt. 3: 7 and Jno. 8: 44.

"Hand of the Lord is upon thee."—Behold the hand of the Lord is upon thy cattle. Ex. 9: 3.

"Thou shalt be blind"—And they smote the men that were at the door of the house with blindness. Gen. 19: 11.

"Astonished at the doctrine."—The people were astonished at his doctrine. Matt. 7: 28; Mark 1: 22; 6: 2; 11: 18; Luke 4: 32.

Temperance Notes.

—The people of Fort Lee, New Jersey, have shut up twenty liquor saloons. They say that if they could only shut off the Sunday travel Fort Lee would be a paradise.

—The National Temperance Society printed last year 23,000 pages of matter. The receipts in this department were nearly $41,000. The total receipts of the society for the year have been $57,478 33; the disbursements, $51,473 41.

—There are one hundred and twenty-five Temperance Reform Clubs in New Hampshire, with a total membership of sixty-five thousand, of which twenty-seven thousand are men over twenty-one years of age, and over ten thousand were recently habitual tipplers. These Temperance Reform Clubs, which are scattered all over New England, are traced to the Moody movement.

—The Murphy movement is now pervading the great state of New York, as it has heretofore done in Ohio and Pennsylvania. "It is estimated," says one of our exchanges, "that over twenty-five thousand persons have recently signed the pledge in the towns and villages on the line of the Erie Railroad." It is still spreading to other towns in Ohio and Indiana.

—The new temperance movement in New York and Brooklyn is assuming formidable proportions. The object is simply to enforce the present laws against free rum; the organization embraces all law and order men, total abstainers, moderate drinkers, Christians and infidels. Its membership already approximates forty thousand, and as each member pays an annual due of $1 the aggregate sum promises to be adequate for a sinewy campaign. This is not a total abstinence organization, but allows the moderate use of liquor as advocated by Dr. Howard Crosby.

—The editor of the American Wesleyan writes thus from Elmira, New York, concerning Rev. Thomas K. Beecher: "His popularity gives him greater power over the people to mislead them. His church, billiards, fast horses and social wine drinking are having a very bad influence on the minds of the young. A youth of fourteen or fifteen years, arose in one of the Christian temperance revival prayer-meetings a week ago and said that Mr. Beecher met him, and asked him to go in and have a glass of beer. The boy pointed to his badge and said he would not do it. Mr. Beecher then asked him to take a cigar, which the boy declined. Mr. Beecher then stepped in and took a glass of soda-water, and passed on. The boy said he felt so badly that he could not help looking at him as he went away. Presently he saw Mr. Beecher step into another drinking place and take a glass of beer. The boy said he felt so badly for the man of God he turned away and cried. We are very sorry to hear so often of such things about this gifted man."

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

The Prophet Daniel.

[Concluded from last week.]

The next thing we hear of the King, is that he has had another dream. He seems to have been a great man for dreams. This time he saw a great tree which "reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the end of all the earth; . . . and, behold, a watcher and an holy one came down from heaven, and cried aloud: "Hew down this tree, and cut down his branches, shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit: let the beasts get away from under it, and the fowls from its branches. Nevertheless, leave the stump of its roots in the earth. . . . Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given unto him, and let seven times pass over him; to the intent that the living may know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will."

The King seems to have been as much puzzled by this dream as by the other; and nobody could tell him what it meant, until he sent for Daniel. Even he was troubled about it at first; but presently the Lord showed it to him; and then he preached such a sermon to the King about his pride, and the King's face turned pale, and his knees began to shake, and it was not long before he lost his reason, and wandered away from his palace, out into the woods and the deserts, and became more like a beast than a man. But at last the Lord had mercy on him. His counselors and princes gathered about him again, and brought him back to the palace. But the King's heart was softened. I think he became truly converted to God; and from this time we don't hear him saying any more: "Is not this the great Babylon that I have builded?" But we hear him blessing the Most High, and praising and honoring him whose dominion is everlasting, and whose kingdom is from generation to generation.

And now the King makes one more proclamation, different from all others. Up to this time he has been telling other people what to do; now he begins to speak of his own duty, and he says, "I, Nebuchadnezzar, will do this—I will do that." "I will praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, all of whose works are truth." He has found out his own duty. His heart is softened; and, although we do not hear anything more of him, I have no doubt that Daniel and he used to walk the streets of Babylon arm-in-arm, and talk over their experiences together; and when the King died, I feel quite sure that he went safely to heaven, to be welcomed by the God of Daniel: and through the long eternity King Nebuchadnezzar will rejoice that that young man Daniel, took his stand for God when he came down to Babylon, and did not follow the fashion of that wicked capital, though it might have cost him his life.

The next thing we hear of Babylon is, that the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar, a wild young prince, called Belshazzar, has come to the throne. On a certain occasion he makes a great feast to a thousand of his lords. They come together in a great banquet chamber, and they drink and carouse all night long. They do not care for the armies of Cyrus which are besieging the city. They trust in its high walls and its gates of brass, and feel themselves perfectly safe. At last, when the head of the young King has been quite turned with wine, he orders the golden vessels which his grandfather captured from God's temple at Jerusalem, to be brought into the banquet-hall, that they may drink wine out of them in honor of the gods of Babylon. But while they are doing this impious thing, behold, a hand appears, writing with its fingers upon the wall—the doom of the kingdom of Babylon.

Drunk as he is, the miserable King is frightened. "Bring in the wise men," says he. And the wise men come in haste, and stare at the writing, but none of them is able to read or understand it. No uncircumcised eye can read God's handwriting.

Somehow or other the news of this strange affair reaches the ears of the King's mother, and she sends a servant to him, telling him that in the days of his grandfather, there was a man in Babylon who could interpret dreams, and reveal secrets, and do all manner of strange things, and maybe he would be able to read the writing. It seems that Daniel had been lost sight of for the last fifteen years; but now there is special work for him to do, and so they find him out, and ask him to read the writing.

"MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN."

And the meaning of it was as clear as daylight to him.

Now I have no doubt that a good many courtiers, if they had seen such writing as that upon the wall of the King's palace, would have softened the meaning of it a little, and not have given it in its full strength for fear of offending the King. But that was not Daniel's fashion at all. He reads it just as God writes it. "Mene: God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Tekel: Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting. Peres: Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

Ah! poor miserable Belshazzar! Even now the soldiers of Cyrus have turned away the waters of Euphrates, and are coming into the city along the empty banks. The soldiers are battering away at the doors of your palace, and before morning your blood shall be spilled upon the stones, along with the wine which you have been drinking, out of the vessels from God's holy temple at Jerusalem. You are weighed in God's balance, and found wanting.

My friends, suppose God should begin to weigh some of you to-day; suppose you were to step into the balances now, don't you think you would be found wanting? Get into the scales, take along with you your education, and your wealth, and your dignity, and your fashion, and your fine clothes, and everything that you have that is splendid—and the Lord will put the ten commandments into the other, and up you go like feathers—"weighed in the balance and found wanting." Only they who have Christ in their souls can stand the test of God's weighing. Dare you step into the balances to-day?

Some one will ask me, "Mr. Moody, dare you step into the balances to-day and be weighed? Do you know that you would be saved if the Lord should bring you to judgment?" Yes, thanks be to God, Christ is able to save me—even me; and he will save all of you who will cast off your sins, and take Christ instead.

After a while Darius, the Mede, comes to the throne of Babylon. He must have met Daniel somewhere in his travels, for no sooner does he set up the kingdom than he puts him into a place of great power. He chooses a hundred and twenty princes, whom he places over the kingdom; and over these princes he appoints three presidents, and makes Daniel the president of the presidents: so that really he is the first man in the kingdom, after the King. His business was to "see that the King suffered no damage;" that is, he was to keep watch over the accounts, to see that nobody cheated the King. This must have been a very difficult place, and Daniel must have had his hands full. He had to watch those hundred and twenty rascals, who were all the while trying to steal something off the revenue; and to go over their accounts again and again, so as to be certain that they were correct to a penny.

It was not long before Daniel became very unpopular with the princes. I seem to hear them talking to themselves in this way: "There is that miserable old Jew, Daniel; if we only had him out of the way, we could make no end of money. We would very speedily be rich; we could have our country houses and our city houses, and our fine horses and chariots, and we would live in the very highest style, off the revenues of that kingdom; but that old fellow watches us as narrowly as a cat watches a mouse. We can't cheat him—even to a shilling." "Why," says one, "I never saw such a man in all my life. I gave in an account the other day that was only a few pounds short; and did not he send it back to me, and make me pay the difference! I wish he was back in Jerusalem where he came from."

However, the King trusted Daniel; and he was such a thoroughly good and honest man that they could really find no way to revenge themselves upon him. They talked it over together again and again, and all agreed that there was no chance of getting him out of the way, unless they could find something in his religion by which they could bring him into trouble.

"We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God." What an honor! Nothing with him—even in the eyes of these bad men—except that he was too faithful to his God!

How many of you are likely to be complained of on that account?

Finally, they hit upon a plan which they thought might possibly succeed. One night they are closeted together in secret, and one of the princes says to the rest: "I think I have got a plan that will work. You know King Darius is very popular, and he is very proud of it. The people praise him a great deal, and he likes it. Now, suppose we ask him to establish a royal decree, 'that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of the King, he shall be cast into the den of lions.' That will be putting the King in the place of the gods, and he is most likely to be flattered by that than anything else I can think of; then, if once we can get that old Hebrew into the lion's den we shall make a great deal more money than we have been able to do with him watching us all the time."

This notion seemed to please the princes very well. They drew up the document immediately. It would not do to let Daniel hear of it before the King should sign it; and so they appointed a committee to take the decree down to the palace the very first thing in the morning. There were some lawyers among these hundred and twenty princes and I seem to see them drawing out the law with great care, making it firm and binding—laughing to themselves, and saying: "The laws of the Medes and Persians change not. If once we can get Darius to stamp this document with his signet ring Daniel is done for, sure enough."

So the committee go down to the palace the next morning to obtain his signature. They began by flattering him. If a man wants another to do a mean thing, he always begins by appealing to his vanity.

"O King, we have been thinking how popular you are in your kingdom, and what you might do to make yourself even more famous than you are; and we have come to the conclusion that if you would publish a decree that nobody in the kingdom, for thirty days, should pray to any other god except yourself, it would turn the hearts of the people towards you even more than now. We should then have a universal religion, and the king would be at the head of it."

Darius felt flattered by this proposition. He turned it over in his mind, and presently said:

"That seems sensible."

"All right," said the princes. "We thought you would like it; and, in order that there might not be any delay, we have the document here already drawn up. Now, if you will please to stamp this with your signet ring, we shall have it published right away."

The King takes the document, reads it over, stamps his seal upon it; and the committee go away laughing, and saying, "Ha, ha! old Hebrew, we will have you in the den of lions before night."

The princes lost no time in publishing the new decree of the King. I can imagine some one of Daniel's friends who had seen the document going up to his office in great haste to give him warning that there was some trouble brewing.

"Have you heard the news, Daniel? Those hundred and twenty princes have gone and got Darius to publish a decree that nobody shall pray to any god except him for thirty days. That is a conspiracy against you. Now I want to give you a little advice; and that is to get out of this town in a hurry."

But Daniel says he can't leave his business. He is afraid those hundred and twenty princes will cheat the revenues while he is away. His duty is right there and he is determined to stay there and attend to it.

"Well, then, had you not better pray more secretly? You have a habit, that is all well enough in ordinary times, of going up to your chamber, where the windows open toward Jerusalem, and saying your prayers there three times a day. And sometimes pray pretty lond, and people out of doors can hear you. Now just shut your windows while you pray for the next thirty days; for these princes are sure to have some spies watching you at your prayers. You had better stop up the keyhole of your door also, for these mean fellows are not above peeping in to watch you. It would be still better if you would not kneel down at all, but say your prayers after you get into bed."

Ah! how many young men have gone to business or to college and lost their peace of mind and their hope in Christ because they were afraid to pray before their roommates!

And what does Daniel say to such advice as this? He scouts it. He tramples it under his feet. No man shall hinder him from praying. No King shall frighten him out of his duty. He attends to his morning's work; looks over the accounts as usual; and when 12 o'clock comes, he goes to his chamber, puts the windows wide open, kneels down and prays, not to Darius, but to the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. His windows are opened toward Jerusalem, and his face is turned that way; for Jerusalem is dearer to him than his life, and the God of his fathers is his sure defense. I can seem to see him kneeling there—that old man, with his white locks and beard, praying at the probable cost of his life; but he does not seem to be troubled by the danger; neither is he angry at the command of the King or the manifest wickedness of those hundred and twenty Princes. He prays for the King, his friend—who, he is sure, has done this wickedness in some thoughtless moment. He prays for his enemies, the Princes, who are wickedly seeking to destroy him.

Those men have taken care that two witnesses shall be underneath Daniel's window at the time when he usually goes to pray. "Hark!" says one to the other, "Did you hear that? The old man is up there praying, sure enough! Listen; he is not praying to King Darius."

"No," says the other; "he is praying to the God of the Hebrews."

So they listen till the prayer is finished, and then they hurry away to the Princes, to give their evidence against Daniel; and the Princes lose no time in laying the matter before the King.

"O, King Darius! live forever. Is it not written that the laws of the Medes and Persians change not?"

"It is," said Darius; "anything that is stamped with the King's seal cannot be changed."

"That is what we thought," said the Princes. "Did you not make a decree that no man should pray to any other god than to the King?"

"Yes, I did," said Darius.

Then they tell him that the Chief of the Presidents—this Daniel, the Hebrew—has refused to obey the King's command.

Poor Darius! "What a mistake I have made!" says he. "I might have known that Daniel would not obey such a command as that. I had quite forgotten about him when I made it." There is not a man in all Babylon who is so troubled as the King. The account says that "he labored till the going down of the sun to deliver Daniel." But the command had gone forth, the law had been made, and it could not be changed, even for the sake of Daniel himself.

If Darius had only loved his friend as much as Christ loves us, he would have gone down into the den of lions for him. Our Darius, our King, counted not his life dear unto himself, but freely delivered it up for us.

At sundown the King's officers go for the old man, to take him away to the lions. They bind his hands behind his back and lead him along the streets of Babylon towards the den. The whole city goes out to see the sad procession. The Princes look out of their windows, and rub their hands, and laugh over the success of their wicked plot; and the people look on in wonder, to see such a sweet-faced old man led away to die like a criminal; and poor Darius walks the chamber of his palace, wringing his hands in agony, saying „Ah me! I have destroyed my friend."

But Daniel walks with a firm step. His old knees don't shake a bit. The wind of the evening plays with his white locks, and with a smile upon his face he goes to meet the lions. He has served his God now for seventy long years and he feels sure that God will not desert him in this great hour of trial. I can imagine him saying, "My God can bring me out of the jaws of the lions just as easily as he saved my three friends from the furnace of fire. But even if they eat me, I shall only die for my God." And when they put him into the den God sent one of his angels to shut the mouths of the lions.

At the hour of the evening prayer, Daniel kneels in the den; and, if he can get the points of the compass down there, he prays with his face towards Jerusalem; and then, taking one of the lions for a pillow, he lies down and sleeps, as sweetly as any man in Babylon. The King sits up all night, thinking what his folly has cost him—even the life of his most faithful servant. But he remembers that the God of Daniel has done strange things for them who trusted him. He has heard of Shadrach and his friends coming out of the fiery furnace; and he knows that Daniel went into the den feeling that his God would go with him and save him. At the first dawn of day he orders out his chariot, and you can hear the wheels rattling over the pavements of Babylon before the people are up. Away he goes, with his horses on the run, to the door of the lions' den; springs out of the chariot; looks down into it, and with a voice trembling with anxiety, cries out, "O Daniel, servant of the living God; is that God whom thou servest continually able to deliver thee from the lions?"

Hark! There comes up a voice out of the den. It is the voice of Daniel, to whom this morning is like the morning of the resurrection. He has been down to the gates of death and yet he is alive.

"O King! live forever. My God hath sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me."

Oh how glad King Darius was to hear the voice of his friend once more! He has him brought up out of the den, takes him up in his arms into his chariot, and away they go home to the palace to breakfast together and talk over this wonderful deliverance.

Then King Darius published another decree. The experience of Daniel had thoroughly converted him; and now he declares "that in every dominion of his kingdom, man shall tremble and fear before the God of Daniel, who worketh signs and wonders in heaven and earth, and hath delivered his servant from the power of the lions."

We have not time, this morning, to follow the history of this man any further. Three times a messenger came down from heaven to tell him that he was greatly beloved of the Lord. The Spirit of God was with him, and the hand of God protected him.

May the God of Daniel be with us—the courage of Daniel be in us! May we have grace to confess the Lord, to go through the fire and amongst the lions, if need be, for the sake of his truth; and at last, after all the trials of this life are over, may we be so happy as to sit down with Daniel and all the ancient worthies, in the Kingdom of our God.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J, R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5.

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);
AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11:

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE. CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others added.

A 4-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV, A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty. and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,
by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Gripe, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Gripe, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GREESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan.

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS, in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2.00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan, in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Kirkbart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Mergan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to those chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2.00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,
BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM
BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,
BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organization Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS
HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

J. S. Yankey, Fayetteville., Pa., adds twenty-one three months subscribers to his previous list and writes: "I furnish the money so that they get the paper free of charge. If I get no more reward than to know that God approves, which I feel, bless his Holy Name, that is reward enough. Since our General Conference (U. B.) at Westfield so nobly stood up against secretism I feel like thanking God and taking courage."

Who sends the next club?

Stephen Jenkins, White Rock, Ill., writes: "I have been trying to get up a club. I will succeed after harvest."

Stephen Reynolds, Faribault, Minn., writes: "I think after harvest I can send in a few names. I would rather lose three meals a week than do without the Cynosure.

H. W. Steele, Ames, Iowa, writes: "After harvest we will try to send you a club of ten."

Jacob Phillips, Smithdale, Ill., writes: "I have some prospect of getting some subscribers for the Cynosure this fall. It cheers my heart to know that the cause is gaining."

Will not many who desire to see truth prevail begin now to study out the best way to secure a large club in the fall?

I. J. Gilbert, Derby, Ct., writes: "When are we to have Ronayne's pictures again? I would like to see them in every paper."

We will print Freemasonry at a Glance again as soon as our present stock is used up. We have about a thousand copies dated October 26th now on hand. Price three cents each postpaid; $2.00 per hundred by express.

Books sent Week ending June 16, 1877.

By Express.

A Gray, J A Rouser, W Humphrey, W R Rouch, J D Goode, S Wright, C N Houck.

By Mail.

R D Nichols, S G Harbaugh, G W Julian, A H Varney, J D Williams, M W Thomas, H L Barrett, G A Schuekenburger, W L Underwood, R B Dawson, H A Stahlnecker, I Marlin, W F Merritt, S E Cromb, Jr, W Gable, W H Young, P Elzea, J C Stewart, F Leines, I P Crane, A Wright, R Bell, J H Kimball, W T Watson, W N Ramsey, A Benham, Z Finch, C F Bull, J Knox, E Portes, H Danford, H S Limbocker, W Banks. W W Slack, J D Allen, D B Kenyon, J J St. John, T Blackman, S E Sealey, S Gould, R Burrel, J Christoph, C Taylor, A Musselman, P Beck, J A Prickett, B F Troutman, E B Allen, S H Cloyse, J E Nevills, J Baker, R Ande Blair, F Livermore, G W Wingate, J Q Livermore, G Lanpher, G Hoxie, J H Morrison, A Johnson, J T Hobson, S S Singer, A Oldfield, G W Teegarden, S E Orvis, box 345, Edwardsville, Ill., C Lessard, J D Shaeffer.

Donations to Tract Fund.

J McKee, $1; H Hinsley, $1.10.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING JUNE 16, 1877.—J D Allen, P Beck, A L Best, R Burrells, O Bump, J L Barlow, S Camp, E J Chalfant, R B Dawson, A B Dunlap, A K Dibble. M Ellis, D J Ellsworth, L French, W Gray, I J Gilbert, J S Hickman, M H Haywood, P Howe, T Hodge, J T Hobson, T F Hallowell, S Jenkins, J F Kuhlman, J N Lloyd, R T McKibbin, J H Myers, J M Marks, A Musselman, P Nicklas, T Osgood, S Y Orr, W I Phillips, J Phillips, J T Russell, S Reynolds, W Richir, J Seeley, D B Sherk, C Winter S Wright, L C White.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO June 18, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 48	1 49½
" No. 3		1 33
" Rejected		95
" Minnesota	1 58	1 70½
Corn—No. 2	44½	45½
Rejected		40
Oats—No. 2		38½
Rejected		29
Rye—No. 2		65
Bran per ton		13 50
Flour—Winter	7 00	9 75
Spring	4 50	8 00
Hay—Timothy	8 00	10 00
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7½	8
Lard per cwt		8 80
Mess pork, per bbl		12 75
Butter common to choice roll	14	20
Cheese	6	10½
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs	10	11
Seeds—Timothy	1 60	1 80
Clover		6 00
Flax	1 60	1 75
Potatoes new per brl	6 50	7 00
Broom corn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6¼	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	38
Unwashed	18	23
LIVE STOCK Cattle Choice	6 00	6 75
Good	5 25	5 75
Medium	4 75	5 10
Common	3 25	4 50
Hogs	4 50	4 90
Sheep	3 00	5 00

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	11 00
Wheat—Spring	1 51	1 68
Corn	50	60
Oats	41	67
Rye	75	78
Lard		9
Mess pork		13 80
Butter	10	21
Cheese	5	10
Eggs	17	18
Wool	10	52

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square,	1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square	(1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	"	" 2		10.00
1	"	" 3 "		15.00
1	"	" 6 "		25.00
1	"	" 12 "		40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Moutgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass, Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug76tf.]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 18 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1877.

VOL. IX., No.39.—WHOLE NO. 379. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
A Word with Chicago Ministers	2
The Annual Business Meeting	8
Law Vindicated	8
College Anniversaries	6
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Psalm CXLVIII (poetry)	1
Moral Instruction	1
Masonry and its Objections	2
But ye are Washed	3
The Defender of the Faith (Masonic)	3
Christianity and Commerce	4
REFORM NEWS:
The Dupage County Association; Bonayne in Sherman, N. Y.; From Central Iowa; The Reform in Michigan; Review of Work in Lawrence Co., Indiana	4,5,6
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Lutheran Synods; The Latest Accident in Female Masonry; Our Mail	6,7
Report of the Corresponding Secretary N. C. A.	12
Report of the Treasury	13
OBITUARY—Rev. A. Palmer	9
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	12
Publishers' Department	16

Notice.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

Saratoga and New York were thrown into a great flurry by Mr. Seligman, the Jewish banker and one of the syndicate through which our government disposes of its bonds. The particular trouble was a refusal of the Grand Union Hotel managers to receive him as a guest, by order of Judge Hilton, the recipient and manager of A. T. Stewart's fortune. Seligman spread his grievance before the public immediately, and of course aroused a good deal of sympathy. But as the facts begin to come out there appears to be considerable of the same work done quietly by hotel managers, but in respect to a class of Jewish people only. Some matters of a personal character between Seligman and the Stewart estate are also said to account for Judge Hilton's action. The offended party has not put the case in the law yet, though the provisions of the celebrated Civil Rights bill apply as well to Jews as to Africans.

The actual crossing of the Danube by a Russian corps last Friday at Ibrail and Galatz, and the probable forcing of a passage by the immense armies of the Czar farther up the river in a few days has roused England into positive action. It was reported early last week that Beaconsfield had practically overcome the neutral and peaceable members of his cabinet and an army of fourteen thousand had been ordered to Egypt, to guard British interests in the Suez canal. It is also said that a large force of fifty thousand has been ordered to Constantinople, and that a positive demand has been made of the Czar to state the intentions and limits of the war. Upon his answer will depend the decision in regard to a declaration of hostilities; the Conservative or Disraeli party is openly in favor of such a step, but is held back by political opponents. Preparations for war are being pushed forward with all possible vigor, and the war spirit is gaining ground daily among the people. There are great deficiencies in the general administration of the British army which every effort is being made to supply, and that foreign governments may be kept uninformed of these defects and the remedies applied orders are issued forbidding foreigners from visiting the military and naval departments. In spite of all this preparation England may be restrained from war. She always likes a partner in a great war, and there is none just now available; or the assurances of the Czar may strengthen the Liberal party so as to prevent the ambitions of the Prime Minister.

President Hayes is visiting Boston this week. Although he will not meet the seductive ceremonies of a Masonic corner-stone laying, he will find enough to look after in the United States offices there, as every where else. Collector Simmons, the fidus Achates of B. F. Butler, is Collector of the port, and has been more than once accused of dishonorable practice in politics, if not in business. Before leaving Washington the President issued a circular to all the government officers in the country instructing them to refrain from active participation in party politics, from attending caucuses, etc., though not restricting their rights as modest citizens from expressing their views publicly. This entering wedge separating party from public duty should be driven home.

By a vote of 363 to 153 the French Chamber of Deputies resolved last week that the new ministry "does not possess the confidence of the nation." Loud cheers from the Republican side announced the result. The ministry assert their indifference to the action of the Chamber, and assume an air of confidence in the public elections. The followers of Gambetta are no less confident of the public issue. They already talk of reinstating Thiers in the Presidency.

The high-handed measures of the infidel and papist majority in the Chicago School Board, beginning with casting the Bible out of the schools, have continued until at length they have forced the resignation of Superintendent Pickard, who has for many years filled the office with great success. The difficulties from which resulted the Hanford murder last year were directly connected with the efforts of the anti-Bible party to oust Mr. Pickard. Being too popular an officer to openly attack with impunity they resorted to meaner but more quiet methods which a man of principle and honor could not endure. The Common Council of the city has taken the matter in hand and may find a way to save the public schools from the loss of their able Superintendent. The Bible question is not dead yet, though little agitated before the public. The Advance of last week publishes the following, which deserves passing around, that school-book buyers may be aware of what publishers they are buying, who can mutilate texts for less even than a Masonic reason:

"We referred last week to the way in which the secularist intermeddlers in our public school affairs were in Chicago undertaking to expurgate from the text-books all recognitions of God, even in so indirect a manner as is done in Guyot's Physical Geography. We have since learned that to gratify this class of men in the Chicago Board of Education, the publishers of a certain analytical series of school readers, have been making a thorough revision of their readers, striking out the name of Jesus wherever in any selection it occurs. And so the pagan transformation goes on. The head of this publishing firm is a Mr. George Sherwood. Those who do not choose to encourage this sort of pagan insult to him from whose birth all the civilized nations date the years, can bear his name in mind when purchasing reading-books for their children."

PSALM CXLVIII.

Praise ye the Lord in heaven above,
Ye angels who around him move,
Ye glorious band of satellites
Who people his eternal heights.

Ye first creations of his hand
Who sprang to life at his command,
A life that by his firm decree
Shall lengthen to eternity.

Ye sun and moon and stars of light,
The bright reflectors of his sight,
Ye waters from his throne that spring,
Praise ye the name of Zion's King!

Praise him, O earth, in hills and deeps!
Praise him who all thy creatures keeps,
Ye elements, his praise declare,
Ye who his earthly cohorts are.

Mountains and hills and fruitful trees,
And cedars waving in the breeze.
Cattle and beasts and creeping things,
And birds that spread their snowy wings.

Princes who earthly scepters sway,
All people who their rule obey,
And ye who give the world its law,
Of your Creator stand in awe.

Let all mankind, the young, the old,
Praise him for mercies still untold;
Let all his mighty scepter own,
Whose name is excellent alone.

Above our faint conceptions far,
Higher than heaven's remotest star,
Bow down thine ear, Eternal King,
Accept the offering we bring!

—Evening Post.

MORAL INSTRUCTION.

Where shall we go for moral instruction, to the Masonic Manual or to the Bible?

It is true there are many passages from the Scriptures in the Masonic Manual; but they have no more to do there than they would among the leaves of Joe Miller or Mackey's Masonic Jurisprudence.

As law is often made use of to defeat justice, so the Bible is often used for the purpose of corrupting the morals of a people, with the view to carry some Jusuitical or political end. If we were to see the Bible ostentatiously displayed by a female secret society, or carefully enshrined in some railroad car, or paraded in the streets by an orthodox deacon in a Masonic procession, we should suspect that there was something wrong somewhere.

We have heard of the adversary who sowed tares among the wheat, but when we see wheat deliberately sown among tares, like, for instance, the interspersing of Christian ideas through the Koran, or the carrying of a Christian life into a Masonic lodge, we need not trouble ourselves to find wherein the anomaly consists. There is either gross moral ignorance or knavery in it.

We find by referring to the Bible that a crafty, foxy man took an oath, an oath that is forbidden by the Christian religion; and the unforeseen result of that oath was the murdering of the greatest man of woman born. The consequence of the oath might not possibly have been foreseen by him who swore it, since who can foresee all the ends of an oath? Yet the end was probably plotted and contrived by those who wished to have the murder committed. The oaths administered by Masons are often made to serve just such a purpose: and to say that leading Masons do not design such purposes, is to suppose them to be as flat and foolish as their dupes. There need to be no other evidence of the exceeding depravity of Masonry than this, viz: that the victim of an oath, John the Baptist, the lodge claims as a Mason, while the crafty, cunning Herod who took the oath, just like a Freemason, is not accepted as one of the "order."

By looking back through the course of American politics since the period when the Jesuitry of the lodge first was introduced into it, now some hundred and forty years ago, we shall find constant resemblances to the murderous operation of Herod's oath, where good men have been sacrificed as the result of the Masonic oath, while inferior men who knew the grip and held the key of entrance, have prospered. If it had not been for the Masonic oath there can be but little doubt that Webster, Clay, Crawford, Preston, Scott, Sumner would have met with popular favor and warm human sympathy instead of coldness, neglect, outrage.

If Masons were honest in their scriptural references they should include Herod among their members. And whenever a good and true man comes short of an office while an inferior man gets it, they should admit that it is for their oath's sake that such things happen.

We have still other evidence from the Bible that Herod acted on Masonic principles. It is this: When he made peace with the Phoenicians, against whom he had been wrathy, he delivered a pompous speech on the occasion, and received immense applause from the people, which he took all to himself and gave nothing to God. The facts were that Herod's power and grandeur were the last elements possible in the case. The chief motive for peace, over and above the moral precept that, blessare the peace-makers, was that the Phœnician traders drew their subsistence from Judea, which had been blessed by Providence with fertility, and hence it was the policy of the Phœnicians to be at peace with that country. They fed on the crumbs that fell from Judean abundance, and were humbly willing to feed on such crumbs. There was no occasion then for Herod to glory over it for his own selfish advantage, so like a Freemason, taking to the cunning of the lodge what belongs to the wisdom of God.

There is precisely a politico-Masonic parallel to this case in our recent national history. It is this: A great shew was made over negotiating and confirming the treaty of Washington that settled the so-called Alabama question. That treaty was inaugurated and concluded entirely under Masonic auspices. The idea was given out that it was to inaugurate a new era in the reign of "peace and good will to man on earth;" that it was to be the beginning of settling international difficulties by arbitration and not by war; that it was to be a great and good institution, etc.; and yet all the glory was given to the Masonic lodge and not to Christ. English Masons were its chief fabricators; American Masons were called together in a great Masonic demonstration to signalize the grandeur of the occasion; the influence of the Christian religion was never invoked or else kept studiously in the background; and whatever American, not a Mason, who had a hand in it remained mum and silent, shared in the stolen glory and let the glorification of the lodge go on. Masonry, an English aristocratic institution, was glorified, and not Christ who brought "peace and good will to men" into the world. The chief actor in the scene, Lord Ripon, was Grand Master of the lodges of England. On his return home from Washington he was crowned with new honors by his government, and soon became a Roman Jesuit, out and out, there being but one step from the top of the Masonic ladder to the roof that covers the dungeons of the Inquisition.

Every American citizen should study the history of his country from an Anti-masonic standpoint. He would then see it under a very different and much truer light than that in which it is usually regarded. Let the student of history inquire first whether the actors upon the scenes are Masons or not, and whether they are responding merely to the wires that lead to the lodge. For instance, let him analyse the present Cabinet and see how many of its members are secret society men, and what will be the probable result of it; whether the negroes and their friends will not be turned over to the tender mercies of the Kuklux by its members for their oath's sake. And let him see how many religious newspapers, so-called, which dip the sop in the very dish with the Lord, approve of this surrender.

AMERICAN.

Masonry and its Objections.

BY W. H. SANDERSON.

[Concluded].

4. Its oaths are profane and unlawful.

Not only to the law of God but are antagonistic to the law of the land. The idea of the oath or obligation being unknown before taken is enough to condemn it. For, "If a soul swear, pronouncing with his lips to do evil, or to do good, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him, when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these. And it shall be, when he shall be guilty in one of these things, that he shall confess that he hath sinned in that thing." (Lev. 5: 4, 5.) How then can a Christian man be a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus and adhere to the obligations of a Mason?

These obligations are not only antagonistic to the immutable laws of God, but the moral sensibilities shrink from them, for the reason that they require the individual to sustain the wrong as well as the right, yes, the worst of wrongs, murder and treason, if the person so elects, viz.: "That a Master Mason's secrets, given to me in charge as such, shall remain as secure and inviolable in my breast as in his own, murder and treason excepted, and they left to my own election. That if any part of this solemn oath be omitted at this time I will hold myself amenable thereto whenever informed." They are also sworn to heed the call of a Master Mason when in distress (?) or in need, wherever the call is heard, or the sign is seen, and the brother hearing or seeing such a call or sign must ask no questions but fly to his relief, if, as it is expressed, within the "length of his cable-tow," which is an indefinite distance, but is generally considered within sight or hearing. Many Masons will deny this, but let us consult Masonic authority:

Albert Pike, in a report to the Grand Lodge of Arkansas, 1854, p. 116, says: "If a person appeals to us as a Mason in imminent peril, in such pressing need that we have no time to inquire into his worthiness, then, lest we might refuse to relieve and aid a worthy brother, we must not stop to inquire into anything."

Mackey says (Masonic Jurisprudence, p. 270): "We are to give aid in imminent peril when Masonically called upon, not lest injustice may be done if we pause to inquire into the question of affiliation, but because the obligation to give this aid, which is reciprocal among all Masons, never has been, and never can be cancelled."

There can be no mistake about this obligation, as we can see from these comments of high Masonic authority. The brother in distress then may be deserving or he may be a fugitive from justice. He may be a murderer; still it makes no difference. With this truth standing before us need we dispute the debasing influences of such oaths? They are both profane and unreasonable.

5. Treason and rebellion are sustained by the Masonic code, while, as we have seen, the name of Christ is an innovation.

Mackey (Masonic Jurisprudence, p. 510) says: "Treason and rebellion also, because they are altogether political offences, cannot be inquired into by a lodge, and although a Mason may be convicted of either of these acts in the courts of his country, he cannot be Masonically punished, and notwithstanding his treason and rebellion, his relation to the lodge, to use the language of the old charges, remains indefeasible."

Is this consistent with good government in a Christian country? What can be the effect of such reasoning upon a nation of individuals which make up a republic like our own? Let us listen to the words of that eminent statesman, Daniel Webster:

(Letter dated Boston, Nov. 20, 1835): "I have no hesitation in saying that however unobjectionable may have been the original objects of the institution, or however pure may be the motives and purposes of the individual members, and notwithstanding the many great and good men who have from time to time belonged to the order, yet, nevertheless, it is an institution which in my judgment is essentially wrong in the principle of its formation, that from its very nature it is liable to great abuses; that among the obligations which are found to be imposed on its members, there are such as are entirely incompatible with the duty of good citizens; and that all secret associations, the members of which take upon themselves extraordinary obligations to one another and are bound together by secret oaths, are naturally sources of jealousy and just alarm to others, are especially unfavorable to harmony and mutual confidence among men living together under popular institutions, and are dangerous to the general cause of civil liberty and good government. Under the influence of this conviction it is my opinion that the future administration of all such oaths, and the formation of all such obligations, should be prohibited by law.

Hon. Richard Rush says, "Many years ago I became an Entered Apprentice, went to a lodge once, and but once. On my return from England I voluntarily withdrew from the body, by a letter to that effect."

Gov. Hancock: "I am opposed to all secret associations."

President J. Q. Adams: "Secrets written in blood should be revealed; a tree that bears such fruits should be hewn down. No butcher would mutilate the carcass of a bullock or a swine, as the Masonic candidate swears consent to the mutilation of his own, for the breach of an absurd and senseless secret. It is an oath of which a common cannibal would be ashamed."

6. Its false claims to benevolence.

A great deal of boasting of the benevolence of Masonry is done by members of the fraternity everywhere. Have those claims been substantiated? When have they exhibited charity unless it be in public places, "that they might be seen of men?" Giving without the spirit of benevolence; hoping to reap worldly reward for that giving, rather than a reward in heaven.

The conditions of the acceptance of a candidate are of themselves a contradiction of its benevolence.

Mackey says (Lexicon p. 372), "The physical qualifications are that the candidate shall be twenty-one years old or more, free born and no bondsman, of able body and of 'limbs whole as a man ought to be.'"

"Whatever objections some ultra liberal brethren make to the uncharitable nature of a law which excludes a virtuous man from our fellowship because he has been unfortunate enough to lose a leg or an arm, we have no right to discuss the question. The regulation constitutes one of the many peculiarities that distinguish our society from all others; its existence continues to connect the present speculative with the former operative character of the institution."

Is this benevolence? Is this taking Christ's example, going about doing good, among the poor, and especially the sick, the halt and the blind? Shall we shut out of our charities the one-armed or disabled soldier who saved us our country? Is it benevolence to spend thousands upon thousands to sustain the dignity of the order and to build magnificent temples like that at Philadelphia? "Charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up," etc., therefore let us not boast of our benevolence, but do good to all whenever the need is seen.

7. It is deceptive in its claims to antiquity.

It would be foolish to dwell upon this point as all history will show that the present Speculative Freemasonry began its existence the 24th day of June, 1717, at Appletree Tavern, London, England, at which meeting a Grand Lodge was first formed and persons of all or no trades and professions were admitted. Masonry, previous to this date consisted of brick and stone masons who met annually for conviviality, socially and in the interest of that particular craft. These bodies comprised such working masons of a neighborhood who could be conveniently assembled. The better class of Masonic writers lay no claim to its great antiquity.

Dr. Dalcho says—(Book of Constitutions):

"Neither Adam, nor Noah, nor Nimrod, nor Moses, nor Joshua, nor David, nor Solomon, nor Hiram, nor St. John the Baptist, nor St. John the Evangelist were Freemasons. Hypothesis in history is absurd. There is no record sacred or profane to induce us to believe that those holy men were Freemasons; and our traditions do not go back to those days. To assert that they were Freemasons may make the vulgar stare, but will rather excite the contempt than the admiration of the wise."

8. All may know of the character of Masonry.

Because the whole institution is made open and plain by numerous exposures of its secrets, etc., although thousands of Masons will deny that it can be exposed. If it is not exposed why was Morgan abducted from his home and drowned in Niagara river, unless it was by his public exposure, assisted by the faithful "brothers" of the Satanic institution, who like Paul before his conversion, thought they were "doing God's service"?

Why did over 40,000 Masons secede at about that time? Cannot we believe thousands of sworn statements of reliable men as to the truth of the exposure of Masonry.

If any Mason will take the trouble to read Morgan's Exposure, or Richardson's, or Bernard's "Light on Masonry" he cannot but be convinced of the truthfulness of their contents, and must admit that to all intents and purposes they are a faithful exposition.

That these books were written at different places and at different times many years intervening between two of them is sufficient proof of their authenticity. Yet the reader will be impressed with the harmony of the text, they being mostly verbatim, and there being slight differences in wording in a very few places is also good proof of their authenticity, taking into consideration that they were written from memory to a great extent. Again, if Masonry has not been exposed why have so many Masons obtained, secretly, copies of the exposition, for the sole purpose of "getting posted" without going through the lecture etc., in the laborious but true Masonic method of "word of mouth" with some "bright brother"? An instance of this is known in the history of this lodge—(St. Paul's, No. 25, State of Vermont.) The brother was a high Mason and considered a "worthy brother," yet he posted himself on Richardson's Exposition.

In conclusion what Christian man with these facts before him can say that Masonry, from its foundation, is not only deceptive but unchristian and blasphemous. Therefore let Christ's people beware of such a snare, and show by a godly and open life and a fearless determination to work for the blessed Master Jesus Christ, that peace of life and hope in immortality is not obtained under the cover of darkness or behind closed doors, but is free to all, "without money and without price."

"Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us. Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds." Heb. xii., 1–3.

"But ye are Washed."

BY REV. J. J. HAYDEN.

The Scriptures of divine truth every where represent the sinner as being unclean, filthy, impure, unfit and unworthy of the society of the saint, or of the church or household of God, the two according to the laws of affinity cannot enjoy each other's soicety; the elements of which their natures are composed are inharmonious and repulsive, and hence to unite them into one brotherhood, each carrying out his legitimate business, would at once explode the social relation and disintegrate every intended interest of the organization, and confusion and disappointment would be the result. Every organization has a motive, and the motive is understood by its founders and leaders, and the purity of the motive best understood by the nature of the obligation enjoined, and hence being made acquainted with the moral or immoral quality of the obligation imposed or enjoined on the initiated, you have the infallible key to the nature or character of the workings of that institution. It matters not what its pretensions may be, or what its outer forms, if not in strict keeping with the nature of its obligations all such claims misrepresent the institution and are unworthy of belief.

We claim in the foregoing that we have given the key to the internal workings of every organization so far as respects their nature, whether professedly religious or civil, Christian or anti-Christian.

The Christian brotherhood are washed, made clean through the word spoken unto them, they are sanctified, justified in the name of the Lord Jesus and by the spirit of our God. The church and the world can never be united, Christ and Belial will have first to become one in purpose and work. Light and darkness will have to become the same. Love and hatred will have to become one in nature; and a thousand other impossibilities take place before a permanent brotherhood can be formed out of materials so adverse in nature and work, so repulsive in spirit and so dissimilar in every ingredient indispensable to form one harmonious whole, hence every true Christian who becomes entangled in Satan's beloved institution must of necessity, whilst at work in the secret lodge, sacrifice his Christian principles. Notwithstanding he has been washed, he, like the sow, is turned to his wallowing in the mire; his robe made white by being washed in the blood of the Lamb, has become filthy and black as sackcloth. By working in the interest of the prince of darkness he will obtain the wages of sin, which is death. Can the white robe be left outside the lodge by the Christian and be taken up on coming out.

I once saw a professed Christian engage in dancing on a dav of celebration; and drawing his coat and laying it down he exclaimed, "Lay there, religion, while I take a dance." But now-a-days men professing to be saints do act far more inconsistent,—yes, they can put off Christ and go blindfolded into the dark dens of Satan and come out and seem to say, "I can fellowship the unfruitful works of darkness and keep Christ, and be a Christian all the while." Thus the violent taketh the kingdom by force.

Dear brethren, let us keep our garments white, our armor bright, and our lamps burning. Let us ever maintain the spirit of Christ, and whatsoever we do in word or deed do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and our Father by him; and as we have been washed let us keep ourselves unspotted from the world, remembering we are kept by the power of God unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time.

COLO, Iowa.

The Defender of the Faith (Masonic.)

The following is taken from the report of an auniversary meeting of the Ladies' City Mission Society of New Bedford, Mass., held in January, 1872, as published in the Republican Standard of that city.

The leading address of the occasion was made by Mr. T. C. Jerome. He said though this was a City Mission Society, the report of the missionary showed that its words had gone to the end of the world and its work was among all classes and nativities; so Human Brotherhood might not be inappropriate as a subject for present remark.

Some scientists hold that we are not all of one blood, and our fights and quarreling may seem to be evidence in support of such a view. The world had been divided into Jew and gentile, Greek and barbarian, master and slave, but happily in our own country the possibility of Toombs calling his shamful roll where Warren fell and Howe ran, has passed. Democracy is going forward, and the tendency is toward peace on earth. But peace is not all: charity must go with it. It was once enough to feed the poor at the door, but many a ship has since crossed the ocean with succor for the famishing and wounded. We sent aid to conquered Paris, and the bread cast on those waters in Spring returned to our Chicago in Autumn.

But I have somewhat against thee, Columbia, said Mr. Jerome, because thou hast not greeted the orientals with the same favor as the Irish. "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm." The salutation of Samoset shall yet be changed at the Golden Gate to Welcome, Chinese!

Railroads, though called into being for commercial purposes, are advancing the idea of human brotherhood, and the hospitals and libraries still better illustrate it. But the true idea of human brotherhood comes not from commerce, science, or any natural origin; it comes from the teaching of the Divine word. A Fejean and a New Zealander meeting on the missionary brig could exchange the responses, "Hallelujah!" "Amen!" though no other sentence either could speak would be intelligible to the other. The death of Christ on the cross is the controlling influence that is to make us no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God.

Associations of human devising were first defensive and offensive, then social, and finally charitable. But the poor cannot join these charitable organizations, where it is expected that every one shall give more than he receives. Masonry is not "free," and we have an odd rather than an even fellowship, where half the world is certainly shut out; are the women not worthy of membership, or are the societies not worthy of them? The inquiries as to an applicant for membership are not only, Is he of good character? but has he means? can he give more than he receives? He did not wish to assail such societies; that would be as unequal a contest as David's with Goliah. He would pursue this portion of the subject only just far enough to show the superiority of the church to all human institutions. Whatever may be concealed in such an order, its avowed character is exclusive and narrow, aristocratic, rather than republican; it is for Masons, not for men. It is religious, keeps out infidels, admits members on the open Bible, and has a chaplain; but is the question, "If ye love them who love you, what reward have ye?" quoted in its litany? The world's highest type of charity is far below the true idea. By standing in the place of religion it may be a fatal snare to some.

The mission of the church is specially to those cast out, to those in prison, in the gutter, in brothels. They are fellow-sinners with us all, and it is no disgrace for us to stand beside them and say Go in peace and sin no more. Thy brother is he who has fallen among thieves. This is the true human brotherhood.

* * * * * *

Dr. Quint was the next speaker. He had prepared a manuscript for the sake of conciseness and the saving of time, and had not expected to say anything extempore; but while approving most of the sentiments of the brother who preceded him, and admiring his pluck, he was reminded of the bull which tried to toss the locomotive, with a result fatal to himself. The animal was plucky, but not discreet. No society of human origin can be a substitute for the church, but the Sons of Temperance, Good Templars, Odd Fellows and Freemasons are useful in breaking up clanishness, uniting persons of different faiths and social circles, and smoothing the acerbities of life. They are no more selfish than the insurance company which pays no loss except those of policy-holders. Dr. Quint was proud of being the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons, and anybody who don't like it can help himself. The Masons are charitable outside their organization, but do not sound the trumpet when they make a gift. The Pope excommunicates Freemasons, and the assaults of others are only Papal bulls. The Masons universally teach that in the Bible only is shown the way of salvation. Dr. Quint cited many instances of faithful Christians and exemplary patriots who belonged to the Freemasons, and quoted from a letter written by a missionary in Asia to his lodge in this country, to the effect that those who attack the order show an ignorance equalled only by their lack of judgment. Having spoken thus, Dr. Quint said he would drop the subject and take up something importrnt. He then read his report.

Christianity and Commerce.

At the recent annual banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Rev. Mr. Courtney, an invited guest, pointed to the intimate connection between the extension of our commerce and the progress of the Christian religion. He said:

"Though we are split up into sects, we are all more or less united in the belief of one God who has revealed himself through his Son Jesus Christ, and to a very great extent our commerce is based upon sound Christian principles. This English-speaking community sees the necessity of disseminating Christian principles throughout the world. This I truly believe will surely tend to bring about the kingdom in which all is righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. It pleases me greatly to publicly testify my belief in the business integrity of the merchants of New York and in their morality based upon the religion of Christ."

The Jewish Times indulges in some very severe strictures on Mr. Courtney's remarks, showing that many Jews are prominent members of the Chamber of Commerce, and were listeners to this "ill-timed and impertinent address," and affirming that "our commerce is no more based on Christian principles than on the principles of Buddhism, Mohammedanism or Mormonism." We deny the affirmation herein set forth, and we vindicate the entire propriety of Mr. Courtney's remarks. That modern commerce is largely and favorably affected by the prevalence of the Christian religion is as indisputable as that the laws of Christendom have been shaped to a large extent by the same power. The commercial virtues, justice, truth, honesty, industry, courtesy, beneficence and public spirit, are all inculcated by the Christian religion. The absence of these qualities is conspicuous in all communities that have never been pervaded with Christian influences. Even the high civilization of ancient Greece failed in these points, and the lofty philosophy of her sages did not enable them to discern the universal and unrelaxing obligation of honesty and truth. Theft was condoned, if not encouraged, in Sparta, as an exhibition of skill and hardihood. Plato says: "He may lie who knows how to do it," and both Plato and the Stoics are said to have "framed a Jesuitical distinction between lying in words and an assent to an untruth, which they called lying in the soul. The first they permitted." The Christian religion lays the broadest and strongest foundation for rights of property in the express will of the Creator of all things, and our present age reveals a startling connection between religious unbelief and the destructive theories of communism. The low state of heathen morals on these points is matter of testimony by all intelligent observers. Carleton Coffin, the well-known correspondent, says: "The Hindoo is wanting in all sense of moral obligation. His sacred book—his Bible—contains no code of moral laws. His priest sets human example of duplicity. He never trusts his disputes with a neighbor to the arbitrament of a native judge who has ever an open palm for him who will pay the highest fee." Turkey to-day is a lamentably conspicuous example of a nation where these virtues are almost wholly wanting for lack of a religion to impart and sustain them. In view of facts like these, it is no discourtesy for a speaker in a Christian land to refer to the beneficent influence of the prevailing religion of the country, even in the presence of some persons of another faith. Jews moreover, of all persons, ought not to be offended bu such an allusion, for the morality which the speaker commended is the morality of the ten commandments. Their sacred Scriptures are our scriptures too, and Christianity ever affirms and maintains her identity with the faith which Abraham and Moses and David believed and obeyed.—Christian Statesman.

Religious Intelligence.

—Rev. L. N. Stratton, editor of the American Wesleyan, Syracuse, left his office about the 1st of June and reached Chicago on the 20th. In the meantime he delivered twenty-eight sermons and other addresses and made a hundred pastoral visits through New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. He preached at Kishwaukee, Illinois, last Sabbath.

—The 300th anniversary of the adoption of the Formula of Concord by the Lutheran churches was widely celebrated by that denomination throughout the country on the 29th of May.

—In a recent sermon before the Illinois Baptist Educational Society at Alton, Dr. Galusha Anderson of Chicago, said: "We have over 9,000 more churches than ordained ministers, and a moment's reflection shows us that we must make large deductions from our reported clerical force. Making these deductions we find that the number of our churches is nearly if not fully double the number of our ministers who are able to do successfully the work of an ordinary Christian pastorate.

—The English Church Missionary Society now has seventy-five men in training for missionary service. Four years ago the number was twenty-three.

—Prof. Smith, of the Aberdeen Theological Seminary, has been suspended by the General Assembly of the Free church for his articles on "Angels" and the "Bible" in the new Encyclopædia Britannica. Professor Smith is a young man, but one of the most distinguished scholars in the Free church of Scotland, Professor of Hebrew in Aberdeen, and one of the Bible Revisers.

—The colored Bible readers employed by the American and Foreign Bible Society in Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina, have read and explained the Bible to 3,144 families at their homes and held religious conversation with 11,345 persons, preached 371 sermons, visited 172 Sabbath schools, and attended 315 prayer meetings. Many of the freedmen are learning to spell out the Bible by the light of pine knot fires.

—At the meeting of the Connecticut Historical Society at Hartford recently, that rare book, a Mazarine Bible, was exhibited by Dr. Trumbull. This is one of the only two copies in America, and only six copies in the world. It was printed in 1455 by Guttenburg, and was the first book ever printed from movable types. Two years ago two copies were sold at auction in London in the same sale, one printed upon paper, brought $14,000, gold; the other, on vellum, brought $20,000, gold.

—Within the bounds of the mission of Western Turkey there are 7,727 enrolled Protestants, 31 churches with 1,429 members, 101 preaching places with an aggregate attendance of 7,059, 78 Sunday-schools with 4,851 pupils, 105 week-day schools with 4,395 pupils. The additions to the churches last year were 201, or 17 per cent. The number of missionaries, male and female, connected with the mission is 54, of native helpers of all classes 212. The benevolent contributions averaged upon the members of the congregation amount to $1.10 for each person, averaged upon the church members they amount to $6 for each member.

Reform News.

The DuPage County Association.

The DuPage County Christian Association Opposed to Secret Societies met at Wheaton, June 17th, and was opened by an address by Rev. A. T. Riley of St. Charles, at the Wesleyan church at 7:30 P. M. Remarks were also made by Revs. J. P. Stoddard and H. H. Hinman. The principal speaker dwelt largely on his experience as a Freemason and of the power of Masonry to corrupt the conscience and control the conduct of its members. He was listened to by a large audience with fixed attention.

The Convention met Monday morning, June 18th, at 9:30 o'clock in the Baptist church and the first hour was spent in devotional exercises. This was followed by an experience meeting in which remarks were made by Prof. Webster of Wheaton College, Rev. A. D. Freeman, Rev. A. T. Riley and others, after which the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Rev. A. D. Freeman of Downers Grove; Vice-President, L. W. Mills of Wheaton; Secretary and Treasurer, Prof. H. A. Fischer of Wheaton College, and these officers were constituted an executive committee to fix the time and place of the next meeting. A committee on resolutions was chosen and the convention adjourned until two P. M. Rev. A. D. Freeman was appointed delegate to the National Convention at Dayton.

Convention met as adjourned and after devotional exercises Rev. H. H Hinman reported the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The family, the church and the state are the Divinely appointed means of securing every desirable object in life and

WHEREAS, The secret orders are not of Divine appointment, but are in many respects in direct conflict with them, therefore Resolved, 1. That we view with sorrow and alarm the wide spread prevalence of those orders and their blighting influence on morality and religion; and we call on all those who love righteousness and hate iniquity to unite with us in exposing their character and destroying their power.

2. That we regard the Masonic lodges with their degrading ceremonies, their immoral obligations, their profane oaths and their Christless religion as a standing menace to Christianity and good government; and we regard all those who adhere to or sympathize with them as either consciously or unconsciously taking sides with the enemies of God and humanity.

3. That we rejoice in the fact that four of the evangelical churches of Wheaton bear an emphatic testimony against the secret orders, and that Wheaton College has done so from the first, and we should exceedingly regret any change in its administration whereby that testimony should be impaired.

WHEREAS, The members of the Masonic lodge and Chapter in

Wheaton are doubtless aware that their ceremonies, obligations and penalties are fully known, that they are shocking to the moral sense of the people and for this reason could not be openly practiced, therefore

Resolved, That we call on them as neighbors and citizens to disband their organizations and remove this source of discord from our midst.

These resolutions were taken up and separately discussed by Revs. A. T. Riley, J. P. Stoddard, Prof. Webster and Prof. Lumry and adopted without dissent. The convention then listened to an address by Rev. J. P. Stoddard followed by remarks by H. H. Hinman and others when the convention adjourned until 7:30 P. M.

In the evening after devotional exercises an able address was given by Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., on the relations of Freemasonry to morality and good government. He was followed with a brief but pointed speech by Prof. C. A. Blanchard and the convention adjourned sine die.

Ronayne in Sherman, N. Y.

Arrangements having been made some time since, Past Master E. Ronayne visited Sherman, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., for the purpose of exposing to public gaze the evils and follies of Freemasonry. The Masonic element is very strong in the town, and from all indications they had no idea that any man would dare to work the degrees publicly. In order to prevent it the Masons employed, as tools, boys and young men, or rowdies who were not members of the sublime craft, while they themselves appeared to take little or no part in the proceedings.

The first evening the house was filled as full as would be comfortable, the front seats being occupied by a quiet and orderly class of persons, who evidently were desirous of hearing and seeing what was to be said and done. The back part of the audience was composed largely of people who worshiped the religion of Freemasonry. No sooner did the speaker make his appearance than the gentlemen in the back part of the room commenced stamping, whistling and talking, evidently thinking to frighten Mr. Ronayne or break up the meeting. After a time a sufficient amount of order was restored to enable the speaker to be heard, by a stirring appeal to the good and law-abiding citizens to remember that they were in a Republic in which every one had a right to express an opinion upon matters of vital importance. His manner and words so shamed the friends of the fraternity that they, seeing public opinion setting strong against them, were more quiet, and the lecturer proceeded.

Upon the introduction of the candidate another effort was made to disturb the meeting and frighten the candidate and those assisting in the initiation, the Masonic Jacks conducting themselves in a manner that was more becoming to Feejee Island cannibals or "heathen Chinese" than anything else; but the ceremony proceeded to the end, and when the meeting broke up every one seemed more convinced of the evil character of Masonry from the actions of the friends of the craft than from the words of Mr. Ronayne.

The second evening a grand scheme was laid by the Masons to prevent the working of the third degree, which, on account of its hideousness and insane absurdity would bring the entire fraternity into a deep sense of their own littleness; accordingly, when the candidate was being initiated some of the Jacks of the Masonic fraternity, having the religion of the craft and its precepts duly instilled into them, committed the small offence of burglary and larceny, by climbing into one of the windows of the anteroom from the outside, stealing the clothing therein belonging to the candidate and some others. In this way, while they hoped to prevent, by frightening the candidate, the working of third degree, they exposed the real aims and objects of the entire craft, namely, to steal, rob, plunder, murder and commit all manner of evil under the guise of Masonic religion; while the members, from the most hardened outlaw to the hypocrite standing in the pulpit, were bound by solemn oaths to "ever conceal, never reveal," and always fly to their rescue "right or wrong." The candidate being a gentleman of high literary standing in this section, and all the men assisting in the initiation quite prominent men of the town, the effect of this stroke of policy of the craft had an effect directly the reverse of what they anticipated.

The whole thing had been regarded by many as a fine farce or joke until now. When this piece of petty meanness and rascality became known, a general feeling of aversion and hatred began to manifest itself toward the Masons, and the universal opinion among non-Masons was at once arrived at that "what Ronayne says must be true; the actions of the Masons corroborate it fully." But again they had made a mistake in their antagonist, for the candidate was on the spot promptly on the third evening, and a Mason of the third degree, a member of Sherman lodge, was ready to take his place in case he had declined to go on with the third degree.

This time the tactics were again changed. The house was crowded to overflowing, and many could not even get inside the door. Before the initiation ceremonies began, corn, shot and small stones were thrown from all parts of the room, and the tumult became so great that the most prominent citizens of the town, who were non-Masons, came to the front and by pointing out the shame and disgrace which would cling to the town on account of such rowdyish and disgraceful proceedings, finally restored order, and the ceremony was gone through with to the disgust of all who were not of the craft, and shame and mortification of all who were.

It was the intention of the "Masonic religionists" to give Mr. Ronayne the benefit of a half bushel of stale eggs after the lecture this night, but when they saw him walk out of the hall, and down to his boarding place surrounded by a large deputation of resolute Anti-masons, who were of the most respected citizens of that section, they forebore and slunk into their holes to consult on the best manner of neutralizing the odor which attached to them; the smell being more disagreeable to the people than that of the decayed body of our "Grand Master, Hiram Abiff, who has been dead these fifteen days."

The prevailing opinion on the matter is that any institution that can display so much rowdyism, conduct themselves in so scandalous and disgraceful a manner, and which so mortally fears the slightest investigation, is unsafe in a republican government, detrimental to American liberty, destructive to the laws of civilized nations, contrary to the religion of Bible, an obstacle in the way of the administration of justice, and should no longer be tolerated. The actions of the Masons themselves both on and since the occasion, have done more to convince people of that fact than all the logic of Mr. Ronayne or any other living man could have done. "Never was such disgraceful rowdyism known in Sherman before on any occasion, and it is hoped it may never be so again," was the almost universal opinion of the citizens of that town.

REPORTER.

From Central Iowa.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, June 13, 1877.

DEAR CYNOSURE: I have been promising for some time to write you but have neglected it. As he wrote you, Mr. Richards visited us and lectured about a week at different points in the county, some that had never been visited before by an anti-secrecy lecturer. Whilst there was much good done, as I believe, yet not so much as should have been, owing to bad weather and the pressure of farm work at the time. But the leaven is at work and these reformers are being talked about all over the county, and are beginning to be feared in politics. Two or three candidates did considerable dodging before the primary election here to carry the vote of the opponents as well as friends of secrecy. But beer I think did more for their nomination than the secret orders did, but time will prove what the October election will do for them.

Decoration Day was a glorious day among the bibbed and feathered gentleman. They gathered all the secret orders that could be collected, I suppose, and had a grand parade; advertised themselves, (which I presume was the main object of the gathering) whether the dead were honored by it or not. The Hon. John Van Valkingburg, of Fort Madison, editor of the "Knights of Pythias Complete Manual and Text Book," "Grand Chancellor and Supreme Representative of the State," was one of the orators and he told us some very important historical facts (?) as I am told (for I was not present to hear him) such as that "all the Revolutionary soldiers except Benedict Arnold were Masons;" "that it was next to the church;" "that Masonry would be the means of cementing the North and South in these United States together yet," and many such like things. Wonder if the dead heroes of the rebellion were honored by these statements!

Now, Mr. Editor, what right have Masons to glorify themselves on such occasions? Would it not have been quite as much in keeping with the occasion to have had some one there to have told the people how much Masonry retarded the Union cause? How it saved Jeff. Davis from justice and many things of that sort? But. Masonic hands would be raised in holy horror at the idea of such a thing. All these things show the uneasiness of the fraternities and the efforts that they are putting forth to bolster up these wicked institutions.

Yours for anti-secrecy.

J. MCCLEERY.

The Reform in Michigan—from Bro. Rathbun.

WHEATLAND CENTER, June 9, 1877.

DEAR FRIENDS OF REFORM OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN: Thinking you would like to know what your Agent and Lecturer has been doing, I will give an account of my labors since our meeting at Howell, April 24th and 25th.

I have been in the work alone. My first work was at Green Oak in the Freewill Baptist church. Rev. John Levington occupied half of the time. We had reason to believe that the lodge power felt the effects of our lectures. We went from here to Sand Stone, Jackson county. Our lectures in this place were well received; one man who had sent his name into the lodge called for his money back. There was some snarling by the Jacks, but the Masons kept their jewels exceedingly well. Bro. H. A. Day, the young and faithful pastor in this place is a terror to the sons of Hiram, for he is not afraid to tell them where he stands in language so plain that "wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein." God has converted over one hundred souls under his labors within the past six months. From this place we went to Spring Arbor. Lectured in the Free Methodist College chapel; was well received; met and formed a brief but happy acquaintance with Prof. Jones. May the good Lord bless him in his work.

We left the last named place for Hope, Barry county, and preached on Saturday and Sabbath for Bro.

E. W. Bruce. Arrangements were soon made by brother Bruce for lectures to commence on Monday evening at Brattlemore. Although the people were in the midst of their spring work, the house was filled, Bro. Swanson and son coming several miles both evenings. May the Lord bless such faithful men. Our next lecture was in the United Brethren church at Cedar Creek. The church was filled to its utmost capacity. Here a Jack became so much enraged that he roared like a Bengal tiger and some of the Masons lost their jewels after the meeting was dismissed. We went from here to the Pine Lake M. E. church. While brother Bruce and myself were consulting with the trustees as to whether we could occupy the church for lectures or not, one Oddfellow, who was a trustee and also member of said church, said I ought to have my throat cut, and it would be an act of kindness on the part of the lodge to the community to do that work on such men as myself. However, we succeeded in getting the church, and our lectures were well attended, and we trust had a good effect. The pastor of this church is a high Mason, and has said, so I was informed, that he would be glad to meet me in a discussion on the merits and demerits of Masonry. From here I went to Ross Center; had a fair hearing.

This closed our work for a time in Barry county. Many thanks from the bottom of our heart to brother and sister Bruce for their many acts of kindness and for their loyalty to God in this reform.

Brother Bruce and self went to Richland; called on Rev. S. Boyles. The time had now come for us to say good bye for a time to our dear brother Bruce, who had defended us when slandered by our enemies, and opened his door wide to us, inviting us to share his rich hospitality in his comfortable and happy home. May the Lord go with him and bless him. We had an excellent visit with brother and sister Boyles. Bro. Boyles was a well known reformer in the anti-slavery struggle in the State of Michigan and though bending under the weight of years and suffering from many infirmities, he possesses great power of mind to discern between right and wrong. The good Lord has blessed him with an excellent home, a portion of which he and his companion believe belongs to the Lord, proving their faith by their works; signing fifteen dollars each to help on the work. May God raise up more who are willing to show their faith in the same way. The next day brother B. took us to Kalamazoo city on our journey to Rev. J. B. Sellick's charge, Sherwood, Branch county; lectured twice, we hope with some success. Here we had the pleasure of meeting our dear brother, H. D. Inman, who is hard at work on reform. He is not one of the modest kind of reformers who grow roundshouldered when the truth is spoken and acts as if he was going into a Western chill, but will cheer the speaker with a good hearty "Glory to Christ," whilst his eyes gleam with joy. O how invigorating, how encouraging to meet such reformers and coworkers.

Now, dear friends of Michigan, remember I must provide for my family in summer as well as winter and am dependent on my work for support. Arrange, therefore, for work, and call on me and I will serve you to the best of my ability.

Yours in this great work.

D. P. Rathbun.

A Short Review of Work in Lawrence Co., Ind.

Leesville, Ind., June 16, 1877.

Dear Bro. K.: Six months ago I gave my first public lecture against Freemasonry. For several years previous to that time I had given the subject much attention, and in all my investigations I was more and more convinced of the fact that Freemasonry is an antagonist of the Christian religion and a free government. I felt that the time had come for those who were convinced of the evils of the fraternity to speak out. When my first appointment was made it created no little talk and excitement. There had never been a lecture against Masonry in this country, and it was surprising to many that any person, especially a young man, would even dare to utter a word against an institution which was conceded by nearly everybody to be a moral institution. I was told that it would injure my reputation as a schoolteacher, and as a young minister of the Gospel; that I would have small audiences, etc. A prominent citizen of Bedford, who is a Mason, took particular pains to inquire about my intelligence and moral character, and then said it was "a pity for the young man." But I was under the deep conviction that it was my duty to let the people know about the real character and workings of Freemasonry, even if I had to stand alone. I had carefully studied the probable results of the course I intended to pursue.

Up to this time I have been sustained by the unseen Hand and am still strong in the faith that Freemasonry is a child of the devil, and feel that there is a fierce conflict waging between the powers of darkness and the light of the Gospel.

It is true that some have given vent to their spleen against me, others of my acquaintances have become a little shy. Still I have a good conscience and feel that my labors have been blest in the fact that I have created in the minds of quite a number of persons in different parts of the country a sentiment against the principles of Freemasonry. Some who have been silent, have come out and are now discussing the question among their neighbors. I trust the seed which has been sown will yield some fruit.

As regards the congregations where I preach I can't see that they are very badly affected as some anticipated. On Wednesday evening, May 30th, I lectured at a school house where I had formerly taught three terms of school. On the next Sabbath I had an appointment to preach at the same place. The house was completely filled, even crowded. Very marked attention was paid during the entire services. I was strongly solicited to preach there again when convenient. The fact is I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ in its relation to pulling down the strongholds of sin and exposing the hidden things of dishonesty. I verily believe that to expose and create a sentiment against secret societies is the imperative duty of every minister of the Gospel. It pains me to hear professed ministers boasting over Freemasonry and Oddfellowship. Oh for holy ministers with the language of Paul on their lips, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ!" Our ministers and churches all over the land need cleansing from the influences of the world, the flesh and the devil.

I feel that this Anti-masonic movement is the work of the Lord, and in his own good time will prosper the work most gloriously. In the meantime we must watch, labor and pray. Yours in the Lord,

J. T. Hobson.

Correspondence.

The Lutheran Synods.

Rock Island, Ill., June 18, 1877.

Editor Cynosure: In the interest of your valuable paper and the cause it is arguing, I wish to let you know the position taken by most part of the Lutheran church (now the third numerically amongst all denominations in this country.) * * Our Synod (Augustana) is a member of the General Council, comprehending next to the greatest part of the Lutheran bodies. For its position, I refer to the number of its paper, Lutheran and Missionary. The greatest body of Lutheran Synods is the Missouri Synod, comprehending almost all the German Lutherans and and most of the Norwegians The German Lutherans as well as the Norwegians are strongly opposed to all secret societies, which is the more remarkable as in all European countries you will find Freemason lodges and often the ministers of the church members thereof. I have none of the German or Norwegian papers at hand now where this matter is taken up, but they, as we, have done so several times. In the Constitution for our congregations is a section which denies every member of any secret society to be taken up as a church member. At Wyanet, where the Swedes have just made a congregation for themselves, we had much trouble with some prominent men who wished to be taken up but would not leave their societies. They now are threatening that they will, by law, take back their contributions given to the church, which they know they could not do if leaving the societies.

Yours repectfully,

A. R. Cervine.

The Latest Accident in Female Masonry.

Ridgetown, Ontario, June 14.

Dear K.: A few weeks since I saw in the Cynosure a statement that our old friend Mrs. DeGeer had been airing her eloquence in Albion and vicinity, in Iowa, and that among other statements falling from her lips she was credited with saying that the Anti-masons of Illinois had an oath, by which, I suppose, she intended to convey the impression that the said Anti-masons were quite as bad at swearing as Masons themselves. A few days later I received a line from a gentleman in Albion calling my attention to the matter, and enclosed was a slip from the (Marshaltown) Times containing some remarks from the aforesaid lady(?) calling for some notice on my part.

Among other things said on the occasion of her visit to Albion, she is credited with the following, as published in the Times over the signature of "Wm. C. Smith:" "Among many things she said, she gave us a copy of an oath taken by those who are opposed to secret societies, denominated the "Antis," to-wit: Rev. Barlow, pastor of the Baptist church, Dundee, Ill., took the following oath at the close of an Anti-masonic lecture he delivered in the chapel at Wheaton College, of which Prof. Blanchard was president. Some sixty men and women came up and gave their names as taking the same obligation: 'May the right hand drop from my body, and the tongue cleave to my mouth if ever knowingly I deal with or patronize a man who is a Freemason; if ever knowingly I administer the sacrament of the Lord's supper to a Freemason, or receive into membership in a church I am the pastor of a man who is a Freemason, so help me the Triune God!'"

The lecture she refers to—the first and last I ever delivered from paper—still contains as its last clause a strong asseveration that I would never knowingly admit to membership an adhering Freemason, and if it be an oath it has so far been faithfully kept, and I think it will be to the end. It contained nothing about "dealing with or patronizing a Freemason," or the other item mentioned. As to the sixty giving "their names as taking the same obligation," I leave President Blanchard to deal with that in his own way.

Mrs. DeGeer, after having delivered herself of the above, went on to treat her hearers to the following mendacious statement: "That on one occasion, when this Mr. Barlow was about to receive into membership a man who presented himself as a candidate at Dundee, Ill., he asked the candidate where and when he received the first impression that led him to seek the Lord. The candidate answered that it was in a Masonic lodge when he took his first obligation as a Mason!"

A sufficient answer to this latter story will be found in the fact that I never questioned the young man as a candidate; nor was I present when it was done by Dea. McAllister, now dead, and who, I have good reason for believing, asked him on that occasion no such question and received no such answer. A large number of members were present on that occasion, and I presume would have no hesitation in giving testimony if properly approached on the subject.

Mr. Smith, in committing the above to paper, adds that though Mrs. DeGeer "(comes with the highest commendations possible) some few Antis here say that she lies, while Mr. Romain, who has taken most solemn oaths, etc., cannot lie." Now that Ronayne who is referred to above, can lie if he chooses to is possible, perhaps; but I know Mr. Ronayne and have heard him many times, and so far have heard nothing from his lips and read nothing from his pen leading me to believe him a liar. I have also seen and heard Mrs. DeGeer, and have just this to say here: if in saying what is credited to her above, she intended to speak the truth, she is to be commiserated as having made a disastrous failure. I cannot say, however, that the failure bad as it is surprises me, I shall try to reserve that sensation so far as her action is concerned, until wittingly or unwittingly she shall be credibly credited with doing or saying something purely womanly or truthful. Meanwhile I wait patiently and calmly her next demonstration.

Faithfully yours,

J. L. BARLOW.

OUR MAIL.

T. W. McHols, Wilton Junction, Iowa, writes:

"Secretism holds sway in this place. Men who are opposed to secret societies are afraid to talk against Masonry. I hope to see the day when this great evil is overthrown."

Samuel Hage, Wayne, Iowa, asks:

"Why is it that so many good or honest men don't believe that Masonry is half so bad as it is represented to be?"

We generally find the opinions of such men are the result of ignorance or the outcropping of total depravity, or a mixture of the two.

A. J. Phillips, Maquoketa, Iowa, writes:

"We have entered the war for life. Our cry is Death to Masonry. All hail to the Cynosure."

George W. Taylor, Gibsonburg, Ohio, writes:

"A young man here in this village yesterday made a remark that O. A. Blanchard would soon be put out of the way if in this place. I made answer to him that supposing he was put out of the way that would not stop the opposition to secrecy any more than the killing of John Brown stopped the opposition to slavery, or the death of Morgan to secrecy. I have wished a hundred times that I was able to pay some good speaker to come to this place and stay one week. I am satisfied that there are plenty of men here that would take hold of the work if the thing was only stirred up."

Benj. Ulsh, Silver Lake, Ind., writes:

"We are looking for Bros. Stoddard and Ronayne some time this fall. We are doing what we can and are waiting Bro. Stoddard's answer."

S. E. Orvis, Waukesha, Wis., writes:

"I expect to be away East in a short time, largely on account of my wife's poor health, and I am hoping to see my aged grandfather, Samuel Orvis of Champion, Jefferson county, N. Y., now in his one hundredth year, his hundredth anniversary next January 20th should he live."

Levi French, Girard, Mich., writes:

"I have always been very strongly opposed to Masonry. I was born in 1822 in Wethersfield, Wyoming county, N. Y., twenty-eight miles south of Batavia, where Capt. Wm. Morgan was abducted. It was but a few years after before there were three other murder cases, a few miles further south, and not one of them was ever brought to justice on account of our leading men being Masons. One known as the Shadbolt case, where a young man threw his wife into an old well; another known as the Stroup case, where the landlord keeping public house at the center of the town of Sheldon, killed their village school-teacher; the third about two miles from the village of Johnsonburg, all in the same county, and not more than three or four miles apart. I think the names in this third instance were Case and Chase. They met on the highway on Sunday morning. They soon got to quarreling about the damage done by some hens scratching up their gardens, etc., and one shot the other and killed him. That was so bad our court sent the murderer to State's prison for two years and eight months. I did not keep the dates of these different cases. I thought if they could not be brought to justice then, there was no use. They were bound to stand by each other, murder and treason not excepted. I do not like the cloak of Masonry. I want the robe of righteousness that will stand the test here and hereafter."

Home and Farm.

HAY-MAKING.

There is so great a diversity of opinion on the subject of hay-making that it seems singular that farmers should not more carefully study the questions connected therewith; and yet it is undoubtedly true that not one farmer in ten can give the reason why he cuts his hay just as the last of it is going out of blossom, or cuts it when nearly ripe; for there are those who practice and stoutly maintain that either of these plans is best.

The real facts in the case are, the organic materials in the hay are not essentially different in quantity, cut in the two seasons we have mentioned; but the digestibility of the two products is very essentially different. Careful experiments have shown that early cut hay is digested and assimilated to the extent of from 12 to 20 per cent more than the late hay, other things being equal.

Many city stablemen prefer hay cut when tolerably ripe, from the fact that they can better afford to feed grain than hay, for the reason that it is generally cheaper, and therefore feed only so much hay as is necessary to divide the grain, and properly distend the stomachs of their horses. When the hay is to be fed on the farm, and especially when it is to be fed to cattle, there is no doubt that early cut grass is far more economical than that allowed to get nearly ripe before it is made into hay.

One of the great mistakes in hay-making is, the grass is allowed to lie too long after mowing before it is cocked. It should never be allowed to lie in the swath over night, after becoming partially dry, if it be possible to prevent; and especially should it not take a rain when in this condition. Better rake it into tumbles, even if it have to be spread somewhat again before carting to the barn or the stack. Very often simply upsetting the heaps will air it sufficiently. Indeed, when it is allowed to stand some days, it will cure perfectly in the heaps; and, if it undergoes a slight heat in the meantime, it is not worse, but better, for it.

As a rule, hay cut before 11 o'cl'k in the morning during dry, hot weather, will, in the west, cure sufficiently for raking by 2 or 3 o'clock P. M.; and all the hay cut in the morning may usually be raked in the afternoon.

Hay cut after 3 P. M. will not dry sufficiently to injure from the dew; and hay may take rain for twenty-four hours without much injury, if it be not wilted before the rain falls. Therefore, if the season be a catching one, be not afraid to cut hay down in cloudy, misty, or rainy weather, especially if you have a tedder to stir it with thereafter.

In ordinary seasons, in the West, when large fields of hay are to be cut, it is usual to keep the mower going from morning to night, raking as closely as it will do in the afternoon; and starting the rake again about 11 o'clock A. M., if the day be hot. In this way very good hay may be made—and very cheaply too—by raking into windrows; then, by passing the rake along the windrows, it is quickly thrown into tumbles, which a very little labor will cause to shed rain fairly. In fine weather, no turning is necessary, since the hay is carried to the stack usually within the next twenty-four hours, whence it is quickly transferred with the horse-hayfork.

If the weather continue bad—and there is a strong probability that it may do so—a careful study of the weather and the means at hand will alone enable the provident farmer to get his hay together in good condition. The best advice we can give in this instance, and the plan which we have followed satisfastorily, is to cut the grass in bad weather, and cure it and house it as fast as possible when the weather is drying.

One thing in this connection is worth remembering: If hay is rather green from its own sap, and is put into moderate-sized heaps, it will cure and come out in good condition with a little airing before stacking, even though it may show considerable heat; but if wet from dew or rain it becomes musty and bad.

PHYSIOLOGY OF SABBATH.—As a day of rest, I view it as a day of compensation for the inadequate restorative powers of the body under continued labor and excitement. A physician always has respect to the restorative power, because if once this be lost, his healing office is at an end. A physician is anxious to preserve the balance of circulation as necessary to the restorative power of the body. The ordinary exertions of a man run down the circulation every day of his life; and the first general law of nature, by which God prevents man from destroying himself, is the alternating of day and night, that repose may succeed action. But although the night apparently equalizes the circulation, yet it does not sufficiently restore its balance for the attainment of a long life. Hence, one day in seven by the bounty of Providence is thrown in as a day of compensation, to perfect by repose the animal system.—J. R. Farre, M. D.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Notonr own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 50 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2.00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3.75.
Single copy,..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalities. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.

Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.

GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Free." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz. 75 cts. Per 100 by Express..$6 00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.

10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail; By Express, per 100 $6 00,

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1877.

A Word with Chicago Ministers.

A gentlemen calling on the pastor of one of the orthodox churches in this city very recently said, "Brother ———, I called to ascertain your relation to secret societies and your views in regard to them, if you are willing to give me the information."

He replied without hesitation, "I belong to one and advocate them in the pulpit and out of it."

QUERY.

Why may not those entertaining opposite views enjoy like freedom without falling under the ban of practical excommunication from the confidence and Christian co-operation of their brethren?

Is it because Masonry rules the church of Christ and the ministry in this city, and the subject must not speak against his king, or the servant against his master? Is there a pulpit, a prayer-meeting or any other meeting under the management of any popular church, or of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, where a man who conscientiously believes that Masonry is wrong may state his convictions and give the reasons for them?

George B. Cheever, speaking of the censorship of slavery, once said of those who stood as God's embassadors "They have turned sextons—they are for burying the truth instead of publishing it. The drums of God's Word are muffled, and they beat a funeral march instead of a Gospel onset." In what popular pulpit or church prayer-meeting in this city is this same thing not true in reference to Freemasonry. Will brother Gray of the Interior, brother Howard of the Advance, brother VanArsdale, Superintendent of the Y. M. C. A., or Dr. Kitteridge, Presbyterian; Dr. Goodwin, Congregationalist; Dr. Parkhurst, Methodist Episcopal; Dr. Evarts, Baptist, or some other good brother tell us and greatly oblige.

The Annual Business Meeting.

As constitutionally provided the annual meeting of the Corporate National Christian Association met in the Hall of the Carpenter building on Wednesday, June 20th. Beside the friends from the city and different directions in the vicinity we were happy to greet brethren Britten of Wisconsin and Dorcas of Iowa. Rev. L. N. Stratton, the President of the Association, did not arrive in time to participate in the meeting, which was a mutual disappointment. He left Syracuse about the first of the month, and misled by an error in the notice aimed to be here on the 21st, and was.

In his absence Hon. J. B. Walker was elected temporarily to the chair. Elder A. D. Freeman offered prayer and the business of reports from the Corresponding and Recording Secretaries, Treasurer and Auditors was taken up and concluded in a satisfactory manner. The reports of the Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer will be found elsewhere in this number. In connection with the Treasurer's report a full statement was made concerning the obligations to the Publishing House fund and the donation of Rev. Wm. Leuty of Indiana.

A letter from Rev. Geo. B. Hubbard of Pecatonica, Illinois, was read, regretting the necessity of his absence and that his future location would probably prevent his co-operation with the body. He therefore wished to resign his membership. The resignation was accepted. Isaac Preston, J. P. Stoddard and A. D. Freeman were chosen as a committee to nominate new members and officers for another year. Adjourned for a noon recess.

During the recess a number of the brethren attended the noon meeting in the same room led by President Blanchard.

The afternoon sitting was called to order by E. A. Cook, Vice President, and business proceeded after prayer by Isaac Preston. The nominating committee reported through their chairman. The following new members were elected on proper recommendation: Thos. Hodge and A. M. Ferrier, Chicago; Walter Peck, Rockford; E. B. Thompson, Wheaton; and Andrew Wilcox, Jackson, Michigan.

The officers elected for the year are as follows:

President—Hon. J. B. Walker.

Vice President—Philo Carpenter, Esq.

Recording Sec'y—Thos. Hodge.

Corresponding Secretary and General Agent—J. P. Stoddard.

Treasurer—H. L. Kellogg.

Directors—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, A. Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, A. D. Freeman, H. L. Kellogg, Edward Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, Thos. Hodge, J. B. Walker.

Rev. J. W. Bain remarked that the Directors had invited Dr. Hodge of Pittsburgh, Dr. Wallace of Monmouth and one or two other gentlemen to address the National Convention at Dayton, and moved that President J. Blanchard also be requested to prepare an address for the same meeting, as there had been expressed by many friends, he understood, a desire to that effect. The motion was concurred in.

A committee of three, to which two others were soon added, was nominated to consider the question of investing in Anti-masonic literature, with a view to the more perfect establishment of a Publishing House business. The committee elected are: Rev. Edward Hildreth, Chairman, M. R. Britten, Rev. A. D. Freeman, Dr. J. B. Walker and E. B. Thompson. This committee will meet soon and after inquiring into the condition and availibility of the funds will report on the best time and method of investing them to secure the design of the donors in the establishment of a tract and book business.

The General Agent presented the question of aiding the State lecturers. A general discussion arose on this proposition which was participated in by Past Master Ronayne, John Dorcas, H. L. Kellogg, A. D. Freeman and others. All expressed a desire to aid the State agency work by assisting the State associations where necessary, or by directly setting aside a sum, say $1,000 a year, to be divided pro rata among the lecturers. It was thought best however to move carefully and not forfeit confidence by overburdening the treasury or involving further debt. The obligations now upon the Association are the result of several years' accumulations and part of them and the contracts which caused others were made before the incorporation of the Association. The following resolution finally passed:

Resolved*, That the subject of assisting State Agents be referred to the Directors, with instructions to render such assistance so soon and so far as they may be able after meeting the present obligations of the Association.

The completion of the Publishing House fund was the next topic of interest. Messrs. Stoddard, Hinman and Ronayne who had been more directly in communication with the friends throughout the country reported a desire in every quarter to complete this fund at the earliest moment, and strong hopes are entertained that some of the wealthy supporters of the reform will unite to close up the small gap yet remaining. Several noble donations, in respect to size, have been made, while many more noble from the sacrifice with which they were given. It was reported that the idea yet exists among some of the contributors and friends, that Mr. Carpenter is to be paid for the building. This has been contradicted so often that its continued repetition seems almost an insult to the generosity of the noble man who has so long and largely aided the reform to its present prosperity.

The Corresponding Secretary was appointed to confer with those best able to advise and draw up a statement for publication in regard to the Publishing House fund and the desirability of its early completion.

The letter from Rev. Paul Feemster respecting the work in the South, read by President Blanchard in the morning, was again brought up and the Corresponding Secretary was instructed to write to Bro. Feemster and obtain as full information as possible and report to the Directors.

A proposition to hold a meeting of Chicago ministers and explain and work the Masonic degrees before them was favorably considered and Past Master Ronayne was requested to meet them. The following was also adopted:

Resolved*, That we request Mr. E. Ronayne, late Worshipful Master of Keystone lodge, No. 649, of this city, to work the so-called "sublime degree" of Master Mason before the ministers and officers of the various churches of this city and vicinity for their especial information in regard to the Masonic institution and that the Secretary be instructed to give them a special invitation.

It was also suggested that the legal and medical professions be invited.

The Association then adjourned after prayer by Rev. J. P. Stoddard.

The meeting was attended by a number of friends besides the members of the Association, among them several women whose record in reform work is a most honorable one.

Law Vindicated.

Last Thursday was a day of triumph for law against the secret lodge despotism of a murderous clan. The dreaded Mollie Maguires saw ten of their number hung at Pottsville and Mauch Chunk, and thousands breathe more freely in the wild coal regions of Pennsylvania. These men were hung for the murder of three mining "bosses," and their accomplices in crime received sentences which aggregate 124 years in the penitentiary. President Gowen of the Reading railroad, was the successful manager of the plan which brought the murderers to trial, and his principal agent was James McParlan, a detective in the employ of Allen Pinkerton of Chicago. The Tribune of this city, has the following on the objects and power of this secret clan:

Modern history affords no more striking illustration of the terrible power for evil of a secret oath-bound organization controlled by murderers and assassins than the awful record of crime committed by the orders of the Mollie Maguires in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania. Ribbonmen of Ireland,—men who have evaded the payment of rent by the knife and the pistol, and held the life of an agent or a tax-collector of less account than that of a dog,—driven out of their own country, came to America, and, joined by Welsh and English miners, steeped in the detestable principles of trades-unions, settled in the coal regions, and long before the war made the name of Buckshots a terror in the land. They defied the duly chosen authority of State and county, and only succumbed to military force used with a relentless hand. Whether the Ancient Order of Hibernians was the outgrowth of the same plant, or whether they engrafted their own principles into its constitution and seized its organization, will probably never be satisfactorily settled. Suffice it to say that there is no record of any division of the scores belonging to this Order in the four counties of Carbon, Schuylkill, Northumberland and Columbia, comprising the great anthracite deposit of the country, whose objects were other than revenge, outrage, and murder.

The history of their awful power reads more like the creation of a diseased imagination than a calm recital of facts, but it is best shown by the appearance of Jack Kehoe, liquor-seller and murderer, county delegate of the A. O. H., a man who boasted that he had "more power in Schuylkill county" than God Almighty,—the appearance of this man in a National Convention of the Order attended by delegates from all over the country, in the city of New York, with a murderer by his side, introducing him to the convention with the words: "This man has done something for which he must be got out of the country,or he will have to go up;" and the convention voting him $100 with which to leave America. The Order elected County Commissioners, and built jails for others to occupy. It chose Jury Comissioners, who packed the courts of justice it might have to face; and it elected chiefs of police. County Commissioners chosen by its power sat in convention to determine the price of innocent blood and to reward those who shed it. It was of no party. It almost elected to the highest court of the county a man to whom it had already delegated the work of an assassin, and for pay it helped elect a Republican Governor, who has since signed its death-warrants. With such power as this, is it any wonder that the price of blood was low, that $5 was the standard price for murder, and that a call for assassins never failed to bring out volunteers.

College Anniversaries.

Wheaton College.—The exercises of Commencement week began last Friday evening at Wheaton with the graduation of the Senior Class of the Preparatory Department. A large audience filled the College Hall which had been tastefully festooned and mottoed in evergreen; Among the friends were noticed a number from other parts, the forerunners of a great company who were expected soon to follow. The exercises were orations and essays by the class of twelve, after prayer and singing, enlivened by orchestral music. Principal Bailey presided and addressed the class before handing them their diplomas in a few earnest words of advice and farewell. The class xercises were received with marked favor and were unusually able and well presented. The distinctively Christian character of their productions was most gratifying.

The oldest of the literary societies, the Beltionian, held an open meeting on Saturday evening which had some excellent features in declamation, debate, scientific address, etc. The farewell address to the Seniors and the response were very neat performances.

On Sabbath morning Dr. J. B. Walker, who has been associated with President Blanchard in the instruction of the Senior class, preached the Baccalaureate sermon from the text "Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." After a review of the persecutions of the Christian church and its glorious triumph he referred to the few whose lives are devoted to the establishment of Gospel principle amid self-sacrifice and the contempt of men. The few colleges that were founded and maintained as reform institutions, Oberlin, Olivet, Berea, were mentioned and the triumphs for the truth through their devotion were dwelt upon with a loving remembrance. With all these Dr. Walker has been more or less intimately associated. Wheaton, he said, had not yet achieved her success, but was in the midst of fiery trials. Through them the gracious Lord would bring her unharmed and stablish her walls in righteousness. If her officers be true to their trust, their sacrifices would be rewarded, and "the kingdom," the dominion of right principle, should be given them.

President Blanchard addressed the parting words to the class, the final words of encouragement and of admonition.

In the evening Rev. C. H. Bainum of Bunker Hill, preached the annual sermon before the Society of Inquiry. The eloquent speaker drew from the 13th and 14th chapters of Zechariah a vigorous and glowing picture of the latter-day triumphs of the Gospel,—like the light of evening time, a morning dawn from the west.

The excellent music from Prof. Barker's choir added no little to the enjoyment of the day and to fix its more prosaic impressions. Few more hopeful Sabbaths have been experienced in the history of the institution. The furnace trial through which the College is passing seemed not to singe her garments—only to consume the bands that her foes have drawn around her—for the form of one like the Son of God was with her.

Western College.—This institution sustained by the United Brethren church and controlled by the Iowa, Minnesota and Northern Illinois conferences is located in Linn county, Iowa. The institution provides in its course those studies usually pursued in American colleges and has been attended in all departments by 168 students during the year. The exercises of its commencement took place from the 18th to the 20th of June. President E. B. Kephart preached the Baccalaureate sermon and the address before the literary societies by Prof. W. H. Wynn took place the Tuesday following.

—Our publishers have procured the manuscript of the Knights of Pythias manual at considerable expense, and will have the first edition ready for sale in a few weeks. It will probably appear in the Cynosure first.

—The addresses at the Du Page County Convention last week, and especially that of General Agent Stoddard, opened the eyes of some good people of Wheaton to see more clearly the hidden power that is operating against the College. Prof. O. F. Lumry made a pointed and forcible application of these arguments to the College troubles, showing how well the developments illustrated and clinched the logic.

OBITUARY.

Rev. A. Palmer, whose noble Christian stand with the company of seceding Masons at the last meeting of the Connecticut State Convention died recently at his home in Norwich, Conn. Rev. A. L. Dearing, his son-in-law and pastor of the M. E. Church of Norwich writes, June 19th:

"After a long and painful sickness Bro. Palmer has gone to be with Christ, which is far better.

He never for a moment regretted having renounced Freemasonry. The longer he lived and the nearer he drew to the grave the more he looked upon Masonry as a giant evil in both church and state.

There will be Christianity and Christian brotherhood in heaven, but no Masonry and no Masonic brotherhood."

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

Secretaries.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

Vice-President. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

Recording Sec'y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Treasurer.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

"The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen. Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago,
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Chicago.

The Home Circle.

The Joy of Incompletness.

If all our lives were one broad glare
Of sunlight clear, unclouded;
If all our path were smooth and fair,
By no soft gloom enshrouded;
If all life's flowers were fully blown
Without the sweet unfolding.
And happiness were rudely thrown
On hands too weak for holding—
Should we not miss the twilight hours,
The gentle haze and sadness?
Should we not long for storms and showers,
To break the constant gladness?

If none were sick and none were sad,
What service could we render?
I think if we were always glad,
We scarcely could be tender;
Did our beloved never need
Our patient ministration,
Earth would grow cold, and miss indeed
Its sweetest consolation.
If sorrow never claimed our heart,
And every wish were granted,
Patience would die, and hope depart—
Life would be disenchanted.

And yet in heaven is no more night,
In heaven is no more sorrow!
Such unimagined new delight
Fresh grace from pain will borrow.
As the poor seed that underground
Seeks its true life above it,
Not knowing what will there be found
When sunbeams kiss and love it,
So we in darkness upward grow,
And look and long for heaven,
But cannot picture it below,
Till more of light be given.

—Sunday Magazine.

The Christian's Meat.

We think that conversation with the religiously irresolute is a very difficult duty, and yet only those who perform it know what the highest bliss of this life is; and those who have performed it are likely to find such reward that their work will be prolonged from the love of it. Those are the happiest persons in Boston to-day who have done the most face to face with the religiously irresolute during the past three months. Those will remember the winter with the greatest delight who have plunged themselves into this cold sea of personal endeavor with the religiously indifferent, and have beaten back all its surges instead of sinking; and, when they have beaten them, have found the waters buoying them up, till now stalwart swimming is a bliss. Christians do not know their privileges until they learn to like these most difficult parts of a Christian's duty.

The church now is sometimes zealous and sometimes cold; it is amphibious in the sense in which those timbers on the mud-flat in the harbor yonder are; when the tide is in they are up and floating; when the tide is out they are on the earth—amphibious in the style of drift-wood. What if we were amphibious in the style of those to whom God has given power to meet difficulty? In the seasons when no great effort is required face to face with the religiously irresolute, the Christian has the right to cultivate his own inner life, to solace himself with the St. Augustins and the Fenelons and the Jeremy Taylors and the Paschals; but when the trumpet calls; when the fallen and perishing and degraded are to be met face to face; when there is effort going on by which the course of hundreds of lives may be determined; when, if every one will mend one, all will be amended, then your Christian is amphibious in a better sense; he is ready for that stern duty, and loves it even better than the soft swathing of himself in the luxuries of spiritual repose. He knows that stalwart action on the field of battle is rather braver than any military movement practiced on the drill-field. Let him stand face to face with the enemy if he would become a soldier, and not face to face with painted or printed enemies!

How shall a meeting be managed so as to make the rule of courtesy that of Christian endeavor in conversation between the religiously resolute and the religiously irresolute? Go to these four hundred churches—it is my fortune to pass up and down New England—and you will find them disagreed sometimes as to just what to do. But there is coming to be a very well established custom as to conversation meetings. Not long ago we had one hundred and fifty meetings in the established church inside the city of London, all of them closed on each night with a conversation meeting. In that effort archbishops and bishops led, and men from some of the highest ranks in culture made it too late to say that this conversation is not fashionable.

People who will not touch a pearl until somebody has handled it with lavender gloves may know very well, if they will study the history of what the English church calls "missions," only another name for "revivals," that the conversation meeting has been sprinkled with holy water and, therefore, perhaps deserves christening here! In London and in many other places the common habit has been to make a request that any who are willing to enter into such conversation will remain at the close of the meeting. All who do not care to enter into such an exercise go out while a hymn is sung; those who remain, by doing so say that they are willing to converse on religion; and so there is no discourtesy in your speaking to them under such circumstances.

Now let it be the rule among the churches of New England in the winter season when large gatherings can be held in the evenings, for every devotional meeting to be closed by a request that any religiously irresolute person who is present and who wishes to remain for a quarter or half an hour for religious conversation should do so; let that be the custom as much observed as holding devotional meetings or as the gathering of Sabbath schools; and very soon, instead of a church that is a mere hook in place of an amputated hand, I will show you a church that has fingers, that can reach into the wants of society, and can make supply match demand.

In no other way so well as by bringing the unconverted face to face with the converted can you nurture an inefficient church member into a Christian of the stalwart type. For lack of this work we are feeble; for lack of this work some of us are asleep; for lack of just this style of effort, or its equivalent, some of us are portly, indeed, but placid and flaccid! We have food but no work; and these portly, well-fed, aldermanic Christians exist in greater numbers to the square acre here on the Atlantic coast of New England, than anywhere else in the world.—Joseph Cook.

The Land of Silver.

Nevada means white as snow. The name was given to the territory, now a State, lying between Utah and California, because its mountain tops are covered with perpetual snow. Little did they who gazed upon those mountains, a few years ago, dream of the wealth hidden in them. Yet, last year, from that rugged region, over $42,000,000 of gold and silver were added to the currency of the world.

The richest silver mines in the world to-day, are those of the Comstock lode in Nevada. This lode was discovered in 1859. It was speedily covered with mining claims, each two hundred feet wide, for miles up and down. The claims were bought from the original claimants by capitalists and speculators, and a number of companies organized. The principal of these are Ophir, Consolidated Virginia, California, Gould and Curry, Savage, Hall and Norcross, Yellow Jacket, Crown Point, Belcher, Sierra-Nevada, Chollar-Potosi, Overman, Bullion and Caledonia. There are, in all, however, fifty companies working on this lode whose stock is daily called at the Mining Board in San Francisco. These companies represent a nominal capital of from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000 each, aggregating several hundred millions. They have paid in dividends, thus far, over $70,000,000. In the center of the Comstock lode is what is popularly known as "the Bonanza." It is covered by the California and Consolidated Virginia mines. This bonanza is an oval-shaped mass of ore, 950 feet long, with an average width of 200 feet. It is at least 600 feet deep, and may be a great deal deeper. But taking the measurement of the mass that has been brought to light by shafts and drifts it amounts to $700,000,000. If the cost of working and reducing the ore continues, as at present, to average two-fifths of its value this bonanza will pay, over all expenses, nearly five hundred millions of dollars. Four such lodes would pay our national debt. And there are many scores of such lodes yet to be found among the mountains of the land of silver.

HOW THEY GET THE SILVER.

I have just been reading a full description of these Nevada mines, and of the method of working. I am tempted to try to simplify it in this letter, in order to show that even when one has a rich mine it is not so easy to get the riches out of it as most persons imagine. On the Comstock lode they sink shafts through hard, solid rock from 1,000 to 2,000 feet deep. This is slow and costly work, and while it is being done, silver and gold must be paid out instead of coming in. When deep enough to expect to find ore drifts are cut from the shaft in various directions. If an ore bed is found it is not either silver or gold, but it is a mass of silica, with iron, soda, lime, magnesia, sulphide of zinc, sulphide of copper, sulphide of lead and sulphide of silver; but the sulphide of silver is only about one per cent. of the whole. The question is, how shall this ounce of silver be got out of the six pounds of rock? The rock is broken into pieces so that it can be handled. Then it is taken to the shaft and hoisted up 1,000 or 2,000 feet to the surface. Then it is carted to the stamping mill. Here it is pounded as fine as possible by stamps or pestles weighing from 500 or 1,000 pounds each. A stream of water flowing through the box in which the crushing is done, carries the sand forward, and through a wire cloth into a settling trough. Now it is a mass of pulverized rock, but the silver is mixed all through it, and how is it to be extracted? The ore is put into another iron pan, in which works a revolving shaft. Here quicksilver is put into it, and the whole is ground for about two hours until it is reduced to a pulp. No silver yet. What next? The pulp is taken out of this iron pan, and carried to a larger one, called a "separator." Here there is another revolving shaft, with arms that carry "stirrers." The object is, by agitating the pulp, to get the amalgam of silver and mercury to settle in the bottom of the pan, while the lighter substances are carried off through holes in the sides of the pan. When this process is finished, the miner has but one per cent. of silver mixed with about an equal amount of quicksilver. It is not yet fit for the mint. Therefore he must destroy the amalgam he has made. To do this he must have immense retorts. In these he heats the amalgam. The mercury is changed into vapor, and passes off into chambers where it is cooled and condensed, ready to be used again, while the silver is left, pure at last, in the bottom of the retort. It is in irregular masses. It must be melted into ingots or "bricks," as they call them; its weight and fineness are stamped upon it, and then it is ready for the coiner or the jeweler. How hard to get your silver after you have found a mine full of it! The stories in the "Arabian Nights" of caravans filled with gold and silver have no counterpart in our richest mines. When we get into these caverns, by hard work, we find not metal but ores. We have to hammer and pound and crush and stir and coax with quicksilver, and then burn off the quicksilver we have coaxed with, before we can get the precious metal in all its purity.

Hence, though Nevada is the land of silver, it is a land of hard work and of many disappointments. While a few have "struck it rich," and made immense fortunes, many have spent years in prospecting and thousands of dollars in sinking shafts, and yet have found no paying ore.—C. E. B. in Herald and Presbyter.

Pouring Oil on Troubled Waters.

The effect of oil in stilling troubled waters has been so long known, remarks Iron, that it has been constituted the basis of a proverbial phrase. A very small quantity of oil thus used has frequently overcome a powerful sea. Not many years ago a case occurred in which a ship's crew was enabled, during a severe storm, to escape on shore by the help of a few gallons of oil. A similar and equally successful employment of the same substance is reported to have been made off the "Cape of Storm" last summer. The King Cenric, a vessel of 1,490 tons, left Liverpool in June last for Bombay. When off the Cape of Good Hope she encountered a heavy gale from the northwest, which continued for sometime. Tremendous seas broke over the ship, bursting in the main hatch, washing away the hatch houses and boats, smashing in the front of the cabin, and destroying the captain's and officers' stores and clothing. The gale lasted nearly five days, and though the vessel stood it very well, it was impossible to repair any of the damage, as the waves were continually sweeping over her decks. At length the chief officer suggested the trial of throwing oil upon the water. Two canvas clothes bags were obtained, and into each two gallons of fine oil were poured, the bags being punctured slightly, and flung one over each quarter in tow of the vessel. The effect was magical; the waves no longer broke over the poop and sides of the ship, but several yards away, where the oil had spread itself over the surface, and around the poop, in the wake of the vessel was a large circuit of calm water. The crew were thus able to repair the damage with greater ease, and the ship was relieved from the tremendous shocks she had previously received from the heavy seas. The two bags lasted two days, after which—the worst fury of the gale having expended itself—no more oil was used.—Living Age.

Holy personal conformity to the will of God is that without which no one can be saved. And this conformity must come from faith in Christ.

Children's Corner.

Cherries.

Under the tree the farmer said,
Smiling and shaking his wise old head:
"Cherries are ripe! but then you know,
There's the grass to cut and the corn to hoe;
We can gather the cherries any day,
But when the sun shines we must make our hay;
To-night, when the chores have all been done,
We'll muster the boys, for fruit and fun."

Up in a tree a robin said,
Perking and cocking his saucy head:
"Cherries are ripe! and so, to-day,
We'll gather them while you make the hay;
For we are the boys with no corn to hoe,
No cows to milk and no grass to mow."
At night the farmer said: "Here's a trick!
Those roguish robins have had their pick."
—St. Nicholas.

Dean Stanley's Advice to Children.

Once a year Dean Stanley preaches a sermon to children in Westminster Abbey. Children everywhere will find part of it good for them to heed. Addressing himself directly to children who wished "to please their parents, to please God and go to heaven," he used these plain and homely words: "Love honest work, love to get knowledge, never be ashamed of saying your prayers morning and evening. It will help you to be good all through the day. Always keep your promises; do not pick up foolish and dirty stories; never tell a lie; never strike, or hurt, or be rude to a woman or girl, or any one younger or weaker than yourselves. Be ready even to risk your own lives to save it for a friend, or a companion, or a brother, or a sister. Be very kind to your dumb animals—never put them to pain; they are God's creatures as well as you, and if you hurt them you will become brutal and base yourselves. Remember always to be gentle and attentive to older people; listen and do not interrupt when they are talking.

"If you have an old father, or grandfather, or a sick uncle or aunt, remember not to disturb them by loud talking or rough play. Be careful and tender to them. You cannot think what good it does them, and if it should happen that any of you have a poor father or a poor mother who has to get up early to go about their business and earn their bread—and your bread, remember—what a pleasure it will be to them to find out that their little boy or girl has been out of bed before them on a cold winter's morning, and has lighted a bright, blazing fire, so as to give them a warm cup of tea. Think what a pleasure it would be to them, if they are sick, if they are deaf or blind, to find a little boy or girl to speak to them or read to them, or to lead them about. It is not only the comfort they have in having help; it is still a greater comfort in knowing that they have a good little son, or a good little daughter, who is anxious to help them, and who they feel will surely be a joy and not a trouble to them by day and by night. No Christmas present can be so welcome to any father or mother, as the belief that their children are growing up truthful, manly, courageous, courteous, unselfish and religious; and do not think that any of these things are too much for any of you. I know that many of you have great temptations; perhaps you may have homes where it is very difficult to be tidy and clean; perhaps as you go to school along the streets there may be wicked people who try to lead you astray, and make you steal and swear; and yet I am sure that if you will do your best you will find such delight in doing your duty and in what is going on, that whoever doeth these good things, says the Bible, whether he be young or old, boy or girl, shall never fail. Let the good frighten the bad; let the light drive away darkness; let the whole world know that there are little English boys and girls who are determined to do their duty, whatever befals them." Then there was a reference to the boys of the training ship Goliath, which was burnt last year, and also a boy named Hammond Parker, who, although only fourteen years old, had already saved four lives by plunging into the stormy sea off the Norfolk coast. Such examples were to be imitated in spirit. The sermon closed with these words: "I knew once a very famous man who lived to be very old, who lived to be eighty-eight. He was always the delight of those about him. He always stood up for what was right. His eye was like an eagle's when it flashed fire at what was wrong. And how early do you think he began this? I have an old grammar which belonged to him, all tattered and torn, which he had when a little boy at school, and what do you think I found written in his own hand in the very first page? Why, these words: 'Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace to silence vicious tongues—be just, and fear not.' That was his rule all through life, and he was loved and honored down to the day when he was carried to his grave. Be just, be good and fear not; let that be your rule, and God and Jesus Christ will be with you then, now and always."

The Pope.

One day we went to see the Pope. A good deal of ceremony has to be gone through in order to pay this visit. We made interest with Dr. Chatard, a Baltimorean, who is at the head of the American college here, for the education of Catholic priests. Through him we received our summons to an audience. The invitation contained directions for our costume. We were to wear no hats and no gloves, to be dressed in black, with vails upon our heads.

At eleven o'clock, the hour appointed, we presented ourselves at the Vatican. We showed our tickets, and were conducted up so many flights of marble stairs that it makes my back ache even to remember them. At last we entered a long, narrow hall, richly frescoed and adorned, where fifty red chairs were ranged on either side, with a sort of raised dias at one end, on which was a bust of some dead Pope upon a costly pedestal, with a sort of throne-like chair in front of it.

Other visitors came in, until there were nearly fifty of us in all; and there we sat and shivered. The floor was of marble, beautifully mosaiced, but deadly cold. We sat there from eleven till nearly half-past one before the Pope made his appearance.

At last, when we had nearly perished with cold, and expectation had nearly turned to despair, the doors were opened with a flourish. Two or three Swiss guards entered, then a group of purple cardinals, then the Pope, then more cardinals.

How did the Pope look? Well, he is a benign old man, with a fair, serene, gentle face, rather fat, but certainly not unpleasing. He was dressed like a venerable baby, all in white, except his little red kid shoes. —Youth's Companion.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXVII.—July 8, 1877—PAUL AT ANTIOCH; or THE GOSPEL FOR THE JEWS.

SCRIPTURE—Acts 13: 26–41. Commit 38–41.

26. Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27. For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every Sabbath-day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28. And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29. And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30. But God raised him from the dead:

31. And he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses unto the people.

32. And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33. God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34. And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure mercies of David.

35. Wherefore he saith also in another psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

36. For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption:

37. But he, whom God raised again, saw no corruption.

38. Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this Man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins.

39. And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses.

40. Beware therefore, lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in the prophets;

41. Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"And we declare unto you glad tidings." Acts 13: 32.

HOME READINGS.

Matt. 10: 1-15....Salvation Sent to the House of Israel.
John 1: 14 ....They Received Him Not.
Luke 4: 16-32 and 24: 13-53....Prophecy Undiscerned.
1 Cor. 15: 1-20 ...Seen Many Days.
Acts 3:12-26 Christ Preached.
Is. 29: 9 24 ...They Wonder and Perish.

Up from Perga, over the rough, dangerous mountain district of Pisidia, across ridges and ravines, along lakes and rivers, exposed to "perils of waters and perils of robbers," Paul and his company journeyed one hundred miles to Pisidian Antioch, (now called Jalobatch.) Like its Syrian namesake, this city was founded, 300 years B. C., by Seleucus Nicator, but afterwards, under Cæsar Augustus, it became a Roman colony, and at the time of Paul's entrance contained a mixed population, of which some were Jews. Into the synagogue of these, their kinsmen, the missionaries went on the Jewish Sabbath, and "sat down" to share the common worship. After introductory exercises, the rulers, observing Paul and Barnabas, and probably knowing something of their ability to teach, requested them to make a few remarks. Glad of the opportunity, Paul rose and commenced a discourse of which we have a condensed, and yet, evidently, as far as given, verbatim, report in the chapter before us. Though addressed, doubtless, to some who were Gentiles, and containing expressions that might be differently construed, this sermon may be called emphatically the Gospel for the Jews.—Evangelical Repository.

BIBLE COMMENTARY.

"Brethren"—All ye are brethren. Matt. 28·8; Acts 2: 29.

"Whosoever among you feareth God"—Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience. Verse 16.

"To you"—For the promise is to you and to your children and to all that are afar off. Acts 2: 39.

Unto you first, God having raised up his Son Jesus, sent him to bless you. Acts 3: 26.

"Salvation"—He only is my salvation. Ps. 62: 2, 6, 7.

Behold, God is my salvation. Is. 12: 2.

I will wait for the God of my salvation. Mic. 7: 7.

I will joy in the God of my salvation. Hab. 3: 18.

For I know that this shall turn to my salvation. Phil. 1: 19.

"They knew him not"—For they know not what they do. Luke 23: 24.

I wot that through ignorance ye did it. Acts 3: 17.

"Nor yet the voices of the prophets"—Ye do err not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God. Matt. 22: 29.

"Have fulfilled"—All things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses and in the prophets. Luke 24: 44.

Till all be fulfilled. Matt. 5: 18.

"They took him—and laid in a sepulchre"—And when Joseph had taken the body he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, and laid it in his own new tomb. Matt. 27: 59, 60.

"But God raised him"—Whom God hath raised. Acts 2: 24.

Like as Christ was raised up from the dead—we also should walk in newness of life. Rom. 6: 4.

Who raised him (Christ) from the dead. Gal. 1: 1.

That raised him up from the dead. 1 Peter 1: 21.

"Was seen"—1 Cor. 15: 5–8.

"Witnesses"—Ye shall be witnesses unto me—unto the uttermost part of the earth. Acts 1: 8.

And ye are witnesses of these things. Lu. 24: 48.

Whereof we are witnesses. Acts 3: 15.

And we are his witnesses. Acts 5: 32; 10: 39.

"Glad tidings"—Lu. 2: 10.

"Mercies of David"—Is. 55: 3.

"Fell on sleep"—He fell asleep. Acts 7: 60.

"Forgiveness of sins"—A Saviour for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. Acts 5: 31.

Whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins. Acts 10: 43.

Even the forgiveness of sins. Col. 1: 14.

"Are justified"—Being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. Rom. 5: 1.

Ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus. 1 Cor. 6: 11.

Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ. Gal. 2: 16.

"Ye could not be justified"—How then can man be just with God? Job 25: 4.

In thy sight shall no man living be justified. Ps. 143: 2.

No flesh be justified. Rom. 3: 20.

"In no wise believe"—Which ye will not believe though it be told you. Hab. 1: 5.

News of the Week.

—The tide of Chinese emigration has set in again. Over 3,000 Chinamen landed at San Francisco during May, and more are coming.

—The fourteenth day of June was the one hundredth anniversary of the adoption by Congress of the American flag of thirteen stripes, and stars representing the States, as we see it now. It is not, however, the centennial of the first appearance of our flag in that style, as it had been displayed before the resolution of Congress was adopted. At what date it made its first appearance is uncertain.

—The steamer Montana, which sailed from New York last Monday week, took out, for missionary work in Europe, eighteen elders of the Mormon church, from Utah. No women or children accompanied them. All the chief dignitaries of Brigham Young's church in New York were present to bid farewell to the departing missionaries. Noticeable among the assembly were four of Brigham Young's sons by different mothers. One of them, Willard Young, is a Second Lieutenant of the Engineer Corps stationed at Willet's Point.

—A great fire broke out in St. Johns, New Brunswick, on Wednesday of last week, beginning in a boiler shop and spreading rapidly before a northwest wind until nearly the entire city was swept over by the flames. All the principal public buildings, churches, schools, warehouses, docks were burned, and the whole district covered 200 acres. The loss is estimated at from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, about one-half of which is insured. Thirty persons are reported missing, with a probability that the number who have perished is much larger. The thousands of homeless and hungry sufferers are receiving aid from every quarter. An American vessel fed 1,000 a day after the fire.

—The heavy rain and wind storm on Monday afternoon made considerable destruction of property in Chicago and vicinity. Numerous plate glass windows were burst in by the force of the storm. The Carpenter building, No. 221 West Madison St., suffered in this way. Reports of great damage in the country were prevalent soon after the storm.

—The Indian massacres at Camas Prairie, Idaho Territory, are confirmed by subsequent dispatches. Twenty-five persons were killed at this point, some four hundred miles east of Portland, Oregon. Though the military force are inadequate, all available means are being used to suppress the savages. Gen. Sheridan does not look for any general rising among these Indians, who have not been considered by the soldiers as fighting Indians. He believes that they will now attempt to make terms, and will not give the military further trouble.

—Dispatches from Asia confirm the report of a severe defeat to the Turks in battles near Kars. The engagement commenced at 6 in the morning and lasted till noon. The Turks were outflanked by double artillery, and their discomfiture was completed by a cavalry charge on both sides. The Turks fought with great heroism, but their ammunition failed. They were overwhelmed by artillery fire directed from a position which raked their whole front. The Turks lost 350 prisoners and 1,000 killed and wounded.

—On Thursday night last the Russians threw pontoon bridges over the Danube and troops began crossing in the morning without opposition. The two columns united and attacked Matchin, carrying the outer fortifications, when the Turks abandoned the place. They have deserted the whole north end of the Dobrudscha. Russian forces will push rapidly south to flank the strong positions of the Turks at Rustchuk. A severe artillery duel has been going on between Rustchuk and Giurgevo. Another crossing was affected at Hirsova.

The June number of the "Complete Preacher," published by the Religious Newspaper Agency, New York, contains the following sermons, in full: Regeneration the Aim of the Gospel, R. S. Storrs; The Gospel for all the World, Bishop of Durham (this sermon has received very high commendations in England); Harps on the Willows, L. D. Bevan; The Old Faith or the New (translation), Rudolf Kogel (Court Preacher of Germany); also a lecture by Joseph Cook. The publishers announce that they propose to publish in this monthly the best sermons preached in the entire Christian world—some half-dozen in each number. It is published at 21 Barclay street, New York, and 25 cents a single number; $2.00 per year.

Report of the Corresponding Secretary and General Agent.

A synopsis of the year's work is I suppose all that is desired by the Association at its present meeting.

Facts and not exhortations will aid you most in judging of the past and planning for the future.

IN GENERAL.

As might be expected the general features of our work differ but slightly from those of previous years. It is one continual struggle with a determined and unscrupulous opposition, contending not simply for influence and position but for life itself.

OLD FRIENDS.

While a few of those who have espoused the cause of anti-secrecy have grown weary by reason of the greatness of the conflict, none so far as known have abandoned their principles and gone back to give aid and comfort to the enemy. Some have ceased from their labors during the year, but most remain yet alive.

NEW FRIENDS.

Practically these are of two kinds, viz., old friends to our cause found and re-enlisted in the work, and converts from the uninformed public and from the initiated and deceived members of the lodge. The former are largely men of experience whose convictions were formed during the discussions begun in 1826, and who having become isolated had abated their activity somewhat without losing their interest and who readily enlist in any feasible measures for the suppression of what they have long esteemed a great and dangerous evil. The latter consists mainly of younger men whose eyes have been anointed with the eye-salve of truth and whose hearts have been touched by Divine grace, whether in the lodge or out of it.

CHURCHES.

Those religious bodies testifying against secrecy have maintained their advanced position and in every instance, so far as I know, where the question has come before any ecclesiastical legislative body, higher ground has been taken and more definite utterances given. There is, moreover, a manifest determination on the part of a much larger number of disciplinary bodies to make no compromise at the expense of truth, but to thoroughly purge the Body of Christ of this leaven of hypocrisy.

THE MINISTRY.

With perhaps a very few exceptions the successful ministers of the country are opposed to Freemasonry and its dependents. By successful I mean those who have been owned and honored in bringing many souls to Christ. Masonry will support a time-serving, politic man in the pulpit and the unregenerate will fill up the pews and the roll of membership in the church that will abandon Christ and the Gospel for wealth and numbers. But such preachers and such organizations are not successful in the true sense of the term. They are in reality "treasuring up wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God." Rom. 2: 5.

Many of the ministers are not informed and this is one, among other reasons, why their opposition is not more pronounced. They need light and their interest and efforts are frequently in proportion to the light they receive. Ministers who have the hardihood to stand up and openly advocate the lodge are less in number than those who occasionally or frequently speak against it.

COLLEGES AND THEOLOGICAL SEMINARIES.

While the Masonic fraternity has not been unmindful of the importance of our primary educational interests, it seems of late to have given special attention to colleges and seminaries, not in the way of commendable efforts to build up and endow these fountains of thought and influence, but to appropriate and control those established by the efforts and contributions of Christ's disciples. The approaches of this artful aspirant are of course characteristically concealed and indirect, and how far they will succeed remains to be seen; but as yet God has not given all our colleges and seminaries over into the hands of the lodge. A number stand firm and have been able through grace given to keep the nocturnal conclaves out of their society rooms, and to hold their fierce and determined outside abettors at bay.

FINANCE.

The financial condition of the Association appears in the Treasurer's report, but it will be proper that I should speak of those funds which by article VIII. of your By-laws are more directly connected with the duties of the Corresponding Secretary.

It is to be regretted that more could not have been secured during the year, but there have been several things that have operated against us.

1. The extreme stringency in money matters has prevented many from giving who would gladly have done so under ordinary circumstances, and it has also made men cautious about assuming obligations to mature in the future. Very much of the attention and surplus money of the country was taken up with visits to the Centennial Exposition, and the agitated, unsettled political state of our country rendered it for a long time next to impossible to secure attention to any other subject. Failures of crops in portions of the country greatly crippled us financially and added to the difficulties attending our work. There seems to be no lack of interest on the part of friends, and quite a number have given assurance that they intend to contribute at some future time but who were at the time unwilling to put those pledges into form so as to be counted under the conditions required. There is every reason to believe that these pledges were made in good faith and that should the approaching harvest be equal to the present prospect the entire sum of $30,000 will be secured in time, but we shall feel more confident when it is done and the deed spread upon the record book. I am confident that did the friends feel the importance of this part of our work they would not permit it to remain unfinished for a single month.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The correspondence of the year has much exceeded that of any previous twelve months, owing in part to the fact that the principal on several notes, and the interest on a large number of others became due and parties had to be notified, and other matters connected with finances and duties connected with the Publishing House have consumed a greater proportion of the time of your Secretary in office work and in the city than formerly.

FIELD WORK.

Your Secretary and General Agent has visited and lectured in ten different States during the year, viz.: Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, I have attended State meetings in Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan and New Hampshire. I have delivered during the year sixty-two lectures and forty-two sermons. The attendance at our meetings with very rare exceptions has been good, and occasionally halls have been crowded, showing that there is an increasing disposition among the people to hear the truth, and I am glad to add in many cases a willingness to receive it.

AIDS IN THE LECTURE WORK.

Much has been done during the year by individuals in their immediate neighborhoods. Some feeling unable to procure help from abroad, attended with extra expenses, have taken hold of the work themselves with very gratifying results, and this is one among the many hopeful features of our work, and it is to be hoped that as the efforts thus far in that direction have been successful, much more may be attempted and done in the year to come.

Rev. H. H. Hinman has given his whole time and strength to the field work and has been eminently successful. He is cordially received by good people where ever he goes and is remembered and loved after his departure as a devoted, self-denying disciple of Him who went about doing good. He has shown himself equal to every emergency, and while the self-reliant opposer has been routed whenever he has dared to show himself, the really honest and good have been won by his plain, pointed, but mild and truthful utterances. Bro. Hinman reports during the year 193 lectures and sermons.

Rev. J. L. Barlow, so long and so favorably known as a champion and leader in our reform work, has retired for the present from the lecture work to take charge of a church in Canada. Bro. C. B. Remington, his former associate in Michigan is at present giving only a portion of his time to the work. Rev. D. P. Rathbun is now giving his whole time to the State of Michigan under the direction of the State Association, and is fully sustaining his former good reputation. Dr. S. L. Cook has kept up a continuous fire along the lines in northern and central Indiana, and does not propose to abate his efforts or to abandon his colors. The doctor is deserving of much credit and a better financial support. I hope that while our friends in that State are liberal in their contributions for the Publishing House Fund, they will not forget that "charity begins at home," and that they will be as willing to sustain this brother as he is to deny himself and contend for their principles and the truth. Rev. Henry Cogswell has opened a vigorous attack upon the strongholds along the Pacific coast; and Rev. J. P. Richards of Ill., Rev. J. W. Raynor of Pa., Rev. E. G. Cooper of Mo.; Revs. S. C. Kimball and J. W. Browne of N. H., and many others whose names I omit for want of space, are swelling on the sweeping tide of public sentiment against the great and crying evil of secretism.

SECEDERS.

One marked feature of progress during the year has been the greatly increased numbers of seceders. Grangers have been seceding by States almost, and this whole fraud has become so apparent and unpopular that it will according to present indications, very soon become a thing of the past. Other societies have suffered seriously from desertions, and even the moss-grown walls and iron gates of Freemasonry have proved incapable of holding many of their unwilling captives. The successful efforts of Past Master Ronayne have done as much as any other one agency to strike off the fetters from the limbs of these enslaved victims of the lodge. His efforts have been unremitting in private conference, in the press and on the rostrum, and his irresistible arguments have been answered only by violence upon his person and attempted defamation of his character; but God who so evidently raised him up and educated and called him to his present work, has graciously and wonderfully sustained him hitherto. The list of seceding Masons now numbers 187.

BUILDING.

During the year it has been necessary to make repairs on the building of which the Association has temporary occupancy, some changes have also been required to adapt it to its present use. The third or upper story has since January 17, 1877, been occupied for daily noon prayer-meetings, from which no revenue is derived beyond the bare expense of keeping the room comfortable and in order. The Ladies' Christian Temperance Union, occupy the room one evening each week for which they pay the estimated expense of lighting, warming and keeping the room in order.

Except one room the second story of the building is at present unoccupied. This room was fitted up previous to our last meeting and used for committee meetings and other purposes of the Association. In the latter part of January, 1877, it was opened as a free reading room and has since been used for that purpose. The Chicago Christian Association has undertaken to supply this room with suitable furniture, (except the stove), and a supply of papers and to pay all the expenses, except the wages of the person having charge of the room, which is paid by the National Association. In connection with the reading-room is kept a supply of our reform tracts for distribution and also an assortment of Masonic and Anti-masonic publications on sale. These publications were obtained from Ezra A. Cook & Co., on ninety days' time and at a liberal discount from regular wholesale prices. It was hoped in this way to meet the expense of a man to attend to the room from the sale of books; but little, however, has as yet been realized from this source. The main floor is occupied by the same parties as last year.

The Committee on Building consisting of C. R. Hagerty, Mrs. E. A. Cook and J. P. Stoddard were compelled to reduce the price of rents in order to retain the occupants of the rooms, and as there were several vacant stores offered for rent in this immediate vicinity it was by the committee deemed for the interests of the Association that the above reduction should be made. An income of $81.66 per month is now received from these rents.

Mr. H. B. Hagerty has since February 18th been employed to take charge of the reading-room and has the care of the Hall for which he is paid $5.00 per week.

CENTENNIAL.

The work at the Centennial Exposition has been so fully reported through the Cynosure that it is unnecessary to dwell at length upon this very important and as it appears successful effort to bring our reform and its necessity before the people. Results cannot be estimated, but there is every reason to believe that the investment was a good one for the cause.

OPPOSITION.

In several instances the opposition has been pronounced and the old time arguments of violence have been used, but with reacting effect against those who attempted to maintain their cause by a method which has passed under the ban of condemnation wherever Christian civilization prevails. "The mischief has returned upon his own head, and his violent dealing come down upon his own pate." Ps. 7:16.

The hand of our loving Father has been leading and directing through the entire work of the year, and although he has tested our faith he has shown his mercy by "being a very present help in every time of need," and never before in the whole history of our reform could its true friends review the past with greater satisfaction or look to the future with more hopeful prospects.

J. P. STODDARD, Sec'y.

STATEMENT

OF THE

Treasury NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, for the year ending May 31, 1877.

The National Christian Association in account with HENRY L. KELLOGG, Treasurer.

To Amount in Treasury June 1, 1876		$2,628 68
Publishing House Fund		1,577 25
Rents		1,389 29
Interest on Pub. House Fund Notes		494 99
Interest on Loans		45 88
General Fund		305 11
Centennial Fund		127 00
Illinois Fund		41 00
Lecture Fund		1 00
Publications sold		1 28
		$6,612 39
By Bills Receivable (Publishing House Fund Loan	$4,200 00
Salaries—
General Agent..$827 65
Illinois Agent... 408 75
Treasurer..... 90 00—	1,326 40
J. T. Kiggins (old acc't)	51 11
C. A. Blanchard (old acc't).	120 00
Centennial Agent	179 37
Publications	48 01
Printing	27 90
Insurance	20 00
Tax (water rates)	25 00
Postage	12 45
Repairs	208 15
Fixtures	51 08
Fuel and Gas	4 80
Expenses (including last General Convention)	239 81
Janitor	33 00
		6,531 08
In Treasury June 1, 1877		$81 86

ESTIMATES

Of indebtedness and expenditure for the coming year:

Liabilities reported last year:

To J. P. Stoddard	$1,141 84
H. H. Hinman	115 25
C. A. Blanchard	120 00
Publishing House Fund	158 08
Printer's bills	18 30
J. T. Kiggins (unsettled)	51 11
Total	$1,499 58
Paid during the year	184 41
	$1,315 17
Debt accrued during past year	646 91
Total debt	$1,962 08
Estimate for salaries of lecturers and their expenses, taxes, repairs, insurance, printing, postage, gas, janitor and expense of National Convention	2,665 00
Total	$4,627 08
Estimated receipts from rent and interest	$1,250 00

We have but the trials that are incident to humanity; there is nothing peculiar in our case; and we must take up our burdens in faith of heart that, if we are in earnest and trifle not with temptation, God will support us, as in the past fidelity of his providence he has supported others as heavily laden as ourselves.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicongrapher, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

BY DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2 00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

BY JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, O MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,

18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entied "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION."

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands to eternal death 1 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S." 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow," "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES

A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1.000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $3.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion. An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

[illegible] Lots, or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) [illegible] Postage extra.

Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Dne Gnards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thonsands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid.....$2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree, The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 3 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,.....10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illnstrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 25
Per Doz " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra.....10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Jndge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Jndge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 20
Per Doz. " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra.....8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder of Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS, in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,.....25 cents.
Per doz. " .....$2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,.....10,00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848. The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per doz. " .....$1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,.....8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents

Per dozen, post paid.....$1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,.....9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra.....9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.
In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the snbject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the pnblic.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....30 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra.....3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$
Per Doz " " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid.....$ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra.....25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra.....15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his danghter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; eongs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitntion N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the polltical meeting.

Single Copy, post paid,.....25
Per doz. " " $3.00
Per 100 Express Ccarges Extra.....10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coqnlette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,.....25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorongh, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argnment on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....5
Per Doz,.....50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra,.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The anthor states his reasons clearly and carefnlly, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian ont of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,.....5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,.....$3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid.....10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG. [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz. post paid,.....$1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra,.....8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 05
Per Doz.....50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,.....$ 05
Per Doz.....50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By Rev. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg, Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the dnty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own pnblications.

Single Copy, Post Paid.....$ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra.....4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and dnty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 05
Per Dozen, " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra.....3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerfnl address, showing clearly the dnty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,.....10 cts.
Per doz, " .....75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organization Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illnstrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bonnd together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniqnity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

Mrs. E. W. Andrews, Oberlin, O., sends a club of twenty-one subscriptions for one year.

John Morrison, Mt. Palatine, Ill., sends us a club of ten for one year.

We trust these are the first fruits of a summer harvest. It is very pleasant to report thsee clubs. Where is the next one coming from?

205 subscriptions expire in July. We hope that they will be renewed promptly, and that a good number of new names will be sent with them.

Abraham Book, Saybrook, Ill., writes: "I a have a prospect of getting some renewals and new subscribers. I am now very busy with my crops, but will soon have a little leisure and will then try to get a club."

D. B. Heckert, Ogden Center, Mich., writes: "This fall I am going to canvass for the Cynosure."

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED FOR THE WEEK ENDING JUNE 23, 1877.—From Mrs E W Andrews, J S Amidon, L F Batchelder, M R Britten, S Bedford, O Breed, M Coffman, C Conkling, B Fuller, J C Graham, B Gaddis, J D Haughawout, J S Hickman, S W Hackley, J O Hilborn, J Hoobler, A H Jackson, B T Johnson, A J McKeoun, W. Machener, N Miner, J Morrison, H Preston, L Reynolds, M and M Roberts, P P Swan, R H Tudor, N Thomas, W J White, R C Wylie.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending June 23, 1877.

By Express.

W T. Bullis.

By Mail.

R G Carter, D W Lawrence, Wm Hall, S Freedline, J Graham, J Knight, W R Smith, R Miles, J M Brodrick, R H Tudor, Mrs M J Wheaton, J B Stowell, Miss J M Roberts, R McNaughton, Prof M Gunther, G Leaming, C W Rundlett, T J Divine, J J Cripe, J F Bachman, Rev C W Pattee, A Sansom, M W Thomas, Mrs J C Tyson, G W Halstead, O B Whitehead, C T Lotz, Mrs P Briggs, S B Boyer, S W Hackley, G H Potter, H Carter, D W Powell, W H Kahler, P C Bowman, J G Graham, J Oates, J Creswick, A L Ward, T M Logan, C A G Hartman, C G Miller, E D Cole, N Miner, H C Middaugh, C T Collins, H Preston, G Underwood, M W Ampie, Rev D M Gelvin, D B Heckert, M D Thompson, E Schlesinger, G Jacobs, J A Frise, S P Poole, D B Kenyon, J H H Woodward.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 18 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, June 26, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat— No. 2	1 46	1 47
" No. 3		1 24
" Rejected		90
" Minnesota	1 52	1 70
Corn—No. 2	46¾	47¾
Rejected	42¾	43½
Oats—No. 2		36
Rejected	61	27½
Rye—No. 2		62
Bran per ton		13 50
Flour—Winter	7 00	9 50
Spring	4 50	9 50
Hay—Timothy	8 00	10 00
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7½	8
Lard per cwt		8 45
Mess pork, per bbl		13 15
Butter common to choice roll	14	22
Cheese	5	9
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs	12	13
Seeds—Timothy	1 60	1 80
Clover		6 00
Flax	1 60	1 75
Potatoes new per brl	5 50	7 00
Broom corn	2	7
Hides green to dry flint	6½	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	40
Unwashed	18	25
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	6 25	7 00
Good	5 75	6 00
Medium	4 50	5 25
Common	3 25	4 00
Hogs	4 61	4 90
Sheep	2 75	4 75

New York Market.

Flour	$8 50	10 25
Wheat—Spring	1 57½	1 65
Corn	50	60
Oats	41	67
Rye	74	75
Lard		9¼
Mess pork	14	14
Butter	10	21
Cheese	4	9
Eggs	17	1 ⅓
Wool	10	52

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square, 1 insertion,		$2.00
1 square (1 inch deep)	one month	7.00
1 " "	2 "	10.00
1 " "	3 "	15.00
1 " "	6 "	25.00
1 " "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton. Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass, Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at $2.00	a year.
5 to 9 "	at 1.75	"
10 or more "	at 1.50	"

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
18 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t.]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 40.—WHOLE NO. 380. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
Wheaton College	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Who Troubles Wheaton?	1
The Mystic Tie of Mormonism	1
The Testimony of Emancipated Men	2
The Church and the Factory	3
Mackey's Encyclodedia	3
REFORM NEWS:
The California Lecture Work	4
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Lodge on the Defensive in Monroe Co., Ind.; Lodge Arguments in Allen Co., O.; Boyhood's Recollections of Scottish Life; The Curse of the Churches; From Albion, Iowa; Masons and Jesuits; Are we Becoming a Nation of Man Worshipers? Explanation Wanted; Our Mail	4,5,6,7
Commencement at Wheaton	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	12
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

THE GENERAL AGENT, Rev. J. P. Stoddard, goes this week to Fond du lac, Wis., where arrangements have been made for him to preach on Sabbath, July 8th, and to lecture on the three subsequent evenings in the Opera House. Partial arrangements have also been made for him to visit and lecture at Menomonee, Dunn Co., on the 15th to the 18th of the same month.

Friends along the line desiring lectures will please address him as above.

WHO TROUBLES WHEATON.

TO THOSE INTERESTED: It has been my privilege to attend the Commencement of Wheaton College and the annual meeting of its Board of Trust. This has given me a favorable opportunity of learning its condition and methods of proceeding and of witnessing the results of its course of instruction in the exhibitions, graduating exercises and the alumni returning to take part in the annual gathering. I had anticipated a happy reunion and a successful anniversary, but my anticipations were more than realized, and the future, under the blessing of God and the stimulus of success, to me seems brighter than ever before. Never has this institution, since the now sainted Lumry laid the foundation stone of its material structure in the prairie grass, been more firmly established in its distinctive reformative principles or more worthy the confidence and patronage of the friends of those principles than it is to-day.

Some of you are aware that a vigorous opposition to the present administration of the College had sprung up, and had been urged through the daily papers and by means, honorable or otherwise, for months. This opposition was at length formulated into a "Petition" to the Board of Trust, asking them to do what was a legal impossibility, and making the presentation of this petition the occasion for a furious attack upon the Faculty and especially upon its executive head, who is also Chairman of the Board of Trust. Inasmuch as this petition was signed, among the rest, by a number of respected citizens, it was thought to be due to such persons that an opportunity should be given for its presentation with "reasons and explanations." Mr. James Claflin, of Lombard, appeared as the chosen exponent and showed much ability and tact in representing or misrepresenting the wishes of the petitioners. Whatever else Mr. Claflin did or did not do there were two things that he confirmed beyond a doubt, in my mind:

First, That he was the agent and actuary of the lodge, where this movement against the College originated; and Second, That the whole force of this opposition was directed against President Blanchard on account of his bold, uncompromising fidelity to the reform principles of the institution. This was the animus of his whole two hours' speech although he several times avowed himself and his clients to be Antimasons to the extent of desiring no change in the principles of the College.

Being with you specially interested in this feature of the assault, I began seriously to consider why it is that the lodge has thus singled out this one man and made him the target of their fierce assaults, and as a result I have come to this conclusion:

1st. Wheaton College is sending out scores of young men and women who are intelligently and conscientiously opposing the lodge. These young men and women stand right in the way of the lodge wherever they go, to defeat their purposes and render them unpopular. It is a fountain of intelligent, well-directed opposition to their measures and movements throughout the country, so that what Mr. Claflin said of the notoriety of Wheaton College is true. "It is known and spoken of from Massachusetts to the Rocky Mountains;" not, however, on account of its "contentions" as he affirmed, but on account of its decided, uncompromising opposition to the whole system of secretism.

2nd. Pres. Blanchard is known to be officially, intellectually and influentially the head of the Faculty that is training and sending out these young persons, and the managers of this onslaught apprehend that could they secure his removal he would take along with him the other members of that body who deeply sympathize with him, and thus effect a radical change in the teaching of the institution and a corresponding change in the characters of those who go out from Wheaton College to take their places in society.

3rd. The same power which could vacate the chairs of Wheaton College could also fill them, and with such men as would do their bidding, and Wheaton College would become as silent in its testimonies against the lodge and as impotent in its influence upon their movement, as is Beloit, or Knox, or Hillsdale. I have a letter showing that the President's removal was predicted a month at least before this annual meeting by the Senior Warden of a lodge a hundred miles away, and I have not a shadow of a doubt but that this whole opposition originated with the lodge. That the plan was to remove President Blanchard and his associates whom they could not control, in the Faculty of Wheaton College, under a false issue and by the agency of non-Masons who were either deceived or who became the willing tools of their seducers; to fill the Faculty with subservients and thus dry up this prolific fountain of free thought and Christian influence, and turn it into a training school for the dark orders of secretism. But their defeat has been signal and their vanquishment complete, but it is not to be supposed that the struggle is ended. These minions that forge their weapons in secret conclaves and like savages fight behind trees. will doubtless rally again to the onset, but it is believed that the eyes of some have been so far opened that in the future they will find a less number who can be deceived in Wheaton than they have in the past.

J. P. STODDARD,

THE MYSTIC TIE OF MORMONISM.

When Brigham Young received the three super-excellent degrees of Masonry from Joseph Smith, who got them from Aaron, the brother of Moses, through the Archangel Gabriel, thus antedating the honor and antiquity of Solomonic Masonry by several hundred years, he never dreamed, perhaps, that he was preparing the way for the Mountain Meadow Massacre. How could he have foreseen that the mere trifling and joking with holy things could lead to such a drama as that? How could Brigham Young imagine that by binding himself to the "mystic tie" offered by an angel, he could be binding himself to such wholesale murder of his fellow citizens?

In order to understand how the "mystic tie" operated in this case we must know something of the circumstances under which the massacre occurred. A faint, yet perhaps intelligible outline of these circumstances may be given as follows:

In 1857, while United States troops were on their long four months' march toward Salt Lake City to suppress rebellion there, an emigrant party from Arkansas, consisting of between one and two hundred men, women and children, were on their way through Utah, far in advance of the troops, bound for California, when they were set upon by Mormons and Indians, and, by means of the basest treachery, were all killed except a few young children who could not give testimony. The fight lasted several days, the emigrants being strongly intrenched within a corral formed of their wagons locked together, wheel within wheel, in the form of a horse shoe. From within this shelter of their women and little ones they inflicted some loss upon their numerous assailants, often receiving wounds and death-shots themselves, especially when going out from the corral to get water. The defence was so formidable that at last the Mormon leaders resolved upon treachery; for they were Jesuits; believed that the end justified the means; and had been trained, through the "mystic tie," to believe that the end was holy.

And what was the holy end to be gained by the massacre of so many innocent human beings?

There were many ends to be gained by it, and we will proceed to enumerate some of them. In the first place, the Indian tools of the executors of the plot would get a great deal of plunder by it—clothes, arms, axes, hatchets, knives, animals, etc., etc. Bishop Lee and his Mormon followers would also get their share of the plunder, and would win the favor of the Grand Lodge of Great Salt Lake City, and the approval of the Mormon conscience as faithful servants of heaven.

The condition that Brigham Young, his twelve apostles and seventy elders were then in was somewhat peculiar. They had drawn all the gold from their dupes, and there was no currency in the country except oxen, wheat, shin-plasters, etc., which rendered the people dissatisfied. Brigham, it is said, sent the gold to the Bank of England; used it for bringing new Mormon converts from there; fattened the cattle that drew the trains of these converts across the plains, and sold them for beef in California at a high price. If emigrant trains from Arkansas could also sell beef to the gold diggers of California the Mormon trade might be ruined. Hence the importance of intimidating and suppressing emigrant trains on the way to California. Not only the trade but the authority of the Mormon lodge would be destroyed unless emigrant trains could be suppressed.

There was, at the same time, so much internal dissatisfaction with the bold, arbitrary measures of Brigham, and so much satiety from the low, grovelling, animal indulgence which he granted his followers, that the horrors of blood and murder were felt to be necessary by the leaders in order to divert the Mormon mind from self-dissolution. The "mystic tie" naturally led to such a consequence.

The time, it must be remembered, was 1857, when the neighboring territories of Kansas and Nebraska had just been wrested from the ruffian grip of the slave-power by a free people. Now in this juncture of political affairs what was Brigham Young, the governor of Utah, to do? What course should this Mormon polygamous governor, appointed by a slavo-Masonic President, follow? Should he side with the free people, and make his territory free; or should he decide with the slave-power and make his terrritory slave territory? This was a question which the lodge, that never enters into politics, had to decide.

By killing off Arkansas emigrants Brigham might fancy that he would gain the favor of the free people, who had carried the day in Kansas and Nebraska. For Mormonism, as well as all other species of Jesuitry, had much more to gain from freedom than it had from despotism, for despots are jealous and watchful, while a free people are only too unsuspecting and negligent. Slavery, indeed, might make a tool of Brigham; but Brigham could never make a tool of the slave-power. He might abuse the liberty of a free people for his own purposes, but he would have to play a subordinate part where the slave-power predominated.

But the army which entered Utah in 1857–8, ostensibly for suppressing Mormon rebellion, and seemingly to carry out the policy that had prevailed in Kansas and Nebraska, was entirely under slave-power influence and control. Instead, therefore, of suppressing the rebellion of the Mormons, who had driven out every United States officer from the Territory, these troops were virtually made to keep that rebellion in countenance. Mormon leaders and Knights of the Golden Circle (or in classic Greek) Ku-Klux, had a rebellious interest in common against the United States; and they were fast friends. Little or nothing was said about the Mountain Meadow affair. The wolves of the desert were allowed full and sole jurisdiction there, while shreds of female dresses and locks of soft hair waved mournfully in the winds from the wild sage bashes that seemed to hold them up as witnesses of the deed.

When the troops first entered the Salt Lake basin a meaner set of conscious culprits than the Mormons appeared to be was never seen. Brigham had caused intrenchments to be thrown up in the mountain passes against the advance of the army; but his object probably was to divert the minds of his followers, rather than to offer any serious armed opposition to the United States government. Yet these followers must have been greatly surprised to witness the respect in which Mormonism was held by the troops; and to observe that no steps were taken against murderers and rebels. Brigham received new revelations from heaven on the occasion and assured his flock that all the nations of the world would soon be coming up into the mountains to do reverence to the Lion of the Lord—the said lion, of course, being Brigham himself.

Here then, we observe two lodges of Masonry, Mormonism and Ku-Kluxism, coming together, and striking hands over blood, murder, rebellion, outrage, injustice and depravity of the basest kind, against the United States. Reader, you may be assured that Masonry is always doing and always will be doing just such a thing. It has delayed the course of justice, truth and mercy in Utah for twenty years; and it will delay it in the late slave States for a longer period still.

Let us now go back to the corral, the scene of that fiendish inhumanity. The Mormon leaders resolve upon treachery in the holy cause of Mormonism, and Bishop Lee enters the corral with a white flag, held sacred even by savages. He pretends that he is an Indian agent of the United States, and that if they will surrender he will protect them against the Indians and put them in the way of safety. Lee describes the deep, earnest concern with which an old lady made inquiries of him as to whether he thought her people could rely upon the protection offered. And he in cold blood deceived her! He had bound himself by a "mystic tie" to become the tool of a Grand Lodge of Masons, and thus found himself serving devils in defiance of every law human and divine. Tears flowed from his eyes to quench the flames of hell that were burning at his heart; but still he rushed on into crime like the swine into the sea.

Twenty years afterward, to within a few months, as we have already said in a previous article, Lee was taken as a sentenced murderer on to the scene where his horrid crime was committed, and there, seated upon his coffin where his eyes had shed tears at what his hands were doing, he shed forth his blood to the demands of justice. Thus again, under a great government which pretends exact and equal justice to all, has a mere tool fallen a victim, while the chief instigators go at large! Such is the baneful power of Masonry to pervert and defeat the generous provisions of free government.

But in conclusion of this heart-sickening wickedness, we would call the attention of our lady readers to the bearing of the old lady among the emigrants to whom we have alluded. She was deeply concerned lest the Mormons should deceive them. Her suspicions only proved too true; and we would say to every American lady to take warning from her fate, and never trust the Masonic lodge. Its smooth, bland talk is but the oily gammon of the rogue. Its fine dresses, pretty regalia, elegant man-millinery, and sanctimonious palaver are as deceitful as the tears of Bishop Lee. If you yield to them you yield up the church, you yield up morals, you yield up your interests in true manhood, in truth, honor, chastity, virtue, innocence; you yield up your equal moral rights; you surrender to devil-worship all that the woman should hold sacred, and all upon which the gentle charities of the Christian religion can alone subsist.

AMERICAN.

The Testimony of Emancipated Men.

He knows, or he don't know. Know what? The secrets of Masonry, of course. That's the grand question of questions to the fraternity. And to the end of preserving their so-called secrets every energy of the huge imposture is unscrupulously devoted. Let us use that expression towards its members as the apostle Paul regarded his own people, as having a zeal for God but not according to knowledge, so do we regard many Masons as having a zeal for Masonry, but not according to knowledge. How unreasonable such Jews would regard Paul's language. What! They who were the disciples of Moses to be judged and censured by the deluded follower of that crucified One! They to be regarded as not knowing the will of God! They who had such an ancient religion of unquestioned divine authority! Their conduct to be condemed by a renegade like Paul, a man who had got anthority from the civil power and failed to execute it! So these poor deluded Jews might have reasoned, and thanked God they were not as Christians were, nor even as that Paul.

On the other hand, every professed Christian has ever believed, and in the present day every such one knows that Paul was right. And however few may be the number of those who proclaim the truth of Christ's absolute and loving supremacy over them, even if they feel as solitary as Paul did, and, like him, would willingly bear any personal sacrifice for the spiritual enlightenment of their brethren. Such men are verily the noblest of the earth, and of whom the world is not worthy. Happily our own country has its brilliant stars which shine over us in our past history. What American is not proud of the indomitable spirit of liberty which prompted our Pilgrim Fathers to cross the stormy ocean and make a home in New England? Who is not more of a man for the inspiration thus inherited? and where is the slave who could gain a hearing if he advocated a return to the bondage so recently achieved for his race? And shall it be said that our language shall be polluted and our freedom undermined by oath-bound brotherhoods whose purposes cannot bear the light? Out upon them! God keep our deluded country when its sons shall become false to their glorious inheritance; when Freedom shall seal her mouth by God-forbidden oaths, and when the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ shall be worshipped, and falsely worshipped, because not worshipped through the Son in spirit and in truth, for no man cometh to the Father but through him, "neither is there salvation in any other." Which lies, the Bible or Freemasonry? Both cannot be true. This great question is quite as important for the rising generation and the future of our beloved country as slavery was twenty-five years ago. Slavery, like drunkenness, is an evil so visible, so palpable that to name either is to prove them. But Freemasonry is an arrant hypocrite, a deluder of conscience, an unfaithful woman; a demon, assuming the angel's garments; a Baal whose Jeroboams are are assuring those whom they govern that Freemasonry is divine, and sing its praises divine in their "high places." May God help our country and grant deliverance!

But which is true? Are its pretended secrets known or not known? We assert deliberately from evidence of the most abundant and unquestionable character that the secrets of Masonry, so-called, have been openly printed and published again and again both in America and in England. Men, like the late Prof.. Nathaniel Colver of Chicago, could write it down as a "lying imposter," and thus exult in his emancipation from it in these words: "I got free from the snare with repentance and brokenness of heart, but oh! I thank God I am out." And he further declared that he regarded it as "Satan's masterpiece and a terrible snare to men." We have scores upon scores of Christian men thus emancipated who have testified, and are as trustworthy witnesses as any who ever uttered language. Christians and citizens, brethren and fellow-countrymen, we beseech you to look into this question. Obey God and conscience and welcome all consequences. The fears which hover over hundreds of enslaved members of the lodge and even among members in the community will all disappear as the first steps in duty are taken. The sea of difficulty will divide and your progress will hourly be clearer and onward to the better land. Think also of your children and the inheritance we are leaving them. Our family relationships would be more sacred without Masonry, our institutions more worthy of freemen. Let secretism rule in our churches and political institutions, and farewell to the supremacy of Christ in the one and of republicanism in the other. H.

The Church and the Factory

In 1640 the whole population of New England was English, and consisted of only about 4,000 families or 20,000 persons. Bancroft points out that after the first fifteen years following the landing on the Plymouth Rock there was no considerable addition from England. Your Palfrey shows that for 150 years the 4,000 families multiplied in remarkable seclusion from other communities, and that it is only within the last fifty years that the foreigners have come. New England is changing the character of her population to such an extent that we must now look for the descendants of those who crossed in the Mayflower, not so much on the Atlantic slope as in the Mississippi valley and on the Pacific coast.

It is not true that New England is becoming New Ireland; but it is hardly epigrammatic to say that manufacturing New England is New Ireland already.

We shall do well to remember that while the population of the manufacturing centers of New England is increasing with extraordinary rapidity, that of the agricultural and commercial districts is fluctuating and in many cases on the decrease. The distinctions between the rich and poor are becoming wider in the manufacturing districts. This is partly the unavoidable result of the natural growth of the power of capital. It is in part the consequence of the massing of men in cities as distinct from small towns. It is to some extent the effect of the organization of manufacturing industry in great corporations on the one side and an operative population on the other. It is in a large measure the result of the fact that in the manufacturing districts of New England a vastly greater proportion of the population is now of foreign descent that fifty years ago. The two most typical things in the territory east of the Hudson are the college bell and the factory chimney. The first New England was a church; the second New England is to be a factory.

What is the worth of the church to the workingman?

Look at the seven cities on the Merrimack river. I often hang in imagination over that stream as the best emblem of the industrial life of eastern New England. Child of the White mountains and Pemigewasset, the Merrimack rushes under the spindles of seven cities to the sea—Concord, Manchester, Nashua, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport,—doing more work than any other river of its size in the world, and typical more and more of the future into which our Atlantic New England slope is drifting. These seven cities have in the aggregate in the last twenty years more than doubled in wealth and population. Romish cathedral churches are rising in our manufacturing centers, and are not likely to be empty. But, under the voluntary system, many of our Protestant churches are looked upon by a portion of the operatives as close corporations. When a church is not mossy. it is aristocratic, our working men too often think; and so our floating, unchurched populations are coming to be very large in our factory centers.

If I were a working man I presume I should want fair play between employers and employed. I think I should care for my children and desire to have a better place for them than Old England gives the very youngest at the factory wheel. It seems almost incredible that some of the acutest members of our Protestant factory population are falling into neglect of the church, when it is certain that only by the diffusion of conscientiousness among the laboring classes can co-operation ever succeed; and that conscientiousness will not be diffused without the use of means which the church herself employs none too thoroughly, but which no other organization pretends to employ at all as a permanent system for the culture of society. Can co-operation ever succeed unless there are large numbers of honest men in society? How are these to be made? In commerce you want a revival of business. You want, therefore, a revival of undefiled religion. How are you to have that if you are to neglect, I will not say this or that branch of the church, but the church as a whole? If you are to shut the doors of God's house on the Sabbath how are you to be sure that diffusion of conscientiousness will come? Why do not workingmen see the great impropriety of their neglecting the church, and that the church is made up of men many of whom have risen from the bench of the shoemaker or wheel of the operative? Our New England society is not divided into hereditary and fixed classes. We must look on our churches as the work of the people, and it is not American for a portion of our New England population to regard our churches as aristocratic machines. Perhaps some of them are; I am not defending the whole list of them; but most of them, I think ninety out of a hundred, are eager to be of service in the diffusion of conscientiousness and all culture and comfort among the factory population, and in the beating down of all the walls of division between workmen and their employers.

You want arbitration committees; you want fair consultation between capital and labor? Bring your whole population together once a week in the church, where all class walls are, or ought to be, broken down. I am not speaking of all the churches, for God has not granted to all men to burst asunder the silken bonds of luxury. He has to some men, and to some who are very wealthy. But the most of our churches in New England were built by the people, and come from the hearts of the average population; and it is absolutely suicidal for the workingman to let his children grow up without the religious culture of the church.

Have you ever heard that the Sabbath schools have been greatly improved in the last fifty years? There is a liberal denomination which lately has been issuing Sabbath school volumes with questions about the relations between religion and science. I thank God for that step in advance. Let it be understood that the Sabbath school is now a better thing than it used to be, and that you cannot let your children stay out of it without putting them behind other children. Do you wish to have that spirit of good sense pervade the community which you would like to find in the arbitration board? You will never have it unless you take possession of the church and of the ministry. The latter are rather a numerous and well educated class, and they have much opportunity to study public questions. Why cannot you win them to your side? There is a strategic act for workingmen to do on the Merrimack!

My friends, when you and I are longer in the world the supreme question in New England civilization will be how to make Plymouth Rock the corner stone of a factory. Do not say that I am uttering anything irreverent when I speak of that sacred spot on the shore yonder as fit to be the beginning of the newest New England, as it was of the earliest. Plymouth Rock was the corner of the first New England; shall it be the corner of the second? Where are the builders that shall place that jagged and fundamental rock in line with the other stones of the wall? Shall we hew the factory to make it fit Plymouth Rock, or Plymouth Rock to fit the factory? God sends us no future into which Plymouth Rock cannot be built unhewn! You think it is a very unpoetic, prosaic fact that New England is to be a factory. Goethe, our modern philosopher and poet, used to say the sound of spindles in Manchester was the most poetic sound of this century. Not every man has Goethe's ears. He foresaw the time when a greater proportion than now of the population of the world will be in cities, and when the most numerous inhabitants in cities will be of the operative class. Thomas Carlyle says somewhere: "Have you ever listened to the awakening of Manchester in Old England, at half-past five by the clock? Ten thousand times ten thousand looms and spindles all set moving there, like the boom of an Atlantic tide. It is, if you think of it, sublime as Niagara, or more so." Sometimes I have repeated to myself these words when awakening in the gray morning on Beacon hill, as I have listened to the factory bells, and allowed imagination to move up the Merrimack, past Newburyport, Haverhill and Lawrence, and Lowell, and Manchester, and Concord, and to see the crowds of the operative class coming out in streams in the early dawn. It is sublime, and it is to be more and more sublime as the years pass! but only the church, captured by the working-men, and able to capture the working-men in return, can prevent in our free society, when once New England is crowded with manufacturing centers, those collisions between capital and labor which have arisen in the Old World. You never can bridge the chasm between capital and labor here by a kid glove. You never can bridge it with the bayonet. In the Old World it has been bridged with the bayonet on the continent and by the kid glove in England. But in New England the only bridge that will cross that chasm is popular, scientific, aggressive, deadly Christianity, laid on the buttresses of the Sabbath and the common schools.—Joseph Cook.

Mackey's Encyclopedia.

Symbology is brother Mackey's hobby-horse; he values Masonic symbology more than its social, benevolent, or other traits, and consequently devotes a large portion of his book to that important science; his ingenuity in deciphering the unknown and unknowable is very amusing. Thus, Fe, Fo, Fum, or Tweedle-de and Tweedle-dum, happen to be the words of a certain Masonic degree; the degree may be only one hundred or one hundred and fifty years old; Bro. Mackey knows all this, and also knows who the author of the degree was, but nevertheless undertakes to treat the subject with all seriousness, as as if the degree descended to us from pre-diluvian times. To ascertain the etymology of, say, Fe, Fo, Fum, he examined dictionaries of all languages; he could not find those precise, mystical words, but he fortunately succeeded in finding the name of a heathen deity with an e, o, or um; the real name of the god may have been hum or drum—that is of no consequence—there is an um in it, and he goes on to prove very learnedly that hum or drum was the original word, but it got corrupted into fum during the period of its transmission through the countless generations of the Masonic brotherhood; and then the three words, or the three syllables in Tweedle-de are symbolized into the "holy trinity," or something else. Thus Bro. Mackey continues very profoundly and scientifically to unriddle, by means of Masonic symbology, the most important mysteries and mysticisms of past, present and future.

The book is liberally bespattered with words in Hebrew, Greek, Latin and what not; all of which gives an impression of great linguistic scholarship. The confusion in the letters in his Hebrew words leads me seriously to suspect Bro. Mackey's Hebrew scholarship; there are too many blunders in the book not to strike a moderately well informed Hebraist at a glance. The fact is, the Hebrew words, and probably the Greek and Latin, too, were put into the book to dazzle the unlearned reader; it is—buncombe.

An encyclopedia, if faithfully gotten up, is an invaluable aid to a student in that branch of inquiry; but if such a work is done carelessly, and inaccurately written it is simply a nuisance; it misleads the superficial reader and serves to multiply errors. Among other matter the encyclopedia furnishes brief histories of Masonry in a number of jurisdictions. As I happen to know the early history of the Masonry of Massachusetts and Nova Scotia, I examined Bro. Mackey's histories of those jurisdictions. About Massachusetts Bro. Mackey ignored entirely the facts I made known about Henry Price's pretensions, but goes on with the old story. Of St. Andrew's lodge he gives the date of its charter, 1752; and in the article, Schism, he places St. Andrew's Lodge, Boston, among the schisms. The real date of the St. Andrew's charter is November 30, 1756, and the originators of said lodge were clandestine Masons; this fact was admitted by the members of the St. Andrew's Lodge; it was therefore absurd to designate the formation of it as a schism.

About Nova Scotia Bro. Mackey says: "Freemasonry was introduced into Nova Scotia under the registry of the Grand Lodge of England in 1749." If my reader will consult my article, "Origin of Masonry in Nova Scotia," in the October, 1873, No. of the Masonic Magazine (London), he will see that there is not a particle of truth in Bro. Mackey's statement.

"Biographies of Eminent Masons" is another feature in the Encyclopedia. I examined the article, "Dunckerley," which is summed up as follows:

"Were I to attempt a comparative estimate of his (Dunckerley's) character as a Masonic scholar, in reference to his predecessors, his contemporaries, and his successors in English Masonry, I should say that he was superior to both Anderson and Desaguliers, but inferior to Preston, to Hutchinson and Oliver." All which is simply bosh. Dunckerley was a gunner on board of a man-of-war, and having been all his life engaged as a seaman, where and how could he have acquired a scholarship superior to Dr. Anderson, who, besides his Masonic writings, was the author of one or more works on antiquities? Dr. Desaguliers was a member of the Royal Society, Dunckerley owed his Masonic greatness to his learning from his mother when she was on her death-bed, that George II. was his father, and as he bore some resemblance to the said George II., George III. granted Dunckerley a pension of £800 a year, and free rent in Kensington Palace. His left-handed connection with royalty gave him a position in the Grand Lodge. All his writings which appeared in print are a couple of the usual kind of Masonic addresses, two or three letters, and a brief history of the Knight Templars, printed in the Freemason's Magazine, London, in 1796. The history of the Knight Templars is so full of anachronisms and absurdities that a school-boy of thirteen would laugh at it. I may at some future time give specimens of his historical ignorance. At present I shall only say that brother Mackey's statement is highly over-colored.

In connection with Dunckerley, brother Mackey repeats Dr. Oliver's nonsense, that Dunckerley mutilated the third degree and made a part of it into a Royal Arch degree. In another part of the work he seems to doubt Oliver's statement. Now, I venture to assert, that brother M. knows as well as I do, that Dunckerley never did cut the third degree into two parts, and this part I have demonstrated to the satisfaction of brother Gardner, P. G. M., and to brother Nickerson, G. M., of Mass. If, therefore, we take the above as specimens of brother Mackey's authorship, of what use is such an encyclopedia?—Jacob Norton in Hebr. Leader.

Does not Christ say that the hairs of our heads are all numbered? There is wonderful care and love in that. Did you ever know a mother who loved her child so well that she would count the hairs on its curly head? But the Lord loves his children so well that he counts their hairs—every one; and not one of them comes to any harm, so long as his child is faithful to him. There was not even the smell of fire upon their garments; and the King's counselors, and princes and governors, and captains, and all together, saw these men upon whose bodies the fire had no power. My friends, let us remember that it is always safe to do what God wants us to do. If our way to heaven leads through fire and water, it is all the same; it is all right. That is the proper way for us to go.—Moody.

Reform News.

The California Lecture Work.

Upper Lake, Lake Co., Cal., June 16th.

Editor Christian Cynosure: Brother Cogswell is here in this much esteemed State. He preached and lectured in Woodland, in Yolo county, previous to his coming here. On the 6th, 7th and 8th evenings of this month (June) he lectured in the United Brethern church to large audiences—house crowded every night during the lectures.

The first evening he arose and said there were three great evils he had to combat viz: "The Lodge System, the Drinking System, and the Monopolies." He chose to combat the lodge system first, and having been in it he could speak against it knowing just what he was combating. Claiming also that Masonry was the mother of all other lodges, hence he would fight it. Bro. C., before proceeding with the lecture informed the audience of the "National Christian Association" of which he was a member, and many honorable men belong to this assembly, which gives it weight and power, and causes it to sway an extensive influence over the minds of men.

He also held up the Cynosure before the audience and declared the object or objects of its existence and claimed for it a support from all honorable men.

He spoke in strong terms during all his lectures, so much so, that it will have a lasting impression on many both in and out of the lodge. He denounced the lodge in most emphatic terms. His warning is timely. He spoke with zeal (but not without knowledge) and like one who held the truth. I believe he did speak the truth, and many others believe it too, but, like many in the apostolic age will not confess it, lest they should be put out of the synagogue.

Then again to expose Free (?) masonry was perjury in the extreme. It was not long, however, before they were in doubt about his perjury. Some said, "I do not believe he is a perjured man, but at first I did believe it." He told them the lodge had no right to administer an oath, and that God would not be a party to the oath administered; that it would make Him an abbettor to evil. But still some of the Master (?) Masons talked of egging him. But it was only talk.

To give you an idea of the interest at these lectures, I will relate the following: On the last night of these lectures there was a "minstrel" show in Upper Lake. They drummed and played and sung and halloed to attract as many as possible from attending the lecture; but it was no use; they did not make their hall rent.

It is almost useless for me to undertake to give even an outline of these lectures. I have only to say he spoke with great power knowing he had the truth.

It does seem that Americans have nearly all sorts of sense except on this one subject—Masonry. No man could have trodden the ground Bro. C. has, a number of years ago, without burning his feet. So we see that light is increasing. This is due in this immediate neighborhood to the indefatiguable labors of Bro. John Black and wife who are living near where these lectures were delivered. They are workers, and deserve honorable mention in this work. Their house was the home of Bro. C. while here with us.

I was in doubt whether men belonging to the lodge and the church could be justified in holding both relations. I am no longer in doubt. I am confident that the Masonic lodge and the church of Christ are antagonistic. I no longer believe in the half-way covenant. I believe man must "worship the Lord God and serve him through the one mediator between God and man," because His is the only name, He is the only way that we can approach the Father; and if we try to climb up any other way we are lost.

A very curious past is behind us and let us be very studious in looking into it in order that we may understand the duties that now are.

These three lectures are timely; they explain the innermost, part of Masonry's religious life, as perverting the Word of God, and show it to be idolatry.

Why did the professing Christian (?) Masons at Upper Lake oppose Bro. C.? Because he would have no half-way covenant. He said they cou'd not hold truth in one hand and error in the other. "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." Because he exposed their secret evils. Because he defended with vigor the idea that a man could not be a Christian and an adhering Mason at the same time; because he set his face against the whole trend of this huge, turbid hungry haughty wave of evil that has been rising ever since 1717.

I will say in conclusion that the church is lost, and that too forever, unless Masonry is kept out of it.

W. P. Burk.

Correspondence.

The Lodge on the Defensive in Monroe Co., Ind.

Bloomington, Ind., June 26, 1877.

Dear Cynosure: The effects of Ronayne's exposition in this community are becoming more apparent every day. If the severity of the wound is to be judged by the writhing of the serpent it must have been a vital one.

The first effect was an outburst of passion on the part of prominent Masons in which they forgot their jewel, admitted many things which they had always denied, threatened political ostracism upon all who took any part in the exposition; forgetting that they have always denied that Masonry had anything to do with politics; forgetting also, as a few of them may be reminded, that there are about as many Anti-masons as Masons in the county.

The second manifestation was a call for a great Odd-fellow celebration in which all the secret societies were invited to join. This call was avowedly for the purpose of counteracting the anti-secret opposition. That is their way of showing opposition.

At this celebration, which proved to be almost a total failure, we had the usual amount of assertion about the benevolence of the order; but very few if any statistics. We also had a statement by a minister of the Gospel that Masonry existed before the time of Solomon; that the Christian religion had been preserved by it during the dark ages; that none but believers in the true God could be Masons. He concluded by a story of a missionary who went to the Sandwich Islands, and was about to be eaten by a cannibal, when he thought to give the grand hailing sign of distress. Immediately the cannibal dropped his bloody club, and embracing the missionary, exclaimed: "He is my brother!"

The next demonstration was a sermon by a Christian minister, who took for his text, "By their fruits ye shall know them." He laid down as his postulate that men are not judged by their profession but by their acts. Again, we judge of the purity or corruption of political parties by what they do or what they have done, and not by their political planks or platforms. If a party is pure it will bear good fruit, it will labor for the common good of the masses, and if corrupt it will labor to further its own interests even at the expense of the general welfare." (The very thing Masonry does.)

And yet after laying down this postulate thus emphatically, he turned right around and treated us to a half hour quotation of Masonic professions, planks and platforms, from a constitution and by-laws of the Grand Lodge. He only gave us one or two illustrations of Masonic fruit, of which these two were the most crushing:

1st. If he should die to-night his children would get $4,000. He knew where the money came from that enabled the lodge to be thus liberal—because he had paid about $400 of it himself.

2d. He told us of a man who became "powerfully converted," while passing through the third degree, clapping his hands and shouting "glory." He then triumphantly appealed to his audience to know if that was not good fruit. I inquired of a seceding Mason whether he knew anything of that and he told me of a man that was frightened half to death while passing through the two ruffians and that when the hoodwink was taken off his eyes he was so excited he did not know what he was doing and that such things were not at all uncommon. The sad thing about it was that in his audience were many unbelievers who had seen the shameful and blasphemous ceremony of the third degree one week before given by Ronayne, and they went away from that house scoffing at the idea that men could be converted in that way; confirmed in their disregard of religion by that shameful travesty of the doctrine of regeneration.

But in order to give us Anti-masons a final crusher, the Masons concluded to obecrve St. John's day; invited all the secret orders to join in the procession; chartered special trains from Greencastle on the north and from Louisville on the south; put up flaming posters, and prepared for a grand display. It was on Saturday, which is a leisure day with all men in this county. It was a beautiful day, and yet when the grand procession was formed it consisted of 24 Knights of Pythias, 24 Odd-fellows, and 128 Masons. I could have counted on my fingers about as many Anti-masons in this county.

This day's work was crowned with an address in which the speaker labored to prove that "Freemasonry" was as old as Solomon.

Entirely disregarding, as they always do, the difference between operative Masonry and speculative Masonry, although they must know that Freemasonry, or speculative Masonry as they call it, has no connection with the old Stone Mason Societies of the middle ages. He then closed up with a eulogy on Masonry, and a severe denunciation of all who oppose Masonry as unchristian.

Now what is the effect of all this. We have a club of ten for the Cynosure. We have a demand for anti-secret tracts of all kinds. The Anti-masons become stronger in their opposition every time they see the folly of the societies exposed in their demonstrations.

There are at least two men who have left the Masons and who speak out freely against the order.

A great many persons who have for a long time contemplated joining some of these societies have been turned away from the purpose. And last, but not least, every bummer and dead beat about town has concluded that Masonry is just the thing they want, it just suits them, and a great many of them want to join.

W. P. M.

Lodge Arguments in Allen County, Ohio.

Editor Cynosure: Some things have recently transpired near Lima, Allen county, Ohio, which I have no doubt you will regard as being worthy of a place in your columns, as showing the deviltry of Masonry in church and state.

A few months ago a minister of the Methodist church lectured in the village of Allentown, Allen county, Ohio, on the subject of secretism. His lecture fully exposed the secrets and evils of Masonry, Odd-fellowship and the grange. These meetings were unfortunately held in the night season and therefore favorable for the usual lodge arguments. On the evening of the last lecture, true to certain threats, slyly talked of some days previously in Masonic circles, the church was attacked by an infuriated mob armed with eggs and stones. The weapons were freely used, one stone coming with such force that it indented a sheet-iron stove-drum near the head of the fearless victim of Masonic hate. The clamor outside being so fierce and threatening the church trustees advised the lecturer, for personal safety, to remain with them in the church until the maddened brains of the misguided men would cool off and they disperse. The advice was taken. Next day the excitement ran high. Some said, "Served him right; such men ought not to be allowed to live." "If he had come out he would have been killed." "He deserved more than he got," etc. Others felt sad and said, "I think the old man is master of his subject." "He uses good language and is not abusive." "It is a shame for our community that he was treated so badly." "He must have told the truth about these societies or they would not have become so enraged at him."

The trustees of the church went to the prosecuting attorney, a Mason, for advice. That functionary advised them to keep quiet about the matter, get all the witnesses they could, and then come up when the Grand Jury would meet next time and something could be done. Twelve witnesses were procured. About this time a Mason from Lima came out and told one of the men they had better settle the matter as he had known barns to be burned. The Grand Jury met. It was soon ascertained that the majority of the men were secretists. The minority wanted an investigation, but the others seemed careless about it and the matter was dropped. The lodge power felt that something must now be done to quiet and blind the ignorant farmers at Allentown. The lodge well knew that people think and talk over such things and arrive a certain conclusions. To effectually whitewash the whole matter the strange expedient and artful dodge was resorted to found in the following announcement as published in the Allen Co. Democrat:

A basket pic-nic will be held one fourth mile west of Allentown on Wednesday, June 13th next. A lecture on each of the following subjects will be delivered: Freemasonry, Odd-fellowship and the grange. The first subject will be discussed by Rev. Harmount of Lima, the second by Hon. James McKinzie, and the third by Rev. Harvey," etc., etc.

The day fixed upon was auspicious and the above named persons actually addressed the people on the subjects named in the notice.

It may be interesting to know who the speakers were and their standing in church and state relations.

The first one named is a presiding elder of the M. E. church.

The second one is a judge of the court of common pleas, this county.

The third one is a Baptist minister especially distinguished as a grange lecturer.

How long the people will suffer such things at the hands of church representatives and state officials remains to be seen. This case plainly shows how lodgemen who violate law are protected by trickery and the law is rendered powerless when in the hands of men who have sworn to stand by a "brother right or wrong, murder and treason not excepted."

Allentown.

Boyhood's Recollections and Scottish Life.

It was a bright summer's day. Our young minister was only an assistant. He did all the work. Our aged minister had become the father of the church in years and got the pay. It was at least $1,500 per annum. As perquisites he had a manse and valuable outhouses; an orchard filled with choice fruit trees, surrounded with a high stone wall of not less than nine feet in height. There was also a gleve, or farm of rich land of fifty acres. There was no one then but himself to look after the poor of the parish. He was custodian of all the moneys collected or bequeathed to the poor. He distributed these moneys as he felt inclined. His youthful assistant had the honor of preaching and got from the aged pastor $150, or the tythe of the high priest's money, salary. But the ladies made him up by voluntary subscription as much as enabled him to keep out of debt. His board was cheap. He was a great favorite with the fast young men of those days; drinking and boxing being favorite amusements in which our young assistant was an expert. It was no wonder that, with an almost total lack of pious friendships, the youthful minister still further qualified himself for his sacred duties by joining the Mason lodge!

Well, this bright Sabbath day brought to church a family of mourners, who had just buried their father the previous day. The young ladies were tall, handsome and beautiful. In deep mourning, they occupied a conspicuous part of the church. Our tall, handsome and eloquent young pastor delivered such a stirring funeral oration as forced tears from every eye. The church was that day a very Bochim. It was a great relief to my boyish feelings to let the tears flow freely and copiously. Such a masterpiece of eloquence I have never heard.

As the whole congregation admired and praised that discourse, there was an old man nearing his hundredth year who could not join in the plaudits. We children used to call him "Auld Robie." Being pressed for his reason he replied: "If you had seen our young minister as I saw him that Sabbath morning, reeling drunk among a set of tipsy Freemasons, you would not have much relished his fine funeral oration." No fault was found with this youthful frolic.

From his quiet rural parish he was settled as pastor of a very large congregation in a manufacturing city of ninety thousand inhabitants. Here his labors were much esteemed by his parishioners. By the influence of the lodge as well as other subordinate patronage, he became pastor of the highest church in the establishment of Scotland. It was after the disruption. The members mostly seceded with the Free church. He and his colleague both preached on handsome salaries, provided for them by the law of the land, and paid by a reclaiming population, who had to sustain their own pastors by their voluntary contributions. He was destined for the last thirty years to preach to empty pews, or as he jocularly said to a friend, "preached to a lumber yard!" Think of two D.D.'s preaching to a lumber yard!

He has long served as the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of his native country. About a month ago he passed away "from the lodge below to his refreshment in the Grand Lodge above," as Freemasons say. What a sad picture! Deism, the religion of Masonry, filling all our pulpits with its priest, and grand high priests, who can abjure Christ for the patronage of the secret lodge, and then publicly abjure the lodge for the sake of a living attached to a Christian church. How long will God bear with such blasphemy and hypocrisy?

Another sad fact is, that the grandson of "Auld Robie," who would not go to hear his young minister preach, is strongly allied to the lodge. He is a man of eminent ability; has received the highest academic and ecclesiastical honors. He has occupied one of the highest pulpits in his native land, and in addition to his pastoral work occupied the chair of ecclesiastical history in the University to the no small disgust of some of his brethren who spurn plurality as offensive exhibitions of cupidity. Recently, however, he has thrown up his honors in the pulpit and professional chair, and has taken to the editorial department of the leading newspaper in the metropolis, and from his high stool writes powerful editorials, laughing at all creeds and defending all who in any way deal heavy blows to destroy the old landmarks. Especially does he deal signal vengeance against any who dare to criticise the order of A. F. and A. M., of which his royal highness is the head and his esteemed patron. He is the deceased's eulogist.

Shall not God visit such abominations with speedy and condign punishment when he pours out his fury upon the heathen, and upon the families that call not upon his name because they have eaten up Jacob and devoured Israel? J. D.

The Curse of the Churches.

SPENCER, N. Y.

DEAR CYNOSURE: Over two years ago was the first I learned of your good paper. Since then I have been a constant reader. My father was a Mason of three degrees at the time of the murder of Morgan. He now is in his 89th year, lives with me, and has told me all about the evils of Masonry. He says it is the work of the devil. He is so much in fear of the Masons that he dare not talk publicly against the order. The Baptist minister here is a strong Mason; has been here two years. Twenty-two of us voted against his coming here, but were overruled. Several of us concluded not to help support a Masonic preacher, and now they have turned us out. I joined the Baptist church in 1851, and have, I trust, tried to serve my blessed Jesus; have lost many dear relatives during this time whom I hope to join across the river where there will be no lodges and no Masonic spirit. They turned myself with several others out of the church for opposing Masonry. They never came near us and we knew nothing of it, but heard it from others. With the help of Jesus I trust we shall be enabled to endure all persecution. I trust we shall have grace given us to stand the storm; many have gone up through great tribulation whom I hope to join. One can hardly realize what a spirit one Masonic preacher can make in one church. Even one good deacon was a strong Anti-mason, but when the Masonic preacher came we must not say a word, if we did we would be obliged to confess. This good deacon was the first to draw my attention to the sins of Masonry, and on his knees before his Heavenly Father, he said no man could be a Christian and be a Mason, but when the preacher came he apostatized. We have had brother Barlow here once and Mr. Ronayne once, who did us good, and hope the Lord will help them on in this great reform. I read your paper and then circulate it, and the Baptist preacher speaks loudly against it. He is a Welshman. They say we have injured the church opposing Masonry and that we have no right to talk about it.

CELESTIA BUTTS.

From Albion, Iowa.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: If you will allow a few items from Albion you will confer a favor upon one, at least, of its citizens. Since the exposition of Masonry here by Ronayne of Chicago, there has been a foreboding look of vengeance deeply stamped in the countenances of the fraternity here. True, they try to look very innocent, as though they do not feel the fatal thrust given them by Ronayne, but a close observer can see the same spirit that lived and acted out its nature in the abduction and murder of Morgan. But the craft are so closely watched and so in the minority that they are compelled to act the part of Shylock until the law gives them the power to cut the pound of flesh, then truly will the knife strike deeply. But from the signs of the ballot here, it will be sometime before the craft gets the control, for every election witnesses the overthrow of the Masons and Masonic "jacks." It was said that one of these felt so sore over his defeat that he cried.

Our seminary is run by a Mason and assisted by a "jack." We wish those teachers no harm only that they go where they can revel in Masonic fellowship, and leave us the right to impart wholesome instruction to our youth not having the taint of Masonry in it.

Our town supports three Christian churches; Presbyterian, Disciple and Methodist Episcopal, and I might say we have a small congregation of Friends, who have no church edifice. Our Presbyterian minister is Anti-masonic but does not preach it, believing his only mission is to tell the tale of the cross. I understand that the Disciple minister carries a demit in his pocket, but denies it. His members are determined to look the matter up. The pastor of the M. E. church is a Mason and supported by Masons and Jacks, and two or three Anti-masons who hang on yet. In one of the pastor's sermons he said he often met professors of religion on the streets of Albion who could not look him in the eye and if he spoke to them their reply would be only a grunt. So he concludes from this that they are not Christians. But the pastor sees through Masonic eyes, and very poor ones too. So that these unpardonable sins of not being able to look his reverence in the face and answering his lordship with a grunt, is no doubt a myth. But as the gentleman visits only Masons or Jacks, passing the Anti-mason door as he would a pest house, we could from this if nothing more conclude he is in darkness himself.

BUCKEYE.

Masons and Jesuits.

Many intelligent persons believe that Masons and Jesuits are deadly enemies. This is a great mistake. It is true that many Catholics do hate the Masonic fraternity; but such Catholics are not Jesuits, although they are more or less under the control of the crafty leaders of the "Society of Jesus."

The reader should never lose sight of the highly important fact that Masonry and Jesuitism are the same in principle, both being, sly, crafty, brutal, unprincipled, revengeful, despotic and hypocritical. And as the two systems are alike, it follows that the persons who are delighted with either of them must admire both. As the Jesuit and the Mason both learn to be cunning craftsmen, to work in the dark and take secret advantage of unsuspecting people, they are as much alike as two burglars who often co-operate.

Now, if we turn our eyes to the State of New York we behold Masons and Jesuits working together slyly at the same jobs.

Tweed, who for many years managed the Democratic organizations of the city and State was and is a member of Perfect Ashlar Lodge of A. F. and A. Masons of New York. His famous "Tammany Ring," which extended throughout the State, was only a Masonic cat-paw order. And the fact that the great New York ring has been able to defend its leaders against the persistent attacks of the tax payers is explained by the well known fact that New York city and State are both full of Masonic lodges, all the members of which are under penalty of death to defend "brother" Tweed and his Masonic chums of the ring; and that the Jesuits of the city and State have given all their influence and aid to the Masonic Tweed, and have received in return more than one million dollars in property and money taken by Masonic hands from the State and city treasuries.

E. J. CHALFANT.

Are we Becoming a Nation of Man Worshipers?

SPRINGERTON, Ill., June 21, 1877.

Mohammedanism with her Koran claims to be a true religion. So does Masonry, Mormonism and all such human humbugs.

Each of these systems, teaches and practices more or less Bible doctrine, not because they love the Bible and its Divine author, but for the purpose of deceiving those who do love that book, by lugging in their abominations with Divine truth. All human creeds as well as all unscriptural titles of distinction for Gospel preachers, can only tend in the same direction, by calling our minds away from "the form of sound words" in the Christian Scriptures, to the "great swelling words" of puny man.

A few years ago about all the papers and many pulpits lauded Beecher, and almost, perhaps quite in some instances, did worship Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Many still cling to this idol, while very many have left him and are crying "Moody, Moody, Moody." We would not say that Mr. Moody is a bad man by any means, but we do say that while his are called "gospel meetings" there is very little gospel in his sermons! What we want is less Moody and more Christ. There are but three Cynosure subscribers here and none of them like the Moody part. Supposing your columns are still open for freedom of speech and liberty of conscience we send this for publication. Your friend,

JAMES SPRINGER.

Explanation Wanted.

DODGE CENTER, June 23, 1877.

MR. EDITOR: Having this day witnessed a Masonic funeral ceremony in connection with the M. E. church: Which is the responsible party in a religious sense, the minister who officiated, or the order that controlled the ceremonies and displayed the toggery and presumptuously confound the Holy Bible with their heathen representations, or the M. E. church that suffered its religious dignity to be thus stultified?

I also would like to inquire if in the judgment of the really pious it would not be far less grievous for any one holding a good standing in any orthodox church to desire a union with one or two other equally good churches, having thus a right to all of the privileges as well as bear a reasonable amount of their financial burdens and so divide up their time and attention, and encourage several, showing a sincere contempt for sectarianism. Of course one could choose those that were less objectionable; it might be Seventh Day Baptist and here would be a good opportunity for seeing their special services, they being on a day not generally observed by others, or one might think that Unitarians or Universalists are in some respects good and liberal in their views; in short, if a member of any church connects himself with Freemasons and Odd-fellows, and allows himself to go through all the religious ceremonies, thus giving unmistakable evidence that by virtue of those observances and strict moral living, many of which are very commendable, would it not be far less wrong to be a member in a number of churches at the same time.

I am sure for my own part it would be less objectionable in many respects, and how any close-communion sect could object to their members' communing with others equally orthodox and at the same time have no protest against their members joining in close sympathy with secret, oath-bound, semi-religious societies, I cannot see.

Now, Mr. Editor, the above are some of my thoughts, awkwardly expressed, on this mongrel way of pleasing God, and if you can or wish to get the above in shape suitable to put in the Cynosure, I would like it, and believe comparing things that do exist with those that might, we could see sometimes more clearly where we are. We expect to hold the first annual meeting of the Dodge County Christian Association on next Monday and Tuesday, but I, for one, feel but little confidence of a passable success, because the different orders are determined to control all religious effort and if any presume to remonstrate against their pet institutions they are shut off from from all sympathy and unfit for decent association. Yours truly, A LOOKER ON.

OUR MAIL.

P. P. Swan, Oakwood, Mich., writes:

"The Cynosure is doing a great work in pulling down the strongholds of Satan."

Philip Meese, Hudson, Ind., writes:

"We love the Cynosure and pray for its success, and for those who are out in the field, who count not their lives dear to them if they only can save souls from the thralldom of the devil. When we have read the Cynosures we don't throw them away, but give them to our neighbors."

C. Winter, Gouldsville, Vt., writes:

"It looks as though the cause of the Redeemer was second to that of the lodges in Vermont. Brethren, pray that the Master's cause be first with us, then all else that is right."

Philo Eizea, Nunda, Ill., writes:

"I am to lecture in Lake county next week."

A. Wright, Joliet, Ill., writes:

"I think it is the duty of every one to be informed in reference to all secret societies else how can they be exposed or the evils shunned? But there are multitudes who don't care to be informed; that's one great hindrance to the reform. The Lord give courage and success."

Peter Rich, Westfield, Ind., writes:

"I am glad the time of holding our national meeting at Dayton has been changed to the time proposed, as it will be more suitable on many accounts."

"Wm. Banks, Phoenixville, Pa., writes:

"I was told by one of our local preachers that he heard two members of the conference at the camp meeting at Chester Heights renounce Masonry publicly."

J. S. Amidon, Corry, Pa., writes:

"Allowing me to be judge the Cynosure is growing better every day, and I will try and labor for its success, and will pray for God's blessing upon it, and for all those noble, self-sacrificing men who are in the field fighting the minions of the secret works of darkness."

S. Bedford, Millview, Pa., writes:

"You have my earnest prayer that God will bless you in the great and good work of publishing books and paper speaking against secret societies. I will do my little to help on the work."

O. Breed, Avery's Post, Ill, writes:

"The labors of Bro. H. H. Hinman three years since were not lost, but resulted in good, and the leaven is still working. We want a good lecturer in this place. E. Ronayne, or any one who could make it convenient to call, would meet with a fair reception, and be forwarding the good cause without opposition in the way of Masonic eggs."

John Hoobler, Fairmount, Ill., writes:

"I read the Cynosure with delight, and give it to my neighbors to read. We live in a small town which is full of secrecy of every kind. * * My best love to Bro. Hinman and you all."

Rev. D. M. Gelvin, Hiawatha, Kansas, writes:

"I am a home missionary of the U. P. church. Members of secret orders here are as numerous as grasshoppers and have had things all their own way, and have yet no active opposition from any quarter that I have heard of. The Good Templars are having jolly times, get out big crowds and hold out till midnight frequently. I have been watching to see any good they claim to be doing, but I have not yet seen it. The most that can be said of them is that they have a 'good time' in their meetings, and become so taken up with the Grand Templar Society, that they have very little heart for the prayer-meeting and the church. By what means can this mighty flood be rolled back from off this new and beautiful State?"

Charles T. Collins, Hartford, Conn., writes:

"I have sent several copies of Woodward's court house tract to lawyers in Hartford and elsewhere, and am doing what I can for the cause."

J. B. Stowell, Santa Anna, Cal., writes:

"The Cynosure is the most welcome of all visitors. I have had one or two debates on the subject of Masonry with a young doctor, and he flatly denies that Masons would do more for a brother Mason than for a cowan, and he says the name of Christ is not forbidden in the lodge, but that they pray for what they want in and through his merits; that he never knew a Jew was or could be a Mason; that no exposition of Masonry has ever been made; that his father has been a Mason for a great while and he was one himself. In a word, he gave me to understand that I knew nothing about Masonry now."

Mr. Stowell encloses the following which appears to be an extract from a letter to himself:

"Well, John, I must tell you what your Anti-masonic books and papers have done in this country. They have prevented a good many people from joining the grangers, Masons, etc. They have broken up one grange."

Home and Farm.

SHEEP TO CLEAN LAND.

Many think the only advantage of sheep are in their wool-producing properties, forgetting that they multiply with great rapidity, doubling the flock annually, and in this climate taking care mainly of themselves, if good winter pasturage and proper shelter are afforded.

There is, however, another use for sheep, which we have found by experience to be of great advantage in good farming. They are the best weed and thistle exterminators a farmer can have. They keep the pasturage free from these pests of the farm.

We recollect of hearing, twenty years ago or more, that the late Richard Gentry, of Pettis county, Mo., had a farm of seven thousand acres, and that not a weed could be seen upon it. We did not put much faith in the report, and determined to visit the farm to see whether the report was true. We did visit the farm, and such a model of neatness and cleanliness in farming we never saw before. But it was not long before we discovered to what it was attributable. Mr. Gentry kept several thousand Merino sheep. These he transferred from field to field, as he saw proper, and they nibbled down the weeds and kept the pasture free of them. He told us that a dozen men, constantly engaged, could not keep the weeds under subjection like this flock of sheep.

But in clear land sheep are still more valuable. They will keep down the sprouts and shrubs much better than men can do with the best tools. They give them no rest. As soon as a new bud or leaf shows itself it is nipped off. Hazel, sassafras, sumach—everything is compelled to surrender. They give them no chance for life - no quarter. Every time they make an effort for new life they are remorselessly cut down. If farmers want to clear land, or free it from weeds and sprouts and foul growth, sheep are their best aids. Farmers can well afford to keep sheep free of charge the year round, for the work they perform for them. If farmers are not able to buy sheep, it will be money in their pockets to keep their neighbors' sheep without any charge. They never can have neat farms without them. The reason they are not kept by every farmer is that dogs are so destructive to them. They furnish the best animal food. A family can eat a sheep without letting the meat spoil. More mutton and less fat bacon would be better for farmers.

But farmers can keep sheep, even with dogs around them, if they will take some precautionary measures. If a number of large bells are put upon sheep, the noise produced when dogs are in sight will drive them away. They want to do the destruction so no one will know it. If sheep are kept with cattle, and dogs pursue them, instinct teaches them to run to the cattle for protection; and, if the dogs still pursue, the cattle will fight off the dogs. This we have seen done. But to make the keeping of sheep doubly sure, a yard near the house or stable, with a high fence to inclose the sheep at night, is what is needed. The sheep will soon get accustomed to coming to their sleeping quarters and it will not make much labor to securely enclose them every night. —Colman's Rural World.

The following from Root's Garden Manual is good:

Remember, tillage is manure, tillage is earliness, tillage is moisture in drouth and you cannot give too much of it; and one horse with a cultivator is worth ten men with hoes.

Till deep with cabbage and shallow with onions and turnips. Earth up fibrous rooted plants, like cabbage, corn, etc., but not edible rooted crops, like beets, carrots and parsnips; nor should these last be worked deep after they are well along in size, or they will put out side shoots and grow scraggy.

If possible, transplant upon fresh plowed land before the surface is dry. Generally roots are struck quicker without watering, than upon other lands with it.

Probably more failures than successes follow soaking seeds, especially the finer seeds. Corn and beet seeds are the most certain to be profited.

It requires ten or twelve acres of land to support one person on meat alone; for one acre employed in feeding cattle only produces eight or ten ounces per day, and it requires from five to ten pounds of flesh a day to support one man if he live on flesh alone. The quantity of land required to keep one ox will produce an abundant supply of vegetable food for at least four persons. One acre of wheat, barley, oats or corn, will support two or three persons; one of potatoes or yams, enough nourishment for nine persons; and Humboldt estimates that an acre planted with bananas is sufficient to support fifty men.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO

18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

BY REV. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.

338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.

Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.

In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.

This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:

"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."

This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry.

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY

United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
18 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$2 75.
Single copy.....25 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROURMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.

Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.

GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Free." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT

Masonic Scoundrelism

Within the Court House.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express..$6 00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer,

10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail; By Express, per 100 $6 00.

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 5, 1877.

Wheaton College.

Our readers will overlook any seeming partiality toward this institution on the part of this paper during the continuance of the war upon it, when they remember the close and important relation it has borne from the beginning towards our reform. Long before opposition to the lodge had assumed an organized capacity, Wheaton College was well and widely known to be as uncompromising in its opposition to the lodge as ever it has been since.

It is enough to say without bringing in a long array of particulars to prove the statement, that if it had been "judiciously" instead of actively reformatory, the present attack would have been unknown. This attack it is known was sheltered behind a petition, numerously signed, demanding a transfer of the institution to the Congregationalists. The culmination of the battle was expected in connection with the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Tuesday, June 26th. This body met on that day and proceeded with its usual business. The resignations of Judge W. W. Farwell and Mr. Jesse C. Wheaton as members of the Board were accepted, and the vacancies filled by electing Hon. Samuel Plumb, President of the Home National Bank, Streator, Ill., a gentleman of large experience in the Ohio Legislature and in Oberlin College Board; and Mr. M. R. Britten, of Vienna, Wisconsin, a well known name in connection with our reform. During the meeting of the Board the following changes were made in the Faculty: Prof. J. C. Webster was retired from the chair of Rhetoric and Logic; E. D. Bailey, A. B., was elected Principal of the Preparatory Department, and Miss Mary E. Nash acting Principal of the Ladies Department. The Treasurer's report showed the indebtedness, including interest and notes given for salaries, to be about $26,000. This amount is due to members of the Faculty and to two of the endowments almost entirely. The members of the Faculty have been with one exception inadequately paid. For the past year Professors Lunry, C. A. Blanchard, Fischer; Tutors Bailey and Moffatt and Miss Nash have received less than $1400 cash and $316 in tuitions. The petition before mentioned was presented on Tuesday and reads thus:

"Wheaton, Ill., May 17, 1877.—To the Trustees of Wheaton College—Gentlemen: Whereas, It is represented that the number of students attending Wheaton College has been reduced to about one hundred; that its liabilities amount to mare than $23,000, exclusive of one year's interest, nearly due; that the tuition and interest on endowment funds are not sufficient to pay the current expenses of the College; that the deficit is being yearly charged against the College, and that the aggregate indebtedness will soon equal the value of the whole property; and that it was the understanding of certain donors in 1861, when the transfer by the Wesleyans was made, that the Congregational Society should thereafter control the College; the undersigned, who are friendly to and personally interested in the welfare of the College, do therefore respectfully suggest that an effort be made by your honorable body to have the Congregationalists of this State assume the indebtedness of the college, and hereafter exercise full control of all its interests. We believe that such a change will greatly increase the attendance of students, and naturally enhance the value of the college property."

This was referred to a committee who reported that the reasons be required for such a petition. They also reported "that they see no way in which the legal transfer and control suggested by the petitioners can be accomplished. The genius of Congregationalism is such that it declines to control the societies that it employs in its work of charity. Its control over any corporation is only a moral one of patronage and endowment. The precise change sought seems to be beset with difficulties." Thursday forenoon was the time set for hearing the petitioners. The number claimed to have signed was four hundred from all parts of the county, and even outside, among parties who neither have had nor are ever likely to have any interest in the institution except to look upon its walls and towers rising to view from far across the country; but the bearers of the petition could show but two hundred and fifty names and gave no satisfactory account of the rest. It is known that some signers demanded the erasure of their names when the real intent of the petition appeared, and numerous others were free to express their indignation at the imposition. On Thursday morning before the hour for hearing the petitioners, one member of the Board asked leave to read a paper handed him by a Mr. H. B. Patrick, of the petition managers, promising an endeavor to raise $10,000 for the College if President Blanchard and his son Prof. C. A. Blanchard were turned out. He was interrupted in the reading by cries of indignation from several members at such a shameless attempt at bribery, and made a confused apology.

The Board adjourned to the large lecture room to hear the getters up of the petition. About sixty persons were present beside the Board, a large proportion being the known friends of the College; among the rest might be seen now and then the sparkle of a Masonic badge. Rev. Mr. Beekman of Byron, Ill., offered prayer. Mr. James F. Claflin of Lombard, Ill., appeared as the Tertullus of the occasion. He eulogized the signers of the petition, said they were of all churches and political parties and were generally religious men. He invoked the question of Masonry to say that this was not a Masonic movement, but two of the outside "executive committee" on the College were Freemasons and they had tried to keep away for a year or two. He arraigned the Board for loaning from endowment funds to pay other debts; but after a long argument he found his time had been wasted, for the Board agreed entirely with him on the advisability of such loans and had taken measures to repay them all. After speaking an hour and a half in making his opening argument, he began the real reason of the managers of the petition, a personal attack on the character of the Chairman of the Board and President of the College. Mr. Plumb and others interrupted him as proceeding in a disorderly manner. He endeavored to edge in something and even threatened in thundering tones that if the Board refused to hear, the case would be taken to a higher tribunal, where justice would be meted out with an unsparing hand. He was matched, however, and a unanimous vote of the Board decided that no personal attacks should be allowed upon any member. It was also objected that nothing is said about President Blanchard in the petition. In this appears the hypocrisy of that paper, for the speaker intimated clearly that the main argument to be presented was an attack on the "personalities" of the Chairman of the Board. This main argument had been reduced to writing he said, and the reading was called for. Mr. J. M. Chapman who held it, and is understood to be its responsible author, began its persual; but, perhaps forgetting the vote of the Board just taken which shut off the best part of the address, or being totally unfamiliar with his manuscript, he neglected to skip a personal reference of little credit to its author at least. Members of the Board called him to order for insulting them. He was bid go on, but directly a too willing tongue tripped upon another passage of the same kind, and he was told to go and sit down; which he did. Old citizens of Wheaton upon the Board were roused with indignation at this development of the real design of the getters up of the petition and declared that it would not be endured.

Having learned the "reasons for the petition" the Board proceeded to finish the business of the session. The following paper in answer to the petition was presented by Mr. M. R. Britten and adopted.

Whereas, A paper numerously signed, has been laid before this Board, suggesting that we make an effort "To have the Congregationalists of this State assume the indebtedness of the College, and hereafter exercise full control of all its interests." In answer to said paper,

Resolved, That this Board would be happy to have so large and respectable a body of people as "the Congregationalists of Illinois" assume the indebtedness of the College and extend to it their confidence and co-operation. But we see the following obstacles to their assuming "full control of all its interests," viz.:

1. The College belongs in trust to the present Board of Trustees, under an act of the Illinois Legislature, and we have no power to delegate our trust-power to other persons any more than executors of a will can delegate their powers to others.

2. We are not aware that the friends of the principles of the College are dissatisfied with its being controlled by the present Board.

3. "The General (Congregational) Association of Illinois," which is probably the body meant by the drawers of the petition, has, we believe, no corporate existence, and cannot own or "control" a college or a foot of real estate; nor do we know of a college on earth owned and "controlled" by a Congregational Association. This paper, therefore, asks a sheer impossibility, owing to the ignorance or mistake of the drawers of the petition. And if these insurmountable obstacles to the prayer of the petitioners did not exist, the State Congregational Association of Illinois could not adopt and control Wheaton College, as requested by this paper, without bad faith to Beloit, Knox and Jacksonville Colleges, from which they receive annual reports, and to which they send visiting committees.

We, therefore, respectfully suggest to the signers that they have been wholly misled by the drawers and circulators of this petition; and, while we respectfully thank them for their sincere wishes for the welfare of the College, we assure them that it will be our aim, as the legal guardians of the College, in the future as in the past, so to conduct its affairs as to secure their approbation, so far as we can do so consistently with the avowed principles of the College by its Wesleyan founders, and our own conscientious obligations as its legal Board of Trustees.

Mr. Isaac Claflin resigned his position as Trustee and Rev. G. W. Bainum of Bunker Hill, Ill., elected in his place.

The finance committee reported and the report was adopted as follows:

1st. In fidelity to God and our pledge to the Wesleyan Methodist founders of this institution, we will continue our testimony against secret societies.

2d. We recommend a subscription by the Board of Trust of personal pledges (with the privilege of raising the amount so pledged from the friends of this institution), to be paid in cash or good obligations, drawing 8 per cent. interest, on or before the next annual meeting. All subscriptions or pledges as above, are upon the condition that $25,000 be secured.

3d. That the Executive Committee employ, and set to work at an early day, such agencies as will secure the final payment of the entire indebtedness of the College.

The finance question was then grappled in earnest and $8,000 immediately pledged and other amounts reported conditionally.

The Board separated with great unanimity of feeling. They had met and repulsed a desperate attack of which all doubt as to its parentage had disappeared. Seeing this they were more than ever determined to maintain the College in its reform principles to the last. Never was the conviction stronger in their minds, and among friends of the institution outside, that its future history would be illustrious and its influence for truth and Christian education most powerful.

—Rev. H. H. Hinman is to speak this week in Aurora, the Town Hall, the birthplace of our national reform, having been engaged. As many have expressed a desire to hear Mr. Ronayne in Aurora this lecture may introduce a course of expositions. From Aurora Bro. Hinman goes to Algonquin next Sabbath, then to Clintonville and Belvidere. The week following he visits Dewitt and Baxter, Iowa, and other points in Monroe county, going from there to Page county in the southwestern part of the State. With the co-operation of brethren Phillips, Morrison and Adams of College Springs he may from this point as a center visit other localities in that vicinity.

—The first annual meeting of the Dodge county, Minn., Christian Association met last week on Monday and Tuesday, as we are informed by the bill. The Convention was held in the Seventh Day Baptist church of Dodge Center, and was to be addressed by Rev. James Hankins of Mason City, Iowa. The notice says: "The Masonic fraternity of the county are challenged to discuss the question, 'Is the testimony of seceded Masons reliable?' John Martin, M. D., will open the discussion on the affirmative. Other questions, such as, 'Is Freemasonry a religious institution?' will be considered. All persons, especially Masons, are invited to attend and participate in the discussion." We expect a report soon of this interesting meeting.

—Past Master Ronayne, having recovered in a good degree from his illness, expects to fill an appointment at Arrowsmith, McLean Co., Ill., July 10th to 12th. He will work the three degrees for the benefit of the community and especially the Masonic portion ot it.

—Friend Chalfant of Pennsylvania, writes of a vigorous effort preparing to bring our reform work more prominently before the people of that State. We have not learned his plans further than that he is acting in concert with the State Association, and we heartily wish him success. He desires friends in the State who are interested to address him at York, York Co., for farther particulars of his plans.

—Masonic arrogance has raised an embroglio over the corner-stone of the soldiers' monument to be erected on Boston Common. The Freemasons want all the ceremony, all the records, and, of course, all the glory. The Grand Army of the Republic imagines it has some interest in the soldiers, and the non-Masonic part of it are especially sore from the exercise of Masonic elbows. The G. A. R. will therefore scornfully stand aloof, though the click of the Masonic trowel and the spattering of the corn, wine and oil upon Masonic broadcloth meanwhile makes mournful music to their ears. The fact is, neither of these organizations should be allowed to touch the business. They both perpetuate principles directly hostile to those upon which our government is founded and for which our fathers, sons and brothers died in war.

News of the Week.

—President Hayes and his family have gone out to the Soldiers' Home near Washington, and will spend the heated term there. They occupy one of the handsome cottages originally built for the officers of the institution. The house is large, airy, and well shaded, and is known as the President's house from the fact that it was in former years frequently used as a summer home for the President. The last occupant was Mr. Lincoln, who spent two or three months of every summer there.

—A tornado rivalling that which lately visited Mt. Carmel, Ill., visited on Saturday various parts of Illinois, Indiana, and Pennsylvania. At O'Fallon Station, Ill., in Morgan, Johnson, Shelby, Rush, Henry, and Wayne Counties, Ind., and at Eacildown, a small village near Coatesville Pa., great destruction of life and property resulted.

—A dispatch from Paris says the College of Cardinals, now sitting in Rome, has resolved to instruct the French clergy to actively support the candidate of President MacMahon in the approaching election in France.

—The following dispatches give the latest from the war:

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 1.—The Porte has published the following official dispatch:

"The Russians, defying the rights of humanity, and without any military necessity, have completely destroyed the flourishing town of Rustchuk, which is now nothing but a heap of ruins. They spared neither mosques, churches, hospitals or public buildings. We hereby make known their act to the justice and humanity of Europe."

July 1.—There seems to be an intention to attack Shumla from the southeast. This measure clearly indicates the intention of the Turks to abandon the line of the Danube, holding on to Rustchuk and Silistria as long as possible, and to fall back to the Balkans. They see clearly their inability to stem the tide of Russian invasion, and that one or two decisive battles must place Bulgaria at the mercy of their revenge. They look on the Czar's proclamation as an incitement to Bulgarian insurrection, and anticipate a rising as soon as the Russians advance from the river. The Bulgarians might as well die fighting like men for their liberty as perish miserably of hunger in their homes.

—The latest authentic information from the Russian headquarters shows that the Russian loss in crossing the Danube at Sistova was only 200 men killed. The first reports were greatly exaggerated, and owing to the absence of official returns for some days, it was impossible to ascertain the exact loss.

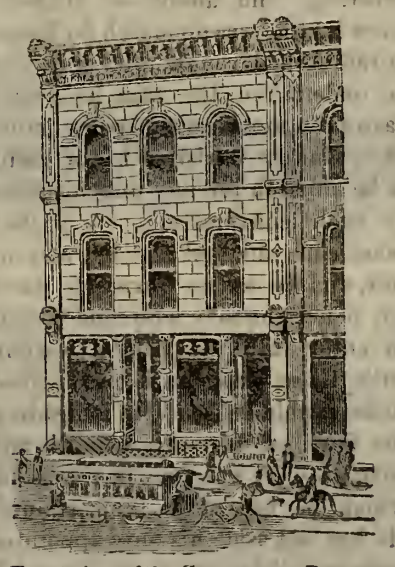
CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30—Saturday evening.—A terrible battle is progressing near Sistova. Reinforcements are being hastily forwarded from Rustchuk, Shumla and Nikopolis. The Turks are still holding their ground, and their artillery is inflicting great loss upon the Russians.

PARIS, July 1.—Saib Pasha's army has fallen back to North Albania. Montenegro is out of danger.

NEW YORK, July 2d—3:50 A. M.—A correspondent in Vienna telegraphs that trustworthy information has been received from Turkish sources that the Turks are devastating a large portion of Bulgaria for the purpose of preventing the Russians from provisioning their army. The harvest has been carried off, the fruit trees have been felled, and the torch has been applied to the large grass plains. Everything that could be of any use to an invading army has been removed or destroyed, and the people are left in utter destitution.

The utmost consternation prevails among the unfortunate people, who see no prospect before them but famine and pestilence, added to the horrors of war.

—A Berlin correspondent telegraphs that Minister J. Bancroft Davis has insisted upon the acceptance of his resignation, despite the refusal of the State Department at Washington to accept it, and that he will certainly return to America after Independence Day on a leave of absence.



Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE-PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

"The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago,
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer. E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.

For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.

Others who will lecture when desired:—

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wis.
C. F. Hawley, Damascovilie, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton, Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Chicago.

The Home Circle.

"THE PALACE O' THE KING."

It's a bonnie, bonnie warl' that we're llvin' in the noo,
An' sunny is the lan' we often traivel throo;
But in vain we look for something to which our hearts can cling,
For its beauty is ae naething to the palace of the King.

We like the gilded simmer, wi' its merry, merry tread,
An' we sigh when hoary winter lays its beauties wi' the dead;
For though bonnie are the snaw-flakes, and the down on Winter's wing,
It's fine to ken it daurna touch the palace o' the King.

Then, again, I've juist been thinkin' that when 'a thing here'e eae bricht,
The sun in 'a its grandeur, the mune wi' quiv-erin' licht,
The ocean i' the simmer, or the woodland i' the spring,
What maun it be up yonner i' the palace o' the King.

It's here we has oor trials, an' it's here that he prepares
A' his chosen for the raiment which the ransomed sinner wears.
An' it'e here that he wad hear us, 'mid oor tribulations sing,
"We'll trust oor God wha reigneth i' the palace o' the King."

Though his palace is up yonner, he has kingdoms here below,
An' we are his ambassadors, wherever we may go;
We've a message to deliver, an we've lost anes hame to bring,
To be leal an' loyal-hearted i' the palace o' the King.

Oh! its honor heaped on honor that his courtiers should be ta'en,
Frae the wand'rin' anes he died for, i' this warl' o' sin an' pain,
An' it's fu'est love an' service that the Christian aye should bring
To the feet o' him wha reigneth i' the palace o' the King.

An' lat us trust him better than we've ever done afore,
For the King will feed his servants frae his ever bounteous store;
Lat us keep a closer grip o' him, for time is on the wing,
An' sune he'll come an' tak' us to the palace o' the King.

Its ivory halls are bonnie, upon which the rainbows shine,
An' its Eden bow'rs are trellised wi' a never-fadin' Vine;
An' the pearly gates o' heaven do a glorious radiance fling
On the starry floor that shimmers i' the palace o' the King.

Nae nicht shall be in heaven, an' nae desolatin' sea,
And nae tyraut hoofs shall trample i' the city o' the free;
There's an everlastin' daylight, an' a never-fadin' spring,
Where the Lamb is a' the glory, i' the palace o' the King.

We see oor friends await us ower yonner at his gate,
Then lat us a' be ready, for ye ken it's gettin' late;
Lat oor lamps be brichtly burnin'; lat's raise oor voice and sing,
Sune we'll meet, to pairt nae mair i' the palace o' the King!

—Selected.

ANSWER HIM NOT.

When Hezekiah reigned in Jerusalem, Rabshakeh invaded the land, and with many insulting taunts demanded the surrender of the city, but through all his insults and words of scorn we read, "The people held their peace and answered him not a word; for the king's command was, answer him not." 2 Kings xviii : 36.

Something like this is the position of good men when assailed by taunts and sneers and slanders and insults and insinuations. The temptation to resist and retaliate is very strong. It is so easy to think what might be said; and the unruly tongue is so ready to say it; that it is a great restraint to forego the ready answer, and allow our enemies to say their words without reply; yet this is often the safest and wisest way. One of the severest tests of soldierly courage and strength is to stand exposed to the shots of the enemy while forbidden to return the fire. The men who would rush to the charge with a ringing cheer; or who would return an enemy's fire with zeal, shudder and grow pale as they are required to stand unresisting, beneath the volleys of their foes, exposed to danger and denied the privilege of assailing their foes.

The help which Judah needed in that day was not attainable through the scolding of embassadors, or bandying taunts and sneers. "Hard words break no bones;" and though they sometimes grieve hearts, yet in answering them we are quite certain to increase the grief. When Michael the archangel contended with the devil about the body of Moses, he "durst not bring a railing accusation against him." The devil never was conquered by scolding or swearing, and doubtless Michael knew that he was no match for Satan in railing and rough talk, and had he undertaken the task he would have been most certainly discomfited. And no Christian has a right to be a match for any ungodly man in such conversation. A wicked man can rail, and slander, and insult, and lie as no Christian dares do; hence the man who condescends to enter into the field of warfare with these weapons, is predestined to inevitable defeat. He is fighting the devil on his own ground, and with his own weapons, in the use of which he has never been trained. He has laid aside his only appointed weapon,—"the sword of the spirit which is the Word of God,"—and has taken to himself those implements which Satan provides, and which only ensure defeat; and so the air is filled with the sound of unseemly broils, of bitter words spoken by lips which should be touched with coals from off the altar of God; and time, strength, opportunity and money are spent, not in publishing salvation; not in preaching righteousness; not in saving the lost; but in striving to compete with the devil in his chosen field of godless enterprise, and say words which must be accounted for to God in the judgment day.

Let the policy of silence take the place of this worse than useless strife, and let the Christian, standing on the high eminence of gospel faith, and engaged in the glorious labor which the Lord appoints; when assailed and insulted by "unreasonable and wicked men," take heed to the commandment of the good king Hezekiah, and "answer not a word." Silence cannot be contradicted, and he who can bridle his own tongue, will soon find that God is able to care for the tongues of his enemies.—The Armory.

THE SILVER BELLS.

In Eastern poetry they tell of a wondrous tree, on which grew golden apples and silver bells; and every time the breeze went by and tossed the fragrant branches, a shower of these golden apples fell, and the living bells chimed and tinkled forth their airy ravishment. On the gospel tree there grow melodious blossoms; sweeter bells than those which mingled with the pomegranates on Aaron's vest: holy feelings, heaven-taught joys; and when the wind bloweth where he listeth, the south wind waking, when the Holy Spirit breathes upon that soul, there is the shaking down of mellow fruits, and the flow of healthy odors all around, and the gush of sweetest music, where gentle tones and joyful echoings are wafted through the recesses of the soul. Not easily explained to others, and too ethereal to define, these joys are on that account but the more delightful. The sweet sense of forgiveness; the conscious exercise of all the devout affections and grateful and adoring emotions God-ward; the lull of sinful passions, itself ecstatic music; an exulting sense of the security of the well-ordered covenant; the gladness of surety—righteousness and the kind spirit of adoption, encouraging to say, "Abba, Father;" all the delightful feeling which the spirit of God increases or creates, and which are summed up in that comprehensive word, "Joy in the Holy Ghost."—Dr. James Hamilton.

TEACH CHILDREN TO CONVERSE.

Very few people know the real value of being able to converse well. And yet, is there really any accomplishment that is as valuable and delightful? Ambitious mothers exert every energy to have their daughters accomplished in music, drawing, painting, to have them perfected in science and literature, but how few think of the one over crowning excellence of all, the art to convey to others in a clear, sensible and attractive manner, the stores of the mind. Great care should be taken to make the ideas of children correct; they should be taught to look carefully at small things—at everything desirable to know at all; to understand thoroughly, and then learn to communicate this, first by talking, and then by writing about it. In this way, by imperceptible degrees, children learn to converse well, to write well, to spell well and to compose well. To write and to speak their thoughts, becomes not only easy, but a real pleasure, and growing up strongly with a modest confidence in themselves, because what they know is transparent to their minds they avoid that timidity and appearance of stupidity so commonly the fate of those who have never learned to unravel their tangled ideas. The difference lies in being taught to think without having the ideas confused, as they are in ill-regulated and superficial educations; and this is why this careful training should be begun in the nursery.

The man and woman who can write and converse well has always at command a charming source of entertainment for friends.—Selected.

STEADFASTNESS.

"Have you changed your opinion regarding political matters?" said a visitor to an eminent statesman of Massachusetts years ago.

"Go out to-morrow morning and look at Bunker Hill Monument, and see if it has walked off into Boston harbor, and if it has, then come and ask me if I have changed my opinion."

There are men who are carried about with every wind of doctrine, but they are trees without roots. They have not been established in Christ; they are not rooted and grounded in love; they do not know the truth as it is in Jesus; and they have not learned to know him who is the way, the truth, and the life. The ungodly are like chaff, driven by every tempest, swept by every breeze, tossed to and fro by every adverse influence; but the righteous stand secure; their foundation is deep laid upon the solid rock; they are like trees planted by the rivers of water, with spreading branches it is true, but also with deep-set roots. Those whose faith stands not in the wisdom of men but in the power of God, have little cause for fear or change; they know whom they have believed; they rest upon the foundation which God has laid in Zion; they trust in that word which "shall not pass though heaven and earth depart;" they believe in him who abideth faithful, who cannot deny himself.

A deeper and more intimate acquaintance with God and his Word will rectify the waywardness of the human heart, and change the vacillation of the double-minded man who "is unstable in all his ways," to the stability of him whose heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord. Since God changes not; since his word abideth secure; since Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever; since the hope of the Christian is like an anchor to the soul; "let us be steadfast and unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord; forasmuch as we know that our labor is not in vain in the Lord."—The Armory.

Combat all thy discontent through prayer, every care through faith every fear through hope.

God being what he is, his church must be secure for time and for eternity.

The Calm Depths.

Shallow waters are easily muddled. After a night of storm, the waters of the bay along the beach, stirred by the winds, are foul and black with the mire and dirt. But look beyond, out into the deep water—how blue and clear it is! The white caps on the surface show the violence of the wind, but the water is too deep for the storms that sweep the surface to stir up the earth at the bottom.

So in the Christian experience. A shallow experience is easily disturbed: the merest trifles becloud and darken the soul whose piety is superficial; while the most furious storms of life fail to darken or perturb the soul which has attained a deep experience of the things of God. The agitation may produce a sparkle on the surface, but in the calm depths of such a spirit reigns eternal tranquility, the peace of God that passeth all understanding. —W. F. Ward.

Children's Corner.

Self-Sacrifice.

"I should like to be a martyr!"

Little May Ford looked up at her mother as she spoke, her soft brown eyes bright with excitement, her cheeks glowing. She had been reading of the early Christian martyrs, who for Christ's sake had endured death and tortures worse than death. Sensitive and enthusiastic, the child had entered into the spirit of her book till her whole tiny frame trembled with excitement.

"Do you know the first principle of martyrdom?" her mother asked.

"Love Christ," was the quick reply.

"Self-sacrifice!" said her mother. "Love of Christ beyond the love of self. A selfish person has no martyr spirit."

The child hung her head in silence. She knew that she was selfish in her heart. An only child, petted and indulged because of her weak health, she had never been denied any reasonable gratification, and had certainly never denied herself any pleasure for the sake of others. Of late, this had so grown upon her that her mother had talked often with her upon the importance of weeding out this grave fault.

It was Saturday, and in the afternoon there was to be a party of young folks gathered to celebrate the birthday of May's cousin Julia. The house in which her aunt lived was at some distance from her own home, and May was to start soon after the early dinner, and be brought home in her father's carryall after nightfall, for it was winter weather, and the evenings were long. Before her musing over the unselfishness of the early martyrs was quite over, May was summoned to dinner. Dressing followed, and in a new merino, with her curls tied with fresh, bright ribbon, well cloaked and hooded, the little girl started for her long walk. Her home lay on the outskirts of a village, and the houses stood far apart on the way. As she came near one, where a widow lived with a little girl, May saw a woman at the door beckoning to her.

"Oh, Miss May," the widow cried, as she drew nearer, "come here, my dear, quickly. The Lord surely sent you, for I've been watching the road a good hour, and nobody's passed. Lizzie's fell off a chair and broke her arm."

"Lizzie!" May cried.

"Hear her—poor dear!" the mother sobbed. "You'll go for the doctor, Miss May?"

A doctor! May hesitated. The doctor lived quite at the end of the village, more than two miles from the cottage where the poor child moaned and cried. She followed the widow into the house, and saw the little girl, not three years old, crying with the pain, all flushed with the fever. She needed a doctor sorely. But the party! Already it was nearly three o'clock, and it would be quite dusk before she could reach the doctor's and return. While she stood irresolute, she remembered her mother's words: "A selfish person has no martyr's spirit."

Would it be one step toward that glorious self-sacrifice she had thought so easy to reach, if she gave up the birthday party for the sake of the suffering child? It was a hard struggle, for May had seldom been called upon for any sacrifice of her own pleasure. But the good prevailed.

"I will go, Mrs. Morse," she said.

"Hurry, then, deary, for its long now since the poor child was hurt. Hurry, deary."

Through the cold wind the little girl hastened back by the way she had come, turning off at the village road going quickly toward the doctor's house. He was not at home, and she was directed to a house where he might be found. There May was asked to wait, and time seemed very long before her message was delivered, and the doctor on his way to the sufferer.

Dusk was falling, and Mrs. Ford was lighting the lamp in the sitting room, when a little cloaked figure appeared in the doorway.

"Why, May," she cried, "I thought you were at your aunt's."

With a trembling lip May told her story.

"And you went all the way to the village for the doctor?" asked her mother.

"Yes, mamma, and up to Mrs. Wright's afterward. But I found him, and he has gone. It is too late to go to Julia's now. I am afraid after dark."

"Yes, dear, it is too late. Papa will stop, as he comes home, for you. But suppose you go with me down to Mrs. Morse's again, and will carry a basket of things for Lizzie. They are very poor, and Mrs. Morse will want medicines and some nice food."

"I should like that," May said.

She worked busily under her mother's direction, gathering old linen bandages, jellies, and such articles as promised to be useful. When the basket was ready, she stood half reluctant to speak, but with a new resolve. Her own treasure of toys and books had never been shared with any one, and another of the forms of selfishness had been her love of accumulating such a storehouse of pretty things as but few of her companions possessed. "Mamma," she said at last, "may I take my china doll to Lizzie? She has no toys, I am sure."

"Yes, dear."

The doll was found, put in the basket, and another long cold walk taken; but this time, with mamma, it seemed much shorter. After the basket was emptied, a neighbor was found to help Mrs. Morse during the night, and such help given as was needed. Mrs. Ford and May started homeward just as papa with the carryall passed on the road in time to take them back.

"Mamma," May asked, when her prayers were said, and her mother bent over her for a good-night kiss, "please tell me if that was a martyr spirit?"

Her mother understood her in a moment.

"Yes, darling," she said, "the same spirt of self-sacrifice that helped you deny yourself a gratification this afternoon to help another, is the one that gave the martyrs courage to face death. Little by little it will strengthen as you put self aside, and add prayer and love of Christ to your heart-work, until you are by grace made worthy to stand where they stood in sight of your Heavenly Father."

"But, mamma, people are not burned and tortured now, if they are Christians."

"No, dear, those cruel days are over; and yet as you grow older you will find many occasions to test your devotion as one of Christ's followers. Now you are overcoming a fault that is the greatest of all obstacles to true Christianity."

"But, mamma, I cannot understand exactly how it was Christ's work or service; it was for Lizzie Morse I gave up the party—to help her."

"True, dear, but Jesus himself says to those who are kind to little children that it is, in his sight, as if they were kind to him. Over and over in his word he bids us to care for his children, to guard against offending them, and to cherish them for his sake."

It was a precious thought to take to May's heart, as she closed her eyes, and it was the beginning of a complete change in the little girl. Many of her play hours were spent with Lizzie, while the widow was sewing for daily bread, and the child's fretfulness was borne patiently with the thought of the martyr spirit strong in May's mind.

It was a hard battle, for there is no foe so strong as a selfish heart, no fault so easily cherished; but May perseveres and day by day grows more to the unselfish spirit that will be in her womanhood her own greatest beauty, and the comfort of all who love her.—Presb. Banner.

Puzzle Drawer.

Ari, Noble Co., Ind., June 12, 1877.

My father takes the Cynosure. I have tried to study out some of the puzzles. As I cannot study out any of them I thought I would send one for some one else to study at.

I am composed of 9 letters.
My 6, 2, 8 and 4 is a head-dress for the ladies.
My 4, 2 and 1 is the name of a domestic animal.
My 4, 7, 8 and 9 is the name of a wild animal.
My 5, 2 and 4 is the name of a fish.
My whole is the name of a popular singing book.

Clark Bowman.

Chunibus Co., Ind., June 12, 1877.

Mr. Editor: In your paper bearing date of June 7th I saw Ruth Beach's enigma and have concluded the answer to be "United Brethren." I also enclose the following enigma to you for insertion if found worthy:

I am composed of 12 letters.
My 6, 9, 11 and 7 is the name of a flower.
My 8, 5 and 10 is a boy's nickname.
My 8, 9, 6 and 11 is a part of a domestic fowl.
My 2, 9, 11 and 6 is never found in a level country.
My 10, 9 and 1 is generally used in driving horses.
My 1, 3, 12, 1 and 4 are found in the head of all animals.
My whole is the name of a book giving valuable information.

H. P. Zimmerman.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXVIII.—July 15, 1877.—TURNING TO THE GENTILES.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 13: 42-52. Commit 44-48.

42. And when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them the next Sabbath.

43. Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas; who, speaking to them, persuaded them to continue in the grace of God.

44. And the next Sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45. But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and spake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

46 Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, It was necessary that the Word of God should first have been spoken to you but seeing ye put it from you and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47. For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

48. And when the Gentiles heard this they were glad, and glorified the Word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

49. And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region.

50. But the Jews stirred up the devout and honorable women, and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51. But they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52. And the disciples were filled with joy, and with the Holy Ghost.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"And in his name shall the Gentiles trust." Matt. 12: 21.

THE RESULTS OF PAUL'S COURSE.

I. To the Gentiles it brought blessing, (vs. 48, 49.)

1. Gladness, on account of their distinguished privilege, (v. 48.)

2. Praise, (v. 48.) "They glorified," or honored, "the word of the Lord," i. e., the Gospel. They admired the divine plan of salvation and praised God for it.

3. Faith, (v. 48.) They, and perhaps others, actually believed and embraced the Gospel. Only so many, however, as were "ordained to eternal life" did so. Whether the word ordained means, as it probably does, appointed, predestinated, or, as some think, graciously disposed, in either case it implies the need of a divine purpose and agency, without which faith would not be exercised or salvation communicated. God's sovereignty, election and predestination are, therefore, taught in this passage as elsewhere, Eph. 1: 4, 5; Rom. 8: 28-30; 9: 16.

4. Missionary zeal, (v. 49.) Not Antioch alone, but the whole country round about became the scene of Christian activity. That the Gentiles were the only laborers, is not affirmed. Paul and Barnabas, we are sure, took an active part in the circulation of truth, and Jewish converts did the same. The Gentiles, however, were the most numerous workers. But, again,

II. To the Jews Paul's course brought enmity and opposition, (v. 50.) By Jews are meant, not all those of Jewish ancestry, but those alone who rejected the Gospel. Being few and out of power, however, they could accomplish their designs only in a circuitous manner. Hence,

1. They "stirred up" or incited, "the devout and honorable women" to give their assistance. These were proselyte Gentile women of high families. Through them they reached "the chief men of the city"—either their husbands or friends—who had political influence or social power. Thus,

2. They "raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and,

3. "Expelled them out of their coasts," or the frontiers of the district in which Antioch was. Perhaps this was done by a city edict for the sake of the "peace," though we find them returning after a time, (14: 21.) Certainly there was some kind of compulsion used.

III. To the apostles themselves came two results.

1. Banishment, as we have just seen.

But this only gave them an opportunity of going elsewhere to preach. "They came to Iconium"—the modern Konieh, about 60 miles (90 by road) southeast of Antioch, famous as the cradle of the rising power of the conquering Turks. Another result was,

2 Holy indignation, (v. 51,) expressed by shaking off the dust of their feet against their persecutors. This was done in obedience to Christ's command, (Matt. 10:14,) and, like Abel's blood, (Gen. 4: 7,) testified to heaven against the guilty, (Luke 9:5)

IV. To the disciples of all classes, as a final result, was brought spiritual joy, (v. 52.) "They gloried in tribulations also." Rom. 5: 3-5; Acts 5: 41.—Evangelical Repository.

Commencement at Wheaton.

The opening exercises of Commencement week at Wheaton College were described last week. On Monday evening, June 25, the Literary Societies held their exhibition. Heavy rains during the afternoon and evening prevented an attendance such as the merit of the performance deserved.

The alumni reunion and supper on Tuesday evening was heartily participated in and well attended by members of the Association from widely scattered points. The public literary exercises in the evening were well appreciated by a large gathering of friends. The Rev. A. J. Bailey, of Hennepin, Ill., of the class of '68, gave the address on "The Patience of Truth," and Miss Hattie Furguson, '71, of Jefferson City, Mo., read in graceful style an essay on "Influence." Prof. Baker sang a solo, "Waves of Ocean," with the popular effect which always greets his appearance, and hardly less enjoyable was the quartette of Misses Smith, Eva and Felicia Hiatt and C. W. Hiatt. The business meeting of the Alumni followed. Prof. E. D. Bailey was elected President in place of the retiring officer, the Rev. L. N. Stratton, of Syracuse, N. Y., editor of the American Wesleyan. J. F. Snyder, Esq., of this city, was chosen for next year's orator.

At an adjourned business meeting the following paper was voted as an expression of confidence in the present management of the College:

Whereas, A petition is known to be in circulation in this and neighboring counties, which by interpretations given to it in the Wheaton Illinoian and Chicago papers, is intended to reflect on the character and qualifications of the President of Wheaton College and some of his associates in the Faculty; therefore Resolved, 1. That we, the Associated Alumni of Wheaton College, hereby express our undiminished confidence in the members of the Faculty who have been thus attacked, both as instructors and Christians.

2. That in doing so we desire to express no opinions on personal differences that may have existed or do exist between members of the Faculty.

3. That we hereby express our earnest desire that nothing may be done by the Board of Trustees which shall the position the College has taken in relation to popular or unpopular Christian reforms.

Commencement day dawned fair. Hundreds had come in from all directions, representatives from far into the southern portion of the State, from Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana, Michigan and even New York city. The exercises are well reported in the following from the Tribune of this city:

Promptly at the programme hour the beautiful and commodious chapel of the College was filled from wall to wall with an eager and enthusiastic audience, which crowded platform, aisles, windows, and every hall leading to the room. The cool day was in their favor, and made more acute their interest in the closing exercises of the year. The hall was trimmed simply but in excellent taste with festoons of evergreen, the class and college mottoes, and the theme "God and Universal Education the Strength of our Republic."

President Blanchard announced the beginning of the exercises with an opening hymn. At the request of the graduating class Prof. F. G. Baker, of the college, sang Julia Ward Howe's majestic hymn to the "John Brown song," the audience joining in the chorus heartily.

The Rev. T. G. Grassie, of Sycamore, led thought and hope heavenward in an address to the throne of grace.

The Wheaton Orchestral Band discoursed Weingarten's "Golden Wedding Galop."

The president then introduced salutatorian Miss M. C. Bent, of Wheaton, who joined her sweet-toned welcome to friends and instructors with an essay, "Grapes of Eshcol." The tramp of mighty Isreal through the desert, and their their joy at greeting their forerunners into the promised land laden with the clusters from its vine-clad hills, suggested the promised land lying ahead in the sanguine hope of lively aspirations. The few only, however, who meet the cahnakims of opposition with manly trust and weapons of truth can possess the goodly heritage of success. Our national Joshua is always the leader whom the people await, who shall lead forward to the homestead of civil and personal liberty from the desert-wastes of political and social bondage.

Miss Bent's easy manner and well-moderated tone enchanced the excellence of her production, and bouquets of approval came thick and fast from the crowd.

Mr. O. N. Carter, of Courtland, was introduced to wrestle with "The Tempests of History," which he undertook with manly confidence and the unanimous gratification of his hearers. His address was of course historical, recounting some of the great struggles that have rocked and shattered the nations. He took no superficial view of these movements of history, but maintained the moral force of all revolutionary periods. The Rebellion in our own land has taught us that the God-given rights of any class must be maintained or it will, Samson-like, clasp the pillars of government and constitution, and in the fall crush every hope of national prosperity. But Justice is seated on too secure a throne to permit a doubtful thought of the stability of our institutions when swept by storms of popular prejudice or foreign hate. His effort was rewarded with an armful of flowers.

"Mental Concentration the Principal of Power," was the subject of a practical, eloquent, plainly-enunciated address of Mr. A. R. Dodd, of Elgin. Diffusion of effort is the drawback in early life. The power of a thousand giants is in the narrow mill-stream whose force is properly applied. Scarce one man in a century appears whose powerful concentration swings the arms of the mill-wheel of the nations. It might be said of many an individual that he failed of being a great man by splitting himself into two middling ones. The great men of history have dared to be hobby riders. They had a right to ride their own single horse so long as they kept him in good condition. We cannot sweep a whole mountain chain; but by persistent effort we may tunnel our way through. He closed with a devout and eloquent reference to the Saviour of men, who persistence in his Father's business brought hope to a weeping world.

A daughter of one of the Professors, Miss E. C. Lumry, whose essay on "Memory and Hope" followed, was next presented to the audience, and for a space held their attention with her clear-voiced words. Neither deeply original nor broadly commonplace, she touched on the history, ethics, and philosophy of her topic gently and gracefully, and her listeners showed a just appreciation by their floral contribution.

Gumbert's "Merry Birds" was trilled by the orchestra while the audience rose to rest.

Miss Ella Norwood, of Horford, N. Y., won the sympathy and attention of the audience before she began to read her essay on "Individuality." The little flower-gatherer finds no two leaves or spears of grass alike, nor can we search successfully for two like human natures. Diversity of character need not produce discord; love and suffering make a harmony. The Prince of Peace abides where exists a just estimate and patient forbearance with human personalities. When His sweet law binds every heart, all earth will join to form the mosaic of its melody.

To the last oration, "The End More Glorious than the Beginning," was united the valedictory, which fell to the lot of Mr. W. R. Hench, of Fountaindale, Ill. "Surely the end of a thing is better than the beginning thereof." Some enterprises in history seem to contradict this hope, but the mysterious revolutions of Providence always bring about a glorious consummation. The spheres of religion and politics were not vainly explored for illustrations of his theme, and the speaker showed a marked familiarity with the names and facts of past ages. His well-written speech lost some of its effect, however, from a too free use of gestures and unnatural modulation.

The valedictory address to the Faculty, Trustees, Alumni, and fellow-students was practical and earnest rather than dramatic. If any had tears prepared to shed he used no wand of sympathy to draw them forth.

Music followed with sweet modulations.

Mr. R. T. Morgan, of the class of '74, had the honor of the Master's oration, and in beginning his address on "The Genius for Labor" touched a sympathetic spot in everybody's organism by saying that having neither eloquence nor originality he should not long delay the dinner hour. The audience responded with cheerful applause, yet after all felt well repaid for prolonging the intellectual feast a few minutes. Mr. Morgan spoke well and eulogized the hard workers of the world with an honest pride that showed experience of the same sort. He received a handsome floral offering bearing the perfume of popular appreciation.

The orchestra piped sweetly through Zikoff's "Bird Polka." and then President Blanchard conferred the degrees.

After brief remarks on the work of the College for the year, and the action of the Board of Trustees whose business was not yet finished, the degree of Master of Arts was conferred in cursu upon R. T. Morgan, of Fountaindale, Ill.; F. J. T. Fischer, Zurich, Switzerland; and the honorary degree on A. D. Zariphonithes, of Athens, Greece; and of Mistress of Arts upon Miss Hattie Furguson, of Jefferson City, Mo.;—all of the class of '74. The degrees were then formally conferred upon the class. The President requested the audience to be seated after the benediction by President A. Smith, of Northwestern College, Naperville. The clearing of the platform by the ushers and the sudden outburst of Wagner's "Wedding March" from the orchestra set every one on tiptoe of expectation, until Mr. J. M. Bishop, of Florida, led upon the rostrum the popular matron of the College, Mrs. G. M. Marsh. President Blanchard made the twain one in his happiest style.

In the evening for an hour Prof. McAfferty of Chicago, a distinguished elocutionist, entertained the students and friends to their perfect satisfaction; and then all formality gave way to the social joys of the President's levee. The parlor of Ladies' Hall overflowed and the large company scattered through the spacious halls and rooms of the College, renewed old friendships and began new ones that may ripen in eternal glory.

Religious Intelligence.

—An effort is being made to secure the labors of Messrs. Moody and Joseph Cook in this city in September next, for a series a meetings in the Tabernacle.

—Mr. A. D. Zariphonithes, a native of Athens, Greece, who graduated at Wheaton in 1874 and has since been studying at Union Seminary, New York, in preparation for missionary work in his native land, is now revisiting friends in Wheaton and lecturing upon some phases of the Eastern question which has resulted in the Turko-Russian war. He has traveled over Asia Minor, and is familiar with many national characteristics which would escape a foreigner.

—Twenty-nine have united with the Congregational church of Olney, Ill., Rev. Israel Brown, pastor, during this year.

—Measures have been taken in Boston to organize a Woman's Mission to Women—the freed women in the South, the Indian women of the West, and the Chinese women of the Pacific coast. At a recent meeting Major Ingalls of the Indian Commission gave a touching description of the daily life of suffering and servitude endured by the Indian women, who, with some knowledge of what Christian instruction has done for one or two tribes, have appealed to the women of the churches to send them help.

—Rev. D. P. Sayler, a prominent preacher of the Dunker church, gives the following warning in the Primitive Christian: "Paul's instruction to lay hands suddenly on no man is good counsel still. The very loose manner in which preachers have been installed, and elders ordained, is the prolific source from whence come so many grievous departures from the good old Scripture way and order of the brethren. Brethren of the late standing committee, remember the testimony was before us, testified by faithful brethren, that there are several elders in the brotherhood who will do anything the people want; even admitting to membership members of secret oath-bound orders without renunciation, or withdrawal from the order. Dear brethren, let me entreat you to stand firm in the order of the church. In the last days perilous times will come, says the apostle, and they are even now come. The apostolic injunction, 'Heed the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit them to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also,' should be heeded now as well as the day the injunction was given."

—The Greensboro (N. C.) New North State says that it has received a letter from a gentleman in Huntsville, Texas, well known to its editor, who thus writes from personal knowledge: "On Saturday night, about 11:15 o'clock, May 12, some person or persons set on fire the African Methodist Episcopal church in this place. It was totally consumed. The members had just purchased a fine bell and Sunday-school library and greatly improved their church. Everything was destroyed. It was heart-rending to stand by and hear the moans and sobs of the poor colored people as they saw their beloved Zion a mass of flames. It took them seven years to finish the house, and in two hours all was destroyed. This makes fifteen churches (colored) burnt this year in this State. May God have mercy upon the poor freedmen in Texas."

THE SANITARIAN for July discusses: Is the Connection of Charity with Correction in New York City Beneficial? What should be the Policy of a Great City toward its Poor? Street Pavements; The Litigation of Life Insurance Claims; The Slaughtering Business in New York; The American Medical Association. Published at 82 Nassua St., New York.

HEREDITY, OR RESPONSIBILITY IN PARENTAGE. By Rev. S. H. Platt, A. M. 12mo, paper, 10 cents S. R. Wells & Company, Publishers, 737 Broadway. N, Y.

This interesting essay on the duties of husbands and fathers, prepared from a series of sermons by an eminent clergyman of Brooklyn, meets one of the wants of the day. People generally need sound instruction with reference to the conditions upon which mental and physical health depend; and from what better source may it be obtained than from the lips of a learned and earnest minister.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877.
BY EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington., D. C.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The organization known as the Knights of Pythias had its origin at or about the close of the "War of the Rebellion." It is a legitimate offspring of Freemasonry.

The first lodge was formed at Washington, D. C., and both officers and members were mainly, if not wholly, Freemasons of high rank, and throughout the country the order has been, and is still, very largely officered and run by Freemasons.

One of the inducements held out to a person joining the order is that in case of sickness he is, as in Odd-fellowship, to receive a weekly stipend and nightly attendance. Its friends claim for it a growth second to no similar order in this country, excepting the Grand Army of the Republic, and that its growth is more permanent and substantial than that. The organization for several years had but the three degrees of the Subordinate Lodge.

The Grand Lodge of the State of New York was organized October 29th, 1868, with three degrees, and a "Supreme Grand Lodge of the United States" was also formed.

QUALIFICATIONS AND TITLES OF OFFICERS

OF A

SUBORDINATE LODGE OF KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

1ST. PAST CHANCELLOR.—Acquired by service in having passed through the executive office and chair of the Lodge, and which title and rank he shall hold thereafter.

2D. CHANCELLOR COMMANDER.—Attained by election: which latter title of Commander shall only be held and worn while the principal and executive officer of the Lodge, and no longer.

3RD. VICE CHANCELLOR.—Attained by election.

4TH. PRELATE.—Attained by election.

5TH. MASTER OF EXCHEQUER.—Attained by election.

6TH. MASTER OF FINANCE.—Attained by election.

7TH. KEEPER OF RECORDS AND SEAL.—Attained by election.

8TH. MASTER AT ARMS.—By election or appointment.

9TH. INNER GUARD.—By appointment.

10TH. OUTER GUARD.—By appointment.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

PAST CHANCELLOR.—(The retiring Chancellor Commander.) Has charge of, and will be held responsible for all preparations of, and for, floor work or ceremonials in conferring the different grades of rank, or any other duties detailed for him to do by the Chancellor Commander when the Lodge is working.

CHANCELLOR COMMANDER.—The chief executive officer of the Lodge, whose duties are those heretofore prescribed for the Worthy Chancellor of Lodges.

VICE CHANCELLOR.—The second executive officer of the Lodge, whose duties are the same as heretofore prescribed for that office.

PRELATE.—The third executive officer of the Lodge, whose duties are the same as heretofore prescribed for, and pertaining to the office of, and known as Venerable Patriarch.*

MASTER OF EXCHEQUER.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Banker."

MASTER OF FINANCE.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Financial Scribe."

KEEPER OF RECORDS AND SEAL.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Recording and Corresponding Scribe."

MASTER AT ARMS.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Guide."

INNER GUARD.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Inside Steward."

OUTER GUARD.—Same as heretofore prescribed for the "Outside Steward."

POSITION OF OFFICERS IN THE LODGE.

PAST CHANCELLOR.—On the right hand side of the Lodge, midway or center of room, looking from Chancellor Commander's station to the Vice Chancellor's station at the opposite end.

CHANCELLOR COMMANDER.—At the head or end of the room.

VICE CHANCELLOR.—At opposite or lower end of room.

PRELATE.—On left hand side of the Chancellor Commander, at center of the Lodge, and in a direct line as drawn from the Past Chancellor, over or through the Altar, opposite the position of the Past Chancellor.

MASTER OF EXCHEQUER, } At head of Lodge-room and on the MASTER OF FINANCE, } left hand of the Chancellor Com.

KEEPER OF RECORDS AND SEAL, } At head of Lodge-room, MASTER AT ARMS, } and on the right of the Chancellor Commander.

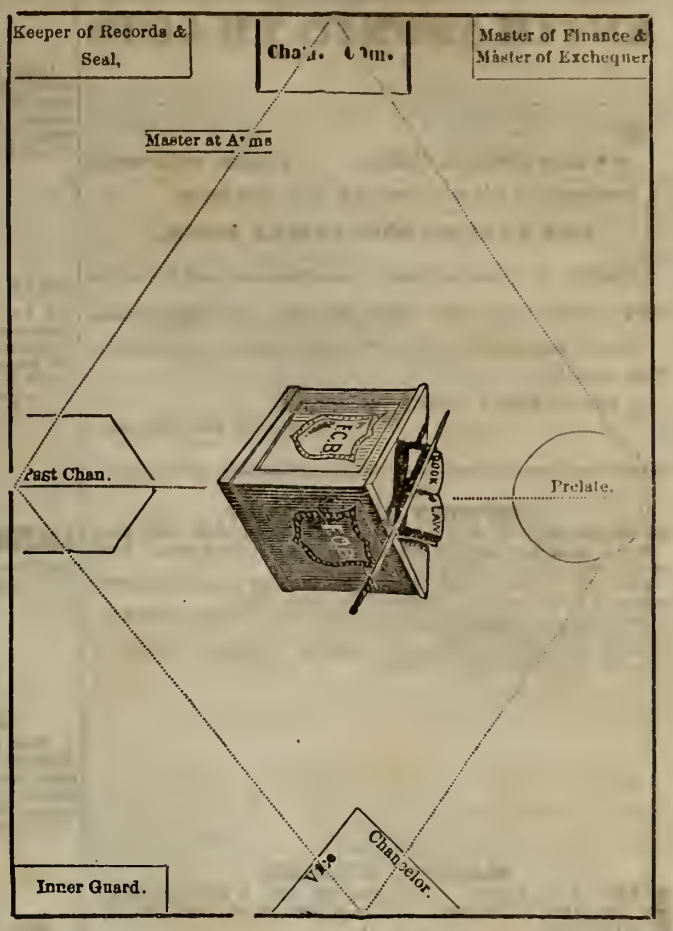
INNER GUARD.—At inner door and near the Vice Chancellor.

OUTER GUARD.—At outer door.

DIAGRAM,

Showing the shape of the stations, which are designated in the Lodge by the following colors: Chancellor Commander, red; Vice Chancellor, blue; Prelate, black; Past Chancellor, yellow. The altar here shown is arranged for the Third or Chivalric Rank of Knight-



OPENING CEREMONIES.

At precisely the hour appointed for the convening of the Lodge, if a quorum be present, the Chancellor Commander seeing that the members are clothed in proper regalia, or insignia of the Order, and after notifying the Master at arms to satisfy himself that all present are duly qualified as members in good standing of the Order, and in possession of, and with the proper rank and S. A. P. words, gives one rap with his gavel or sword hilt.

Chancellor Commander.—"It is my will and pleasure that —— Lodge, No. —, Knights of Pythias, now come to order, in this 'Castle Hall,' for the dispatch of such business and work as may be brought before it. The officers and members will give me their aid and counsel in further promulgating the bonds of Friendship that unite us, using due Caution in the transaction of any business that is presented, and with Bravery accepting all issues which, with strict impartiality and fairness, we may be called to pass upon. Let Harmony, Peace and Unity prevail.

"Brother Inner Guard, you will order the Outer Guard to clear the ante-room, close the doors and permit no one to enter until the Lodge is duly and regularly opened, and he notified of the same through you by me."

Inner Guard to Outer Guard (opens door).—"It is the will and pleasure of the Chancellor Commander that you permit no one to enter until the Lodge is duly and regularly opened, and you are notified of the same by him through me."

Outer Guard.—"The commands of the Chancellor Commander shall be obeyed."

Inner Guard to Chancellor Commander (closes and locks inner door).—"Chancellor Commander, the Outer Guard has received your commands and will implicitly obey them."

Chancellor Commander (two raps—all rise).—"The brethren will attend while the Prelate implores the blessings of Deity."

OPENING PRAYER BY PRELATE.

"We humbly invoke Thy blessing, thou Supreme Ruler of the Universe, upon the officers and members of this Lodge. Grant, we beseech Thee, thine aid in conducting the business for which we are here assembled; and may it please Thee to shower divine grace upon in this our convention. Let harmony and brotherly love prevail among, and finally permit us to assemble around Thy throne at the last great day, a happy and united brotherhood, elected to share Thy heavenly home. Hear, we beseech Thee, and answer us in peace, for Thine own sake. Amen."

(All respond.) Amen.

OPENING ODE.

Great God, to Thee we raise
Our hopeful song of praise—
Grant us Thy love.
Let us in friendship be;
Let us harmonious see,
Our Order extended be,
All nations o'er.

Let brothers hand in hand
True to each other stand
Throughout all time.
Then when life's labor's o'er,
Leaving Time's earthly shore,
May we meet to part no more
In Heaven above.

Chancellor Commander.—Three raps. (All seated.)

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard (rising promptly)—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—Brother Inner Guard, you will relieve the Brother Outer Guard and have him present himself at your station."

Inner Guard retires and relieves the Outer Guard, who immediately presents himself at the station of the Inner Guard and says:

"Chancellor Commander, the Outer Guard reports for duty."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Outer Guard."

Outer Guard.—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station, and what are your duties?"

[To be Continued.]

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-werds, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridicnlons titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is leading thonsands to eternal death cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaimimg the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemons and Despotic Titles are ennmerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill.

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lectnrers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Sqnare and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York,

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of nnmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's snbsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclnsive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Depnty Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract onght to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of qnotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing conld more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thonsands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing ab out the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of snch vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the varions degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100. TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLE, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it onght to have a large circnlation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratnitously sent ont, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited nnmber of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Execntive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts dnring the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay [illegible] Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Dne Guards, Gripe, Etc.

This revelation is so accnrate that Freemasons mnrdered the anthor for writing it. Thonsands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hnndred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illnstrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he holdly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abdncted and Mnrdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, incinding Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donht that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Chargcs Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine Connty, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of trnthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to snpport a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra,..... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execntion and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y.,, and a member of the samo lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abdnction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actnally Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best argumonts against the Lodge, shonld send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid,.....20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY, A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid.....$ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbnn, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitntion N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Ccargcs Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquillette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorongh, candid and remarkably concise Scriptnral argnment on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hnndred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefnlly, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra, ... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the dnty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and dnty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the dnty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express Charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending June 30, 1877.

By Express.

S. P. Augustine.

By Mail.

J. A. Tomhagen, W. S. Matthew, Miss Lou. Hooper, W. S. Tracy, James Coulter, Price Jones, Wm. G. Ener, L. M. Jackson, F. J. Henderson, O. C. Titcomb, S. Hillman, V. Hoffman, S. G. Harbaugh, E. Rowles, Andrew Leadley, Lemuel Lester, L. B. Lathrop, J. D. Stier, Edgar Anderson, Rev. D. H. Shelly, John Russell, J. W. Moss, Wm. Caviness, E. Hollenbeck, J. Gerry, W. Chaffee, Wm. M. Taylor, J. P. Nance, E. D. Hawkins, J. Fogleson, H. B. Banks, C. Sandy, F. E. Cook, J. L. Condon, J. Shellabarger, T. Bosanko, Wm. Brotherhood, J. B. Bausman, W. E. Grontham, J. Swickard.

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago, July 2, 1877.

GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	1 41	1 42
" No. 3		1 20
" Rejected		90
" Minnesota	1 48	1 51⅛
Corn—No. 2	45⅝	46¼
Rejected	42	42⅝
Oats—No. 2	33	34
Rejected	24	25
Rye—No. 2		62
Bran per ton		11 75
Flour—Winter	6 75	9 25
Spring	4 75	7 75
Hay—Timothy	8 00	10 00
Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef	10 75	12 00
Tallow	7¼	7½
Lard per cwt		8 62½
Mess pork, per bbl		12 25
Butter medium to best	12	20
Cheese	3	8
Beans	2 40	2 60
Eggs	12
Seeds—Timothy	1 60	1 80
Clover		6 00
Flax	1 60	1 75
Potatoes new per brl	3 00	4 00
Broom corn	3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint	6½	16
Lumber—Clear	30 00	34 00
Common	9 50	11 00
Fencing	9 00	11 00
Shingles		2 50
WOOL—Washed	30	40
Unwashed	20	27
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice	5 60	6 60
Good	5 00	5 50
Medium	4 25	5 00
Common	2 75	4 00
Hogs	4 60	4 90
Sheep	3 00	4 70

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	10 25
Wheat—Spring	1 57	1 61
Winter	2 00	2 20
Corn	56	62½
Oats	30	61
Rye	74	75
Lard		9
Mess pork		14 25
Butter	10	21
Cheese	4	9
Eggs	14½	15½
Wool	10	52

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Mannal by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 Copies or More Sent at the 100 rates.

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicongrapher, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. Sickels; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE,

By Daniel Sickels, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.

Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2.00.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK

Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,

BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "Blue Book," and has long been considered a standard work. Price, $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

By Jeremy L. Cross, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.

12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

Manual of The Order of The Eastern Star.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry;" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.

Price.....$1 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by Rob. Morris. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

MASON & HAMLIN, Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

$25 A DAY SURE PAY.

This Well Auger will bore 2 wells 50 feet deep in one day, and from 1 to 4 feet in diameter. It bores through any kind of earth, hard pan, slate, coal and is a success among boulders and quicksand, where all other augers fail. Read below what great men say about it:

☞We, the undersigned, know of the reputation and merits of the above Patent Well Auger, and recommend it to the public as one of the most important, useful and practical inventions of the age, and we feel confident, from our knowledge of it, that a man can take it into good territory and make $25 per day clear of expenses. A. J. Faulk, Governor of Dakota Territory. Gov. O. A. Hadley, of Arkansas. Ex Governor Dow, Texas. Rev. D. Oglesby, of Richview, Ill.

The following persons have this Auger in operation. Write to them (enclosing a stamp), and see how they like it: Geo. M. Ward, Salem, N. J. (a good old quaker). S. M. Payne, Wilsonville, Shelby Co., Ala, Rev. E. Berry, Gratiot, Licking Co., O. C. F. Walter, Concord, N. C. C. W. Herrand, Lapeer, Mich. Gen. J. A. Lockhart, Van Buren, Ark. County rights for sale. Every Auger warrented. Send stamp for our large Auger Book, and address,

U. S. AUGER CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	sqnare,	1 insertion,		$2.00
1	square	(1 inch deep)	one month	7.00
1	"	"	2 "	10.00
1	"	"	3 "	15.00
1	"	"	6 "	25.00
1	"	"	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 sqnares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent. On one col. 30 per cent

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the Cynosure are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the Cynosure during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between Chicago and all points in Illinois, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, China, Japan, and Australia. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, and for Madison, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for Winona, Rochester, Owatonna, Mankato, St. Peter, New Ulm, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for Janesville, Watertown, Fond Du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Escanaba, Negaunee, Marquette, Houghton, Hancock, and the Lake Superior Country. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for Elgin, Rockford, Freeport, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through Evanston, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Waukegan, Racine, Kenosha to Milwaukee.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. Stennett, Marvin Hughitt,
Gen. Pass, Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

Club Rates Including Postage.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at $2.00	a year.
5to 9 "	at 1.75	"
10 or more "	at 1.50	"

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAYNew York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO., 13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2)Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug7652t,]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 41.—WHOLE NO. 381. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES
EDITORIALS:	1
A Pole-star for the Freedmen	8
Grant at a Grand Master's Table	8
Why do we Oppose the Lodge?	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Letters to Keystone Lodge—No. 5	1
Does Secretism Promote Selfishness?	2
To Bishop Simpson	3
Jonathan Edwards the Reformer	4
REFORM NEWS:
Ohio Districted; Windham County Convention, Vt.; Pennsylvaniane, Read.	4,5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Encourage the Children; Beelzebub Casting out Beelzebub; An Awful Speech; The Outrages	6
The Seceder's List	7
GOSPEL MEETING:
How to Study the Bible	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	4
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

REV. H. H. HINMAN will visit the following points in Iowa: Dewitt, July 12th; Clarence, 15th; Baxter, 18th; Monroe Co., 20th to 25th; Page Co., (College Springs), about Aug. 1st.

DR. S. L. COOK will begin lectures about the first of August, and wishes to make a tour through Kosciusko, Miami, Carroll, Park, Putnam and Lawrence counties and perhaps others if the way is open. Friends will write at once at Albion, Indiana. He suggests that the Indiana annual State meeting be held as early as October, a week or two before the National meeting.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

The Philadelphia Exposition is, we are sorry to say, in a dangerously unsettled state regarding the Sabbath question. After a decided vote against opening on the Lord's day, the managers weakened and re-opened the case, and the result of their temporizing policy is probably being realized in the opening of the Exposition to Sabbath desecration. Some of the exhibitors protested earnestly and withdrew their displays; and Christian people generally will prefer to withdraw also both person and patronage, rather than have partnership in such a business. That the city of Philadelphia rates very low on the Sabbath question, it is stated that the Sabbath Association of that city lately called upon the Mayor to ask for the closing of saloons, groceries and other shops. He replied that if he began he would first of all arrest the ministers of the Gospel and choir-leaders who labored for hire on the Sabbath, but finally modified his statement to say that he would do as the courts ordered.

The great Pan-Presbyterian Council, to which the Protestant world has been looking forward with great interest, assembled in the great old St. Giles church of Edinburgh on Tuesday of last week. Hundreds of delegates were present from Europe and America and seemed to heartily enjoy this visit to the Mecca of Presbyterianism. The historical associations about Edinburgh make it a most favored spot for such a gathering. John Knox and Jenny Geddes and the covenant of St. Giles churchyard were enough to make celebrated any city and time. Three hundred delegates and five thousand visitors attend the council, which has a kind of representative moderatorship, Pastor Fisch, of Paris, Dr. Howard Crosby of New York, Dr. David R. Kerr of Pittsburgh, and others from both sides the water having part in this distinguished honor, which is probably two great for one pair of shoulders. The congregation at the opening was immense but without parade. The Old Hundredth—"all people that on earth do dwell"—was sung as perhaps never before, and the fourth chapter of Ephesians was read. Dr. Flint, Professor of Theology in Edinburgh University, preached the opening sermon from John 17:20, 21, with animation, rising to the grandeur of the theme and the occasion. On the next day the patriotism of several American members spurred them into a remembrance of their independence in their addresses. The mention was warmly received, especially the speeches of Drs. Crosby and McCosh and of Pastor Monod of Paris. The principles of Presbyterianism. the harmony of confessions, and cooperation in missionary work were the themes of the week. This great gathering may effect unbounded good for the church of Christ on earth if it is directed by the Holy Spirit. That such grace may be given it should be the universal prayer of the Christian world.

The one hundred and first Independence Day was celebrated this year with sluggish enthusiasm compared with the roar and glory of last. So dull was the day that but for the energy of the little Connecticut town of Woodstock it would before this have been forgotten. In fact Woodstock celebrated for a century all at once. Ex-Governor Chamberlain made a great political speech against President Hayes' Southern policy, of which he claims to be the victim; Senator James G. Blaine made a statesman's plea on the Mexican border troubles; Dr. Cuyler discoursed eloquently on temperance and Mrs. Hayes; Dr. O. W. Holmes read a poem with a sparkling and almost impromptu preface on the speeches, and Mary Clemmer also contributed a poem for the occasion. Such a galaxy of brilliant stars should give enduring renown to the celebration of 1877. The character of their performances gave additional luster. Mr. Chamberlain omitting personal reference of any moment, since the election returns of South Carolina were not basis for a great speech, arraigned the present Southern policy with great eloquence and bitterness, using the Louisiana settlement for his text. As he concluded Rev. Mr. Stoddard of Fairhaven, Mass., publicly dissented with due respect to the speaker and called for cheers for President Hayes, which were lustily given. Mr. Chamberlain's friends replied with scarcely less vigor. Then Mr. Wait, chairman of the occasion, expressed confidence in Pres. Hayes and gave out that each speaker was personally responsible for his sentiments; and he was cheered. Then Dr. Holmes obtruded his brilliant sentiment on the "Ship of State," which was very complimentary to her present pilot, following with a poem. Mr. Blaine's address has awakened the widest criticism, since it was an adroit but concealed attack on the administration for the orders to the army on the Mexican frontier. The plan of the government he claimed was war and annexation of territory which the nation does not want, but which Mr. Blaine supposed the Southern leaders want to secure greater territory and power. Since Pres. Hayes does not want such a result more than Mr. Blaine, the speech does not trouble the former very deeply. Dr. Cuyler's eulogy of the morals of the White House adds another bright contrasting color in this picture. And so Woodstock celebrated the one hundred and first Independence Day.

LETTERS TO KEYSTONE LODGE.

THE PREPARATION.—NO. 5.

CHICAGO, June, 1877.

To the W. Master, Wardens and Brethren of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, A. F. and A. M.—DEAR BRETHREN: Having in previous communications examined into the religious character and the vain-glorious and boastful pretensions of Freemasonry to be a saving institution under certain Masonic conditions, and having also in my last letter briefly touched upon its unfounded claims to a vast antiquity, I will now take the opportunity of directing your attention to the ritual proper and with the view of making our investigation more thorough, I shall confine myself for the present to that portion of it which more particularly belongs to the "preparation room."

On the night of initiation the candidate is ushered into the "preparation room," and the lodge being previously opened in the first degree, the Secretary is ordered by the W. Master to "retire and propound the usual constitutional questions and to collect the usual fee." Accordingly the following questions are proposed and answered by the candidate, and to a careful consideration of this prelimiuary examination, as well as to the subsequent preparation which takes place, I now invite your closest attention.

Question 1st. "Do you seriously declare upon your honor before these gentlemen (the Juuior Deacon and Stewards) that unbiased by friends and uninfluenced by mercenary motives you fully and voluntarily offer yourself a candidate for the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry?" The candidate answers "I do."

Now you will observe that the caudidate is here called upon to "declare upon his sacred honor" to the truth of two very important facts: 1st, that in desiring to become a Freemason he is "unbiased by friends," aud farther, that he is "uninfluenced by mercenary motives." One or both of these statements must be either true or false. If the candidate "declares upon his honor" that in seeking such affiliation the Masonic society he is "unbiased by friends and uninfluenced by mercenary motives," then the influeuce is self-evideut aud irresistible that he has calmly and carefully examined the whole ground-work of the system, aud hence that he seeks initiation into its supposed mysteries because he knows of his own knowledge that the institution is a good one, and that so far as himself is concerned he never expects and never intends to realize the slightets possible benefit from his connection with the order; but on the other hand, if he knows nothing whatever about Freemasonry, if he has not investigated the nature of its claims so as to become thoroughly satisfied of its disinterested goodness and unselfish desire to benefit mankind in general, then he is seeking admission within its walls merely with a view of advancing his own personal interests and he simply lies "upon his honor" when he declares "in the presence of these gentlemen" that he is "uninfluenced by mercenary motives." But if Freemasonry be a good institution; if even one-half of the buncomb orations of its Grand Masters, Grand High Priests, Grand Kings and Grand Captains General be true, what possible impropriety can there be in one Masonic friend asking, or even importuning another to become a member of such a noble order. If the Masonic institution has any real good thing to offer, or any real benefits to confer, why should it dread to solicit men to become partakers of its goodness or to be sharers in any of its blessings. If it inculcates piety and morality (as it claims to do), why should it forbid any of its members to invite their friends to become participants in its moral training, or to become more pious by an affiliation with such an ancient and an honorable society? We are not overstocked in this sin-cursed world of ours with either piety or morality, and if Freemasonry teaches both or either of these divine virtues and at the same time lays it down as an unalterable landmark that no man must be solicited to join the order, then one of two thiugs concerning it must be true: either that Freemasonry is nothing but a hollow sham and a swindle in making such pretensions, or else that it is supremely selfish in its constant efforts to restrict the benign influences of its mighty benefits to a very select few. One friend has no hesitation in asking another to seek pardon and peace through the blood of Christ and to learn and practice the morality and piety of the gospel. One friend has no hesitation in even coaxing another to go to church or to Sunday-school or to join a temperance society; but according to the inflexible, immutable laws of Masonry a Mason must never ask his nearest relative to become a member of the craft. And why is this? Because Freemasonry is only too well aware that it possesses nothing good—that it has nothing honest, nothing honorable, and nothing of any real value or importance to offer, but that it is a hollow humbug, a bombastic air-balloon of falsehoods supported by pompous and vainglorious titles, and floated along on the surface of society by abominable oaths and blood-curdling death penalties. Just think of it. A father has been carefully instructed in the Masonic ritual; he has largely partaken of the benefits, such as they are, of the Masonic organization; he has experienced all its soul-elevating influences and yet he will not dare to invite his only son to join the institution and thus participate with him in the same benefits and privileges. Masonry claims to be a good and noble institution, and yet no father will advise his son, and no brother solicit another to join it? And why? Because each have found it an empty farce, a solemn mockery containing nothing worthy the attention of any man even for a single moment of time. It pretends to teach science, while at the same time it is a well-known fact, and you and all other Masons in the country know it to be so, that it does not contain science enough to graduate any one of its members in the youngest class in A B C in any of our infant schools. No wonder then that the candidate must declare upon his honor in the presence of witnesses that in seeking affiliation with the order he is not "biased by the improper solicitations of friends." But in the next place he must "declare seriously upon his honor that he is "uninfluenced by mercenary motives." Now which one of you in Keystone Lodge has joined the Masonic institution "uninfluenced by a mercenary motive?" Remember it has cost each one of you at least fifty dollars besides the price of "refreshments" to become members of that wonderful society. Now will you please to tell us why you paid out all this money and put yourselves to all the inconvenience of stripping, blindfolding, getting knocked down and being toted around on men's shoulders and all that sort of humbuggery in being initiated into the mystic buffoonery called Freemasonry? Are you generally in the habit of playing blindman's-buff in that style, and of throwing away your money after such a reckless fashion? When a man comes to the door of a Masonic lodge for initiation and "declares upon his honor" that he is uninfluenced thereto by mercenary motives, how many men in that lodge-room believe in his truthfulness or sincerity? How many of the Masonic societies believe in the candor or sincerity of the candidate when he "declares upon his sacred honor" that he is more than willing to give away from fifty to seventy-five dollars and otherwise make a general buffoon of himself, and yet that in doing all this he is purely and perfectly unselfish and not in the least actuated by a single mercenary or other unworthy motive? Not one. There is not a man in all your lodges simple enough to believe such a silly declaration. It is altogether too transparent. My brethren, you know that every man who joins the Masonic society is actuated in so doing by some motive more or less mercenary, and yet he must declare upon his sacred honor that this is not so. Hence you will perceive that at the very threshold of the institution, on the very night in which a man is made a Mason he has got either to back right out of the "preparation room" or else he must deceive, dissemble and lie, and yet Freemasonry claims to be a "beautiful system of morality," and that "to be good and true is the first lesson we are taught in Masonry." See Handbook, page 48.

EDMOND RONAYNE.

[Continued next week.]

DOES SECRETISM PROMOTE SELFISHNESS?

BY JAMES M'CLEERY.

It is very important that we should have correct elementary views on all social and religious questions. The Bible, the revealed will of God, is our great source of knowledge on these questions. We are told here that "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." Now if all men are made of one blood, it is evident from observation and the laws of physiology, that they are all essentially alike; whatever differences there are amongst them is owing to circumstances and education; before God and before the tribunal of every just government all men are equal. Our own government is, perhaps, the first that fully recognized this great fundamental principle of human rights. Now if all men are created equal, for to dwell on the face of the earth, what are they to do? The apostle Peter says, "giving all diligence add to your faith, virtue; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kinduess, charity. For if these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ; for if ye do these things ye shall never fall." We have the same general principles contained in the words of Christ, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself; this do and thou shalt live." These principles will bear the severest criticism, and they afford a theme worthy the contemplation of the loftiest minds during time and eternity. Whoever departs from these principles "walketh in darkness and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes." 1 John, 2:11. Now I see nothing in this epitome of duties which warrants oath-bound secret societies; but on the contrary it is plainly opposed to them. If we are all brethren, and if it is our duty to cultivate brotherly kindness towards each other, how can we deliberately and habitually enjoy privileges from which others are excluded by our own act? Those who join these societies must either expect to gain some pecuniary advantage from them or to receive some spiritual aid which will compensate them for their trouble and expense and which they cannot receive in any other way. But it is easy to see that all the social and pecuniary benefits that they obtain by joining these societies are derived from the uninitiated around them. For instance, in a given place, there is only a certain amount of commerce or trade in a given time; if half the people in that place should join a secret society, that would not increase the commerce, but it might be the means of drawing a greater share of it to those who belong to that society. The same observation is true of professional, political and mechanical pursuits generally. One cannot become any better scholar or philosopher, or statesman, or mechanic, or agriculturist, or lawyer, or physician by joining these societies than if he did not belong to them, but he may trust to their influence for securing a greater share of patronage in all these pursuits than he would otherwise receive. Moreover secret society men, learning to trust to these influences for success, there is less incentive for them to use diligence, integrity and other qualities which should recommend them to the confidence and respect of their fellow-men. Are not these societies then plainly selfish in their nature, and do they not give to their members an advantage over others which a Christian and an honest man should not seek? And are they not in opposition to the Scripture precepts, "love thy neighbor as thyself." "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," etc. Many persons seem to think that in moral and religious questions it makes but little difference what one believes or does; it will all end about the same way at last. People do not act so in other matters. The mathematician who makes but a slight mistake at the commencement of the solution of a problem will find a great difference at the close. The chemist who makes a small blunder in the mixture of his ingredients in his crucible may realize a fatal result. The mechanic who does not understand the exact properties and relations of his materials, instead of a thing of beauty and utility, will construct a mass of ruins. Now is it reasonable to suppose that the Creator would construct the material universe with so much precision and harmony and leave the higher orders of creation in chaos and confusion? I think not. The moral laws of the Creator must be studied and obeyed or we must suffer the penalty. The great moral law of the Creator, as revealed in the Scriptures of divine truth, is love to God and love to man; every thing that militates against this law must be removed out of the way, though it is like a right hand or a right eye. If secret societies belong to this class they must be abandoned by every one who would be on the side of God and right.

To Bishop Simpson.

BY WOODRUFF POST.

Rochester, N. Y., Apr. 27, 1877.

Dear Bishop: It appears to me that I am justifiable in the inquiry: Is the appointing power in the M. E. Church a mere sham? The question originates in view of the action of the Bishop and some presiding elders and members of the conference towards a member whose relation was changed arbitrarily because, forsooth, said preacher had spoken against and sought the removal of the blood-stained thing called Masonry from our midst. At least some are perfectly satisfied that that was the cause, deny it who may. It was the Bishop's prerogative to give me a charge, and I may say his duty. Courteously I was informed by him two or three days before its close that a place was provided me, the place being named. I was thankful. But to my great surprise, sorrow and mortification, late in the evening and at the last minute of the Conference, just before the time arrived for reading off the appointments, one of your Cabinet, Rev. King David Nettleton, marched to the front, saying that he had a "very painful duty to perform," viz: to move that the relation of Bro. Woodruff Post be changed from effective to supernumerary, assigning no reason for his "painful" task. From the time you tendered me the place and informed me voluntarily, (for so I understood it all down to close of Conference,) not a soul lisped to me that you had given my heritage to another, and left me "out." The Bishop's prerogative is "to fix the appointments." (See Dis). Is this power a sham? If I knew or even suspected an enemy intended to rob you, and I did not apprise you of danger, but left you to his mercy, what might be judged of me? What would stealing a purse be to robbery of reputation? "He that steals my purse steals only trash." Alas! But suppose it was in my power to prevent the thief and save you and I did it not, what then might be charged to my account? I know it may be said that a vote was taken. Yes, but who voted? I know, on being pressed to it, you said—seemingly per force of circumstances—at that late hour, just what Masons and their serfs had re-iterated, a slander and a falsehood, viz.: "You are not generally acceptable on a charge." It happens that I hold written vouchers to the contrary. But suppose it had even been true, would it justify the Bishop and his Cabinet, or any part of it in the course herein mentioned. You remember, Bishop, I had informed you of a charge that had sought my services for years and at last by a petition. Did Dr. H. or friend N. of your Cabinet deny it, or did any one? Suppose they did, and believed they spoke the truth, would it justify a refusal or neglect to inform me of it until it was too late to help myself? Among rowdy politicians (for there has been some such) the strong may overpower the weak and justice and equity be farcical; but it is beyond Masonry and Ku-Klux Klanism when an unimpeached and efficient and acceptable member of Conference is proscribed in the manner aforesaid.

I know my crime is consecratedness to the destruction of clans and oath-bound Masonic cliques in our church; and "for this they will not soon forgive you," wrote a brother secretary of old East Genesee Conference. Is it not my duty? Does this make me unacceptable? To whom? Alas! you know. Every honest man knows. Are not the hands of Masons red with blood? Who murdered Wm. Morgan? Who justified it, and why? Were J. Q. Adams, Chas. Sumner, Wm. H. Seward, Millard Fillmore, Daniel Webster, Rev. Dr. Finney, and many more just such men, men who could not "render a reason?" Were they unduly prejudiced, indiscreet, or befooled, who denounced in the strongest language the institution of Freemasonry? Was our conference in 1828 alarmed at a mere scare-crow when it passed the following, submitted by James Hemmingway, seconded by Philo Woodworth, which prevailed:

"That we admit no person on trial, continuation on trial, nor admit any in full connection in this conference; neither elect any, either to deacons' orders or to elders' orders, whether traveling or local, who shall ever have belonged to the Masonic fraternity, who will not renounce all connection with Masons as such, by withdrawing from the institution and promising to have no further connection with Masons."—Connable's History of Gen'l Conf. p. 302.

Rev. Thomas Carlton, now gone to his reward, years ago said, "Freemasonry will yet rule the M. E. church." Is it not greatly doing so now? The last words I heard from him at a previous conference, were, "You will never get Freemasons out of our church." May God grant that his prophecy fall to the ground. Our reverend Masonic doctors every where as here by Drs. Latimer, Muller and Stratton, may desecrate our pulpits any time in deifying and disseminating the merits of the "ancient" craft and receive the highest places of trust that bishops can give. Whereas let any one attempt to show whether there be an evil in such clans he must pay the penalty by excision or something worse. Whereabouts in all this does Christianity pure and true come in? However we thank God the leaven is at work. It is said "the devil outwits himself," and so he does. There are over thirty sturdy men of integrity in our conference who scorn to wince at Masonic sneers and threats who vote as they list and pray for a wholly sanctified church and bench of bishops.

The bishop or presiding elder who will not save men from the "sting of the scorpion" when it is in their power to do it, but will let the crushing heel of despotism do its deadly work is not worthy a place in our M. E. church. Shall Carlton's words be fulfilled and our church become despotic and unendurable? Yes, Bishop, I am in earnest, for I have rights in common which bishops and presiding elders are in duty bound to respect. What a miserable General Conference that would have been—to you at least—if at the close of its last session one of the delegates had moved without your pre-knowledge of what was being done, that Bishop Simpson be excluded from his bishopric and it should happen to pass by a clan effort—others not daring to vote in your favor—because peradventure you had spoken against Masonry—or had written a tale for the Ledger and had thus made yourself generally unacceptable, so said by the craft. What a pretty state of affairs this would have revealed! "Tell it not in Gath. Publish it not in the streets of Askelon, lest the daughters of the Philestines rejoice, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph." The late holy man of God, Rev. C. G. Finney, once a Mason, has published that this Masonic order "is a most intolerant and intolerable despotism. The most anamolous, absurd and abominable institution that can exist in a Christian country; a secret work of darkness and justifies murder."—Finney on Masonry p. 240. And one of our own bishops—the only one—left on record that "Freemasonry and Oddfellowship, a bane [rank poison] in the midst of us, have done us much evil." He was once a Mason, so understood. The cry of the innocent is ascending to the throne of the Most High. God is no respecter of persons. We shall all lie low in the dust together. It will not be long before the great assize when all shall stand before God to receive their reward. Offences must needs come, but "woe unto that man," saith the Lord, "by whom the offence cometh." Whether the same farce will be enacted at our next conference is known only to the Head of the church in heaven whom we are glad to love, honor and obey. "He is unqualified for a successful minister in the M. E. church," is a positive slander. Who is it makes the statement? Masons and their friends. I do not wonder so many are afraid to defend a righteous cause. Who dares to rebuke when proscription, slanders, revilings, persecutions, want and death stare them in the face? No wonder that the "knees smite together" and the heart quails when sanctified Masons are after their victim. Their tongue "sharper than a sword. The poison of asps is under their lips." But "God shall have them in derision." They "laugh" at the downfall of the innocent, but the "net they spread for others in it is their own foot taken." In due time they have their reward.*

Where have justice and mercy fled? In the language of a Vermont Chronicle, "there is little hope for an institution [church] that so sacrifices justice and truth. It is comical to see the pious spirit in which some people do outrageously mean things and then wait for the blessing of the Lord." "The people don't want him" is an outrageous slander whether reiterated by a bishop as mouth-piece for the craft or not. It is a burning shame and perfect disgrace to our Methodist Episcopal Church. Ye policy men, slanderers and falsifiers, ye compel me to speak, hear the following: "To all whom it may concern: This is to certify that Rev. Woodruff Post was one of the pastors on Hornellsville District during my term as P. E. He was very faithful and very successful as a minister, and was considered one of the most efficient on the district for the Lord greatly blessed his labors. A. N. F." Permit me to add one more testimonial from my last charge. From this charge the craft sought to have me removed for no other reason than that of my opposition to Masonry, Masons reporting the slander that I was repeatedly attacking Masonry from the pulpit; a base fabrication. Here then: "This is to certify that in view of the acceptability and success of Rev. Woodruff Post, our pastor, as a minister of the Gospel of Christ, we heartily commend him to the people in Ontario and elsewhere in his zealous endeavors to advance the religious interests of the community and the building of a church, etc., and knowing him to be a devout, earnest Christian, pray for his success." This was signed by all the official board. May God have mercy on my revilers nevertheless. I do and will obey the precept, love and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you. Now if I am in fault for sheltering myself in a measure by this resort and satisfying friends who would like to know the true state of affairs, inasmuch as I have not been able to get redress at Conference, I trust all will impute it to human infirmity and that God will forgive me. Amen.

[*Some of the closing items of this letter were not sent to the Bishop, only about down to the star as seen above.]

Mr. Longfellow, in conversing with a Scotch gentleman, was asked if he thought the hexameter would take root in English soil. He said: "I don't know; I think it will. It is a measure that suits all themes. It can fly like a swallow, and at any moment dart skyward. What fine hexameters we have in the Bible—'Husbands love your wives and be not bitter against them.' And that line—'God is gone up with a shout, [illegible] with the sound of a trum-

Jonathan Edwards, the Reformer.

The Rev. Joseph Cook, in one of his recent Monday lectures, ascribed the origin and wide prevalence of loose religious opinions in New England to the admission of unconverted persons to the membership of the churches in their early history, under what was called the "half-way covenant," and he gave the following graphic description of the trials endured by Jonathan Edwards in his conscientious endeavor to establish the rule that evidence of conversion should be an indispensable prerequisite to church membership: "I know where in Massachusetts I can put my hand on little irregular scraps of brown paper, stitched together as note books, and closely covered all over with Jonathan Edwards' handwriting. Why did he use such coarse material for his studies? Why was he within sight of starvation? Because he had opposed the half-way covenant. Why did that man need to accept from Scotland funds with which to maintain his family? Because he opposed the half-way covenant. Why did his wife and daughters make fans and sell them to buy bread? Because he opposed the half-way covenant. Because he defended with vigor, as Whitefield did, the idea that a man should not be a minister unless converted, nor a church member unless converted, and so set himself against the whole trend of this huge, turbid, hungry, haughty wave of secularization that had been rising since 1631. Of course he was abandoned by the fashionable. Of course his life was in some sense a martyrdom. His note books were made from the refuse of brown paper left from the fans. There is nothing Massachusetts so little likes to be fanned with as those fans Jonathan Edwards' wife and daughters made and sold for bread. Yes, you starved him; but Scotland fed him, thank God. When Edwards was dismissed, it was proposed that there be a council of ten pastors, and he, of course, claimed the right of choosing five; but he was obliged to go beyond the broad bounds of old Hampshire county in order to find five who agreed with him in opposing the half-way covenant.—Chris. Statesman.

Ex-President Grant's visit to England secures him as much lionizing as he could reasonably desire. He is greeted everywhere with ovations and demonstrations, until the country is weary hearing of them. When we remember that before the war U. S. Grant was a very unpreteuding citizen, unknown outside a very small circle, and not recognized even in that circle as possessing any extraordinary qualities, intellectually, morally, or otherwise, one is disposed to inquire "What meat does this our Cæsar feed upon that he has grown so great?" Seriously, General Grant would do credit to himself and his country if he would take a lesson from the Emperor of Brazil and stick a little more closely to the traditional simplicity of republican manners, especially when he goes abroad as a representative of a republican people. When we see a man so fond of being lionized we cannot help but feel that the empty wagon is the one that makes the greatest racket.—Christian Republic.

Religious Intelligence.

—Bishop M. Wright of the United Brethren in Christ, has dedicated two churches already in July; one near Freeport and one at Jackson, near Geneseo, both in this State.

—Rev. J. W. Bain, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of this city, and widely known as an author and speaker of ability, has been compelled to sever his relation with the church and it is understood contemplates visiting California for his health. The church lately passed the following: "Whereas, Our beloved pastsr, Rev. J. W. Bain, has signified his purpose to ask for a dissolution of the pastoral relation now so happily existing between him and us, for the purpose of seeking a more genial clime and labor less exhausting; and whereas, we feel that the arduous labors which he has so faithfully performed among us during the past three years have had a prostrating effect upon his physical powers, seriously endangering his future," and resolved to acquiesce in their pastor's wish, though with profound regret. Bro. Bain has, during the three years of labor here, greatly endeared himself to his people, who bear a cheerful testimony to his energy, consecration and zeal, and whose prayers follow his departure.

—The Lutheran Synodical Conference will hold its annual meeting at Fort Wayne, Ind., July 18th. This body represents Old, or Conservative Lutheranism in this country. The famous four points divide it from the General Council, which while accepting these points, refuses to make them a test of membership. The points are pulpit and altar fellowship, Chiliasm, and secret societies. It announced that the main subjects to be considered at the meeting of the conference will be the "Theses on Ecclesiastical Communion."

—The Welsh Calvinistic Methodists have lately held their General Assembly in London. They report an increase of 5,700 members during the year, and have 112,000 names of communicants on their roll. Their collections have also increased to £167,205.

—It was stated at the Lutheran Baptist Convention, which met in New Orleans recently, that the Catholics were making rapid progress in winning converts from among the colored people. In the southern tier of counties in Louisiana, it was said, there were 100 Catholic missionaries among the freedmen, and since the close of the war 20,000 colored people had been received in the Catholic church—a greater number than had been gathered into all the Protestant churches in the State in the same period.

—A correspondent from Sweden says that there is a general outpouring of the Spirit, and "that hundreds and thousands of souls are being converted." In the First Baptist church of Stockholm 100 have been received by baptism since the beginning of the year.

—The Reformed Presbyterian Synod (Covenanter) at its last session (in Allegheny, Pa.,) reported contributions at the rate of $17 per member. The Synod ordered $4,000 to be collected for the National Reform Association.

News of the Week.

—Crop reports from all the Northwestern and Lake States are generally very favorable. Extreme wet weather has delayed the corn crop in a few sections, but hay and small grains are promising an abundant yield. The winter wheat in Illinois is turning out finely. The grasshoppers which sorely threatened Minnesota have departed, having done little damage. The abundance which is promised from the earth should turn the land to gratitude to the Giver.

—Severe storms have continued to visit various sections of the country, occasionally causing great damage and loss of life. The last case is the town of Pensaukee, Wisconsin, 25 miles north of Green Bay, which was visited on Saturday night by a tornado. Mills, school-house and fifteen or twenty residences were destroyed and a schooner wrecked. The Gardner House was blown down and it is reported that eight persons were killed.

—The 100th anniversary of the Battle of Bennington is to be celebrated by the Vermonters August 16th. Connected with this celebration will be a commemoration of the 100th year of the existence of Vermont as a State, beginning early in August and continuing some two weeks.

In England the dispatch of the fleet to Besika Bay, close by the Mediterranean entrance of the Hellespont continues to be the chief topic in polities. The movement is gravely censured by the Opposition, as tending to revive in Constantinople the hope of British intervention and to impair England's influence as a neutral power when the Eastern question comes to a final settlement. Sir Stafford Northcote's explanation in the House of Commons is declarcd to be insufficient and unsatisfactory. It does not seem that the great mass of the English people have changed their views with regard to war. Active interference in the contest would be exceedingly unpopular now, as at any time since the declaration of war, though undoubtedly there is a strong suspicion of Russia's designs prevalent among the people, and their sympathies are rather with than against the Turks.

—The Herald correspondent in Vienna says it is announced in that city from St. Petersburg that the cause of the dangerous position in which the Russian army in Armenia was lately thrown was chiefly the fact that Persia allowed a Turkish corps from Lake Van to pass through Persian territory. The corps was thus enabled to surprise the rear of the Russians at Bayazid, and to jeopardize the position of a great portion of their army. The effect was all the more embarrassing as the Russians did not anticipate any such action on the part of Persia, and were entirely unprepared for it. Reprisals of the most serious nature are considered inevitable, and the situation is likely to become further complicated. The Russians have re-commenced the bombardment of Kars.

—No general engagement is expected on the Danube until the Russian bridge at Sistora is more secure from the swift current and the Turkish gunboats. A small engagement near Beila between outposts is claimed by both sides.

Reform News.

Ohio Districts.

The following arrangement has been made after consultations with friends in the State for a systematic effort to bring the work of the National Christian Association in connection with its ninth anniversary at Dayton, Oct. 23-25, before the people.

The State has been divided into twenty-three districts of from two to five counties each, and these districts, so far as practicable been assigned to one or more competent persons who will hold meetings, secure the appointment of delegates, etc.

1st district is composed of Williams, Fulton and Lucas counties, assigned to J. K. Alwood, West Unity, assisted by J. G. Mattoon, Esq.

2d. Wood, Ottawa and Sandusky, Rev. Michael Long, Fremont.

3d. Seneca, Huron and Erie, to be supplied.

4th. Lorain, Cuyahoga, Medina and Summit, to be supplied.

5th. Lake, Ashtabula, Geauga, Trumbull and Portage, Rev. Wm. Miller, Bokensburgh.

6th. Defiance, Henry, Paulding and Van Wert, Rev. H. S. Thomas, Elida.

7th. Putnam, Allen, Hancock, Hardin and Wyandot, Rev. S. H. Raudebaugh, Vanlue, and J. L. Lutrell.

8th. Marion, Crawford, Richland and Morrow, Rev. Wm. Wishart, D. D., Ontario; assisted by James Auten, Esq.

9th. Ashland, Wayne and Holmes, Rev. J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan.

10th. Mahoning, Columbiana, Portage and Stark, to be supplied.

11th. Tuscarawas, Carroll, Harrison and Jefferson, Rev. H. Y. Lieper, Moore's Salt Works.

12th. Mercer, Auglaize, Shelby, Dark and Miami, Rev. W. A. Kendall, Celina.

13th. Logan, Union, Champaign, Clark and Madison, to be supplied.

14th. Delaware, Franklin, Knox and Licking, to be supplied.

15th. Coshocton, Muskingum, Guernsey and Belmont, Rev. H. P. McClurkin, New Concord, and Rev. J. P. Lytle, Sago.

16th. Noble, Morgan, Washington and Monroe, to be supplied.

17th. Preble, Montgomery, Butler and Warren, Rev. Wm. Dillon, Dayton, and Rev. John Kemp.

18th. Green, Fayette, Clinton and Highland, Rev. W. G. Morehead, Xenia; Rev. W. A. Campbell, Clifton, and E. O. Beattie, Esq., Greenfield.

19th. Hamilton and Clermont, Rev. W. H. French, Cincinnati.

20th. Brown, Adams, Pike and Sciota, to be supplied.

21st. Pickaway, Hocking, Fairfield and Perry, to be supplied.

22d. Ross, Vinton and Athens, to be supplied.

23d. Jackson, Lawrence, Gallia and Meigs, to be supplied.

There are persons in some of the districts from whom word has been received, who would gladly enter the work but who are prevented by ill health or by previous engagements, but who will cheerfully co-operate so far as they can. Others have been written to from whom no answers have come. I earnestly desire that this effort should succeed and purpose to spend a month or six weeks in Ohio just previous to the October meeting. Will any brother who can give some time to this work write me here. Below I give a few suggestions which will indicate to you something of what will be required and may be of service to some not accustomed to this kind of work.

SUGGESTIONS TO LECTURERS.

1. Make yourself familiar with the geography of your district and select the most feasible points for holding meetings.

2. Ascertain, by letter or otherwise what pastors or other leading men at different points, are willing to co-operate with you.

3. Arrange where you can for a series of meetings in neighborhoods near together and send your appointments ahead so as to have them announced the Sabbath previous, and secure some interested person on the ground who will see that the notice is properly circulated.

4. Be at the place of meeting early and arrange for some one to act as chairman and another to act as secretary, then call the meeting to order and nominate your officers.

5. Open your meeting with prayer.

6. Address.

7. Signing the constitution.

8. Appoint one or more delegates to the National Anniversary at Dayton, October 23d to 25th.

9. Appoint a committee (of ladies or gentlemen) to solicit funds to pay the expenses of the delegates and see that they are furnished with certificates signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting.

Encourage the people to hold weekly or occasional meetings for prayer or speaking where you deem it practicable.

If it should seem desirable arrange for county or for one district meeting to be held one day and evening at some central point on your field and write me in time so that I can arrange to be there or send some one if desired. Respectfully yours on the Lord's side in all reforms.

J. P. STODDARD.

ANTI-MASONIC CONVENTION, WINDHAM CO., VT.

The following resolutions were adopted at the seventh annual meeting of the Windham County Anti-masonic Society of Vermont:

Resolved, That political events of the most extraordinary character, such as ought to alarm all lovers of free popular government, have recently occurred among us, viz.:

1st. A revolution against the war-policy of the government in the South, effected by violence, intimidation, murder and massacre of our fellow citizens to the extent of thousands—by secret armed organizations.

2nd. The resort to extra-constitutional means by Congress for deciding the late presidential election; and

3rd. Coming nearer home, the deliberate violation here in Vermont of the Constitution of the United States, which prohibits the appointment of Federal office-holders to the office of presidential electors; all of which show the workings of the Masonic lodge, and the confusion and danger which that foreign institution is bringing upon our republican form of government.

Resolved, That, while we have a written Constitution of the United States, by which the country is ostensibly governed, there is another constitution, a sly, underhanded one, working in our midst, which is slowly but surely taking the place of our constitutional government, supplanting it by what is called the "General Grand Royal Arch Constitution of Freemasonry;" which has been imported from a foreign country, and it is our duty as freemen to vote and act against the secret, insidious advances of this foe to the people's laws and rights, on all possible occasions.

Resolved, That the return to Windham county, from the South, within the past year, of one of its citizens, a so-called "Carpet Bagger," wounded and maimed in the most horrid manner, and with a loss of many of his dearest friends and relatives by assassination, the work of the minions of secret societies, is an occasion which ought to awaken the concern and indignation of every citizen of Vermont against that fruitful source of all our secret societies, the Masonic lodge, and arouse them to the defense and vindication of their violated laws against that unchristian and unrepublican institution.

Resolved, That all the incumbents of the principal offices of the State, who observe "the jewel of a silent tongue" when such outrages are being inflicted upon the people's rights and institutions through the "Ancient and Honorable Order of Free and Accepted Masons" and its affiliated associations, are coming far short of the duties of their position, and are unworthy of the confidence and support of a free people.

Resolved, That we are in favor of equal and impartial taxation of all the real property within the State; of a law to exclude from all courts of justice all judges or jurors who may be tainted with the membership of any secret association, and for a penalty against all Federal office holders who, under any pretence, shall pretend to claim or hold seats in the State Legislature.

Resolved, That the names of all persons in confinement in the prison or jails of the State, together with their ages, birth-place, religious creed, membership of secret societies, crime for which imprisoned, date and character of sentence, etc., should be reported in the papers of the State at least once in every two years.

Resolved, That the spectacle now presented to the country in a neighboring State, where one of its citizens, a Past Grand Sachem of Tammany, and a member of Perfect Ashlar Lodge of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Free and Accepted Masons, has, at the head of the foreign voters, plundered the tax-payers of millions of dollars, and imposed upon them a public debt, the greatest probably, per capita, that the world has ever known, besides injuring the confidence of the people in free, popular government, and is still enabled to resist the laws of the land, while lesser criminals, unsustained by Freemasonry, are severely punished, ought to awaken the concern of the people of Vermont, and inspire them with the resolution to arouse against the Jesuitry of the lodge, and once more expel it from the limits of their State.

Resolved, That the two principal parties of the country, Democrats, and Republicans, have so interchanged their members of late years, receiving into each others' ranks the worst elements of both parties, that there is no longer any material difference between them, both parties having become equally loose, unprincipled, corrupt and unreliable; and our Anti-masonic party now presents the only reserve upon which the good and true men of the country can be rallied for the salvation of our republican institutions.

Resolved, That no man who accepts favors or political honors from the Masonic lodge is worthy of our confidence or support, either as a preacher of religion or teacher of political duties.

Resolved, That no people can long remain free who suffer a secret power in their midst, to grant charters for close corporations with power to impose assessments and levy black mail on citizens under intimidation; and the charter granted by Congress to the Masonic Hall Association of the District of Columbia is as great an outrage on free institutions us if the general government should invest a political party or religious organization with chartered privileges.

Resolved, That in the last presidential election, the Masonic lodge here in Vermont, following out the teachings of Freemasonry rather than those of the civil institutions of the State, has co-operated with the Ku-Klux lodge of the South in tainting the election with unconstitutionality, thus aiding to bring disparagement upon republican government in favor of the lodge and its aristocratic pretensions.

Resolved, That large standing armies are standing threats to the liberties of the people; and of all standing armies the most dangerous one yet devised is this secret standing army created under the General Grand Royal Arch Constitution, called the Grand Army of the Republic, which is better fitted for protecting the interests of office-seekers and plunderers of the people than for a defence of the country; tending to keep alive foolish sectional discords that the late war was waged in order to heal, and to give the rising generation a perverted taste for false demonstrations and sham, to the injury of their morals and the future interests of the Republic.

Resolved, That the action of the last legislature of the State, in adopting the thirtieth of May as a holiday, at the mere dictation of the Masonic lodge, and in opposition to our protest, as well as to the action of Congress, was a cringing act of servility, alike contemptuous of our Association and regardless of what is due to the character of the State, and as Freemen of the State we appeal to all other freemen to join us in efforts to repeal an act so unworthy of the character of Vermonters. A holiday that has only the dictation of an illegal association, viz., the Masonic lodge, to commend it, and one that cannot receive the sanction of national adoption or of Christian approbation is not worthy of being held as a holy day by Vermont. In return for an immense outlay of blood and treasure, which ought to have brought us national peace and amity the Masonic lodge bestows upon us a pagan holiday, to be spent among the tombs.

Resolved, That we again respectfully yet urgently appeal to our fellow freeman of Vermont to be mindful of the former good name and glory of the State; to arouse and throw off the shackles which this foreign institution, the Masonic lodge, is endeavoring a second time to impose upon us; to write their own ballots and cast them without the dictation of officious "Grand Master" or truckling "Entered Apprentice," and vote for none but Anti-masonic candidates for office. Though every other State of the Union should be drawn away after the idols of the lodge, Vermont ought to remain true to her glorious antecedents, and give up her opposition only when the Republic itself is given up.

PENNSYLVANIANS READ THIS!

YORK, Pa., July 4, 1877.

The time has come for more earnest and energetic work in our State. There are thousands of well-informed anti-secret men and women amongst us, and many thousands who sympathize with us and who only need "more light" to become active workers in our great reform.

Much has already been accomplished in certain localities by individual effort and by organizations, but we need a strong State organization for all anti-secret workers to rally around. "In union there is strength."

Nothing should stand in the way of success; and if it is deemed best by friends in all sections of the State we should at once correct any defect or deficiency in our present State Association. We must get ready for vigorous work as soon as possible. There is no good reason why we should be straggling behind in this work. On every side we see encouraging signs of anti-secret progress. Let us then rally for a great effort.

We need a lecture fund to keep our lecturer at work. We need money to publish a circular giving all information of our State organization; and also to issue an address to the people of the State, showing the evil influence of secret societies in church, state and society. We must have money to carry on the work. The only way we can get it is for each and every one of us to give as much as we can. Let us all give at once or as soon as possible. Send your money to the treasurer of the State Association, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre, Pa.

If any citizens of the State have suggestions to offer let us have them without delay. We are anxious to hear from every Pennsylvanian of either sex, who is ready to assist in pushing the anti-secret reform work. If you intend to aid us do so immediately, if you can. We would prefer fifty cents now to one dollar in the uncertain future.

All papers circulating in Pennsylvania will confer a favor by publishing this appeal, free of charge.

E. J. CHALFANT

Encourage the Children.

Editor Cynosure: In looking over the letters in the Cynosure of June 14th, I noticed one written by James W. Marcy of Portland, Mich.; I have seen him; he is a small boy but he is Anti-masonic all through and over, and advocates his principles in school; and why should he not? Let us try to hold before our children the abomination of secret works. Anything that is right and good can be done in open day, the wrong is done in the secret hour of the night. I met a man not long ago who said he was a Master Mason and an Odd-fellow and a leading one at that. I asked him for missionary money; he said he could not give me any, because that was against his principles. An Odd-fellow told me that the world was better off without the Gospel than with it. More than one Freemason has told me that all the religion he wanted was in the lodge, when Jesus Christ is not so much as named there. How could a parent keep still before his children and not show them the evil. And not only his own but his neighbors should be warned against the evil. I bless the Lord for the Christian Cynosure. I remail many of mine after I read them and send them to others to read. I keep tracts in my library and when I write a letter to any of my friends I put as many as postage will allow in with the letter. I am glad that we are gaining ground, a Mason told me that not one new one had joined the lodge here since Mr. Levington lectured here six months ago. May God speed the time when men will be as ready to go forth and speak against this evil as intemperance.

Yours for the truth,

D. A. Shelly.

New York, June 11, 1877.

That mammoth agency of Satan on earth, secret societies, has ever by tyranny, cunning, duplicity, falsehood and despotic sway, dictated to government, society and church in the country, by holding in iron grasp for the benefit of the upper few, its underlings which it has deceived and subjugated and who as slaves must down at its bidding to do it homage and wallow in its filth at the tyrant's nod. Masonry which has now possessed itself of the influence and wealth of all the other secret societies has much at stake. When it shouts, "the craft is in danger," slander, perjury and murder must be a recourse—as it says, the end justifies the means. Glorious Cynosure, go forth to scourge the monster with scorpion lash out of the church to sneak and bid for free whitewash elsewhere.

Prepare another petition for the House of the next Congress to make membership ground for challenge.

O. S. O.

Beelzebub Claims to Cast Out Beelzebub.

Waitsburg, Wash. Ter., June 18, 1877.

Messrs. Editors: As our country is located in the far west, perhaps a few thoughts concerning the cause may be of interest to the readers of the Cynosure. Being situated in almost the extreme northwestern part of these United States, I must confess that we are by no means destitute of that evil principle called secretism. Like the serpent that does its deadly work by stealth and concealment, it has crept through the brambles of these western wilds, and found its way into almost every locality and society.

But the most dreadful of all its deceptive workings, it has wound its way, step by step, into the church of Christ. There, in the midst of the children of God it deceitfully yet boastfully tries to "manifest itself as an angel of light." By taking upon it the "form of godliness," it sets its venomous fangs into that body of Christian influence, and saps the very life and vital principles of Christianity and all true reforms.

Last winter during a series of revival meetings, at Pilot Rock, Umatilla county, Oregon, while the Lord was greatly reviving his work, a member of one of the lower orders boldly yet defiantly asserted that "there was no doubt but what the whole foundation of the revival was laid in the lodge."

See Jesus robbed of his glory! Jesus dethroned and Satan exalted! The institutions of men assuming a power which alone belongs to Jesus! O may the day hasten when every child of God shall "come out from among them and be separate;" and every minister of Christ, with the thundering tones of Mr. Moody, cry separation, SEPARATION! There are a few faithful ministers of Christ here, who contend earnestly against the grim monster, and preach "Salvation in Christ alone." Their motto is separation and union; separation from the world, and union with Christ.

J. C. Spoonemore.

An Awful Speech.

Grinnell, Iowa, June 29, 1877.

Having heard that there would be a lecture in defence of Freemasonry at Baxter, Iowa, I felt somewhat interested to hear the same. I have charge of a mission field, and by God's grace have planted a little society of United Brethren in Christ in that part of the county, and if, with one broad sweep by the champion of Masonry the opposing sentiment was to be annihilated I wished to know how it was done.

June the 8th in the evening we were seated and waiting for the speaker; he entered and seated himself, and after wiping the perspiration from his prominent forehead he arose and sung two stanzas of

"There is a fountain filled with blood."

He said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am here to speak in defence of Freemasonry and Odd-fellowship, and for the truthfulness of what I am going to say I pledge my sacred honor." Here he put in some time in denouncing in bitter terms the Anti-masonic lecturers and "papers" and seceded Masons. Your excellent paper was not passed unnoticed. We did not note his sarcastic remarks, and ugly words, but what we have is his own words. He then spoke of "individual secrets and family secrets," and said, "No church but what has its secrets peculiar to itself." Here again he flung personal abuse on the church over on the hill, then continued: "Freemasonry is not a new-born child; in the eternal council in heaven and foreknowledge of God the three in heaven held a secret council there, and by Jesus Christ on earth." After another volley of ugly words, "I believe no man under oath who goes back on Masonry." He continued, "They say we take terrible oaths; we do take terrible obligations and we do mean business. It hurts no honest man. Jesus Christ imposed secrecy on his disciples on the Mount of transfiguration. The Divine Master held a lodge or conference with his disciples on the Mount." Speaking of the sprinkling of the door post with blood, he said: "The angel saw the token like the Mason's sign." Speaking of the "spies" he said: "The men were oath-bound, and women entered into the contract and pledged their lives in the name of the Lord." He said "Paul was a good fellow, and was a Mason or ought to have been. G. Washington was a Master Mason and died a Mason." He continued and said: "They say we killed Morgan. I did not kill him, but I believe before God the Masons did kill him or choked him, or drowned him, or got the life out of him some how." Now he tells an anecdote, "But I am like the little dog barking at the moon, let them bark." He now tells us that the "missing man said to be Capt. Morgan was a Canadian, and was identified by a patch on his pants and a patch on the heel of his sock; so history tells us." Again, "They say we reject the name of Christ from the lodge. I am a chaplain and I pray as I do in a Methodist quarterly meeting, in the name of Christ." In speaking of Masonic benevolence he referred to the grangers who gathered the corn of a sick man (who was present) and for a dollar I would give his name, but he would say that he had not a hair between his head and heaven. "Masons do unite themselves for protection, and the institution grew out of the defects of the churches." "It (Masonry) dries up the orphan's tears and calms the widow's sigh." "It takes a man of record to get into the lodge; many preachers cannot get in, not being men of note or record or brains." "It takes a peculiar brain to be a Wesleyan, and a very peculiarly constituted brain to be a United Brethren." In closing up his harangue he said he "lived in harmony with the church of God and in harmony with Masonry."

Thus closed the ever memorable defence of Freemasonry by the champion, Rev. Wilson of the Winebrennarian church of Colo, Iowa.

Those are a part of the notes we took in his own words. I send you this to show how these dark lantern men defy God and fight light.

G. P. Fisher.

The Outrages.

Editor Cynosure: I report for the information of your readers a case of Masonic outrage and vile abuse of the church of God which occurred at Springerton, Illinois, sometime since. It appears that the "church of Christ" at that place have adopted rules of government and discipline distasteful to Masonic arrogance. They will not admit to membership adhering Masons and other secretists. Neither will they permit their house of worship to be used for the benefit of secret associations, nor yet employ nor listen to Masonic ministers; all of which are clearly their own unequivocal, especial, private and indefeasible rights. Yet the powers of darkness have undertaken to hold accountable and chastise them for it. Not able to revenge themselves upon this church by any modes known to the law, they have proceeded to do so outside of all law. One "T. C. H." of that place, a physician and a bright particular star in Masonry, took it into his head on one occasion to pay that church a visit, while it was holding divine service, and give the congregation and their minister a piece of his mind. Accordingly he went. He commenced an abusive and threatening tirade outside of the church at first, but not content with this, finally entered, and in a boisterous, repulsive way intermeddled with the preacher, and completely arrested the progress of church service, discomforting, incommoding, and rendering all unpleasant and excited who were present. He was afterwards summoned to appear before a magistrate and answer for this breach of the peace. Finding things not prepared to his hand, he asked a continuance of his cause, alleging upon oath that he could not safely proceed with his trial for the want of material witnesses, for whose attendance he had exercised all due diligence. The prosecution proved that one of the witnesses on whose account he asked a continuance, had been voluntarily excused by himself, after he had been regularly subpœnaed! The other was not present at the meeting and knew nothing of the facts — therefore could not be a material witness! Here were two very evident lies sworn to by this worthy Mason—one, that he had used due diligence to have his material witnesses present, when he had voluntarily released one who had been subpœnaed; and the other, that he could not safely proceed to trial for want of a witness who knew nothing of the facts! This in the case of anybody but a Mason would have made him liable to indictment, arrest and trial for perjury; but as the Mason is by the laws of his institution "free" from all accountability to law in the outside world, being a *Free*mason—he has nothing to fear from any perjury he may commit in the courts of the land. They are to him but as the baseless fabric of a vision—or men in buckram. They amount to nothing. He toys with them as playthings to be tossed over and thrown away at his pleasure. This God defier finally secured a change of venue; moved the case to another court; packed the jury, and sent the prosecution off howling. It was little that his guilt was clearly proven before the jury. They were all Masons, and knowing their business much better than the prosecution or the court knew theirs, they flew to the relief of a worthy brother Mason menaced by sudden and imminent danger and extricated him from the same "right or wrong."

It was clearly shown to court and jury, by the testimony of both church members and the witnesses for the defence that the accused did enter the church and in a vile, malicious manner unlawfully disturb a worshiping congregation. After pleadings on both sides, the case was given to the jury; whereupon they retired, and in less than five minutes returned with grinning faces and pronounced the verdict: "We the jury find prisoner not guilty!" The justice who presided voluntarily told one of the members of the church the next day, that that was the most outrageous verdict he had ever heard rendered. When the above villainously false verdict was read, every Mason in the court room, so far as could be discovered, clapped his hands, stamped his feet, and vehemently and vociferously cheered. Which means, Masonically interpreted, "We defy all law save the Masonic." How do you like it, cowans? Don't all speak at once. Worse and more of it hereafter.

J. H. H. WOODWARD.

SECEDER'S LIST—(CONTINUED).

Henry Johns (3) Perrysville, Ind.
Pres. Woody of Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa.
R. S. Ball (1) Huron, O.
W. H. Sanderson, Brandon, Vt.
Milton Hamblin, Chili, N. Y.
J. Tweedy (3) Lincolnville, Ill.
S. M. Good, Des Moines, Iowa.
C H. Elliot (3) Midland Co., Mich.
A. D. Warner (3) Aurora, Ill.
Rev. O. P. Crawford, (7) Aurora, Ill.
Total reported, 187.

It is advisable to keep continually before the people the burdensome cost of war. It is the heaviest financial yoke laid upon the people of this age, and in some countries it crushes them to the last point of endurance. It not only strips them of their money, but barbarizes public sentiment, by making the mere soldier honored above the worthiest benefactor, and it diverts the public energy from the paths of industrial development and prosperity. Everything, therefore, which tends to break up this hateful dominion of violence ought to be encouraged, like those influences which have nearly put an end to duelling in enlightened communities. Duels among nations are yet to be equally condemned by public opinion.—Boston Post.

Home and Farm.

CURE FOR BALDNESS.—Persons afflicted with baldness will be glad to hear that a luxuriant growth of hair may be produced by a very simple process, described by a British Consul at a Russian port, in his commercial report. In the summer of 1875 his attention was drawn to several cases of baldness among bullocks, cows and oxen, and the loss of manes and tails among horses. A former servant of the Consul's prematurely bald, whose duty it was to trim lamps, had a habit of wiping his petroleum besmeared hands on his scanty locks, and after three months of lamp-trimming experience his habit procured for him a much finer head of glossy black hair than he ever possessed before. Struck by this remarkable occurrence, the Consul tried the remedy on two retriever spaniels that had become suddenly bald, with wonderful success. His experience, therefore, induced him to suggest it to the owner of several black cattle and horses affected as above stated, and, while it stayed the spread of the disease among animals in the same shed and stables, it effected a quick and radical cure on the animals attacked. The petroleum should be of the most refined American quality, rubbed in vigorously and quickly with the palm of the hand, and applied at intervals of three days, six or seven times in all, except in the case of horses' tails and manes, when more applications may be requisite.

MASTERING VICIOUS HORSES.—Yesterday afternoon an exhibition was given at the corner of Ninth and Howard streets, of a new and very simple method of taming vicious horses, which is claimed to be superior to any in use. The first trial was with a kicking or bucking mare which, her owner says, has allowed no rider on her back for five years. She became tame and gentle in as many minutes, and allowed herself to be ridden about without a sign of her former wildness. The means by which this result was accomplished consists of a piece of light rope, which is passed around the front jaw of the mare, just above the upper teeth, crossed in her mouth, and then secured back of her neck. It is claimed that no horse will kick or jump when thus secured and that a bucking horse after receiving this treatment a few times will abandon his vicious ways forever. A very simple method was also shown by which a kicking horse can be shod. It consists in connecting the animal's head and tail by means of a rope fastened to to the tail and then to the bit, and drawn tightly enough to incline the horse's head to one side. It is claimed that it is absolutely impossible for a horse to kick on the side of the rope. At the trial yesterday a horse which for years had to be bound on the ground to be shod, suffered the blacksmith to operate on him without attempting to kick while secured in the manner described.—San Francisco Chronicle.

IMPORTANCE OF MILK IN HEALTH AND SICKNESS.

The greater the advance in knowledge of the science of medicine, and of the care and treatment of the human body to preserve its health, the more importance is attached to the use of milk for food, and to its healing properties when administered in illness. Since the era of doctresses, and medical women as lecturers, the laws of health are more studied in the family. The "ounce of prevention"—the road to health by proper exercise and diet, is beginning to be regarded with its due importance. Milk contains nourishment for every part of the body. Bone, muscle, brain and flesh can be sustained in fine condition by milk diet. The human frame is healthier when fed by variety in food; yet a certain quantity of milk should be taken every day by every person. There never was any article of diet so subject to whims and ignorant prejudices as milk. Some dislike it, others it makes "sleepy," "bilious," or "headachy." It affects the bowels of many as physic, and it is constipating to others. The persons who dislike milk, or with whom it "does not agree," are invariably the ones who require it, and whom it would probably rejuvenate did they so prepare it as to make it palatable and suitable to their particular constitutions. Milk diluted one third with lime-water will not cause any one biliousness or headache; and, if taken regularly, will so strengthen the stomach as to banish these disorders. It may be taken with acid of some kind when it does not easily digest. The idea that milk must not be eaten with pickles is not an intelligent one, as milk curdles in the stomach nearly as soon as it is swallowed. When milk is constipating, as it is frequently found to be by persons who drink freely of it in the country in summer time, a little salt sprinkled in each glassful will prevent the difficulty. As milk is so essential to the health of our bodies, it is well to consider when to take it, as how. It is a mistake to drink milk between meals, or with food at the table. In the former case it will destroy the appetite, and in the latter it is never proper to drink anything. After finishing each meal, a goblet of pure milk should be drank, and if any one wishes to grow fleshy, a pint taken before retiring at night will soon cover the scrawniest bones. Although nowadays we see a great many fleshy females, there are many lean and lank ones who sigh for the fashionable measure of plumpness, and who would be vastly improved in health and appearance could their figures be rounded with good solid flesh. Nothing is more coveted by thin women than a full figure, and nothing will so rouse the ire, and provoke the scandal of one of these "clipper builds," as the consciousness of plumpness in a rival. In cases of fever and summer complaint, milk is now given with excellent results. The idea that milk is "feverish" has exploded, and it is now the physician's great reliance in bringing through typhoid patients, or those in too low a state to be nourished by solid food. It is a mistake to scrimp the milk-pitcher. Take more milk and buy less meat. Have large-sized, well-filled milk-pitchers on the table each meal, and you will also have sound flesh and light doctors' bills.—Ex.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)
For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15
of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞ All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.
Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.
BY REV. J. W. BAIN.
We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry With an Appendix.
338 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.
Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 30 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.
In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.
This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry.
The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry.

BY ELDER D. BERNARD,
TO WHICH IS APPENDED A
Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.
The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00
The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.
FOR SALE BY
United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00.
CHEAP EDITION,
Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate.
BY MAIL, POST-PAID:
Per doz.....$3 75.
Single copy,..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.
This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.
Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP
JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;
Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.
BY REV. J. H. BROCKMAN.
This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and ——." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism
Within the Court House.
BY J. H. H. WOODWARD,
This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz. .75 cts. Per 100 by Express .$6 00

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.
As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.
BY J. H. H. WOODWARD.
By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz. by mail;
By Express, per 100 $6 00,

The Christian Cynosure.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1877.

A Pole-Star for the Freedman.

Another journal whose columns are open to a discussion of the iniquities of the lodge has just come to our notice, the National Monitor of Brooklyn, N. Y., edited by Rev. Rufus L. Perry, Rev. R. DeBaptiste, corresponding editor. The two numbers before us contain an article on the proof of the anti-Christian character of Freemasonry by Rev. A. L. Post of Montrose, Pa., a well known and able writer in our reform and President of the American Baptist Free Mission Society. A sermon on secret societies preached before the First Colored Baptist church of Montgomery, Alabama, May 13th, 1877, by Rev. C. O. Booth, Corresponding Secretary of the Alabama Colored Baptist State Convention, is also printed. So to rebuke our doubts of any agency to protect the colored man from the attacks of the secret lodge, we see with joy this hope arise.

A word concerning this paper and its editors. The Monitor is published by Rev. Rufus L. Perry for the American Educational Association, of which he is the Corresponding Secretary. This association is incorporated under the laws of the State of New York for the following worthy object:

"This association, which is national and undenominational in its operations, is officered and managed principally by colored persons, who are laboring to educate, evangelize and elevate their race in the South, and wherever they may have opportunity, work and means to work with.

"First-class teachers are sent South as they may be called for, and schools are organized on a self-sustaining basis in the more interior parts of the South among the laboring classes."

The Monitor is also the official organ of the afore-named American Baptist Free Mission Society. This name is familiar with nearly every one of our Baptist readers, who yet cherish in bright memory the American Baptist, which under the able editorial control of Rev. Nathan Brown, D.D., was the organ of the Free Mission Society.

We were lately told that the Free Mission Society had closed up its affairs, being no longer a necessity after the abolition of slavery. This must have been a mistake however, as it appears that in a modified form the society is yet in active efforts for the freedman. The Monitor publishes the following on its history and object:

"The Consolidated American Baptist Missionary Convention was organized in New York city, A. D. 1840. It was incorporated June 24th, 1848, under the laws of the State of New York, as 'The American Baptist Missionary Convention.' It formed an organic union with the colored Baptists of the South through duly authorized delegates, in 1866, at Richmond, Va., they added the word 'consolidated' to indicate the union, and then started out as one of the national missionary and educational societies of the United States, having its act of incorporation so changed in law as to legalize the new title.

"The object of this Convention is the evangelization, education and general elevation of the colored people in this country, in the West Indies, in Africa, and wherever favorable opportunity is offered for earnest work, with the approbation of God."

The Rev. Mr. Perry is also Corresponding Secretary of the Consolidated Convention. Rev. Mr. De Baptiste, the corresponding editor, is pastor of Olivet (colored) Baptist church of Chicago, and has officiated here for many years.

The Monitor is now in its eighth volume, and as the representative of some half a million of our colored citizens has a wide field of usefulness. May God speed its efforts.

Grant at a Grand Master's Table.

In his banqueting tour through England ex-President Grant was, with one exception, treated with that uniform respect and public consideration which sovereigns of Europe are accustomed to show to each other's distinguished representatives. Though he is no longer President or General but simply citizen Grant, he has been received as if England was using her generous hospitality to our whole nation in his person—with one exception. His conduct in becoming the recipient of such favors is not above criticism, and he had done better to have respected the traditions of the Republic. But there was an exception, a brief eclipse in the full glory of banquets and congratulatory speeches. Just before he left for the continent Albert Edward, Grand Master of English Masons, and heir presumptive, invited him to dine at Marlborough House, and for once traditional American simplicity came to the front and the ex-President instead of enjoying the highest seat at the right hand of his host was placed at the very foot of the table, a simple Mr. Grant, of less account in the catalogue of snobbery than even Minister Pierrepont, who sat above him. Gen. Grant must get better ready the next time he travels and take some degrees and titles in Freemasonry if he purposes dining with a Grand Master; a simple connection, more or less, with a workman's society, the Odd-fellows, is not an introduction into every circle. Simply and truly, contrasted with his previous reception, the Prince of Wales grossly insulted Gen. Grant, as he would not have treated the meanest whipster of a "Grand Master" from any State in the Union. Let us hope Queen Victoria will live long enough for her son to recover from some of his distinguished follies, that the greatest and most Christian nation in Europe be not cursed with them.

Why do we Oppose the Lodge?

Because it is a powerful and dangerous combination which we must resist or obey.

In "Proofs of a Conspiracy" by John Robinson, A. M., Professor of Natural Philosophy and Secretary to the Royal Society of Edinburgh, in the fourteenth edition published by George Forman, New York, 1798, on page 14 in giving a summary of his investigations into what he calls a combination of "all the different systems of Freemasonry," he says: "An association has been formed for the express purpose of rooting out all the religious establishments and overturning all the existing governments of Europe." This is the conclusion to which the learned professor arrived after a personal experience in several degrees and a thorough examination of the whole subject.

This same SYSTEM of lodges, having the same end in view now exists in America, and is supported by and acting in concert with, and as a part of the European system. Its head manager in this country is the notorious Albert Pike, who figures in the public prints as "The Most Puissant Sovereign Grand Commander." Its constituents are "all the different systems" of secret orders, combined in one gigantic moving pillar of base hypocrisy, shameless perfidy and spiritual debauchery, garnished with stolen virtues, fostered, with few exceptions, by the most worthless and profligate of men, and under the guise of morality, benevolence, polite learning and the sanctity of religion, it is stealthily preparing the way and nervously awaiting the opportune moment when, under the leadership of the man, or fiend in human form, who commanding at Pea Ridge ordered his guerillas to scalp the heads of Union soldiers, it shall re-enact on this continent the bloody scenes of the French Revolution. What French infidelity taught in its secret schools, Freemasonry is teaching in its lodges, whether under another name or not it matters little, and what those teachings produced in France they will re-produce in America, unless met and counteracted by the Word of God.

THE NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

has lifted up a standard against this alliance of Satanic powers, and is endeavoring to arouse the people to a sense of their danger and rally them in united efforts to check the progress of this moral "pestilence that walketh in darkness" and avert the fearful calamity impending. It furnishes a platform upon which all who accept the Word of God can meet in counsel, and from which words of truth and voices of warning go forth unmuzzled through the land. Unlike to the system it opposes, the Christian Association boasts of neither antiquity or wealth, but in child-like trust sits at the feet of Him whom the lodge rejects, that it may learn how best to save a free government, the church and precious souls from "the wiles of the devil."

BUILDING.

Up to this time the Association does not own the building which it has occupied and controlled for the past year. Philo Carpenter, Esq., offers this building and lot as a free gift to be used as a publishing house, provided all the other friends will give to the cause (not to Mr. Carpenter) before the first day of April, 1878, the sum of $30,000 in cash or good negotiable, interest-bearing notes. Nearly $25,000 of this amount has been paid or pledged, a considerable portion of which is conditioned upon the whole amount being raised and the property deeded to the Association. Five thousand dollars more are wanted to carry our mission beyond this landmark in its progress.

IS IT IMPORTANT THAT A PUBLISHING HOUSE BE SECURED?

Friends of the anti-secrecy reform agree that it is, and many of the most earnest and active workers feel that it is well nigh a necessity. The Association should own publish and control its own literature and contemplates doing so. With a view to this end a committee consisting of Hon. J. B. Walker, Rev. A. D. Freeman, Rev. E. Hildreth, M. R. Britten and E. B. Thompson was appointed at its annual business meeting, June 20, 1877, to take this whole matter under advisement and report to the Board of Directors at an early date.

Nothing would rejoice our enemies more than to see this opportunity pass unimproved, and nothing would do more to dishearten the timid and half-persuaded, than a failure at this very point to which so many eyes have been directed. The influence already gained in this city and throughout the country would be partially neutralized and the advancing columns of our army sorely tried. Then too, a portion of the work already done in soliciting and collecting funds would be lost. The daily noon prayer-meeting and public initiations abandoned or moved to a hired hall. The free reading-room with its supply of tracts for gratuitous, distribution and publications on sale must be given up, and our cause become a suppliant asking to be tolerated in the churches and prayer-meetings of others, and when denied must go away in silence, or enter an unwelcome intruder and remain a repulsive disturber of the peace. Brethren and friends can you afford this? I think not.

How then shall the five thousand dollars be raised? This is a question easily enough asked by any one man, but which it will take a number of poor men or a few rich ones to answer effectively. Bro. Myers of New Jersey, suggested that we get all the friends together and then raise the money before we separate. This would be a good plan only for the fact that it is impracticable and impossible. We cannot bring together the ends of the earth or gather all our friends into one mass convention; but it is both possible and practicable to send pledges or contributions less or more through the mail or by express.

Now I have this to suggest. Are there not among our friends six persons who will give $500 each to make up the first three of the $5,000. Then are there not ten others who will give $100 each to make up the fourth thousand. Are there not ten others who will make up the next five hundred in sums of fifty each, and twenty who will give twenty-five dollars each, and many others who will give ten, five or one dollar or less as a margin against failures or contingent losses on unpaid notes or pledges. This plan to me seems feasible and to come as near Bro. Myers' suggestion as the circumstances of the case will permit. Brethren, may I not hope for an early response from many of you either in accordance with the above suggestions or by some better method. This matter should not be put by until the last day in the afternoon. It is too important, and unless attended to now like many a poor soul it may be forever lost through procrastination.

J. P. STODDARD.

—The noon prayer meeting held in the upper room of the Carpenter Building has, until lately, been in charge of a committee from the various churches of the West side. For various reasons it has been thought that it would be conducted more successfully if controlled by the Chicago Christian Association, and at a late meeting of the committee was turned over to that society. Though reduced in numbers the meeting still holds on hopefully. Let every friend of the reform make an effort to attend whenever in Chicago.

—The Freemasons of Chautauqua county, N. Y., are glorying in their shame since the return of Past Master Ronayne. Having no arguments but such as would make their order a subject of ridicule if promulgated among the people, they resort to the publication of abusive letters in the county papers, attempting to raise a laugh against the gentleman who volunteered to act as candidate, because some members of the lodge stole his clothing from the anteroom. The lodge men find it hard work, such whistling to keep up their courage.

—Another very encouraging prayer meeting is held every week at the house of Mr. Ronayne, 104 Bremer street, on the North Side. This meeting was started last winter soon after the close of Moody's meetings and continues with a good number and hopeful spirit. Connected with it the ladies of Chicago Avenue Church (better known as Moody's church) hold a weekly sewing circle in the same room.

—Rev. H. H. Hinman visited Geneva Lake, Wisconsin, last week. He found no opportunity of lecturing in the brief time he spent in the place, but found a Wesleyan church nearly completed which will be open for lectures at proper times.

—Rev. J. P. Stoddard left this city for Wisconsin on Saturday. He expects to be absent about two weeks visiting Fond du lac, Vienna, Menomonie and other points.

—Rev. D. Yant, a pioneer reformer of Ohio has nearly recovered from a very severe illness of last winter, but not sufficiently to undertake so actively in the reform as his zeal for the truth prompts. He has however lately assisted in the organization of a new auxiliary association in Winfield, Tuscarawas county. Rev. C. F. Hawley of Damascosville, Ohio, assisted also at this organization and lectured on the 25th and 26th ult. in the United Brethren church four miles west of Canal Dover.

—The Christian Republic, Tusculum, E. Tenn., is about to begin publishing a history of Salem church, near Columbus, Miss., the wonderful anti-slavery colony planted and maintained under God by that remarkable man, William Feemster. This record will be a most valuable contribution to anti-slavery history and will be worth ten times the cost of the Republic per year. The Salem colony was not only anti-slavery from the first, years before the war, but was thoroughly Anti-masonic long before the National movement was thought of. Send for the Republic and get the whole narrative.

—Prof. J. R. W. Sloane was lately installed as pastor of the congregation of the Reformed Presbyterian church in Allegheny City, Pa. He will continue his labors as professor in the Theological Seminary located in the same city. Rev. S. J. Crowe of Newcastle presided and gave the charge to the congregation; Rev. J. C. McFeeters of Parnassus preached the installation sermon, and Rev. Dr. A. M. Milligan of the Pittsburgh church gave the charge to the pastor. Prof. Sloane sailed on the "Bolivia" of the Anchor Line on June 16th as delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian Council now sitting in Edinburgh.

—The Inter-ocean of this city has made a statement of the expenses connected with its management which are interesting to any who care to know the cost of supplying the world daily with its news. The Inter-ocean started March 25, 1872, and at the end of the year had sunk $62,571. The next year it ran behind $34,847, and in 1874, $60,849. These sums had nothing to do with machinery and fixtures. In 1874 by the 20th of October the loss was $71,116, and from that time to the close of the year it was $14,000. In 1876, $59,313 was sunk, and not until the present year has its balances been on the favorable side. It reports a gain of $42,208 this year. These figures are instructive in showing how easily a respectable fortune may be lost in a few months in the enterprise of journalism.

Keen hunger gives a savor to a dish that would otherwise be insipid or disagreeable. This fact may serve to explain how worldly or sinful souls may gorge themselves with carnal pleasures. Deprived of the spiritual food of devotion and union with God, yet goaded by an insatiate craving for some absent good, they devour whatever Satan or a seductive world presents, and glut themselves with the offal of sin.

Front view of the CARPENTER DONATION, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

N. C. A. RECEIPTS FOR JUNE, 1877.

PUBLISHING HOUSE FUND:

"," Wethersfield, Ill	$5 00

GENERAL FUND.

1st Church of Christ, Wheaton, per James Grove	2 50

ILLINOIS FUND.

Moses Pettengill, Peoria	20 00

INTEREST:

Note No. 10, J. B. Walker, Wheaton, Ill.	12 00
RENT:	90 67
Total	$130 17

H. L. KELLOGG, Treas.

The National Christian Association.

PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

SECRETARIES.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

PRESIDENT OF THE CORPORATE BODY.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

VICE PRESIDENT. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

DIRECTORS.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

RECORDING SEC'Y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

COR. SEC'Y AND GENERAL AGENT.—J. P. Stoddard, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TREASURER.—H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

"The object of this Association is:—

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption"

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

FORM OF BEQUEST.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield..
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbcla.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. STODDARD, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.

For STATE LECTURERS State Ass'n list.

Others who will lecture when desired:—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wi
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co.,
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faulot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

Care for the Little Ones.

Gather them close to your loving heart—
Cradle them on your breast:
They will soon enough leave your brooding care,
Soon enough mount youth's topmost stair—
Little ones in the nest.

Fret not that the children's hearts are gay,
That their restless feet will run;
There may come a time in the bye and bye
When you'll sit in your lonely room and sigh
For a sound of childish fun;

When you'll long for a repetition sweet,
That sounded through each room,
Of "Mother!" "Mother!" the dear love-calls
That will echo long in the silent halls,
And add to their stately gloom.

There may come a time when you'll long to hear
The eager, boyish tread,
The tuneless whistle, the clear, shrill shout,
The busy bustle in and out,
And pattering overhead.

When the boys and girls are all grown up
And scattered far and wide,
Or gone to the undiscovered shore
Where youth and age come nevermore,
You will miss them from your side.

Then gather them close to your loving heart,
Cradle them on your breast,
They will soon enough leave your brooding care,
Soon enough mount youth's topmost stair—
Little ones in the nest.

—Selected.

The Responsibility of Mothers.

How few mothers truly appreciate the responsibility of their position! To them a soul is given to train for heaven. The ground uncultivated, but soon little sins, like seeds, are sown in the heart. Will you let foul weeds choke out the sweet blossoms of truth and innocence? This is the question which every parent—every mother particularly—should ask herself, for sooner or later she must answer it. Characters traced on water are quickly obliterated; those imprinted on clay sink into the yielding surface, yet require the touch of the graver's tools to deepen the lines, else they, too, may be effaced. The young child's mind is like soft clay; the characters engraved upon it must be daily retraced, until the clay becomes hardened, so that they can never be blotted out.

Daily we recognize in our children our own faults. We see our own obstinacy, our own pride and selfishness, cropping out in the little ones for whose welfare we would give our lives. Alas! we did not strangle these hydra-headed serpents before we became mothers, but nourished a fell brood in our hearts, not seeing their hideousness till they stung us wofully through our children. Well it is if we turn to our God and Saviour in this our hour of bitter need for help, for now we have a double or triple brood to battle with, and if God's grace be not vouchsafed, our prospects for the future are most miserable.

Mothers who groan over your daily tasks, whose nights are sleepless, and whose nerves are taxed to the utmost, think on these things! "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." If irritable words, sour looks and passionate rebuffs, are the crops now planted, be sure that the harvest will be of the same nature. But if self is put far out of sight; if the aching nerves are soothed by thoughts of the "One mighty to save, all powerful to succor," who bore his cross meekly; if the child is led by gentle words and loving caresses—freely given—then the harvest will bring us full ripened sheaves.

But if the father and mother do not see eye to eye, in the management of the souls given to their keeping, then God pity them both! If the father would lead them to the Good Shepherd, but the mother beckons them to the "bye and forbidden paths" of worldly pleasures and fashionable life; or, if the mother earnestly endeavors to lead her babes to Him who "took little children in his arms and blessed them," while the father's example and influence counteracts her efforts—then here, more than anywhere else, is our Father the only hope! But when neither parent has this fear of God before their eyes; ah, we cannot wonder at the wickedness and undisciplined state of many of the children of the present day! The father and mother never were taught—never exercisesd self-denial or self-control; never manifested the grace of a Christian spirit. Can they expect their children will be wiser than they? The parents "have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge." Many a mother deplores the neglect of discipline in her own childhood, yet has not the force of character to enable her to govern her little ones, and groans and sighs over their misdeeds, exclaiming, "What shall I do? Were there ever such children as mine?" instead of taking courage to administer needful discipline, until the little rebel is taught obedience.

The burden of government rests, and should rest, more on the mother than on the father, while children are young, and she must see that obedience is enforced in the tender years, when character is so easily moulded, if she would save her darlings. The bells toll in some large towns for a "lost child!" The knell strikes terror into every heart! But, alas! if they tolled for all the children lost through the culpable neglect of their parents they would never be silenced, but toll on for ages. Many a young man of the present day is lost to his parents far more than if he had strayed away in infancy from his mother's side. Lost—in the saloons of our cities, in the dram shop of town and village—in the prisons of each State! How many daughters are lost in the giddy round of fashion and folly, in idleness, and selfishness, forgetting the obligations they owe to those who have watched and toiled for them from the earliest years! If happily, they sink no farther; if, under all the enervating dissipations in which they indulge, and the insiduous temptations which surround them, they escape the "lower depth," from which women may never return; if preserved from this fearful degradation and destruction, there may be hope still for undisciplined and selfish daughters. Should they become honored wives, and learn by experience—our best earthly teacher—all that their mothers have endured for them, then they may fully realize their obligations; and often an unfeeling, ungrateful daughter is made, by the sufferings of maternity, unselfish, considerate, and loving.

O, mothers, pray much! Forget not your responsible duties, but guard, with holiest care, your little ones!—Mother at Home.

A Specialty.

The doctor said the baby must ride out. My husband was a good driver, and we had a fine horse and buggy. We rode out one afternoon, papa, baby and I; but the cigar went also, and somehow the smoke would come in baby's face. She turned away her little head and coughed every few moments.

"That baby can't have much of a muscular constitution," said the father, "if it can't stand a little tobacco smoke. We must ride out oftener, and it will get used to it."

But we didn't ride out any more. I had found by experience that tobacco must have its way. I went out about two weeks after this, one evening, to call on some friends of ours, Mr. and Mrs. N.; cultured, refined, charming people. Much to my surprise, William soon took out his cigar, asking, of course, the question: "Is it offensive?" As I never heard of anybody answering yes, he smoked and smoked all the evening. Mrs. N. coughed every three minutes. I said: "You have taken cold, Mrs. N." "No," said my husband, "it is my cigar." Still smoking, he arose and opened the door, to let a little fresh air into the room, giving Mr. N., who sat near the door, the full benefit of a draught. Next day Mr. N. was home sick with cold and headache. Both people, I knew, never liked tobacco in their small parlor, which was always sweet as a rosebud, and bright as sunshine and flowers, and as neatly arranged as refinement and taste could make it. I never went out to call with William again in the evening. Mrs. N. lent me a book of choice poems, very elegantly bound. I laid it away in a drawer, but William found it. He has a rich, musical voice, and reads poems finely. He read in it every night for a week, smoking all the time; and when he had finished the book one day as I turned the leaves, around the poems sweetest with the dew of thoughts and brightest with the glow of soul-light lingered the odor of tobacco. He had laid the book, it seems, in his drawer at night—and that drawer! I wish you could have bent over it. In the center was always a cigar-case—never empty. With every tobacco lover it is always a specialty, and everything has to generalize around it—handkerchiefs, cravats, gloves, papers, books, everything in that drawer had that intolerably ugly odor forever lingering about it. The book of poems, in blue and gold, with golden thoughts hidden between its snowy leaves, had, after being thoroughly smoked every evening, slept three nights in that drawer, poisoned by Lottenbrug & Sons; and sent back to my friend Mrs. N., would be to her, in its choice place, in her drawer sweet with dried geranium and heliotrope, a new specialty.

The book never went back. It was hard times for us pecuniarily; but I bought a new volume that Lottenbrug & Sons had never seen, and I sent it to Mrs. N. I use my own books as I like, but other people's must go back to them as they came.

I wish I could have my darling husband back again; his breath was so pure and sweet, his temper was so even and calm. I wish some angel would persuade him to leave it off, to break the tyrant's chain, and we could be as happy as we were once. We all can see how it harms him; strange he cannot see it himself, how even his hands begin to tremble.—Herald of Health.

The Strong Churches.

The other day in Boston, Mr. Moody was giving his opinion about gathering the converts into the churches. He wanted this done whenever the pastors were reasonably sure of the reality of the conversions; but he favored caution, and the application of suitable tests, lest many should be hastily received to membership, to the injury alike of themselves and of the church. In connection with this he told of his two ambitions. When he first undertook to gather a church, in Chicago, he had an ambition to have a large church. So he labored zealously, and accepted professed converts readily, and ere long had several hundred members on his rolls. But pretty soon the experience began to come, and some of it was rather trying; and then his mind underwent a revolution, and he had an ambition for a small church. His idea was, that mere numbers availed little; that a few, who were laborious and efficient were worth more than a multitude of the idle and inefficient.

The power of a church is in the purity of its membership, and not in the length of its roll; as the strength of an army is in its courage and discipline, rather than in the number of its regiments. And so, when Mr. Moody had surrounded himself with a crowd of hastily received members, and the evidence of their conversion began rapidly to diminish, and the necessity for painful processes of discipline appeared, his complacency in numbers disappeared, and he had a great ambition to have a small, well assorted, homogeneous, thoroughly converted, properly instructed, and active church—a Gideon's band, instead of an Israelitish mob.—Sunday School Times.

We have nothing but our wills, everything else belongs elsewhere. Disease removes life and health; riches take to themselves wings; intellectual talents depend on the state of the body. The only thing that really belongs to us is our will, and it is of this, therefore, that God is especially jealous, for he gave it to us not that we should retain it but that we should return it to him whole as we received it.

Children's Corner

Discontent.

Down in a field, one day in June,
The flowers all bloomed together,
Save one, who tried to hide herself,
And drooped, that pleasant weather.

A robin who had soared so high,
And felt a little lazy,
Was resting near a buttercup
Who wished she were a daisy.

For daisies grew so trig and tall;
She always had a passion
For wearing frills about her neck
In just the daisies' fashion.

And buttercups must always be
The same old tiresome color;
While daisies dress in gold and white,
Although their gold is duller.

"Dear robin," said this sad young flower,
"Perhaps you'd not mind trying
To find a nice white frill for me,
Some day, when you are flying?"

"You silly thing," the robin said;
"I think you must be crazy!
I'd rather be my honest self,
Than any made-up daisy.

"Your nicer in your own bright gown,
The little children love you;
Be the best buttercup you can,
And think no flower above you.

"Though swallows leave me out of sight,
We'd better keep our places;
Perhaps the world would all grow wrong,
With one too many daisies.

"Look bravely up into the sky,
And be content with knowing
That God wished for a buttercup,
Just here where you are growing."

—Selected.

Street Talk.

"Learn to talk like a gentleman, my boy. Papa is sorry to hear you talk 'street talk.' Do quit it."

"What is 'street talk,' papa?"

"What did you just now say to sister?"

"I told her to be quiet."

"But you said, 'Hush up!' and said it very loudly and rudely. And what did you, ten minutes ago, say to Martha?"

"I told her to go out of my way."

"But you did not say it half so nicely as that. You said, 'Get out of this!' and I think you called her some name. What was it?"

Harry looked ashamed, and the tears came; but he answered, "I called her a 'dirty sneak.'"

"Just so. That is what I mean by street talk. All these naughty words, and especially the rough tone and manner you hear on the street. They belong to those boys who have never been taught any better, and to those men who, though knowing better, yet do not care anything about the better way. But my little boy must never use street talk."

Insect Statistics.

In 1872 the caterpillars of the brown tail moth were so numerous as to defoliate the trees of a very large part of the South of England. The alarm was so great that public prayers were offered in the churches that the calamity might be stayed. The poor were paid one shilling per bushel for collecting caterpillars' webs to be burned under the inspection of the overseer of the parish; and four score bushels were collected daily in some parishes. But on the other hand, the benefits derived from the labor of some insects should not be overlooked; some species feed on noxious weeds, and others prey on still more noxious insects. One of the greatest friends of the agriculturist is the family of ichneumon flies, which lay their eggs in the bodies of living caterpillars, in which they are hatched, thus destroying them; although the caterpillar, after being "ichneumened," has still a voracious appetite. The caterpillars which feed on the cabbage eat twice their weight in a day; the larvæ of some of the flesh flies eat a much larger proportion than this. The productive powers of insects vary very much. Some lay only two eggs; others, such as the white ant, 40,000,000, laying them at the rate of sixty a minute. The queen of a beehive is capable of laying 50,000 in a season; the female wasp 30,000. The majority of insects, however, lay but one hundred; in general the larger the insect, the fewer the eggs it lays. Most insects have two generations in a year; some have twenty; others take seven years from the time the egg is laid until their death in a perfect state. But probably not above five per cent. of the eggs laid become perfect insects. Our insectivorous birds are diligent in destroying the larvæ of insects, but they will not do all that is required; hard labor is also needed.—London Times.

Bunker Hill Monument.

This monument stands in the center of the grounds included within the breast-works of the old redoubt on Breed's Hill. Its sides are precisely parallel with those of the redoubt. It is composed of Quincy granite, and is two hundred and twenty-one feet in height. The foundation is composed of six courses of stone, and extends twelve feet below the surface of the ground and base of the shaft. The four sides of the foundation extend about fifty feet horizontally. There are in the whole pile ninety courses of stone, six of them below the surface of the ground and eighty-four above. The foundation is laid in lime and mortar; the other parts of the structure in lime and mortar, mixed with cinders, iron filings and Springfield hydraulic cement.

The base of the obelisk is thirty feet square; at the spring of the apex fifteen feet. Inside of the shaft is a round hollow cone, the outside diameter of which, at the bottom, is ten feet, and at the top six feet. Around this inner shaft winds a spiral flight of stone steps, two hundred and ninety-five in number. In both the cone and shaft are numerous little apertures for the purpose of ventilation and light. The observatory, or chamber at the top of the monument, is seventeen feet in height and eleven in diameter. It has four windows, one on each side, which are provided with iron shutters. The cap-piece of the apex is a single stone, three feet and six inches in thickness and four feet square at its base. It weighs two and a half tons.

Almost fifty years had elapsed from the time of the battle before a movement was made to erect a commemorative monument on Breed's Hill. An association for that purpose was founded in 1822; and to give eclat to the transaction and to excite enthusiasm in favor of the work, General Lafayette, then "the the Nation's guest," was invited to lay the corner stone. Accordingly on the 17th of June, 1825, the fiftieth anniversary of the battle, that revered patriot performed the interesting ceremony, and the Hon. Daniel Webster pronounced an oration on the occasion, in the midst of an immense concourse of people. Forty survivors of the battle were present, and on no occasion did La Fayette meet so many of his fellow-soldiers in our Revolution as at that time. The plan of the monument was not then decided upon; but one by Solomon Willard, of Boston, having been approved, the present structure was commenced in 1827 by James Savage, of the same city. In the course of a little more than a year the work was suspended on account of want of funds, about fifty-six thousand dollars having been collected and expended. The work was resumed in 1834, and again suspended within a year for the same cause, about twenty thousand dollars more having been expended.

In 1840 the ladies moved in the matter. A fair was announced to be held in Boston, and every female in the United States was invited to contribute some production of her own hands to the exhibition. The fair was held at Faneuil Hall in Septembe, 1840. The proceeds amounted to sufficient, in connection with some private donations, to complete the structure, and within a few weeks subsequently a contract was made with Mr. Savage to finish it for forty-three thousand dollars. The last stone of the apex was raised at about 6 o'clock on the morning of the 23d of July, 1842. Edward Carnes, jr., of Charlestown, accompanied its ascent, waving the American flag as he went up, while the interesting event was announced to the surrounding country by the roar of cannon. On the 17th of June, 1843, the monument was dedicated; on which occasion Hon. Daniel Webster was again the orator, and vast was the audience of citizens and military assembled there. The President of the United States (Mr. Tyler) and his whole Cabinet were present.

In the top of the monument are two cannons, named respectively "Hancock" and "Adams," which formerly belonged to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. The "Adams" was burst by them in firing a salute. The following is the inscription upon the two guns:

"SACRED TO LIBERTY."

"This is one of the four cannons which constituted the whole train of field artillery possessed by the British Colonies of North America at the commencement of the war, on the 19th of April, 1775. This cannon and its fellow, belonging to a number of citizens of Boston, were used in many engagements during the war. The other two, the property of the government of Massachusetts, were taken by the enemy.

"By order of the United States, in Congress assembled, May 19th, 1778."—Selected.

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXIX.—July 22, 1877.—PAUL AT LYSTRA.

SCRIPTURE.—Acts 14: 8-20. Commit 13-17.

8. And there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked.

9. The same heard Paul speak: who steadfastly beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10. Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked.

11. And when the people saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, The gods have come down to us in the likeness of men.

12. And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker.

13. Then the priest of Jupiter, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and would have done sacrifice with the people.

14. Which when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying out,

15. And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you that ye should turn from these vanities unto the living God, which made heaven and earth and the sea, and all things that are therein:

16. Who in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways.

17. Nevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18. And with these sayings scarce restrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them.

19. And there came thither certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium, who persuaded the people, and, having stoned Paul, drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead.

20. Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up, and came into the city: and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"But the Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting King."—Jer. 10: 10.

A FEARFUL REACTION.

Truth is stranger than fiction. The "Hosannas" of to-day become the "crucifys" of to-morrow. Paul deified becomes Paul stoned. Another illustration of fame's fickle character is given—for ever has it been that

"As changed the wind her organ so she changed
Perpetually; and whom she praised to-day,
Vexing his ear with acclamations loud,
To-morrow blamed, and hissed him out of sight."

1. The cause of this reaction (v. 19) was the course of some unbelieving Jews from Antioch and Iconium, who dogged the footsteps of the apostolic missionaries, and even in distant Lystra stirred up the people to deeds of violence. The success of their efforts was all the easier for the estimation in which Barnabas and Paul had been previously held. If not "gods," as the preachers themselves admitted, they must be evil spirits, impostors. They could not be true men. So these people (noted for their fickleness) would argue; so the tide would turn.

2. The form assumed by the reaction was that of personal violence, (v. 19.) Paul was stoned till thought dead, and then dragged out of the city like a carcass. See 2 Cor. 11: 25.

3. The futility of the movement, however, was soon made evident, (v. 20) As the disciples stood around him in sorrow, he "rose up"—doubtless through supernatural strength—and went into the city, apparently as sound as ever. The next day, too, in obedience to Christ's command, (Matt. 10: 23), he departed with Barnabas to Derbe, a town not many miles distant.—Evangelical Repository.

HOME READINGS.

M. 1 Cor 3: 1-23....“Let no Man Glory in Men.”
T. Gal. 2: 1-21 ...“Not I, but Christ in Me.”
W. Eph. 3: 1-21 ...“The Power that Worketh in us.”
T. Rom. 15: 1-19....“By the Power of the Spirit.”
F. 2 Cor. 12: 1- 0....“Weak, then am I Strong.”
S. Eph. 6: 1-19 ..“Be Strong in the Lord.”
S 2 Cor. 4: 1-18....“We Preach not Ourselves.”
—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

READ FOR ILLUSTRATION.

“Lystra.”—Act 13 50 51; 14:1-7.

“A cripple.”—And a certain man lame from his mother's womb, was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful. Acts 3:2; 2 Sam. 9:3; Is. 35:6; Matt. 11:5; Heb. 12:13; Rom. 7:18

“He had faith.”—Thy faith hath made thee whole. Mat. 9.22, 29; 13:58; Acts 3:16.

“Stand upright.”—In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk. Acts 3:6; 9:34; John 14:12; 15:16.

“Leaped.”—And all the people saw him walking and praising God. Acts 3.9.

“Gods.”—This man is the great power of God. Acts 8:10; 12:22; 28.6; Rom. 1: 21-23; Eph. 4:18; Acts 17:23.

“Would have done sacrifice.”—Be more ready to hear than to offer than to offer the sacrifice of fools. Ec. 5:1; Heb. 13:16

“We also are men.”—Stand up; I myself also am a man. Acts 10.26; Rev. 19:10.

“Turn from these vanities.”—Walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind. Eph. 4:17; Is. 5:18; Jer. 10: 8; 14:22; Jon. 2:8.

“In their own ways.”—For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections. Rom. 1:26, 28; Ps. 81.12; Hos. 4.17.

“Not without witness.”—Yes, verily, their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world. Rom. 10: 18; Matt. 5: 45; Acts 17: 28; Rom. 1: 20.

“Certain Jews.”—But when the Jews saw the multitude they were filled with envy. Acts 13: 45, 50; v. 2; 9: 23; 4: 1; 5: 40; 17: 5, 13; 18. 6; 19: 13; 20: 3; 21:27; 23 12.

“Stoned Paul.”—Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck. 2 Cor. 11: 23, 25; 4: 10; 2 Tim. 3: 11; Acts 20: 24; Matt. 10, 28, 37-39; 16: 25; Lu. 9: 23; 14: 26, 27

“He rose up.”—Whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. Matt. 16: 24, 25; Mic. 7: 8; Is. 40: 31; Rev. 11: 11; Heb. 11; 34; 2 Cor. 12: 10.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

How to Study the Bible.

LECTURE BY MR. MOODY.

There is one thing you will notice in studying the Word of God. A man that is filled with the Spirit refers much to the Word of God. A man that is filled with his own ideas and with himself does not refer much to the Word of God. He thinks he can get along without it. A great many use it only as a text book, and get only texts out of it. You will find that Moses was constantly repeating the commandments to the people—telling them to remember the commandments. We find that when Joshua got across the Jordan that the whole law of God was read. You will find all through, when a man is filled with the Spirit he dwells much with the Word of God. Jesus was all the time referring to the Old Testament. Everything was done as he said. As old Dr. Bonar of Glasgow, said, the Lord didn't tell Joshua how to fight—how to use the sword—but he told him to meditate upon the law day and night, and then he should have good success. And whenever you find a man of God that is meditating upon the Word of God day and night, that man is full of courage, is full of boldness, and has success. And the reason, I believe, why many fail, or have so little success, is because they know but little about the Word of God. If we have the Spirit, the Spirit will help us. A great many in the churches who call themselves Christians take up the Bible, and wonder if it is all true. “Is it true from back to back?” A great many ask, Is it all true? There was a colored man down South who had been converted, and some infidel got hold of him, and said, “The Bible isn't true. That has been demonstrated by scientific men.” This infidel was trying to do the work of the devil to unsettle that man's belief in Christ. But the colored man said, “I know the book is true. I was once a drunkard and a blasphemer, and when I read that book I stopped swearing and stopped drinking; that book must be true.” I think the colored man had the best of the argument. If it was a bad book it wouldn't make a bad man good. If it is a delusion, and false, it won't lift men up and elevate them. The Word of God is true. Let us take our stand on the colored man's platform. If we cannot understand all its deep sayings, let us not try to reason them out by bringing God down to a level with us. If we can not understand it from back to back, it is a true sign that it is a revelation from God. It is the strongest proof, because we cannot understand all of it at once, that it is the Word of God.

A great many people neglect it because they are “pretty well acquainted with it.” They say, “I have read it through, and I know what is in it.” And how many of us prefer to read the papers to the Bible! A great many have an idea that they can get the news from the daily papers. That is false. This (the Bible) is the only news-book in the world. It not only tells what took place 6,000 years ago, but it tells you what is going to take place. A newspaper cannot do that. The editor never knows what is to occur. You will have to go to this book to find out what is going to take place.

I now take up the question

HOW TO STUDY IT,

not how to read it. A great many read it as I used to before I got converted—just to ease my conscience. I then used to read two chapters a day, and I would jump out of bed to do it. Some put a mark in the book to tell where they left off. In traveling I have seen the head of the house take down the family book and ask his wife where he left off. Some read it carelessly, and if asked ten minutes after they shut the book, they cannot tell a word that was in the chapter. Some read a chapter here and there—scatter all through—and, having no connection, they don't know anything about it. This book is altogether different from all other books. We have got to study it to understand it; read and re-read it, and pray God to cause the Holy Ghost to open our understanding. If we first go about it in that way, and set our faces, as Jehoshaphat did in prayer, like flint, and go to work to understand these blessed and heavenly truths, we will succeed.

THERE ARE THREE BOOKS THAT CHRISTIANS OUGHT TO HAVE.

The first is a good Bible. I don't like the little ones, because they are hard to read. You want one with plain print that you can see. Many object to large Bibles, because they cannot be carried in the pocket. Carry them under your arms then. As some one said, “He preached a sermon five miles long by carrying a Bible under his arm.” Let the people know who you are. Men come in on every train, and sit down and play cards. Why should you be ashamed to be seen with a Bible in your hands reading the Word of God? If you cannot get time at home, take the Bible on the train. Some say that is exhibiting the spirit of Pharisaism. If you do it in that spirit it is an abomination to men of God, but, with a pure motive, God will bless you. A great many say they cannot find time. Suppose you do not read so many daily papers, or spend so much time upon yourselves? I do not believe there is a business man in Chicago who cannot find an hour a day to study the Bible if he willed to do it.

When you have a good Bible get Cruden's Concordance; that is a great help; and then a little Scriptural text-book has been a great help to me. And when you come to the Word of God hunt for something. Don't read to ease your conscience. A great many read but a little, and the result is they don't find anything. When men went to California for the purpose of digging gold they worked hard and toiled with a terrible energy to get a little. Now, my friends, if you want to get pure gold you have got to dig for it. The best truths are not found on the surface. If you dig and keep delving you will find them. When in Boston I went to Mr. Prang's chromo establishment (I knew him), and asked him to show me the process. He took me to the first square stone; he was getting up a chromo of some public character; and he took an impression off and showed it to me, but there was no sign of a man's face; it was just tinted. I said to him, “I don't see any sign of a man's face.” He said, “Just wait a moment.” At the next stone a young man was at work on the same chromo, and he took an impression and showed it to me. I didn't see anything of the man's face. But he took me along, and we got up to the eighth, ninth or tenth stone, and then I could see the outline—the eyes, the nose, the forehead, the mouth. We went a little further, and the impression began to look more like a man. At the twentieth stone it looked something like him, but was not very correct. He said, “Wait until we get further on.” At last we reached the last one, the twenty-eighth, and he took an impression, and there was an exact likeness of the man. So we have to read the Bible. At first we take it up, and don't see anything in it. We read it over the second time, and still we see nothing, and wonder how some people get such beautiful things out of it. Read it over twenty times, and we get a little light. Dig deep and prayerfully. Read it the twenty-fourth time, and we begin to see the outlines of truth, and if we study it the twenty-eighth time, Christ Jesus is printed on every page. Christ is in the Old Testament just as he is in the New. Take Christ out of the Old Testament and you cannot understand it. There are some people in the churches who say the Old Testament is historical. “I believe in the New Testament, but don't believe in the Old.” This shows that they don't know anything about either, because the New indorses the Old. There is not a thing in the Old that men cared about that the Son of God did not put his seal to it when he was here. How often do we hear people say, “You don't really believe in the flood. Scientific men say it couldn't be.” Didn't the Son of God say, “As it was in the days of Noah?” Would you rather take the testimony of scientific men than of God? I have no sympathy with the men who go down into the ground for dead mules and dead carcasses to make them testify against the Word of God. Jesus of Nazareth believed in the flood. Some really don't believe that the whale swallowed Jonah. They say his mouth was so small he couldn't swallow him. The Word says that God prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah, and not only that, as the colored woman said, he could prepare a man to swallow a whale if he wanted to. We must not limit the powers of Almighty God. God can do these things.

SOME DON'T BELIEVE THE FIRST FIVE BOOKS, and throw them out. If you look for Christ, there you will find him. See Luke xxiv. 27, after Christ had risen, “and beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures concerning himself.” Don't that settle the question? It settles it in my mind that the Old Testament is just as true as the New. Then in the forty-fourth verse: “And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, That all things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning me. Then he opened their understandings that they might understand the Scriptures.” What are you going to do with the Passover, my friends, if you take Christ out of the Old Testament? What are you going to do with the Atonement, the sacrifices, the brazen serpent? What does it all mean? I tell you that it is a sealed book if you take Christ out of it. It is the key of the Word. Christ unlocks the Old Testament just as he does the New. Philip found Christ in the thirty-fifth chapter of Isaiah, and that is all the Scripture the early Christian had. When Paul preached on the day of Pentecost, he had the Old Testament, and 3,000 men were converted by having the Gospel preached to them from the Old Testament. So if there is any man or woman in this assembly who has ever said he does not believe in the Old Testament, but that he believes in the New,

HE IS DELUDED BY SATAN,

because if any man believes he must give up the Old Testament, he must give up the New Testament also. One book stands upon the other. And I also wish to call your attention to a thought or two on persons believing certain parts of the Scriptures. You will hear men say sometimes, I don't believe that, and I don't believe the other, and so forth. Now, when a man begins to doubt one part of the Word of God every part goes in time. We want to recognize the one grand fact that the Word is all true.

[Concluded next week.]

The world wants more sunshine in its disposition, in its business, in its charities, in its theology. For ten thousand of the aches and pains and irritations of men and women we recommend sunshine. It soothes better than morphine. It stimulates better than champagne. It is the best plaster for a wound. The Good Samaritan poured out into the fallen traveler's gash more of this than of oil. Florence Nightingale used it on the Crimean battle-fields. Take it into all the alleys, on board all the ships, by all the sick beds. Not a phial full, not a cup full, not a decanter full, but a soul full. It is good for spleen, for liver complaint, for neuralgia, for rheumatism, for falling fortunes, for melancholy.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington., D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

Outer Guard (standing).—"Outside of the inner, and to take charge of the outer door. My duties are to see that the brethren clothe themselves in proper regalia or insignia of the Order in the ante-room, and are duly qualified to enter the inner door; to take charge of the regalia, and perform such other duties as the Chancellor Commander may direct."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Outer Guard, you will now resume your proper station and relieve the Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard returns, assumes his station, and says:

"Chancellor Commander, the Inner Guard reports from his station."

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Inner Guard."

Inner Guard (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station, and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Inner Guard.—"At the inner door near the Vice Chancellor. My duties are to allow no brother to enter the Lodge who is not clothed in proper regalia or insignia of the Order, and does not give the correct raps and pass words, and to obey such other orders as may be communicated to me by the Chancellor Commander."

(Inner Guard remains standing),

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Master at Arms."

Master at Arms (rising promptly and facing the C. C.).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Master at Arms.—"At the right and in front of the Chancellor Commander. My duties are to examine all present prior to the opening of the Lodge in any rank, and report the result of said examination to the Chancellor Commander; to prepare and accompany all Retainers, Pages or Esquires during the ceremonies of initiation, proving or charging in the different grades of rank, and perform such other duties as the Chancellor Commander may direct." (Master at Arms remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Keeper of Records and Seal."

Keeper of Records and Seal (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Keeper of Records and Seal.—"At the right of the Chancellor Commander. My duties are to keep a just and impartial record of all the proceedings of this Lodge, conduct all its correspondence, have charge of the Seal and Archives, make out semi-annual returns of the work and business of this Lodge, and transmit the same to the Grand Lodge; deliver any funds, documents, or other Lodge property coming into my hands to the proper officer, and to faithfully perform all other duties prescribed by the Constitution and By-Laws of this Lodge." (Keeper of Records and Seal remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—Brother Master of Finance."

Master of Finance (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Master of Finance.—"At the left of the Chancellor Commander. My duties are to keep an accurate account between this Lodge and its members; notify all brethren who are in arrears; receive all monies and immediately pay the same over to the Master of Exchequer, taking his receipt therefor; to make out and present to this Lodge my report at the expiration of the semi-annual term, and to perform all other duties required of me by the Constitution and Ritual of the Order." (Master of Finance remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Master of Exchequer."

Master of Exchequer (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Master of Exchequer.—"At the left of the Chancellor Commander. My duties are to receive from the Master of Finance all Lodge moneys received by him, giving my receipt therefor, keeping an exact and true account of all moneys so received, making no disbursements thereof unless authorized so to do by the Lodge under an order from the Chancellor Commander, attested by the Keeper of Records and Seal, and to make a correct report to this Lodge at the end of every semi-annual term." (Master of Exchequer remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander.—"Brother Prelate."

Prelate (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Prelate—"On the left of the Chancellor Commander and opposite the Altar, forming one end of the base line of the double triangle. My duties are to perform all obligatory ceremonials in the conferring of the several grades of rank; offer up invocations to, and ask blessings from the Deity upon our labors and brotherhood, and perform such other duties required of me by the Constitution, Laws and usuages of the order, or as may be directed from time to time by the Chancellor Commander of this Lodge." (Prelate remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Vice Chancellor."

Vice Chancellor (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Vice Chancellor.—"In the second official chair, forming the apex of the second triangle, opposite to and facing the Chancellor Commander. My duties are to have charge of the second triangle and assist the Chancellor Commander in preserving order and decorum in the Lodge, aid in conducting the ceremonies of the several grades of rank, appoint a minority of all committees, (unless otherwise ordered by the Lodge,) preside in the absence of the Chancellor Commander, and have charge of the wicket." (Vice Chancellor remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (one rap).—"Brother Past Chancellor."

Past Chancellor (standing).—"Chancellor Commander."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is your station and what are your duties in this Lodge?"

Past Chancellor.—"On the right of the Chancellor Commander, opposite the Altar, forming the terminal of the base line of the double triangle. My duties, to have special supervision of all preparations and be held responsible for all floor-work or ceremonies in conferring the several grades of rank, and such other duties as the Chancellor Commander may direct."

Chancellor Commander.—"Where is the station and what are the duties of the Chancellor Commander of this Lodge?"

Past Chancellor.—"The station of the Chancellor Commander is in the first official chair, forming the head of the first triangle and Lodge. It is the duty of the Chancellor Commander to preside over and have charge of both triangles, the officers, members and visitors of his Lodge, preserve order during its session, appoint a majority of all committees (unless otherwise ordered by the Lodge), decide all questions of order without debate, subject, however, to an appeal to the Lodge, and perform such other duties appertaining to his office as may be prescribed in the work of the Order and By-Laws of his Lodge." (Past Chancellor remains standing.)

Chancellor Commander (rising to his feet; two raps; all rise).—"All of which duties I am under solemn obligation to perform with justice and impartiality; in view of which I earnestly ask the kind co operation of the officers and members of this Lodge. Let not anger or dissension arise in our midst, but let us devote our whole attention, our entire zeal, to the labor before us; and finally, let lessons of Obedience be inculcated, Strength be our motto, Friendship our watchword, and Caution our guiding star. Let harmony and peace prevail."

Chancellor Commander.—"I now declare —— Lodge, No. —, duly opened for the transaction of such business as shall legally come before it. Brother Master at Arms, you will arrange the Altar."

(The Master at Arms goes to the Altar, opens the Book and places the swords of Defence in proper position, (see instructions for arrangement of the Altar in the different grades of rank, page —,) and returns to his place.)

Chancellor Commander (addressing Inner Guard).—"Brother Inner Guard, you will communicate to the Outer Guard that this Lodge is now open, and to admit all brethren duly qualified to enter."

Inner Guard (opens door and goes out).—"Brother Outer Guard, it is the order of the Chancellor Commander that you admit all brethren duly qualified to enter, as the Lodge is regularly opened." (Returns and shuts the door.)

Inner Guard.—"Chancellor Commander, your commands have been obeyed."

Chancellor Commander gives three raps, seating the Lodge.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

1. Calling Roll of Officers.
2. Reading Minutes.
3. Reception of Petitions.
4. Reports of Committees.
5. Balloting for Candidates.
6. Conferring Degrees.
7. Communications and Bills Read.
8. New Business.
9. Has any brother any thing to offer for the good of the Order?
10. Closing in due form.

CLOSING CEREMONIES.

Chancellor Commander.—"There being no further business* before the Lodge, we will proceed to close. The brethren will attend while the Prelate implores the blessing of Deity on our deliberations." (Two raps.)

NOTE.—If there are candidates in waiting or other business, these closing ceremonies are deferred till the Lodge is ready to close.

[To be Continued.]

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. Sickels; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.
By Daniel Sickels, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2 50.

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry,

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies. Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Priuce of Mercy, etc. Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages. Price, $2.50.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work. Price. $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.
By Jeremy L. Cross, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry,

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25: paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$3 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by Rob. Morris. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, 6 MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information abont Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now puhlished in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is eutitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is eutitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J. R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illnstrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-werds, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to he most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the Cable Tow by which Satan is leading thousands te eternal death 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $ per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the nse of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered hy a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) hy its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamh Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC;

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A donble 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. J. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. I. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention hy Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to he put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Extract from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. MILLARD FILLMORE, CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHAL and others, is added.

A 2-page tract, 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO, 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, have brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE,

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4-page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repeut of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation havepronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contribnted and this 8 page tract costs hut $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of qnotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing ah ont the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $3.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100, TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M. E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts.

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fnnd a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribntion of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, bnt there is a great lack of funds to snpply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitonsly sent ont, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month. bnt fnnds are lacking to meet it.

Many of onr most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who wonld be glad to circulate thonsands of pages of Antimasonic literatnre if they conld have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosnre Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the publishers over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged for postage,

Send Contribntions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave, Chicago, Ill.

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN,

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—repnblished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Grips, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per Hnndred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illnstrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can doubt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$1 50
" per hnndred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK, CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distingnished ability, on the subject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best arguments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 3 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITE STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES O MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $1 50
Per Doz " " " $1 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpnblished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. B. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquillette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " $2 00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10 00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefully, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz, post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argument against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

BY REV. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the duty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express Charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry;" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $3 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

Publishers' Department.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING JUNE 30, 1877.—From J K Alwood, J A Bingham, J R Baird, J Bessey, J Blount, W P Burk, C Conkling, D Caulkins, J Dorcas, A C Eno, P Elzea, R B Eno, J W Fletcher, E Grinnell, F J Henderson, T Henderson, J S Hickman, J C Halsted, E Jarvis, J M Johnson, A B Lipp, H Lewis, W K Morley, J Metcalf, W Pontius, J Russell, I Remington, S F Stratton, H Spofford, I Starr, J Springer, I Stearns, J M Shellabarger, J Swickard, J Tillson, S Trickett, W Vaun.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING JULY 7, 1877, from A Ashabranner, J H Austin, J Breden, I Bancroft, G T Crouse, J H Canfield, J S Clark, D P Conant, C Derbyshire, S D Greene, N Geil, H W Hampe, E A Hall, H Harris, H Harrison, E Johnson, J H Leiper, T B McCormick, M Pettengill, R J Rand, R B Smith, W N Smith, J Shigley, S Trickett, F R Tobias, W T Wilson, I Weaver, S Wardner.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending July 7, 1877.

By Express.

S Trickett, C Conkling.

By Mail.

J Breden, G T Crouse, J Nies, T Renfrew, H G Walrath, S E Losey, A H Springstein, F L Berry, P Beck (2), J G Goodman, T J Murphy, D F B A Sanson, J H Austin, J Strasen, J Linkermann, F Dyson, A C Chittenden, W Parker, C M Ferrell, H C Feltman, O Taylor, M Crabb, A C Gilles, H Bartels I Bancroft, C Shirk, C M Cannon, A E Wilde & Co, J Spratt, A Geil, C C Crampton, D Whitling, J E Donnelly E G Frank, J M McQuown, J E Nevills, W Krebs.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, July 9, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat—	No. 2		1 47½
"	No. 3		1 24
"	Rejected		92
"	Minnesota	1 54	1 60
Corn—	No. 2		48¾
	Rejected		45½
Oats—	No. 2		33
	Rejected		24
Rye—	No. 2		62
Bran per ton			11 25
Flour—	Winter	6 75	9 25
	Spring	4 75	7 75
Hay—	Timothy	8 00	10 00
	Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		7¼	7½
Lard per cwt			8 62½
Mess pork, per bbl			12 25
Butter medium to best		12	20
Cheese		8	8
Beans		2 40	2 60
Eggs		12	..
Seeds—	Timothy	1 60	1 80
	Clover		6 00
	Flax	1 60	1 75
Potatoes new per brl		2 00	3 00
Broom corn		3½	7½
Hides	green to dry flint	6½	16
Lumber—	Clear	30 00	34 00
	Common	9 50	11 00
	Fencing	9 00	11 00
	Shingles		2 50
WOOL—	Washed	30	40
	Unwashed	20	27
LIVESTOCK Cattle	Choice	5 75	6 50
	Good	5 00	5 50
	Medium	4 25	5 00
	Common	2 75	4 00
Hogs		4 75	5 10
Sheep		2 75	4 75

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	10 25
Wheat—Spring	1 35	1 70
Winter	2 00	2 20
Corn	56	61½
Oats	33	62
Rye	74	75
Lard		9
Mess pork		14 25
Butter	10	21
Cheese	4	9
Eggs	14½	15½
Wool	14	46

MONMOUTH COLLEGE,

Monmouth, Illinois.

The next term opens Tuesday, Sept. 4th, 1877. For Catalogues, address the President.

David A. Wallace.

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1	square, 1 insertion,		$3.00
1	square (1 inch deep) one month		7.00
1	" "	2 "	10.00
1	" "	3 "	15.00
1	" "	6 "	25.00
1	" "	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 Inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton. Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass, Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers, at $2.00 a year.
5 to 9 " at 1.75 "
10 or more " at 1.50 "

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug7652t.]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing"—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 42.—WHOLE NO. 382. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
TOPICS OF THE TIMES	1
EDITORIALS:
The Pan-Presbyterian Council	8
The Ribbonmen Riots	8
President Blanchard	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Masonry South	1
Letters to Keystone Lodge, No. 5—Concluded	2
Masonry vs. Christian Discipline	3
Wasting the Power of the Church	4
REFORM NEWS:
The McHenry County, Ill., Association; Dodge County, Minn., Association; From Tuscarawas County, O.	5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Free Methodist Church and Secret Societies; The Free Methodist Church of London, Mich.; Good Templarism Feeding on the Murphy Movement; Suggestions for Pennsylvanians: From an Old-line Reformer; Come Over and Help; Face the Foe; Nothing Falls with God Behind It	4,5,6
The Iowa Freeman on a New Basis	9
GOSPEL MEETING:
How to Study the Bible	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	4
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notices.

EXPOSITIONS IN AURORA.

Past Master Ronayne announces that he will visit Aurora on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 23rd to 25th of July, to work the three degrees of Blue Lodge Masonry. He desires to meet the gentlemen who have the arrangements in charge between 2 and 3 P. M. on Monday. Let notice of this meeting be widely circulated in the city and vicinity.

DR. S. L. COOK will begin lectures about the first of August, and wishes to make a tour through Kosciusko, Miami, Carroll, Park, Putnam and Lawrence counties and perhaps others if the way is open. Friends will write at once at Albion, Indiana. He suggests that the Indiana annual State meeting be held as early as October, a week or two before the National meeting.

THE TENTH NAT'L CONVENTION.

of the National Christian Association will be held in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23rd to 25th next, beginning on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 23rd with a preliminary meeting for social converse and prayer in the afternoon of the same day. Let every friend of the reform do what he may be able for the success of this meeting: by arranging his affairs so as to be present; or, assisting to send a delegate; by having the editor of his local paper print the notice of the meeting; by suggesting some topic for practical discussion to the programme committee; but, above all, by prayer to God for his blessing upon the meeting. Let every local or auxiliary association arrange to be represented.

Topics of the Time.

Bismarck's battle with the Jesuits "that for a space" has failed is not yet done, nor will be so long as that defiant order can find a foothold or a tool in the German Empire. Yet the government shows no sign of relaxing its efforts. The Bishop of Linburg, in Nassau, having "persistently resisted the Prussian ecclesiastical laws," has been deposed formally. He was fined for offences against the Falck laws some eleven thousand dollars; instead of paying he turned over his property to various charities, which gave him the use of it during his life. The government outwitted finally deprived him of even the shadow of authority though the recalcitrant bishop still enjoys the substance of it.

"The Sabbath of the Puritans is a thing of the past," says the Christian Union; and Thos. Hoyne, Esq., echoed the sentiment last Sabbath in an address at the opening of a new park in the northwestern portion of Chicago, where German and other foreign elements greatly predominate in the population. The speaker need not have troubled himself to say it, for out of deference to somebody's respect for a "Puritan Sabbath," the formal opening of the park had been made by the city authorities on the day before, after having been announced for the Sabbath. And if the Sabbath of the Puritans is gone what will these objectors tell us has become of the "Sabbath of the Lord thy God?" When was it disannulled? when banished from moral or natural religion? or when did its Author cease to regard its violation? or whose Sabbath was kept by holy men before there were any Puritans? This folly of abusing the Puritans for strictness of morals is hypocrisy; it only covers a hatred of God and goodness which the "fear of the people" keeps in restraint.

The monarchical factions in France, after a momentary union based on hatred of the Republicans and managed by the Jesuits, have come to quarreling with each other more heartily than ever now that they have a brief advantage in the nation. Orleanists, Legitimists and Bonapartists have so fallen into contention that not even the appearance of unity is preserved. The Republicans on the other hand have grown strong and harmonious and are preparing confidently for the September elections. MacMahon has said little since Gambetta proposed the veteran Thiers for President, and finding, moreover, that Germany was dissatisfied with the Jesuit intrigues he has been obliged to give the Emperor the most positive assurances of his peaceful intentions. The result of this disturbance will doubtless be to establish the Republic more firmly in France, while the odious rule of the Ultra-montanes will be seriously shaken.

The indictment of the Louisiana Returning Board for fraud and forgery may prove a serious hindrance in the way of the President's plans of pacification if bitterly pushed. It is regarded as worse than a mistake—a violation of the agreement to let the past die. It is said that Gov. Nichols and the larger proportion of his government are opposed to the arrest and will prevent a serious conclusion if possible. But if this step shall rekindle the fires of sectional hate its actors must assume responsibility for the consequences. There are other circumstances which seem to seriously interfere with the means adopted by the President for reconciliation and re-establishment of local government. Chief Justice Waite is credited with the opinion that no white man in South Carolina can be convicted of a crime against a negro. While this is a grave evil, the condition of our courts at the North in respect to Freemasonry is, all things considered, as bad or worse; while the Mollie Maguires have murdered with a fiendishness and frequency equalled only by the Ku-klux, yet until the last month they defied the courts. The red-handed Butler of South Carolina, and the fiends, lost to human pity, who murdered Chisholm and his devoted daughter and innocent boy in Mississippi should pay the utmost penalty of the law. Yet it is doubtful if they ever will. Would they be any more likely to be under the policy of General Grant by use of government troops? It is certainly doubtful. Many think otherwise. But all agree in demanding enforcement of law. The sword of justice inspires too little terror. The only disagreement with President Hayes is in his use of means. Shall we patiently wait for that law-abiding class at the South to assert itself and maintain the supremacy of the local courts, or shall co-ercion begin by force of arms and the necessary renewal of civil war at last? Though chafed at the delay, it is wisdom doubtless to pursue the former course with faith in the power of truth and grace to waft the wrecked natures of a fallen race into the quiet haven of peaceful communities.

Christendom paid last year for the support of her war system two thousand millions of dollars. Christians—all who profess and call themselves by that name—paid for missions in the same time, five millions of dollars.

FREEMASONRY SOUTH.

BY ALEXANDER THOMPSON.

Man, not Christian, is such a being as his surroundings and his associations make him. The man who in an Eastern village remains an orderly citizen, transferred to the outskirts of civilization may ride the prairie wild as an Indian. In such a case the man would not be changed, only exhibited; the godly and restraining influences of home withdrawn, the natural ferocity of his disposition becomes apparent.

Associations and societies are of course like individuals dependent upon place and circumstances for the development of the principles upon which they rest. The Jesuit may purr like a cat when policy forbids a different line of action; but bounds with the roar, and strikes with the claws and teeth of a tiger when the law backed by the people does not stand like an armed sentinel in the way. In like manner Freemasonry prates about benevolence and brotherly kindness, where patriotic eyes are watching and patriotic lips are ready to denounce, but when those are wanting the dark spirit of the organization interposes its powerful arm between the law and its trangressor, and by a partiality for its own utterly derogatory to manhood and subversive of the principle of merit, without which it would be well nigh impossible for society to exist, becomes the sworn enemy of that equal right before the law which is the corner-stone and glory of our government.

During my residence on the table-lands of Tennessee, I have had some opportunities to observe the power of Freemasonry in the South, and to see how that power was used, and am now quite satisfied that it is responsible for much of the insecurity of life and property that there exists.

The Ku Klux may ride out with his hideous mask, knife and pistol, on his murderous midnight errand, but the clan has ceased in many sections to be a purely political organization and would undoubtedly be subdued were it not well nigh impossible to bring its members to justice. Many of the order are Freemasons and Masonry is all-powerful at the South to protect every Cain that seeks a shelter under its dark wing.

Said an old gentleman, a Baptist clergymen, "I know little of Masonry, but I know enough. In the town of Sparta, White county, Tenn., there lived a desperado who cherished a deadly enmity to a neighbor, and with braggart villainy declared his intention to take his life. This he did in true Masonic style by cutting his throat, severing vein and artery with the knife's keen edge, and leaving his victim to die on the road-side. The murderer was of course arrested and brought to trial, all the facts in the case plainly brought out; but in vain, a Masonic judge and jury could not send a brother to the gallows, and so the hand upon which the blood of a neighber was scarcely dry was again turned loose upon society.

Some six or eight years ago there came to Cumberland county a gentleman from Minnesota; being a man of integrity and energy, he was soon elected as justice of peace for his district, and by the associate justices was chosen chairman of the county courts.

Under his wise management of affairs the bonds of the county rose in value and all the business was discharged with impartiality and dispatch. On his term of office drawing to a close, he discovered that several of the county officers had failed to return a portion of the county money, and in accordance with his duty was intending to proceed against them according to law. Several of these men were Masons; the order became alarmed and prepared to extend to its children all their ancient and dishonorable privileges. To this end all the machinery of the craft was set in motion with that silent and subtile force so peculiar to the institution. An attempt was made to defeat the gentleman in his own district by throwing dust in his eyes, and seeking to make him believe they were his friends while they were most assiduously working against him, and failing in this, they succeeded in electing their own creature chairman of the county court. But the poor man could not stand the mighty honor of a little office, and it was not long till the craft were called together to bear him to a suicide's grave. Thus it is that Masonry ever seeks its own ends by its own means, and both means and ends are hostile to civil government and the religion of Jesus Christ.

Sydney Smith says: "The greatest curse that can be entailed on mankind is a state of war. All the atrocious crimes committed in years of peace by the secret corruptions or by the thoughtless extravagance of nations, are mere trifles compared with the gigantic evils which stalk over the world in a state of war. God is forgotten in war. Every principle of Christianity is trampled upon."

War is an instrument entirely inefficient towards redressing wrong and multiplies instead of indemnifying losses.—Jefferson.

Letters to Keystone Lodge.

THE PREPARATION.—NO. 5.

CHICAGO, June, 1877.

[Concluded].

Question 2d. "Do you seriously declare upon your honor before these gentlemen that you are prompted to solicit these privileges from a favorable opinion preconceived of the institution, a desire of knowledge and a sincere wish of being serviceable to your fellow creatures?" Candidate answers, "I do."

In this question we find six very important points involved: 1st, That Masonry is a good institution. 2d, That it is an institution that imparts a vast amount of knowledge which can be acquired nowhere else. 3d, That it is an institution that is preeminently beneficial to mankind in general, and so the candidate must unhesitatingly declare upon his honor in the presence of witnesses that he is "prompted to solicit the privileges of Freemasonry, 1st, From a favorable opinion preconceived of its goodness. 2d, From a desire to obtain the knowledge which it imparts, and of which he has already preconceived a favorable opinion;" and 3d, From "a sincere wish of being serviceable to his fellow creatures."

Now my brethren let me ask you how do you suppose a candidate can form a "preconceived favorable opinion" of your institution? He has had no previous access to your meetings; he has had no access to your so-called sublime ritual; he knows nothing of the secret workings of any of your committees; your Grand Lodge Reports he has never heard of, and a copy of your constitution and by-laws has never been presented to him. In the name of common sense, then, how can he form an opinion either "favorable" or unfavorable of an institution concerning every single element of which he is supposed by the entire fraternity to be in total ignorance? He has no "favorable preconceived opinion of the institution" and never had, but he has an opinion that by "joining the Masons" (as the phrase goes) he might he able by concerted, secret action to gain some advantage to himself individually over his fellow men which he thinks he could never possibly gain in any other way. He cares not what the institution is—whether good or bad, religiously or politically—he knows nothing whatever about it, but he is selfishly thinking of himself and of his own prospective personal advantages and he unhesitatingly lies "upon his honor" in order to accomplish his pet object. But the candidate also declares "upon his honor before these gentlemen" that he seeks admission into the order "from a desire of knowledge." By the word knowledge here, of course we are to understand general useful knowledge including the arts, sciences, agriculture, manufactures, architecture, etc., and the candidate in presenting himself at the door of the Masonic lodge "declares upon his honor" that he wishes to become a Freemason in order that he may have a better opportunity of learning these useful branches. What a monstrous humbug! What a gigantic fraud! What a delusive swindle! To try to impose upon the outside world that men may and can receive useful instruction within the tyled recesses of a lodge room, or that any man ever joins a Masonic lodge to make himself more proficient in any one single branch of useful human knowledge. Just imagine the Rev. Robert Collyer, or the proud, pompous, self-possessed Dr. O. H. Tiffany trotting around in a semi-nude state, with an old hoodwink over their eyes and a stout rope around their necks in a Masonic lodge room and declaring upon their sacred honors that they are doing so with the express "desire" of acquiring a more thorough knowledge of the arts and sciences, and of gaining a deeper insight into piety and true morality. Just imagine Bishop Fallows of this city becoming a Mason under the pretense that he wishes to learn science from your Worshipful Master, Morris Pflaum, or some of the mechanic arts from your Senior Deacon, Johnny Cunningham. How would architect Tilly or Boyington or Randall, look, standing in a half-naked condition at the door of your Masonic lodge and declaring upon their sacred honor that they wish to get inside so that they may have an opportunity of studying the beautiful art of architecture under the tutelage of one of their own hod-carriers? The Masonic lodge has got no useful knowledge, or in fact any knowledge to impart; it never had and never will have; but she wants the candidate's money and his influence to build up a gigantic secret monopoly while on the other hand he imagines that if he were only linked in with this so-called secret, oath-bound organization he could get along much better in the world, and perhaps secure some advantages which in a fair, honorable way he could not do, and so he is willing to pay his money and lie "upon his honor" in order to accomplish his purpose. The candidate is supposed to tell the truth; the lodge is supposed to believe him; while the fact is they both deceive, or pretend to deceive one another. In this question under discussion we have the miserable spectacle of the candidate standing at the door of the Masonic lodge as above partly described and pretending to be seeking light or knowledge, and then we see him a few minutes afterward in the same lodge room vehemently swearing on his bended knees that he will never impart that knowledge he receives to any person under the whole canopy of heaven. How does the command of Jesus Christ comport with this miserable humbug of Freemasonry? "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matt. 5:16.

And lastly the candidate "declares upon his honor before these gentlemen" that he is "prompted to solicit" the privileges of Freemasonry from "a sincere wish of being serviceable to his fellow creatures."

The implication here is, of course, that a man by becoming a Mason can be "more serviceable to his fellow creatures" than in any other way. This is what Freemasonry wishes us to understand, and hence the candidate in his "sincere" desire to become a philanthropist is made to "declare upon his honor" that that is one of his chief objects in joining the order. But, my brethren, will you have the goodness to tell us at what time or under what circumstances has Freemasonry been in any way serviceable to any portion of the human family? Will you please tell us in what age or nation, since it first saw the light behind a whisky barrel on June 24, 1717, has Freemasonry conferred any benefit whatever upon any portion of the human race? Is it not to-day a blight and a curse wherever its unholy lodges abound? Is it not to-day the sworn foe of the Christian church and is it not doing more to cripple and paralyze every Christian effort put forth for the good of fallen man and the general benefit of our race than all other opposing forces combined? Has it not whenever its own selfish purposes could be best served by so doing, completely clogged the wheels of justice, bid daring defiance to the execution of our criminal laws and is not its position and standing on this continent to-day that of a ticket-of-leave man steeped to the hilt in the gory blood of its murdered victims? And to join a society like that will render a man more serviceable to his fellow creatures? But my brethren if you insist upon it that the candidate "declare upon his honor" that he wishes to become an active member of your order so that thereby he may be more "serviceable to his fellow creatures" why do you afterwards make him swear as you do in the Master Mason's degree that he cannot and must not be serviceable to his fellow creatures? If a man earnestly desires to be "serviceable to his fellow creatures" surely he will not refuse aid and comfort to the aged, to women, to the maimed, to the blind, the deaf or the stiff-jointed. He will as much as in him lies render every possible assistance to the negro, to the ignorant and to the poor, and yet you are well aware that all these classes comprising as they do the great majority of our "fellow creatures" are scrupulously excluded forever from all the "rights, lights and benefits of Freemasonry. A man "declaring upon his honor" in presence of witnesses that he is going into Freemasonry "from a desire of knowledge" and immediately afterwards swearing that he will never under penalty of a horrible death impart that knowledge to any person or persons whomsoever! and again declaring upon his honor in the presence of witnesses that he seeks admission into the lodge so that he may become more "serviceable to his fellow creatures," and in the very next minute positively swearing that he never will under any circumstances whatever be serviceable to only a very small portion of his fellow creatures and not even to them except under certain stringently restricting circumstances!!

Such is Masonry on its very threshold and such are a few of the covenants which the "high-contracting parties"—the candidate and the lodge—make with each other. Being a stupendous system of gross deception, every one seeking affiliation with it must stoop to prevaricate, to deceive, to lie, and every future step he takes in this vile organization will only tend to sink him deeper and deeper in this miserable "slough of despond" from which the mercy and the grace of God alone can rescue him.

In my next letter I shall take up the remaining questions of the "Preparation Room" ritual and in the meantime ever remain

Your friend and well wisher,

EDMOND RONAYNE.

MASONRY VERSUS CHRISTIAN DISCIPLINE.

HOW MASONRY EMPLOYS THE CHURCH TO PERSECUTE AND SILENCE ITS OPPONENTS; ILLUSTRATED BY THE TRIAL AND DISFELLOWSHIP OF CLARK G. FAIT, OF LIGONIER, NOBLE CO., IND., BY THE CHRISTIAN OR DISCIPLE CHURCH.

I. Upon the first division of this narrative it is but just to state that before Fait began in earnest to oppose secret institutions the church had chosen him first as secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school, second, assistant superintendent; and subsequent to this a deacon of the church. He was chosen to the last position only a few months before engaging in public discussions of the evils of secret fraternities.

II. What led to the preferment of charges?

One need but glance at the charges to know the cause of their preferment. Fait had just engaged in a discussion of the evils of secret societies with one Daniel Keen, who is an ardent defender of Masonry, although not a member of the craft, but who is supposed formerly to have been a member of the Knights of the Golden Circle, a society said to have had an existence in our town during the late war. The charges as brought against Fait are known to have been copied from Keen's pass-book, just as he had taken them down during the discussion from which to speak, and from which he did speak in his reply to Fait. The neutral pastor, Mr. Harris, admitted that the charges were thus obtained. Mr. Keen boasts to his neighbors that he thus furnished the charges.

III. Who preferred the charges?

The parties preferring these charges were six of the leading Masons of the town and also the notable men of the Disciple church, who became offended at Fait for having the audacity to oppose in public discussion the time-honored institution of Freemasonry, and brought charges against him for what he should have said in a public debate. While neither of the parties attended the discussion, but upon rumor accepted Keen's notes as infallible and therefore adopted them as a whole as charges against Fait.

IV. The charges preferred are as follows:

To the proper officers of the Christian Church at Ligonier:

We do charge Bro. C. G. Fait. For some time prior to this date he has exposed, and charged the Masonic brethren of this church at Wood's school house as follows:

C. G. Fait's points: [As represented by Keen's pass-book, subsequently copied and signed by six Masons].

1. That Masons establish a religion of their own.
2. That their religion was anti-Christ, consequently Masons were anti-Christ.
3. He charges Masons with the American rebellion.
4. He brought up the case of John Thummo's boy to prove that an honest man could not get justice when a Mason was concerned in the case.
5. That the Masonic society was not a benevolent society.
6. That the devil is the father of Masonry.
7. That those who could not keep themselves they would not take in, such as our crippled soldiers.
8. That all Masons are anti-Christs.
9. That an honest man cannot get justice on account of Masonry.
10. That all men at the helm of government are Masons and infidels.
11. He quoted the fifth chapter of Ephesians to prove Masonry wrong.
12. He says the name of Christ is expunged from the lodges, so that all can meet on a level.

Second speech.—He says that he can prove from their best books that they establish a religion of their own, and that all Masons must adopt it, the same being anti-Christ. The Masons did everything to favor the South in the rebellion in the South.

[Signed.] PETER SISTERHEN,
J. B. STUTESMAN,
D. I. MILLER,
J. S. OLDWINE,
J. E. BRODEN,
H. R. CORNELL.

V. Efforts to effect a reconciliation.

It would be but natural to conclude that in a professed Christian church there would be a Scriptural or Christian effort made to effect a reconciliation. The parties accusing Fait, however, never visited him first alone and after this with two or three others before telling or laying their complaint before the church; but first presented him with a copy of the charges as above given, and summoned him to meet the officers of the church and his accusers in secret session to consider the charges. But Fait refused to attend said meeting unless the church was permitted to attend. But this was refused and Fait in consequence did not attend said meeting. At this meeting it was decided that all the charges but the 8th specification be dropped. E. J. Harris, the pastor, who claims neutrality on the secrecy question, soon after the meeting visited Fait and labored hard to get him to make the following conditional acknowledgment, viz.:

"If I have used the language I am accused of using I am sorry for having done so." Which acknowledgment if made was to be accepted by his accusers. But Fait having spoken from manuscript and being absolutely certain that he used no such language; denied the charge under the 8th specification and would not consent to even a conditional acknowledgement.

Failing in this, the neutral pastor shortly after made Fait the following proposition, viz.: That Fait sign a statement to be read to the church of which this is an exact copy:

"I have at no time stated that I believed all Masons to be anti-Christs nor do I believe it. I have not nor do I call in question the integrity of all my brethren in Christ who are members of secret organizations."

Fait consented to this proposition provided that Adam Simmons and John Spikeen who were his brethren in the church and who also were present at the discussion referred to, would sign a statement in connection therewith, to the effect that they were present and heard him state his position agreeable to the above statement at said discussion. This they refused to do although privately acknowledging to the pastor that it was correct.

Thus matters hung in suspense for several weeks, but finally another secret church meeting was called to consider Fait's case. The two elders upholding Masonry still refused to let the congregation hear Fait's reply to the charge still held against him. He as peremptorily refused to attend the meeting unless the congregation be permitted to attend. The elders however met and proceeded to try the case. During the evening of the trial Elder Richmond offered the following denial of the charge upon the part of the accused, which was confirmed by the accompanying affidavits:

"I deny stating in my debate at Wood's school-house as charged that all Masons are anti-Christs. I never called in question the integrity of all my brethren in said discussion. My arguments were directed entirely to secret societies as institutions. When my opponent in his first speech represented me as using the language embodied in said charge, I gave a full explanation stating that I did not use the language he represented me as usiug, and that I believe there are many good men who are members of secret societies who are good and honest Christians; because, as then stated, men could be in a great error and still be Christians at the same time.

[Signed.] C. G. FAIT.

Witnesses and affidavits,
S. M. PENCE, J. M. FRY,
A. HUMPHREY.

Before me came the above C. G. Fait, S. N. Pence, J. M. Fry and A. Humphrey and upon their oath say that the above is a true and correct statement of C. G. Fait's debate at the Wood school-house.

EDMOND RICHMOND, J. P.

This 28th day of April, 1873.

Such a denial and explanation as given by C. G. Fait alone would have been acceptable to any Christian tribunal, actuated by a Christian spirit, and accompanied by such affidavits from men of undoubted integrity should have been acceptable to any court, Christian or otherwise.

The presentation of this denial and affidavits upon the part of Elder Richmond for a moment frustrated the designs of the Masonic elder, who severely criticised the old elder for taking said affidavits and questioned him publicly to know just where they were taken. He finally decided, as did C. W. Stiles, his associate elder, that as the affidavits were not taken during the trial and in the church the church were under no obligation to receive such testimony; consequently the case was decided against C. G. Fait without one affidavit in confirmation of said charge; while not one of Fait's accusers heard the discussion referred to, and four affidavits of denial were offered from four reliable citizens who were all present at said discussion.

But the charge was decided as sustained and Fait required to make an acknowledgment or to receive a public reprimand by the pastor. Learning the decision Fait went to the pastor and after some consultation offered to accept a former proposition, which was simply to go before the church and deny the charge. The pastor informed Fait that his denial of the charge before the church would still be accepted as a settlement of the whole difficulty. Whereupon Fait authorized the pastor to state to the congregation his denial of the charges, and also to state that he was sorry he had not accepted the offer to deny the charges and be clear when first proffered him. The pastor's statement, although not exactly as authorized was accepted as a settlement of the whole difficulty.

But immediately after this statement was made in the church, the Masonic church members would boast that Fait was "brought to time," "brought to Limerick," etc., was made to acknowledge to the charges and expressed sorrow for the same. Which false statements Fait claimed created a necessity for a public explanation and denial of the false reports circulated by his Masonic brethren. Rev. J. T. Kiggins volunteered to write out and publish a complete history of the trial. But immediately after its publication the whole Masonic element of the church became perfectly indignant.

[To be Continued.]

—The London Peace Society in a pamphlet, estimates the loss of men to be 1,958,000, and the expenditure of money $12,065,000,000 in the principal wars since that of the Crimea.

Wasting the Power of the Church.

The Christian Standard (Cincinnati) of July 7 has the following pertinent paragraphs:

That Christians are frittering away their strength and dissipating their lives by membership and work in a variety of human organisations of a benevolent character, is becoming more and more apparent. The lodges of Masons and Odd-fellows, and various secret orders, guilds, clubs, etc., absorb so much time, sympathy and money, that little of any of these is left for the church. We do not discuss here the positive or comparative merits of these various organizations, nor do we dispute the right of well disposed men outside of the church to choose their own channels of benevolence. But we say that the extent to which Christians are now found in affiliation with such societies is a serious drawback on the efficiency and prosperity of our churches. We do not free the church from blame in the matter. Many have been driven into the associations to which we refer on account of the derelictions of the church as to the offices of humanity; even as the Young Men's Christian Associations have formed an escape from the smothering process to which earnest young men found themselves subjected in the churches. We do not write now with a view to cast censure here or there; but to call the attention of Christians to the serious consideration that the churches are languishing on account of the drainage of their resources into other organizations. We simply call attention to it now. We can not at present take space to discuss it. But the time has come to give it grave consideration.

The Free Methodist Church and Secret Societies.

Great credit is due to this young and vigorous denomination for the truly faithful and Christian stand they have taken on the subject of the secret orders. Quite a number of their ministers are seceding Masons. They have not only "renounced the hidden things of dishonesty," but have cheerfully accepted all the reproach which has come upon them on account of such renunciation.

The Free Methodist and the Earnest Christian, after making some slight deductions for human infirmity, have been able, fearless and consistent in their testimony on this question, and are well worthy the patronage of all friends of the cause. Wherever I go, I find, among Free Methodists, sympathizing friends, and generally their houses of worship are open to the consideration of this subject.

All this makes the exceptions more painfully apparent, and the occasional rebuffs the harder to bear. "Had it been an enemy that had done it, then could I have borne it." Twice I have been invited by pastors of the Free Methodist church in Aurora to lecture in that church, and twice I have been excluded by the "official board," on the ground that they were not willing to suffer the reproach of being the only church in the city that would tolerate such a discussion. I thought that to be reproached for Christ's sake was an honor, and not a disgrace. The acting pastor of the Free Methodist churches in Elgin and South Elgin invited me to fill his pulpit in his absence, and to give one of the two discourses on secret societies; but the "official board" met and decided that I might preach, but might not consider the subject of secret societies, and that it was not for the good of the church to discuss that subject, as "some of their members were sensitive on this question." That the church in Elgin was closed against me when I went to the appointment, and I was left to sleep in the street or go to a hotel, was perhaps due more to carelessness than to any intentional wrong.

In conclusion, let me say that I think the Free Methodists have the truth—that they are building on the Rock. My earnest prayer is that they may be prospered, and that the gates of hell may not prevail against them. But let them take heed how they build. They cannot expect prosperity by receding from their own principles. Perhaps a greater fidelity to their principles would have caused the church to grow in the places referred to, instead of steadily declining.

Yours in the unity of Christ.

H. H. Hinman.

The Free Methodist Church of Lyndon, Mich.

Mr. Editor: I saw, in the March number of the Christian Cynosure, fourth page, under the caption, "Michigan Reform Work," some statements that are not correct. Although I would not charge the writer with an intention to falsify, he certainly is mistaken. The statements were made concerning the Free Methodist church in the town of Lyndon, seven miles northeast of Fenton. I am the chairman of the district to which said church belongs, and have taken some pains to ascertain the facts in the case.

"Here," says the writer, "we expected a full house, but were disappointed as far as the Free Methodists were concerned." He then states that their pastor went out some three miles from there and held a meeting that evening, and all his church followed him except our old, tried friend, Mr. Hoit, and a Mrs. Gundry. The inference cast is that it was done on purpose to keep the church from the lecture.

Now the facts are these: C. W. Hames, their pastor, was engaged in a protracted meeting, and the church was engaged with him in the meeting also, as our people usually are. The meeting had reached such a point in interest, as meetings of that character do, that they thought it would not be proper nor right to leave it. For some reason these facts were withheld; perhaps my friend Remington did not know them. There is not a member of this church but what is opposed to every secret order of the day, and their pastor is a staunch anti-secret society man and would not be guilty of so low an act as to get up a meeting to keep any one from an anti-secret society lecture.

The next reflection is that Mrs. Gundry was bitterly opposed to having the lecture in the church, and said that the church was not built for lectures, but to worship God in; and B. T. Roberts, their general agent (I suppose he meant general superintendent) instructed them accordingly. I no not know what Mrs. Gundry may have said, but B. T. Roberts never gave any such instruction. He has never been in that part of the State, and I am confident that up to the time of the lecture not a member of that church had seen him; neither do I think Mrs. Gundry ever made any such statements as she is charged with. I think quite likely she took some exceptions both to the lecture and lecturer, for the following reasons: for, if I am not mistaken, he reflected severely on them as a church, upon the Michigan conference, and the entire denomination, saying that he had as much difficulty in getting into the Free Methodist churches to lecture as he had in getting into the M. E. churches. I will not attempt to speak for the M. E. church, but I am confident no proper lecturer has ever been refused the privilege of lecturing in any of our churches when they were not occupied. I think he also stated, in substance, that at one of our annual conferences, held at Coopersville, two years ago last fall, that it was with much difficulty he obtained the privilege to lecture in the church. I was a member of that conference, and was familiar with most every other member, and am positive that nearly, if not every member, was not only willing, but wanted him to lecture in the church. E. P. Hart's name was made prominent among the opposers if I am rightly informed. I have conversed with Bro. E. P. Hart about the matter. He positively dedies his objecting to Mr. Rathbun lecturing in our church at the time of said conference, and he stated that he knew nothing about it until the matter was all arranged. I think it was such reflections that caused Bro. Hoit to say, if that was Free Methodism he should go back to the Wesleyans. Mr. and Mrs. Gundry both told me, when they were asked for the use of the church referred to by Mr. Remington, they said to the persons they might have the church as long as they pleased. Furthermore, Mrs. Gundry stayed away from her own meeting that night, made the fires, and lighted up the church. Again, my friend Remington said: "Despite of all opposition, we did lecture in the church." Doubtless he imagined great opposition, but it was only imagination. The best construction we can put on the whole matter is that friends Rathbun and Remington were honest, but mistaken.

John Ellison.

Religious Intelligence.

—Rev. N. Wardner, Wesleyan Evangelist, is holding meetings during the present month in the northeastern section of New York. Next month he visits Michigan, stopping at Barry, August 5th. In September he goes on to Iowa.

—The United Presbyterian church has 640 ministers, 167 of whom are without stated charges. They were paid last year $457,156, an average of $951.

—The Presbytery of Muskingum, U. P. church, which met last month at Cambridge, Ohio, appointed Revs J. P. Lytle and S. McArthur as delegates to the National Convention at Dayton, Oct. 23d.

—The Union Evangelistic Holiness camp-meeting and National Temperance Convention opened July 10, 1877, at Round Lake, N. Y. Bishop Weaver, of the church of the United Brethren in Christ presides. Its programme of themes and speakers is as follows: Reliance upon the Holy Spirit the Ground of Success in Christian Work, by Bishop Weaver; The Guidance of the Holy Spirit, and how it may be discriminated from the suggestions of our own minds and of the tempter, Rev. Daniel Steele, D. D.; The Danger of Grieving the Holy Spirit, Rev. Hiram Eddy. D. D.; The Sanctified Will, Rev. E. M. Levy, D. D.; Encouragement for the People, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D.; The Soul-Peril of Unsanctified Habits, Rev. G. L. Taylor, D. D.; The Philosophy of Christian Holiness, Rev. S. H. Platt; Indulgence of Appetites, Ambitions, Tastes and Sociality—how far consistent with a blameless Christian life, Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.; The one alternative: "He that believeth shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned." Rev. B. J. Ives, D. D.; with evangelistic services conducted by Rev. E. P. Hammond, and others.

—Dr. Palmer and wife, formerly missionaries to India, are going to establish a mission among the Pueblo Indians, several hundred miles southwest of Colorado Springs, Idaho Territory.

—Rev. Dr. Jonathan Edwards, of Peoria, Ill., has been elected to the chair of Theology in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Danville, Ky., left vacant by the death of Dr. N. L. Rice.

—Rev. Emanuel Vanorden, who withdrew from the Presbyterian mission in Rio de Janerio last year, sailed June 12th from Liverpool to resume his labors in Brazil. He took with him religious books and 1100 Bibles to open a Bible and Tract Depository in Rio Grande do Sul, six hundred miles south from his former associates. The Interior thinks Mr. Vanorden a "filibustering missionary," who has gained a support as an "independent adventurer, a little pope, responsible to nobody," and prophesies that his friends will find themselves deceived in him.

—There is a movement on the part of a number of Freewill Baptists in New York to form a union with the State Congregational Association. The plan of union provides that the Baptist churches and individuals shall be allowed to retain their peculiar views, and that there shall be liberty and mutual toleration.

—Mrs. Green, widow of the late John C. Green, of New York city, has lately given $50,000 to the treasury of the Pres. Board of Foreign Missions. This wipes out the $43,000 debt and puts a balance into the treasury.

—The Egyptian Mission of the United Presbyterian church is about the only successful one ever started in that country. It now consists of 7 organized congregations, 24 unorganized mission stations, and 804 communicants. It has increased 189 by profession, and the baptisms have been 103. The contributions have been $2,520.

—The popular parade and dedication of one of the public parks of this city on last Sabbath, by the Germans, with the co-operation of the public officers, was ably rebuked by Rev. Dr. Ryder's sermon on the same day, on "Land Speculation and Sabbath Desecration," from the pulpit of the St. Paul's (Universalist) church.

—The Rev. Newman Hall's church (Surrey chapel), London, England, numbers 2,000 members. They must be exceedingly active and earnest, for, according to Dr. Cuyler's observations, they "maintain thirteen Sabbath schools, seventeen lodging houses, a Christian Instruction Society, and hold about forty services for the poor every week." Mr. Hall's former preaching place—the old Surrey chapel—is now leased to the Primitive Methodists. It was once the scene of the labors of the famous Rowland Hill.

Reform News.

The McHenry County (Ill.) Association.

Dear Bro. Kellogg: The county Anti-masonic convention held in the Independent church, Marengo, April 26–27, was not reported at the time on account of the sickness of the secretary. It was a very successful meeting, and I send you an abstract of its doings. The attendance was full. Six seceding Masons, residents of the county, gave their testimony, some of them for the first time. The friends were greatly encouraged, and voted to hold quarterly meetings instead of yearly. On account of the sickness of Rev. N. D. Fanning, this plan has not been fully carried out, but it is expected that another convention will be held soon. Much disappointment was felt because Prof. C. A. Blanchard was not present, but an able and excellent address was given by Bro. P. Elzea. The following are a part of the resolutions adopted:

Resolved, 1. That secret societies tend to promote distrust, caste, corruption and class hostility.

2. That the system of organized secretism, its rites, oaths, laws, penaltied, borrowed from ancient heathenism, are contrary to Christian morality.

3. That it is an organized despotism more attractive to bad men than to good, and mainly controlled by them, and hence dangerous to the well-being of society.

4. That it is our duty as Christians to express our disapprobation of secret society ministers by withholding all support and by non-attendance on their ministry; and also those who refuse to investigate the evils of secretism and who take sides against this reform.

5. That the Christian Cynosure is a safe, sound, thoroughly Christian reform paper, and we recommend every family to subscribe for it.

Political action was resolved on, and the following officers were chosen:

President—P. M. Frisbee, Union.
Secretary—Dr. E. L. Sheldon.
Executive Committee—Rev. N. D. Fanning, J. M. Frink, E. Van Alstyne, E. K. Fellows.

The following is the list of seceding Masons who gave their testimony on this occasion: E. Van Alstyne, Marengo; Dr. E. L. Sheldon and P. M. Frisbee, Union; L. Chittenden, Crystal Lake; S. H. Goodsell and B. W. Huston, Marengo. Bros. Frisbee and Sheldon have been worshipful master and junior warden of the lodge at this place (Union.)

H. H. Hinman.

Proceedings of the Dodge Co., Minn., Christian Association.

As previously announced the first annual meeting of this Association convened in the Seventh Day Baptist church of Dodge Centre on the evening of June 25, 1877.

The Association sustained a severe loss in the absence of the lecturer announced, Rev. J. Hankins, who has since informed us that our final notification reached him too late. It is worthy of remark in this connection that the important letter in the correspondence required four days to reach Mason city, while others, both before and since, have passed to and from there in half that time. Will some one rise and explain? This mishap led to the good resolve, on the part of several clergymen present, that it should not occur again for want of personal preparation.

Notwithstanding the Masonic fraternity of the county failed to answer the challenge given, the discussion of the question "Is the testimony of seceded Masons reliable?" was spirited and elicited many unanswerable arguments, as did also other questions discussed. By the way, how can a seceded Mason be a "perjurer" if in breaking his Masonic obligation he has not truthfully revealed the secrets of Masonry? And what shall we say of him who denies that Masonry is revealed and yet calls the revealer a perjurer.

As a substitute for the lecture of the first evening the letters of Mr. Ronayne addressed to the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago, discussing the nature and principles of Freemasonry, were read with interest and profit to the Association.

The business of the meeting was of the most successful character. The following series of resolutions were discussed at length and adopted by this Association:

Resolved, 1. That the obligations and teachings of Freemasonry are purposely anti-Christian inasmuch as they reject Jesus Christ and salvation through his name.

2. That no man can be at the same time a Christian and an adhering Mason, intelligent upon the nature and principles of Masonry.

3. That an adhering Mason is disqualified to act as a judge, a juror or a witness when one of the parties is a Mason and the other is not.

4. That we thank the press of Dodge county for so much of fair treatment as this Association has received from it.

5. That this association is auxiliary to the National Christian Association so far and only so far as it is an anti-secret organization.

6. That the hearty thanks of this Association are hereby tendered to the trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist church for the use of their house of worship.

Dodge Center is thoroughly cable-towed and hoodwinked; consequently the "Immortal Sixteen," a local Masonic editor's name for the Association, could not expect great results there. The fact that but a few of the citizens of Dodge Center attended the meetings of the Association affords an instance of the workings of this modern system of terrorism. The manifest agitation of the press and public mind, the open assaults made on the Association and its members by the friends and patrons of Masonry and the conversion of not a few who were favorable to secret societies before the agitation of the subject began, all indicate ultimate success.

We believe this to be the cause of Christ against the anti-Christ of Masonry. Did we not we would not work in it. Surely if we are but a set of narrow-narrow minded fanatics, as has been said of us, our investigations cannot injure the "ancient and honorable fraternity."

Come then, gentlemen, and let us reason together. We seek to injure no one, but to remove a system that is injurious alike to its friends and foes. The truth is it cannot bear inspection and as an expedient resorts to unscrupulous misrepresentations and intimidation.

Recording Secretary.

From Tuscarawas Co., Ohio.

Winfield, O., July 7, 1877.

Dear Editor Cynosure: I have been too busy "gathering the golden grain" to send you an account of our late anti-secrecy meetings sooner.

Bro. C. F. Hawley of Damascus, Ohio, came here and delivered two stirring lectures on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, June 26th and 27th. He confined his lectures to the same subject, viz.: "The Religion of Freemasonry." The first evening he proved from the standard Masonic authorities that Freemasonry claims to be a religion and presented the principles and precepts of the Masonic religion and contrasted it with the religion of the Christian church, establishing the proposition that it is a false religion and directly antagonistic to the Christian religion. The second evening he brought before the audience the manner in which the Freemason obtains his religion, pursuing the different steps from his taking the Entered Apprentice degree until he reaches that high (?) state of perfection (not Christian), where "he is free from sin." His remarks were clear, plain and pointed and none but a prejudiced mind could fail to perceive the truth of his ultimate conclusion that Freemasonry is nothing less than organized infidelity, originated by Satan for the complete overthrow of all Christian truth and designed by its false pretences and deceptions to lead men away from God and the truth.

Our audience was rather small on account of a very busy time among the farmers and a failure to receive notice of the meeting in proper time for circulation. Although but a few Freemasons are in the vicinity, the public are willfully ignorant regarding the principles of the order, and the sentiment is strongly in sympathy with it. In view of this fact the lectures of Bro. Hawley raised quite a commotion in the world of ideas. Our leading church members refuse to investigate the subject (preferring ignorance to truth, darkness to light) and rather discourage the efforts of the few to bring the matter before the people. Moreover, they, being uninformed and refusing to read Anti-masonic literature, will stand up and argue in favor of the order and denounce all efforts toward an exposition of it, as being imprudent and unholy. But Bro. Dilley and I are not going to be silenced by such opposition. We feel that God is on our side and "He is more than all that can be against us." There are two church organizations here, viz., the United Brethren and Lutheran. The Lutheran church is strongly in sympathy with secrecy and ardently defends it. Their chief argument against us is, "You don't know anything about Freemasonry." Powerful argument! It would be if universality were omnipotence.

The United Brethren church is, with a few exceptions, neutral on the subject. They say but little in encouragement to anti-secrecy work. A brother expressed the truth precisely when he said that the devil has the people just where he wants them. But we are not in the least discouraged and will continue to fight this monster evil, asking the prayers of all the devoted workers of the National Christian Association, trusting we may be so highly favored again shortly by a series of anti-secrecy lectures.

Yours for truth,

Charles W. Kohr.

Temptations are a file which rubs off much of the dust of self-confidence.

Correspondence.

Good Templarism Feeding on the Murphy Movement.

PHŒNIXVILLE, Pa.,
July 8, 1877.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: I succeeded in getting an article on Odd-fellowship published in our paper, the Messenger, printed at this place. It appeared in the Cynosure a few weeks ago, headed, "Odd-fellowship a Godless Institution," for which I felt glad and asked God for his blessing. We have had a series of temperance lectures, and an organization of a Murphy National Christian Temperance Society effected. A drunkard, reformed under Mr. Murphy, named Bowton, was sent to conduct the meetings. I was surprised to hear those who had pledged themselves to the new society invited to come into the lodges. One of our M. E. local preachers publicly gave the invitation. He is a great Good Templar, and does not like to read the Cynosure. He said the secret societies were in good working order and invited all to join. If he had said they had nearly worked themselves to death he would have been nearer the truth. I would like to know if Mr. Murphy is in favor of inviting those who have taken his pledge into the secret temperance orders.

WILLIAM BANKS.

More Suggestions for Pennsylvanians!

1. Will it not be well for us to advertise the Cynosure in some of the best religious and secular papers of our State?

2. Let all try to get short anti-secret articles inserted in any paper in the State that they read or subscribe for.

3. There are German papers in the state that will be glad to publish articles if written in German. Send articles to J. G. Stauffer, Milford Square, Bucks county, Pa.

4. Give the anti-secret reform a prominent place in your daily reflections.

5. Talk more to your friends and others, and try to impress them with the very great importance of the reform in church, state and society.

6. Let all who can do so lecture as often as possible; or give anti-secret readings from Finney, Phelps and others, before lyceums, etc.

7. Loan your Cynosures, keep a few anti-secret pamphlets, books, etc., to loan to friends, and sell all the documents you can. We have sold hundreds very readily.

8. Persuade your minister to take a bold stand in the greatest reform he will ever have a chance to advocate.

9. Try to get Masons you are acquainted with to secede.

10. Try to get all the anti-secret people you are acquainted with to join the active army. Too many anti-secret soldiers are running around in the rear.

There are many thousands of people in our State who say they do not belong to any secret organization and that they are opposed to all secret societies, but who are indifferent to our reform. We must begin to study these strange friends and try to find all the causes of their apathy. Then we must vigorously apply the remedies which will make them open their eyes wide enough to see the Masons at some of their sly tricks or silly performances.

E. J. CHALFANT.

YORK, Pa.

From an Old-Line Reformer.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: You and the little band of moral heroes who are doing battle under such adverse circumstances in behalf of the truth and the right, have my heartfelt sympathies in the cause. While such as pass for the good and great of earth stand aloof you do not falter. But shame on such goodness and greatness, that sets a higher value on popularity or selfish ends, than on a sound morality. This much is applicable to non-professors of the Christian religion. Then what of the higher attainments of the professing Christian? And what of the still higher professions of the ambassadors of Christ Jesus? ambassadors in sympathy by word and deed with heathenish rites; ignoring their Lord and and Master in the lodge room, and subservient to a vain-glorious "Worshipful Master" therein. And more than this, we find such in the sanctuary dedicated to the worship of Almighty God fraternizing with and in full fellowship with adherents (like themselves) of an oath-bound secretism. Can such as these be fellowshiped in a Christian church? is made an issue that should be met with an unequivocal no. Dr. Bacon might have saved his valuable time in arguing this question, pro and con as he did, had he not felt the inevitable grip of Freemasonry. Has he not left his brethren of the church entirely in the dark? Has he not given aid and comfort to Freemasonry instead of consolation to his brethren of the church? These to me are pertinent questions.

Although well-meaning men will scorn the assumption of being under vassalage to Freemasonry, daily observation makes it a matter of fact to me that the mysterious power of the order makes it to the interest of every man, in a pecuniary sense, to bow in submission to its behest; so far at least as to bridle their tongues so as not to give offence to the craft. Therefore I find it a rare chance to meet with any one who cares to converse on so delicate a subject. Nor do they care to know anything about it.

Freemasonry with its crimes, bolted and barred with iron-clad oaths, is not likely will be any better than its bloody code. Were it not for the little band of moral heroes, of which you are the soul and center, which beards it in its secret recesses, and exposes its true character, Ronayne's life would be in peril whenever an opportune moment offered concealment. The truth sustains Ronayne and yourselves, and makes abject dastards of the illustrious chivalry of Freemasonry. Ever yours in the cause to the extent of my ability.

WELLS SPRINGER.

Come Over and Help.

MELMORE, Seneca Co., O.

DEAR CYNOSURE: To your numerous readers I would say that this community is ruled by those Christless institutions, especially some of our churches are ruled by secretism, and Christ and his Gospel suffer loss. I desire that all praying people should pray for this God-forsaken place, and that some means may be devised that a work might be done here in Seneca county and that adjoining districts might see these institutions publicly exposed.

I would speak through your columns that some of the workers would come this way and open fire; or prepare an altar and God will send the fire. Many are waiting for the troubling of the waters, and while they wait for some one to make the movement there is a chance for a glorious work in this valley of dry bones. O that God would send some one and cause the would-be God-loving people to raise the Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us."

We have four churches at or near this place, Methodist, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Evangelical or Albright, and U. B. churches; and it is a goodly country. Let the cry go out.

I got some tickets last fall. There were several voted but they were not counted as they were wrong.

A. BENHAM, M. D.

Face the Foe.

COLO, Iowa.

EDITOR CYNOSURE: Here in central Iowa the "prince of darkness" has things pretty much his own way in respect to our reform; even the ministers of Christ are greatly under his control; but of late he has been somewhat enraged at a few of the soldiers of Jesus who had the audacity to call in question his vaunted right to the supreme control of both church and state. He would fain set up his infallible claims of sovereign control over all the vast domain of earth, and his right to rule in all its kingdoms. He seems to have forgotten that the Lord Jesus Christ has any claims even upon the purchase of his own blood, and through the seductive and deceptive institutions, which are legion, he beguiles his victims into the belief that they must search for light in his dark domain, through hoodwink and cabletow. Brother ministers, I say, shall we hold our peace and let Satan have his own way? Shall the devil lead us captive by hoodwink and cabletow? Shall we cease to follow the true light and be led by the prince of darkness where there is not one cheering ray?

"Shall we, in this evil day, from our profession fly?
Jesus, the Judge before the world, the traitor will deny."

"But," says my brother, "Secretism is popular. I shall lose my popularity if I oppose it." Do you love the praise of wicked men more than the approbation of God? Jesus says, "If any man serve me, him will my Father honor." Shall we not seek the honor that cometh from God only? "But," says the weak minister, "I must have my bread and meat." But Jesus says: "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me and finish His work." Let us work for Jesus and all will be well. O, let us prove true to him that loved us and washed us from our sins in his own blood.

J. J. HAYDEN.

Nothing Fails with God behind It.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—We live in a hurrying, worrying, wearing time. These are fast days. People are running to and fro regardless of the great foe which must and shall be conquered. But stop, it has often occurred to my mind that we who are opposed to secrecy, are not doing what we might to break down the propagation of secret societies. It is an evident fact that it is an evil, which we as a nation should be ashamed of. And why should it be tolerated, why should it be encouraged to go on as it has done for the last few years until it has our nation wrapped up in the unfruitful works of darkness? It is high time that Christian people became awakened. It is true we have men in our ranks, noble men, men of influence, who are expounding the question to a people who are yet in darkness concerning secrecy. We need others. The field is large, and the laborers are few. We want God-fearing men; men who neither fear man nor devil. What we need is propelling power; men to go out into all classes of society and place before the minds of the people the great danger in uniting themselves with oath-bound secrecy. Let all who feel interested in this good cause, put forth every effort in their power to break down the evil which is daily draining the vitality of our churches, and leading the rising generation away from the fountain of living truth. While we defend the cause of anti-secrecy we are defending the cause of Christ, the Son of the living God, and what a noble work this is. And yet how few, comparatively speaking, are willing to take the task upon their shoulders. I have noticed it frequently when one becomes a member of any secret society he loses the taste for the means of grace.

But the question arises how are we to stop it? I answer, "not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit; saith the Lord." After Elijah had built the altar and prepared the sacrifice, he did not fold his arms in sullen idleness, nor did he stand still and grumble, but went to work immediately, and prayed that God should send fire. That prayer was offered in faith, and was answered. So it must be with us; if we want to accomplish anything we must have faith in God. Then preach against it, talk against it, write against it. Do it cheerfully, feeling assured that God will bless our efforts be they ever so small.

I have the exposition of Odd-fellowship in circulation in this community. It has raised quite a sensation among the fraternity. A member of my own church (an Odd-fellow) came to me and said, "there is a great deal of truth in that book," and further acknowledged the man to be an Odd-fellow who wrote it.

The more I look upon secrecy, the more I can see the element in almost every organization. It has shown its cloven foot in our conferences. It has locked the wheels of justice. In many cases it has closed the mouths of the ministry, and much more could be said if space would permit. I will say to you who are at the head of this great center of reform, "Nothing fails with God behind it." Go on. You are engaged in a noble work. God will reward you. He has blessed your efforts already and he will continue to do so until the evil shall be subdued. May God speed the day is my prayer. W. O. NICKLAS.

Martinsburg, W. Va.

Home and Farm.

If we may be allowed a word of advice to our farmer friends, it is that they shall be on the alert to rush the harvested grain under cover as soon as it will bear storing. It will pay to extend a dry day to nine o'clock in the evening. There is no safety in trusting our harvested grain to the forbearance of our leaky skies. After the sap has dried out of the straw, a small shower need not stop the stacking and mowing. The dry sheaves will take up the rain water, and no harm will be done. This is the time for generalship on the part of the farmer—when he may beat a successful retreat with his golden spoils, and sit in his back porch feeling good all over as the thunderous rains come down a day too late to catch him!—Interior.

A young child of M. B. Grubbs, of Washington Court House, died on the 17th under peculiar circumstances. Over three months ago, while playing, it fell, striking its head. No notice was taken of the injury at the time, as it was considered very slight. Shortly after, however, the child was found to have become cross-eyed and partially paralyzed, which continued until it died. Physicians surmise that a blood-vessel had been ruptured, and blood collecting pressed upon the brain.

The grasshopper, which perhaps is the only forerunner of greater insect plagues to come out of the West, having shown what a formidable enemy it is, requires us at once to remedy, so far as may be, what the grasshopper commission will probably find to be the cause,—the disturbance of the balance of power between the insects and their opponents, the birds and other small animals? The slaughter of prairie birds, which has been carried on to an almost inconceivable extent, they perishing by millions at the hands of the sportsmen every year, is undoubtedly one of the chief causes of the uncontrollable and increasing numbers of these insect hosts which are marching over our fields so victoriously. A step which would certainly help to remedy this great evil in the future would be the prevention,—not only the passage of laws, but prevention of the killing of birds in the Western States. Illinois has passed a law, we are pleased to note, which is said to be so stringent that men are the only animals it is safe to shoot in that State.

Health in July is a serious matter. People frequently injure it by excessive drinking of even so mild a beverage as cold water; especially so with the farmer in the hay field. Much liquid greatly weakens one's strength, by causing undue perspiration, which as much as breathing takes the forces of the body to perform. An occasional drink does no harm, when actually thirsty, but drinking only at meal-time is preferable. Cold water is not the best drink for a hot day; a little oatmeal stirred in will improve it, or some ginger and molasses, or buttermilk for those who relish it. Cold tea or coffee are healthful and pleasant drinks. Either of them is much better than cold water.

Diet and the Air we breathe have a direct bearing on our health. Meats and fatty foods, cakes and pastry, should be avoided or eaten moderately. Vegetables, good bread, a little meat, fresh eggs, milk and ripe fruit, should be the summer diet of every farmer, and is one which would cause the dullness and languor so frequently felt after eating rich, fatty foods in summer, to depart and give way to a clear head and sprightly feelings. If the air we breathe is vitiated by decomposing vegetable matter near the house or in the cellar, we cannot reasonably hope for health or comfort. All such should be removed to a compost heap and covered with earth. The house cellars, if still unclean and bad smelling, should be thoroughly investigated, and all offensive matters removed.

THE CAUSE OF HEADACHES has latterly received much investigation. Dr. George T. Stevens, of Albany, has been at pains to demonstrate the relation between disordered eyesight and many nervous diseases, including headache. By means of diagrams in the New York Medical Journal he shows how difficulties in the ordinary use of the eyes, arising from far-sightedness, short-sightedness, and other defects of the kind, must cause continual irritation to the nerves. Especially is this the case with far-sightedness, and numerous instances are cited where patients suffering frequently and severely from headaches have been entirely cured by wearing spectacles suited to their eyes. Other affections of the eyes result similarly, but the instances met with in practice are fewer,

Masonic Books.

For Sale by Ezra A. Cook & Co., 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Those who wish to know the character of Freemasonry, as shown by its own publications, will find many standard works in the following list.

No sensible Mason dares deny that such men as Albert G. Mackey, the great Masonic Lexicographer, and Daniel Sickels, the Masonic author and publisher, are the highest Masonic authority in the United States.

All the books advertised here are used by Masons, but Duncan's Ritual, Allyn's Ritual and Richardson's Monitor, are not publicly acknowledged as Masonic authority, because they tell too much.

SICKELS' FREEMASON'S MONITOR,

CONTAINING the Degrees of Freemasonry embraced in the Lodge, Chapter, Council, and Commandery, embellished with nearly 300 symbolic Illustrations, together with Tactics and Drill of Masonic Knighthood. Also, forms of Masonic Documents, Notes, Songs, Masonic dates, Installations, etc. By D. SICKELS; 32 mo. Tuck. Price. $1.50. Cloth, $1.

GENERAL AHIMAN REZON AND FREEMASON'S GUIDE.

By DANIEL SICKELS, 33°

The most perfect Masonic Monitor published in the United States. Embellished with nearly 300 Engravings, and Portrait of the Author, Containing Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow-Craft, and Master Mason, with Explanatory Notes and Lectures; with the Ceremonies of Consecration and Dedication of New Lodges, Installation of Officers, Laying Foundation Stones, Dedication of Masonic Halls, Burial Services, Masonic Calendar, Ritual for a Lodge of Sorrow, Masonic Trials, etc.
Bound in fine cloth extra, large 12mo.....$2 00

DUNCAN'S MASONIC RITUAL AND MONITOR,

PROFUSELY Illustrated with Explanitory Engravings, and containing the entire Ritual and work of the Order for the Seven Degrees, including the Royal Arch. Scores of Masons have privately admitted that this is a Standard Text-Book in the Lodge, and is strictly correct; but publicly it is not acknowledged as authority, though almost every officer of the Lodge makes use of it. Price in cloth. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MANUAL OF THE LODGE.

Or Monitorial Instructions in the Degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason, with Ceremonies Relating to Installations, Dedications, Consecrations, Laying of Corner stones, etc. Price, $2.

Allyn's Ritual of Masonry.

ILLUSTRATED by a large number of Engravings, and containing a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, Orange and Odd-fellows' Societies.
Price, $5.00.

MACKEY'S LEXICON OF FREEMASONRY,

CONTAINING a Definition of Terms, Notices of its History, Traditions, and Antiquities, and an Account of all the Rites and Mysteries of the Ancient World. 12 mo,; 526 pages; $3.

MACKEY'S TEXT-BOOK
Of Masonic Jurisprudence,

ILLUSTRATING the Laws of Freemasonry, both written and unwritten. This is the Great Law Book of Freemasonry—570 pages.
Price. $2.50.

MACKEY'S MASONIC RITUALIST;

or Monitorial Instruction Book,
BY ALBERT G. MACKEY.

PAST General High Priest of the General Grand Chapter of the United States, Knight of the Eagle and Pelican, Prince of Mercy, etc.
Price, Cloth, $1.25; Tuck, $1.75.

MOORE'S MASONIC TRESTLE BOARD.

THIS work was originally prepared by order of the National Masonic Convention held at Baltimore, Md., in 1843. It is known among Masons everywhere as the "BLUE BOOK," and has long been considered a standard work.
Price. $1.75.

TRUE MASONIC CHART; OR, HIEROGLYPHIC MONITOR.

By JEREMY L. CROSS, Grand Lecturer.

With a Memoir and Portrait of the Author, Containing all the Emblems explained in the Degrees of entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, and Master Mason. Designed and arranged agreeably to the Lectures.
12mo. Cloth.....$1 50

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry.

A PRACTICAL Guide to the Ceremonies in the Degrees conferred in Masonic Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated edition. In cloth, $1.25; paper, 75 Cts.

Although this Monitor is extensively used in the Lodge, especially in Conferring the higher degrees, it is publicly called an "exposition," and not allowed as authority.

FEMALE MASONRY.

MANNUAL OF THE ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR

Containing the Ritual, Symbols Lectures etc., of the five Degrees of "Adoptive Masonry:" Jeptha's Daughter; Ruth, Esther, Martha and Electa, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.
Price.....$1 00

WEBB'S MONITOR O FREEMASONRY.

LARGE Edition, with Notes by ROB. MORRIS. Price, $1.50. Pocket Edition, 75 Cts.

ANTI-MASONIC BOOKS.

(Not our own Publications.)

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO
13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
FOR CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS OF
EZRA A. COOK & CO., See page 15 of the CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

☞All books sent post paid, on receipt of retail price, but BOOKS SENT BY MAIL ARE NOT AT OUR RISK.

Books ordered by express are sold at 10 per cent. discount and SENT AT OUR RISK. Party ordering must pay express charges.

Freemasonry Self Condemned.

By Rev. J. W. BAIN.

We now have a small supply of this deservedly popular book in paper covers, Price 20 cents each by mail.

Elder Stearns' Books.

Stearns' Inquiry Into the Nature and Tendency of Masonry
With an Appendix.

188 Pages, in Cloth.....60 cents.
" " " Paper.....40 "

Stearns' Letters on Masonry.
Showing the antagonism between Freemasonry and the Christian Religion.
Price, 50 cents.

Stearns' Review of Two Masonic Addresses.
In this scathing review the lying pretentions of the order are clearly shown.
Price, 10 cents.

Levington's Key to Masonry.
This is Rev. Mr. Levington's last, and in the judgment of its author, best work on Masonry. The contents of the Eleventh chapter are thus startling:
"Knights of the Golden Circle—Graphic account of them by a seceding Knight, and remarks thereon, showing the identity of the order with Masonry—Quotations from Sir Walter Scott."
This work is thrilling in statement, and powerful in argument Price. $1.35. 425 pages.

Light on Freemasonry
BY ELDER D. BERNARD,

TO WHICH IS APPENDED A

Revelation of the Mysteries of Odd-fellowship by a Member of the Craft.

The whole containing over five hundred pages lately revised and republished. Price $2,00

The first part of the above work, Light on Freemasonry, 416 pages in paper cover, will be sent post paid on receipt of $1.

FOR SALE BY
United Brethren Publishing House,
DAYTON, O.
and by
EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Ave, CHICAGO

Finney on Masonry.

BOUND IN CLOTH, PRICE $1.00,

CHEAP EDITION,

Twenty-five dollars per hundred, by express and not less than 25 copies at that rate,

BY MAIL, POST-PAID:

Per doz.....$3 75,
Single copy,..... 35 c

GOOD TEMPLARISM EXPOSED.

Obligations, of the Initiatory Fidelity, Charity, and Royal Virtue Degrees.

This is a small book containing only the Obligations and some of the Odes of the Good Templars.

Single Copy, Post paid,..... 10cts.
Per Doz. " 75
Per 100 by Express,..... $4.50

Bernard's Appendix to Light on Masonry,

Showing the Character of the Institution by its terrible oaths and penalties. 25 cents.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP

JUDGED BY ITS OWN UTTERANCES;

Its Doctrine and Practice examined in the light of God's Word.

BY REV. J. H. BROOKMAN.

This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-Fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. It was originally published in German.
Price, bound in Boards, 75 cents. Paper Covers 40 cents.
GERMAN EDITION, Entitled "Christian and Odd-fellowship." Paper Covers 50 cents each.

HOW TO DEFEAT
Masonic Scoundrelism
Within the Court House.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD,

This pamphlet as its title indicates is designed to put all non-Masons on their guard against lodge trickery and especially to show how to meet and successfully cope with Freemasonry in our Courts.
Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 10 cts.
Per Doz..75 cts. Per 100 by Express $6 0

Every Freemason a Blasphemer.

As proved by the Highest Masonic Authority.

By J. H. H. WOODWARD.

By quotations from a score of masonic works of unquestioned authority, the fact of the blasphemous ceremonies and teachings of Freemasonry are so clearly demonstrated as to make it evident that every Initiate is of necessity a blasphemer.
10 cents each. 75 cents per Doz, by mail; By Express, per 100 $6 00,

The Christian Cynosure

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1877.

The Pan-Presbyterian Council.

This great representative body of Presbyterianism closed its meetings, by the programme, on Tuesday of last week. The three hundred and thirty-three delegates present represented some eight million communicants in the various branches of Presbyterianism, from one to one and a half million being in America. The subjects discussed by this grave and inufluential body were various, yet confined within the scope of the Christian church. The most important are embraced in the following: Harmony of Reformed Confessions; Principles of Presbyterianism, its Relation to the Wants and Tendencies of the Day; Simplicity and Scriptural Character; Expansiveness and Adaptability; Aspect toward other Evangelical Churches; Training of Preachers; the Eldership; Home and Foreign Missions and Reports; the Unbelief of the Present Day; Spiritual Life; the Sabbath; the Christian Family; Religious Awakenings; Intemperance and other Social Evils; the Reformed Churches of Europe; Literature and Training of the Young. This list of topics bears more of a stereotyped character than that presented at the American branch meeting in New York some three years ago. Christian reforms seem not to be so aggressive with the European churches as with us, hence the slight reference to them. Nevertheless scarce any phase of organized Christian labor but has some relation to reformatory effort. The church itself is a reform institution in a high and noble sense. The principles underlying the work of the National Christian Association had learned and able advocates in the Edinburgh meeting, and we hope to learn that their testimony in this respect was heard and felt. Drs. Sloane, Kerr and Crosby from America, and Pastor Fisch of the Reformed church of France, are well known for their weighty opinions freely given against the lodge. The brief but eloquent remarks on this topic by Prof. C. A. Blanchard in the New York meeting were of incalculable benefit to the cause of truth. We hope such an opportunity as that presented by the late Council for a noble and enduring testimony was not neglected.

The Ribbonmen Riots.

The 12th of July returned this year with its usual burden of news of riot and bloodshed. The anniversary of the battle of Boyne-water seems the only vent hole of patriotic Orangemen, as Independence day is for Americans; and with its recurrence and the public appearance of these Irish Protestant lodges the secret orders of the Pope are vexed into fury, and hardly a year passes but Orangemen and Ribbonmen meet in blood. This year the Orange lodges were very quiet in our own cities, but in Montreal the mob spirit was rampant, and but for the restraint of Protestants by the city government, at the behest of the Catholic unions, no doubt but scores of lives would have been sacrificed. As it was, the simple display of the Orange badge on a woman's dress set the mob howling like famished wolves. The following severe but just remarks on these annual displays of secret lodge ferocity we print from the Inter-Ocean, of this city:

In 1690, when William of Orange marshaled his army on the River Boyne, that army represented the Protestant cause in England, and the army of James II. represented Roman Catholic hopes and schemes. A battle was fought, and it was decisive in that it broke the Catholic power in England, and forwarded the great revolution then in progress. What is there in all this for nineteenth century people to fight about?

A hundred years after the battle, when the secret Roman Catholic associations of the north of Ireland were exercising great influence, the Protestants organized "The Loyal Orange Institution," a secret political society, with the avowed object of counteracting the influence of the Ribbonmen or the Catholic societies. These two associations, representing extreme views in religion and politics, became involved in a fierce quarrel, that continued with unabated fury for forty years. Every anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was marked with blood, and finally, in 1835, the British government suppressed the order of Orangemen. But it was revived in 1845, and the old hostile feeling between that order and the Ribbonmen continues to manifest itself on every possible occasion.

The order of Orangemen is composed exclusively of Protestants who are pledged to "support and defend the reigning sovereign of Great Britain, the Protestant religion, the laws of the country, the legislative union of Great Britain and Ireland, and the succession to the throne of the present royal family so long as it remains Protestant." The order has the usual machinery of secret societies, and it is said there are now in British America 1,200 lodges, with a membership of 150,000.

The order, as it exists in Canada, represents extreme Protestantism and extreme loyalty to the home government. There is no reason why the formal expression of this sentiment should cause irritation even to extreme Catholics. But we are told that the Orange ribbon represents an old national feud, and recalls to Irish patriots and conscientious Roman Catholics all the bitterness and wrong of centuries, and, therefore, any parade of Orange ribbons or any manifestation of the feeling they represent ought to be suppressed. Because this harmless display was not prevented New York in 1871, there was a riot resulting in the loss of some sixty lives. The simple display of a single orange rosette in Montreal on Thursday precipitated a riot, resulting in the loss of three or four lives.

There were circumstances preceding the Montreal riot that aggravated the hostile spirit. On the 4th of July while the steamer Queen Victoria was on her way from Ottawa to Montreal a company of Papal zouaves on board, in an outburst of religious frenzy, hauled down the British flag and ran up the papal ensign. The captain remonstrated, but the bigoted papists were too strong, and being set upon by them he fled to his state room for his life. This caused great excitement in Montreal and intensified the bitter hostility of both parties, which may yet cause terrible bloodshed. The riot, it seems from later dispatches, is not yet over. The funeral of one of the murdered men was to take place on Monday and the Orange lodges expressed their determination to join the procession in force; while the Catholic societies, pretending to be irresponsible for the riot and murder, were holding back in readiness to strike again. If it is in the power of the law to remove the causes of human destruction, even to the curtailment of certain pretended liberties of the individual, a blow, once for all, should fall upon these useless lodges that should banish them from the community.

President Blanchard.—The editor of the Cynosure is at present on a brief visit to Streator, Peoria and Knox county, Illinois, hoping to gain a brief rest from the exhausting labors connected with the attack on Wheaton College while attending also to business connected with the institution. He addressed a large and enthusiastic audience which overflowed the Wheaton court-house last Friday evening on the affairs of the College, which are now in a most hopeful condition. The address was largely published in the Inter-ocean of this city of Saturday, July 14th. All who are interested in the institution will do well to procure a copy of that paper or of the Wheaton Illinoian of this week, which will report in full. Copies can be obtained through this office. The court-house meeting passed the following resolutions with the greatest unanimity; had a rising vote been taken hardly a dozen would have kept their seats:

Resolved, 1. That we thank the President of Wheaton College for the address to which we have just listened.

2. That we hereby express our appropation of, and confidence in, the Board of Trustees of the College, feeling that this slight tribute of respect is due to men who for the sake of Christian education, spend time, labor and money in watching over the interests of the institution.

3. That we are gratified to know that funds to the amount of $12,000 have recently been pledged to the College.

4. That we will so far as practicable further the interests of our town and College by strengthening the Faculty, Executive Committee and Board of Trust with our moral, social and financial sympathy and support.

5. That the Citizens' Executive Committee have no right to claim to represent the citizens of DuPage county, unless a small minority have a right claim to represent the majority, and they have still less right to claim to represent the donors of Wheaton College, and while the vast majority of its friends representing a still greater proportion of donation are, as they are at present, satisfied with its management. The present attitude of these gentlemen must appear to all right-minded persons unreasonable and factious.

The following cordial approbation proposed by a gentleman in the audience, was also voted:

Resolved, That the present meeting expresses its cordial approbation of the principles of the College as represented by President Blanchard's address.

—The General Agent spoke eight times in Fond du Lac, Wis., last week, to large audiences. He goes this week to Waupun, Byron and Oakfield to hold meetings and prepare the way for a victory for the truth. He expects to return to Chicago before the close of the week.

—As will be seen from his letter in another column, Bro. Vandever of Iowa, after many trials and discouragements is promised such cooperation from the friends of the reform in Iowa as will enable him to begin again more hopefully. We commend the arrangement to the judgment of the friends in Iowa, and trust it may be made a success without delay.

—The last Glens Falls (N. Y.) Messenger contains a spicy letter from "American," who, we presume, is Rev. S. Wright, in which that old "Hail Masonry Divine" ode is critically analyzed for the benefit of the lodge-goers who are wont to chant its inspiring strains. Let them remember some of his points when they sing it next.

—We have to record the death of another whose name is associated with the struggle against the lodge of former years. Hon. Benjamin Rush, a grandson of Dr. Benjamin Rush, the memorable signer of the Declaration of American Independence, and son of the celebrated author of Rush's letters on Masonry, died of heart disease in an omnibus in London on Tuesday, the 3d inst. He was born in Philadelphia Jan. 23, 1811, graduated at the College of New Jersey, studied law in this city, and was admitted to the bar in 1833. He filled various positions abroad and at home, and wrote and edited several works.

—If Masonry never has anything to do with politics what did ever the lodge allow such an item as this to get into the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph for?

"The Republican State Convention, called for the 29th of August will most likely be postponed until September 5th, a vote on postponement now being taken in the State Committee which will probably result in the affirmative. The change is asked by a number of gentlemen who have already been elected delegates and who are members of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar, which holds its triennial conclave at Cleveland on the day now set for the convention."

—Bro. Hinman has been delayed in his journey to Iowa on account of letters received from that State and the urgency of the work in northern Illinois. He has spoken during the past week to good meetings in Belvidere and Union, Illinois; at the latter place on Monday night.

The Iowa Freeman on a New Basis.

Editor Cynosure: The friends in convention assembled at Oskaloosa last April resolved to carry forward the publication of a state organ in Iowa. Accordingly a number of the friends have conceived a plan for putting a paper on a good basis, and have requested me to communicate the same to all concerned through the columns of the Cynosure.

A loan of at least one thousand dollars will be secured by your correspondent, of friends, in amounts ranging from $10 to $100, at six per cent. interest, payable annually, and original amounts payable in five years. The contract is not to be binding unless at least $1,000 is pledged. Local committees will be appointed to assist in securing the pledges. The pledges are to be paid to John Dorcas, treasurer of the State Association, in trust for me. The names, with the amounts pledged, will be sent to M. S. Drury, president of the State Association, and by him audited, and when the necessary amount shall be pledged he will give notice to subscribers to send amounts pledged to the State treasurer. I, on my part, agree to publish, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a weekly six-column folio paper, devoted to the Anti-masonic reform, at $1.25 per annum, payable in advance, postage prepaid.

Arrangements will be made to furnish the forthcoming paper to the subscribers to the Freeman, so that no one will be defrauded of a cent. Having commenced this work, we cannot honorably discontinue it. Every State should have at least one untrammeled paper.

J. H. Vandever.

Monticello, Iowa.

News of the Week.

— A furiously destructive hail storm swept over Rodman, Adams Center and Green Settlement, Jefferson county, N. Y., last week Tuesday, causing immense destruction to property. The storm lasted thirty minutes, during which time hail fell in vast quantities. The stones were of enormous size, some of them weighing half a pound, and measuring nine inches in circumference. They covered the goound nearly a foot deep. Many persons who were caught in the storm were badly injured before they could find shelter. One man was driving a team near the village, and was so badly hurt before he could leave his wagon and crawl in under a bridge that he chanced to be crossing that it was feared he would die. The damage in Adams and vicinity is $60,000. After the storm it took an hour to clear the sidewalks and streets of the accumulation of hailstones. The village presented the appearance of the utmost ruin. Branches of trees filled yards and streets, dead chickens, geese, pigs and dogs were strewn on every side, and every vestige of vegetation was destroyed. The little village of Green Settlement was almost demolished, and great suffering existed among the people. For five miles around the completeness of the ruin presents itself.

—Advices from Gen. Howard's expedition against Chief Joseph and his band of hostile Indians indicate that at last a decided advantage has been gained. Though the opposing forces were small, some 300 or 400 on each side, the conflict was long, determined, and strategic. Gen. Howard reports that the Indian warriors were finally forced to abandon their ground, and left a large amount of plunder at their deserted camp.

Recent special dispatches announcing great battles were progressing in Bulgaria prove entirely groundless. That the Russians are closing in upon Rustchuk is probable, although their concentration must still be in a very backward state, since telegraphic communication between Rustchuk and Shumla was intact up to Friday. However, a Constantinople dispatch Saturday announces that the Russians are approaching Rasgrad, and have probably already cut the railway near that point. It is conjectured by some that the Turks will maintain a defensive line extending from Rustchuk via Shumla to Osman Bazar, and will give battle in the open country.

The Russian advance-guard of Cossacks reached Jenisadargh on Sunday, a railway station half-way between Jamboli and Adrianople. The Russians are attacking the town, which is occupied by two battalions of Turks. Raouf-Pasha is expected there with a large force. This Russian advance-guard traversed Heion pass through the Balkan Mountains. The force of which the attacking party forms part has occupied the Yunda Valley. The Russian force is estimated at 10,000, but is destitute of artillery.

—The Turks having withdrawn all troops from Montenegrin frontiers except the garrisons of forts and blockhouses, Prince Nicholas is preparing to besiege Nicsics again.

—According to the news received by the steamship Orya, Ecuador has again been the scene of volcanic eruptions and of destructive floods, causing, it is feared, much loss of life and destruction of property. Great quantities of volcanic ashes have for days together fallen in showers along the coast. On June 26th, from Babahoyo to Tumbez, detonations resembling the discharge of cannon were heard. On the same morning a frightful noise was heard in Latacunga, which was followed immediately by a tremendous flood, which, taking the course of the rivers Cutuchi, San Felipe, and Yanayaco, and passing, washed the city to the chapel known as El Salto. The volume of mud and water was so great as to completely cover the Hacienda Valley, including the distillery in front of Latacunga. The flood in its course carried with it many cattle and also many bodies.

A number of ancient Bibles and other books in the Czech (Bohemian) language are on exhibition at Geveva, Switzerland. Great interest attaches to them as relics of that primeval Protestantism beginning before Luther, which once embraced nine-tenths of the population of Bohemia, but was almost exterminated by fire and sword. These few volumes were preserved by many devices—built into walls, baked in loaves of bread, buried in the earth—from the destruction at the hands of the Jesuits which swept away almost the entire literature of the Bohemian race. Much and well-deserved sympathy is directed of late by Continental Protestants to the little, suffering and impoverished churches which still survive in Bohemia, the scanty remnant of that vast nation of Protestants, whose early heroes, John Huss and Jerome of Prague, were the precursors and proto-martyrs of the Great Reformation.—Ex.

George Leaming, Avilla, Mo., writes: "Out of four papers the Cynosure stands highest in my estimation. Our county is badly infested with all the secret conclaves known to the world."

Front view of the Carpenter Donation, a fine, stone front building No. 221 West Madison St., Chicago, now occupied by the National Christian Association. The fee simple will be given by Mr. Carpenter if other friends raise $30,000 by Apr. 1st 1878, in cash or "good, negotiable, interest-bearing notes" to establish a Publishing House and headquarters of the reform. Send donations to the Treasurer at 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The National Christian Association.

President of the National Convention.—Pres. H. H. George, D. D., W. Geneva, Ohio.

Secretaries.—Rev. W. H. French, D. D., Cincinnati, Ohio; H. L. Kellogg, Chicago.

President of the Corporate Body.—Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D., Wheaton, Ill.

Vice-President. — Philo Carpenter, Chicago.

Directors.—Philo Carpenter, J. Blanchard, Archibald Wait, C. R. Hagerty, E. A. Cook, H. L. Kellogg, E. Hildreth, J. M. Wallace, J. B. Walker, A. D. Freeman, Thos. Hodge.

Recording Sec'y.—Thos. Hodge, Chicago.

Cor. Sec'y and General Agent.—J. P. Stoddard, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Treasurer.—H. L. Kellogg, 18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

The object of this Association is:—"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the Churches of Christ from being depraved; to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform to aid the Association in either of these ways: (1) to establish a Publishing House and Head-quarters in Chicago; (2) to carry on the general work; (3) to maintain the State agents. All donations, (drafts or P. O. orders) should be sent to the Treasurer; general correspondence, etc., direct to the Corresponding Secretary

Form of Bequest.—I give and bequeath to the National Christian Association, incorporated and existing under the laws of the State of Illinois, the sum of——dollars for the purposes of said Association, and for which the receipt of its Treasurer for the time being shall be a sufficient discharge.

State Auxiliary Associations.

CONNECTICUT.

President, J. A. Conant, Willimantic.
Secretary, D. J. Ellsworth, Windsor.
Treasurer, C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.

President, S. B. Allen, Westfield.
Rec. Secretary and Treasurer, H. L. Kellogg, 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago.
Lecturers, H. H. Hinman, Wheaton, and J. P. Richards, Bowensburg, Hancock Co.

INDIANA.

Pres't, W. P. McNary, Bloomington.
Rec. Sec'y, H. Teter, Westfield.
Treas., Peter Rich, Westfield.
Lecturer and Cor. Sec'y S. L. Cook, Albion.

IOWA.

President, M. S. Drury, Western, Linn Co.
Cor. Sec'y, M. R. Drury, " " "
Rec. Sec'y, E. J. Grinnell, Charles City.
Treasurer, John Dorcas, Shiloh.

KANSAS.

President, H. T. Besse, Sterling, Rice Co.
Secretary, J. Dodds, Winchester.
Treasurer, C. A. Sexton, Topeka.

MICHIGAN.

President, H. D. Inman, Coldwater.
Cor. Sec'y, C. B. Remington, Fentonville
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Bruce, Hickory Corners
Treasurer, C. Quick, Weston.
Lecturer and Agent, D. P. Rathbun, Hickory Corners.

Communications for the Agent concerning lectures or the interests of the cause may be addressed to, or in care of, E. W. Bruce.

MISSOURI.

President, N. E. Gardner, Avalon.
Cor. Sec'y, A. D. Thomas, Arbela.
Rec. Sec'y, E. W. Carpenter.
Treasurer, Wm. Beauchamp, Avalon.
Lecturer, E. G. Cooper, Albany Gentry Co.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

President, J. F. Browne, Lewiston, Me.
Secretary, S. C. Kimball, Center Strafford.
Treasurer, E. Smith, Center Strafford.

NEW YORK.

President, L. N. Stratton, Syracuse.
Secretary, W. A. Sellew, Rochester.
Treasurer, M. Merrick, Syracuse.
Lecturers—L. N. Stratton, Syracuse; Woodruff Post, Rochester; A. F. Curry, Almond.

OHIO.

President, H. H. George, W. Geneva.
Treasurer, J. G. Mattoon, West Unity
Sec. and Lecturer, Wm. Dillon, Dayton.

PENNSYLVANIA.

President, A. L. Post, Montrose.
Cor. Sec'y, N. Callender, Green Grove.
Treasurer, W. B. Bertels, Wilksbarre.
Rec. Sec'y, and Lecturer, J. W. Raynor, Montrose.

WISCONSIN.

President, E. L. Harris, Delavan.
Secretary, U. D. Lathrop, Millard.
Treasurer; Joshua Parish, Delavan.

Address of Anti-masonic Lecturers.

General Agent and Lecturer, J. P. Stoddard, Christian Cynosure Office, Chicago.
For State Lecturers State Ass'n list.
Others who will lecture when desired;—
C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
R. B. Taylor, Summerfield, O.
N. Callender, Starrucca, Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
P. Hurless, Polo, Ill.
J. C. Graham, Viola, Mercer Co., Ill.
J. R. Baird, Templeton, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
Josiah McCaskey, Fancy Creek, Wi.
C. F. Hawley, Damascoville, Ohio.
W. M. Givens, Center Point, Ind.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
D. S. Caldwell, Clyde, Sandusky Co., O.
A. Mayn, Promise City, Wayne Co., Mich.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
C. F. Wiggins, Angola, Ind
E Ronayne, 104 Bremer St., Chicago.
W. M. Love, Baker, St. Clair Co. Mo.
A D. Freeman, Downers Grove, Ill.
Jas. Springer, Springerton Ill.
A. D. Carter, Deersville, Harrison Co O.
James McCleery, Monroe, Iowa.
R. Faurot, Kendallville, Ind.
J. W. Barlow, Ridgetown, Ont., C. W.

The Home Circle.

AFTERWARDS.

Light after darkness,
Gain after loss,
Strength after suffering,
Crown after cross.
Sweet after bitter,
Song after sigh,
Home after wandering,
Praise after cry.

Sheaves after sowing,
Sun after rain,
Sight after mystery,
Peace after pain.
Joy after sorrow,
Calm after blast,
Rest after weariness,
Sweet rest at last.

Near after distant,
Gleam after gloom,
Love after loneliness,
Life after tomb.
After long agony
Rapture of bliss!
Right was the pathway
Leading to this!

—Sunday Magazine.

THE TIME WHEN OF CONSECRATION.

Consecration pertains to sanctification, and does not pertain to justification. Repentance pertains to justification, as its antecedent. And repentance relates to the facts of actual sins, personally committed. Consecration does not relate to the facts of overt sinning as a series of acts put forth by the actual transgressor, but to the original fact of inborn sin as a mortal condition. Hence, consecration does not take place when justification is being sought.

Many say: "I consecrated all when I first came to God, as a poor, guilty sinner, seeking pardon—I then laid my all upon the altar, and God accepted the sacrifice." They mean well, but they are in a kind of confusion—a confusion no doubt superinduced by their own want of apprehension touching similar expressions from the lips of sanctified Christians, who have really and truly done precisely what the above words express. In point of fact, what those well-meaning souls did, when they first came to God as guilty sinners, was to "confess their (own personal) sins," and pray for their forgiveness, engaging by solemn promise to God not to sin any more. That is what they did, and all they did, or all they could do, with the light then enjoyed.

Consecration is an act performed with reference to deliverance from inborn sin. Previously, all actual sins, with all their defiling and penal consequences, have been disposed of by repentance, faith for pardon, and forgiveness, accompanied by regenerating grace. So that, in consecration, nothing pertaining to actual sins enters into the account, all that pertains to such sins being already adjusted through justification.

The common idea is, that consecration is simply the act of separation, or setting apart. So it is; but it is more. The idea stated is the truth, but it is not the whole truth. Consecration is a setting apart for the express purpose of being made holy. The latter words are most significant, and are indispensable to a right and truthful statement of the intent of consecration—the quo animo with which the act of consecration is performed. This true and rational definition will preserve us from error, and will guard us against confounding consecration and repentance. And it is important to keep the distinction between the two experiences clear and well defined.

Reader, no doubt you have truly repented, and have been justified.

Have you also consecrated, and realized sanctification, the entire purification of your nature?—Selected.

A CIGAR SCIENTIFICALLY DISSECTED.

A polite visitor, who during his interview with us had rendered our sanctum redolent with the fumes of a fragrant Havana, has just left a cigar on our table with the laughing request that we smoke it. Despite the fact that it is an exceptionally fine cigar, we are unable to gratify our friend's desire, seeing that we don't smoke; but the thought occurs that we can show our appreciation of the gift by applying the light, not of a match, but of science, to it, and thus giving our friend and his brother-smokers something to ponder over next time "the blue upcurling smoke" leads them to reverie.

To the world in general a cigar is merely a tightly rolled packet having brittle fragments of dried leaves within, and a smooth silky leaf for its outer wrapper. When it is burnt and the pleasantly flavored smoke inhaled, the habitual smoker claims for it a soothing luxury that quiets the irritable nervous organism, relieves weariness and entices repose. Science, scouting so superficial a description, examines first the smoke, second the leaf, third the ash. In the smoke are discovered water in vaporous state, soot (free carbon), carbonic acid and carbonic oxide, and a vaporous substance condensable into oily nicotine. These are the general divisions, which Vohl and Eulenberg have still further split upon; and in so doing have found acetic, formic, butyric, valeric and propionic acids, prussic acid, creosote and carbolic acid, ammonia, sulphuretted hydrogen, pyridine, viridine, picoline, lutidine, coliodine, parvodine, coridine and rubidene. The last are a series of oily bases belonging to the homologues of aniline, first discovered in coal tar. Applying chemical tests to the leaves, other chemists have found nicotia, tobacco camphor or nicotianine (about which not much is known), a bitter extractive matter, gum, chlorophyll, malate of lime, sundry albuminoids, malic acid, woody fibre and various salts. The feathery white ash, which in its cohesion and whiteness is indicative of the good cigar, yields potash, soda, magnesia, lime, phosphoric acid, sulphuric acid, silica and chlorine. Our friend has kindly left us a fine cigar; had it been a poor and cheap one, the ingredients we should extract would be fearful and wonderful to contemplate. Here is the list from an English parliamentiary report on adulterations in tobacco: Sugar, alum, lime, flour or meal, rhubarb leaves, saltpetre, fuller's earth, starch, malt combings, chromate of lead, peat moss, molasses, hardock leaves, common salt, endive leaves, lampblack, gum, red dye, a black dye composed of vegetable red, iron and licorice, scraps of newspaper, cinnamon stick, cabbage leaves and straw brown paper.

Returning now to the smoke, or rather its ingredients, Dr. B. W. Richardson, in his Diseases of Modern Life, considers the effect of the same on the body at considerable length, basing his conclusions on actual investigation. He tells us that water, of course, is harmless; free carbon acts mechanically as an irritant and tends to discolor the secretions and the teeth. Ammonia bites the tongue, exercises a solvent influence on the blood, excites the salivary glands and thus causes a desire to drink while smoking. The tendency of carbonic acid is to produce a sleepiness, headache and lassitude. When a cigar is smoked badly, that is when the combustion of the tobacco is slow and incomplete, carbonic oxide is produced in small quantities, and is an active poisoning agent, resulting in irregular motion of the heart, vomiting, convulsions of the muscles and drowsiness. The nicotine tends to cause tremor, palpitation of the heart and paralysis. The volatile empyreumatic substance produces a sense of oppression and taints the breath and surroundings of the smoker with the well-known "stale tobacco smoke" smell. The bitter extract causes that sharp, nauseous taste peculiar to a re-lighted cigar or an old pipe.

By trying the effects of tobacco smoke on lower animals, we can obtain an idea of its influence on ourselves. Small insects are stupefied rapidly, but recover in fresh air. Cold-blooded animals succumb slowly to the smoke, birds rapidly. Some animals, such as the goat, can eat tobacco with impunity; but none escape the effects of the fumes. Persons suffer most from tobacco while learning to smoke. Dr. Richardson says that the spasmodic seizures are sometimes terrible, especially in boys. There is a sensation of immediate death, the heart nearly ceases to beat and sharp pains shoot through the chest. Examination of inferior animals under such conditions show that "the brain is pale and empty of blood; the stomach reddened in round spots, so raised and pile-like that they resemble patches of Utrecht velvet." The blood is preternaturally fluid, the lungs are as pale as those of a dead calf and the heart is feebly trembling; such is the primary action of one's first cigar.

After a time, however, the body becomes accustomed to the influences of the poison, and with the exception of constant functional disturbances (owing to the excretory organs, notably the kidneys, being compelled to do work not essential to their duties) no distressing results are felt. There are numerous instances where the evil effects are scarcely appreciable, the physical and nervous constitution of the smoker being capable of resisting the influence. In many cases copious salivation attends smoking and in this circumstance the opponents of tobacco have found a strong argument. Still, either to expectorate or not to do so, is a choice of two evils. In the latter case, the result is to swallow the saliva charged with poisonous matter; in the former, the saliva needed to prepare the food for digestion is lost, and besides, as it contains salts of lime in solution, the effect is to produce large formations of tartar on the teeth. "Smoker's sore throat" is a special irritable state of the mucous membrane induced by cigar smoking, which soon disappears when the habit is broken off.

Tobacco smoke does not produce consumption or bronchitis, but it tends to aggravate both maladies. Its effect on the organs of sense is to cause in the extreme degree, dilation of the pupils of the eye, confusion of vision, bright lines, luminous or cobweb specks and long retention of images on the retina, with other and analogous symptoms affecting the ear, namely, inability to define sounds clearly and the occurrence of a sharp, ringing sound like that of a whistle or bell. Its effect on the brain is to impair the activity of that organ and to oppress it if it be duly nourished, but to soothe it if it be exhausted. It leads to paralysis in the volitional and in the sympathetic or organic nerves and to over-secretion from the glandular structures. Science was not wise enough to prepare so formidable an indictment of the nicotian weed as the above in King James' time, else that monarch might have had better ground than his personal dislike for stigmatizing the habit of smoking as a "custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs, and in the black, stinking fume thereof nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

And yet, despite all that science can say, the habit is increasing. Two centuries ago the Turks regarded smoking as a religious offence, and paraded a smoker through the streets of Constantinople with his pipe stuck through his nose as a warning to others. Who can disconnect the Turk now from the idea of chibouque or nargileh, or fragrant Latakia? Look at the best cigar wrappers the world can produce, raised on tobacco fields in the heart of New England, where the Puritan fathers once visited the direst of blue-law vengeance on the wretch who profaned his Maker's handiwork by "making a chimney of his nostrils." The value of our tobacco crop last year reached nearly $30,000,000. We consume annually some 75,000 hogsheads of the leaf; we imported about 83,000 bales of cigars, etc., from Cuba in 1875.

What is the effect of it all? Effects on individuals likewise affect communities; these in turn influence the nation. No person that smokes can be in perfect health, and an imperfect organism cannot produce a perfect one. Therefore it is logical to conclude that, were smoking the practice of every individual of a nation, then that people would degenerate into a physically inferior race. It would follow, moreover, that, in those countries where smoking is most practiced, a lower physical, and a consequently lower intellectual, development must be found. Such, we think, will be conceded to be true of Spain, of Cuba, of Portugal, of Turkey, of Greece, and of the South American countries, where those who are addicted to the habit vastly outnumber those who do not smoke.—Scientific American.

One soul converted to God is better than thousands merely moralized, and still sleeping in their sins.

Happiness is a perfume that one can not shed over another without a few drops falling on one's self.

Children's Corner.

Divine Goodness.

See the shining dew-drops
On the flowers strewed,
Proving, as they sparkle,
God is ever good.

See the morning sunbeams
Lighting up the wood,
Silently proclaiming
God is ever good.

Hear the mountain streamlet
In the solitude,
With its ripple saying,
God is ever good.

In the leafy tree-tops,
Where no fears intrude,
Merry birds are singing
God is ever good.

Bring, my heart, thy tribute—
Songs of gratitude—
While all nature utters,
God is ever good.,

—Selected.

Johnny Reeves.

Get a boy's heart first, and then you are sure of him. This is the way a teacher in a city mission school won Johnny Reeves, "the little drunkard." She had collected a lot of wild street boys into a class and was trying to teach them, when, one day, she noticed that one of them had fallen asleep and began to snore.

"He's drunk," said his ragged little companions, laughing.

Of course there was no use in trying to do anything with him then, but three days afterwards she saw and questioned him.

"Yes, I was drunk, that's a fact," said Johnny, as frank as could be. 'I didn't mean to let yer see me, 'cause I kind o' love yer, but I couldn't help it."

"Why, Johnny, you should't say so. You could help it.

"No; yer see I've got so used to't I can't stop."

"Oh, I am sorry. What was it that ever made you begin to drink?"

"I learnt it when I runned errands for Mike Dooley, down in Willard street. He keeps a liquor store, and he gave me the rum and sugar in the bottoms o' the glasses for my pay."

"Johnny, it would be terrible to have you die a drunkard. I can't bear to think of it. Won't you try to give up drinking if I'll tell you how you can?"

Johnny thought a moment. "I don't b'lieve I could. I've got so used to't, you see. If I go without, I feel so gone here" (putting his hand on his stomach).

There were tears in the gentle teacher's eyes. Johnny looked up and saw them, and was touched. He began to reconsider.

"I—I donno but I'd try if I thought 'twould make yer feel better."

"God bless you, Johnny! Do you give me your hand on it, and say you'll stop drinking, honest and true."

There was a pretty long pause then. Johnny was making a mighty effort. "Yes'm," he said (and he drew a long breath). "I'll promise never to drink no more liquor—for your sake."

"It ought to be for Jesus' sake, Johnny."

The little fellow hung his head, and there was another pause.

"Could he make me keep my promise? You ask him, can't you?"

Hardly sure of the boy's meaning, the question was so unexpected, the kind teacher nevertheless knelt immediately. Johnny knelt too, and when she had prayed, he said he guessed he would "ask him himself."

"Lord Jesus up in heaven, please help a little feller as wants ter be good, and don't never let him drink rum no more. Amen."

That was Johnny's prayer. And he meant it. All his conduct since has proved how truly in earnest the poor little street boy was when he asked the Lord to help him keep a promise made to his teacher, "'cause he kind o' loved her."

He is living in a good situation in the country, and bids fair to grow up a conscientious, upright man.—Youth's Companion.

"Take no Thought for the Morrow."

"One little boy," says Mr. Knapp, an American missionary in Spain, "sells wax matches, called cerillas, in the street. If he does not dispose of a certain number of boxes a day, his parents will not give him anything to eat when he comes home at night. One afternoon he was very hungry, having had to suffer for a deficit the day before. While thinking what to do, Jesus came into his little mind, and so he got down by his basket, there in the busy plaza, and asked him 'to help him to sell four boxes of wax matches so that he might have his dinner.' When he arose, a gentleman stepped up and bought just four boxes, and the little match-vender ran home joyfully with his eight farthings, his heart brimming full. We asked him why he did not stop to sell more. 'Oh,' said he, 'I had enough for to-day, and Jesus will take care of to-morrow.'"—Young Reaper.

Do You Know the Plants?

It is not only a pleasure, but also very useful, to know the names and qualities of trees, plants, herbs, and flowers. All this you can learn only by keeping your eyes open. Many a time you will need such knowledge.

A vessel was once wrecked in the English Channel. Only four persons were saved. No one could see them for the darkness, nor hear them for the noisy storm. They climbed from rock to rock till they could get no higher; but just then one of them, by a flash of lightning, saw a samphire-plant. By this he knew they were safe, for it never grows in a place which the tide can reach.

So life might often be saved if you knew certain herbs and plants that are cures for diseases.

Keep your eyes and ears open as you pass through life, and you will learn much that may be useful to you.

A Murderous Sea-flower.

One of the exquisite wonders of the sea is called the opelet and is about as large as the German aster, with a great many long petals of a light green color, glossy as satin, and each one tipped with rose color. These lovely petals do not lie quietly in their places, but wave about in the water, while the opelet clings to a rock. How innocent and lovely it looks on its rocky bed! Who would suspect that it would eat anything grosser than dew or sunlight? But those beautiful waving arms, as you call them, have use besides looking pretty. They have to provide for a large open mouth, which is hidden down deep among them—so hidden that one can scarcely find it. Well do they perform their duty, for the instant a foolish little fish touches one of the rosy tips he is struck with poison as fatal to him as lightning. He immediately becomes numb, and in a moment stops struggling, and then the other arms wrap themselves around him, and he is seen no more. Then the lovely arms unclose and wave again in the water.

In books, or work, or healthful play,
Let my first years be past,
That I may give for every day
A good account at last.

In works of labor or of skill,
I would be busy too,
For Satan finds some mischief still
For idle hands to do.

Little Bessie was in bed. Norre came in, and found her lying wide awake. "Ah, alone in the dark," said Norre, "and not afraid at all; are you, Bessie darling?" "No, indeed," said Bessie, "for I am not all alone. God is here. I look out of the window and see the stars, and God seems to be looking down on me with all his eyes." "To be sure," said Norre, "but God up in the sky is a great way off." "No," said Bessie, "God is here too; and sometimes he seems to be clasping me in his arms, and then I feel so happy." That little child might go to sleep saying, "Jehovah-Jireh, the Lord will provide for my protection."

A little girl who had just believed on Jesus, wrote to a Christian friend, saying, "I always used to say my prayers, but I never prayed till lately."

The Sabbath School.

LESSON XXX.—July 29, 1877.—THE YOKE BROKEN.

SCRIPTURE—Acts 15: 22-31. Commit 25-31. Primary vs., 27, 28.

22. Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23. And they wrote letters by them after this manner: The apostles and elders and brethren send greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia:

24. Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law; to whom we gave no such commandment:

25. It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

26. Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27. We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

28. For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things:

29. That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle:

31. Which when they had read, they rejoiced for the consolation.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Stand fast, therefore, in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."—Gal. 5: 1.

TOPIC.—Liberty in Christ.

HOME READINGS.

M. Gal. 5: 1-26....Call to Liberty.
T. Col. 2: 1-23....Let no Man Judge you.
W. Rom. 6: 1-23. Ye are Under Grace.
Th. Matt. 11: 1-30....My Yoke is Easy
F. John. 8: 1-36....The Truth shall Make you Free.
S. 1 Cor. 7: 1-23... Is the Lord's Freeman.
S. 1 Cor. 8: 13- 1... Liberty not to be a Stumbling Block.

—Nat'l S. S. Teacher.

From Derbe Paul and Barnabas turned back in their journey, fearlessly preached again in Lystra, Iconium and Antioch, and completed by the ordination of elders, the organization of those churches from which they had been prematurely driven by persecution. From Antioch also they returned to Perga and Antioch in Syria. Here they remained a "long time." During this stay arose, or at least culminated, a controversy, the greatest which ever agitated the apostolic church. It was in regard to the place of the Mosaic law under the Christian dispensation. Some said it was still binding and necessary to salvation. These were originally Jews, chiefly Pharisees, and had their headquarters at Jerusalem. Others claimed that the ceremonial law was not binding on the Gentiles, or even on Jewish Christians—that salvation was by grace alone without the works of the law. They admitted, however, that for the sake of expediency this law, within certain limits, might be properly observed. Of this party—if party it might be called—Paul was an acknowledged champion. The crisis was precipitated at Antioch by certain men from Judea, "who came in privily to spy out the disciples' liberty which they had in Christ Jesus, that they might bring them into bondage." Gal. 2: 4. Debate ran high, and it was determined to appeal to the highest court of the church—that of the "apostles and elders," assembled at Jerusalem. Accordingly Paul, Barnabas and other delegates, among whom probably was Titus, (Gal. 2: 3) were chosen to represent the Antiochian church and sent on their mission. In due time the Council met, and though some diversity of sentiment at first revealed itself, after a full discussion of the whole subject, in which Peter, Paul, Barnabas and James took a prominent part, a unanimous decision was reached in favor of the party represented by the great apostle of the Gentiles. It was determined also to transmit this decision by chosen messengers to the churches most largely affected. — Evangelical Repository.

THE GOSPEL MEETING.

How to Study the Bible.

LECTURE BY MR. MOODY.

[Concluded.]

Then how should we study the Bible? I tell you I have been wonderfully helped by taking up one part at a time and studying it. It is much better to spend six months on one part than on the whole book. When we have become master of one book perhaps five of the others will be opened up to us. Take Genesis, for instance; you will find the key note of the gospel there. Every book is written with an object. The book of John was written to make us believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and that by believing on Him we can have life. Take Exodus—that may be called the book of the redemption. Leviticus is the book of sacrifices. Deuteronomy tells us of the conduct of the Jews in Canaan; Joshua is the book of wars and conflict, and Judges, the failure in Canaan. Every book, in fact, has its key note.

ANOTHER GOOD WAY TO STUDY THE BIBLE

is to do it without bias. I find a great many people come to the Bible and say, I believe such and such a thing and I cannot reconcile other things. Now, if we are going to get truth from the word of God, we should let the Spirit teach us. We should study it in the clear light of Calvary; and if we get right under the blaze of Calvary we will get its meaning, and it will be great help to us, and we will have power to deal with the souls of men. But there is another way—study it topically. I have been blessed in taking one word and then taking up the concordance and hunting up every passage of scripture bearing on that word. I took up "Love" some time ago and spent about three weeks in this way. I wanted to love everybody I met, I was so full of it. If you take that subject of love and study it in that way, you will soon get full of it, and you will pour it out on every one you meet. In court, if a lawyer wants to carry the jury, he gets everything right on one line, heaps up the testimony, and carries them by force. And a minister ought to consider his congregation a jury, and address them as if he wants to convict. Then take the word "Christ." I cannot tell you how blessed the study of that word has been to me. I lingered about Sinai, and did not get to Calvary until I began to study it. But after awhile I was so full of the wonderful grace of God that I could not help speaking of it. We can get so full of those heavenly gifts by studying our Bibles in this way that we cannot help preaching forcibly. Take "Heaven!" People wonder a great deal about that; but take your concordance and find out all the Bible has said about it.

THEN TAKE THE "BLOOD,"

which some men have been talking about. All you want is to take the Bible, and you will find that it teaches nothing else but the blood. This book don't teach anything but the "blood;" it places life and everything in the "blood," and without the "blood" there is no redemption. If men come to the Bible with biased minds and don't believe it, I can't help it; but I will say this, that the men who throw out "the blood" don't believe the Bible. So let us take the good book and study it topically; or let us take Bible characters—I have often been wonderfully helped in taking Bible characters and studying them. Take Saul, for instance. Find out why he failed. You will find hundreds of men in Chicago just like him. Take David, and find out everything concerning him. Take all the Bible characters and study them, and then, if ever you want to preach about them, you have got what the Bible says, and you can easily explain them to others. You will find it a great help to you.

And let me say right here that if we are going to have a great revival in the Northwest, if we are going to have a revival worth anything, we have got to bring the people to the word of God. I am tired and sick of spasmodic efforts, and I have a good deal of sympathy with those people who get up at the meetings and decry the getting up of a great bonfire of religion, which will blaze up for a few weeks and then go out. The reason why the revivals are not more lasting in many instances is just because people are not brought to the word of God. It grieves me to see people talking in the inquiry rooms without the word of God. What you want is to bring the church to the word of God, and get the people to study, and then we will have a revival as lasting as eternity itself. We want men to come to the word of God. We want this word to go down to their hearts. If they are really brought to the word of God, they will be more liable to stand in the faith than they are at present, and we won't have this Western country so filled with backsliders. Let us pray that we shall have

A SCRIPTURAL REVIVAL.

If we aim for that and teach it in the pulpits and Sunday schools, we will have a revival worth having. Every true revival brings people to the word of God. Just turn to Nehemiah. They had a pretty good revival in the days of Nehemiah; I wish we could have one like it in Chicago. We find in the eighth chapter:

"And Ezra the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men and women, and all that could hear with understanding, upon the first day of the seventh month. And he read therein before the street that was before the water-gate from the morning until midday."

No preaching, but merely reading the Word of God. Well, that is what we want. We don't want any one to get up a grand, eloquent essay on Christ or religion; but we want to have men tell us about Christ. I'd a good deal rather have just "Saith the Lord," than a bundle of fine essays.

"And he read therein before the street that was before the water-gate from the morning until midday, before the men and the women and those that could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive to the books of the law."

I can see the old men putting their hands to their ears so that they should not lose a word; just like the young robins stretching for the food that the old robin brings them. That is what we want—we want the Word of God to fill the hungering souls of men.

"And Ezra blessed the Lord, the great God. And all the people answered, 'Amen, amen,' with lifting up their hands; and they bowed their heads and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground. * * So they read in the book of the law of God distinctly and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading."

That is about the style of preaching that we want. We want our ministers to "read distinctly and cause the people to understand." That would be a strange occurrence, however, in some of our churches. You can ask the members if they understood the sermon and they cannot tell you what the minister said. What was the result? We find it in the tenth verse:

"Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord; neither be ye sorry, for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

SHOW ME A CHRISTIAN FEEDING ON THE WORD OF GOD

day and night, and I will show you a joyful man. He is getting new truths every day that help him along, and he can surmount every obstacle, because every truth he gets makes him lighter and lighter. He is like the man in England who made him two bags of gas, and placed one on each side in the hope that he would be able to fly. Well, he didn't fly, but the gas made him so light that when he came to a hedge or other obstruction, and touched it, over he would go. So this truth makes us so light that we mount over all obstacles.

Now turn to the twentieth chapter of Jeremiah and the ninth verse. This blessed old prophet fed on the Word of God; it was sweeter to him than honeycomb. I will read you this, to show that a man full of the Word of God cannot keep still—he does not get discouraged, but is anxious to do everything in the Master's service:

"Then I said I will not make mention of Him nor speak any more in His name. But His Word was in mine heart like a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay."

He could not hold himself because it set him on fire; and so a man filled with the Word of God is like a fire. I heard that a man some time ago was going to preach on the doctrine of love, and I felt awfully afraid and wished he would not do it. I looked for the morning paper next day with some misgivings, but I found that he had given nothing but Scripture, and that is the best thing he could have done. You only give the Word of God, and it is not your creed or doctrine, but the Word of God. In the twenty-third chapter of Jeremiah, and the twenty-ninth verse we find:

"Is not my Word like as a fire, saith the Lord; and like a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces?"

Those hard, flinty rocks in Chicago will be broken if we hammer them with the Word of God. If we want to reach the hardened hearts of the Northwest, we must first fill ourselves full of Scripture, and then give them the Word of God. There is no need for us to get up sermons; that simple recipe will be sufficient. I think if there was more of the Word of God in our sermons, and fewer of our own thoughts, there would be one hundred fold more fruit than we are having at the present time.

There is another verse in the fifteenth chapter of Jeremiah I want to read:

"Thy words were found, and I did eat them; thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart; for I am called by thy name, O Lord God of Hosts."

Just think of that. "Thy words were found and I did eat them." Think of it! How sweet this must have been! A man must feed himself before he can feed others. You cannot, as I said the other day, get water out of a dry well. If a man is half starved, and lean, through not feeding on the Word, he cannot feed others. I want to tell you about the best thing I ever heard, and hope it will help you as it did me. At a meeting in Farwell Hall the other day, the subject was that of the seventh chapter of John: "Let every one who thirsteth," etc. Mr. Gibson, of the Second Presbyterian church, said the difficulty was to find out who was thirsty, and he said the trouble with the ministers was they did not have the living water, and people did not come to them. If, said he, they had a good bucket of living water, the people would soon flock round and drink. And that is true. Just let a man go round with a bucket of water and see how many will drink. The moment they get their eyes on the water they will reach out their hands for it. Let us bear in mind that before feeding others we must be fed ourselves. Another thought, and that is that I have been wonderfully helped in just marking my Bible when I have heard a minister preach a good sermon and convey some good thoughts. I say to myself that will be good for somebody else, and I just put a mark in my Bible. The effect of a general marking of Bibles, too, will be good. If a minister thought his sermon was going to be repeated to a great many more people than those who heard it, he would preach a great deal better than he ordinarily does.

I think if we understood our Bibles better, and the ministers gave us more of the Word of God, so many people would not be carried away with the false doctrine which greatly prevails. Error has not such a good hold in Scotland as it has in most other countries. The reason for this is that the people are educated in the Word of God. The people there carry their Bibles to church with them, and if a minister did not preach according to the Bible his congregation would soon discover it.

I WAS A LITTLE AFRAID

when I was in that country. Some of the Scotch folks know the Bible better than I do, and I thought if I did not preach according to the Word some of them would say, "Moody, you know there is something that contradicts that." I advise you to carry your Bibles to church with you, and if you hear a good sermon, take down the leading points. I made marks in my Bible in regard to a sermon of four little things which I heard once, and was afraid was not going to turn out well. The speaker first referred to the ants, and showed that they toiled all summer and laid up a store for the future. God's people, in this way, he pointed out, are like the ants; and I said I would be like an ant and prepare for the future. The next things referred to were conies. Now conies are very feeble folks, but yet make their houses in rocks. It is very wise to do that, and God's people build on the rock, and can therefore withstand the winds and the rain; and I said I would be like a cony. The locust was the third thing. The locusts go about in bands, yet have no King over them. But are we not a world without a King? But by and by our King will come back, and I said I would be like a locust. Then came the spider. I thought I would not like to be a spider. He pointed out that one of the habits of the spider is to suspend itself from the ceiling and keep off the ground. God's people are like the spider, keeping themselves above the world; and I wanted to be like a spider. Now, if I had not marked that down in my Bible, it would not have been food to me for a number of years. Do not be afraid of marking your Bibles. Once or twice you may find one worn out, but we can afford to wear out a number of Bibles if we only give the truths to others. An Englishman came to me one night and asked me if I had ever preached on Job. I replied "No." "But," said he, "did you ever study it up?" I said "Yes." He said, "If you have got the key to Job you have got the key to the whole Bible." "Yes," said I, "I would like to have that explained." I had always heard Job spoken of as a poetical and highly imaginative work, and it had never struck me to look at it in the light suggested. "Well," he continued, "you can divide Job into seven heads: First, Job a perfect man, untried. That is Adam and Eve before the trial came. Second, tried by adversity. That is, Adam tried by adversity. Third, the wisdom of the world—the three men trying to help Job out. And if we want to hear poetry, philosophy or wisdom, listen to those men; but they didn't make Job better, but worse. That is just the case with the wisdom of the world. Ask the philosophers what they are going to do with the drunkards, and they say educate them. Many of them have a good education and it has not helped them. You must tell them of Christ, and bring them to him, before you can reform them. Fourth, in comes the daysman; that means Christ, the Mediator. Fifth, God speaks at last. Sixth, Job has learned his lesson, and that is what every son of Adam must learn. Seventh, God restored him, and the last state of that man was better than the first. A man out of Eden with Christ is better than a man in Eden without Christ." And he said, "Don't you notice how his property was restored and everything was doubled? Job had ten children, but these were not doubled." I asked, "Why?" "Because they were in heaven and happy, and God did not give any more." Let us pray.

OBITUARY.

We learn indirectly of the recent death of Dr. Duncan Williamson, of Philadelphia, from the first a staunch friend of the reform movement and active in circulating its principles in the community.

A valuable illustrated pamphlet on the "Value and Culture of Roots for Stock-Feeding," by David Landreth & Sons, Philadelphia, has just been issued. McCalla & Stavely, publishers, Philadelphia. Price 25c.

When a man begins to amass money he begins to feed an appetite which nothing can appease, and which its proper food will only render fiercer.

Knights of Pythias Illustrated

A Full Illustrated Exposition

OF THE

Ceremonies of the Three Degrees

OF THE

SUBORDINATE LODGE.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the year 1877
By Ezra A. Cook & Co.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

[CONTINUED.]

CLOSING PRAYER BY THE PRELATE.

"Vouchsafe Thy blessing, our Heavenly Father, on the events of this evening. Be with us during the coming week. Shield us from all harm, and finally permit us to be with Thee on the last great day, a united brotherhood, elected to share the blessings of life eternal in the heavens. Hear and answer us in peace for Thy great name's sake. Amen."

(All respond.) Amen.

CLOSING ODE.

May your slumbers be all blest
When you close your eyes in rest;
May the holy angels keep
Vigils o'er you while you sleep.

Sleep till rosy morning comes,
With its light to bless your homes;
Bless the angels that will keep
Vigils o'er you while you sleep.
Good night.

Chancellor Commander.—"Officers and brethren, we are now about to quit these portals to mingle again with the outer world. Let all of us endeavor to so regulate our conduct that it will bring credit upon ourselves and honor to our order. In conclusion, permit me to return you my sincere thanks as Chancellor Commander, for the kind assistance you have rendered in conducting the business of this convention. And now, by virtue of the power vested in me as Chancellor Commander, I declare —— Lodge, No. ——, duly closed until our next regular convention, (except in case of necessity, when all shall receive due notice,) and then I hope to see as many of you present as can possibly make it convenient to attend."

"Brother Master at Arms, you will close the Book of Law and secure the Swords of Defense. Brother Inside Guard you will now permit the brethren to retire, and inform the Outside Guard that the lodge is closed" (One rap.)

ARRANGEMENT OF THE ALTAR IN THE DIFFERENT GRADES OF RANK.

When the Lodge is called to order by the Chancellor Commander, there will be lying upon the altar a Bible, which is closed, and resting on it will be two swords, hilts together, and handles towards the Chancellor Commander's station. When the Chancellor Commander orders the Master at Arms to "arrange the altar," he will go there and arrange it as follows:

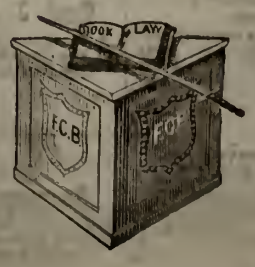
THE ALTAR IN THE INITIATORY RANK OF PAGE.

The Book opened the same as in the Chivalric Rank of Knight, and whether on the altar or elsewhere, rests ON the two Swords, which are crossed underneath the Book, with the hilts or handles toward the Chancellor Commander and points towards the Vice Chancellor. (While initiating, the handles should be towards the Prelate and points towards the candidate.)

THE ALTAR IN THE ARMORIAL RANK OF ESQUIRE.

The Book opened, the same as in the Chivalric Rank of Knight, with the two swords laying on it—crossed—with the handles towards the Chancellor Commander and points towards the Vice Chancellor.

THE ALTAR IN THE CHIVALRIC RANK OF KNIGHT.



The Book opened about the middle so as to lay square, and ONE sword laying diagonally across and over it, with the handle—or hilt—towards the foot of the room—or Vice Chancellor's station—and point towards the head of the room, or Chancellor Commander's station.

INITIATION.

FIRST, OR INITIATORY RANK OF PAGE.

The candidate is brought into the ante-room, and as soon as his presence is known the utmost silence must be maintained in the Lodge. The Chancellor Commander will delegate one or two members to prepare the properties, under the supervision and control of the Past Chancellor; the rest of the lodge, after clothing themselves in their Masks and Black Robes, to remain seated. Loud talking or heavy walking must be avoided, as the solemnity of the initiation depends entirely on the strict silence that pervades the room. The Master at Arms retires to the ante-room and prepares the candidate.

PREPARATION FOR FIRST, OR INITIATORY RANK OF PAGE.

The preparation consists in the candidate having his coat and vest removed, the White Robes put on and his eyes securely blindfolded, in which manner he is conducted to the door of the Lodge by the Master at Arms. Particular care should be taken that the Master at Arms or Outside Guardian do not converse in a frivolous manner with the candidate while he is being prepared, but on the contrary a grave solemnity should mark the whole transaction.

Master at Arms (gives raps at the door.)

Inside Guard.—"Who comes here, and what do you desire."

Master at Arms.—"The Master at Arms of this Lodge, with a stranger who desires to become a Retainer of, and asks to be initiated into the mysteries of the First or Initiatory Rank of Page of this Chivalric Order."

Inside Guardian.—"Chancellor Commander, a stranger knocks for admission to these portals who desires to become a Retainer of, and asks to be initiated into the mysteries of the First or Initiatory Rank of Page of this Chivalric Order."

Chancellor Commander.—"It is my order, as Chancellor Commander, that you admit him without further challenge."

(Inside Guardian opens door.)

The Master at Arms enters with the candidate and conducts him around the room very slowly three times, (during which time the utmost silence must prevail, with the exception of the music, which should be of a solemn character,) and then halts before the chair of the Chancellor Commander.

Master at Arms.—"Chancellor Commander, a stranger stands before you, who desires to become a Retainer of, and asks to be initiated into the mysteries of the First or Initiatory Rank of Page in this Chivalric Order."

Chancellor Commander (addressing the candidate.)—"Stranger, clad as you are, and devoid of the gift of sight, I ask you, as Chancellor Commander of this Lodge, is this your desire?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Before proceeding further with this ceremony, it is a duty incumbent upon me to propound to you several questions touching your qualifications to become a member of this Order in any Rank. I will therefore ask: Do you believe in the existence of a Supreme Being?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you of sound bodily health?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Have you ever before applied to become a member of the Order of Knights of Pythias?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Stranger, have you fully considered the weighty duties that will devolve upon you when once a member of this Order in any Rank that it may confer, or do you enter these portals from mere idle curiosity?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"You are probably aware, and if not I will now inform you, that when you are duly become a member of, and progress in the Order of Knights of Pythias, that you are entitled to all the honors, benefits and privileges arising from the several Grades of Rank, as attained, that can in any way be bestowed upon you. Now, therefore, having given you these assurances on my part, as Chancellor Commander, and in all sincerity and kindness, I ask you in the name of the order universal, what are we to expect from you in return?"

Candidate answers.—"Obedience."

Chancellor Commander.—"Such being your pledge, I ask, Are you willing to take upon yourself a solemn and binding obligation to keep forever secret all that you may see or hear or hereafter be instructed in, of the mysteries of this Order—an obligation which we have all taken, and one which I, as Chancellor Commander, assure you will in no wise effect your religion or your politics?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you keenly sensible as to the solemnity, and willing to conform and live up to the requirements of, an obligation of this character?"

Candidate answers.

Chancellor Commander.—"Are you aware that, once you have taken upon yourself this solemn and binding obligation, there is no seceding from its demands?"

Candidate answers.

[To be Continued.]

Descriptive Catalogue of Publications of Ezra A. Cook & Co.

13 Wabash Ave. Chicago.

BOOKS.

☞ Books at Doz. or Retail Prices sent post-paid. Not less than one-half doz. sent at dozen rates. By the 100 (25 Copies at 100 rate,) Expressage or Postage extra.

☞ Books sent by Mail are not at our risk.

Books at retail or by the dozen, ordered by Express are sold at 10 per cent discount and SENT AT OUR RISK; party ordering to pay Express Charges.

FREEMASONRY EXPOSED,

by CAP'T. WILLIAM MORGAN.

THE GENUINE OLD MORGAN BOOK:—republished with engravings showing the Lodge Room, Dress of candidates, Signs, Due Guards, Grips, Etc.

This revelation is so accurate that Freemasons murdered the author for writing it. Thousands have testified to the correctness of the revelation and this book therefore sells very rapidly.

Price 25 cents.

Per Doz. Post Paid..... $2.00
Per hundred by express, (express charges extra.).....$10.00

ODD FELLOWSHIP ILLUSTRATED.

A complete exposition of the Lodge Encampment and Rebecca (Ladies') Degree. The Signs, Gripe, &c., shown by engravings.

Single copy, post paid,.....$ 25
Per Doz. " " 2 00
Per Hundred, Express charges extra,..... 10 00

EXPOSITION OF THE GRANGE.

EDITED BY REV. A. W. GEESLIN.

Illustrated with Engravings showing Lodge Room, Signs, Signals, etc.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 25
Per Doz., " " 2 00
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 10 00

Judge Whitney's Defense Before the Grand Lodge of Ill.

Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the Lodge when S. L. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the Lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 20
Per Doz. " " 1 50
Per 100, Express charges extra..... 8 00

History of The Abduction and Murder Cap't. Wm. Morgan,

As prepared by Seven Committees of Citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan.

This book contains indisputable, legal evidence that Freemasons, abducted and Murdered Wm. Morgan, for no other offence than the revelation of Masonry. It contains the sworn testimony of over twenty persons, including Morgan's wife, and no candid person after reading this book, can donbt that many of the most respectable FREEMASONS. in the Empire State, with others were concerned in this crime.

Single Copy, post Paid,... ..... 25 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $2,00.
Per 100, Express Charges Extra,..... 10.00.

Valance's Confession of The Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan.

This confession of Henry L. Valance, one of the three Freemasons who drowned Morgan in the Niagara River, was taken from the lips of the dying man by Dr. John C. Emery, of Racine County, Wisconsin in 1848; The confession bears clear evidence of truthfulness.

Single copy, post paid,..... 20 cents.
Per doz. " ..... $1.50.
Per 100 Express Charges Extra,..... 8.00.

The Mystic Tie or Freemasonry a League with the Devil.

This is an account of the Church Trial of Peter Cook, and wife of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a Reverend Freemason; and their very able defence presented by Mrs. Lucia C. Cook, in which she clearly shows that Freemasonry, is antagonistic to the Christian Religion. Single Copy, post paid,..... 20 cents

Per dozen, post paid..... $1 50
Per hundred Express charges Extra, ... 9 00

NARRATIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

Showing the Conflict of Secret Societies with the Constitution and Laws of the Union and of the States, by FRANCIS SEMPLE.

The fact that Secret Societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of Law is here clearly proved.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 20
Per doz. " " $1.75
Per 100 Express charges Extra..... 9.00

THE BROKEN SEAL.

OR PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE ABDUCTION AND MURDER OF Wm. MORGAN,

By SAMUEL D. GREENE,

Price in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

In Paper Covers per Doz. Post paid.....$4 50
" per hundred by express (ex. charges extra $25.00

Capt. Wm. Morgan was Mr. Greene's neighbor in Batavia, N. Y., and a member of the same lodge with him at the time of the great excitement in 1826. The titles to these chapters are sufficiently exciting to give the book a large sale:—"The Storm Gathering;" "Abduction of Morgan;" "Attempted Abduction of Miller and his Rescue;" "What became of Morgan;" "What Morgan Actually Revealed;" "Confession of the Murderer;" "Allegations against Freemasonry, etc."

THE ANTI-MASON'S SCRAP BOOK,

CONSISTING OF 21 CYNOSURE TRACTS.

In this book are the views of more than a Score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the snbject of Secret Societies.

The dangerous tendency and positive evil of organized Secrecy is here shown by the most varied and powerful arguments and illustrations that have ever been given to the public.

Lecturers and others who wish to find the best argnments against the Lodge, should send for this book.

Those who wish to circulate Antimasonic Tracts ought to have the book to select from.

Single Copy, post paid, ...20 cents.
Per Doz. " $1.75
Per 100, Express charges Extra,.....$10.00

Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion.

A clear cutting argument against the Lodge, from a Christian Stand point.

Single Copy post paid.....$ 05
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 2 00

PHELPS' SECRET SOCIETIES Ancient and Modern.

A NEW BOOK OF GREAT INTEREST.

This work is particularly commended to the attention of Officers of The Army and Navy, The Bench and The Clergy.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

"THE ANTIQUITY OF SECRET SOCIETIES, THE LIFE OF JULIAN, THE ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES, THE ORIGIN OF MASONRY, WAS WASHINGTON A MASON? FILMORE'S AND WEBSTER'S DEFERENCE TO MASONRY. A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRESS OF MASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES, THE TAMMANY RING, MASONIC BENEVOLENCE, THE USES OF MASONRY, AN ILLUSTRATION, THE CONCLUSION."

Single Copy, Post Paid..... 50
Per Doz " " $4 75
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$25 00

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' LETTERS

to Col. Wm. Stone, Edward Livingstone,

and others, on the nature of

Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties.

Price, post paid..... $ 50
Per Doz., " 4 50
Per 100, Express Charges extra..... 25 00

COLLEGE SECRET SOCIETIES.

Their Customs, Character and the Efforts for their Suppression.

BY H. L. KELLOGG.

Containing the opinion of many prominent College Presidents, and others, and a FULL ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER OF MORTIMER LEGGETT

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 35
Per Doz " " 2 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 15 00

MINUTES OF THE SYRACUSE CONVENTION,

Containing addresses by Rev. B. T. Roberts, Chas. D. Greene, Esq., Prof. C. A. Blanchard, Rev. D. P. Rathbun, Rev. D. S. Caldwell, Mrs. M. E. Gage, Elder J. R. Baird and others. Unpublished Reminiscences of the Morgan Times, by Elder David Bernard; Recollections of the Morgan Trials, as related by Victory Birdseye, Esq., and presented by his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Miller; Secretary's report; roll of delegates; songs of Mr. G. A. Clark; paper by Enoch Honeywell; Constitution N. C. A.; reports of committees, and a report of the political meeting.

Single Copy, post paid, ... 25
Per doz. " " $2.00
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

Proceedings of the Pittsburgh Convention,

Containing Official Reports; Addresses by Rev. D. R. Kerr, D.D. Rev. S. T. Roberts, Rev. G. T. R. Meiser, Prof. J. R. W. Sloane, D. D., Pres't. J. Blanchard, Rev. A. M. Milligan, D. D., Rev. Woodruff Post, Rev. Henry Cogswell, Prof. C. A. Blanchard, and Rev W. E. Coquilette, also Report of the POLITICAL MASS CONVENTION, with Platform and Candidates for the Presidential Campaign of 1876.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 25 cts.
Per doz " " $2.00
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 10.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. W. P. M'NARY,

Pastor United Presbyterian Church, Bloomington, Ind.

This is a very clear, thorough, candid and remarkably concise Scriptural argument on the character of Freemasonry.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... 5
Per Doz,..... 50
Per Hundred, Express Charges Extra.....$3 00

THIRTEEN REASONS

Why a Christian Should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong.

The author states his reasons clearly and carefnily, and any one of the thirteen reasons, if properly considered, will keep a Christian out of the Lodge.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 5
Per doz. " " 50
Per 100, Express charges extra,..... $3.00

SERMON ON MASONRY,

BY REV. JAMES WILLIAMS.

Presiding Elder of Dakota District North-western Iowa Conference, M. E. Church, A SECEDING MASTER MASON.

Published at the special request of the Nine Clergymen of different denominations and others.

Single Copy, post paid..... 10
Per doz. " " 75
Per 100, Express Charges Extra.....$4.00

MASONRY A WORK OF DARKNESS

ADVERSE TO CHRISTIANITY, and Inimical to a Republican Government.

BY REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG, [Presbyterian.]

A Seceding Mason of 21 Degrees.

This is a very telling work and no honest man that reads it will think of joining the lodge. Single Copy, post paid,.....20cts.

Per doz. post paid,..... $1.50.
" 100, Express Charges Extra..... 8.00.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy.

Address of Prest. J. BLANCHARD, before the Pittsburgh Convention.

This is a most convincing argnment against the lodge.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz " " 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON SECRETISM

BY REV. R. THEO. CROSS.

This is a very clear array of the objections to Masonry that are apparent to all.

By Rev. R. T. Cross, Pastor Congregational Church, Hamilton, N.Y.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

Its relation to civil Government and the Christian Religion.

By Prest. J. BLANCHARD, at the Monmouth Convention.

The Unchristian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is here proved from the highest masonic authorities.

Single Copy, Post Paid,..... $ 05
Per Doz..... 50
Per 100, Express Charges Extra..... 3.00

SERMON ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP

AND OTHER SECRET SOCIETIES

By Rev. J. SARVER, Pastor Evangelical Lutheran Church, Leechburg. Pa.

This is a very clear argument against Secretism of all forms and the dnty to disfellowship, Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications.

Single Copy, Post Paid..... $ 10
Per Dozen " 75
Per 100 Express Charges Extra..... 4 00

Sermon on Secret Societies,

BY REV. DANIEL DOW, Woodstock, Conn.

The special object of this sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the Character of Secret Societies, no matter what object they profess to have.

Single Copy, post paid..... $ 05
Per Dozen, " " 50
Per 100 Express charges extra..... 3 00

President H. H. GEORGE, On Secret Societies.

A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian Churches, to disfellowship Secret Societies.

Single Copy, post paid,..... 10 cts.
Per doz, " ..... 75 "
Per 100, Express charges Extra, ... $4.00.

History of the National Christian Association.

Its origin, objects, what it has done and aim to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought; The Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association, Conditions of the Carpenter Donation with engraving of building to be donated by Mr. Carpenter; tablet, showing the number of pastors and communicants in churches that exclude members of Secret societies; tabular view of local, county, State and National Conventions, and list of organizations Auxiliary to the National Christian Association. Brief opinions of eminent men on secret societies, and testimonies of religious bodies against them. This book will be found invaluable by all who wish to know the character of this reform and how they may do the most to further its objects. It should be in the hands of every Anti-mason.

Price, post paid, 25 cents each; per doz., $1.50. 25 copies or more by express at 8 cents each.

NEW BOOKS

HAND-BOOK OF FREEMASONRY.

BY EDMOND RONAYNE, late Past Master of Keystone Lodge, No. 639, Chicago. A full Illustrated Exposition of the Three Degrees of "Ancient Craft Masonry:" Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master Mason, embracing the "Standard Work" of the Order.

Single Copy, $0 50. Per dozen, $4 00. Per 100 $25 00.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WITH SIGNS OF RECOGNITION, PASS WORDS, GRIPS, Etc., and the RITUAL of the MACHINISTS AND BLACKSMITHS' UNION. (The two bound together.)

Single Copy, $0 25. Per dozen, $2 00. Per 100 $10 00.

Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees of Freemasonry

Nothing can more clearly show the abominations of this system of iniquity than its horrible Oaths and Penalties.

Single Copy, $0 15. Per dozen, $1 00. Per 100 $6 00.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret Societies.

A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons the Christian Church.

Single Copy $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100, $4 50

Secrecy v. s. The Family, State and Church.

BY REV. M. S. DRURY. The antagonism of Organized Secrecy with the welfare of the Family, State and Church is clearly shown

Single Copy, $0 10. Per dozen, $0 75. Per 100 $4 00.

ANTIMASONIC TRACTS

NOW HAVE 25 ENGLISH TRACTS, O MAN, AND ONE SWEDISH

hese tracts are sold at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 pages.

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together, and is just the hing to select tracts from. Price 20 cents. See advertisement

For information about Free Tracts see advertisement headed Free Tracts."

Address EZRA A. COOK & Co.,
18 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TRACT NO. 1:

HISTORY OF MASONRY.

BY PRESIDENT J. BLANCHARD, OF WHEATON COLLEGE.

This is now published in three tracts of four pages each. Price of each, 50 cents per 100; $4 per 1000.

TRACT No. 1, PART FIRST—Shows the origin of Speculative Freemasonry, and is entiled "HISTORY OF MASONRY."

TRACT No. 1, PART SECOND—Is entitled "DESPOTIC CHARACTER OF FREEMASONRY"

TRACT No. 1, PART THIRD—Is entitled "FREEMASONRY A CHRIST-EXCLUDING RELIGION"

TRACT NO. 2:

MASONIC MURDER,

By REV. J, R. BAIRD, of Pleasantville, Pa., a seceding Mason who has taken 17 degrees. A 2-page tract at 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 3:

SECRETS OF MASONRY,

BY ELI TAPLEY.

This is a 4-page Illustrated Tract, showing the signs, grips and pass-words, of the first three degrees. 50 cents per 100, or $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 4:

GRAND! GREAT GRAND!

BY PHILO CARPENTER.

This is a 2-page tract, calling the attention of the public to the despotic and ridiculous titles of Freemasonry. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 00 per 1,000.

TRACT. NO. 5:

Extracts From Masonic Oaths and Penalties, as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.

This tract is a reprint of a tract published in 1834, and is a very weighty document. A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 6:

Hon. John Quincy Adams' Letter.

Giving His and His Father's Opinion of Freemasonry (1831.);

AND

Hon. James Madison's Letter,

Giving His Opinion of Freemasonry (1832).

Both of these letters, in one 4-page tract, at 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 7:

SATAN'S CABLE-TOW.

A 4-page tract. This is a careful analysis of the character of Masonic oaths, and shows them to be most blasphemous and unchristian; and the Masonic Cable Tow is clearly shown to be the able Tow by which Satan is loading thousands to eternal death 5 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 8:

Is a 2-page double tract, "ILLUSTRATED." The first page represents a Mason proclaiming the wonderful wisdom and benevolence of the order, with an article below, entitled "Freemasonry is only 152 Years Old," and gives the time and place of its birth.

The second side is entitled, "Murder and Treason not Excepted," and shows that the Masonic order is treasonable in its constitution, and is both anti-Republican and anti-Christian. Price 25 cents per 100; $2 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 9, ILLUSTRATED:

FREEMASONRY IN THE CHURCH.

Copy of a petition for the higher degrees of Freemasonry, in which Blasphemous and Despotic Titles are enumerated and prayed for. The Copy was printed for the use of "Occidental Sovereign Consistory S. P. R. S.," 32d degree—a Chicago Lodge—and was ordered by a deacon of a Christian Church who is Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ill

TRACT NO. 10:

CHARACTER AND SYMBOLS OF FREEMASONRY.

A 2-page tract, (ILLUSTRATED) by its "Grand Secretaries, Grand Lecturers, Perfect Prince Freemasons, Grand Inspector, Inquisitor Commanders, Grand High Priests," etc. The wonderful symbolical meaning of "the Cable Tow." "the Square and Compass," "the Lamb Skin, or white Apron," and "the Common Gavel," are given in the exact words of the highest Masonic authority. 25 cents per 100 or $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 11;

Address of Niagara County Association, New York.

TO THE PUBLIC,

Concerning the Morgan Murder, and the character of Freemasonry shown by this and other Masonic murders. 50 cents per 100.

TRACT NO. 12:

JUDGE WHITNEY AND MASONRY.

This tract contains a condensed account of Judge Whitney's Defense before the Grand Lodge of Illinois, on charge of unmasonic conduct in bringing Samuel L. Keith the murderer of Ellen Slade. and a member of his Lodge, to justice, with Judge Whitney's subsequent renunciation of Masonry,

An 8-page tract, $1.00 per 100; $8.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 13:

DR. NATHANIEL COLVER ON MASONRY,

and

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D.,

Chancellor of the University of New York, on SECRET SOCIETIES. A double 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 14:

GRAND LODGE MASONRY.

ITS RELATION TO CIVIL GOVERNMENT AND THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

Opening address before the Monmouth Convention, by PRES. BLANCHARD of WHEATON COLLEGE. This is a 16-page tract at $2.00 per 100: $15.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 15:

MASONIC OATHS NULL AND VOID.

A clear and conclusive argument proving the invalidity of any oath or obligation to do evil. By REV. J. A. HART, Secretary National Christian Association. Published by special order of the Association. 50 cents per 100: $4.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 16:

HON. SETH M. GATES ON FREEMASONRY.

PROOF THAT THE INSTITUTION THAT MURDERED MORGAN IS UNCHANGED IN CHARACTER

This is a letter to the Monmouth Convention by Hon. Seth M Gates who was Deputy Sheriff of Genesee County, and also Secretary of the Leroy Lodge at the time of Morgan's Abduction. A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 17:

Origin, Obligations and Expenses of The Grange.

WITH A CONSTITUTION OF A FARMERS' CLUB.

This little tract ought to be put into the hands of every Farmer in the United States. Four-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $4 00 per 1000

TRACT NO. 18:

HON. WM. H. SEWARD ON SECRET SOCIETIES

Extracts from a Speech on Know-nothingism in the U. S. Senate in 1855. The testimony of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS MILLARD FILLMORE CHIEF JUSTIC MARSHALL and others added.

A 4-page tract, 50 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 19.

BRICKS FOR MASONS TO LAY.

WASHINGTON, MADISON, MARSHALL, RUSH, HANCOCK, ADAMS AND WEBSTER, give brief clear testimony against the Lodge A 2-page tract 25 cents per 100; $2.00 per 1000

TRACT

OBJECTIONS TO MASONRY.

By A SECEDING MASON, of Cornton, Vermont.

This tract contains many strong arguments against the Lodge drawn from personal experience, observation and study of its character A 4-page tract at 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 21:

MASONIC CHASTITY.

BY EMMA A. WALLACE.

The author, by wonderfully clear illustration and argument, shows the terribly corrupt nature of Freemasonry. No true woman who reads this will ever speak with approbation of this institution A 4 page tract 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 22.

LINUS CHITTENDEN ON FREEMASONRY.

The Author a Seceding Master Mason states his objection to the Lodge, drawn both from experience and observation, in a clear concise and forcible style,

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100, $2.00 per 1,000.

TRACT No. 23.

MASONIC OATHS AND PENALTIES.

ADDRESS OF REV. A. M. MILLIGAN AT THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

This is the clearest and most conclusive argument to show the wickedness of masonic oaths and the duty to disregard and repent of them that we have ever seen.

A 4 page tract, 50 cents per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 24.

SHOULD FREEMASONS BE ADMITTED TO CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP?

The principles and teachings of Freemasonry taken from the highest masonic authorities are compared with those of the Bible, several Masonic Oaths are given in whole or in part with the comments of Rev's. Moses Stewart, Nathaniel Colver, and Charles G. Finney, on this character. Those who love a pure Christianity should aid in the circulation of this tract. A 4 page tract, 50cts. per 100, $4.00 per 1,000

TRACT NO. 25.

The American Party,

ITS OBJECT, ORGANIZATION, PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES.

Some of the ablest men in the nation have pronounced our platform the best that has been presented to the American people for the past fifty years Our Candidates are men of acknowledged ability and honesty, and if every voter in the United States could read this our "POLITICAL TRACT," our Candidates could undoubtedly be elected. One friend pledges a dollar for every other dollar contributed and this 8 page tract costs but $1.00 per 100, or $8.00 per 1,000.

TRACT NO. 26.

FREEMASONRY A RELIGION.

This Tract is made up of quotations from Standard Masonic Authors and nothing could more clearly demonstrate the fact that Freemasonry claims to be a Christless and therefore Anti-christian religion.

An 8 page Tract, $1 00 per 100. $8 00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 27.

Duty and Ability to Know the Character of Freemasonry.

Thousands seem to consider it a virtue to know nothing about the character of Secret Societies. This is shown to be a great error if not a crime and our duty to use the knowledge within our reach, especially when of such vital importance, is clearly enforced.

A 4 Page Tract, 50 cents per 100. $4 00 per 1000.

Cynosure Tract No. 28.

FREEMASONRY REVEALED.

A LEGAL ATTESTATION BY EDMOND RONAYNE

To the correctiness of the published expositions of Freemasonry. The author very briefly states the mode of preparation and initiation in the various degrees, with the mock murder and resurrection of the candidate in the personification of Hiram Abiff in the 3d, degree and the penalties of each.

A 2 page tract, 25 cents per 100. $2.00 per 1000.

TRACT NO. 1, IN SWEDISH;

translated by Prof. A. R. CERVIN. A 15-page tract at $2.00 per 100: $15.00 per 1000.

ENOCH HONEYWELL'S TRACT.

TO THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA. Postage 5cts. per 100.
TRACTS FREE.

GERMAN CYNOSUCE TRACT A.

Six Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason.

By Rev. A. GROLÆ, Pastor, German M.E. Church, Worchester, Mass

This is our first German Tract, and it is a good one; it ought to have a large circulation. A 4 page tract, Price 50 cents per 100; $4.00 per 1,000.

FREE TRACTS.

A Tract Fund for the Free Distribution of Tracts

HAS BEEN SECURED AND SHOULD NEVER BE EXHAUSTED. A friend has pledged this fund a dollar for every other dollar received, so EVERY NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TRACT FUND COUNTS DOUBLE, and thus $10.00 pays for 20,000 pages of tracts.

The distribution of these tracts has already saved hundreds of young men from the lodge, but there is a great lack of funds to supply the constantly increasing demand for Free Tracts.

During the year 1876 were gratuitously sent out, mostly in very small lots. The present demand is fully 100.000 pages per month, but funds are lacking to meet it.

Many of our most earnest workers in this cause of God are poor men, who would be glad to circulate thousands of pages of Antimasonic literature if they could have them free.

SHALL WE NOT HAVE AN INEXHAUSTIBLE TRACT FUND

"THE ANTI-MASONS SCRAP BOOK."

Contains 24 Cynosure Tracts, bound together and is just the thing to select from. Price 20cents. See advertisement page 15.

Enoch Honeywell Esq., pays for an unlimited number of his tract addressed "To THE YOUNG MEN OF AMERICA." It is an excelent tract, bearing the printed endorsement of Executive Committee of the National Christian Association. He has furnished the public over 150.000 pages of these tracts during the past year.

TRACTS FREE. If sent by mail, 5 cts per 100 is charged postage,

Send Contributions and orders to

EZRA A. COOK.

Secretary of Tract Committee 18 Wabash Ave. Chicago, Ill.

Publishers' Department.

Books and Tracts sent Week ending July 14, 1877.

By Express.

J Lazenby, J Auten, A B Lipp.

By Mail.

H W Force, Droge & Donselman, T J Edwards, F N Stuerken, J Murdock, C A Bennis, F H Mitchell, S H Campbell, C C Pavey, G A Anthony, C W Moore, T J Cooper, J Wagner, F D Lyons, W A Thompson, J G Welsh, W H Hancox, A H Bartholomew, W Banks, C W Kohr, J E Hough, N I Walters, E Thurston, J F Faust, P S Estel, J T Murphy, D Holt, D Burtch, G P Brock, M Wahlstrom, J Morrison, O E Steiner, W W Reynolds, A C Chittenden, Mrs E Tapley, Hopewell Sabbath School, W V Hendricks, W D Webster, E Hilliard, J H Wilkins, J T Wilden, P Crawford, J G Goehringer, T L McNeill, G L Hotchkiss, C C Keith, J H Connor, C J Johnson, W A Maxwell, R B Lawther, J A Morris, B T Taswell F E Hills, H Sicck, G Bosse, W G Burnside, N Plank, G E Sanders, J W Hart, I Jackson, J L Cornell, F S Snow, E C Fish, G B Varney, J Haffner.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED DURING WEEK ENDING JULY 14, 1877, from J Auten, E Bascom, D Burtch, H M Bissell, W W Coffman, J A Conant, A W Dunbar, D Ford, W Haywood, J Hamaker, I Jackson, D Kirkpatrick, H L Kellogg, J Markle, A M Milligan, D Mitchell, A Needels, M M Owen, J Prothers, I R Piepgras, Mrs H Rumery, S Rystrem, L G Seifert, J A Sickal, J Smith, J Shuh, W H Smylie, M H Smith, W H Sanderson, P Sjoblom, J W Thompson, S Ward, N Warren, J Ward, J W Wait.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, July 16, 1877.

GRAIN— Wheat—	No. 2	1 41½	1 46
"	No. 3		1 24
"	Rejected		90
"	Minnesota	1 47	1 55
Corn—No. 2		48¼	49
	Rejected		46¼
Oats—No. 2			31½
	Rejected		24
Rye—No. 2			64
Bran per ton			11 25
Flour—Winter		6 75	9 25
	Spring	4 75	7 75
Hay—Timothy		8 00	10 00
	Prairie		7 50
Mess Beef		10 75	12 00
Tallow		7¼	7½
Lard per cwt			8 62½
Mess pork, per bbl			12 25
Butter medium to best		12	21
Cheese		8	8½
Beans		2 40	2 60
Eggs		11	12
Seeds—Timothy		1 60	1 75
	Clover		7 50
	Flax	1 40	1 45
Potatoes new per brl		1 50	2 00
Broom corn		3½	7½
Hides green to dry flint		6½	16
Lumber—Clear		30 00	34 00
	Common	9 00	11 00
	Fencing	9 00	11 00
	Shingles		3 50
WOOL—Washed		30	42
	Unwashed	23	27
LIVESTOCK Cattle Choice		6 00	6 75
	Good	5 25	5 75
	Medium	3 75	4 75
	Common	3 50	3 50
	Hogs	5 10	5 30
	Sheep	3 00	5 00

New York Market.

Flour	$3 50	11 75
Wheat—Spring	1 60	1 65
Winter	2 00	2 20
Corn	58	60
Oats	33	62
Rye	74	78
Lard		9½
Mess pork		14 60
Butter	10	20
Cheese	4	9
Eggs	16½	17½
Wool	10	58

MONMOUTH COLLEGE,

Monmouth, Illinois.

The next term opens Tuesday, Sept. 4th, 1877. For Catalogues, address the President.

David A. Wallace.

MASON & HAMLIN,

Cabinet Organs!

The only Organ declared to be of First Rank by the Judges at Philadelphia.

Gold Medals and Diplomas of Honor awarded them at all the great World Expositions.

Being the only American Organs which have ever obtained any award in Competition with the best European makers.

These celebrated instruments are now offered to the public in New and Elegant Styles at the very Lowest Prices consistent with Best Material and Workmanship. They may be purchased on or Rented until Rent pays for them.

Easy Monthly or Quarterly Installments

Every organ warranted to give satisfaction. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

Boston, 154 Tremont Street,

New York, 25 Union Square,

Chicago, 250 & 252 Wabash Ave.

Agents Wanted!

TO SELL THE PUBLICATIONS OF

EZRA A. COOK & CO.

Liberal Terms Offered.

Capable persons who are in need of pecuniary aid may clear

Handsome Profits,

While at the same time aiding the cause of Reform. Apply to EZRA A. COOK & CO., No. 13 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 square,	1 insertion,		$3.00
1 square	(1 inch deep)	one month	7.00
1 "	"	2 "	13.00
1 "	"	3 "	15.00
1 "	"	6 "	25.00
1 "	"	12 "	40.00

Discount for Space.

On 2 squares 5 per cent, On 3 squares 10 per cent
On 4 " 15 " " On 5 " 20 "
On ¼ col. 25 per cent On one col. 30 per cent

SOMETHING NEW.

A CHART OF MASONRY

Showing the degrees from the first to the thirty-third, entitled

Degrees of Ancient Accepted Scottish Freemasonry,

According to a Manual by Wm. M. Cunningham 33d Degree.

Designed by Rev. P. Stoddard, to explain Freemasonry, as shown by Morgan's Exposition and Richardson's Monitor.

A Neat Lithograph 22x28 inches.

Single copies finely colored, post paid	$ 75
Per dozen " " " "	5 00
Per 100 " " " " Express charges extra	35 00
Single copy, colored, varnished and mounted postpaid	1 00
Per dozen colored, varnished and mounted, —post paid	7 50
Per 100, colored, varnished and mounted, express charges extra	50 00

25 COPIES OR MORE SENT AT THE 100 RATES.

Renewals.

The date at which subscriptions expire, is with each subscriber's name on the address label.

Please send renewals before this date occurs. Notice if the date is changed to correspond soon; if not, or if the paper fails to come, write without delay.

Discontinuances.

Unless we receive orders to stop the paper sooner, we continue the Cynosure a full month after the time expires. Those wishing their paper discontinued are requested to notify us AT THE TIME THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS EXPIRE.

ADDRESS all letters with subscriptions or orders for books, tracts, and donations to the tract fund, to Ezra A. Cook & Co., No. 13 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

TERMS FOR THE CYNOSURE.

$2.00 per annum, in advance.
20c " " " for postage.

All who canvass for the CYNOSURE are allowed a cash commission of twenty per cent. or twenty-five per cent in books at retail prices, one-half this percentage on renewals, and any one sending $100. for the CYNOSURE during three months, will be entitled to an extra five per cent.

All responsible persons who desire to promote this reform are authorized to act as agents.

ESTABLISHED 1867.

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

STEAM PRINTERS,

LITHOGRAPHERS,

STATIONERS

—AND—

Book Binders.

NOS. 7, 9, 11 & 13

Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

We were in the Stationery, Printing and Lithographing business before the Cynosure was started.

WE PRINT

Books, Pamphlets, Catalogues, Business Cards, Show Cards, Letter Heads, Bill Heads, Note Heads, Circulars, Hand Bills, Posters, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates of Deposit, Certificates of Stock, Diplomas, etc.,

WE BIND

Blank Books, Magazines, Catalogues, Checks, Drafts, Notes, Certificates, Bank Pass Books, Etc., Etc.

WE LITHOGRAPH

Business Cards, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Circulars, Checks, Drafts, Certificates of Stock, Certificates of Deposit, Plats and Charts; also elegant Diplomas for Colleges, Literary Societies, and Agricultural Societies, in one, two or three Colors. Samples and Prices sent on Application.

All work executed in the

BEST STYLE,

at the

LOWEST MARKET RATES.

WE FILL ORDERS PROMPTLY, and

GUARANTEE GOOD WORK.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO ORDERS BY MAIL.

Samples and prices sent promptly when desired.

Address:

EZRA A. COOK & CO.,

7, 9, 11 & 13 Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO.

CALIFORNIA

THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

Embraces under one management the Great Trunk Railway Lines of the WEST and NORTH-WEST, and with its numerous branches and connections, forms the shortest and quickest route between CHICAGO and all points in ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, NORTHERN MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, IOWA, NEBRASKA, CALIFORNIA, and the WESTERN TERRITORIES. Its

Omaha and California Line

Is the shortest and best route for all points in NORTHERN ILLINOIS, IOWA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, COLORADO, UTAH, NEVADA, CALIFORNIA, OREGON, CHINA, JAPAN, AND AUSTRALIA. Its

Chicago, Madison and St. Paul Line

Is the shortest line for NORTHERN WISCONSIN and MINNESOTA, and for MADISON, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, DULUTH, and all points in the Great Northwest. Its

Winona and St. Paul Line.

Is the only route for WINONA, ROCHESTER, OWATONNA, MANKATO, ST. PETER, NEW ULM, and all points in Southern and Central Minnesota. Its

Green Bay and Marquette Line

Is the only line for JANESVILLE, WATERTOWN, FOND DU LAC, OSHKOSH, APPLETON, GREEN BAY, ESCANABA, NEGAUNEE, MARQUETTE, HOUGHTON, HANCOCK, and the LAKE SUPERIOR COUNTRY. Its

Freeport and Dubuque Line

Is the only route for ELGIN, ROCKFORD, FREEPORT, and all points via Freeport. Its

Chicago and Milwaukee Line

Is the old Lake Shore Route, and is the only one passing through EVANSTON, LAKE FOREST, HIGHLAND PARK, WAUKEGAN, RACINE, KENOSHA to MILWAUKEE.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS

are run on all through trains of this road.

This is the ONLY LINE running these cars between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Milwaukee, or Chicago and Winona.

At Omaha our Sleepers connect with the Overland Sleepers on the Union Pacific Railroad for all points West of the Missouri River.

On the arrival of the trains from the East or South, the trains of the Chicago and North-Western Railway LEAVE CHICAGO as follows:

For Council Bluffs, Omaha and California, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Drawing Room and Sleeping Cars through to Council Bluffs.

For St. Paul and Minneapolis, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached on both trains.

For Green Bay and Lake Superior, Two Trains daily, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, and running through to Marquette.

For Milwaukee, four Through Trains daily. Pullman Cars on night trains, Parlor Chair Cars on day trains.

For Sparta, La Crosse and Winona and points in Minnesota. One Through Train daily, with Pullman Sleepers to Winona.

For Dubuque, via Freeport, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains.

For Dubuque and La Crosse, via Clinton, Two Through Trains daily, with Pullman Cars on night trains to McGregor, Iowa.

For Sioux City and Yankton, Two Trains daily. Pullman Cars to Missouri Valley Junction.

For Lake Geneva, Four Trains daily.

For Rockford, Sterling, Kenosha, Janesville, and other points you can have from two to ten trains daily

New York Office, No 415 Broadway; Boston Office, No. 5 State Street; Omaha Office, 245 Farnham Street San Francisco Office, 121 Montgomery Street; Chicago Ticket Offices: 62 Clark Street, under Sherman House; Kinzie Street Depot, corner W. Kinzie; Wells Street Depot, corner Wells and Kinzie Streets.

For rates or information not attainable from your home ticket agents, apply to

W. H. STENNETT, MARVIN HUGHITT,
Gen. Pass. Ag't, Chicago. Gen Man'g. Chicago.

[Eastern.)

NEW CLUB RATES

FOR

Either Renewals or New Subscriptions.

Papers addressed to one or different Post Offices as desired.

CLUB RATES INCLUDING POSTAGE.

2 to 4 Subscribers,	at	$2.00	a year.
5 to 9 "	at	1.75	"
10 or more "	at	1.50	"

Names for a Club may be sent at different times; THE MONEY FOR THE CLUB TO BE SENT WITH THE FIRST LOT OF NAMES; but other Subscriptions may be added at same rates after Club is full.

The effect of Club Rates is to give the Commission to those who compose the Club and no commission can be allowed on these rates.

THE SABBATH OF THE LORD,

BY JOHN J. McKAY, New York.

Contents, Sabbath Profanation, Sabbath Sanctification, Hindrances to Sabbath Sanctification and the evils of Sabbath Rail Road Traveling and Transportation, Also THE CLAIMS OF THE SABBATH AGAINST THE ASSUMPTIONS OF REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

For Sale by EZRA A. COOK & CO.,
13 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Price, 25 cents each, $2.25 Per Doz. by Mail.

AGENTS double their money selling Dr Chase's Improved ($2) Receipt Book Address Dr. Chase's Printing House Ann Arbor, Mich. [3Aug765t.]

How to Send Money.

Post office orders, checks or drafts on Chicago or towns east of Chicago, and currency by express may be sent at our risk. If it is not possible to send by either of the four ways named, money in a registered letter may be sent at our risk, but it is not as safe.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE.

"In Secret Have I Said Nothing."—Jesus Christ.

EZRA A. COOK & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 13 WABASH AVENUE.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1877.

VOL. IX., No. 43.—WHOLE NO. 383. WEEKLY (post paid) $2.20 A YEAR.

Contents.

	Page
EDITORIALS:
A Lodge War on Commerce	1
Editorial Correspondence	8
CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED:
Surrender of the Will	1
Masonry vs. Christian Disipline	2
Let Both Grow together until Harvest.	2
Romish Schools	3
Half Lodge, Half Christ	3
Memorial Services for Mary Birchard	4
REFORM NEWS:
From the Wisconsin Work; Northern Illinois; Ronayneat Winnebago and Marengo, Ill	4,5
CORRESPONDENCE;
Coming to the Surface; the Lutheran Synods; An Iowa Seminary and Anti-masonic Bigotry; Note from Father Preston: A Severe but Merciful Providence; Our Mail	5, 6
Address of Rev. E. I. Grinnell	12
Knights of Pythias Ritual	13
Home Circle	10
Children's Corner	11
Home and Farm	7
Sabbath School	11
Religious Intelligence	9
News of the Week	9
Publishers' Department	16

Notice.

DR. S. L. COOK will begin lectures about the first of August, and wishes to make a tour through Kosciusko, Miami, Carroll, Park, Putnam and Lawrence counties and perhaps others if the way is open. Friends will write at once at Albion, Indiana. He suggests that the Indiana annual State meeting be held as early as October, a week or two before the National meeting.

[Editorial.]

THE LODGE WAR ON COMMERCE.

Last week we wrote of mobs and murder in Montreal through the agency of the secret lodges of Catholicism. To-day we painfully record probably the most extensive strike, attended with loss of life and vast destruction of property, that this country ever experienced, all incited by the secret labor unions. Early last week the brakemen and firemen of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, organized in the Trainmen's Union, abandoned their duty and assembled in force at Martinsburg, in West Virginia, near Harper's Ferry. Passenger and mail trains only were suffered to pass, and the accumulation of freight soon became enormous. The strike extended west to Cumberland, Grafton, and into Ohio at Newark, until the road was paralyzed. The local authorities attempted to suppress the mob at Martinsburg without arousing anything but jeers. Gov. Matthews was sent for at Wheeling, but the State troops at his command were as inadequate as the other, and word was sent to Washington. President Hayes being satisfied in respect to his duty issued a proclamation on Thursday and ordered United States troops upon the ground, whose presence soon quelled the rioters and re-opened the road at Martinsburg. On the same day a secret lodge with headquarters also at Washington, the "Central Council of the Labor League of the United States," issued its proclamation on the other side, "enjoining coolness and moderation upon members of the order, and especially warning them, as well as workingmen in general, to beware of emissaries, some of whom have endeavored to operate here who go around inciting to strikes and violence." The Council further warned against outbreaks and mobs. Meanwhile the strike had gained huge proportions and the Baltimore and Ohio road was like an artery full of poisoned blood. The governors of Ohio and Maryland were obliged to call out their troops to suppress the violence of the mob at Newark and Cumberland respectively; and to add to the terrors of the situation the train men on the Pennsylvania Central road struck and by Thursday night held that great company by the throat at Pittsburgh. State troops on Friday marching to Cumberland were assaulted on the streets of Baltimore and replied, killing ten and wounding many, while five of the soldiers were felled. Gov. Carroll was then compelled to apply for government troops, which are in strong force at Baltimore, and have effectually tamed the enraged mob. On Friday it became evident that the authorities of Pittsburgh and all the troops in the vicinity could do nothing in the face of the thousands against them. Reinforcements came on from Philadelphia and an attempt was made Saturday to take possession of the track which was held by the mob east of Pittsburgh from the repair shops to East Liberty. Preceded by Sheriff Fife who had warrants for the arrest of many ring-leaders, they attempted to clear the track, but were met by showers of stones from the hillside and pistol shots in front. This was repeated and the troops fired twice with terrible effect. The Pittsburgh troops deserted and with the rest General Pearson occupied the round house. This was fired with the long lines of freight cars, and the troops driven out. The mob having been increased to thousands by the rabble of the city, pillaged the cars and applied the torch without opposition until three miles of cars and buildings, the round house with one hundred and twenty-five engines, the great Union depot, the Panhandle road's offices, depot and freight house, elevators and private buildings were in flames. Saturday night and Sunday the mob raged and the city was powerless. The troops escaped to Allegheny City and dispersed, and only when overcome with the intoxication of fury and destruction did the riot cease early Monday morning, having destroyed from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 of property and taken nearly 30 lives besides wounding 50 or 60 others.

The gravest apprehension existed everywhere. All through Pennsylvania and Ohio the strike extended and stopped also the Erie road in New York and the Fort Wayne in Indiana and on Monday the Governors of these States were getting out troops. Violence seemed at an end Monday night and the sway of law again resumed though an embargo was laid on all travel eastward except by the New York Central. The strikers were aided by the Engineers Brotherhood and the whole network of secret labor unions were evidently working together.

Any who have been led to doubt whether "ex-boss" Tweed's connection with Perfect Ashlar lodge, New York, were not broken off by his misfortunes, may read the letter of lawyer Bryant to Attorney General Fairchild last week and mend their opinion. Mr. Bryant was one of Tweed's attorneys until satisfied of the fraudulent nature of his claims. He says, at the close of his long letter: "I must, in conclusion, call your attention to the misplaced sympathy of the Tammany society, whose humbugging hocus-pocus affects a Masonic sympathy for Tweed as 'a brother in distress.' His stubbornness will never yield to the demands of justice so long as the leaders of this society pledge him their protection and make his jail a more active center of political resort than the wigwam itself on Fourteenth street. It is a notorious fact that this Tammany influence will be covertly arrayed, under the dictation of John Kelly, to secure the means for a total manumission of Tweed at the approaching State convention." Mr. Bryant also states that Tweed is far from being so poor as is represented, but is possessed of millions yet, which may account for part of the Masonic sympathy lavished upon him by the Tammanyites. Whether this letter is taken for fact or no, it is indisputable that some powerful influence has been behind the scenes in the Tweed case, preventing the due course of law; and Mr. Bryant suggests a very natural and satisfactory explanation of it.

SURRENDER OF THE WILL.

It makes the greatest difference to whom the will is surrendered, to God or man. The surrender of oneself to God ennobles the heart and strengthens the character; but a surrender to man begets a feeling of degradation. A free will, the power to choose between good and bad, is the peculiar birth-right of the human race; and anything which serves to check or constrain the full exercise of this power, compelling a man to do wrong, or preventing his doing good, or impelling him to do good by force alone, benumbs his moral sensibilities and gives him the feelings of a brute.

It has been observed that soldiers and sailors as a class are prone to drink to excess; and the reason probably is that they thus seek to drown that feeling of degradation which arises from surrendering their wills to the control of others. There are exceptional instances, such as the religion of the Turk, the patriotism of the volunteer, and the pride of discipline of certain troops which tend to sustain military and naval men against the loss of relf-respect that arises from a surrender of their freedom of will; but where these qualities are wanting such men are generally inebriates. They stun their wounded sensibilities with liquor.

And this is doubtless the reason why Freemasons are so much given to strong drink; by their oaths they surrender the control of themselves to the manipulators of the Masonic lodge. They surrender the freedom of their tongues and of their actions to men, and often to the worst kind of men. They give a lien upon their purses, upon their time, and upon their very thoughts. Their opinions must not overleap the landmarks set up by an Asiatic despot three thousand years ago. They must sustain the bad man in his cause against the good man. They must abstain from abusing a Mason's wife or daughter because the lodge prescribes it, and must swear against truth and justice for the same reason.

It may be thought that the Mason is sustained somewhat against this sense of degradation by being told that his surrender of liberty is "ancient and honorable;" that his controller is a Grand High Priest, or a Grand Master, a Royal Arch, a perfect and sublime Mason, a Prince of Jerusalem, or some such thing, and that his surrender to wicked,designing men is well pleasing to the Great Architect. Of course Masons who have been educated in our common schools and in our Sunday schools know better than this; and for this very reason their sense of degradation is deepened, and an additional motive is given them to have recourse to the bottle.

A neighbor, now over eighty years of age, and half as ancient as Freemasonry itself, and much more honorable, tells me that he has seen a lodge of Masons assemble on what they call St. John's day, in the hall of a country tavern, and there drink "to the Mother of Masons" so excessively that some of them would sit and spew out of the windows. As this Masonic performance is over half a century old, we suppose it is one of the "landmarks of the order." It certainly confirms our idea that Freemasonry leads to drink.

